The Great Plains Conservation Program is gaining momentum in Foard County. Participation in the program has been more than anticipated. Thirty-three farmers and ranchers have shown interest in sharing Federal cost share payments under the program. With this interest, Foard County has received $16,000 additional funds which makes a total of $764. This amount is available for cost-share contract obligations during the fiscal year (July 1, 1957 through June 30, 1958). These 33 contracts involve 22,323 acres. Mrs. F. A. Davis Retires After Thirty-Six Years in Teaching Profession

Mrs. F. A. Davis, who is affectionately known to her school pupils as "Miss Lena," retired from the teaching profession last Friday when this year's school term at Crowell High School came to a close. She has completed thirty-six years of teaching, twenty-eight of these years being taught in the Crowell Public Schools.

She taught her first term at the Red River School in Hardeman County in 1910-1911. Her next two years were taught in the Bell District of Foard County. She taught one year at Lone Star and four years at Gambierville in Foard County.

Mrs. Davis has taught in the Crowell School system during four different periods: three years from 1913 to 1916; six years from 1917 to 1923; five years from 1924 to 1929; and fourteen years from 1944 until the present time. She did not teach from 1933 until 1944.

Mrs. Davis has taught in several different areas of the teaching field, but her first love is mathematics. She had affiliated work with the State Department in three different fields: mathematics, social science, and applied science. There was a special program given in her honor by the students and teachers of Crowell High School in the high school auditorium on Wednesday morning of last week. Superintendent Grady Graves was in charge, and reviewed the history of her teaching career and made some complimentary remarks. Two of the students, Lillie Polk and Dianne Sledge, presented a nice gift in behalf of the Crowell student body.

Mrs. Davis will certainly be missed around the Crowell School next fall, and she has hundreds of friends in various walks of life to whom she imparted knowledge during her 36 years of teaching.

FIRST OF '58 GRAIN CROP BROUGHT IN MONDAY

The first cutting of Foard County's 1958 grain crop—oats and barley—were delivered to Crowell elevators Monday.

The first load of the 1958 barley crop in Foard County was brought to the Farmers Co-Op. Elevator about 1 p. m. Monday.

The barley was raised by Dwight Campbell on Mrs. L. D. Campbell's land east of Crowell on US 70.

The 13,220-pound load of barley weighed 47 lbs. and tested 11.28 moisture content, Tom Abston, elevator manager, said.

The Foard County Mill's first load of 1958 oats were received at the elevator Monday morning. They came from Hubert Brown's Greening place west of Crowell.

The first load consisted of 321 bushels, tested 37 pounds and had a moisture content of 11.1. Monday afternoon and Tuesday the Foard County Mill received several thousand bushels of oats from the Greening place.

The first load of 1958 oats for the Farmers Elevator were brought in Tuesday morning. They came from the H. K. Campbell Estate land, tested 35 lbs. per bushel, had a moisture content of 10.12, and the load consisted of 293 bushels.

Although the wheat crop is not quite ready for harvest, the oats, barley and rye crop harvest is well underway.

Weather conditions have been perfect for the past 12 days, for the maturing of the wheat, and with continued fair weather, harvest should be getting in full swing early next week, with some wheat expected to be cut this week end.

The army worm infestation is damaging the later wheat, farmers report, but many farmers have been spraying their crop this week to kill the worms before they do too much damage.

Combine crews have been moving in for the past two weeks, and with the large number here, farmers should have no trouble getting their grain cut when it gets ripe.

Several farmers have swathed their oat fields to prevent them from falling from a rain or wind. Combines are now going through and threshing this grain.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

Austin, Tex.—A fresh task force is being organized by Gov. Price Daniel to attack the state's monetary problems.

With oil production still hovering at a historic low and a prime source of state revenue partially throttled, Texas government is, for the time being, at least, "living beyond its means."

Governor Daniel named a six-man committee of executive department officials to study ways of bridging the gap between income and outgo.

Members are Sec'y. of State Zollie Steakley, Treasurer Jesse James, Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, Auditor C. H. Cavness, Budget Officer Jess Irwin and Col. J. T. Ellis Jr. of the governor's administrative staff.

They are expected to work cooperatively with the State Tax Study Commission, a group of legislators and outside experts who have been surveying the state's fiscal position for some months.

Under the present spending pattern, it is estimated the next legislature would have to scratch up upwards of $100,000,000 in new revenue to balance the books.

As in a family that comes up short at the end of the month, the state's advisors, both official and unofficial, are divided between those advocating getting more money and those favoring less spending.

Governor Daniel urged his executives to try both angles. Specifically, he suggested exploring:

1. Every possible economy in use of state funds.

2. Possible elimination or combination of duplicating services among state agencies.

3. Compilation of a list of non-recurring expenses in the present appropriation.

4. Every possible source of additional state revenues which may be available without the levy of additional taxes.

OPEN SEASON — Most major candidates have held their opening rallies and will be campaigning with little let-up between now and the July 26 primary.

But in many areas of the state an even more intensive struggle is going on at the grass roots for control of the precinct conventions. They'll be held right after the primary, on the evening of July 26.

It's a small-time battle with big-time stakes. Whichever group of the Democratic party gets out the "mostest" to the precinct conventions will control the state convention in the fall. This means taking over the official machinery of the party for the next two years—leading up to 1960 and presidential nominating time.

Governor Daniel has said he will personally lead "conservatives, moderates and all other Texas Democrats who believe in majority decisions." He's been assured of vigorous opposition from the liberal Democrats of Texas led by Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston, Texas' national committeewoman.

DOT will have a statewide rally in Austin May 31 to draw attention to its efforts to oust the governor from official party leadership.

For the average citizens the precinct convention poses a more ticklish problem than primary voting. It may mean voting, publicly, against a neighbor who's running for precinct chairman.

"WARS" WATCHED — Atty.

Gen. Will Wilson says his office is keeping close check on the gasoline and milk price wars that have broken out in major cities.

In some areas gasoline prices dropped as much as 10 cents per gallon below normal, and milk has been sold at a fraction of the usual charge.

"Texas anti-trust laws do not prevent price wars which are the free working of competition," Wilson commented, "but they do prohibit agreement or conspiracy to fix or cut prices and selling below cost to eliminate competition."

MORE BUILDING — Effect of the drought's end is being seen in more building in smaller towns dependent on agriculture for prosperity.

UT's Bureau of Business Research reports a 10 per cent rise in the January-April building volume for towns with less than 10,000 population.

BBR's report reflected a fairly general brightening of the building picture. Construction authorizations for April were up 3 per cent from March and 22 per cent from a year ago.

Home builders were found to be cautiously optimistic. Most, BBR reported, hadn't actually experienced much of an increase in home sales. But they were busier than they'd been in months building up a supply for an expected pick-up in buying by fall and next year.

Easier credit and, in some cases, lower costs of materials are expected to make house-buying more alluring.

MORE SALVAGE — Sale of some municipal bonds owned by the bankrupt US Trust and Guaranty Co. has brought another $144,000 for the company's creditors.

An earlier distribution of $2,181,000 represented about 31 per cent of the amount owed some 9,000 persons.

Meanwhile, Insurance Department employees are working against a May 31 deadline to complete an operation designed to prevent such fiascos in the future. They check the annual statement of each company doing business in Texas. If any questionable transactions are uncovered, the company is required to straighten them out before being re-licensed.

During the past year, a period of tightened regulation, there has been no large-scale crack-up in the industry. Many younger companies have merged to strengthen their positions by combining assets.

GUN SELLING LAW — Whether Texas law regulating sale of pistols is constitutional is being considered by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Case in point involves a Houstonite who was sentenced for sale of a pistol to a minor. Attorney for the defendant contends the law is too vague and confusing to be valid.

Texas penal code has two separate and sometimes conflicting sections on sale of firearms, forbidding their sale to minors, persons "under heat of passion" and persons convicted of felonies.

SHORT SNORTS — Texas Employment Commission has announced the first substantial drop in unemployment claims this year. After weeks of tabulating steady increases in joblessness, TEC reports claims had slid from 90,913 to 86,528. Total benefits paid dropped $143,070 for the week.

Accompanying this good news, TEC announced 1,127 new jobs created in the state by the opening of new businesses. Largest was a garment factory in Temple employing 200.

21 FLU EPIDEMICS
According to Today's Health, 21 flu epidemics have occurred since the 1918-19 onslaught produced the highest mortality. As a general rule, the death toll has gone down with each succeeding attack. Various reasons are believed responsible for the better medical care, more effective drugs, and the development of a certain degree of immunity in individuals.

WOULD BE MILLSTONE ON TAXPAYER'S NECK
 "Many early advocates of the St. Lawrence Seaway are now working toward fixing ridiculously low tolls or eliminating them all together. This would turn the Seaway into a taxpayer liability with all of us forced to foot the bill not only for its construction but for its operation as well. . . . Before they do, it would be a good idea to remind our Congressmen of their original intention and demand they prevent the Seaway from becoming another millstone around the neck of the luckless taxpayer." — Walden, N. Y., Citizen Herald.

by Vern Sanford

It has long been said the moon is made of green cheese. Now scientists everywhere seem to be determined to find out if it's so.

Army, navy, air corps and civilian experts apparently are scrapping among themselves to see who gets there first.

Anyway, whether it is the Sputnik or the USnik, the costs so far have gone higher than the devices.

It's true that all of us want to know what's in outer space. We're not complaining about the costs, for all of us are interested in the rest of the universe.

Also there are a good many of us who want to know more about what's going on "down below." Fishermen in particular are interested in the creatures of the deep.

So, maybe you'd like to hear about a little experiment that is going on along the Texas coast. There, aquatic biologic scientists are trying to find ways to create an artificial snapper reef.

They have an adequate budget. Not as big as the nuclear scientists, but adequate. The Game & Fish Commission has earmarked some $7,000 for the venture. This money will buy a couple hundred old automobile bodies.

These bodies will be linked together with a piece of oil field cable and dropped into the Gulf of Mexico at the 10 fathom curve near the whistling buoy off Port Aransas.

Tentative coast guard approval already has been given. The old autos must be planted where they will be a little too deep to affect navigation, and away from the range of shrimpers' nets.

This will be one of the most interesting experiments ever undertaken in Texas to increase offshore fishing for red snapper, and other saltwater fighters. If it works other artificial reefs will be created from time to time to improve fishing conditions along the Texas coast.

This little experiment may make the world a better place in which to live—rather than one to get out of.

At the present time snapper fishing is done mostly from party boats at range from 15 to 100 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico. There has been a little snapper fishing around the oil derricks in the offshore waters. These derricks are indicative that snapper can be caught around the artificial reefs.

It is hoped that the old automobile bodies will work like a brush shelter and serve as a hide-away for red snapper, ling, pompano, barracuda and other smaller fish. That of course means that the big ones will be lurking nearby. Result: good fishing for everyone.

Alabama has tried the idea with some success. If it works in Texas our coastal fishing will be much better, because these artificial reefs will afford cover not only for snapper, but for many other good fighting fish.

It might also be a place to get rid of thousands of old automobile bodies—which can't be shipped to the moon.

It has been suggested by some that old auto bodies might be used in fresh water lakes to provide cover for fish.

This would be very dangerous. Our lakes in Texas are not large enough. Even a few old automobile bodies dumped into Texas lakes would produce navigation hazards we don't need. Let's keep them clean.

If there is any tendency to dump auto bodies in the lakes in your area, then it would be wise for municipalities to pass ordinances, as soon as possible, to stop it.

Speaking of ordinances, what about asking your city to provide safe boat launching ramps in waters controlled by it? The City of Austin has just completed a new one within the city limits, on Lake Austin. It will help relieve the situation greatly.

CHECK YOUR LINES — At the risk of becoming redundant we want to remind fishermen again to check your lines. Too many big fine fish are lost every year because we take a chance on a line that has been used for two or three years and we think it still is good.

If you decide your line is good, then at least take off the first 10 feet. This is the part which gets the most strain, running through the guides, hanging in brush and getting much more usage than the rest of the line.

There is nothing that makes a man feel quite so bad as to have a line failure just about the time he is fixing to boat a big bass. It isn't worth it when you can get a new line for so little by comparison to your cost on other equipment.

PROPOSE DEFICIT-CREATING PROGRAMS

"Using the recession as an excuse, the Big Spenders in Washington are proposing many deficit-creating programs which could mean ruinous inflation. Alarmed at the frightening prospect, Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, has warned his colleagues that: 'Those who would resort to tremendous deficit spending as a temporary expedient in recession, disregard the long-run evil they do in terms of the value of our money, cost of living, welfare of fixed income people, and our fiscal soundness which involves our democratic institutions and our form of government.' — Norfolk, Va., Times-Advocate.

Change in Law Affects Some Aged Wives and Widows

Some aged wives and widows who are separated but not divorced from their husbands could be receiving monthly social security benefits on the basis of their husband's work, if they would come in and file application, Erton F. Tate, district social security manager, said this week.

A 1957 change in the law did away with the requirement that a wife must be living with, or supported by her husband when she files application, and that a widow must have been living with or supported by her husband at the time of his death. Now, a 62 year old wife or widow may be eligible for a monthly benefit merely on the basis of a legal marriage that is still in existence — even though they may have been separated for many years and are at opposite ends of the country. There has been no change in the law with respect to the provision that a wife can receive monthly benefits only if her husband is also receiving his benefit.

Aged wives and widows who believe they can qualify for benefits as a result of this change in the law should contact the social security office promptly to determine what their rights are. Tate concluded.

A representative from the social security office will be in Crowell June 10 at the court house at 10 a. m.

Students Doing Summer Work Need Social Security No.

Arrival of spring brings thoughts of vacation plans to millions of high school and college students. Erton F. Tate, manager of the Wichita Falls social security office, advised that students planning to work should get social security cards now.

"Having his social security card with him to show prospective employers may help a student get the job," said Tate, "because most employers now insist on copying the name and number directly from the card for their records. This prevents mistakes in the name and number on the wage reports the employer has to file. As earnings can be credited only when the name and number are correct, and as benefits payable in old age or to dependent survivors in case of death are based on earnings credited, it is very important that the reports be correct."

Tate added that students who had had a social security card before and lost it should apply for a duplicate and not another original card. He explained that having earnings credited to two or more social security numbers could result in earnings credited to one number not being used for benefit purposes. An application for social security cards including duplicates, can be obtained from the Wichita Falls social security office or any post office.

Nearly all kinds of work a student might do during vacation is now covered by social security, according to Mr. Tate, including work on farms and ranches when he receives at least $100 in cash wages from one employer during the year.

Leptospirosis Is Causing Cattle Losses in Area

Foard County Agent Joe Burkett this week released a report from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station on the livestock disease "leptospirosis." Once thought to be unimportant to the livestock industry, this disease is now known to be causing extensive losses.

Surveys conducted during 1956 and 1957 by the Texas station show the disease to be widespread in cattle and swine of the state. More than half of the herds tested had animals that were positive to the leptospira test. Sheep, goats and horses may be affected, but the extent of the disease among these animals is unknown. Deer and several other types of wildlife suffer from the disease and may serve as a reservoir.

Leptospirosis has a wide range of symptoms that makes a diagnosis in the field difficult. It may affect most of the animals in a herd without recognizable illness. On the other hand, there may be numerous abortions and up to 5 per cent death loss among grown animals. But usually the death losses are confined to calves and one out of three of those affected may succumb.

The first symptoms are a high temperature, coffee colored or blood tinged urine, and a sudden decrease in milk production. The milk may be viscous and yellow.

Leptospirosis is relatively mild in swine except for its effect on the pregnant sow. She will often abort especially if in the last third of gestation. If not, part or all of the pigs may be born dead or die soon after birth. It may pass through a herd of feeder pigs without symptoms being observed.

A vaccine now available provides immunity in cattle and swine for a period of six months or more.

Fish Parasites Described in Magazine Story

"Ever clean your string of fish and see small, whitish dots on the liver or other internal organs?" asks Dr. R. J. Baldauf of Texas A&M College in the May issue of Texas Game and Fish. In his article, "Of Fish and Snails," Baldauf explains that these white dots are parasites, flukes which take away the appetite of a bass although they do not otherwise harm it.

Biologists at A&M discovered a fluke, nicknamed "Posty," in a largemouth bass, Baldauf explains. Then they began an extensive search to find out how to get rid of it. To destroy a fluke, first biologists must learn where it spends each phase of its life cycle. In this case, the fluke's hosts were fish-eating birds, then snails, then fish, and back to the birds again.

"The weakest link in the chain seems to be the snail," Baldauf says. "The parasite cannot complete its cycle without the snail, and the snail can be eliminated from a pond by chemical treat-

DISCRIMINATORY TAX

"From the Federal Government's viewpoint, the 10 per cent excise tax on all telephone service is a fine thing. . . . But from most any other angle, it's an exceedingly bad tax. In the first place, it's discriminatory. There's no excise tax on water, gas or electricity. In fact, the telephone is the only essential household utility that is so taxed."—Pine Bluff, Ark., Commercial.

WAY TO REDUCE TAXES

"It is true enough that industries as well as individuals are over-taxed. But the remedy is not to be found in shifting the burden from one pair of shoulders to another's. The remedy is to seek out waste in government and unnecessary expenditures. Double taxation is one of the greatest burdens now pressing down the brow of the people. . . .
Nor can the individual owning no stocks escape the effect of this double taxation. No one will willingly invest their money in a company which pays no return. To have anything left after taxes for dividends, every company is obliged to sell its product for higher prices. And since every individual must at some time buy the products of some of these corporations, they, in turn are helping to pay this double tax.
"It is as simple as two plus two make four." — Addison, N. Y., Advertiser.

considered game animals in Texas. White-tailed deer and tree squirrels, more plentiful than any other game, are distributed more widely and are the most important ones. The deer population of Texas is approximately 750,000. The principal kinds are the white-tailed and the black-tailed, or mule deer. The white-tailed, with its varieties, including the flagtail, is distributed most widely and is the greatest in number. The pronghorn antelope is one of the most picturesque and swiftest of big game. It is a deer-like animal, suggesting a cross-between a deer and a goat.
Bighorn sheep and black bear are few in number in Texas, and only a few elk are to be found. Most of them are in the Guadalupe Mountains of Culberson County. The native elk vanished before 1900, but in 1928, 44 elk were imported and have increased to a population of 300 to 500. Principal game birds of Texas include ducks, woodcock, brant, geese, snipe, plover, many species of shore birds, wild pigeons, chachalacas, prairie chickens, wild turkey, quail and doves. Detailed information on these game birds and others and on the principal game animals including some of their habits, characteristics and where they are most plentiful may be obtained by ordering B-150, "Wild Game of Texas," from the office of Joe Burkett, county agent.

MONEY ISN'T NEEDED FOR SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT

Writing in National Review, Russell Kirk, the distinguished teacher and writer, finds this central fallacy in the federal-aid-to-education plan: "It isn't money that we need for the improvement of instruction in science, or in anything else. For already we spend far more on schools than any nation ever has before in all history—far more, per capita, than the Russians do. Our trouble is that we are not obtaining value for our expenditures." As Dr. Kirk sees it, too much money goes for non-essential frills, and not enough for real education.

With

American farmers are being moved in to the cold war with Russia.

Washington officials this week are revising the World War II slogan, "food will win the war and write the peace" to read "food is one of our most important weapons in the battle against communism."

"Our surplus stockpile of food," a State Department official tells us, "is as important in the cold war as our stockpile of atomic bombs. The first can build a peaceful world, the second could destroy it."

This sudden emphasis on food as an implement of our foreign policy is somewhat in the nature of a "me too" answer to recently announced Russian plans to expand food production for use in winning new friends.

The principal battleground in the developing "peaceful war" will be India, Pakistan, Burma and the Middle East. All are areas where food is the most pressing economic problem. Considerable quantities of food, principally from the U. S., already are being shipped in.

Food to Win Friends

The decision to win friends and influence people in the cold war through use of food is an adoption, on an international scale, of the long-accepted women's axiom that the most direct route to a man's heart is through his stomach.

Heretofore, our primary purpose in financing the export of foods has been to reduce our own excessive supplies and to relieve the price burden they impose on U. S. farm prices. We have charged off the cost, more than $7 billion, to farm "subsidies."

Within the past few months Russian dictator Nikita Khrushchev has opened up a "second front" in the cold war. The objective, as we have reported, is to spread communism to uncommitted nations through trade and aid.

Our State Department is now awake to that challenge. Not long ago it asked the Agriculture Department for a survey and report on current and prospective surpluses of foods over the next five years. USDA was asked to use all precautions to prevent the information becoming public.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles then asked John H. Davis, the highly regarded former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, to make an appraisal of the USDA

Jet Transport Doors Take Marathon Tests

Jet transport engineers are staying close to swinging doors these days.

But don't get the wrong idea. These doors will be used on the jet transports which are scheduled to enter airline service later this year. The doors are undergoing marathon tests for reliability and, so far, a test door has been opened and closed more than 15,000 times. It is inspected after every 200 cycles, dismantled and examined for wear after 5,000 cycles.

Other checks include water- and air-leakage tests and a performance check to determine the door's reaction to icing conditions.

Band Returns Reveal Quail Stay Close By

Pen-raised quail present as great a challenge to hunters as wild quail, and the birds usually remain within a few miles of their release site. This encouraging re- port by Game Warden Louis Cly- mer is based on the records he kept of the Hill County Bobwhite Quail Club's second annual quail release. Clymer's report, "The Bands Tell the Story," will appear in the May issue of Texas Game and Fish magazine, the official publication of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

"Since 1956, the Hill County Bobwhite Quail Club has released 1,396 quail," Clymer says. "Of this number, 15 per cent have been killed by hunters and the bands turned in to the Game and Fish Commission. Band returns have aided substantially in determining the habits of the birds, their range of travel, and possible survival rate."

The article points out that it seems to be a common occurrence for released quail to join wild coveys. A large number of released birds have never been relocated.

Quail were released in Hill County after the end of a drouth which had cut down the quail popu- lation. Pen-raised birds were ob- tained from the State Quail Farm at Tyler. Prospective releasers of quail must have their land inspec- ted by their local warden to deter-

MUST BE KEPT SEPARATE

Harry Hazlitt writes in News- week: "Unemployment insurance as such can only be preserved if it is strictly separated from relief. What we really need now is not to desert the insurance principle but to return to it more strictly. A big step in that direction might be to have the workers themselves contribute directly toward the pre- miums, as they have always done in Britain, and in our own Fed- eral old-age insurance system."

Fertilizing of Farm Tanks Produces More Large Fish

Farmers interested in producing the maximum number of large fish in the shortest length of time, should consider fertilization of their farm ponds. Not only does fertilization promote fish growth, but at the same time it helps to control the underwater moss.

A wide choice of fertilizers can be used. These include commercial mixtures, soybean meal, cottonseed meal, barnyard manure and others. Fertilization should be applied during the spring months,

CRITICAL OF "FRILLS" IN EDUCATION

Admiral Rickover, who is called the father of the atomic submarine, is extremely critical of "frills" in American education. An AP dispatch quotes him as saying: "I'd throw all of the fringe courses out of our school. For instance, in one Illinois school system they have a course in how to know if you're in love. In another school they have a course in rest—you get credits for resting. And in Florida they have a course in fly casting."

That Dallas Look

The miniature redingote is done by Fauché of Dallas in dark broadcloth dress with contrasting skirt insert. A white sailor collar is decked with buttons and red rickrack to delight a young miss of fashion.

Fertilizing of Farm Tanks Produces More Large Fish

Farmers interested in producing the maximum number of large fish in the shortest length of time, should consider fertilization of their farm ponds. Not only does fertilization promote fish growth, but at the same time it helps to control the underwater moss.

A wide choice of fertilizers can be used. These include commercial mixtures, soybean meal, cottonseed meal, barnyard manure and others. Fertilization should be applied during the spring months, and should be stopped about the first of June. Several small applications of from 50 to 100 pounds of fertilizer for each surface acre of water, made every four to six weeks during the spring, is much better than one or two heavy applications.

Water which has been properly fertilized will grow enough natural fish food organisms for rapid fish growth. The microscopic plant and animal life which result from proper fertilization will also serve to filter out much of the sunlight, thus reducing troublesome underwater moss in the pond.

H. E. Ferguson left Wednesday night for Manitou Springs, Colo., where he will spend the summer.
