Baked or fried — you can't beat chicken cooked electrically. Ever notice how the best restaurants use electric deep fat fryers for chicken and sea food? Gentle electric heat keeps the fat at properly controlled temperatures — reduces fat breakdown which keeps fried things tasty tender. To borrow an old saying "The proof of the pudding is in the eating" and on that thought we rest our case — take a bite and measure the difference — you can when you cook electrically.

Program

not insure proficiency in another. Although listening and reading, for example, have much in common children need planned instruction in both to become good well-rounded readers and listeners.
Each of the four areas of the language arts program has its specific goals and skills, and we try to make an effective language arts program by providing adequate instruction in each.
READINESS
The several levels into which our program is divided are labeled for convenience (1) Read-ness, in which we attempt to make sure the children have the background needed to learn so we may guide them through an educative process that develops specific skills and abilities. This process should help children integrate new insights and skills with previous experiences with books, poems, games or dramatic play Because children vary widely in ability and maturity it is never possible to keep a large group of them working together for prolonged blocks of time. We earnestly strive to make provisions for the many and varied individual differences that one meets in a group of approximately thirty children.

MATERIALS
The material used in first grade is developed on the theme of family life and playtime. This is an area that most children can identify themselves with and also one that strikes a responsive chord in children of this age group.
The theme of family togetherness and fun is repeated and expanded in various ways in the other levels of the program, namely: (2) Pre - Primer (3) Primer and (4) First Reader.
To supplement this basal reading series we use "Phonetic Keys to Reading", published by the Economy Company, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The plan of this material is to teach three books in the first grade. (1) "Tag" (pre - primer) (2) "Dot and Jim" (Primer); and (3) "All Around" (1st Reader). This program includes the development of auditory - visual perception; the application of phonetic analysis along with other means of word identification; and the use of reading for meaning. Throughout the series, development of audio - readiness preceded application of the sounds of the letters and of the phonetic principles governing the sounds. Structural analysis and study of word forms, including a program of syllabification and analysis of prefixes and suffixes are also contained in the program.

The text "Tag" (pre - primer), presents all vowels and consonants and their accompanying sounds for applications, along with opportunities for much further phonetic development and oral and silent reading practice with evaluation of comprehension.

"All Around" is the "clincher" book which provides opportunities to review, maintain, and re - teach all phonetic principles presented in the total program.

WRITING
The language arts develop in a chronological pattern that begins in infancy. The child listens and responds to language before he learns to talk; he learns to talk before he has heard any language, for speech is an imitative process. Likewise, a child must have some familiarity with printed language before he learns to write. In this area of writing we use the text, "Stories in Script" published by Benson and Co., Austin, Texas. Before children do the practice copy exercises in this consumable text book we usually give them opportunity for readiness in writing. On large sheets of unruled butcher paper the child is taught to make basic strokes which will later be fundamental in letter formation. The child is helped in correct body posture for writing and also is encouraged to hold the pencil correctly. The needs of the left - handed child are carefully taken into consideration and every effort is made for satisfactory progress.

After a few weeks, when growth patterns indicate a change the child is given instruction on ruled paper. First, he is usually taught how the previously learned basic strokes are confined between specific lines. The child usually learns to make the letters he has learned orally in the phonetic program. Advancing at his own rate, from here he goes on to form complete words, then to sentences, and next to stories. The first writing practice is considered to be copy work.
Writing abilities are developed along with reading readiness abilities since many reading readiness skills are conducive to writing development. After much copy practice work, and when children are able to achieve some independence, we encourage children to write their own creative stories. This encourages independence in spelling. Most of the spelling taught when the need actually arises in his creative or independent writings.
ART
The art that is taught in the first grade is developed in connection with seasonal activities and related activities that are enjoyed in connection with the various units of work in the basal texts. Media such as crayon, colored chalk, paper, cutting clay modeling, colored paper craft, splatter paint, tempera, brush and enamel, decorative items (glitter, paint) are used in the development of creative efforts of the child.
PHYSICAL EDUCATION
We have a tremendous responsibility in the maintenance and improving of the physical education program. The wise selection of instructional material for the curriculum in the school of today is exceedingly difficult. The philosophy that the whole child goes to school has been seriously accepted by us teachers. Physical education is fundamental to all educational development and deserves a fair share of school time in our school. Therefore we give thirty - minutes per day to this phase. We feel that play is not wasted time, but serves a great purpose, if properly conducted. The selection of activities in physical education must be done wisely and must be done in terms of the contribution to the total education; such activities as (1) chasing and fleeing games (2) rhythmic activities, (3) catching, throwing and kicking games (4) story plays and mimes (5) stunts, relays, rope jumping. By alternating these types each day of the week we feel that our children receive adequate opportunities for physical development.

MUSIC
Each first grade teacher is also responsible for music in her self - contained classroom. We set up music activities that will aid in developing basic movements or rhythms and stir a desire for listening to good music. Quiet time music we hope, helps to develop appreciation for better music. Often in our language arts program, songs, finger plays and action songs are used to a good advantage in learning situations.
SCIENCE
The science program in the first grade is set up according to the Basic Science Series by Ginn and Co. Dallas, Texas. Science concepts are developed, (many made) opportunities for experiences and field trips are planned. We elicit these areas to develop interest for science as a basic subject.

MATH
At the present time we are engaged in a transitional instructional program in numbers. However as we see it, the basic concepts must still be taught in first grade and the "new" math is added as enrichment to the basic program.
From the first day of school most six - year - olds are ready to learn more about number and number relationships. They are entitled to a carefully planned program of instruction to assist them in discovering and understanding something of the interdependence and overliensness of our number system. In addition to providing carefully planned activities for use during the arithmetic period, such a program should emphasize the use of arithmetic in home and community activities and classroom situations throughout the school day. It is through such social applications that children "see" how the arithmetic they are learning functions in their daily living.
The program in our school begins where they already know as a means of discovering something new. (We present basic number relationships through the manipulation of (1) concrete objects, then we move up to the next step and use (2) semi - concrete materials such as pictures of objects, (3) later, we move into the abstract numerals.) Many opportunities are provided for the children to demonstrate their understandings of these relationships. Individual differences are carefully observed and opportunities are planned to care for these situations.

American Heritage Program
Last but not least, is our American Heritage Program. Many times each week opportunities are given for learning situations concerning our patriotic aspirations and desires to keep our heritage of freedom and loyalty to our country. The "Weekly Reader", a copy of which each first grader receives each week, has much helpful material in this area of study.
This short outline is but a very general statement of learning activities set up by first grade. We hope that you the public, are interested in more particular details and will visit the schools in order to secure a better understanding of the tremendous responsibilities of parents and teachers in total child development.
Booklets are available at the office of the curriculum coordinator entitled "When Parents Ask About Reading" and "When Parents Ask About Arithmetic" (20 cents each). These will be very revealing to interest parents.

Spudnut Shop Bakes Special Party Cakes

Millions of people have discovered the delicious goodness of Spudnuts and this bakery product can be found in almost any town in the United States.

Spudnuts are an improvement on the old fashioned "doughnut" and they are made with chocolate, orange, cherry or vanilla icing. They are wonderful with coffee or hot chocolate or very good when you eat them without any drink.

When guests drop in to watch T. V. there is nothing better to serve them than Spudnuts and coffee. Many people buy them by the dozen and keep them on hand at all times. Children are very fond of them too and they take the place of cookies saving a lot of time and work for mother.

Spudnut in Muleshoe is located at 232 Main St., and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rundell. This couple moved here from Farwell and took over this business in August 1958. Since then they have made many friends and have a very popular business. Many downtown workers take their coffee break here in order to eat their favorite spudnut.

Fountain drinks area also served here and comfortable tables are available from which to eat and drink. Spudnuts are baked fresh every day and there is never a stale one.

Mr. and Mrs. Rundell also bake special orders for parties at Christmas time and Valentines Day particularly. Cookies in the shape of a tree are baked at Christmas and decorated with red and green icing. For Valentine Day, cookies in the shape of a heart decorated with red icing are made.

Other types of cookies can be ordered for special occasions. Phone orders are filled promptly and are ready when called for. This firm is open week days but closed Sundays.

A letter to our Congressman from JOE B. PHILLIPS

The Hon. George Mahon
Congressman, 19th District
1211 New House Office Building
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Mr. Congressman

This is another letter to acquaint you with my views concerning issues in this year's Congressional Campaign. Whenever it is convenient, I would be delighted to discuss publicly our opinions in an open forum.

I am unalterably opposed to our government's aiding communist countries which are openly dedicated to burying us as a nation. Selling wheat to the Russians, was in my opinion, a very serious mistake. By extending credit to the USSR to buy wheat, we have turned our backs on the patriots in Cuba who burned their crops in an effort to bring about a collapse of the communist government in their country.

It is my conviction that we must not give any foreign aid to those nations which are communist or communist dominated. In my opinion, we need to develop a realistic foreign policy to serve our interests and those of our allies. We need to help our friends, but we must stop aiding and abetting an enemy dedicated to our destruction.
