Water and Air Needed For Plant Development

Veteran gardeners have long practiced the maxim: Give a plant (or a garden) a drink when it's dry. In other words, do not keep the soil wet, but let it get thirsty between drinks. In a lecture to florists, Dr. J. Boyd Page of Ohio State University gave a scientific view of the problem of watering, which indorsed this old gardener's maxim.

C. H. S. Football Team Defeated Floydada, 25 to 12

Crowell High School football team defeated the Floydada High School team at Floydada last Friday night by a 25 to 12 score. The Crowell boys roundly outplayed the Floydada team, but both clubs showed a lack of polish and condition. The score was tied at 6 to 6 at halftime. Both of these scores were set up by a fumble. Floydada scored in the first quarter on a 20-yard jaunt by Carmack, star fullback. Crowell's first score resulted from a twenty-yard pass play from Kendrick Joy to Ed Thomas. Crowell scored twice in the third quarter when Ed Thomas took another pass from Joy and the third touchdown was made by a 30-yard run by J. L. Brock, right halfback for Crowell. Floydada made its second and last score from a beautiful 25-yard run by Carmack in the last quarter. Joy plunged over the line for the last Wildcat counter. Brock took a pass from Joy to mark up the only extra point of the night.

Lon Laquey, new left halfback for Crowell, turned in several long runs during the game. Ed Thomas, left end for Crowell, was on the receiving end of several nice passes. John Frank Mitchell and R. L. Ballard looked just as well on their blocking assignments in the backfield as the other backs did on carrying the ball. The outstanding feature of the game was Crowell's line. It would not be fair to mention any individuals. The following boys played in the line for Crowell: Ed Thomas, Don Wilkins, J. C. Patton, Thomas Tampley, V. Bond, Larry Wood and R. C. Schlagal. The following reserves were used in the game for Crowell: C. D. Campbell, Grover Yocham, J. C. Autry, Floyd Borchardt, Marvin Brisco, Clifford Orr, Dalton Biggerstaff, and Rouse Todd.

CLOVER SEEDING TIME NEAR

As cooler weather comes on, clover can be planted in Texas pastures when moisture permits. R. R. Lancaster, pasture specialist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service, says that fall is the time to sow clover, since the seed will germinate better when cool nights alternate with warm days.

Clovers generally make good stands in short, thin turf, in fields where crop litter or trash remains on the ground, or in well-prepared seed beds. For dry weather planting, a straw mulch is valuable in holding moisture in the soil.

Mr. Lancaster reminds us that clover will do better when combined with a grass, such as dallis, rescue or rye. We should also remember that a bunch grass is more desirable than a carpet grass, which is likely to become so thick and rank that it will crowd out the clover. Running grasses—Bermuda, buffalo, Rhodes and Johnson grass—will also leave plenty of room for clover.

There are several adapted clovers that you may choose from—true clovers, bur clovers and sweet clovers. Whatever variety you use, inoculate the seed for best results.

For information on varieties, rates of seeding, soil preparation and fertilizing, consult your county agent. And remember these facts concerning clover: With grass, clover restores organic matter to worn out soil. It provides badly needed pasture in the early spring and is high in phosphorous and other mineral nutrients.

PROTECT THE HONEY BEE

The importance of the honeybee to the farmer grows greater every year. It's not the honey or wax that makes beekeeping so vital—it's the fact that at least 50 crops grown in this country either depend on the honeybee for pollination, or yield more abundantly when the bees are plentiful.

And since wild bees and other beneficial insects that naturally do the job of pollinating are disappearing, beekeeping is becoming more essential each year. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has reported that in some sections of the nation, agricultural development has wiped out the native beneficial insects to such a degree that plant farmers have had to import honeybees to pollinate plants.

For this reason, farmers are urged to be careful in applying insecticides. A large percentage of bees have been killed by the careless use of insect poisons. If beekeeping is encouraged, it can grow into a profitable enterprise, and at the same time save the farmer a lot of worry over plant pollination.

Only 70 of the 600,000 known species of insects are responsible for the nation's agricultural losses, according to the U. S. Bureau of Entomology.

Psychologist Sums Up Atomic Reactions

Washington. — Asserting that the average American's behavior shows he is not assessing the new atomic age correctly, Dr. David Krech, of the Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues, today summed up our reactions to the atomic age:

"Many of us have felt vaguely that we were on the verge of something important, strange and dangerous. A few, urged on by an adult fear of the atomic bomb, have attempted to neutralize its danger by working for international control of atomic energy and freedom from war."

"But others, lacking the necessary information and program of action, and hearing only about the military use of atomic energy, and the need for 'secrecy,' have reacted with hysteria, wishful thinking, floundering, or a complete failure to see the danger."

Dr. Krech said he feels these are natural reactions of a people in the dark, but pointed out that the psychologist knows it is also natural for people to change to constructive and intelligent behavior when given information.

His recommendations, Dr. Krech said, include "a forceful information program and a national policy which will bring home to every American the real danger of another war; a program which will point the way toward international friendship and which will remove atomic energy from the spheres of military control, 'secrecy,' and national rivalries."

TROPICAL AND MARINE OILS

The outstanding development in the supply of the world's fats and oils during the 25 years before the war was a tremendous expansion in the production of tropical and marine oils. That expansion in tropical oils came as a result of farming methods — care and fertilizer, the management to growing coconut and oil palm trees in groves under a plantation system. The expansion in marine oils came from the development of the factory whaling ship and the developing of new processes that make it possible to use whale oil on a large scale for margarine, shortening and other purposes.

Insurance Records of Veterans Now Located in Dallas

"G. I." insurance records of West Texas veterans are now located in the Dallas Veterans administration branch office, it has been announced.

The three billion dollar insurance business has been moved to Dallas from New York in truck convoys.

Involved was the transfer of government insurance records for more than 1,200,000 ex-GI's from the Eastern city to the Dallas Branch Office of the Veterans Administration.

Transfer of the records means that all veterans living in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, will now be given insurance service by the Dallas VA office instead of New York.

A few days will be required to organize the mass of files into operating sections following which the Dallas insurance service will be activated, D. C. Pray, insurance director, said.

Effective immediately, all correspondence from Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi veterans concerning GI insurance should be sent to Dallas instead of New York or Washington, Pray added.

VA's new address for insurance business in the tri-state area is: Insurance Service; Veterans Administration; Branch Office No. 10; 1114 Commerce Street, Dallas, Texas.

Trucks loaded with thousands of cases and bundles of correspondence began leaving New York several days ago, Pray revealed. The move to Dallas will be completed by next Monday.

"This decentralization of insurance is part of General Bradley's order to break VA's activity down to 13 Branch Offices in the United States and speed service to veterans," Pray said.

The VA insurance director stated that a large volume of unanswered mail and unposted premium payments are being "inherited" by the Dallas office from New York.

"This back-log will have to be processed by the Dallas office along with current business," Pray said. "But we knew it was coming and we have been preparing for it."

Pray and Assistant Insurance Director L. H. Graves Jr. have assembled and trained a staff of more than 700 insurance workers in the Dallas VA office.

"We realize we have a tremendous task ahead of us," Pray said, "but we are confident we can whip it and give veterans the insurance service they deserve."

"Once on a current basis, VA's Dallas Branch Insurance Service will operate exactly the same as the home office of a life insurance company and will give service to veterans equal to that offered by any commercial company."

Pray estimated that 600,000 National Life Insurance accounts in the Dallas Branch Area are active or semi-active at the present time.

"This is no way indicative of the huge insurance business that will be conducted in Dallas," he added. "We expect thousands of veterans, who have let their insurance lapse, to renew it under liberalized amendments recently enacted by Congress."

Complete information on GI insurance, he said, is available to veterans through VA contact men.

Pray urged that veterans, who will now start sending their insurance premiums to Dallas, pay by personal checks or money orders payable to the Treasurer of the United States.

All remittances should be properly identified with the sender's name, address, serial number and policy number and marked for the attention of the collections unit.

All claims for waiver of premiums because of disability should be marked for the attention of the Disability Insurance Claims Division.

Veterans residing in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi, are being advised of the decentralization of insurance to Dallas by post card notice.

The New York office is mailing September premium notices, giving

This day the Lord thy God hath commanded thee to do these statutes and judgments: thou shalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.—Deuteronomy 26:16.

An interesting survey for the Federal Land Bank was made recently by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics. The purpose of the survey was to determine how much money people now make, how much they have saved up, and some of the things they expect to buy this year and next. In the survey, actual families were visited by trained canvassers. The families visited represented a true cross section of American families. The interesting facts brought out were that there are relatively fewer "rich" people and relatively fewer "poor" people but more of the "middle" class than before the war. The survey indicated that at the present time available needed merchandise will be bought without regard to price but during the next year buyers will become more price conscious and more discriminating and by mass pressure will bring down prices. Many of these interviewed stated that unless prices come down they would not buy. An example was made of automobiles. The mass demand is going to be for cars costing under $1,000. Manufacturers will have to supply the demand either through economies of production or by eliminating those things that increase the cost. The survey indicates pretty generally that for the most part people who have saved up a little cash reserve are not going to whop it off for anything at any price. They are going to be careful, prudent and "choosy" buyers.

The feeling over the Russian situation is that Russia desires to dominate the world in much the same manner that Hitler did. Recognizing the United States an obstacle to such an ambition she is endeavoring to make it so unpopular and so obnoxious for the United States in Europe that we will withdraw and leave matters in the hands of Russia. The feeling in the United States is that the situation presents a parallel to Hitler's invasion of the Rhineland. Had steps been taken to halt Hitler's first moves it is generally believed there would have been no war. Firmness now against Russia's attempt at world domination it is felt may check her ambitions for European, and later world control before the actual break comes.

HISTORY

Columbus Day — October 12: The first celebration of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus was held in New York City on October 12, 1792, three hundred years after the landing of Columbus on the American continent. This celebration was arranged by the Society of St. Tammany or Columbian Order. The celebration consisted of a dinner at which speeches were made appropriate to the occasion. The first permanent monument to be erected in this country in honor of its discoverer was financed by subscriptions of Italian citizens in Fairmont Park, Philadelphia in 1876, at the time of the Centennial Exhibition held in honor of the Declaration of Independence. On the occasion of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus a monument to Columbus was erected in Central Park, in New York. The Columbian Exposition in Chicago was staged in honor of the discovery of America by Columbus. The original plan was to open the Exposition in 1892, but owing to the inability to get the Exposition in readiness it was not held until a year later in 1893. The Knights of Columbus were responsible for having the day declared a legal holiday in New York. The day is now a legal holiday in thirty-four states.

U. S. Bombings Helped Pare Jap Steel Output

Production of steel in the Japanese empire during the war years reached a peak in 1943. Thereafter, as a result of the naval blockade and of bombings, it declined steadily.

According to a report of non-military activities in Japan and Korea, prepared recently at General Headquarters of the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers, the peak wartime production of steel ingots in the Japanese empire was 9,656,000 net tons in 1943, which was less than 11 per cent of the maximum annual production in the United States during the war.

That 9,656,000 tons which Japan produced in the year 1943 could have been turned out by the steel mills of the United States in 38 days, at the record rate of production which prevailed in the month of March, 1944. Of the total produced in Jap-controlled plants in 1943, about 8,616,000 tons, nine-tenths of the total, was produced in plants on the home islands of Japan. The great steel works at Showa, in Manchuria, produced 921,000 tons and the remainder was produced at a plant in Keijicho in Korea.

Baseball in Foreign Lands

A plan was laid before the Army and Navy Union at its annual encampment at Milwaukee, to uniform and equip 1,000 baseball teams in Russia, with the hope that this action would help to make friends of the Russian people.

It has often seemed strange that baseball should be so enormously popular in the United States, and yet that there are not many foreign countries outside of Canada in which it has been widely popular.

It would be a help to friendly international relations, if the American national game was equally popular in most of the foreign lands, and if our teams were visiting and playing in those countries, and their teams were coming here to play. International feelings of prejudice and hostility tend to break down, when people meet in the friendly and courteous rivalry of athletic sports.

If baseball was organized and developed in Russia, and if American teams and players were constantly visiting that country and assisting in developing baseball skill among Russian youth, a great many of the Russian people would acquire an admiration for the American character.

These contacts would help to break down feelings of suspicion and distrust of America that may exist in the Russian mind. Perhaps the Russian government would not care to see such close contacts between their people and the Americans. At least the offer to help develop the game in that country would seem an act likely to make friends among those people.

One wonders why baseball has not been more widely popular in the countries of the Eastern hemisphere. Baseball calls for an extremely alert mind and the power to act instantly and correctly, and a game that develops these qualities would add power to the life of any nation.

SUNNY SQUIBLET

The girls, they say, should learn to cook. Some seem to cook up considerable trouble for the fellows who fall in love with them.

The people, it is said, should know plenty of words. Some fellows may feel, the morning after they got engaged to be married, that they said too many of those words the previous night.

If you receive one of those nice postcards from a vacation resort saying "Wish you were here," it is not always safe to consider it an invitation to visit the sender thereof.

If you like someone you meet a great deal, you are sometimes said to "fall for" him or her. That is not always so safe if the fall is falling in love.

Some women are accused of being "catty," but it may be safer to be a little catty than to be too kittenish.

They say time and tide wait for no man, but Pop says he frequently has to wait for his wife while she dolls up to go somewhere.

Many girls are said to give the boys the "come hither" look, which may be all right, provided they do not distribute it too generally after they get married.

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

There is, in the town in which I live, a widow with three children. The widow is employed in one of the printing offices at a linotype operator at what in this section is a good wage for a woman. Her income provides a good living for the family. Since none of the children is old enough to assume the responsibility of keeping up the home work and doing the family washing this burden also falls upon the mother to be done on her day off, usually Saturday, from her work at the printing office. The two oldest children, a boy and a girl carry a paper route of one of the large dailies published in a nearby city. In order to get the papers distributed before school opens in the morning it is necessary that they get started by six o'clock in the morning. Each day at that hour they pick up their bundle of papers, fold them for throwing, and start out with their wheels on their route which covers the entire town.

Here are three children, who according to the theory of some, have every reason, every opportunity to go astray and get into all sorts of mischief in addition to being without the guiding and restraining hand of a father their mother is absent from the home from morning until night leaving the children to their own resources.

It hasn't worked out according to the rules in this little family. The children are well mannered, well behaved, industrious, and thoroughly co-operative in the matter of maintaining an orderly, well conducted home. The mother and the three children appear to work in complete co-operation, each doing his own part willingly and cheerfully. The fact that the two older children, a boy and a girl, are willing to get up at six o'clock each morning and carry a paper route before school and then come home after school and help with the house work and meal preparation is evidence, I think, of splendid co-operation and appreciation of home and family life.

When I contrast with this family the many stories of youthful delinquency of homes deserted every evening by parents and children for places of so-called entertainment, homes in which the parents habitually get in after midnight and the children some hours later, I find myself wondering what it is this young woman has that is able to inspire such loyalty and such complete and willing co-operation in the matter of complete harmony of family life that other homes, where this condition does not exist, do not have.

I have heard so many times the remark made that the children of such and such a home in my town do not help in any way with the home work. They leave for school in the morning without even tidying up their own rooms, and arrive at home in the evening after school just in time to sit down to the supper which their mother has prepared. Immediately after supper they are off again for the evening to the picture show or elsewhere, often leaving the supper dishes for mother to do.

The two homes represent the extremes, but if I could have my choice as to which home I would be born into with such wisdom and judgment as I in my maturity possess, I would choose the home of the young widow. Here it seems to me is found the most desirable family life, the finest spirit of co-operation and the best training for the later years of manhood and womanhood. Here is an American family in the truest sense. The children of this home are making without realizing it the finest preparation for the job of home building that will one day be theirs.

The past two weeks the newspapers of the country were hit with advances in paper stock ranging up to 30 per cent. Repairs for typesetting machines were hiked 35 per cent without notice. The expensive job of getting out a modern newspaper is going to be more expensive than ever.

United We Stand

One of the most famous heroes of the American Revolution once said that "United we stand, divided we fall." This country could not have won its freedom in those days unless those 13 colonies that started that revolution had united and stuck together. If they had merely preserved their own independent governments, each of which had its little force of militia, their chances of obtaining their freedom would have been very poor.

Our country obtained that unity to a remarkable degree while the recent war was on, and it was a great factor in defeating the enemy powers. Today while we are recovering from the war strain, differences of opinion are inevitable in a democratic country.

Still it promotes a true unity of spirit when people respect the opinions of those who differ with them, and try to weigh their arguments impartially and give due weight to these contrary ideas.

SCREECH OWLS

The finding of young screech owls peering down at passersby from some tree-top in a city park or along a residential street is not a particularly unusual occurrence since this is one owl that regularly invades cities and towns to nest. Several factors favor its doing this. The screech owl is small and highly nocturnal and its presence is only rarely discovered, so it escapes persecution to a large degree from its human enemies. On the other hand, in the wooded areas, the larger owls—notably the great horned owl—occur and these, strangely enough, are among the worst of the little screech owl's enemies. Then, too, about buildings mice and English sparrows are abundant and these are important items in the diet of this owl. Consequently, what appears at first to be a dangerous habitat for this bird is really quite favorable.

EXECUTIVE... The first woman in Tokyo to hold executive position as head of a business establishment.

Social Calls

It is sometimes complained that the habit of social calling is not as common as it used to be. It is remarked that in former times, people would usually call on a new family which had just moved into their neighborhood, and would make social calls upon their friends at frequent intervals. Now, it is said, not so many such calls are made.

Perhaps one reason why social life of this type is not so common now, is that people are likely to meet their friends in the organizations and groups to which they belong, so that there is really more social life than ever before. Also there are more things for people to go to, and they are so busy with their various dates, and enjoyments that they do not have the same amount of time for social calling. Anyway the cordial and welcoming spirit makes friends wherever it goes.

Community Manners

People win friends to a large extent by their good manners. If they are courteous with the people they meet, and take an interest in them, people like them and the acquaintance is apt to become a friendship. The success of many persons in business is due to their excellent manner, and the cordial way in which they greet the public and attend to customers' wants.

Communities also have manners, which may be good or poor. In some places people seem indifferent to strangers and visitors, and make no special effort to welcome them. In bright and progressive communities there is a hearty greeting to such people, and particularly to newcomers who have recently come to the town to live. People go out of their way to do friendly acts to such persons, who get attached to a town where that spirit prevails.

Friendlyness

One trait which builds up many communities, and which promotes the success and popularity of people, is that of friendlyness. A town becomes a popular place to live in, if its people have a friendly attitude toward their neighbors and townspeople. If they enjoy talking with the people whom they meet, if they welcome strangers and visitors cordially, if they have pleasant relations with everyone, a tie of good feeling binds the people of that town together. It promotes the progress of useful movements.

The friendly attitude has been a large factor in the success of many in work and business. They attract people by their genial manner, and people like to have business and working relations with them.

PRESSING TIE

For a really new appearance, the tie should be pressed over a padded board similar to that used by professional cleaners—a piece of equipment that is easily made at home. All that's needed is two cardboard cut to fit inside the tie, several layers of old blanket or outing flannel to put between them and some padding for the outside. Then cover the whole with very smooth material—an old rayon slip will do—to permit the pad to slide easily into the tie. The use of this pad avoids an undesirable sharp crease along the tie's edge. Always use a press cloth for wool or rayon ties to prevent an unseemly shine.

"Doggone, Mrs. Spaniel, you've got a fortune there!"

"Wonder how much, friend Foxhound?"
"I'd say a hundred bucks apiece, charming lady!"
"Flatterer! Why, when my grandpa was a pup, he brought only $25. That was 20 years ago, of course, but he became a Champion!"
"My good woman, don't you realize how much prices have gone up since then? Look at hamburger, for instance..."
"Oh, Mister, how I'd love to look at hamburger!"

"Stop it—please! My point is that the price of nearly everything has gone way up in the last 20 years. Except electricity. And us dogs don't use electricity. That's unfair. I'm going to raise a howl about it!"
"But we do use electricity in lots of ways. It cooks our food and warms our baths and whisks our spare hairs off the furniture."
"H-m—guess you're right, gorgeous gal... And it'll please you to know that the average family gets twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 20 years ago!"
"Twenty years ago—when Grandpa was a pup—and hamburger was... how much did you say hamburger was?"
"I'll have to scratch up the exact figure for you. But now I must run along and pick up a scent. Electricity and I—forgive me—do a great deal of work for a cent. Yip, yip! Good day, Mrs. Spaniel."

Though this story's all fun, its facts are all true. Many things are scarce and expensive these days, but electricity is plentiful and cheap. One reason it's so cheap is because of your wider use—but another big reason is because America's business-managed electric companies constantly seek and find new ways to keep it so.

Home Town Thoughts

When you speak often of the advantages and pleasant features of life in your home town, you promote enthusiasm for the community, and you encourage people to do active things that make the town life more attractive.

Any group of people who produce an entertainment or activity of any type in their home town, add interest to the life of the community, and they help the development of the town.

The people who are anxious to see their home town make gains, do something toward that end when they keep their home places in perfect order and make them as attractive as possible.

STUDENT BODY PEP SQUAD

This year CHS wants a student body pep squad. What does this mean? Not only the pep squad yelling their heads off, but the whole student body, boys and girls. The regular pep squad needs your cooperation.

You should have seen the way the Wildcats fought the Whirlwinds "across the field" last Friday night. The Wildcats never stopped fighting until the final gun sounded. These boys, who keep plugging even when the odds are against them and who carry the black and gold banner, make us mighty proud to call them "our team."

It certainly isn't sissy to get up and yell for the Wildcats; so at the next game we want everyone who isn't on the team in the cheering section, getting red in the face and hoarse.

ANTIDOTE FOR GRIPING

Mary Skunkley went home from school, and threw her books down with a bang. "Mother, I don't like school, the lessons are too long, the teachers are inconsiderate, and besides that Tommie Smith was elected president of our class. She is so hateful."

Mary's mother turned and said, "When I was a small girl, I had no shoes and complained bitterly—until I saw a man who had no feet."

Mary Skunkley hung her head in shame.

We as students should consider ourselves lucky to have youth, families and friends, love and affection, and dozens of other things we often take for granted.

Are you a Mary Skunkley?

EX-NAVY MAN CHARLES FERGESON REPORTS FOR DUTY AS CHS ECONOMICS TEACHER

How would you like to have seen Manila just after the invasion? Or visit New Zealand and the South Pacific Islands? It sounds very exciting, doesn't it?

Charles Ferguson, Chief Pharmacist's Mate, was in the navy three and one-half years, spending thirty-six months in the South Pacific on Board the U. S. S. La Vallette.

Mr. Ferguson is a graduate of Ashbury College, in Wilmore, Ky., where he received his B. A. degree.

When asked what his favorite food was, he heartily announced, "Ham and eggs and hot biscuits."

He likes Kenneth Roberts as an author and Cary Grant as movie actor.

His pet aversion is people who come to class without having prepared their lesson.

Not only does he teach economics, but Mr. Ferguson also teaches speech, business and civics.

We are lucky to get Mr. Ferguson as one of our teachers, and we all say sincerely, "Welcome to CHS, Charles Ferguson."

SENIOR PREFERS BERGMAN; PLANS CAREER AT A. & M.

Everyone in CHS is more than proud to welcome back into their midst R. E. Johnson, who served in the Navy of the United States for two years. Eight weeks of boot-training was taken at the Naval Training Center at San Diego, Calif. After finishing boot training R. E. spent twelve weeks attending school at a Destroyer Base in a ship repairing shop; he then attended an Electric Hydraulic School.

R. E. was then shipped to Japan by way of Adak, Alaska, where it began to feel rather cold. He then spent most of his time while overseas at Ominato, Amari, and Yakuska.

The thing that impressed him most was the lack of education of the Japs and the uncivilized way in which they lived. It made him wonder to see the vast modern ships they had and yet be so backward.

For a pet aversion he dislikes girls who smoke and use too much cosmetics.

For a favorite food celery hits the spot with him.

For a favorite food subject he chooses Math.

Since returning from the Navy, R. E. thinks it more important than ever before to attend school.

WILDCATS DEFEAT FLOYDADA

The CHS WILDCATS opened their 1946 season by defeating the Floydada Whirlwinds 25-12 Friday night.

The Whirlwinds scored early in the first quarter with Carmack carrying the ball. The attempted conversion was wide leaving the score 6-0.

The Wildcats then marched down toward the stripes with a fast passing and running game. Joy passed to Thomas for the score but Brock's kick was wide leaving the score tied 6-6 at the half.

In the third quarter the Wildcats again scored on a pass from Joy to Thomas. Joy carried for the extra point.

The next score was made by Brock on a play through the line. The Wildcats again failed to make the extra point.

Floydada made their last tally on a run by Carmack down the side lines but failed to make the extra point.

Brock again scored for the Wildcats in the fourth period making the final score 25-12.

Despite the fact that the field was wet and muddy the Wildcats passing worked nicely.

The whole team showed up well in this game and much improvement could be seen since the scrimmage with Munday.

The Wildcats have a home game Friday night, September 20, with the Quarah Indians.

Probable starting lineup: Brock, Thomas, ends; Tampelen, Patton, tackles; Wood, Bond, guards; Schlagal, center; Joy, Laquey, Ballard and Mitchell, backs.

FACTS ABOUT FLOYDADA GAME

The game with Munday a week ago last Friday proved beneficial to our team. We were shown what our defects were and what we needed more practice on.

A week of rough and tumble practice seemed to iron out these defects, and as a result at Floydada looked more like the ball team we can be in the future.

Of course, we were not perfect in the Floydada game. We conceded that, but practice makes perfect, and we are really getting practice.

By tomorrow night, when we play Quarah, we will be in very good shape.

Brock showed up well in the backfield post running a touchdown and an extra point over through the left side line.

Thomas, left end for the Wildcats, looked good as he caught two touchdown passes thrown by Captain K. Joy.

ORCHIDS AND ONIONS

Orchids to the Wildcats for playing a wonderful game Friday night.

VETERANS' QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. How can option under which National Service Life Insurance is payable be changed?

A. (1) By the insured at any time or, (2) upon death of the insured, by the beneficiary, before any payment has been made. Whatever form of payment is provided by the insured, the beneficiary may arrange for payments to be made over a longer period of time, provided benefit payments have not commenced.

Q. How long must a National Service Life Insurance policy be in effect before it can be converted?

A. National Service Life Insurance must be in effect at least one year before it can be converted.

Q. Is the veteran allowed any grace in the payment of National Service Life Insurance premiums?

A. A grace period of 31 days without interest is allowed for the payment of any premiums other than the first premium payable under the policy. The policy remains in force during the grace period.

Q. Can a veteran pay his NSLI premiums by deductions from compensation, retirement pay, or pension?

A. Yes. The insured may authorize the monthly deduction of premiums from compensation, retirement pay, or pension that have been awarded him under any laws administered by Veterans Administration.

Q. Can creditors make claims on a beneficiary of a National Service Life Insurance policy?

A. Payments of insurance to a beneficiary are exempt from the claims of creditors of the insured or creditors of the beneficiary, and are not liable to attachment, levy, or seizure, either before or after receipt by the beneficiary. However, this exemption does not apply against the United States.

Q. What is the "National Service Life Insurance Fund"?

A. National Service Life Insurance is mutual insurance. All premiums paid on this insurance and all interest earned thereon are deposited in a separate trust fund in the U. S. Treasury, designated as the "National Service Life Insurance Fund." The Government derives no profit from its administration and acts in the capacity of trustee of the fund for the sole benefit of the policyholders and their beneficiaries.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto a new Section to be known as Section 49-b which shall read as follows:

Two Minute Sermon (By Thomas Hastwell)

The Beauty of Simplicity: It has been my privilege during a long life time to attend a good many meetings of social groups. Some of them were of the formal type with the table glistening in spotless diamonds, shining silver, and sparkling glasses. Some of them were the extreme of simplicity with the simplest tableware, the simplest food, with those present dressed in the simplest and most informal attire. Of the two groups I prefer the latter. It seems to me that hospitality is more genuine when it is stripped of the restraining bonds of formality and precision. It seems to me that in these less formal contacts that people are more natural and more like their true selves. While the quaintness of good manners prevails there is not the studied effort at the precise and the correct that sometimes hampers the expression of the individual. I enjoy a meal under such circumstances because I enjoy complete relaxation. In such an atmosphere the simplest food becomes a banquet because it is seasoned with the fine condiment of simplicity. I am one who believes in and enjoys the beauty of natural simplicity.

Some 60,000,000 pounds of strawberries will be used in the manufacture of ice cream this year, according to estimates by ice cream industry officials.

vested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties or cities of this State, or in bonds issued by any agency of the United States Government, the payment of the principal and interest on which is guaranteed by the United States, provided that a sufficient amount of said funds shall be kept on hand to meet the immediate payment of the amount likely to become due each year out of said Fund, such amount of funds to be kept on hand to be determined by the agency which may be provided by law to administer said Fund; and provided that the recipients of benefits from said Fund shall not be eligible for any other pension retirement funds or direct aid from the State of Texas, unless the Fund, the creation of which is provided for herein, contributed by the county, is released to the State of Texas as a condition to receiving such other pension aid."

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held throughout the State of Texas on the first Thursday in November, 1946, at which election all voters favoring the proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the following words:

"FOR the Amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas by adding Section 49-b creating a Veteran's Land Fund for the purchase of lands in Texas to be sold to Texas Veterans of World War II."

Those opposing said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the following words:

"AGAINST the Amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas by adding Section 49-b creating a Veteran's Land Fund for the purchase of lands in Texas to be sold to Texas Veterans of World War II."

If it appears from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast were in favor of said Amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution and be effective from the date of the determination of such result and the Governor's proclamation thereof.

Section 3. The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election, and shall have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Section 4. The sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State not otherwise appropriated to pay the expense of publication and election.

SAFETY SLOGAN

Make sure that handrails and stair treads are in safe condition. See that rugs and steps and landings are kept clean and fastened securely.

Make it a practice to keep brooms, soap, pails, toys and other objects which may be a person to fall.

If there are young children at home, place a gate at the top of the stairs to prevent them from climbing.

Fruit Has Value

Many families used to eat fruit on their own trees and as the children get older and often before it was ready those days fruit had less value. Today a fruit tree or vine is worth considerable money. The owners frequently preserve a good part of the product, they may sell the surplus to their friends.

The people who own such trees and vines value these products and they are entitled to them. The children will make themselves more popular if they do not take the things that belong to their neighbors.

CANDY STATES

Illinois was the largest candy-producing state in the Union in 1945. More than one-quarter of all sweets produced came from the Prairie State. Other confectionery-producing leaders were Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts. The principal concerns producing confections were centered in Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Minneapolis and San Francisco, the Britannica Book of the Year article points out. The industry employed 50,000 persons, mostly women.

There are 600,000 known species of insects in the United States according to the U. S. Bureau of Entomology.

FARMING IN HOLY LAND

Industrial activity in Palestine has grown considerably in recent decades, along with the population, which increased from about 750,000 in 1922 to an estimated 1,675,000 in 1943. But farming is still the outstanding occupation of Palestine. Irrigation works and imported methods have expanded production sharply. Citrus fruits normally form the leading crop. Other fruits, olives, almonds, tobacco, grains and vegetables are successfully grown. The dairy, bee-keeping and poultry raising industries are also expanding. The throngs of pilgrims and other visitors long provided a peacetime industry. In this cradle of the three great religions, Jerusalem, capital of Palestine, is a holy city to Christian, Jew and Moslem.

JESUS AND THE LAW OF THE STRANGER

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 22:21-23; Deuteronomy 24:14, 15; Matthew 25:34-41. MEMORY SELECTION—The King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.—Matthew 25:40.

There is as much need today for the words of counsel and admonition regarding strangers which we find in the days of Moses, for there seems to be an almost complete breakdown of neighborliness both between nations and individuals. I. The Law Required Neighborliness (Exod. 22:21-23; Deut. 24:14, 15). Our heavenly Father as revealed to us in his Word is a Father in whose eyes we are all children; but especially does he care for those who are weak and needy. The laws of ancient Israel made provision for the feeding of those who had no fields. The corners of the field were left uncut at harvest time, some of the grapes were to be left on the vine, etc., so that the poor could enjoy the sense of self-respect as they picked for themselves what God had provided (see Lev. 19:9, 10; 23:22; Deut. 24:19-21, and other passages). The poor man who found work was to receive his pay when needed. For the one who hired him to do otherwise was to bring upon himself the judgment of God. He listens to the cry of the hungry worker and his family (Deut. 24:15). Strangers were in a peculiar way subject to the possibility of extortion. They are even today the easy mark of the one who lives by his wits, the "confidence" man and sneak thief. If any such person reads these notes let me warn him solemnly to keep his tricky hands off the stranger, for God is watching and will hear their cry (Exod. 22:23). The same is true of widows and orphans. God is their keeper and their defender. Someone may say that all this is Old Testament in its background and principle. What about the follower of Christ in our day? The answer is that II. Christ Expects Neighborliness (Matt. 25:34-41). This is a prophetic picture of a great judgment scene. It is not, as many suppose, the same as the Judgment of Revelation 20. The scene here is not in heaven, but upon the earth. It is not individuals who are being judged, but the nations of the earth. They are not being judged regarding personal salvation, but for their treatment of Christ's brethren. Who are his brethren? First we think of the people of the Jewish flesh. Scripture reveals again and again that God is watching over his chosen people, even though they are now scattered in judgment for their unbelief. He will not hold any guiltless who harm his people (Gen. 18:1-3). The word "brethren" is also used in such a passage as Matthew 12:48-50 to include all who do the will of God. That suggests a broader application of these words. Our attitude toward God expresses itself in our attitude toward our fellow man. That which we do toward those about us is not a matter of indifference, but is the basis for God's judgment of our lives. Each of us must answer for the deeds done in the flesh whether they be good or evil. That is true even of the believer (11 Cor. 5:10), whose salvation has already been determined by his faith in Christ. Here in our lesson, however, the failure to do that which shows forth God's law of love is made the ground of eternal judgment. This is not because an act of kindness itself can be regarded as the ground of division, but because the failure to give it or do it reflects an attitude of heart toward our God and his Christ which is in reality a rejection of his way of salvation. Judgment is thus a revelation of the attitude of the heart, which marks a man or woman as being either saved or lost. It may be possible to so becloud the thinking of our friends and neighbors that we may go through life looking something like a Christian, but

Weekly Sermon

By the Rev. C. Norman Bartlett, S. T. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

The Wreckage of Wrath

Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and railing, be put away from you, with all malice.—Ephesians 4:31 (R.V.)

People who own cottages or more pretentious houses at the seashore find it advisable to go down early in the spring to inspect their beach property with a view to ascertaining what and how much damage may have been done to it by the fierce storms of winter. More than likely the owner finds that extensive repairs are necessary.

Might it not be an excellent idea for us to look over our moral and spiritual property to see whether it may not have been damaged, at least to some extent, by storms of wrath in bygone days?

Most of us will find our souls to be in need of some repairs. Have we lost much or little in peace of mind, or strength of soul, or beauty of character through the tempest of anger to which we have given way? Have we suffered injury in our inner nature by permitting others to cause us to lose our temper? Have we allowed the hostility of enemies to kindle resentment in our souls?

May the Lord help us to answer these questions honestly!

"If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth; but if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:6, 7, 9).

"RED DANUBE"

An ancient invasion route, the Danube has seen innumerable tides of fighting men—including Huns, Romans, Crusaders and American and Soviet forces of World War II. So much blood has been shed that it has been suggested the "Blue Danube," actually silver in its clear upper stretches and later silt brown, should be called the "Red Danube." Like that of the Rhine, the Danube's scenery ranges from ruined castles of robber knights to busy factory towns and from the narrow, rock-filled gorge known as the Iron Gate to a broad delta where sluggish streams wander through flat, wooded swamps, over which countless wildfowl fly.

Dr. H. L. Haller, insecticide chief for the U. S. Bureau of Entomology, estimates that insects destroy each year about one-tenth of each year's food and fibre crops.

Liquor drinkers of the United States spent twice as much last year for liquor as was spent for all branches of education.

Cypress trees of Mexico have been appraised at about 5,140 years old.

When Christ judges, it will all be revealed.

Notice the importance of a proper attitude toward those who need our kindness and help. All too often the only concern of men and women is to look out for "number one" and let the rest of the world shift for itself.

Observe also that the Lord is counted as done to and for identifies himself with his brethren—what is done to and for them him. Compare the experience of Samuel (1 Sam. 8:7) and of Paul (Acts 9:5). Touch God's people and you touch him. Fail them and you fail him. Serve them and you serve him.

Bridal Shower in Honor of Mrs. Joe Burkett Given Thurs.

Mesdames Byron Davis, A. L. Rucker and Moody Bursley and Misses Lottie Russell and Gusta Davis were joint hostesses at the home of Mrs. Davis on Thursday evening between the hours of 7 and 8:30 to compliment Mrs. Joe Burkett, who was Miss Bertha Womack before her recent marriage, with a miscellaneous bridal shower.

Mrs. Davis greeted the guests and presented them to Mrs. Burkett and her mother, Mrs. W. R. Womack. Mrs. Bursley directed them to the guest register where Mrs. Alva Spencer secured the signatures. Mrs. Bursley then invited them into the dining room where Mrs. Henry Borchardt poured punch which was served with delicious sand tarts by Miss Mayme Lee Collins and Mrs. Bill Ombey. The table was covered with a beautiful handmade lace cloth and centered with a gorgeous bouquet of red roses. Roses, both red and pink, were used in profusion throughout the home to enhance its beauty. The roses were from local flower gardens.

In the gift rooms, where the innumerable lovely gifts of friendship were displayed, Miss Cora Carter and Miss Gusta Davis presided.

All members of the house party wore corsages of red or pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Hammonds Honored by Thalia Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Hammonds, recent newlyweds, were named as honorees at a lovely miscellaneous shower given at the Methodist Church in Thalia on Friday afternoon, Sept. 6th, when Mrs. H. W. Gray, Mrs. M. C. Adkins, Mrs. C. H. Wood and Mrs. Marlin Woodson were hostesses. The recreation hall in which the shower was held was decorated with pot plants. Mrs. Gray presided over the bride's book where each guest was asked to register.

A short program was rendered. Morris Johnson gave two readings and played accompaniment for Mrs. L. B. Taylor, who sang a solo. The program was arranged by Mrs. Adkins. Morris Johnson also played incidental music throughout the reception hours.

Punch was served by Mrs. Wood from an attractive table with a yellow linen cloth and a beautiful serving tray brought from Old Mexico. The many beautiful gifts were displayed by Mrs. Woodson and Mrs. Adkins.

Adelpian Club Opens Year's Work

The new year of the Adelpian Club opened September 4th with an assembly held at the club house with Mrs. Florence Black, Mrs. Ernest King and Mrs. Richard Fergeson as hostesses.

Mrs. Merl Kincaid, president, conducted a short business session, after which she welcomed Mrs. A. Y. Olds as a visitor and Mrs. Louis Purvis and Mrs. J. C. Prosser as new members.

Opening the program, Marcia Kincaid played a piano selection, "Madriena," by Paul Wachs. Mrs. Kincaid then made an address, stressing pride in the club and bringing out the fact that last year Seventh District, of which the Crowell club is a member, was first of all districts in Texas in taking in new clubs, there having been forty new clubs added; also that this district was first in subscriptions to the magazine, Club Woman, and that it ranked first in contributions to cancer control.

Highlighting the program, Mrs. Louis Purvis reviewed in a very interesting manner the book, "The Egg and I" by Betty McDonald, which portrays the life of the author on a chicken ranch.

The members and guests were invited into the dining room where dainty refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed tea table.

"Blue Dahlia" Roles Fit Stars Perfectly

Every so often, out of Hollywood comes a picture so well performed that it appears as though the roles were intentionally written to fit the personalities of the cast. And, in the case of Paramount's "The Blue Dahlia," which opens next Sunday at the Rialto Theatre, they were.

The three stars, Alan Ladd, Veronica Lake and William Bendix, plus the more important featured players, Howard da Silva, Doris Dowling, and Tom Powers, were all studied before hand as to their personal characteristics and previous portrayals. Then, Raymond Chandler, famous for his many best-seller murder mysteries and for his film adaptation of "Double Indemnity," wrote his first original screenplay around the cast. The result is said to be one of the most dramatic thrillers ever to shock an audience.

"The Blue Dahlia" is reported to be an action-packed melodrama of murder and mayhem, in which Alan Ladd battles both sides of the law in an attempt to prove himself, and his pal, Bendix, innocent of the slaying of Doris Dowling, Ladd's faithless screen wife. Between scraps he treats Veronica Lake to some traditional Ladd love-making.

Mrs. Buford Brown was in charge of the program and gave a very interesting and helpful demonstration on "Table Service." She emphasized the fact that three things should be remembered in regard to table service: good taste, good sense and simplicity.

Mrs. H. P. Gillespie will be hostess when the club meets again on September 26.

FOARD CITY H. D. CLUB

Food, Home Notes

GREEN LAWNS FOR WINTER

If you'd like to see your lawn stay green all through the winter, try planting some of the Italian rye grass. Now is the time to get it planted.

This is the same rye grass that is grown for winter stock pasture, and it may be planted with Bermuda or any grass that keeps your lawn green in the summer. Just cut the lawn very closely and sow the rye grass, using one pound of seed for each 1,000 square feet of lawn. Water immediately after planting, so the seeds will sprout and set in place. The grass stays green all winter and begins to die out just about the time the Bermuda comes up in the spring.

It will be necessary to plant new rye grass each fall, since it won't produce seed until it reaches a height of about 18 inches, and you'll want to keep it mowed. However, the grass will certainly improve the landscape during the winter, especially where you have a few evergreen trees.

Seed may be obtained from most any feed store, and many nurseries now also handle it.

ROOT-KNOT NEMATODE

Every year hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of fruits and vegetables are lost because of root-knot nematode.

In case you are not familiar with root-knot and the signs of infestation, it is a small worm, sometimes called eelworm, found on the roots of over 1,400 different kinds of plants. You can easily detect the presence of the nematode by examining the plant roots immediately after removing from the ground. The worm causes small growths on the roots—growths that are either bead-like or gall-like, sometimes round and often elongated. The growths vary in size, but are seldom as large as a dime.

Plants affected with root-knot are pale in color, stunted, lack vigor, are low producers and wilt more readily than normal plants when moisture is scarce.

In many gardens, truck fields and orchards, root-knot continues to do its damage unchecked. No practical means of eradicating root-knot have been worked out, say the Extension horticulturists and entomologists. However, probably the best means of controlling the infestation is crop rotation, since vegetables and fruit trees that are being grown year after year on the same soil are the plants that are being most heavily damaged.

SEPTEMBER LANDSCAPE GARDENING

Mulch material will protect roots of flowers and other landscape plants, and enrich the soil when it decays.

The best mulch for flowers is the decayed material found around out, wheat and hay stacks or near feed grinders and trench silos. Leaves in ditches and under trees also make good mulch.

In applying the mulch, it should be spread six to eight inches deep. When that has settled to as low as a two inch thickness, more should be added.

Many flowers that were killed by heat in August may be replanted in September. Only hardy plants like the hollyhock and gayfeather can be safely planted. However, in most all sections of the state these are some of the flowers that may be replanted this month: arctotis, baby's breath, balsam, calendula, candytuft, Chinese forget-me-not, cockscomb, coreopsis, comflower, delphinium, lacinflower, larkspur, mignonette, pansy, petunia, phlox, pink, queenslace, salvia, scabiosa, snapdragon, stock, strawflower and sweetwilliam.

SCISSORS AND SHEARS

In most households, scissors and shears are often dulled and damaged by improper use. Scissors and shears are two different instruments and are designed for different uses. Scissors, which are generally much smaller than shears, are made for snipping and trimming. Shears—ordinarily six to 13 inches long—are designed for cutting fabric.

Like knives, your scissors and shears are easily damaged. If you use them for cutting paper, cardboard, flowers, wet cloth or heavy string, the fine cutting edge will become dulled. If the blades are sprung from cutting heavy fabric, they are damaged permanently.

Keep a pair of inexpensive for this heavy cutting. Protect your scissors by keeping them up or keeping them in a box. In damp weather, protect them from rust by dipping in waxed paper.

Oil the shears and scissors every six months. Put a drop of sewing machine oil on the tip of the screw that holds the blades together. Always wipe the blades before and after using to keep them free of dust, but if rust spots do appear, rub off the rust with fine sandpaper and wool and apply a little oil.

If you are skillful with your hands, you may do a good job of repairing shears or scissors, but it generally pays to take them to an expert.
