Smear to Control Livestock Parasites Developed

New treatment for the control of the destructive livestock pest, the screwworm, has been developed by the USDA's Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine at their Kerrville laboratory. The new treatment is known as EQ 335 screwworm.

According to Joe Burkett, County agent, the new remedy will be used for the first time on a large scale in the next 10 years. The formula EQ 335 contains by weight 10 per cent of the powerful new insecticide, Lindane, 35 per cent of 42 per cent white mineral oil, 12 per cent emulsifier and 10 per cent silica gel. Burkett says that the new remedy is not immediately effective and there are smears of different concentrations on the market depending on the type of emulsifier used. The 3 per cent lindane and 10 per cent pine oil will be even though the other ingredients in the formula vary some from original.

Some of the advantages he says are that the smears do not deteriorate upon standing in application usually lasts ten days or about twice as long as an application of Smear. The smears heal quickly and do not stain clothing. The smears are not found on the hair and are not found deep in the wounds. The smears are applied to the wounds and flies attracted to the feed or lay eggs. According to Burkett, the new smears have been tried on thousands of animals during the past year and none have been lost from the treatment. He says, however, that young calves, especially calves, might be sick if the treatment is applied improperly. The smear should be applied with a small brush and only the wound and narrow strip of an inch or so around the wound should be treated.

It urges livestock producers to use good livestock management practices and to be on the alert for infestations of screwworm because the use of the remedy alone will not give them control. Infested animals should be treated at once and other livestock management practices that cause screwworm should be avoided during the screwworm season.

The same formula can be used with water, one of EQ 335 parts of water, and can be used to treat sheep that are infested with wool maggots. The smears should be applied to the affected portions of the sheep. Burkett says screwworms have a heavy damage this year and since the weather remains warm over most of the county, further damage can be expected. He says this new smear can be available on the market and recommends its use. Check the product label, he says, to be sure you purchase the 3 per cent lindane and 10 per cent pine oil by weight for these are the items that make his klick.

Soil Conservation News of District

Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District Board: W. C. Howard, Grady Halbert, O. T. Holmes, O. H. Brandon, H. L. Ayers.

There is still time to plant those winter cover crops such as hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas. However, it will be better to wait until it rains to do any more planting. Legumes such as vetch and peas should not be dry sowed because the inoculation might be lost. This is very important in planting legumes. Approximately 1,500 acres have been planted. This is more than three times the amount planted in years past. A good place for vetch now is on cotton stalk ground. Cotton is coming off early this year and there is plenty of time to seed vetch. It can be planted any time this month. Vetch will improve the land and keep it from blowing. Let's plant vetch in some of those cotton stalks.

Terraces have recently been built on the following cooperators farms: Bill Bell, Jeff Bell, Grady Halbert, H. H. Fish, Chester Hord and Henry Johnson. Terraces will be built in the near future on Homer Zeigler, Harry Schlagal and Carl Zeigler farms.

The soil is our most valuable resource. Let's conserve it.

Wildkittens and Grade School Team Play Four Games

The Crowell Wildkittens, both the "B" stringers and the Grade School team, played two games each in the last ten days that gave them some valuable experience for their future tenure on the Wildcat squad. The "B" squad won both of its scrimmages, 7 to 0 from the Vernon "B" team here on Monday night of last week, and 12 to 0 over the Floydada team at Floydada on Tuesday night of this week.

The Crowell Grade School broke even in its two games, losing to Paducah 19 to 12 at Paducah on Thursday night of last week, and defeating the Munday Grade School team 12 to 7 at Munday on Monday night of this week. They had previously won over the Paducah team here. The Munday team was undefeated for the season with six victories.

The following boys represented Crowell in the "B" scrimmages: Leon Pehacek, Buddy Caddell, Raymond Halenack, Jimmy Everson, Billy Abston, Ginger Johnson, Wayne Elliott, C. T. McDaniel, Don Smith, Robert Love, Mike Wishon, Jimmie New, Billy Hopkins, Don Kidd and John Trawack. The experience that these boys received in these practice games is worth a great deal to the Crowell School athletic program as the football prospects have a knowledge of football fundamentals when they report for the High School team.

Crowell Wildcats Maul Burk Burnett Bulldogs 19 to 0 Last Friday Night at Burk; Meet Olney Here on Nov. 17th

Every member of the Crowell High School football team deserves credit for jarring a Burk boy loose from the ball, Don Gohin passed eleven yards to Jim Paul Norman, Hack Norman ran for four, Jon Sanders picked up four, Laquey eight, and Gobin passed over the goal line to Sanders for Crowell's first tally. The extra point try was no good to leave the score 6 to 0. Crowell's line, composed of Jim Paul Norman, Jimmy Rasberry, Gordon Wood Bell, Charles Pittillo, James Pittillo, Robert Brock and Ribble, continued with its excellent blocking to carry Crowell backs down the field for the second score. It was Bell and Sanders who jarred the ball from a Burk boy on the kick-off play after a nice return to Crowell's forty-yard line. James Pittillo covered for Crowell on this play. Sanders picked up 26 yards on a double reverse. Burk drew a 15-yard penalty. Sanders ran for another nine, Laquey for seven, and Hack Norman carried for ten and a score. The western motifs were reminders of Mr. Ferguson's younger days as a cowboy.

The tiny napkins, embossed with "Henry-80" were passed by Charles and Helen Marie ten Brink, grandson and granddaughter of the honoree. LIBRARY FEATURED FOR NATIONAL BOOK WEEK, NOVEMBER 13-17

Perhaps some of you do not realize the importance of a good library in your school. The CHS Library has undergone many improvements recently and is a real aid in daily home work and a boost to the education and enjoyment of anyone who has learned to use it properly.

The librarian for CHS this year is Mrs. Zelma Hulse who, although she taught in the first grade last year, has always been interested in library work. Receiving her BA degree from North Texas State College, she minored in Library Service and plans to finish a degree in that field in the near future. Dividing her time, Mrs. Hulse spends the morning working the high school library into shape, then hurries over to elementary school where she begins the library work for the afternoon. Because of Mrs. Hulse's various responsibilities, student assistants work at different times in the library.

Library helpers for this year are Wanza Spears, who works the fifth and eighth periods, Mildred Tamplen, sixth period, and Essie Franklin, seventh period. These energetic girls are working to make the library more useful to the student body, to become better acquainted with library procedure, and to encourage reading and familiarity with good books.

Speaking of good books, we hear that Mrs. Hulse is preparing an order for new books. Students who want to read books of a certain type should put their choice of books in the suggestion box which has been placed in the library. Of course, we could never forget to mention the new set of Americana Encyclopedias which has been ordered.

Books are not all the library affords, however, for if you notice the study hall bulletin board, you will see that Mrs. Hulse puts out a new display each week. Subjects are listed with the records of the library. Titles of bulletin board displays which have been used with clever illustrations since school began are: first week, Autumn Times Is Study Time; second week, New Book; third week, For information visit your library; 4th week, Take these Sports Books;

fifth week, read much, think more, talk less; sixth week, fire prevention week; seventh week, religious emphasis week, eighth week, Halloween — you'll be as wise as a tree full of owls if you learn to use reference books; ninth week, reaching for a star — choose books about selecting careers.

As many as possible of the higher standard magazines are ordered in September from the Curtis Company, sponsored by the Junior class. Other magazines are ordered direct. Some of these magazines are: Ladies Home Journal, Senior Prom, Good Housekeeping, Life National Geographic, Newsweek, Popular Science, Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Scholastic, Travel, Wilson Bulletin, English Journal, Seventeen.

Newspapers to be found in the library are the Foard County News and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Since the library is well equipped, each student should make the most of this advantage by learning to use the library in the best possible manner. On request, Mrs. Hulse will give library lessons to any class integrated with the teacher's work.

THE NEW LOOK IN AMERICAN BOOKS

About a year ago, Life Magazine announced that the United States is divided into three parts: high brows, middle brows, and low brows. After reading only high brow books for a year, the average American has come to the conclusion that the United States is going to the dogs and is scared half to death.

Having presented many depressing facts, the high-brow books went on to say that things are going to get a good deal worse and we all ought to go home and worry ourselves to death in order to escape further unpleasantness.

That's what one gets for trying to be a high-brow. The high-brow books are all wrong. The U. S. isn't worried at all. It is quite cheerful and hopeful. Why, on the street, even now you can still hear an occasional citizen whistling, "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer." That was the very cheerful theme song of last Christmas, all about poor little Rudolph who had a miserable frustrated childhood, but finally rose to fame and full stature. Rudolph dramatizes the new look in American books as well as American psychology.

Three years ago the most popular books were the psychiatric type, the novel about the South, and the book of occupational therapy. Actually they all showed one thing: that the U. S. was too sick to know it was sick.

Today the U. S. has gone soft. In 1949 for the first time in recorded American history, non-fiction outsold fiction. Non-fiction, then, and non-fiction about the South is on the best seller list.

Our books show a different story now. We have not only let go, but have made a comeback emotionally, morally and economically. We are hopeful, aware, to some extent preoccupied with public and private morality and ways to improve both. Modern literature urges people to go to church, to get peace of mind by making themselves part of the peaceful atmosphere that any church provides. Our books have made a comeback emotionally, morally, and perhaps economically. We are hopeful, aware, to some extent preoccupied with public and private morality and ways to improve both. — Condensed from Wilson Library Bulletin.

SHOES AND SHIPS AND SEALING WAX

For sheer flight of fancy and diversity of choice, the Crowell High School Library gives you the readers' choice of bookmarks. An objective consideration of bookmarks would probably result in the conclusion that all such objects would fall in a more or less uniform category, determined by size, shape and suitability for the purpose. Originality is the reader's keynote in selecting, or rather plucking at random with eyes tightly closed, some completely incongruous items with which to mark his "place."

The type of book sometimes determines the marker. In a nostalgic, sentimental volume, one may expect and discover wadded handkerchiefs and exhausted Kleenex. The nervous reader leaves cigarettes, fortunately unsmoked. Sticks of gum, happily also intact, make neat, unobtrusive clues to the chapters next to be read. Matches, both burned and unburned, dent many a printed page.

The state of the union is sometimes a determining factor in this fascinating study. During the war years, war saving stamps, in ones and clusters, rustled down from the shaken volume. The time of the month is also conducive to a certain type of marker. During the early part of the month, bills are thrust, or maybe hidden, between the leaves. Also to be discovered at these periods of financial stress are "lay-aways" books, receipts of all descriptions — rent, al, automobile, department store, fuel, grocery, dancing lesson, electric, telephone and all other creditable articles and utilities.

Counting cards, approximately chosen according to the pending holiday, are inevitable, and many a sentimental or amusing verse has enlivened the desk attendant's day.

Pine are most popular, no partiality being shown to straight, safety, hair or bobby. One reader, interrupted — in midsentence, it is hoped — abandoned his horn-rimmed spectacles between the lines. Two items, which defy explanation are a small bubble blower and a piece of sponge. Of course, theories are hazarded. A lock of hair once found in a book started a whole train of interesting events — but that's another story.

Enough letters have been found to justify an extracurricular file. These range from strictly business to perfumed pinks and blues. It is to the credit of the understanding librarian that she either calls the correspondent, if possible, or stores the letter away in the lost-and-found drawer (tenderly, in the case of pastels). Said drawer is the depository for all unexpected bookmarks, if the owner cannot be reached. That is, except in the case of the burned match, which could hardly have even a sentimental value for its erstwhile user. There is some hesitancy in mailing a letter, even when it is stamped. There is a certain element of finality in dropping an envelope in the mail box, and one likes to have positive authorization. The discreet librarian, realizing possible consequences, prefers to await notification by the writer.

Tickets are popular among the entertainment-seeking readers. One rather pathetic marker is the alphabet card of the type used by the deaf and the blind in their door-to-door appeals.

Some purely feminine notes are the combs — many toothless — ribbons, hair nets, samples and pieces of material, and on one occasion a shoe buttoner. One very domestic reader left, as a token of her literary pursuits, a Mason jar canning rubber!

Photographers — ah, photographs! — provide a veritable gallery, from rogue to grandma and bathing beauty. The subjects range from family groups to draped poses sentimentally inscribed. The librarian peers at these quizzically, understandingly, or incredulously, as the view demands.

There have been discoveries of currency of large and small denomination, in some libraries. No treasure hunts enrich this particular library — possibly a ratio of one dollar bill to twenty-five years. Our readers are too canny or too poor. But, after all, even a twenty-dollar bill would be prosaic in comparison with the exotic objects which are found. Each sensitive librarian must experience a quiver of anticipation as she thumbs through a book to unearth foreign objects. However, these little ventures into the unknown and into the lives of others afford interest, amusement, and even wide-eyed awe.

As a climactic note, it must be added that there is a rumor in this library to the effect that once in a tomb of historical significance was found, nestling cozily midst the grandeur that was Rome, a totally inscrutable and somewhat frayed piece of bacon, fried, an offering to ancient gods, perhaps. Bookmarks — the readers' legacies to the librarian. But why don't readers finish their books? — With apologies to Wilson Library Bulletin.

LAST WEEK FOR BIRTHDAY CALENDAR SALES

Attention, everyone! This is the last week you'll have to put your names and ads on our 1950 FHA Birthday Calendars. Sales end Friday, November 10, so act now! There will be FHA girls around, so give them your names.

THAT VITAMIN!

Everyone knows how important it was to us to learn the ABC's in the first grade. Well, there are some ABC's that are just as important, especially to the good health of everyone, and that is the ABC vitamin alphabet. Of course, you naturally start with vitamin A, and consequently, it is very important.

Vitamin A is like the film in a camera. It photographs what you see but in the photographing it is used up. If you wish to take more pictures you must have more film. So, if you wish to see immediately after Vitamin A is destroyed, more Vitamin A must be supplied. If you do not see well when you first enter a dark room, then eat more yellow fruits and green vegetables containing high amounts of Vitamin A. Here are some words of wisdom.

Drivers who smash their cars at night are often those who don't eat right!

Some characteristics of the lack of vitamin A are dryness of the skin, noticeable whiteheads, blackheads, pimples and brittle nails and; for glowing skin and glossy hair, eat vitamin A enough to spare. Vitamin A can be a true friend indeed on these chilly days by helping prevent many colds, so, for curly hair and sparkling eyes, get plenty of Vitamin A, you girls and guys!

Cattle Grubs Are Expensive Parasites

The damage caused by cattle grubs each year in Texas exceeds $20 million. Beef cattle producers and dairymen can do something about these losses and this is the time of the year when control measures must be used. According to Joe Burkett, County Agent, the cattle grub has a rather complicated life cycle. The heel fly which is the adult of the cattle grub emerges in the early spring. They lay eggs on the hair about the dew claws of cattle. The eggs hatch in a short time and the young grubs enter the skin then tunnel through the connective tissues of the animal's body until they reach the gullet of the animal. After spending some time in the gullet, the grubs move again through the animal tissues up to the back of the animal and here they cut a hole through the skin and form a cyst.

The grubs move into the back of the animal late in the fall, from September to December and after about 30 days, completes its development, emerges and drops to the ground. The grub enters the ground where it undergoes the change from a grub to the heel fly. The only time, says Burkett, that effective control measures can be used is while the grubs are in the animal's back and rotenone is the only insecticide that is effective. For the small herd owner, the deceased, late of Foard County, Texas, by the Honorable Leslie Thomas, Judge of the County Court of Foard County, Texas, on the 9th day of October, A. D. 1950, hereby notifies all persons indebted to said estate to come forward and make settlement, and those having claims against said estate to present them to him within the time prescribed by law at the office of Foster Davis, Attorney at Law, Crowell, Texas. NORMAN GRAY, Executor of the Estate of Margaret Haywood Killen, Deceased. 15-4tc dust method of application will probably prove to be the most practical. A five percent dust should be used. The back of the animals should be scrubbed with a stiff brush to knock off the scabs that cover the grub cysts. Dust the powder over the animal's back and rub it in so the dust will get into the grub holes. Treatment should begin about two or three weeks after the first grubs appear and Burkett says to repeat the treatments three times at intervals of three weeks. For the large herds, dipping or spraying is the most practical method to use in applying the rotenone. The dip or spray should contain seven and one-half pounds of five per cent rotenone for each 100 gallons of water. Burkett says if you spray the cattle, use a cattle chute. The sprayer should deliver at least 200 pounds of pressure and the nozzle should be held within four inches of the animal's back. You should use approximately one gallon of spray per animal.

Regardless of whether the dipping or spraying method is used, three treatments should be used at three-week intervals. Controlling the grubs now will break the life cycle of the parasite and thus eliminate the egg laying heel flies next spring. The annual loss can be reduced and livestock producers will profit from marketing grub-free cattle.

Regulations That Affect Fishing in Texas Amended

Austin, October 29 — Two regulations affecting fishing in Texas were recently amended at the last regular monthly meeting of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, according to the Executive Secretary of the Commission. The first of these regulations affects the taking of minnows from waters in the Panhandle area. Under the amended regulation not more than 1,000 minnows may be taken or possessed at any one time by any one person from the waters of the following counties: Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray, Farmer, Wheeler, Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Donley, Collingsworth, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hall, Childress, Cottle and Motley.

This regulation, prior to amendment provided that not more than 200 minnows could be in the possession of any one person at any one time.

The second change in regulations acted upon by the Game Commission affects the North Bosque River below the Waco Dam to where the Bosque River flows into the Brazos River. All nets and seines, other than the 20 foot minnow seine and fur jar type trap for taking minnows for bait, are prohibited in this two mile stretch of the Bosque River. The executive secretary announces that these new regulations go into effect November 10.

FACTS ABOUT BUSINESS

A short time ago 140 Chicago teachers were taken on a tour of the oil industry's research and refining facilities in that region. They were addressed at luncheon by the head of a large oil company who said: "Business has done too little to give the teacher the tremendous changes that have been going on in the economic world. . . . We need to hold in this country thousands upon thousands of meetings like this, in which representatives of industry can show and tell school men what is going on in the laboratories, the industrial plants, the business offices, and the warehouses, and then discuss with them all the questions that are bound to arise."

Here is a way in which, by showing teachers what is going on in typical businesses, young people can be better prepared to enter the industrial world after their schooling ends. It is also a way to help end grave misconceptions concerning business. In the case of the oil industry, many people apparently still believe that it is monopolized by a few companies, that it earns inordinately large profits for its stockholders, that no one can enter it with hope of success today, and so on. The truth is that it is intensely competitive, that it is made up of many thousands of individual businesses of all sizes, and that people continually enter one phase or another of it and do well.

All business owes an obligation to the young, and those who teach them, to make the facts about its operations widely available.

Cotton Export Quota Should Be Raised, Says Senator Johnson

Washington, Oct. 28 (Spl. — The cotton export quota should be raised by several hundred thousand bales, Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas told the Department of Agriculture this week.

Senator Johnson acted after the Munitions Board advised him that 700,000 bales should be enough to take care of military needs during fiscal 1951.

The Department of Agriculture had set up 1,500,000 bales for military use, an estimate which Senator Johnson called "guesswork" which resulted from the failure of the Munitions Board to state its needs.

It was prodded by Senator Johnson, who is chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, that brought the 700,000 bale estimate from Roscoe Seybold, acting chairman of the Munitions Board.

Senator Johnson immediately called on Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan to raise the export quota considerably above the present figure of 2,000,000 bales.

"While everybody wants to see that we have plenty of cotton on hand for military and domestic needs," Senator Johnson said, "we must also see that the cotton farmers are not put at the mercy of speculators by the hoarding of cotton which is not needed for this nation's requirements."

FIGHT FIRE EVERY WEEK

A short time ago, the 1950 observance of Fire Prevention Week took place. It is officially over. But, if Americans are at all interested in the health and welfare of themselves and their families, they will make every week a fire prevention week.

Safety from fire — whether in the home, on a farm, or in an industrial plant — can only be achieved by continuous, day-in-and-day-out work. That doesn't mean it's a hard job. It isn't. For the most part, it's easy. But it is a job which can never be neglected if we wish to avoid possible disaster.

The home which is safe today can be extremely dangerous tomorrow. An electric wire becomes frayed — a stove or a heating plant goes out of adjustment — someone is careless with cigarettes — flammable materials are carelessly stored in closets and attics — explosive liquids and oil-soaked rags are placed where the touch of a spark would set them ablaze. It is "little things" such as these that are responsible for the majority of fires. And it is these "little things" which we must look out for—not during one week, but every week of the year.

The nation's fire loss continues at disgracefully high levels. Far worse is the fact that, each year, fire claims something like 10,000 lives — many of them infants and children. Many thousands more are permanently maimed and disabled. This is the price we pay for our carelessness and ignorance. This is the grave problem which the annual fire prevention weeks are designed to help us solve. We can do it, if we only have the will. —Industrial News Review.

No doubt everyone has noticed the unity and teamwork of our wonderful football team while it is playing. If they stick to that policy through the Olney game, we should be victorious.

Beat Olney!

Old man winter has finally made his appearance, but is he here to stay? It seems as though the fairer sex is bound and determined to have it get cold, for you hear practically all of them saying, "I wish it would get cold so I can wear my new winter clothes." Sounds just like a girl, doesn't it, fellas?

Beat Olney!

Were all of you satisfied with your three weeks test grades? Make a resolution, won't you, to do better next time.

Beat Olney!

The subject of the week is the

Olney game. When asked his opinion, one of the co-captains stated, "We can win this game if we can stop Alexander, Schmidt, and nine more Cubs."

Beat Olney!

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

This week's player of the week features one of the sharpest defensive men in the district, to say nothing of his ball carrying ability.

As you probably know by now, it's Buster Laquey, who knocked down passes and "busted" those Burk Burnett ball carriers so hard that the fans could almost feel it.

This is Buster's second year on the Wildcat squad and he is a senior in CHS.

Black-haired, brown-eyed Buster is called "Butch" by his friends. The Wildcats are fortunate to have this speedy half-back who hails from Truscott.

WILDCAT WHISPERS

Whispering around: Seen at the show in Vernon were Bobbie and Jon, Geraldine and Gordon Wood — Myra Self and ex-senior Rouse Todd made a cute couple at the A&M football game and dance — Wanted: a date with Jimmy Raspberry. For further information, see any girl around CHS — Hard to get: Gordon Wood Bell. Need we hint any more, Bubba?

Couples we'd like to see together: Posey, Kildee; Mildred, Harold; Carolyn, Ginger; Marcia, Jimmy Woods; and Mary Woods and Billy Abston. Couple of the week: Jean Hughston and Jim Paul Norman. Martin (Cassanova) Langham makes eyes at all the girls. Hint, Hint!

Question of the week: Why doesn't Virginia Tamplen break down and give some boy a date? (Pd. Adv.)

Peeping around the corners, we see Hack, Margaret; Noma Kelly, V. W., Betty Fern, Buster.

When timidity and-or fear seemed to restrain volunteers for roles in casting a play production for Mrs. Todd's speech class, she remarked, "I seem to have put the fear of Todd into all of you." (That's no joke, son.)

Seems that Crowell girls aren't so bad after all, because some boys from Quanah were over here Sunday.

A few of the freshman girls found out that Mentholatum between crackers aren't so terrible.

Mary Werley had a date Friday night with a boy from Vernon.

Betty Fern, Iris, Posey, Ann and Maurine had a laughable time at Mary Alice's slumber party Friday.

It has been reported that a Herman Hostas seems to have an interest in a Mary Matus. Blame him!

Faye Black was seen with Billy Johnson Saturday night. What about this, Jean?

Freshman cuties Clovonne McKown, Jean Whitby, Shirley Weh-

ba and Carolyn Bell are just as sweet as they are pretty, if that is possible.

Neva Potts is all smiles while Joe Harris is home.

Mary Alice was seen with Jimmy Raspberry and Charles Wishon Saturday night.

Put scandal in locker 77.

Guess that's 'bout all for now. If you'd like to know who and what we see around the campus this week, read the paper next week!

Decorations carrying out the Halloween motif were used in the home. The dining table was decorated with candles and Jack-o-lanterns. Cakes, sandwiches and cookies were served.

Enjoying an evening of dancing and also a scavenger hunt were the following: Buddy Hardin, Max Hardin, Buddy Caddell, Billy Caddell, Elba Caddell, Patsy Owens, Peggy Traweck, Wayne Brown, Nora Davidson, Mary Lou Woods, Jimmy Jones, Joe Jones, Melba Coker, Faye Black, Nettie Black, Norma Jones, Walter Caddell and Jimmy Woods.

Are Our Texas Highways Being Destroyed by 1% of Highway Users?

This question is presented squarely for the first time by the Texas Tax Journal in its booklet, "The Case of the One Per Centers."

Every Texan who wants good highways, adequate for 99 of every 100 users, should write for a free copy of this revealing booklet.

Approximately 99% of all Texas motor vehicles are registered for a gross weight of 20,000 pounds or less.*

All Texas taxpayers, including your Texas Railroads, have reason to be concerned about the high cost of constructing and repairing our highways and the prospect of building more costly roads made necessary by the operation of highway "box cars."

No one has any desire to bar vehicles of reasonable size from our highways, so long as each pays its fair share of construction and repair costs.

Other Texas taxpayers should not be required to shoulder the burden of a roadway system for highway "box cars", representing only 1% of highway users.

Every Texan interested in good highways without increasing the growing tax burden should fill out the coupon below and get a copy of this valuable booklet.

Marriage Rites Read for Miss Laquey and Lt. Lohman

A recent wedding of interest was that of Miss Shelba Montez Laquey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laquey of Truscott, and Lt. j.g. Curtis Lee Lohman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lohman of Henrietta.

The vows were exchanged before an altar banked with white gladioli and carnations, in the Southside Baptist Church in Wichita Falls. Lemon leaves and fern decorated the altar rail. Lighted tapers in floor candelabra illuminated the wedding scene.

Preceding the impressive double ring ceremony, the organist played "Because" and used Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" to announce the entrance of the wedding party.

Miss Ann Haynie of Truscott, who was bridesmaid, wore a lovely gown of blush satin under lace. The maid of honor, Miss Martha Ohr, also of Truscott, wore a similarly-styled gown of white organza over apple green faille. Both carried nosegays of pink and bronze daisies and wore haloes of the same flowers in their hair.

The groom was attended by Lon Laquey, brother of the bride, as best man.

The bride's mother wore a navy gabardine suit with gray accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a black crepe dress and a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite gown of white satin and Chantilly lace. The yoke of lace formed a dainty cape to the shoulders where it ended in a fall of gathered lace. The satin basque featured a deep point at the front and back to join the formal skirt which swept into a cathedral train. The bridal veil, borrowed from Mrs. Q. D. Williams of Truscott, was of French illusion, gathered at each side to a tiny Juliet cap of white silk shot with narrow gold threads. For something blue, she wore a dainty blue garter and for something old and something new were her white Bible topped with an orchid which she carried for the wedding.

Following the ceremony a brief reception was held in the church parlors. For the wedding trip to Fort Worth, the bride wore a navy blue wool suit with white blouse and gloves with hat of red velvet.

COLUMBIAN CLUB

The Columbian Club met in regular session in the home of Mrs. Crews Cooper on Wednesday, Nov. 1st.

The program was in keeping with National American Art Week endorsed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. R. L. Kincaid was lesson leader for the day. Mrs. Grady Halbert, after a general discussion of "Art Education for Daily Living," confined her remarks to "Art in Painting" and "Art in Poetry." She read a number of poems, among which were "The Stay-at-Home" by Grace Noll Crowell, "Traveler" by Lexie Dean Roberson, "Give Thanks" by Margaret Belle Houston.

An exhibit of antiques provoked much comment as each member answered roll-call with "My Exhibit."

The hostess served seasonal refreshment plate of sandwiches, pumpkin pie and hot tea.

Miss Bartley Is Honored with Pre-Nuptial Shower

Miss Myrtle Bartley, bride-elect of Travis Vecera, was named honoree on Tuesday, Nov. 8, at a bridal shower given at the Adolphian Club House with Mesdames E. W. Kidd, W. C. Thompson, Alyene Graham and Joe Roper and Misses Betty Brock and Betty Barker as joint hostesses.

Greeted at the door by Mrs. Thompson, the guests entered a room gayly decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and were received by Miss Bartley, Mrs. C. S. Bartley, her mother, and Mrs. Tom Vecera, mother of the groom-elect. All wore corsages of yellow mums.

Mrs. Jimmy Johnson presided at the bride's book and directed the guests into a candle-lighted room where they were served dainty cookies, mints and punch by Mrs. Roper and Miss Brock. The table, laid with a lace cloth, was centered with a styrofoam heart outlined with yellow chrysanthemums. Wide satin streamers on which was imprinted, "Myrtle-Travis" extended from the heart. Yellow and white, the bride-elect's chosen colors, predominated throughout the decorations.

The many bridal gifts were displayed in the gift room. Incidental piano games were played during the reception hours by Miss Barker.

Guest Evening Is Held by Alpha Club

Gentlemen's and Junior Club evening was observed on Thursday, Nov. 2, at 7 o'clock by the Alpha Club of Truscott at the Community House with Mrs. Elmo Todd as hostess.

Attractive tables decorated with colored candles were arranged in the main hall where a delicious barbecue supper was served.

Following the supper, cafeteria style, a social hour was enjoyed with piano games of "42" as the diversion. The Junior Club enjoyed a square dance.

On Nov. 16 the Club will meet in the home of Mrs. Van Brown, at which time Mrs. Seth Woods will be hostess.

BAPTIST W. M. S.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church met at the church on Monday afternoon for a regular meeting. Following the devotional, the rest of the hour was devoted to business.

Twelve members and one visitor were present for the meeting. On next Monday, Nov. 13, the WMS will meet with Mrs. Henry Edgin for a Royal Service program. A large attendance is urged.

Mrs. W. S. Simmonds was the Health and Study program leader. "A Chant and Symbols" was presented in drama style by Mrs. Moody Bursey, Mrs. Fred Carr, Mrs. J. C. Prosser and Mrs. Bill Bell.

Mrs. Bursey, in an interesting way, concluded the book, "Near East Panorama." The study was closed by a splendid resume of the book, "Islam," by J. Christy Wilson, presented by the study leader, Mrs. Doyle Kenner.

A donation resulted from the study of "Near East Panorama" and will be sent to Lucie Harrison Girls' School of Lahore, Pakistan, India.

Mrs. Hill and Mrs. R. G. Raspberry served a delicious refreshment plate to seventeen members.

Your Health . . . Heart Trouble Tops List

Much is being said today about heart disease. Present day literature on heart incoordinations tends to make the reader think of the heart as an organ functioning independently of all other organs of the body. The heart, like all other organs and tissues, has a particular job to do to keep the body running smoothly and in perfect coordination or health.

The heart is able to beat fast or slow, pump more blood or less blood, or in other words, is able to meet the demands of the body when functioning normally. How does the heart know when to pump more blood? Does the heart have a brain? The obvious answer is no. The heart, like all other organs, is connected to the brain by an intricate nervous system. The brain is the coordinating center for all body function. The brain, in its coordinating work, utilizes nerve impulses or force which is sent over nerves via the spinal cord to the heart and all other organs.

As long as the necessary amount of nerve force gets to the heart, the heart is coordinated or functions normally. When a blockage to the normal amount of nerve force flow occurs, the heart becomes incoordinated and function is abnormal.

Your chiropractor with his specialized training and scientific equipment can locate and remove the interference to the normal amount of nerve force flow between brain and heart, thereby allowing that life force through to correct the incoordination of the heart.

If you are suffering from a heart incoordination, see your local chiropractor.
