

Million Acres of Texas Mesquite Land Sprayed

During the past two years about a million acres of mesquite infested Texas rangeland has been sprayed with chemicals. According to Joe Burkett, County Agent, results have generally been good. The most popular and practical method for applying the chemicals. Recent research findings at the Spur Experiment Station shows that one-half to two-thirds of a pound of low volatile ester 2,4,5-T applied in an emulsion of one gallon of diesel oil and fuel oil and three gallons of water will give good results. This, says Burkett, is a reduction in the amount of the recommended chemical and should cut the per acre application cost.

The condition of the mesquite growth at the time the spray is applied has a strong bearing upon the final results. Generally the proper time for making the chemical application is from seven to eleven weeks—50 to 60 days after the mesquites leaf out in the spring. Best kills are obtained when soil moisture is good and the mesquites are making a lush growth.

Burkett advises against spraying when soil and growth conditions are unfavorable but points out that if a good rain falls during the period recommended for spraying, that a wait of 20 days after the rain will greatly increase the chances for a better kill. This additional time will give the immature leaves a chance to become fully developed and this in turn means a higher root kill from the spray.

Chemical applications will give control but not eradication of mesquites. Sprayed areas should not be over-grazed and if possible, should be deferred or rest from spraying time until fall. This will give the grass plants

State Census Bureau Reveals 1950 Statistics on Employed Persons

Figures just released by the Census Bureau reveal that 68.5 per cent of employed persons in the State of Texas in 1950 were private wage and salary workers. James M. Hamilton, district supervisor at Fort Worth, said that 9.8 per cent of employed persons in the state were government workers, 19.7 per cent were self-employed workers and 2 per cent were unpaid family workers.

These percentages compare with national figures of 71.2 per cent of employed persons who were private wage and salary workers, 9.8 per cent government workers, 17.1 per cent self-employed workers, and 2 per cent unpaid family workers.

For the nation, the proportion of self-employed workers in 1950 ranged from 35 per cent or more in North Dakota, South Dakota, and Mississippi, to 10 per cent or less in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The factor mainly responsible for this wide difference is the relatively great number of farmers in the Dakotas and Mississippi as opposed to the concentrations of craftsmen, operatives, and nonfarm laborers in industrialized Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Government workers, who constituted about 10 per cent of the employed for the country as a whole, were of greatest relative importance in the West. Close to 13 per cent of all employed persons in the West worked for some branch of government, Federal, State, or local. Utah was the highest of the 48 states with almost 17 per cent. Connecticut, with 7 per cent, stood lowest.

Let's Talk Livestock

by Ted Gouldy

Spring time is often a time of year that leads cattle and sheep raisers into a feeling of false security with regard to the current crop of calves and lambs. While lush early grass and weeds in many sections make it look like feeding would be silly, it is well to bear in mind that hot summer sun will scorch that greenery in a few weeks in most sections and then the "bloom" is likely to leave those lambs or calves in a hurry.

During the past year we have talked to hundreds of cattle and sheep men at the Fort Worth livestock market from all sections of the Southwest. Many lost lots of money during the year. Some made a little money. But in most cases the stockman who crept his calves and lambs fared better than the producer who did not. The reason was the additional pounds he sold because of the creepfeeding. Plus, the better weight of his cows because the calves did not pull them down as badly. Or the better condition of the ewe for the same reason. The mothers were in all cases far heavier where their offspring were creepfed.

SPILL!—The bronc in this picture knows how to get rid of a cowboy the easy way—a simple toss over the head! From the position of the cowboy as he is falling, you can tell he is an experienced rider. The Santa Rosa Roundup will have the world's champion cowboy in every event during the 1953 season.

Don't overlook the fact that industrialization of the Southwest is bringing hundreds of thousands of new meat eaters into this section. Fat calves and fat lambs, right off their mummies, this summer and fall will be needed to feed folks right here in the Southwest.

Last year trainloads of beef were shipped here from the Corn Belt! Let's get into this market and not depend entirely on stocker and feeder demand to take care of our lamb and calf crop. If calves are out of plain crops, creepfeeding is almost a must. But even for the best quality calves or lambs the two-way market will help.

Fact is a young animal eats very, very little until he nears weaning time. To capitalize on creepfeeding the young animal

Bass Hatchery Tests To Be Resumed

The Chief Aquatic Biologist of the Game and Fish Commission said temperature control tests will be expanded at the San Marcos State Fish Hatchery.

He said efforts will be made to hatch young bass earlier and that the new fry will be released in lakes and streams at earlier dates to determine the survival rate as compared with those released later.

The Commission pioneered in the control of hatchery water temperatures originally as a means of trying to avert losses to bass because of unseasonably cold weather late in the hatching season.

If the experiments are successful, the so-called steam heated hatchery ponds will be installed in all state hatcheries menaced by the late season freezes.

Another major phase of the temperature control program is the earlier hatching of bass as a means of increasing the survival rate against the rough fish problem.

The Chief Aquatic Biologist pointed out that young bass released at dates under normal hatching procedure suffer heavily from rough fish. The earlier hatching and release arrangement, he said, is designed to turn the tables on the undesirable species, on the theory that the young bass will feed on the small rough fish.

More Livestock Sold in Texas in 1952 But Gross Receipts Down

Texas producers sold more livestock during 1952 than in 1951, but their gross receipts were down 13 per cent. The lower average price for cattle was a major cause; however, according to C. H. Bates, farm management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, other factors also helped cut the net returns to producers.

Feed supplies were short and the heavy expenditures for forage and concentrates "soaked up" much of the $970 million received for livestock and livestock products during the past year, says Bates.

During recent years, he adds, about 62 per cent of the farmers' gross income has been spent for operating expenses and when prices for livestock and related items were high, these costs were much less painful. But, it is a different story today.

Since, says the specialist, feed purchases take a big chunk of the total income, this item may offer possibilities for savings. It is doubly important this year, he adds, because the cost of items used in production are not likely to drop in price.

Growing most of the needed feeds on the farm or ranch offers perhaps the best possibility for cutting costs. Of course, points out Bates, moisture conditions will have to change very materially in many areas of the state before plantings can be made. Here are his suggestions: increase plantings of high-yielding forage and grain crops; use supplementary pastures such as small grain, sudan and legumes where conditions permit; use fertilizers and soil renovation practices when practical and build the necessary fences to permit rotation grazing of pastures and fields.

And finally, says Bates, no livestock business can continue to be profitable without storage facilities for reserve feed supplies. One of the cheapest and best is the trench silo. Silage can be kept, if properly stored, for several seasons without loss in quality. If storage facilities are available, considerable savings can be made by putting up a supply of hay during the harvest season when prices are lowest. The same is true, says Bates, for either purchased or home-grown grains.

It all adds up, he says, to good business management when adequate facilities are provided on the farm or ranch to store the reserve feed supplies needed. A conference with the local county agent, suggests Bates, may prove profitable for he can give tips on both production and storage problems.

H. D. Agent Gives Cheese Cake Recipe

The budget-wise homemaker will be interested in an inexpensive cheese cake. Mrs. Mary D. Brown, Acting County Home Demonstration Agent, points out that cheese cake is a traditional "Old World" delicacy perfectly adapted to American menus and kitchen methods.

The agent recommends the Easy-Do Cheese Cake which fits right into an economical food budget. For those who are interested she suggests the following recipe:

Easy-Do Cheese Cake, 6 Servings

1 cup fine graham crackers or bread crumbs.
Two-thirds cup sugar.
Three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon.
One-fourth cup melted butter.
Two tablespoons chopped nuts, if desired.
Two eggs.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons flour.
One and one-half cups creamed cottage cheese.
One and one-half cups light cream or top milk.
Two teaspoons lemon juice.
Mix together crumbs, cinnamon, butter and 3 tablespoons of the sugar. Mix half cup of crumb mixture with nut meats for topping, press the remainder to bottom and sides of 8-inch spring form or layer cake pan. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored, gradually beating in remaining sugar. Add salt, flour, cottage cheese and cream; beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed; add lemon juice and blend well. Strain mixture through fine sieve, pour into pan, top with crumb-nut mixture. Bake in 350 degree oven 35 minutes. Turn off heat, open oven door and allow cake to cool an hour. Chill. Remove from pan.

Weekly Sermon

We are living in a day when wisdom is needed as never before. Life is complex. Our national leaders need wisdom; we as individuals need wisdom.

Solomon, an Old Testament king noted for his wisdom, had the ability to judge soundly because God gave him wisdom. And God gave it to him because he asked for it. God said to Solomon, "Ask what I shall give thee" (I Kings 3:5b). Solomon's request was "Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad" (v. 9).

God is willing to give wisdom to you and me, just as He did to Solomon. "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given me."

Are you seeking wisdom—God's wisdom? Perhaps you are wondering just what should be the purpose of your life, what will happen to you after death, about your relationship to God. Then listen, "But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption" (I Cor. 1:30). Ask the Lord Jesus Christ to take your life into His hands, believing that He did

EDITOR GETS K-310 LOWDOWN

H. D. Agent Gives Hints to Making Quick Bread Dry Mixes

To save time in making gingerbread, or biscuits, muffins, waffles or other "quick breads" by their favorite recipes, many homemakers are interested in making up a quantity of the dry mix to have ready in containers on the shelf. Here are some basic principles for success, suggested by Mrs. Mary D. Brown, Acting County Home Demonstration Agent.

1. Choose a recipe suited to such a mix. This will be either a recipe calling for cutting fat into the dry ingredients, or one in which melted fat is added at baking time. If you choose the former, use only a fat that has been commercially prepared to keep without refrigeration. (See instructions on the container.)

2. Be accurate in multiplying the dry ingredients and fat for several batches. Sift flour before measuring, as usual, to insure the right proportion of fat to other ingredients.

3. When a recipe specifies melted fat, don't add it to the dry ingredients in the mix, but wait and add it with the eggs and milk when these are stirred into the mix at baking time.

4. For greatest convenience and speedy use, store the mix in individual batches of the amount of the original recipe. Store in tight containers such as glass jars or tin cans.

5. Whole or nonfat dry milk solids are a natural for mixes, as they supply the necessary amount of milk (or extra enrichment, if desired), are easy to use and keep well.

The following gingerbread recipe here adapted for use as a mix, is given as an example of how to proceed in making and using a mix.

Gingerbread: Dry ingredients for one batch: 1 1/2 cups sifted flour; 1/4 teaspoon soda; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1/4 cup sugar; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon ginger; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves; 1/2 cup dry milk, whole or nonfat.

Dry ingredients for 6 batches: 9 cups sifted flour; 1 1/2 teaspoons soda; 6 teaspoons baking powder; 1 1/2 cups sugar; 1 1/2 teaspoons salt; 6 teaspoons ginger; 6 teaspoons cinnamon; 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cloves; 3 cups dry milk, whole or nonfat.

To make mix: Sift together all the ingredients. Divide into 6 equal portions, (2 1/3 cups of mix for each batch) and store.

The liquid ingredients to add at making time to one batch of mix: 1 egg; 2/3 cup water or fluid milk; 1/4 cup molasses; 1/4 cup melted fat.

Beat together the egg, water or milk, and molasses. Pour the egg mixture into the dry ingredients, and stir until smooth. Stir in fat. Bake in greased shallow pan (about 8 inches square) in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold, or with any desired topping.

Other recipes for quick mixes using dry milk powder are given in the Leaflet 275, "How to Use Whole and Nonfat Dry Milk." Single copies are free from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

H. D. Agent Gives Suggestions on Insect Control Supplies

Equip your garden shelf now with the supplies needed later for controlling insects on your flowers. According to Mrs. Mary D. Brown, Acting County Home Demonstration Agent, there are at least six ingredients which you will want to include. These are lindane, chlordane, poison bait, sulphur, lead arsenate, and oil emulsion.

Mrs. Brown says each ingredient is particularly efficient for control of certain insects. Lindane used as a one per cent spray will help kill the aphids, the tiny insect which is active from spring until fall. You can use lindane for the adult white fly, thrips or "rose petal lice," small beetles, leaf hoppers, young squash bugs and many others, but you may need a two per cent dust for the mature squash bug.

For the cutworms and some leaf-eating caterpillars, you will find chlordane, in a five per cent dust or spray effective. Chlordane is also effective for killing sow bugs, white fly, lace bugs, thrips, beetles, flea hoppers and leaf hoppers. Ants and grasshoppers will also succumb to treatment with chlordane.

The best control for slugs and snails is poison bait. Sow bugs or pill bugs eat snail bait, so this is effective control for them.

Dusting sulphur will control the red spider and other tiny mites which yellow the leaves and kill evergreens, annual and other plants. It takes a spray of two or three tablespoons of lead arsenate to a gallon of water to control the bag worms if applied when they are young. The grown bag worms need a double dose of the lead arsenate spray.

Oil emulsion spray will dissolve the troublesome scale that grows a waterproof cover on shrubs and plants.

"For detailed information, call or come by my office for a copy of LI32, Control of Insects and Allied Pests in the Flower Garden," says Mrs. Brown.

Health Letter

Texas State Department of Health, Austin, Texas, Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer

Many people put off seeing their physician, when they suspect cancer, because they are afraid. And yet, this fear, resulting in delay, causes many deaths from cancer. One-half of the lives now lost to cancer could be saved if sufferers would see their doctors in time, declares Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. The sooner cancer is found, the less likely it is to have spread to other parts of the body, making cure impossible.

Most persons are familiar with the danger signs, such as a small sore on the skin, lip or tongue that does not heal quickly; a mole, wart, or birthmark that suddenly changes in thickening, especially in the breast, lip, or tongue; persistent indigestion; or radical changes in normal bowel habits; any unusual bodily discharge or bleeding; and persistent hoarseness lasting more than a few weeks. When any of these symptoms show up between physical check-ups, go quickly to see your doctor. They are common indications that cancer may be starting.

You cannot tell if you have cancer without seeing a doctor. A regular thorough physical check-up by your family physician is your best guard against cancer, plus an examination when one of the danger signals, or warnings appear. The first symptoms of cancer are scarcely noticeable. You may notice just a slight change from the normal. But do not wait until you feel pain to see your doctor. It is characteristic of cancer that there is no pain in the first stages. Pain is usually a late symptom and when it comes, the growth is often far advanced.

The eye responds more quickly to stimuli than the ear.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

by VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

The legislative spotlight centered this week on the question of whether or not public school teachers are going to get an increase in pay.

The teachers won an advantage when the Senate passed a bill giving them an increase of $600 a year.

Senator A. M. Alkin Jr. of Paris sponsored the bill, which has the support of the Texas State Teachers Association.

In passing the bill, the senators heard a warning that it will force a tax increase of about $30 million a year.

In the House, meanwhile, the teacher pay bill bogged down last week in a mass of technicalities. Representative Lamar Zivley of Temple, sponsoring the bill in the House, ran into trouble from the economy-minded members every time he tried to make progress with it.

For example, when Zivley attempted to get the bill transferred from the house appropriations committee to another committee which he considers more friendly, Representative Joe Kilgore of McAllen brought up the point of order that no such transfer may be made without first giving six days' notice.

Speaker Reuben Senterfitt sustained the point of order. Zivley could not muster enough votes to suspend the rule. Nor could he get a motion passed instructing the committee to report immediately on his bill.

Representative Max C. Smith of San Marcos, chairman of the House appropriations committee, rose to deny that his group is unfriendly to the teachers bill.

"I know from talking to some of the members that they are willing to vote out some kind of teacher pay raise bill," Smith said. "I don't know which one. It is possible that we could vote out a bill that wouldn't require a new tax."

Zivley's bill, said Smith, was delayed pending certification by the state comptroller that the money will be available for the general appropriation of $166 million for the next two years.

Shortly thereafter, Comptroller Robert S. Calvert said the appropriations bill is within anticipated state revenue.

Smith, mentioning a bare possibility that teachers could be given a raise without an increase in taxes, said it might be done by passing Representative Kilgore's bill, which reallocates some taxes and puts a greater burden of school costs on the local districts.

Governor Allan Shivers had recommended a plan of this nature. But after last week's legislative skirmishing on the measure, the governor commented that a teacher pay increase bill without new taxes would look "like an empty gesture." The only other recourse apparently is settlement of the pending gas tax suit in favor of the state. This would provide $45 million dollars. Shivers' stand is definitely against any new taxes.

The governor, however, said that this legislature is, so far, "one of accomplishment." He expressed hope for passage of these measures:

1. Seven propositions dealing with water conservation.
2. A judicial-redistricting bill.
3. Submission of Senator Geo. Moffett's constitutional amendment to use the Confederate pension fund surplus for new state buildings.
4. Co-ordination of higher education.
5. Action on a toll road program.
6. Classification of state jobs, and provision of higher pay for professional and technical em-

Before the House went a judicial redistricting plan, aimed at the political organization of Geo. Parr of Duval County.

The house judiciary committee approved a bill for redistricting without a dissenting vote.

The bill would reshuffle the stiff-necked, four-county 79th judicial district of South Texas. Affected in the changes would be Duval, Webb, Starr, Zapata, Jim Hogg, Jim Wells, Nueces and Brooks counties.

Charges against Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of the 79th district were aired in the Senate.

Judge Laughlin, a friend of Parr, was summoned on a resolution by Senator William H. Shireman of Corpus Christi. The resolution calls for an investigation of Judge Laughlin's conduct in office.

The judge had previously appeared before a House committee on the redistricting bill, and before a State Bar Association committee which was probing charges seeking to remove the judge from office.

A bar committee member reported "a very nice hearing." The judge commented: "Now I know how an innocent man feels when he goes to trial."

A House bill by Representative Bert Hall would increase the permit fees of beer and liquor dealers and set up a fund to fight alcoholism.

The bill has the support of the Texas Committee on Alcoholism. Half a dozen witnesses appeared for the bill at a session of the house committee on revenue and taxation.

Art Stein, director of the New Mexico Commission on Alcoholism, testified that his state is providing clinical treatment for alcoholics at a cost of $140 per patient, and is effecting cures or rehabilitation in 80 per cent of insipient cases.

Former Speaker Homer Leonard, representing the beer industry, raised the objection that the tax would fall on wet counties, while much of the state is legally dry.

In the House is a bill that would bring about changes in the election code passed by the Legislature two years ago.

Passed by committee was the bill, which would repeal cross filing, remove the requirement that candidates file their expense accounts, and provide for polls to remain open until 8 p. m.

Visitors at the capitol the other day were the Perricone quadruplets of Beaumont, the only male quads in the world. The 23-year-old brothers, Anthony, Bernard, Carl and Donald (ABCD) are on duty with Dual control of state hospitals—administrative and medical—is provided for by these salaries in the appropriation bill: executive director $15,000 a year, mental hospital director $12,500, tuberculosis hospital director $12,500, administrator $8,700, educational director $7,500, and design engineer $7,500.

posals with caution since, historically, they have demonstrated that to rely on their promises can be fatal. However, if we in this country will develop a strong united foreign policy, then the chances are that our dealings with the Soviets will be greatly simplified.

Under our legislative system, just because a bill is introduced in Congress does not necessarily mean that it has a chance of being enacted into law or that it will even be considered by the Congress. Each bill that is introduced is referred to one of the committees of the Congress, and there hearings are held upon it and amendments made. Many times a bill is amended in such a way in a committee that its original purpose is completely defeated, or it is changed to such an extent that it is hardly recognizable, and, of course, it is also subject to amendments after it reaches the floor. It is because of this possibility of change by amendment that it is difficult for a member of Congress to say what his attitude will be when the final vote comes on a bill; for it frequently happens that you favor the principle of the original bill, but when the time comes to vote on it, it has been so amended that you can't vote for it.

It is of great help to all of us here to hear from people in our district with regard to pending legislation. I know that many of you are interested in one or more of the bills that have been introduced during this session of Congress, and I hope that you will never hesitate to write me giving me the benefits of your views. It is most helpful when we get letters that point out specifically either objections or points in favor of any particular measure.

News from the Congress

by Congressman Frank Ikard

Washington, D. C., April 17, 1953—Everyone, I know, is watching with almost breathless interest the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners in Korea. Having been a prisoner of war in World War II, I think I can, to some degree, know the feeling of men who will be coming home and appreciate the anxiety of their families. All of this, it seems to me, should point up that the most important problem that confronts us as Americans is a solution of the Korean War and bringing to an early conclusion the terrific waste of the young men of this country.

The first thing we have to do to accomplish this is to develop a strong, positive, bipartisan foreign policy. A solution of the Korean conflict and a general settlement of our international problems certainly is above any party lines. The solution of these should be approached by all of us not as Republicans or Democrats but as Americans. The bringing about of a cessation of hostilities on an honorable basis and the development of a crystal-clear bipartisan foreign policy is our greatest challenge. Every other issue that confronts us and everything that we discuss is secondary to the necessity of our making real progress toward world peace.

It is too early yet to tell just what the real attitude of the new leaders of Russia is, and certainly we should approach their pro-

Anti Socialist Campaign Grows

More and more sentiment seems to be developing in Congress for getting the federal government out of commercial business—that is, abandoning state socialism.

A good example occurred recently on the nationally-televized "Meet the Press" program. Reporters interviewed Senator Walker of Idaho. One question was "Would you be for turning the Tennessee Valley Authority over to private enterprise now?" Senator Walker answered, "I certainly would. I would be glad to turn over TVA to private enterprise or sell it to the bondholders as advocated by Charles E. Wilson not so many months ago."

Another question was, "As I understand it from the Hoover Commission, there's something like $20,000,000,000 worth of business now being done by government . . . Would you favor turning all that back?" Senator Walker replied, "I certainly would, because I know that private enterprise can do anything more efficiently and cheaper than the government can."

During the interview Senator Walker also expressed his strong opposition to a Washington bureaucracy dictating to the people concerning their water rights, their electric-power rights, or any other rights.

There is only one real argument that can be made against this attitude—and that is the Socialist-Communist argument that the government should own everything and boss everything. Those of us who don't believe in dictatorship should wholeheartedly support the fast-growing campaign to turn thumbs down on Socialism and reaffirm our free American traditions and principles.

Freedom Is Best

In his State of the Union Message, President Eisenhower said, "I am convinced that now—as well as in the long run—free and competitive prices will best serve the interests of all the people and best meet the changing, growing needs of our economy."

The President thus said, in effect, that a price system which is based upon natural law will be healthier for the nation than one which is disrupted and distorted by political dictation and bureaucratic fiat.

It was no accident that this country's unrivaled living standards were a creation of the free market. In that kind of a market, anyone who wants to can establish a factory, make anything he chooses and try to sell it. Anyone who wants to can found a retail store and try to attract patronage. And his success will depend on whether or not he offers a better product, a cheaper product, or some other inducement that masses of people desire. Every day of the year other manufacturers or retailers, as the case may be, will be out to get his customers away from him if they can. That is what is known as competition.

In that kind of a market prices may be high or low, depending on pressures and conditions that are beyond the control of business. But one thing is sure—competition will hold them down to the greatest possible extent. And our labor will buy us more of both the necessities and the luxuries than is the case in any other kind of market.

First words spoken over the telephone were, "Watson, come here; I want you," spoken by Alexander Graham Bell to his assistant.

We know a man who expects, one of these days, to read a book. —

CURIOSITY PAYS

Osceola, Ind. — Hearing a crash outside their home, Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Eril looked out their living room window, grabbed their two children and raced for the back door. They escaped just ahead of a trailer-truck that careened 100 feet across their front yard and plowed through the living room and kitchen. Four persons were hurt in the truck and car, which had collided.

News items below were taken from the issue of the Foard County News of Friday, April 30, 1953:

J. E. Fish, 74, resident of the Vivian community 21 years, died suddenly at the home of his son, Egbert Fish, last Sunday. He was a native of Kentucky. —

C. W. Carroll of Vivian sold a registered Shorthorn yearling bull last week to H. V. Weekly at Vernon for a fancy price. —

FOUR IN FAMILY HAVE POLIO

Enid, Okla. — The fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson of Hardner, Kansas—1-year-old Allen Neal, joined the Johnson's other three children in the hospital—all stricken with poliomyelitis.

Centralia, Ill. — The Pitfire, barbecuing the meat for a Freeburg volunteer firemen's barbecue, burned down the shed. Volunteers doused the fire and saved the food, but the smokehouse sustained an $1,800 loss.

BARBECUE FIRE COSTLY

One trouble with our form of government is that a four-flusher, making any wild assertion, can get more publicity than a scholar, telling the truth about a public issue. —

The old days might not be as bad as some of us think; every once in a while we hear something that makes us think that people helped each other abundantly without so much profits. —

Noble, Ill. — This town's two barber shops got into a short-lived price war recently and both barbers suffered a trimming. Prices for haircuts went from 75 cents to free ones during the price war. —

In The News . . . 30 YEARS AGO

Frankfort, Ind. — Fifteen grade Aberdeen bulls were seen here near Matad.

Frankfort, Ind. — Fanny, a mongrel dog, a pet in the home of the Edwin Nelson family for twenty years, recently died at the ripe old dogdom age of 140 years. She was believed to have been one of the oldest dogs in New England. An average dog's life span is between ten and fourteen years and dog authorities contend seven years of a human's life is comparable to one of a dog's life.

Thirty-three years generally constitutes a generation.

"Dear Mama Mia"

Every television and radio addict is familiar with the weekly show "Life with Luigi" starring J. Carroll Naish. In one episode, Luigi, the Italian immigrant lad who now runs an antique shop in his adopted country, reached the conclusion that he should buy "a little piece of America" in the form of a share of common stock. His description of the purchase in a mythical letter to his mother is a gem of homely economics, telling in a few simple words about all there is to tell of the principle of American corporate enterprise.

"Dear Mama Mia," says Luigi, "I'm got twenty dollars free and clear, tax free. And I'm going to use this money to buy a little piece of America. I'm going to invest in the stock market. In case you don't know what means the stock market . . . I'll explain: It's like you and everybody in the village own the safe chicken. You can't eat it—you just own it."

"Now if the chicken lays an egg, that's a small dividend. If it lays six eggs, that's a big dividend. If it don't lay any eggs at all, you better take a good look at the chicken . . . maybe it's a rooster."

There are millions of "Luigis" in this country. They count on the chicken continuing to lay eggs. If it doesn't—well, pretty soon there is no chicken. And that is the way it is with industries that keep this country going. They either earn some dividends for Luigi and his thrifty brethren who have invested hard earned savings in them or pretty soon there will be no production—and no sources of tax revenue.

This is why the soap boxers who decry profits and the profit motive, whether they realize it or not, are calling for an end to the entire American system of enterprise and representative government.

AMERICA'S NEW RAILROAD

"I want a ticket on the Atomic Super Chief!"

Well, sonny, just hang on to that dream. By the time you're a full fare, it might come true!

Of course there is no "Atomic Super Chief" . . . yet.

But, don't sell American ingenuity and progress short. At the rate things grow new for you on the Santa Fe, you only need to squint your mind's eye just a little to see tomorrow streaming toward you down the track!

You can almost feel the future of Santa Fe in the quickened tempo of its progress in the recent past.

Just count the growing number of Santa Fe diesels that speed your freight and smooth your ride today.

Nineteen years ago there weren't any. Today there are 1422 units. By year's end there'll be 97 more. Steam is disappearing fast. And more than 250 coaling and watering stations have bit the dust.

Santa Fe folks just don't dally when it comes to building new.

For today the Santa Fe is America's new railroad. And it's going to stay that way by growing newer every day—in every way that can mean new safety, better service, new comfort and dependability for you.

It costs millions of dollars to serve you so. But it doesn't add a penny to the taxes you pay. Santa Fe folks are proud of that, too—proud that the newness of the Santa Fe is a part of American progress that pays its own way.
