One of West's Most Famous Rodeos Held in Town of 1,500

Sidney, Ia. — Jingling spurs and drumming hoofbeats are providing musical accompaniment for the contented grunts of Iowa hogs.

Iowa has long been famed as the tall corn state. Its fame as a center of top rodeo entertainment is more recent. Nevertheless, it has grown to the point where a great many Americans think of Iowa in terms of sweating broncos instead of golden ears of hybrid.

One of the state's most famous rodeos is held annually at Sidney, a community of about 1,500 people. Sidney's rodeo is unique in two respects. It is the only rodeo in the world which owns the horse stock in the show, and there are more performances offered (10) than in any other outdoor rodeo.

For 1952 there are already eight Iowa rodeos on the Rodeo Cowboys association approved list. This is one more than 1951. And in case you weren't aware, the Rodeo Cowboys association is to rodeodom what the PGA is to golfing.

Founding of the Sidney rodeo opened the door for an entirely new Iowa industry. From publisher of a small weekly newspaper, J. C. Howe owner of the Argus printing company at Sidney, became the Lord Beaverbrook of the chuck wagon circuit.

It happened this way. When the American Legion, which sponsors the Sidney rodeo, planned its first show 28 years ago, Howe was retained to print programs and advertising posters.

Other contracts followed, first from Iowa rodeos, later from rodeos all over the country.

10 FIRES IN 3 DAYS

Danville, Ky. — The family of John Gibson had ten minor mysterious fires in their home in three days. The first was in a baby bed and, after that, flames began popping up in such places as on tables and chairs. A pair of curtains blazed up and another fire was found in a back shed. The Fire Department was called only once, however.

Belgium and the Netherlands

were separated by treaties signed in 1839.

There are only four perceptible tastes, sweet, salt, bitter and sour.

EXTENSION Town, Rural Folks Honor Farm Service

Flemington, N. Y. — Rural Hunterdon county folk and their guests from town, more than 400, cut a birthday cake recently to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the extension service in the county. The occasion also served to spotlight the 40th anniversary of the establishment of extension in the state of New Jersey.

Extension, called the largest out-of-school educational agency and now existing in every state in the country, came to New Jersey in 1912. But it was an exciting and dramatic event in Flemington in 1927 because a good many Hunterdon farmers had resisted efforts of leaders among them to establish the "new" idea. The subject had been debated hotly for a half dozen years before.

Book Farming
During those debates—both formal and cracker barrel style—it was clear that the educational service symbolized a yielding of traditional ways to "book farming." Several feared they would be bossed around by an unshaven youth fresh from college.

The 15 years since have proved how wrong they were. Today impartial observers rate Hunterdon among the most progressive rural counties in the United States.

Opposition began to fade away as Edward A. Gauntt, first county agent, something of a diplomat as well as a good teacher, established the pipe lines through which latest scientific information was taken to farmers. The reservoir at the other end of the line was Rutgers University, headquarters of the extension service and site of the agricultural experiment station, established many years before.

At present there are 68 agricultural, home and club agents at work in 20 New Jersey counties. In a typical year these agents speak at 10,000 meetings with a total attendance of well over a half million.

In a typical year they answer 125,000 telephone calls, receive 50,000 visitors, and distribute 270,000 bulletins. They make farm and home visits, write for newspapers, and make radio broadcasts.

Progress Is Theme
Dr. William H. Martin, dean of the College of Agriculture, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and of the Extension Service, was the main speaker at the Hunterdon anniversary dinner.

The theme of the evening was progress. And Flemington and Hunterdon county folk feel that they have more than made up in 17 years any time they may have lost in their seeming indifference to new ideas back in 1927.

And it is like that in many home towns across the nation today where extension service is comparatively young.

New Industry Town Celebrates

Arkadelphia, Ark. — The town of Arkadelphia held a wild celebration recently when it was learned the Reynolds Metal Company planned to construct a $30,000,000 plant near the community.

The news was made official during a noon hour. The first siren went wild. Folks down town let

Rip and Tuck Former Name of Small Town

Everett, W. Va. — The 200 residents of Everett have a feud with the United States Post Office department. It's all over the name of their town.

To the inhabitants the community is known as "Rip and Tuck." That was the official name until a few years ago when a group of residents petitioned the post master general for the change to Everett. The situation remains static. The natives calling the town Rip and Tuck and the Post Office calling it Everett.

The older residents have two main theories about how the little community originally got its name. One says that after a flood around 1900, an old man described the rampage of the local creek thus: "The creek came-a-rippin' and a-tuckin' down through this here valley."

However, a more fanciful explanation concerns two well-known old maids, one tall and the other short, who once lived here. It is said they had only one good dress between them. When the tall one wanted to wear it, the hem had to be ripped out. When the short one used it, the hem was tuckd up.

Charles Darwin is credited with the theory of "the survival of the fittest."

A starfish will grow another point if one is cut off.

WAS $6.25

NOW $1.37

It's getting to be a rare day when you see a real, genuine bargain advertised. In these days of planned economy everything seems to be included in the plans except economy.

But we have here an honest-to-Pete bargain to tell you about. It's a bargain because it's much more useful than it once was, and costs much less than it used to.

It's the television set.

In 1948 our 10-inch screen set cost $6.25 per square inch of picture. Today, our 20-inch set costs only about $1.37 per square inch, and gives you a much finer picture almost four times the size.

So, you see, with all the forces of inflation, a counterforce has been quietly at work. Research and engineering are steadily plugging along — improving products — making them do more, cost less, and last longer.

At least, that's the way it is at General Electric.

Sure, it's smart to look at the price tag. But it's also smart to look beyond . . . to the performance of the product and the name of the maker. The best possible products at the lowest possible prices — that's G.E.'s idea of good business.

You can put your confidence in —

SAFE DRIVING

Safe driving starts with safe equipment. Fifty-five thousand vehicles involved in accidents in the United States last year had defects of some kind—defective brakes, glaring headlights, no headlights or no tail lights. Check your car and check accidents. The Texas Department of Public Safety urges you to help make our streets and highways safe.

"Shot Rods"

A new phrase has been added to the motoring lexicon. "Shot rods." The term was invented by the hot-rodders, young car enthusiasts who are proud of their rebuilt and fancied-up vehicles. A "shot rod," according to advice from the West Coast, is a clanking piece of junk driven without regard to the rights of other motorists on the highway.

The genuine "rodder" who has souped-up his vehicle with extra pots and blowers—carburetors and superchargers to the uninitiated—and custom-built the body nearer to his heart's desire, hates to have his type confused with the reckless teen-agers who do dangerous stunts on streets and highways in the family car or a beat-up jalopy.

Tests of speed and acceleration of the rods are made off the highway, on "drag strips," dry lake beds, or the banner event of the year, on the Utah Bonneville salt

Take Precautions Before Leaving on Vacation Trip

Austin, June 27—Take a few precautions before you leave home on that summer vacation trip and you'll have a better time while you're away, and when you get back, too. That's the advice of Paul R. Kulp, manager of the Texas Division of the American Automobile Association.

"Too many holidays have been ruined," the AAA official warned, "by the haunting fears that the gas was left burning, the electric fan or iron connected or the cat locked up in the house."

Kulp listed these items as worth checking and double checking before setting out from home:

1. Notify the milkman and newspaper delivery boy to discontinue service. In fact, take every precaution possible to make sure there are no papers or circulars stacked in front of your door—that's a sure sign to burglars the coast is clear. Advise one of your neighbors you'll be away and ask them to check your door regularly.

2. Check your water faucets and gas stove to make sure they're turned off. Make sure all your electrical equipment, irons and stoves are disconnected.

3. See that your pet dog, cat or canary is well boarded for the summer.

You can make your trip additionally pleasant, Kulp points out, by planning well in advance, traveling as light as you can, and preparing a family travel budget.

Health Letter

Texas State Department of Health, Austin, Texas, Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer.

Bacteria grow more readily in warm weather and this increases the danger of food poisoning, warns Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Since modern refrigeration public health has improved. However, cases of food poisoning do occur, in spite of flats.

One approach to the teen-age accident problem is for civic leaders and interested groups to work with the hot-rod fans in providing adequate off-the-street testing grounds where they can give their rods a workout.

the more healthful measures of storing food.

Sickness from food poisoning usually strikes quickly and explosively, and those who do not eat the infected food escape. Usually in one to four hours after eating contaminated food, victims feel ill. If it is a mild case of poisoning, recovery usually begins in eight to 12 hours, but victims may feel the ill effects for several days.

Another important safeguard to prevent food contamination is that the hands of the person who prepares food be scrupulously clean, and free from cuts and sores of any kind.

Usual symptoms of food poisoning are diarrhea, nausea, vomiting, abdominal cramps, and weakness. Whenever you feel these symptoms, be sure to call your physician. Do not wait, hoping it will wear off; sometimes food poisoning is fatal!

The staphylococcus organism grows best in foods which are slightly fatty, such as fat meats, salads with rich dressings, cream pies, cream puffs, or any food with custard fillings. So if anyone in your family takes his lunch to work during the coming hot months, be careful of the foods you put in the lunch, and don't include any of these foods.

The third largest known caverns are located in Longhorn Cavern State Park, 11 miles southwest of Burnet.

DOVE, DUCK POLL HEAVY

The Executive Secretary of the Game & Fish Commission reported that advocates of "normal" opening dates for mourning doves and waterfowl now dominate the sportsmen's poll.

Earlier totals showed north zone voters seeking a later dove opening than the southern hunters. The last compilation indicated a preponderance favoring the opener for September 1, the same as last year.

South zone hunters generally prefer an earlier opener than the November 15 date of last year.

The favorite waterfowl opening date for north Texas voters is November 1, although 430 preferred October 15 and 374 wanted December 1. The south state voters prefer November 20.

The Commission will study the poll returns in making its hunting season recommendations to "Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. (From the Declaration of Independence now 176 years true).

... and the fight for Freedom must never cease!

Absolutism Government is no respecter of person or place. It can and does raise its ugly, ungodly standard over traditionally free soils as it does over England and the land of the Czars. None of the real, pretended, or promised benefits of Absolutism Government can in the end justify its existence.

The freedoms for which generations of Americans have fought and died are slipping away from us... centralized government and bureaucratic directives are nibbling away at our American heritage.

Freedom is not free—it had to be fought for, and you will have to fight to maintain it. Now is the time for everyone to come out, stand up, be counted, and vote the way he desires to vote, regardless of those who would perpetuate power politics.

Newest Drug Rids Oregon Town of Rats

Halsey, Ore. — Halsey, located about 85 miles south of Portland, once plagued by rats, today hasn't a rodent in the community. It is all due to a new drug called Warfarin.

The village of 400 is a shopping center for surrounding farms, mostly producing grass seeds. And it had six combination seed store-mills which attracted rats. If 181 buildings in Halsey, 147 were infested.

In fact, rats just about had a free swing in town. Twelve of 18 business establishments were infested; the town's four restaurants and grocery stores had rats; all six seed store-mills had many visitors; 106 of the 130 residences were plagued and of 23 other buildings, such as churches and lodge halls, 19 supported rodents.

For this reason the community was chosen for a six-month field test to see if the drug Warfarin would clear out rodents. Warfarin is obtained from a chemical called dicoumarol. It keeps blood from coagulating.

Buffer Strip Set Up

Given to a rat the rodent's small blood vessels start to leak and eventually he dies of internal hemorrhage. Since no nerves are involved, the rat doesn't get the idea he's been poisoned after he has eaten Warfarin. He just becomes weaker and weaker and generally goes back to his burrow to keep warm and then dies.

The Halsey campaign started by making a buffer strip around the town with bait stations under all outside buildings.

Six or seven old barns, out of use, were torn down to reduce nesting places. Rubble was cleaned up; chicken feed was covered. One feed store cleaned out a big blackberry patch which had been a hiding place for the rats.

Milton H. Buehler Jr., the rodent control expert, recalls, "Why, before we started our experiment, you could stand in the door of one feed mill and see the rat runways for a block and a half away. They had worn the grass right down into a path."

After the first 30 days, only one rat was sighted and by late fall no rats or traces were found for several months.

Check System Established

Now that the community is rat conscious, it has set up a watch system. The night watchman checks the buffer strips to see that they are baited. That's to keep out all out-of-town rats. But if anybody hears a rat or sees any traces inside the buffer zone, he notifies one of the town's three grocers or the mayor. Then the night watchman baits the spot.

As a result of the experiment, rat-fighters believe that in Warfarin they have a weapon that can be widely used. It is very effective on rats and mice, but is not too toxic on humans and other animals.

Mr. Buehler reports each rat will do $20 to $30 damage a year and will eat up $3 in feed. He stresses the importance of vigilant control, emphasizing the fecundity of rats. A female rat starts having litters of 6 to 10 young when three and a half to four months old. And if well-fed with good harborage, she will have from six to eight litters yearly.

Hunter and Fisherman at 96 Is Subject of Magazine Article

George Howard Walker of Lufkin, who is an active hunter and fisherman at 96, is the subject of an article—'Tenacious Texan'—in the current issue of Texas Game & Fish magazine.

He is a native Texan and remembers the early day when game was so abundant that there were no seasons or bag limits. He bagged his 26th deer last fall and estimated that:

"All the ducks I have killed couldn't be pulled by a team of horses."

The article states:

"Uncle George, as he is known by everyone around Lufkin, was particularly sharp at hunting wild turkey. His popular box call is considered one of the deadliest in the county."

"You had to call them close," he explained. "Did in my day, because black powder was too expensive to miss. Got them up close, so we could shoot off their heads."

"Uncle George still stays close to nature and spends an occasional night camping out on the Neches river with his fishing partner, his grandson, David Walker, 20."

The elder Howard likes to regale the present generation with descriptions of how he "made 67 crops all between the plow handles" and that he never bought a sack of livestock feed in his life.

He doubts that game ever will be restored to the status when antelope populated the ranges like "waving grass" but he thinks present restoration work will be effective and that there will always be something to hunt.

GETS 14th DIVORCE

Seattle, Wash. — After getting his fourteenth divorce, James E. Daniels, 29-year-old trucking operator, said, "never again," but court attendants say he didn't sound too positive. Nine of his wives were brunettes, two blondes and three redheads. His first marriage was at 18.

More Acres of Grain Feed Crops Needed

The State Agricultural Mobilization Committee last week discussed the problem of getting more acres of feed grains planted. The situation was pointed up by figures recently released by the Crop Reporting Board of the USDA's Bureau of Agriculture Economics. These figures indicate that farmers' tentative planting plans for the nation will fall about nine million acres short of the 1952 goals for the principal feed grain crops. It was indicated that corn plantings alone would be more than five million acres below the goal level.

B. F. Vance, chairman of the State Committee, pointed out that Texas farmers have indicated they will plant about 92 per cent of the state's corn goal and only about 83 per cent of the grain sorghum goal.

In view of the large number of livestock and poultry on the farms and ranches of the state and nation, Vance said such curtailments in feed grain production pose a real problem in maintaining these herds and flocks. Information received by the committee on the national situation points out that with current feeding rates and last season's short production, feed grain may be as much as one-third less by harvest time than one year ago. If the presently indicated corn acreage produces average yields, the reserve above normal working stocks could be virtually exhausted during the next 18 months.

Without plentiful supplies of feed grains, it will not be possible to maintain the production of meat, eggs and milk that will be needed by our increasing population, says the committee. They urge farmers to re-examine their planting schedules and where possible, make every effort to increase materially their plantings of feed grain crops. The committee fully realizes the seriousness of the drought situation in Texas but at the same time suggests that farmers obtain planting seed or at least line up prospective seed supplies of grain crops for immediate planting should rains come.

They also urge farmers to use the best known methods of production in order to save time and labor. The farm labor situation is expected to be tight especially during the harvest season. This is an item that farmers should consider before all planting is completed. Crops that can be machine produced and harvested may prove to be more profitable than those requiring lots of hand labor, believe the committee members. And they add, price supports have been announced for corn and grain sorghums.

They urge farmers who live in areas where fertilizers can be used

Health Letter

Texas State Department of Health, Austin, Texas, Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer

On July 4, 1952, Texans will celebrate the one hundred and seventy-sixth anniversary of our National Independence.

Thousands of persons in Texas will enjoy this national holiday, and it is up to all of us to do everything possible to see that today brings pleasure and not tragedy, says a warning from the State Department of Health.

"While there certainly is no desire to minimize the joys of this nation-wide holiday," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, "it is only common sense to respect hazards to life and limb, and to govern one's actions accordingly."

"Not so many years ago the newspapers on each July 5, would publish columns detailing the tragedies that were invariably associated with the handling of dangerous fireworks by careless persons. For a number of years now, however, the press has been placing particular emphasis on the need for a 'Safe and Sane Fourth of July,' with the result that accidents of this kind have decreased."

"All injuries, however slight, may carry the lock-jaw or tetanus menace with them. Every wound should be cleaned thoroughly and all foreign matter removed. A physician should be consulted immediately, and tetanus antitoxin administered if necessary."

"Unfortunately, while the hazard of handling fireworks has consistently diminished, that of the automobile has just as consistently been increasing. Every one will agree that to be careless in the operation of a motor vehicle on this day when the roads carry peak loads, is to invite possible injury and even death."

"Your future happiness and health and that of your family may depend on your recognizing and carrying out the ordinary rules of precaution. Obey these rules and live to enjoy many other fourths of July."

Mutual Tornado Insurance Association

show that for every house wrecked by windstorms, more than 100 barns and other out-buildings are toppled and piled into smashed heaps of lumber.

It is next to impossible to build against tornado damage. It is feasible, however, to construct and maintain farm out-buildings against possible windstorm destruction. Properly anchored and braced, any building regardless of size will withstand not only wind pressure but the equally destructive suction on the lee side of the wind's force.

Human carelessness plays a large part in small damage losses. As examples, small articles left lying near buildings where they can be blown into it, and failure to remove old and weak trees which might fall on a barn or other structure.

Paying Up Back Taxes

Victor Green, newspaper publisher, has worked out a new way to pay up back taxes. The Internal Revenue Bureau at Indianapolis had demanded about $9,000 in back taxes. He was unable to get a regular bank loan.

Front page headlines from each of five weekly newspapers in Indiana sent out a plea for help. Articles outlined a plan to borrow from each subscriber $1 in return to give that subscriber $1.10 in trade.

Here is what the newspaper articles said: "In the next few days you, the readers, will say whether you think your community paper is worth enough in service given in the past and in the future to lend that paper $1."

The response has been good with people within a 100 mile radius sending from $1 to $50 to help this weekly newspaper publisher meet an unforeseen obligation. This willingness and eagerness to help save the weekly testifies to the importance to a community of a weekly newspaper and the good job that these respective weeklies are apparently doing in serving the people of their communities.

Pennsylvania Town to Hunt for Industry

Barnesboro, Pa. — The community of Barnesboro — population 4,000 — is in the market for a new industry. With this in mind, the community's Civic Improvement Association and the industrial committee of the Business Men's Association have joined forces.

The business men have been seeking a new male-employing industry for Barnesboro for some time. They have contracts with firms in New York, Pittsburgh and Connecticut which are promising.

The businessmen also hope that contact was being made with a factory locating service and detailed information on Barnesboro as a prospective factory site was being forwarded to the firms.

They have purchased two suitable for the construction of communal factory and have $40,000 in pledges toward construction.

Here again is evidence of a small town seeking to improve its economic picture by communal enterprise.

FISH COSTS LIFE

Chouteau, Okla. — Roy Young, 60, was fishing with companions in the Grand River. A fish pulled Young's pole for his hands. Young dived to retrieve it and went under. His companions pulled him out about 50 yards downstream. He took him to a hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Allan Shivers Making 15-Day Campaign in Many Texas Cities

Austin, July 3 (Spl.)—Allan Shivers took off his formal governor's coat this week to hit the hot July Texas campaign trails for 15 days of intensive travel before he leaves for the national Democratic Convention in Chicago the week of July 20.

Shivers' jammed-packed campaign tour will take him over much of Texas—from small communities like Dime Box in Lee County to metropolitan communities of Houston and San Antonio.

His tour will start on July 4 following a busy week at the national governors' conference at Houston, where Shivers participated with 46 other governors in mapping out programs for continued improvements in state hospitals and schools, betterment of prison systems, highways, farm-to-market roads and educational systems.

Shivers, who has always spent much of his time visiting with the people and listening to their ideas for the betterment of state government, will hit the general areas of Stamford, Abilene, El Paso, Texarkana, Paris, Tyler, Waco, Corsicana, Mexia, Hillsboro, Temple, Brownfield, Lubbock, Lamesa, San Angelo, Odessa, Midland, Kermit, San Antonio, Houston, Baytown, Beaumont and Port Arthur from July 4 to July 17.

During the past several weeks the governor has been speaking and working more on precinct meetings than on his own campaign, devoting a great deal of time meeting in various communities with precinct workers who took the lead in May to assure Texas of an unopposed delegation to the National Democratic convention.

Shivers pointed out in connection with his campaign tour that he has responded to the invitations of the people to visit in their communities during the campaign, as best he could, considering the brevity of the time available.

"I try to know at all times what Texans want, need and think," he emphasized.

Price Daniel Fighting to Save State's New Gas Tax Revenues

Austin, July 2 (Spl.)—Attorney General Price Daniel this week interrupted his campaign for U. S. Senate to carry on his fight to save the State's new gas tax revenues for building more rural roads and improving the public schools.

This gas tax—which was sponsored by County Judges, Texas Farm Bureau and other farm and ranch groups—is being upheld in the courts by Attorney General Daniel against attacks made by some major gas companies.

As a member of the Legislature from rural counties in Southeast Texas and as Speaker of the House in the 48th Legislature, Daniel, a native of Liberty, has consistently fought for Texas farmers and ranchers in supporting REA, soil conservation, rural road building and similar programs.

Himself a farm owner and REA member, Daniel has pledged in his campaign for U. S. Senate to work to strengthen and maintain the REA program, soil conservation work, farm price supports, aid to the aged, and other such "sound and constructive programs."

The 41-year-old Attorney General, who is the only veteran in the Senate race, is reported by impartial newspaper polls to be leading in the Senate race by a 6-to-1 majority, according to Everett Hutchinson, his state campaign manager.

Daniel is noted for his leadership of the Texas fight to prevent Federal seizure of our tidelands. He favors an "immediate housecleaning of dishonesty and disloyalty" in Washington, opposes big spending, waste and extravagance, and wants taxes lowered at "the earliest moment possible."

A Great Book

Whittaker Chambers' great book "Witness," has been called with good reason the best book about Communism ever written on this continent. In chronicling the now famous Hiss Case, "Witness" leads the reader into a new understanding of the irreconcilable philosophies of communism and freedom. Also if the reader is numbered among that not inconsiderable body of citizens that still has faith in the American system of government and the

TONY PASTOR TO PLAY AT ELECTRA

Electra, Texas, July 2 (Special)—Residents of this area will have the unusual opportunity of hearing and seeing America's foremost vocal stylists, Tony Pastor and his orchestra, at Electra Friday night, July 11. The orchestra will be presented at Electra's starlight amphitheater, the Tiger Stadium. The performance is being brought to Electra by the Veterans Memorial Fund committee to raise funds for the memorial which will be erected at the new Electra cemetery.

The 14-foot monument will be a memorial to veterans of all wars and will bear the inscription, "All gave some . . . some gave all."

Tony Pastor and his orchestra have appeared at such outstanding places as Hotel Statler, New York; Paramount Theatre, New York; Sherman Hotel, Chicago; Palladium, Hollywood; Catalina Island, Lakeside Park, Denver; and many more.

The world's largest walled swimming pool, fed by 26,000,000 gallons of water daily from San Solomon Springs, is located in Balmorea State Park on highway 290, four miles southwest of Balmorea.

right of property ownership, he will inevitably reach a number of grim conclusions. It is evident that Communists infiltrated into the highest councils of government many years ago and have been permitted to remain there. Unquestionably, a part of the official indelicacy and confusion with regard to Korea, the steel situation, government scandals, waste of tax funds and other events which show a definite pattern of retreat from basic principles are traceable to communist influence. "Witness" is also a shocking substantiation of charges that topflight universities have become a breeding ground for a growing horde of cynics trained in law and economics who worm their way into important government positions and whose minds are ready receptacles for the godless doctrine of the Communist. Equally shocking is another fact that the Chambers book clearly pinpoints, a fact that would have been obscured had the book been less of a popular success. Many of the biggest literary organizations, publishing concerns, book review and critical enterprises have been shot through with "leftists" who like to think of themselves as liberals. It is evident that if they had their way this book, which strikes hard at the roots of Communism in the United States, would have been filed in the wastebasket. Fortunately it is too big and fundamental to be sneered into oblivion.

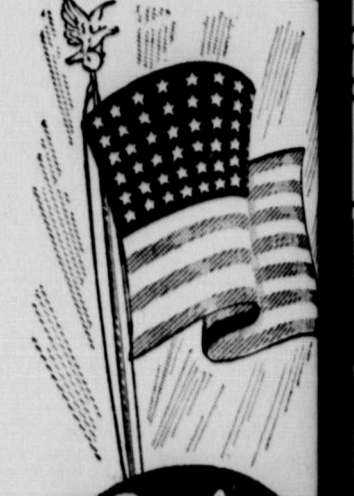

"Witness" deserves a place in
