Tax on Babies.

Extreme hot weather is a great tax upon the digestive power of babies; when puny and feeble they should be given a few doses of White's Cream emulsi, the children's tonic. It will stimulate and facilitate the digestion of their food, so that they soon become strong, healthy and active 25c at R. Phillips & Son. June

CLYDE HAIL STORM.

It was about the middle of May,
They say it was the fifteenth day
When we had a great hail storm,
Which destroyed all the corn.
And our beautiful cotton crop,
That was large enough to chop,
Was demolished one and all,
That stood to bear the torments fall.
The fruit was lost and garden too,
Ah, what else can a hail storm do?
Derroof the houses, crack window lights
Destroy everything but fleas and mites.
It made me glad, that I was 'nt dead,
As I came out from under the bed,
And heard my wife, in her bewail
Asking God to stop the hail.
There was nothing in its path,
Not even the blades on the grass
The hail, like snow, was five inches deep
O're the path where it did sweep.
Add the fields that were so fine
Now look like mid winter time,
And we all know that we have lost,
But we can't possible reckon the cost.
But that's not all, I need not fret,
It struck Klepper, Estes and Morrisett
Hays, Dugan, Crowley, and South
It was more than a temporary drought
Among my many friends is M. L. Hays
I shall ever admire his kind hearted ways
Also Harly Tyler who gave me seed to plant
Of course to forget him I think I can't
He gave me cotton seed and it isn't too late
For me to say, that he was not a candidate
There are others, Miller, May, and Ciener
By name,
I shall not forget them just the same.
Now kind weather clerk, please send us
less hail,
For it makes the people look too pale,
If you want your ticket out of debt,
Just vote your ticket and keep her wet.

BASE BALL.

Baird—Cisco.
The Cisco base ball club got it into their cananiums to tackle The Stars again and so they came up last Thursday evening, and the Ciscoites were convinced from the first time to bat that they could not play ball with "The Stars."
After the first inning the Baird team did not try to play, they would bat the ball and try to walk their bases. The following is the score by innings.
Baird—6 0 0 2 1 2 1 0—12
Cisco—0 0 0 1 4 0 0 1—6
Batteries were for Baird Coffman—Leonard, for Cisco, Stanton and Spoon.

COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The County Democratic Convention was held at Baird, Saturday, June 21st...

The credentials of the delegates was then called for by the Chairman, who announced that the first thing in order was the election of a temporary chairman...

Judge W. R. Smith, candidate for congress being present, by request made a short speech to the assembled delegates.

That we favor uniform date for primary elections and that they be held in the same manner as general elections.

W. E. Gilliland was nominated for Chairman of the County Executive Committee for the ensuing two years.

W. H. Dawkins was unanimously elected secretary of the Executive Committee.

Committee on credentials made report recommending that temporary officers be made permanent and submitting list of delegates entitled to seats in the convention.

While the committee on credentials was out, and before any report had been made by credentials committee a motion was made that the chairman appoint a committee of three on platform and resolutions.

This last motion was clearly out of order because the chairman could not know who were delegates until the committee on credentials reported.

According to the local papers the Palo Pinto county democratic convention was a hot number. A correspondent of the Mineral Wells Index says: "I was always of the opinion that a democratic convention was carried on in peace and harmony, but it was turmoil, strife and fist-fights, and next to a disgrace to Palo Pinto county."

What's a poor man to do? The Methodist say he shall not go to a circus, even to take his children, and the Presbyterians say he must not read a Sunday paper.

And the Baptist say you must confine yourself to water or go to hell. West Texas Sentinel.

Judge Smith should feel proud of his magnificent victory in this county, which is the result of the tireless energy of his friends.

With Maxwell out of the race by action of his own county, and Dan Jones not in it, according to the Mail, where did the hard fight come in?

Mr. Bryan does not like Mr. Cleveland's speech, no one expected he would, hence his tirade against the ex-president is no more than could be expected of him.

Dan Jones would have received the instruction from Taylor if he had developed any strength anywhere else.

"Dan Jones is a good man, but he has no chance" was the slogan of the Smith and Dean followers all over the district.

The date for holding the Congressional convention at Mineral Wells has been changed from July 15th to 8th as the 15th is the day the state convention meets.

and deem the same detrimental to the welfare of our government.

That we deem the imperial policy of our national government toward the Philippine Islands to be undemocratic and condemn the same, and request our congressman to use all reasonable efforts to promote peace in that country on the same terms that we so generously bestowed upon the Cubans.

That we demand that our next Legislature repeal the lease law, and that all State, School, and Asylum lands be immediately put on the market for sale to actual settlers in quantities of not more than four sections to one person.

The vote resulted as follows: Gilliland, 44; Foy, 30. W. E. Gilliland was declared elected.

W. H. Dawkins was unanimously elected secretary of the Executive Committee.

J. A. Wagner moved that the delegates to the Congressional Convention go instructed for Judge Smith first last and all the time.

Some of the papers are predicting some funny happenings and some great surprises when the platform committee of the coming state democratic convention makes its report.

The chances are about 16 to 1 that the Kansas City defunct platform will be endorsed along with the dead issue of 16 to 1 and other dead fads.

Before the democrats, for political effect, go too far in denouncing the army for cruelty in the Philippines they should remember that there are lots of democrats in the army, besides the soldiers have relatives and friends scattered all over the country who will resent the fight being made on them.

A question was raised in the Baird delegation as to whether the delegates should vote as a unit.

Pat Murphy fired one lone shot at Judge Clett's list of delegates by saying that he thought this was a democratic convention, but that a lot of pops were on that list.

W. B. Ellis was in from Tecumseh, also H. Windham, but not as a delegate.

Gilliland and Caddo Peak were not represented.

J. I. Rawson and Sam Cutbirth, Sr. represented Belle Plaine.

W. H. Dawkins, Monroe Pierce and Capt. W. J. Maltby were up from Admair.

A list of delegates as reported by the committee was not all read and as we never saw the list some may have been mentioned as delegates who were not.

After the program was completed refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, lemonade, cake, fruits etc. It was an enjoyable occasion and will long be remembered by those present.

Don Biggers has moved the Jasher from Colorado to Abilene. The July number of The Jasher is a red hot number and has a great deal to say about Judge Smith the successful candidate for congress. ADMIRAL ARMFULL.

Sunday, June 23d, the longest day in the year, was a great day at Pilgrim school house. People gathered at an early hour from the surrounding country to witness the Children's Day exercises of the Pilgrim Sunday School. Hack loads, buggy loads and wagon loads of people came from Cottonwood, Turkey Creek and Belle Plaine besides a big delegation from Admral.

After an introductory address by the pastor of the church there were a number of recitations by the young people which were all well rendered.

"Four June Thoughts" by Annie Boen. "Basket of Flowers" by Misses Kate Taylor, Ida Taylor, Mattie Taylor, Sallie Hearne, Eva Sikes and Mary Cooper, six bright young girls, each with a favorite flower and a reason in rhyme for preferring it above the others.

"The End of the Way" by Mary Miller. "Over Jordan" by Connie Harris. "Little Workers" by Myrtle Gist and Anthony Sikes and "The Little Brook" by Mattie Lavorn, were all creditably delivered.

Music was interspersed all through the program and was all good, especially a male quartette by Oscar Taylor, Jesse Gibbs, Jack Matthews and Sam McClendon, which would have elicited a round of applause if it had not been for the sanctity of the occasion.

When the little girls would get up to "say their pieces" fond mothers looked on with conscious pride, and no doubt their thoughts reverted to similar occasions in their own youth when the peculiar habits of "Mary's Little Lamb" would be described in all the flowery eloquence of the old log school house away back in old Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas or perhaps the piney woods of East Texas.

And when one of the boys would get up and begin to decant on the beauties of Sunday School ways and the necessity for all good boys to save their nickels for the missionary box, I thought I could see a reminiscent smile playing around the mouth of more than one old father. Memory pictured to him a boy different, yet similar to the one before him.

The boys of Callahan county these days wear "store bought" clothes and collars that stand up to their ears, silk neckties and shoes and stockings and part their hair nearly in the middle. The boys of thirty years ago was surrounded by no such environments. No ready made suits nor perfumed handkerchiefs for him. A patched hickory shirt, homespun pantaloons supported by one homemade suspender, barefooted and sunburned, his hair innocent of all combs save the one of the fine tooth variety, and it never used except under compulsion. His Friday evening declamation told how:

The boy stood on the burning deck
"Eat 'n' taters by the peck."
His hat flew off and he broke his neck
And his name was Pat Batog.

The dinner hour arrived in due course of time and a bounteous feast was spread under the arbor and every one invited to partake. Many, however, accepted invitations to nearby homes where they were entertained with the hospitality so characteristic of the people of that vicinity. Quite a large party were entertained at the home of Mr. Corbett Gist, who brought his ideas of hospitality from Old Kentucky. Plenty to eat, plenty to drink and frequent admonitions to "help yourselves to what's before you."

"Tan" of Inola and Oakland was there modestly wearing the laurels gained in the controversial combat with "Rusty Cuss." He was also wearing a new hat, having worn out his old one over a black jack log as he said he would if his sheriff was elected.

There was something at the arbor in the afternoon and a good old fashioned sermon by Bro. Harris, of Turkey Creek, after which the audience was dismissed to wend their homeward congratulating themselves on a day well spent.
