Rheumatic Heart Disease Dangerous to Children, 10 to 14

Austin.—Rheumatic heart disease is now the first cause of death among children aged 10 to 14, and is second only to tuberculosis at ages 15 to 25. Despite the importance of this disease its epidemiology is not completely established. No vaccine such as those that prevent typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox, and whooping cough has yet been developed for its prevention or control. We do know, however, some of the danger signals and with the physician's accurate diagnosis some of the damaging results of the disease may be prevented. Exposure to frequent chilling, damp or overcrowded living quarters, a poor diet, an attack of scarlet fever, a bad cold or other infections caused by certain streptococcus germs are likely to be predisposing factors in the appearance of rheumatic fever.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, points out that in general the danger signals of rheumatic fever are pain and swelling in the joints of the knees, ankles, elbows or wrists. The pain usually is felt in one of these centers and spreads to the others. Oftentimes a child will get irritable and cross without any visible signs of a good reason for or development of nervousness. A physician should be consulted at once in such a situation, for these symptoms may be the beginning of rheumatic fever.

According to Dr. Cox the best safeguards against this disease are to have each child examined at least once a year by a physician, to have the right kinds of food and plenty of rest. When the disease is suspected of being present, a doctor should be consulted at once, and if he prescribes complete bed rest, his advice should be implicitly followed.

STORE CUSTOMERS AT FAULT

If you talk to the clerks in chain stores, you will find that a lot of supposedly good Americans give scant consideration to the truth in making purchases. As shortages of necessities grow more acute, many such stores have tried to carry out a voluntary rationing program so that all persons can get a share without the annoyance and compulsion of ration stamps. Clerks who are trained to be courteous are pushed around by customers who insist upon getting scarce articles of food, wearing apparel, smokes, etc.

"Some of our best people are the worst liars," said one clerk. "For example, we have tried to voluntarily apportion eggs, ladies' hose, cigarettes, etc., to each cus-

Your Horoscope

July 23, 24, 25.—You love ease and luxury, and are always looking for some new sensation. You have an accurate memory, are a splendid cook, neat and precise to a fault. You will stick by a friend through thick and thin. You are very intense in your likes and dislikes, quick tempered, but kind, loving and sympathetic. You are just and generous in a certain way, but you are close in money matters.

July 26, 27, 28, 29.—You are somewhat impractical, do not know how to do anything in a cheap way. If a woman you are a splendid cook, but never skip on butter and eggs. You have a fine mind and are bright, cheerful and attractive. You are an independent thinker, impatient under opposition, but accomplish much good. You are generally courteous to all, and very affectionate to those you love.

Voluntary action by retailers, in which they must have the cooperation of the public, can avert much compulsory rationing which is so distasteful to the average citizen. Many people who I know have received their allotment early in the week, come in the latter part of the week insisting that they haven't made such purchases. While we know they have received their quota, we get called down if we question their veracity.

It's been ages since we had an old-fashioned "bee" in these parts, but just as we always pitched in to help a neighbor, so must we pitch in for our country. To help make hundreds of battlefront and home-front essentials, more used fats are needed than are on hand. City folks are trying to make up the deficit of over 1,200,000,000 pounds. But their fats aren't enough.

Women in small cities, towns and rural districts must also save every drop of fat. Not just big amounts. But scraps off plates, meat trimmings. Melt them down once a week. Your butcher will give you up to 4¢ and 2 red points a pound. If you have any difficulty, call Home Demonstration or County Agent. Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.

Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.—John 3:11.

The appointment of James Byrnes as Secretary of State will meet with the general approval of the country. Mr. Byrnes is a man of brilliant attainments and unusually wide experience. He is highly esteemed in Washington and throughout the nation. His close association with administration affairs both domestic and foreign fits him for this important position. There is a general feeling that Byrnes will fill the position with credit to himself and honor to the nation.

The biggest post war problem, as we see it, is not going to be the readjustment of the boys who will be coming home to find their places in the community life from which they have been absent. The biggest problem of readjustment will be on the part of those who have remained at home and received inflated salaries in war industries. The old job in the village grocery at eighteen dollars a week is going to offer the real readjustment hurdle.

HISTORY
 The Constitution's Victory—August 19: Nearly every school boy knows the story of the Constitution and its famous battle with the British frigate Guerriere, one of the most colorful sea battles, in our war with England in 1812. The British ships had been preying for some time on American commerce, and threatened America's freedom of the seas. Accordingly the "Constitution" was fitted out in Boston harbor, placed in command of Captain Hull and set out on its search of British marauders. The British press informed of the purpose and plan of the Constitution and its commander belittled the ship and indicated what the British gunners would do to it if they ever got a chance at it. The chance came on August 19, when the Constitution sighted the British ship, the Guerriere off Nova Scotia. The Guerriere opened fire at long distance. Commander Hull held his fire until he came well within the range of the British boat when the order was given to begin firing. Within a few minutes the Constitution had the Guerriere at her mercy. The battle lasted only thirty minutes with a loss of three hundred British killed and an American loss of thirty-four. The survivors of the Guerriere were taken aboard the Constitution and the British ship set fire and sunk. A great reception was given Captain Hull on his return to Boston. Congress voted him a gold medal and appropriated $50,000 to be distributed among his officers and crew. The victory silenced sneers of the British at the American Navy.

The Better Business Bureau lays down the rule that before embarking upon a business a man should have at least 75 per cent of the required capital. A business that starts with 25 per cent of the required capital and borrows the 75 per cent is faced with too large an interest load.

The sugar shortage in some families is being bolstered by means of half grain saccharine tablets. They may be purchased at any drug store for around a dollar for a bottle containing 1,000 tablets. One tablet will sweeten a glass of ice tea.

What We Think
 (By Frank Dixon)

Without attempting to delve into the technical political aspects of the case the fact that Winston Churchill was forced into an election to defend his leadership of the English government at this time appeals to me as a most ungrateful act on the part of the English people. As I understand it, Churchill represents the Conservative government and his opponents the Liberal government.

I recall that when Germany struck, England's use of her complete unpreparedness to meet a foe as well prepared as was Germany, the English people were filled with horror. The realists of the nation knew that against such a war machine they were defenseless and that there was nothing England could do except to use such meager means as she could get together to resist until such time as plans for preparedness could get under way.

No one in England was sure that this action could be taken in time—not even Mr. Churchill.

When the country in its extremity did not know where else to turn it came to Churchill and dumped its problem at his feet and said, "Here we are, Mr. Churchill, because of our blind stupidity and listening to the isolationists and the 'it can't happen here' crowd we are in a terrible mess. Come and help us."

The whole world knows that there is no other man in England who could have done what Mr. Churchill has done. He personalized the defense of England until it became an individual matter with every citizen of the empire. His courage, his undaunted, never yielding, fighting courage, inspired his people to do the impossible. He put the will to resist into the last man and woman in the nation. He flamed into a vibrant verve, leadership that caught the spirit of the people and set the hearts of the nation toward final victory. His tribute to England's gallant air force that fought so heroically against such odds in those early days will never be forgotten: "Never," he said, "has so much been owed to so few by so many."

And after the crushing blow at Dunkirk which left the nation stripped of its meager equipment, a vulnerable target to the German army had Hitler but realized his opportunity, he made the speech that crystallized the thought and action of English people everywhere and laid the gauge of battle upon the doorstep of every man and woman in England: "We shall fight on our beaches, and in our streets, etc."

Not only did Churchill render a great service in setting the faces of his people toward their task, at home but a great service was rendered his people for what he did for them in other nations.

When Churchill came to the leadership of the British nation it was not loved too much by many other powers. There was the feeling: This is England's fight, they got into it, let them get out the best they can—if they can.

The courageous fighting spirit, the infusion of the whole situation with the indomitable fighting courage of the lone man Churchill awakened a response in other nations that made his fight their fight and was largely responsible for the winning of the war.

The action now of the opposition party, which was powerless to save the country, in seeking to cast him off as soon as the danger has passed appears to me ungrateful. If I were a citizen of a country, and had served it in like degree, to be subjected to such fickle ruthlessness would require greater courage even than to face the enemy in my country's critical hour when it seemed all hope was gone. I believe that even such a thing as the most elementary gratitude should have prompted the people of Britain to permit Mr. Churchill to have seen through the war, which, but for his leadership and courage and fighting will might never have reached even the present outcome.

Responsibility for War

It has sometimes been said that the statesmen and politicians and diplomats who rule the countries of Europe and Asia are largely elderly and old men, and that they get their countries into war by their too aggressive policies. Meanwhile it is pointed out that the younger men have to do the fighting and the dying. It is further said that if the older men whose policies lead to war had to get out and fight themselves, they would be more inclined to follow peaceful policies.

Age produces a tendency against radical action. It is very doubtful if the older men can be made responsible for wars. In Germany Hitler made a tremendous appeal to the youth of the land. Their support was very influential in helping him get power. Young people are apt to favor strong and radical action. They may be quite as likely as the older folks to support a government that follows wartime policies.

At least the governing bodies of our country have always wanted peace, and have worked to get it. When our country was attacked by warlike nations, there was nothing for it to do but to resort to war to teach these nations that war does not pay.

The people of all countries have been to a large extent responsible for wars. If they insisted that their governments pursue peaceful policies that would avoid war, the governments of these countries would probably be able to maintain peace.

Items below were taken in whole or in part from the issue of The Foard County News of July 30, 1915, Martin & Kinsey, publishers:

At an early hour last Sunday night the death angel visited our community and took from our midst G. W. Thompson, one of Foard County's pioneer citizens. He was born in Hart County, Ky., July 22, 1835, and died July 24, 1915.

At various times during the past few weeks people of Crowell have agitated the issuing of bonds for waterworks, but no decided step has ever been taken in that direction. The proposition has come up again and practically all of the property owners in the business district are heartily in favor of such a proposition.

earnestly desired to avoid wars, but all nations are more or less refusing to consider adequately the just claims and interests of foreign lands. When all nations learn to avoid that selfish outlook and co-operate heartily for world peace, wars will cease.

Home Town Thoughts

"All things come to him who waits." That saying was written before advertising was developed, which has greatly shortened the time of waiting for business success.

The people who complain that home town progress is slow, will make it still slower if they fail to co-operate with progressive movements.

There are excellent chances to make money in and around Crowell, but the distant places may look more attractive to some who do not see the difficulties in the way at these remote places.

Benefits of Optimism

Many famous generals in time of battle have been noted for circulating about among their men, telling them they can do this or that, and thus giving them confidence and hope. Many business people have won success, not by constantly criticizing their helpers, but by telling them of the results they can achieve if they think they can.

The same idea applies in the life of a home town. Those who drop words of pessimism help to

Washington News

By Congressman Ed Gossett, 13 District of Texas.

Washington, D. C., July 14.—The House this week completed action on the controversial war agencies appropriation bill. There were two particular items in this bill to which I was very much opposed, a 35 million dollar appropriation for the Office of War Information which I thought should have been cut in half, also an appropriation of $250,000 for carrying on temporarily the activities of the Fair Employment Practices Committee. Like some opponents of the FEPC are confused and not a Fair Employment Practices Committee at all. I this week concluded a speech against this item by saying: "Those who are sincere in their support of the FEPC are confusing race purity with race prejudice; they are confusing segregation with discrimination. They would destroy freedom in the fictitious name of equality. Second only in importance to the winning of the war is the destruction of these communistic tendencies in American life."

Incidentally, many of us here were greatly pleased with Mrs. Roosevelt's recent condemnation of the Communist Party in America. Always noted for her liberalism, Mrs. Roosevelt now states emphatically that the Communists (meaning those in America) are not to be trusted, and that their prattling of patriotism is a hypocritical smokescreen under which they attack democratic institutions.

The House also passed this week a bill to increase the lending authority of the Export-Import Bank from 700 million dollars to 3 1/2 billion dollars. This Bank has handled such transactions as our 50 million dollar loan to China in the early days of the war. So far it has lost no money, but has shown a profit.

Many interesting things are now coming to light relative to the economic powers and scientific developments of the Germans. Among lethal and destructive weapons on which they were working was an atomic bomb called the V-7. Its deadliness is such and when perfected is almost beyond human comprehension. Scientists say that one pound of this explosive would have the energy of three million pounds of our latest gasoline jelly bomb. These things make the organization for peace even more imperative.

The resignation of Ezequiel Padillo, Mexico's Secretary of State, has created considerable off the record comment in the city of Washington. Padillo's friendship for America has caused him much criticism in Mexico. He has ambitions to run for President there, but doubtless could not be elected as he is not a General. The heads of government in our good neighbor republics to the South are almost invariably the heads of the armies. Real civilian governments in those countries have been almost unknown. The results speak for themselves.

The Political Action Committee of the CIO has recently concluded an "important meeting" in the City of Washington. They have laid down a 6-point platform. Three of these points are ultra-liberal and many contend they would lead to a socialist state. These three points are: supplementary federal unemployment compensation extended to additional groups (war workers); adequate FEPC appropriations and a permanent FEPC; and enactment of the Murray-Patman full employment bill and the Wagner-Murray-Dingell social security bill (socialized medicine). One might again raise the point that labels are misleading. To provide full employment on the scale some urge, with government subsidies, might furnish full employment while government credit lasted, but in the opinion of many would eventually bring disaster and unemployment for all.

The resignation this week of popular and attractive Colonel Oveta Culp Hobby of Houston as commander of the WAC has started some political gossip in this section. It is rumored she may run for Congress.

The House of Representatives will recess in a few days until about October first. I reluctantly withdrew from a committee of ten Congressmen the Army is to fly across. They will visit numerous around the world during this recess. In South America, then to Dakar, Casa Blanca, Cairo, Iraq, Iran, the Holy Land, India, China, Australia, the Philippines and Hawaii. To make this trip would deny me any time whatsoever at home. I have agreed, however, to accept appointment under a Congressional resolution for a brief visit to Alaska, since one of my committees handles all legislation for this Territory, and that need investigation.

Food, Home Notes

(By Miss Elizabeth Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.)

Plan Your Canning Program

Every household these days should have a definite plan of activity in stocking the pantry shelves with home canned and preserved foods for the winter months, and this plan will not only include planting with a plan, but preserving with a purpose. Begin by estimating the amount of fruits, vegetables and meats your family will need. Then set that number as your canning goal. A good guide to use in estimating this amount is to consider that about half the necessary consumption of food for your family during the year will be fresh and the other half processed. If fresh foods are available for as much as three-fourths of the year, half the amounts suggested will be sufficient. If the season is shorter, say one-fourth of the year, you must take one and a half times the suggested amounts. Here is the suggested plan: Each individual in the family requires 22 quarts of green and yellow vegetables per year, 22 quarts of other vegetables, such as beets, okra and squash, and 22 quarts of tomatoes or citrus fruits. Also include for each member of the family 22 quarts of other fruit, 5 quarts of pickles or relishes, and 7 pints of preserves and jellies. In meats, allow 88 pounds of meat for each person. Usually half this amount is canned, and is equivalent to about 20 quarts of canned meat or chicken. It is well to remember also that food may be preserved in other ways. In dried food, one-fourth pound is equivalent to one quart of food canned, 2 pounds frozen equals one quart canned and 4 pounds stored, or 2 quarts brined are equivalent to one quart canned. Take into consideration also the likes and dislikes of your family. For example, if tomato juice is a favorite in your household, make your goal high for that product. Strive for variety and avoid overstocking in some fruits and vegetables. Count Your Sugar Crystals Long before the next sugar stamp comes due you will likely be doing a little backward wishful thinking—wishing you had counted your sugar crystals a little more carefully. And a little plain arithmetic even now may help. If you're really systematic, you'll add the amount of sugar you have available from stamps not cashed and that amount of sugar on hand and divide by the number of days remaining until September first, and you'll see how much sugar you will have to spread over the remaining time. And chances are, if you hadn't taken time to think about it, you'll be unpleasantly surprised. You've probably already tried sweetening a few foods. Have you ever tried jellies and preserves for anything except bread? You will be pleasantly surprised when you experiment a little. A few spoonfuls of marmalade or jam mixed with custards or bread pudding gives them a different flavor that's very pleasing, and is a sugar saver, too. Open-faced pies are a summer favorite in many homes, and you won't need to forego pies of the kind entirely if you use a little jam in place of some of the sugar. Either jam or fruit butter will whip easily into a pie filling to give it a very special taste. Sweet muffins can serve well for dessert, and are made by sandwiching a small spoonful of preserves into the batter as you pour it into the muffin tins. Fresh fruits, either with cream or just eaten out of hand are always a welcome addition to any meal. And right now, peaches are tops in the fresh fruit line. Freeze Your Surplus Fryers Fried chicken is always a favorite American delicacy, and with modern freezing methods, it is a dish we can now enjoy all the year round. Too, with meat shortages an ever-present problem, and costs of chicken feed high, freezing the surplus fryers for family use is a good way to add to the meat supply and insure your family fried chicken later in the season. There are few points to remember in preparing your fryers for quick freezing. The first of these is proper dressing, with emphasis on getting a good bleed. Care in dressing the fryer will go a long way in preventing any off-flavor, and will help keep the frozen fowl fresh. A quick chill is also important in this process as bacterial changes can take place rapidly in the moist, warm body cavity. Cut the chicken into pieces ready for frying before freezing. Proper packaging is the next important step in freezing your fryers. Of course, cellophane bags, sealed with a hot iron are best, but cellophane paper may be used as second best. In case neither of these is available, a heavy waxed carton may be used. The chickens, cut and chilled, may also be packed tightly in tin cans and sealed. Glass jars are not recommended, as they are easily broken and hard to pack into the storage locker. The packages should then be stored at zero degrees temperature, and the temperature should not be allowed to fluctuate more than 3 degrees. Some locker plants are allowed to run at higher temperatures, even up to 10 or 15 degrees, and this practice cuts down the length of time the food will keep without getting rancid. Under the best conditions—proper preparation, packaging and temperature, food may keep from 8 months to a year, but the temperature in the locker should be carefully checked at intervals. If conditions are not such that you can be assured of airtight packaging and zero degrees temperature, some people prefer to place the chicken in a leak-proof container and cover with a brine solution made with 1 teaspoon salt dissolved in 1 cup water. Since the chickens are thoroughly cleaned, and already cut before freezing, the only preparation necessary when you get ready to cook them is to let them thaw slightly, salt, flour and fry.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE TRANSPORTATION GENERAL ORDER 52 Effective 12:01 am, June 30, 1945 "No carrier shall reserve, assign or allocate seating or sleeping space on a passenger train more than 120 hours in advance of scheduled departure time of such train. No carrier shall issue a ticket for a reserved seat or sleeping space on a passenger train more than 120 hours in advance of scheduled departure of such train, except in the case of tickets for reservations made prior to the effective date of this Order which have not been picked up."

OFFICE OF DEFENSE TRANSPORTATION GENERAL ORDER 53 "On and after 12 o'clock noon, July 15, 1945, no common carrier by railroad or sleeping car company shall operate or transport any railway car containing sleeping space or sleeping accommodations to a point of distance 450 miles or less from the point of origin of such car, such distance being measured by the shortest distance by railroad over which sleeping cars are operated between such points. Each common carrier by railroad shall forthwith cancel all reservations for space after 12 o'clock noon on July 15, 1945."

What about Travel now.... under the new Government rulings?

The Government has curtailed civilian travel by ordering the railroads not to make reservations on passenger trains more than five days in advance of departure and by banning sleeping car service on trips of 450 miles or less. A lot of people are assuming that, with the European war over, the travel situation on trains should have eased up by now. But they are finding out that it's harder than ever to get space. They're asking themselves, "Why?" The reason is simply that the railroads are being called upon to repeat a job of moving over 3,000,000 soldiers. But this time it is to be done in 6 to 9 months whereas originally it took more than 2 years to move these men. The railroads are still operating with the same number of passenger cars that they had when the war started. Building new passenger cars has not been permitted since Pearl Harbor. Many Pullman cars have been converted into hospital cars, and, of course, more Pullmans and coaches than ever are being withdrawn from civilian service to use in the movement of men to the Pacific. The great bulk of traffic for the Pacific funnels into 4 railroads to ports of embarkation in California. Santa Fe, with its improved facilities, is carrying a large part of this traffic. This all adds up to the fact that only a very limited amount of space is left over for civilian travel. Of course we like to accommodate our friends and make new acquaintances. But you, too, agree that the troops and materials needed to whip Japan must come first. New cars are now on order. Santa Fe has enough new chair cars on order to seat 3186 people. 16 new lunch counter-diners are also on order. A substantial number of new sleeping cars will be placed in service on the Santa Fe as soon as War Production Board orders permit.

The order is as follows:

WHEREAS, at the general election held throughout the State of Texas on November 7, 1944, the qualified electors of the State, voting on the proposition, approved the amendment to Section 9, of Article 8, of the Texas Constitution, which amendment provides that the Commissioners Court in any county may re-allocate the county tax levies authorized in said Section 9 of Article 8, by changing the rates provided for any of the purposes authorized in said Section by either increasing or decreasing the same, but in no event shall the total of such taxes exceed Eighty (80) Cents on the one hundred dollars' valuation for any one year, provided that before the Commissioners Court may make such re-allocations and changes in such levies the same shall be submitted to the qualified property taxpaying voters of such county at a general or special election; and in event such re-allocations and changes are approved by a majority of the qualified property taxpaying voters of any such county, such re-allocations and changes shall remain in force and effect for a period of six (6) years from the date of the election at which same shall have been approved, unless the same again shall have been changed by a majority of the qualified property taxpaying voters of such county, voting on the proposition; and

WHEREAS, the Commissioners Court of Foard County, Texas, deems it advisable and to the best interest of said County to re-allocate the county taxes authorized to be levied annually by Section 9, Article 8, of the Constitution, by changing the rates in respect to certain county taxes as herein provided;

The said election shall be held under the provisions of the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas, particularly amended Section 9, of Article 8, of the Constitution, and Section 3a, Article 6, of the Constitution, and all persons who are legally qualified voters of said County, and who are resident property taxpayers who own taxable property in said County and who have duly rendered the same for taxation, shall be entitled to vote at said election.

Marine Unit Blanks Japs in Air Combat By Score of 65 to 0

Okinawa (Delayed). — One Corsair squadron of the Second Marine Air Wing wound up two months of combat air patrol on Okinawa with a score of 65 to 0 against the Japs.

The fighter squadron, commanded by Marine Maj. Perry L. Shuman of Lakeland, Fla., and Edgarton, O., has averaged better than a plane a day since its first mission here April 7, without a single loss to enemy action, according to Sgt. Claude Canup, Marine Corps combat correspondent.

The latest victory for the a shot. A division of Corsairs squadron was won without firing frightened the enemy into the water. Attempting to elude his pursuers, the Jap made violent turns now over the sea. He failed to pull out of a sharp left turn when his wing dragged the water.

Jap Shell Provides Water for Marines

Okinawa (Delayed). — A direct hit on a heavy cement tomb in which several Marines sought shelter during an enemy artillery barrage provided the men with their first fresh water shower since they landed on Okinawa.

None of the occupants of the tomb were injured in the explosion but a passageway for an underground spring was opened through the roof of the structure.

The following day, Staff Sgt. George R. Voigt, Marine Corps combat correspondent, reported that the Marines were lined up for yards waiting to take a first shower.

Campaign To Raise $60,000 For Completion of Museum

The campaign is on to raise $60,000 for the completion of the second unit of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society's Museum, which is located on the campus of West Texas State College, Canyon. Quotas of $1,000 have been assigned to the various counties of the Panhandle by the finance committee of which H. C. Pipkin of Amarillo is the chairman. Many counties have already raised their quotas and will continue the campaign to double the amount requested. The above picture shows the first unit of the Museum, which was completed in 1932. This unit was made possible by an appropriation of $25,000 by the Texas legislature, provided that the people would raise an equal amount. Because of the great interest in the museum, the pioneers contributed $40,000 for the first unit and for equipment to open the Museum. The basement for the second unit was completed in 1937 with additional funds raised by Panhandle citizens, who are interested in preserving the unique history of this region, and a federal grant through WPA. The steel and concrete frame for the second and third stories of the second unit had been erected when the war stopped construction. A large part of the materials to complete the second unit is on the ground. The large part of the $60,000 now being raised is required for labor for the second unit and for display cases after the unit is completed. The Museum is considered by historical authorities throughout the nation to be one of the most complete regional Museums in the world. More than 375,000 citizens from every state in the union have registered as visitors since the opening of the Museum. School children from every part of the Panhandle come to study history of the pioneer days as revealed in the Museum. Thousands of articles in possession of the Historical Society are not on display due to the lack of space. Two of the largest collections—the J. D. Hamlin Art Collection and the O. T. Nicholson Gun Collection—are not in the Museum because of the lack of storage and display cases. The completion of the second unit will provide this needed space. New officers of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society are: Newton Harrell of Claude, president; Hamlin Overstreet of Farwell, 1st vice president; Harold Bagbee of Clarendon, 2nd vice president; Dr. L. F. Sheffy of Canyon, secretary; W. L. Vaughan of Canyon, treasurer. The executive committee is Mr. Harrell, Mr. Overstreet, Mr. Bagbee, Dr. Sheffy, and H. C. Pipkin of Amarillo, J. Evetts Haley of Spearman, Earl Vandale of Amarillo, O. H. Finch of Dalhart, S. B. Whittenburg of Amarillo. Directors from this county are: (see list).

Postwar Future of Gypsum Industry Exceptionally Good

(This is the first of a series of three articles surveying the postwar future of the gypsum industry.)

"Reconversion," the nightmare of industries and communities dependent for prosperity upon sustained production for war, holds few fears for the gypsum industry or the towns and areas it helps support.

Steady employment is assured workers by gypsum mines, quarries, and processing plants on the basis of experts' predictions that this country stands on the verge of unprecedented construction activity.

Already, the "Help Wanted" sign has been hung out by segments of the industry to recruit workers. They are needed to smash manpower "bottleneck" that has been one of the gypsum industry's principal problems.

By and large, the gypsum industry will find "Reconversion" little more than a word. Its principal wartime output has consisted of its traditional peacetime products — wallboard, lath, plaster, laminated board, and sheathing.

A leading eastern financial publication predicts that the peacetime building demand for these products will be 25 per cent greater than in the prewar period. Officials of the Gypsum Association believe that the increase may be even greater.

They point out: 1. Most construction and economic experts predict annual postwar construction of all types will be from $15,000,000,000 to $21,500,000,000, even the smaller figure of which is in excess of the record $14,000,000,000 yearly construction from 1926 to 1928 — $17,000,000,000 — plus construction and is exceeded only by the $17-

(mainly for war plants) in 1943. 2. Gypsum products, which were rapidly growing in use when the war started, have increased in diversity and become more familiar to construction experts and home builders because of their usual availability, fire-safety and economy.

3. Lumber promises to be in short supply for a time after the war with Japan is over, thus increasing the demands for other building materials, including gypsum.

All this, the Gypsum Association believes, spells "Prosperity" for the hundreds of communities in the score of states where gypsum is produced or processed and offers unrivaled employment opportunities for returning veterans or workers released from war production.

Two Minute Sermon (By Thomas Hastwell) The Master Workman: I watched a painter at work one day recently. I was attracted by his skill and his expertness and the swift, easy manner in which he wielded the brush and spread the paint. I have always been fascinated with a product of a good workman, whether he is painting a house or building a shed or laying a cement sidewalk. Regardless of the nature of the work there is the silver thread of excellence running through it that reveals the touch of a master workman who has put his heart and his soul into the doing of it. I have often thought that our lives are often lived as we do our work. If we are careless, indifferent and sloppy about our work, we live that sort of a life. There is nothing of the heart and the soul in it.

At both morning and evening services, the flannelboard will be used to teach a story from the Bible and to illustrate some passage of Scripture. To say that this method of teaching is bringing results and stimulating interest is putting it in meager terms. At the morning service, we will discuss the subject, "Religion or Christianity." To understand the difference between these terms, it is necessary to differentiate between the true and the false. Paul said to the elders of the Ephesian Church, that, after his departure, grievous wolves would enter, not sparing the flock, and that men from among themselves, (the eldership) would arise and preach perverse doctrines. These doctrines elsewhere are called the doctrines of demons, being prompted and inspired by the father of lies, the devil. Now, if the leaders of God's people, the leadership can be deceived and preach falsehoods, when their God-appointed task is to feed the flock, the church of God, and that food to consist of the truth of God, how much more shall we who are not as learned nor as able to discern between falsehood and truth be led into the snare of Satan? Our evening message will be on the baptism of Jesus. These messages are for you. A cordial welcome awaits you. Grant L. Slagle, Minister.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR JULY 29, 1945 Subject: God's Promise of A Nation. Scripture: Read Genesis 17:1-18; Study in Class Gen. 17:1-10. Golden Text: will establish my covenant between me and thee and thy seed after thee in their generations for an everlasting covenant to be a God unto thee, and to thy seed after thee.—Gen. 17:7. Introduction: 1. Terms which need to be defined. Circumcision—The removal of the foreskin. A practice which prevailed in the past and prevails now among many races. Covenant—This word comes from a word which means to bind. It means "mutual agreement." Covenant has great significance in the Bible. Ignorance of the meaning of this term has caused great confusion concerning salvation. (1) Statement of terms of agreement. Gen. 26:29; 31:50-52. (2) An oath by each party to observe terms. God being witness. Gen. 26:31; 31:48-53; Ezek.

17:18. (3) A curse invoked upon each in case of default. Deut. 27:15-26. (4) The formal ratification of the agreement by some solemn formal act. Gen. 31:54; Ex. 24:4-8.

I. The Need of the Promise. 1. Abraham was ninety years old and the promised son had not been born. 2. Ishmael was thirteen years old. Abraham was prone to want him to take the place of the promised son.

3. Delayed blessings are a test of faith. God has to repeat promises to encourage His children to be faithful. II. The Nature of the Promise of A Nation. El-God. Shaddai-Power. God Almighty. "God appeared." "God said." "I will."—This phrase appears 11 times in this chapter. 2. It was a parental promise. "Thou shalt be the father of a multitude of nations." 3. It was a perpetual promise. (Gen. 17-7).

III. The Nation Promised to the World. 1. God intended them to be missionaries and they turned out to be merchants. 2. This nation was promised a certain land and they are scattered over the earth because they kept not the covenant by faith. 3. Circumcision was given to cure them of self righteousness and they made it an instrument of righteousness. 4. People who assign saving power to symbols and types, and ordinances frequently change them to meet emergencies. 5. Nations rise and fall by their relationship to Jesus Christ.

World-famous evangelist he would not have failed, but he did not know. His faithfulness was therefore the more glorious. Again, Thomas lost an opportunity for faith. He also missed the glory of being faith famous. "Except I see . . . I will not believe," he cried. Had he seen Jesus that day he would not now be called "Doubting Thomas." There is a faith that saves, but this must be followed by a life of faith. Too few Christians get beyond the vestibule of the divine life. Finally, he missed hearing the great commission. In his absence Jesus said, "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you" (John 20:21). Did you stay home from church last Sunday? Perhaps a blessing awaited you there which you missed because "you were not there when Jesus came."

Weekly Sermon

By the Rev. Will H. Houghton, D. D., President, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

Regularity in Church Attendance "But Thomas . . . was not with them when Jesus came" (John 20:24). One night as the disciples waited behind closed doors in bewilderment, "came Jesus and stood in the midst" (John 20:19). What a glorious experience . . . "but Thomas was not with them when Jesus came." Poor Thomas! One of the greatest experiences of pre-pentecostal days was not his. If others tell of it in the glory world, Thomas can have nothing to say, for "he was not with them when Jesus came." His reason for being absent will not count then. That day Thomas incurred a loss of fellowship both with the disciples and with the Lord Jesus. Irregularity in church attendance means a similar loss. Regularity counts in the Christian life just as it counts in other things. I have heard a victrola playing a march in the classroom of a commercial college while a host of typing students practiced with a rhythmic click-click, learning the lesson that a steady pace is more effective than an irregular spurt of speed. So in God's work. Because of his faithful witness, a shoe salesman Sunday school teacher in Boston won D. L. Moody to Christ. Of course, if he had known he was dealing with a young man who was to be a

Thalia Man Marries Seymour Girl in Church Wedding

Miss Mary Kubala became the bride of Pfc. Rudolph Matus, on Monday morning, July 9, at the Sacred Heart Church in Seymour. The double ring ceremony took place before the decorated altar, with Rev. Paul Mosler, officiating.

Freddie Kubala and Billy Joe Postik served as altar boys, while Mrs. Haskell Francis played the wedding march. The choir sang softly during the nuptial mass.

The bride was beautifully attired in a white Nylon voile dress, fashioned with a V neck line, close fitting bodice and a full swing skirt. Her finger-tip veil was edged with two rows of lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and fern, showered with white satin streamers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father at the altar, where they were met by the groom. The witnesses were Johnnie Matus of Thalia and Frank Maciek of Red Springs. Miss Julie Matus of Thalia was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of pink net and wore pink flowers in her hair, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.
