County Agent Says Inspection of Cotton Shows Increase in Insect Count Last Week; Urges Spraying

and feed are growing. Dry weather is hurting some feed crops, according to information furnished Tuesday by Joe Burkett, county agent.

Inspection of 16 cotton fields throughout the area, including Thalia, Riverside, Rayland and Crowell communities, showed an increase in cotton of three fields inspected. Riverside community showed considerable flea hopper build-up last week. These fields had 35 to 40 flea hoppers per cotton stalk terminal.

Control of the flea hopper, control of the grasshopper, 1 1/2 pints of toxaphene per acre is sufficient to give good control and this material should be applied when you find as few as 15 to 20 flea hoppers per 100 bud terminals. Only one spray nozzle per row is needed.

A few bollworms and bollworm eggs were found in fields around Riverside.

Flea hopper counts were high in fields east and southeast of Thalia. Three fields inspected in the Rayland community revealed very low insect infestations.

Very few insects were found in fields east and north of Margaret and north of Crowell.

A few grasshoppers and webworms were doing damage throughout the area. Grasshopper infestations are very heavy in the Vivian community; some fields having considerable acreage destroyed by this pest.

For grasshopper control, you can spray with either of the following, Mr. Burkett stated:

Toxaphene, 1 1/2 to 2 quarts per acre, or chlordane 1 1/2 to 3 pounds per acre; or aldrin 1/8 to 1/4 pound per acre; or dieldrin 1/8 to 1/4 pound per acre. Either of these materials sprayed on the crops where grasshoppers are causing damage will control the hoppers.

Because the cotton is growing good, don't become lax in inspecting the fields. If flea hoppers are in the fields in sufficient numbers, they will knock all of the tiny squares off and you will be surprised some day when you inspect your crop and find that it is all stalk with no squares or bolls on it.

Flea hoppers are easy to kill with toxaphene and with such light dosage, you will not destroy many beneficial insects.

County Agent Says Inspection of Cotton Shows Increase in Insect Count Last Week; Urges Spraying

Cotton and feed are growing fast. The weather is hurting some of the feed crops, according to information furnished Tuesday by Joe Burkett, county agent.

Inspection of 16 cotton fields in Thalia, Riverside, Rayland, and Crowell communities showed an increase in cotton insects.

Three fields inspected in Riverside community showed considerable flea hopper build-up last week. These fields had 35 to 40 flea hoppers per cotton stalk terminal.

Control of the flea hopper, 1 1/2 pints of toxaphene per acre is sufficient to give good control and this material should be applied when you find as few as 15 to 20 flea hoppers per 100 bud terminals. Only one spray nozzle per row is needed.

A few bollworms and bollworm eggs were found in fields around Riverside. Fleahopper counts were high in fields east and southeast of Thalia. Three fields inspected in the Rayland community revealed very low insect infestations. Very few insects were found in fields east and north of Margaret and north of Crowell. A few grasshoppers and webworms were doing damage throughout the area. Grasshopper infestations are very heavy in the Vivian community, some fields having considerable acreage destroyed by this pest.

For grasshopper control, you can spray with either of the following, Mr. Burkett stated. Toxaphene, 1 1/2 to 2 quarts per acre, or chlordane 1 1/2 to 3 pounds per acre; or aldrin 1/8 to 1/4 pound per acre; or dieldrin 1/8 to 1/4 pound per acre. Either of these materials sprayed on the crops where grasshoppers are causing damage will control the hoppers.

Because the cotton is growing good, don't become lax in inspecting the fields. If fleahoppers are in the fields in sufficient numbers, they will knock all of the tiny squares off and you will be surprised some day when you inspect your crop and find that it is all stalk with no squares or bolls on it.

Flea hoppers are easy to kill with toxaphene and with such light dosage, you will not destroy many beneficial insects.

2 Miles of Roads in Foard County Past Five Years

During the last five years, 25.22 miles of roads have been built in Foard County. It was Texas' best period of road construction, Highway Department officials show.

Breakdown by counties as state totals prepared by Department showed that $472,000 was spent in the county maintenance of present roads and the gigantic construction program while in Austin, Governor Price cited the impressive figures as evidence that the state's road program is giving motorists the best roads engineering can provide.

Report showed that 14.4 miles of roads added to the covered cost $575,158.20 more money spent for road building than in any other year.

It also showed that Farm-land roads came in for a share of the total. The roads were named a priority because they give farmers needed access to markets and access to surrounding rural areas, a highway official said.

He said he was very of the excellent way Texas have improved in the last decade, listed dollars and saved as two prime benefits to motorists.

State drivers have been able to travel countless hours and money on good roads that provide safety and design, he remarked.

He pledged that he "would do everything in my power" to speed the present rapid pace of road building and maintenance.

The system worthy of its name provide its motorists with safe routes," he said.

 For that money Texas added 14,926.10 miles of roads to the state highway system and maintained roads to keep them safe and sound for you.
 Allan Shivers knows the importance of good roads. Whether trade-routes that speed goods to market or super-highways that make your driving a pleasure, good roads save you time and money.

IN FOARD COUNTY
 $472,542.82 has been spent on roads for you during Shivers' Administration.

Covering the crossroads is J. J. Holmes of Austin. He is making a grassroots search for votes, spending little time in the big cities. It is his first race for governor.

State Courts
One state court has wound up business for a summer vacation and two more will soon follow suit.

The Court of Criminal Appeals finished its nine-month term and recessed until October 1. Expected to shut up shop soon were the Supreme Court and the Third Court of Criminal Appeals.

A new associate justice for the Supreme Court is to be appointed by the governor before the court resumes business in the Fall. The new justice will replace the late Judge Graham B. Smedley.

Lyerly Leaves
Hugh Lyerly, executive assistant attorney general, resigned July 1 to enter the private practice of law in Dallas.

He joined the firm of Coke and Coke.
"Mr. Lyerly set an outstanding record as a trial and appellate attorney during his three years of service with our office," said Attorney General John Ben Shepperd in announcing Lyerly's resignation.

Insurance Business
Texas insurance companies' charter amendment applications are receiving close examination before being approved, says Attorney General John Ben Shepperd.

He announced that his office has returned 10 of 27 applications in the last two months because of failure to meet insurance law requirements.

Draft Call
Letters calling for 2,416 Texans to be examined in August for military duty have gone out to state draft boards, according to Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state selective service director.

Texas boards will induct 1,092 men during the month who have received previous examinations. Wakefield said that draft calls for both July and August are running above previous months. The August call asked for men 20 or older, but authorized boards to call men below 20 if necessary to fill quotas.

Texas Navy
Now non-existent, the Texas Navy will be honored September 1-7, designated as "Texas Navy Week."

Governor Allan Shivers credited the one-time Republic's small fleet as playing a big part in winning independence from Mexico.

"It was their fighting spirit that made the difference," stated the governor in his proclamation.

Toll Road
Moving ahead are plans for the state's first toll road.

After a month of consultation, the Texas Turnpike Authority voted to employ Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendorff, consulting engineers, to work out plans for the Fort Worth-Dallas thoroughfare, cost of which will be an estimated $31 million.

Austin, Tex. — Texas' campaign trails are sizzling as figures in the quest for the state's top political job enter the speech-making home stretch.

Governor Allan Shivers' bid for re-election was boosted by the announcement of State Senator A. M. Aikin that he would support the governor.

Aikin, champion of public education and co-author of the Gilmer-Aikin laws, said he has never doubted the sincerity, integrity, or ability of the governor.

In a string of campaign speeches broken by a brief personal visit to the Rio Grande flood area and a request to President Eisenhower to designate five hard-hit counties as disaster areas, Shivers:

1. Charged that opponent Ralph Yarborough does not have the interest of the state's old people at heart. The governor said that his opponent has "never lifted a finger to help increase old-age assistance," but has worked to boost pensions for retired judges.

2. Received support from an Austin union barber who said that charges made against the governor in a Corpus Christi labor convention were "unjust." G. O. Eddleman said that the governor had always been helpful to the laboring people and that the "anti-labor" accusation brought against Shivers was the work of labor's "would-be bosses."

3. Reiterated his stand against changes in segregation laws and hit out at Yarborough for "mud slinging."

4. Cited industrial gains and the fact that more people are working and making more money in Texas than ever before. "Is this what Yarborough wants to change?" Shivers inquired.

Yarborough Busy
Candidate Yarborough continued his campaign, aided by a chartered airplane that shuttled him to more than 30 towns for brief speeches.

He promised to "clean out" the Texas Insurance Commission if elected.

He also demanded an audit of the books of John Van Cronkhite, a former Shivers campaign manager whose name came up in the bankruptcy case of Lloyd's of North America.

Yarborough declared against third terms, saying that "when politicians become fixtures their cronies become fixers."

The candidate promised an administration dedicated to quick aid for farmers and ranchers, better roads and highways, better schools, and expanded veterans land, health, and state welfare programs.

Texas insurance companies' charter amendment applications are receiving close examination before being approved, says Attorney General John Ben Shepherd.

He announced that his office has returned 19 of 27 applications in the last two months because of failure to meet insurance law requirements.
