CALLED TO DALLAS

Thrilling All-Star Game Played Last Friday Night

In what was probably the most thrilling softball game of the season the Eastern All-Stars, composed of players of the league teams of Stovall-Thompson Grocery, DeLuxe Cafe and Cates Parts Company, defeated the Western All-Stars, selected from Ferguson Drug Store and Crowell Radio Service, by a score of 13 to 11 on Friday night, August 16. Originally scheduled to go only seven innings this contest required ten to decide the winner. Going into the last of the tenth inning all tied up at 11 and 11 Jack Turner doubled and Otis Strickland walloped a lusty home run far over the head of the nearest outfielder to add the proper climax to such a thrill-filled contest.

Both teams seemed rather jittery in the early stages of the game and errors were numerous, but later on the support for each pitcher was sensational. J. W. Whitley robbed Otis Strickland of a home run in the seventh inning with a terrific, one-handed catch in deep left field. Cotton Owens pulled in a long drive from the bat of Percy Taylor that seemed to be a sure home run. Play fielded was near-perfect after the fifth inning. Bill Hardin pitched all the way for the Easterns, allowing only two runs in the last eight innings. Gus Russell started on the mound for the Westerns but was relieved by R. J. Everson in the fourth inning. Vernon Banks relieved Everson and finished out the contest on the mound.

The idea back of such a contest was to get quite a number of good ball players into such an All-Star game who had missed playing in previous All-Star contests, and it proved to be highly successful as this intra-league game turned out to be the best show of the year thus far. Cotton Owens, with three hits, was leading hitter for the night.

THOUGHTS OF SERIOUS MOMENTS

The "abundant life" which Jesus desired to bring is to be had by the sincere application of his gospel of life.—Rev. Benjamin L. DuVal.

In this world, it is not what we take up, but what we give up, that makes us rich.—H. W. Beecher.

It is not the fact that a man has riches, which keeps him from the kingdom of heaven, but the fact that riches have him.—Caird.

The good man has absolute good, which, like fire, turns everything to its own nature, so that you cannot do him any harm.—Emerson.

Allan Shivers Runs For Lt. Governor On Qualifications

Senator Allan Shivers, leading candidate for lieutenant governor, is seeking election to that office solely on the basis of his qualifications of wide training and experience.

In every way, Allan Shivers, the legislator, lawyer, farmer and World War II combat veteran, is exceptionally qualified for the No. 2 state office. As a state senator for a number of years, he established an excellent record of public service. A loyal Democrat and native Texan, he is a man of highest character and splendid personality. The majority of Texans believe he will reflect credit and honor on the State of Texas.

Shivers, a war veteran of two years overseas, during which time he earned 5 battle stars, did his best to make this a free country for a free people. He will continue that course as lieutenant governor.

He has conducted a dignified campaign, free of mud-slinging and personalities. His platform appeals to every Texan: Better farm-to-market roads, better salaries for school teachers, enlarged public safety facilities, a thorough public health program, redistricting of the state for legislative purposes, greater aid to the aged, real assistance to war veterans, reorganization of the pardon and parole system, a first class university for the colored, and equal responsibility for both labor and management. He is against a sales, state income or any other form of new taxes.

Allan Shivers will be the lieutenant governor of all the people. In addition to integrity, sincerity and ability, he has a background of training and a record of public service already performed which gives him the right to ask for promotion.

Good Beekeepers Keep Colonies Up to Strength

The successful beekeeper will make sure his colonies are built up to full production strength and kept in that condition through the summer and fall. If the bees entered the winter in good condition with their share of the previous honey crop, they will not need their 10-pound ration of sugar per colony for spring feeding. Many beginners and beekeepers actually may not produce 10 pounds of honey per colony to replace the sugar fed.

However, if colonies are short of food due to the early spring and late cold waves, each colony may be fed a gallon or more of syrup consisting of two pounds of sugar or one quart of oil-flavor honey mixed in a gallon of hot water. To the syrup or honey mixture, the producer may add a finely pulverized half-gram tablet of sulfathiazole.

With the blooming of the black locust trees and white clover, it will be necessary to keep a close watch for the first signs of swarming. To prevent overcrowding, additional supers may be added. The queen may be permitted to move up into the sugar if she doesn't have enough room below. The beekeeper may keep the hives overflowing with bees, if he will manipulate the combs and supers to prevent swarming which divides the strength of the colony.

In the old times some people buried their money in the ground, while in more recent days more have buried it by engaging in risky speculations.

A good many people are deeply concerned over Iran, who a few years ago did not know there was any such country.

Management's-eye-view of the Santa Fe

Many of the fine things you are enjoying and are about to enjoy on the Santa Fe are the direct result of riding the line rather than riding an office chair.

You can see more railroad from the cab of a locomotive than you can from a typewritten report. It all goes to prove that foresight is better than hindsight.

That's why you so often find the top executives of Santa Fe at the "head-end" of Santa Fe trains. They ride in front by desire and design to see what lies ahead.

The modern railroad executive, who has grown up with tracks and trains and who has spent a large part of his life in railroading, looks at a section of track not in terms of ties and rails but in terms of the possible improvements for better service to shippers and passengers.

Coupling long experience with mature vision, he translates new ideas into action with immediate decision which is both practical and timely.

This practical "Management's-eye-view" has led to the straightening of curves, improved roadbeds, new bridges and many other things which pay off in terms of better service for both passengers and shippers. It has led also to improvements of design and handling in the locomotives themselves.

During the next few months, Santa Fe will announce a number of new features improving its service and equipment. Watch for them.

And thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the Highest; for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways; to give knowledge of salvation unto his people by the remission of their sins.—Like 1:76-77.

Most everyone thought that China would be so sick of war and fighting the Japs that she would go any length for peace. But now that the Japs are out of the way the Chinese are fighting among themselves. The battle is a battle between two political parties in which an effort is being made to reach a decision by bullets instead of ballots.

The only point on which both the Democrats and the Republicans seemed to agree in the Pearl Harbor investigation was that the Japs blew up the harbor and airfield, destroyed the planes and sunk the ships.

It is a disturbing thought that none of the older countries raises enough food to sustain its people. All of them are required to import food. With a good many of them this is due to decreased soil fertility. Through the centuries they have robbed the soil and failed to conserve their water resources. There are already sections in this country where it is no longer profitable to till the soil. The fertility has been depleted through wind and water erosion and wrong crop methods until the land will no longer produce sufficient to pay for the effort. The condition is a warning. It is wholly within the realm of possibility that we too, if we continue on our wrong course, may one day come to the point where we may have to import food. Our position is secure now, but it is no more secure than were these other nations a few centuries back.

It appears to us as poor management of our economy that thousands of bushels of critically needed wheat were permitted to spoil on the ground during the recent harvest because of the lack of box cars to haul it to market. If it is not possible for the railroads to handle this wheat at peak periods without loss, storage provisions should be provided in the area where wheat could be trucked and held without loss until the railroads could move it to market. This storage might be provided by the government or the railroads.

If all the nations hold off fighting another war until they get the last one paid for they will be all out of the notion.

HISTORY

Anniversary of the Laying of the Corner Stone of the Capitol —September 18.—The corner stone for the Capitol building of the United States was laid on September 17, 1793, shortly after the District of Columbia was selected as the site of the national Capitol. The ceremony was conducted by President George Washington with Masonic ceremonies. The laying was attended by an elaborate ceremony with bands and a procession. In the corner stone was placed a silver plate upon which was engraved a statement that the stone was laid on the thirteenth birthday of the new nation and in the first year of the second term of President Washington and in the year 1793 of our Masonry. The first building erected represented only a small part of the present Capitol building. It had neither the House nor Senate wing and was without the dome. After it was burned by the British it was rebuilt and another corner stone was laid by President Madison on August 24, 1818. At the time it was enlarged, in 1851, a third corner stone was laid by President Fillmore on July 4. The dedicatory address on this occasion was made by Daniel Webster.

30 YEARS AGO IN THE NEWS

Items below were taken in whole or in part from the issue of The News of August 25, 1916, Martin & Kimsey, publishers:

A thirty-ton whale was towed into Galveston on August 20th, probably the largest ever seen there. It was either the Finback or Atlantic Right species.

Wallace Hazelwood, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Ed Adams, left Sunday for Hollis, Okla.

Sam Russell and family have returned from a vacation up in Colorado. Mr. Russell says he got cooled out clear to the bone.

C. P. Sandifer made a business trip to Dallas the first of the week. He thinks people here ought to be thankful to have such cool weather.

Joe Couch of Knox City and Miss Robbie Cole drove to Benjamin Wednesday where they were married that evening.

Various sections of Foard County were visited by good showers Tuesday but Crowell was left high and dry.

Miss Lottie Cole has returned from a visit at Memphis.

Tully B. Klepper returned this week from Dallas where he had been pursuing the study of music under a violin instructor.

Decker Magee returned last Thursday from Dallas where he had been to purchase a fall stock of goods for Hinds & Magee.

Clifton and Josie Hill attended the entertainment at Ogden Saturday night.

Misses Lena Razor and May Klepper, two of the teachers in the Crowell Public School, returned last week from San Marcos where they had been attending school.

Riley Self has been in Fort Worth where he made a contract for 95 Fords for the coming year. That is some Fords, but with the popularity of the Ford car, there is no doubt that the local agents will sell that number with little difficulty.

It is said that the finest and most delicate use that we make of our muscles is in speaking.

ability to earn. I am not interested in such a proposition nor will I be. When the time comes for me to retire I will sell off my stock, sell my building and quit.

I talked to a printer in my town. He told me the same story. He is unable to get help without playing Santa Claus to the extent of financing their education. That, he says, he will not do. He told me that he will take in the work that he can do and let the rest go. When he finds a young man who wants to work and who is willing to pay his own way in the world he will hire him at what he can afford to pay him and teach him the trade.

When I get ready to retire, he said, I will sell my equipment and my building and quit. I don't believe in paying any man more than the product of his labor can sell for on the competitive market, and I don't think any man with the right stuff in him should ask me to. I didn't learn the trade that way and I am not going to bother teaching some one who has no more interest in learning a trade than the pay check he gets out of it. Such a man is seldom worth his pay check any way.

Sports and Character

"I never knew a golfer who had a bad character," was the remark once attributed to a famous man. Does the practice of sports improve people's character? Most golfers will say they see no evidence of cheating in their favorite game.

Lawn tennis can be called a gentleman's and lady's game, in which players would rather lose a point than give an impression of cheating. Baseball is a grand game, and it teaches lessons of fair play, obedience to rules, and players are taught to play like gentlemen. It is a useful experience for any youth to play on a ball team.

The same thing is true of sports generally, and they are an important factor in developing good character. Young people who grow such ideas are thereby started along the path of good citizenship, which enables anyone to make a real contribution to his home town and country.

Nation and Newspapers

It was said quite a number of years ago that China had only 12 newspapers. That statement went far to account for the backward condition of that land. Since China has done many progressive things since that date, there are probably a good many more newspapers now in that country.

The Chinese are one of the world's most industrious races. Until recent years they had no good system for distributing news and intelligence, for informing people about progressive movements and getting support for them. With such means for progress lacking, it is not surprising that their country has been so backward and was so poorly equipped for its war with Japan. In that fact there is a lesson for the American people. The progress of their country is enormously aided by its newspapers.

Our Forces and Russia

One vital factor in determining the strength of the American military forces is the question of relations between the United States and Russia. If one could be absolutely sure that Russia would always maintain peace with the outside world, a greater reduction in our military forces might be possible.

Russian Communism has so far worked outside Russia mostly by propaganda and agitation. It is extremely unlikely to start any fighting in the near future, but it is still possible that it might try in some future period to extend its power outside Russia by armed force. If the United States and England maintain strong military power, it will be a warning to the Russian people that they would better be satisfied with what they can accomplish by propaganda and persuasion, rather than to attempt to extend their power by armed force.

The campaign slogan in the early nineties was, "A full dinner pail." A present day slogan that would prove just as effective today as the dinner pail slogan did in the McKinley campaign would be, "A house for every one who desires to own a home."

It is predicted by good authority that the cost of living will advance from 7 to 25 per cent by the end of the year as a result of the scuttling of the OPA by Congress.

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

I was talking to one of our business men yesterday. He operates a plumbing shop that he has conducted for a good many years. Being a good workman and thoroughly reliable he has built up a splendid business. He told me that he could handle twice the business that he was doing if he could get the help, but reliable help is not available, he said.

I have made up my mind, he said, to give up trying to get any help. I am going to handle what I can do myself and let the rest go. I find it less disturbing to my peace of mind to do what I can do and let the rest go, than it is to be constantly dickering and bickering with the class of help I am able to get.

When I started in this business years ago, he said, my employer paid me a small wage. I was willing to work for it because I realized that I had to learn the business from the ground up, and I was willing to pay for my own education by giving my time. I didn't ask my employer for a hand out by asking him to pay for my education by paying me more wages than I could earn for the business, just for the privilege of having me around.

I have talked with a good many young men seeking to interest them in learning the trade, but after looking it over the first and only question they ask is: "How much will you pay me?" I have yet to hear one of them ask me: "How much can I learn, how far are you willing to go to teach me this business?"

I recall when I started to learn the trade I fell in love with my work. Quitting time always came too soon, and I looked forward to getting back to work the next morning—all this in spite of the fact that I was being paid but six dollars a week.

I have reached the point where in a few years I am going to retire. If I could find a young man interested in the business enough to want to learn it as I was, I would take him in, teach him all I know, and when he was ready, I would sell the business to him at a fair price. Though I have been looking for some time I have not been able to find a young man of that kind. Instead of being interested in learning a trade they are only interested in having me finance their education by paying them wages clearly beyond their Life is said to be a climb up hill, but it takes more than holding up your thumb to get a ride up that slope in Texas.

The failure of the brain to grow is said to retard some mentalities, but when it grows so big that the head can't hold it, the results are not always so good.

The old time ministers used to warn their people against "backsliding." Nowadays the danger of going off the road by excessive speed is greater.

In former days some timid ladies were said to look under the bed to see if a burglar was hiding there. Nowadays they would not probably find anything there but piles of dirt.

There are stories from time to time about speechless people who are taught to talk, but we fail to hear about too talkative people being taught to keep silence.

Formerly many children asked the consent of their parents before getting married. About all some parents can expect now is an invitation to the wedding they don't always get that off, there is usually plenty of pleasure.

The girls are trying to be beautiful, but most of them are so beautiful already that boys can't do their regular day after they step on these charmers.

Women are said to resist better than men, but a friend remarks that they seem to resist the disease falling in love.

"Save the surface and pay all," say the paint dealers, girls are saving the surface of their faces all right, but they seem to resist what is under those faces.

The light of the lamp of science enables one to see further into the future than light from the rainbow of hope.

Body Makes Quick Use of Iron for Hemoglobin

New information about iron metabolism has been reported by University of California researchers who have completed animal tracer experiments with a superior radio-active type of iron produced in the atom-smashing cyclotron. The researchers found that the bone marrow, which is a factory for the manufacture of the red blood pigment hemoglobin, is able to use the iron much faster than had been previously supposed.

They also found that the liver acts as a storage depot for iron. When needed, this liver iron is transferred to the bone marrow to be used in the production of hemoglobin, thus staving off anemia and other effects of hemoglobin shortage. The researchers found however, that when manufacture of hemoglobin is stimulated by iron deficiency, by the action of small amounts of copper or cobalt, there is little iron storage in the liver because the metal is being so rapidly used by the bone marrow.

Iron appears in the red blood cells with amazing rapidity. Considerable amounts are found in these cells within 3 hours, and within 24 hours one-third to one-half of all the absorbed radio-active iron has been transferred to them.

STEEL TOWNS

One of every four persons in the United States lives in a community where a plant that is considered part of the iron and steel industry is located. This fact is revealed by study of population statistics in relation to the latest Directory of Iron and Steel Works, listing 404 iron and steel plants and rolling mills of the industry, which are situated in 253 towns and cities over the nation. The study shows that the states with the heaviest populations—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio—rank with Maryland as having the highest percentages of their populations in iron and steelmaking towns or cities. The five leading states and 24 other states where the industry's facilities are located, had a total population of approximately 108,564,000 persons at the time of the 1940 census, or approximately 82 per cent of the population of the United States.

LUXURY EXPENDITURES

Last year the American people spent approximately two billion dollars for soda pop; over one billion dollars worth of ice cream; three-quarters of a billion dollars' worth of coffee—counted not on what they spent per cup in restaurants, but on actual sales of coffee; a half billion dollars' worth of candy. Within the 31 billions spent for food—the 19 per cent of the national income—must be counted over four billions spent on soft drinks, coffee, commercial ice cream and candy, or 13 per cent of the total cost of their food. Seven and three-tenths billion dollars was also spent on alcoholic beverages, of which by far the largest amount was whiskey.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for August 25

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

JESUS AND PURE LIVING

Lesson Text—Exodus 20:14; Proverbs 4:14-23; Matthew 5:8; Philippians 4:8.

Memory Selection—Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.—Proverbs 4:23.

Moral corruption has been the ruin of the great nations of the earth, and if history is not to be repeated by the fall of our own nation, we must do something—yes, something prompt and drastic. The breakdown of morals in our land is so evident and so widespread as to give grave concern to social and national leaders. What then, is the Church doing about it?

We do not like to talk about adultery and related sins. We must speak with care and tact, but perhaps the time has come for some straightforward dealing with an unpleasant situation.

1. Keep Your Home Pure (Exod. 20:14). As the divinely appointed center of man's life, the home holds a place of such importance that it is the special target of Satan's offensive. That has always been true, but it seems that in recent years the onslaught against the home has been intensified.

Any violation of the divine plan for the marriage of one man and one woman, in loving communion for the founding and maintenance of the home, is a direct violation of the law of God.

It is also a violation of the law of man. It brings serious results in the destruction of the home, and in the ruin of individual life—physical, moral and spiritual. This awful sin (and do not let a wicked world convince you that it is anything else) is back of much of the discord and divorce in our American homes.

When we realize that in the City of Chicago there is now one divorce for every three marriages, and that the ratio is rapidly becoming lower, there can be no question that divorce is a major evil in our day. Statistics are positively shocking, but they are cold and quickly forgotten. But who can fail to see, and who can forget, the awful woe brought into American home life by divorce.

Bad as it is, the awful effect on

CZECH AMBASSADOR... Czechoslovakian Ambassador Jura J Slavik who upon presenting his credentials to President Truman expressed his government's appreciation for the aid given by the United States.

parents, is nothing compared to the nervous, moral and spiritual shock which comes to children in broken homes. Statistics reveal that now (1946) more than 70 per cent of the juvenile delinquents and young people committed to prison come from homes where divorce has entered to break down and destroy family life.

II. Keep Your Heart Pure (Prov. 4:23; Matt. 5:8).

Out of the heart are the issues of life (Prov. 4:23); hence it is of the utmost importance that it be kept in purity and devotion to God.

The heart in Scripture does not refer to the physical organ which circulates the blood, but even as that heart is the center of the physical life, so there is a spiritual heart which is the very center of man's inner being.

Evil thoughts, unholy desires and ambitions hidden in the heart will ultimately be revealed in overt acts of ungodliness, unless God is permitted to regenerate that heart and make it clean.

The solution for the problem of impurity is found in our lesson verses. First of all one must avoid the way of the wicked (Prov. 1:14-17). They are so evil that they cannot sleep until they have misled some poor souls and brought them down to their own level (v. 16). They make sin and immorality look mysterious and attractive. Don't be led into sin by the enticement of curiosity.

Shun the evil way, which goes down with increasing darkness, by seeking the good way which "shineth more and more unto the perfect day" (Prov. 4:18, 19). The way of life is a bright and shining way. Don't let Satan fool you, young people, into thinking the opposite. It's great to be a Christian!

III. Keep Your Head Pure (Phil. 4:8).

The mind of man is quick and active (that is, if he is really alive and awake), and it wants to be occupied with something of interest. The world, the flesh and the devil are keenly aware of that fact and come to fill his mind with allurement to sin and destruction.

Thank God that no one need lack for things that are good, honorable, true and noble to fill and satisfy every mental as well as spiritual interest. God's provision is not limited either in scope or variety. He provides the best, the most delightful, the loveliest and most noble.

Observe that it is for us who know Christ as our Saviour to give our selves in diligent effort to "think on these things." As we do we shall find that they crowd out our thinking those things which are sensual, selfish and sinful. It is a sound principle of psychology as well as a spiritual admonition. It really works.

WHAT'S YOUR NAME... Calmly munching on a sandwich in a Philadelphia police station, where he is comfortably ensconced, this five-year-old lad answered all questions by asking others. He wanted to know all, but told nothing. At latest report the police still were trying to determine his name.

Veneral Disease Respects No Person, Health Officer Says

Austin.—Because of the fact that a venereal disease is no respecter of persons, people of every class and color, rich and poor, educated or ignorant, are numbered among the victims, asserts Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Venereal diseases are among the most vital health problems in the State of Texas today," Dr. Cox said. "The amount of suffering, economic loss, insanity and even death from venereal diseases cannot be accurately estimated but would reach a shocking figure if disclosed."

The State Health Officer pointed out that self-diagnosis and self-treatment are extremely dangerous and advised consulting a physician for determining definitely whether or not a venereal disease is present.

"Only a reputable physician can properly diagnose such a disease. The presence of gonorrhea is not disclosed by a routine blood test, and the diagnosis of syphilis requires more than a blood examination," declared Dr. Cox. "Both syphilis and gonorrhea are almost 100 per cent curable if discovered and treated in their very earliest stages. Thousands of deaths annually could be prevented," Dr. Cox said, "if sufficient attention were given to the early diagnosis and thorough treatment of syphilis. Delay reduces the chance of cure and in many cases is the direct cause of death."

Dr. Cox urges that every person who might suspect a venereal disease infection have a physical examination, so that if present, the disease can be brought under treatment at the earliest possible date.

New Loan Guaranty Officer Appointed for Lubbock V. A.

The appointment of C. M. Harvin as loan guaranty officer of the newly established loan guaranty division of the Lubbock Veterans administration regional office was announced today by Robert W. Sisson, VA regional manager.

Harvin is a veteran of World Wars I and II. He was recently discharged from the army after 52 months of service. He is a graduate of Texas A. & M. College and for several years was in county agent work. Following World War I Harvin was connected with the VA in the rehabilitator division. For ten years he was in the farm and ranch loan business.

"It was my privilege to get acquainted with the good people of West Texas in 1933 and 1934 when I held the preliminary organization meetings for establishing the Production Credit Association in Dalhart, Plainview, Lubbock, Littlefield and Lamesa," Harvin asserted.

He will be assisted as loan guaranty officer by W. J. Wilkerson, also a veteran of World Wars I and II.

"This division will be responsible for the examination, acceptance or rejection of applications for the guaranty of loans for purchase of homes, farms or businesses.

"A loan guarantee by the Veterans administration is a valuable credit privilege. Veterans should use it wisely. Only in extreme emergencies should a veteran consider using his loan guarantee at this time, since he has ten years in which to take advantage of it.

"Our office is at present operating under pressure of a reservoir of loans pending VA guarantee; however, in all cases it shall be our policy to see that the interests of the veteran are fully protected," Harvin concluded.

Shortly after the New Mexican atom bomb test on July 16, 1945 Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, New York, found a considerable amount of film fogged. Their subsequent studies turned up the startling information that the cause was contaminated strawboard stiffeners, which they obtained from the middle west. Furthermore they found that after an atomic bomb blast temporarily radioactive particles, by-products of the blast, cover an Australia-sized area in the course of a few days.

Laugh Trio Terrific In "Road to Utopia"

Those ever-loving gagsters—Bing Crosby and Bob Hope—proved that the "Road to Utopia" is paved with more mileage of guffaws than any other "road" they have previously travelled in fabulous cinemaland. It's another quick-on-the-quips Paramount picture with the famous ad-libbers legging in northward to the gold-studded Yukon accompanied by that pretentious baggage of feminine tricks—Dorothy Lamour—all wrapped up in her best fur-lined parka.

The script provided by scenarists Norman Frank and Melvin Panama is chockful of the stuff that laughs are made of and scarcely gives the audience time enough to hold its ribs together. Bob and Bing, who have a riotous knack for getting themselves into celluloid trouble and moviegoers into stitches, brave the Arctic cold and a couple of ruthless characters in order to track down a rich Alaskan mine and rescue a damsel in distress. Dotty is the damsel and both boys have a turn at making romantic passes at her while ducking avalanches and gunshot in the course of their mountainous trek. As to who wins the girl—that's a horse of another color, as Bing would say.

Both Bob and Bing are in top form in "Road to Utopia," which is one screamingly funny succession of gags. They are just about the most prolific laugh-getters in pictures, and in this one they even outdo themselves.

Director Hal Walker has travelled the "Road to Utopia" in high gear, moving along at a fast tempo. It's a road with all ups and no downs on the laugh-meter; fun for all.

Uncle Sam Says

You are still at war one year after V-J Day. That's putting it bluntly, but I know from experience that you like straight-from-the-shoulder talk. Inflation at home has yet to surrender. United States Savings Bonds are still "War Bonds" in the battle for America's economic stability. You can combat rising prices by taking surplus dollars out of the market place. Your government has provided a safe, profitable vehicle for saving these extra dollars—United States Savings Bonds. By investing in Savings Bonds regularly you are building a better America and a better life for you personally.

In discussing the post-war danger of inflation to the State Health Officer, Dr. Geo. H. Baber believes one of the greatest dangers overlooked is the danger of inflation in the incidence of disease.

because we have won a reason why we should be concerned with the disease and death rates in this country to become higher than in the recent past.

State Health Officer emphasizes again, as he has often done in the past, the necessity for the most easily accessible, common-sense safeguards of immunization against disease.

Two Minute Sermon
(By Thomas Eastwell)

The Unprofitable Hen: I visited recently at the home of a friend who has a large flock of poultry. He keeps a record by means of a device known as a trap nest of the laying record for each hen. If the record shows that a hen is not producing enough eggs to make a profit above the cost of her feed she is taken to the market and sold. It seems, I said as I watched him cull his flock, a rather ruthless thing to do just because a hen through no fault of her own falls down on production. This is a ruthless world, he said. Everything is ruthless as you call it. The same thing is true of men and women that is true to chickens. If a man renders no service to his fellowmen they cull him out and turn their attention to his fellows who do render service. With man there are many kinds of service—whatever humanity feels the need for, whether it is goods, or work or personal service, it is all the same. One must give service of some kind if he

Weekly Sermon

By the Rev. Will H. Houghton, D. D., President, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

Youth and Christ
Christianity—real Christianity—is not a religion. Perhaps for purposes of classification it must be placed in such a category, but it differs from all religions in that it presents in simple terms a Person. Not precepts, or principles, but a Person! No exhortation, or advice, but a Person!

Here is a suggestion which may be new to some who are interested in religion. Read the four Gospels which record the life and bywords of Jesus, and see how he constantly said, "I am." You will see he not only makes himself the center, but the circumference and the substance of that which later came to be called Christianity.

"Come ye after me, and I will make you" (Mark 1:17). All Christ promised was to make his disciples fishers of men. What he did for them finally was to make them rulers of men. How did they get there? By merely allowing him to make them.

What a wonderful "making" Saviour we have! Just back of the expression "hath made us" (Rev. 1:6) are two inclusives of this making—he "loved us, and loosed us from our sins by his blood" (R. V.). You see this making is a loving and a loosing and a lifting.

Do you feel you have lost every earthly love? Well, Christ loves you. But you may say, your life is so foul and filthy. Well, he knows that, but he loves you just the same, and he loves you so much he will lift you out of the foulness and cleanse you from the filth. Just admit your sin to him and receive him as your Saviour. Then this very day will become your spiritual birthday and the day of your entrance into that happy company who by his grace will lift you out of the foulness and cleanse you from the filth. Just admit your sin to him and receive him as your Saviour. Then this very day will become your spiritual birthday and the day of your entrance into that happy company who by his grace will lift you out of the foulness and cleanse you from the filth. Just admit your sin to him and receive him as your Saviour. Then this very day will become your spiritual birthday and the day of your entrance into that happy company who by his grace

Keep Tab on Game Population From Air

Aerial counting of big game may be accomplished either on a partial or 100 per cent coverage basis. Since only a sampling of the big game population is ordinarily required to indicate trends, the partial or strip type of count will usually be made. Where total numbers must be determined, the 100 per cent count can be applied on small non-coniferous areas such as state parks, refuges, etc.

With either approach, the method consists simply of flying parallel predetermined lines of flight over the census area and tallying all big game observed within a known width or strip on each side of the plane. For counting moose and deer, experience indicates 500 feet to be the optimum altitude and one-eighth to three-sixteenth of a mile the preferable strip width.

By using markers attached to the wing struts of the plane as visual guides, the observers' gaze is confined mechanically to a strip on the ground of known width. In this way it becomes possible to determine total area censused, knowing the width and length of all strips flown. As a result, accurate determinations of number of animals per square mile can be made in every type of habitat except more dense conifer stands.

Youths As Reformers

After the first World War, it was said that many young people in the European countries returned from that conflict with a feeling of rebellion against the ideas that had prevailed in the world, and which had led to war and all its conflict and slaughter. When it was over, they had faith to believe that the younger generation would have the ambition to make a better world, in which the old evils of war and conflict and poverty would be reformed.

Will many young people, following the recent war, have such a feeling? And what success will they have if they attempt to overturn the old evils and reform the troubles that have plagued human life?

The old phrase has it that it takes young men for war, but it takes old men for counsel. To exercise power of leadership and organize systems of government, usually takes a good deal of experience and knowledge of human nature. Young people sometimes come out for visionary ideas that have not worked in the past and would never get popular support. So it usually happens that the great majority of successful statesmen and politicians and leaders are men and women of middle age or still older.

The young people of today have had more experience than ever before. They have had to take the worst of the war burden, and on countless foreign scenes have had to meet the perils and dreadful experiences of battle, and have had to put up with hard conditions and personal suffering. They will be very keen for measures that will prevent the recurrence of any such war.

The young people with their wide experience and the burdens they have borne, should now be a greater force than ever, and exercise great influence in the affairs of government and business.

Miss Bertha Womack, Member Pioneer Family, Becomes Bride of Joe Burkett, County Agent, Last Thursday Morning

In a home marriage Thursday morning, August 15, marked with simplicity and prettiness, Miss Bertha Womack became the bride of Joe Burkett with Rev. Otis Strickland, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performing the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

The mantel of the living room was banked with white flowers and greenery, while tall candles in graduated iron candelabra and tall baskets of white flowers completed the altar before which the couple stood.

Mrs. Arnold Rucker, accompanied Mrs. Alva Spencer, cousin of the bride, as she played "Adoration" as a violin solo. Mrs. R. R. Jones sang "I Love You Truly," also accompanied by Mrs. Rucker. Mendelssohn's "Bridal Chorus" was used for the entry of the bride party.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Recie

Womack, wore a distinctive mod- ern dress of gray crepe with black accessories. Her corsage was of purple orchids. She carried a white Bible, which was used by the pastor, who asked the couple to place their hands upon it for the im- pressive prayer which closed the ceremony.

An informal reception followed the marriage. The table, lace covered, had an oblong arrange- ment of white asters and gladioli, with the punch bowl placed at one end and the pretty bride's cake at the other. Miss Gusta Davis poured punch and Misses Lottie Russell, Mrs. Ura Orr and Mayme Lee Collins served. Tiny napkins, with "Bertha-Joe" in blue lettering, were used.

Mrs. Burkett wore, for travel, a blue dress, with black accesso- ries and her orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Burkett left immedi- ately after the reception, for Tyler where they will visit Mr. Burkett's mother. They will reside in Crow- ell, upon their return from a wedding trip.

Mrs. Burkett is the daughter of Mrs. W. R. Womack and the late W. R. Womack, a pioneer mer- chant of Crowell. She has been connected with the business for several years. She is president of the local B. & P. W. Club and an active member of the Baptist Church.

Mr. Burkett is a graduate of Tyler High School and of Texas A. & M. He has recently been dis- charged after four years of ser- vice in the U. S. Army. He is now county agricultural agent of Foard County.

The rule of the U. S. Treasury on redeeming paper money is that if three-fifths of a bill remain it will be redeemed. If less than three-fifths but clearly not more than two-fifths remain it can be redeemed for half value. If two- fifths or less of a bill remains and can be identified the full value can be repaid if the owner can prove the rest of the bill was com- pletely destroyed.

Veterans News

The Veterans Administration has signed a contract with the Texas State Pharmaceutical As- sociation to provide "home town" prescription service to veterans with service-connected disabili- ties.

"The service will be available to disabled veterans as soon as the state association works out administrative detail with more than 1,000 member druggists in Texas," Dr. Lee D. Cady, VA's Medical Director, said.

Under the new project, eligible veterans simply take their pre- scriptions to their neighborhood drug store and VA pays the bill. Formerly, they had to be mailed. A similar contract is being sought in Louisiana and Missis- sippi.

Oklahoma Agricultural and Me- chanical College has provided ad- ditional facilities for training vet- eran students this fall. The col- lege is sponsoring a Technical school at Okmulgee, Okla., for 1,500 students. The work is not credited toward a degree but stu- dents will be awarded certificates in such courses as agriculture, diesel engines, printing, dyeing, building and small business.

Veterans Administration hos- pitals in the Dallas Branch Area are due to receive thousands of exclusive phonograph recordings . . . made by stars of stage, screen and radio . . . to be used to enter- tain veteran patients. The re- cordings range from talks on pop- ular science, comedy skits and music to drama and opera.

General Omar Bradley, Veter- ans Administrator, this week em- phasized the need for more or- ganized programs to train vet- erans in job skills. Such pro- grams, he said, will provide the best insurance to the nation against a "tragic recurrence" of the situation following World War I when thousands of veterans drifted from one "dead-end" job to another.
