State Capitol NEWS

by VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex. — Regardless of whom is elected this summer, most Texans probably won't find their daily lives greatly changed.

But to one segment of the population, the 22,000 state employees and their families, it matters a lot. It affects their livelihood.

As much as a 20 per cent turnover in state employees can be expected after the new officials take over in January.

This estimate comes from Pirtle Watts, executive secretary of the Texas Public Employees Association. About one-third of the membership is concentrated in the Capitol; the rest is scattered over the state.

TPEA members on the whole are quite discreet in their politics, Watts thinks. Their association by-laws expressly prohibit any group endorsement.

But individuals, especially certain key personnel, are courted by candidates. Many office-seekers, especially in Travis County, regularly promise "more adequate pay."

And those employees whose jobs hinge on the boss' being re-elected naturally pull for him. State law, while not as strict as the federal Hatch Act, puts some restrictions on this.

Formerly a rider on the appropriations bill forbade any political activity by state employees. Now the ban is only against use of state cars, or campaigning on state time.

INSURANCE COMPANIES REALIGN — "Merger" will be a much-discussed word in the Texas insurance industry during the coming weeks.

Wind-up of the State Insurance Commission's stringent solvency survey left 94 companies — or seven per cent — without licenses. New permits were granted to 1,219 firms.

Results confirmed Chairman Byron Saunders' prediction that the industry would prove 90 to 95 per cent sound. He said last January when the commission began its drive to "weed out the bad apples."

Many already have negotiations underway, or completed, to merge with stronger companies. More realignments are expected, especially among life companies where many large firms actively seek reinsurance business.

RADAR TRAPS ATTACKED — Are the Texas Highway Patrol's radar speed nets illegal?

Amarillo Attorney Horace E. Wilson says he will fight to the Supreme Court, if necessary, to prove they are. Wilson was arrested recently and fined $5 plus costs. A radar set near Seguin had clocked him at 71 miles per hour.

He declares Section 803A of the State Penal Code provides for automatic dismissal of a speeding charge if the arresting officer lies in wait or hides.

In Austin Patrol Chief W. J. Elliott said "nothing in state law prohibits hiding the radar unit, but the highway patrol does not make this a practice. We can do more good by putting ourselves out in the open."

CITIES NEED MORE WATER — A majority of Texas cities feel their water supplies are inadequate for the future.

State Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Water Resources Committee, says a recent survey of 255 cities shows 54 per cent with this problem. Purpose of the survey was to search out needs and sentiments for a statewide water program. Recommendations go to the Legislature in January.

Parkhouse said city officials "almost without exception" favor building their own water facilities aided by financing "on the lowest level of government possible." He said he is most hopeful the next Legislature will make such a program possible.

DAVY READY FOR TOURISTS — Texans, who tour their Capitol by the thousands each year, will see a fresh-faced Davy Crockett this summer.

Crockett's huge portrait was rehung in the Capitol foyer last week after an extensive re-touching job. Legislators last session authorized $12,000 for conservation work on five valuable paintings.

Taxpayers have invested $95,409 in the fabulous art collection scattered over the Capitol. Resale value is estimated as high as half a million dollars. Tourist favorites are "Dawn at the Alamo" and "The Battle of San Jacinto." They are located in the Senate chamber. Each cost $12,500.

NO TROUBLE SEEN ON POLL — No objection is expected by the Democratic Executive Committee chairman to putting the interposition question on the July primary ballot.

Chairman George Sandlin discounted talk of a court challenge to the validity of the 150,000 signatures on the referendum petitions. Spot checks are being made against poll tax lists, said Sandlin.

Texas Referendum Committee presented the petition. It asks a vote for or against interposition.

Home Demonstration Notes

MRS. MARY D. BROWN

Council will meet this Saturday at 2:30 p. m. At that time you will elect 3 delegates to attend the National and State THDA meeting in San Antonio. Let's all make every effort to attend council this Saturday.

As you know, the Extension Service is offering a relatively new program to farm families. It is called Farm and Home Development. This program is an effort by the Agricultural Extension Service to help farm families to cope with closely related rather than specific problems.

Recent changes in farming and family life on a farm require farm families to adjust their methods of operation and their patterns of a family living.

To a farm family, Farm and Home Development could mean a carefully planned system of farming for the entire farm unit through which the farm family would coordinate all the practices of the farm and home to achieve efficient production, high net income, improvement of soil productivity and better living.

Many families have excellent systems already in operation. It is our job to supply the latest information on better methods, assist in analyzing situations and teach such skills as are needed to keep these operations up to date.

As time goes on, you will be hearing a great deal about Farm and Home Development. If you have used tap water in your steam iron and have clogged it up, you can clean it out as follows:

Fill with distilled vinegar and let it steam out for 15 minutes. Then let it stand overnight. In the morning, the vinegar should be washed out thoroughly with water. Your iron will act as if it were new.

I still have in my office a few sterile water bottles for testing drinking water. There is no charge for this service and it is some-

Safety of Children in Traffic Urged by Safety Association

"Children don't think, cars don't think, so you must think."

Drivers this week received that reminder of their responsibility for the safety of children in traffic from E. M. McFadden of Dallas, president of the Texas Safety Association, Inc., as he spoke of the current child pedestrian safety program being sponsored by the Texas Safety Association, the Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council.

"Drive as if every child you meet is your own little boy or girl," Mr. McFadden said. "If you treat all children as you want other motorists to treat your children, you're not likely to run down a youngster who heedlessly starts into your path."

"This solicitous attitude is necessary," he said, "because children can't be expected to use adult judgment in traffic. On this score, he roundly condemned the driver who fails to give youngsters a break in traffic and who insists on right-of-way and other legal prerogatives.

"It's the nature of youth to be impetuous and sometimes heedless," he said.

"It's the duty of adults to protect children from the results of their own heedlessness, even if their actions are wrong."

Mr. McFadden listed the following rules for drivers to follow in order to do their part in co-operating where children are concerned:

1. Always expect the unexpected where children are concerned.
2. Give young bike riders every break.
3. Drive with extreme caution near schools and playgrounds and any place where children may be thing we should all do. If you are interested, call or come by my office for these bottles and instructions for taking the water sample for testing.

BABY SITTER SAVES NINE

Carol Van Winkle, 14, was watching the five children of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Minor and four children of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Burk, while the two couples went out together. In some way, the Minor house caught on fire and was burning fiercely before Carol knew it. She managed to make several trips in and out of the burning house, taking the children out. Finally, she realized she had left the smallest baby inside. She ducked under flames in thick smoke to the baby's crib and brought him safely out.

Firm Shapes Model Haven for Anglers

Three years from the time it was stocked in May, 1953, a lake created by Aluminum Company of America for industrial purposes has been converted into a fisherman's dream, according to reports to the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

He said a principal attraction is a traffic restriction which bars piscivorous motor boating and gives the angler "some semblance of privacy."

The lake, which is in Milam County near Rockdale, was made originally as a cooling unit for Alcoa's huge plant which produces aluminum with electric power generated through use of local lignite.

Since the water was not contaminated through this particular industrial process, company officials called on the Commission for fish management counsel. The lake was so successfully stocked that black bass limits now are common. There also are good catches of channel catfish and bluegills.

The company, under the Commission arrangement, agreed to make the lake available to the general public subject, however, to strict regulations designed to aid the angler as well as to safeguard the new Milam County recreation spot. Motors are limited to ten horsepower. Racing is banned.

The 730 acre lake has provided vast material for aquatic biologists since each fisherman registers and reports on such vital statistical data as to time spent angling and the results. For example, records showed that as of January 1, the first year and one half angling yielded 32,500 fish, mostly bass, to 30,000 fishermen, and that the prize for the first five pound bass had been claimed.

Also beneficial from the Commission viewpoint was the thirty-eight brood bass taken from a small "off limits" spawning lake connected with the main body of water by a narrow channel. The fighting blacks, averaging three pounds, were used to reinforce the stock at San Marcos State Fish Hatchery.

Regulations appealing to dyed-in-the-wool fishermen include: no firearms or intoxicating liquors permitted; swimming only in designated areas; youngsters under sixteen must be accompanied by parents when fishing from boats; each boat must carry a life preserver for each occupant and no boat may be overloaded with passengers.

Bird watchers treasure the lake as an observatory during the waterfowl migration periods since the no-hunting rule provides an ideal resting place for mallards, pintails, redheads and gadwalls as well as for countless shore birds.

"Drive in Haste, Repent at Leisure!"

"Drive in haste, repent at leisure!"

This new version of an old proverb was quoted this week by E. C. McFadden of Dallas, vice president of Employers Casualty Co. and president of the Texas Safety Association, as he urged drivers to support the speed control program of the Texas Safety Association, the Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council. This program is being conducted in cooperation with the "Slow Down and Live" program of the National Conference of State Safety Coordinators.

"Anyone who is unimpressed by the 'Drive in haste, repent in leisure' warning should pay a visit to some of our local hospitals," McFadden said. "There are many patients within their walls who are suffering the results of traffic accidents, many of which occurred months ago. A good proportion of these people would not be suffering now if they had not been in too great a hurry to get somewhere."

He cited National Safety Council figures that show that exceeding the speed limit or driving too fast on the same road if the weather is rainy or foggy, McFadden said. "And a speed that is safe when the driver is alert and physically fit may be too fast when he is fatigued or suffering from some ailment."

He gave the following six points as a guide to drivers in determining safe speeds:

1. Drive at a speed that will enable you to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.
2. Slow down before you get to curves and intersections.
3. At night, drive at the speed which will let you stop within your headlight range.
4. Drive with traffic. You are probably going too fast if you are passing many cars—too slow

Atomic Science Enters Fight Against Insects

The war on insects has come into the atomic age. An agriculture department official reports that atomic science is being used to counteract the ability insects have to develop resistance to poisonous insecticides, according to Joe Burkett, County Agent.

Radioactive tracers reveal how some insects are able to consume poisons and change them into relatively harmless chemicals inside their bodies. Entomologists say this will enable them to understand insects' biochemical defenses and find new, effective poisons to use against species that have become resistant to present insecticides.

Radiation has already been put to effective use in many areas, and has been used to make certain insects commit race suicide. Dr. H. L. Haller of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service, says the paths of insects, even those beneath the soil or under the bark of trees, can be followed with geiger counters. Radioactive tracers help reveal the migratory and overwintering habits of insects and aid in making accurate population counts, essential in planning control measures.

This type of "tracing" also makes possible more efficient methods of applying insecticides and modes of penetration can be studied. Insecticides can be traced if many cars are passing you.

THIS WEEK
—In Washington

With
Clinton Davidson

Now that Congress has passed a new farm law the big question in Washington is: What does it mean? Political candidates and farmers are asking that.

Political observers are convinced that neither party gained any considerable advantage out of the long farm debate. Democrats, they say, fumbled their opportunity to lead a farm belt revolt.

They give President Eisenhower credit for having out-maneuvered his opposition by a quick retreat from low farm supports for this year only. Farm problems will become less of a political campaign issue than had been expected generally.

About the only thing new for farmers in the law is the Soil Bank. And that is intended more as a payment to farmers to reduce production still further than anything else. About the only difference is that farmers who choose to do so can get some of their income directly from the government rather than through growing crops.

The Soil Bank is in two parts. For taking some acres out of cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco, barley, oats or grain sorghums and allowing it to lie idle, the government will make payments out of the $1.2 billion a year fund provided for in the law. That's the acreage reserve program.

The payment rate, generally, will be half, or a little more than half, the average gross income off of the same acres in the past 5 years. That part of the Bank is operative only through 1959.

The second half of the Bank plan is called a conservation reserve. Farmers who take a portion of their land, in addition to the acreage reserve, out of cultivation and put it into conservation practices will get payments.

Payments will be made to cover most of the initial cost of seeding conservation acres to grass, trees or other so-called cover crops. Then each year, starting with the first, an annual "rental" payment averaging $10 an acre will be paid by the government.

Farmers also can get payments for building dams, ponds and other water conserving practices. The whole idea is to store fertility in the soil for future use rather than using the land now to produce surpluses.

The Agriculture Department figures there are somewhere between 30 and 40 million acres now being cultivated that need to be put into the Bank, to be drawn on when there is need for added production. On most of the "excess acreage" corn, cotton, wheat and rice are being grown. Those are the "surplus" crops.

Supporters of the Bank idea say by reducing the number of acres in cultivation we can gradually cut down on surpluses. And, they contend, when surpluses have disappeared the price of farm products will rise, without the need for government supports.

Now that the wheat is harvested, it is time to start a stubble mulch program of planting your land with a cover crop that cuts under stubble and acts as a mulch on top of the Ventura, Calif. — F. J. Woodward is seeking the owners of various articles which his dog has brought home from time to time, including pots, rugs, various household articles and clothing—even shoes and slippers. Woodward would like to get them back into the hands of their rightful owners.

FINE FUR FROM WILDCAT WELLS

One more "miracle" has been added to the long list of petroleum-derived wonder fibers — "Darlan." Chemically different from any fabric now on the market, the fiber can be adapted for almost every type of clothing, such as sweaters, and knit goods, dresses, coats, and suits. The fiber has been introduced to the market in women's fur-fabric coats as luxurious as any mink. "Darlan," a chemical made from petroleum, has been on textile industry designing boards since before World War I, but it has never been produced successfully until now.

Miss Doris Cates and Jon Coffey United in Marriage Friday Evening, June 8

The marriage of Miss Doris Ann Cates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Cates, and Jon Coffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Coffey of Fayetteville, Ark., formerly of Crowell, was solemnized at the Crowell Methodist Church Friday evening, June 8, at 8 o'clock with Rev. C. T. Aly, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiating at the double ring rites. Organ music was provided by Miss Janis Crowell who played "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "Because," and "I Love You Truly" as pre-nuptial numbers. She accompanied Miss Jo Ann Fox who sang "The Lord's Prayer." She also played the professional and recessional. Both organist and soloist wore formal pastel dresses with floral head-dress. The church was beautifully arranged with bouquets of white asters and huckleberry and garlands of smilax. Tiered candelabra were interspersed among the greenery and flowers. Candles and greenery decorated the windows. Miss Fran cyne Coffey, niece of the groom, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Sharon Chatfield, Arleta Teague, Dana Loy Roberts and Zonell Eddy. All were attired in formal gowns of nylon net in pastel shades, each wearing a matching floral head-dress and a matching stole. The best man was Willard Schlubatis of Cold Water, Mich., while the groomsmen were Billy Earl Lynch, Joe Howard Williams, C. V. Barker and Otis Coffey. The men all wore semi-formal attire. The candles were lighted by Sue and Jimmy Cates, sister and brother of the bride. Sue wore a pink nylon formal dress and a head-dress to match. Flower girl was Ella Ann Cates, cousin of the bride, who wore a nylon dress of medium blue and a matching head-dress. Glen Doyce Goodwin, also a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer and carried the rings on a white satin pillow. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely wedding dress of nylon lace and tulle over taffeta. Molded with a low rounded neckline, the fitted bodice had long, petal-pointed sleeves. The very full skirt, made with tiers of lace and tulle, was floor-length and fell into a semi-train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of lace and seed pearls. Her cascade bouquet was of roses and stephanotis. She carried out the tradition of wearing something old, new, borrowed and blue, also a penny in her shoe. The couple left for a wedding trip to points in Michigan. The bride's going-away dress was of navy silk shantung, a sheath dress with cape. Her accessories were of white and her corsage was from her wedding bouquet.

FOARD CITY H. D. CLUB
"A deep soaking at three week intervals is better for shrubs and trees than daily shallow watering," according to Mrs. E. V. Halbert of the Foard City Home Demonstration Club meeting at the recreation room Tuesday afternoon, June 5. Mrs. Halbert explained how shallow watering tends to bring the plant's roots to the surface where they will be injured by summer heat and sun. She also told how and when to use commercial fertilizer and compost, and stressed the importance of mulching with straw, grass clippings or cotton burrs, when she discussed "Water Shrubs and Trees Correctly."

The club voted against a county-wide picnic, and voted to have the encampment in Foard County. In the opening exercise, the hostess, Mrs. Harry Trawcek, read "Words of Wisdom" by Benjamin Franklin. She was assisted by her daughters, Judy and Joy, in serving iced Cokes and dainty cookies to seven members and 3 visitors. Mrs. Minnie McClendon of Corpus Christi, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. V. Halbert, and Judy and Joy Trawcek. The next meeting will be at the recreation room July 3 at 3 o'clock. The program will be on crafts.

REHEARSAL SUPPER
On the eve of their wedding, Jon Coffey and his bride-elect, Miss Doris Cates, were honored with a lawn supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Goodwin. After the supper, the members of the bridal party went to the Methodist Church, where the couple was to be married, for rehearsal.

FOARD CITY W. S. C. S.
Mrs. Jack Welch opened the June 11 meeting of the Foard City W. S. C. S. with prayer and Mrs. Virgil Johnson presided over the business session. Mrs. Blake McDaniel, leader for the afternoon's program, read the charge to all incoming officers. "Discipleship" was the subject of Mrs. Jack Welch's devotional, and she listed four steps necessary for individual discipleship: 1. find the places of spiritual need in one's life; 2. each must grow in the Christian way of life; 3. each must accept the price of discipleship; and 4. each one must take her part in bringing the fruits of discipleship.

Mrs. Welch read a concluding prayer dealing with individual discipleship, its responsibilities and its privileges, its promises and its hopes.

RIVERSIDE H. D. CLUB
A very interesting program on how to water shrubs and trees correctly was given by Mrs. John S. Ray when the club met with Mrs. Audrey Schroeder on Tuesday, June 5. "You should let your water run slowly for at least two hours or more, so that it might gradually seep into the ground around your shrub or flower," stated Mrs. Ray. Refreshments of filled Ritz crackers, angel food cake and punch were served to 13 members. A picnic lunch at the noon hour for the club members' families will be held at the Wesley park on Sunday, June 24.

8—THE FOARD COUNTY NEWS Crowell, Texas, June 14
INSECT, SPARE THAT TREE!
Insects and disease are the greatest enemies of the nation's forests, destroying almost three times as much standing timber as fire. Foresters are able to save millions of trees from destruction every year with the help of powerful new insecticides and weed killers such as DDT and 2,4-D. These chemicals play an important part in helping America grow timber faster than it is being used. Kentucky, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Virginia are among the states that have used them.
