Speaking in Behalf of C. H. S.

The annual Interscholastic League contest is scheduled for the month of April. The CHS students have already begun work on declamations, poetry reading, typing, extemporaneous speaking, ready writing and spelling as various phases of this contest. Since Crowell High School does not have a speech department, speech class or speech teacher this year, the students must prepare their selections by themselves. The English teachers do try to help the students, but their time is taken up by their regular classes and studies. Therefore, Crowell students are at a disadvantage as compared to some schools with whom they compete; however, CHS has consistently had winners for the various fields of the league.

We asked CHS students what they thought about the Interscholastic League events. Arlos Moore is entering the extemporaneous speaking contest, and Jo Frances Long is entering typing, declamation and poetry reading.

I think League events definitely help our school. I wish that we had more time for them and had a qualified speech teacher to help us in these events. They help us to overcome self consciousness while speaking before a group, and they stimulate an interest in the arts of speaking and writing. —Arlos Moore.

It helps CHS a lot because it instills in the students the importance of improving themselves through speaking, writing, typing and athletic events. Furthermore, it gives the students an incentive to work toward achieving success in their particular field. The Interscholastic League encourages the students to listen, learn, and act. —Jo Frances Long.

Senior of the Week

Mary Anne Myers, our featured senior for this week, is 18 years old, 5' 7" tall, and has blonde hair and blue eyes.

Mary Anne thinks that her parents are the most important people in the world because they have provided her with an education, and they are always close when she needs them. During her spare moments when she is not studying English IV, she enjoys playing basketball, playing tennis, and riding horses. Her list of favorites include the color yellow, Spanish food, the song "I Was the One," the sport basketball, Richard Burton and Joan Woodward, and the subject physics. Her hardest subject is (of course) English IV. Her pet peeve is a person who tries to be something that he really isn't. Mary Anne has been a member of the basketball team for four years. She is a member of the volleyball team. She has also won the western half of the district in tennis. She has been a member of FHA for four years and a member of the Sub-Junior Columbian Club for four years. She is also a Thespians.

When she graduates, she hopes to attend West Texas State College. Later, she plans to transfer to medical school where she will study to become a laboratory technician. Mary Anne, all of us here at CHS would like to wish you a lot of success with your future plans.

Band News and Views

With contests over for a while, the concert band is rehearsing for "Variety in Review," which is looked forward to by each member in the band. They are selecting the best music available for the program. Meanwhile, the stage band is planning to accompany the style show which will be a part of the Lions Club Follies. They rehearsed Sunday afternoon and Monday night with the members. The next stage band contest will be held at Enid, Okla., in May. Until next week, this is the latest news. See you all at the follies.

Students Are Guests of Rotarians

Last week, the Rotary Club sponsored a theme writing contest on the Rotary's code of ethics—The Four Way Test. The sophomore and junior classes wrote the themes, and from them, two were selected from each class. Wendell Callaway and Lynda Harris represented the sophomores; Delton Brown and Carole Fisch, the juniors. These four were guests of the Rotary Club for lunch on March 9. Wendell, Lynda, Delton and Carole read their themes, and they were later presented with prizes in appreciation of their accomplishments.

Library Club Meets

The Crowell High School Library Club met in Mrs. King's English room Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, March 8. Refreshments were served by Bonnie Little, Carolyn Denton and Ina Joy Statter. The meeting was brought to order by the president, Helen Vessel, and her address was followed by the devotional by Jo Ann Schwarz. A sponsor's report was given by Mrs. King, including an open discussion of the library of office behavior. The business meeting consisted of a discussion of plans for the April meeting to be held at Quanah. A party is planned for the club members who attend. The meeting was concluded by a book report by Rachel Rodriguez, "How to Stop Worrying and Start Living," by Dale Carnegie.

Seniors Take Achievement Tests

The seniors of Crowell High School were given the Fundamentals Evaluation Test Friday, March 11, by Mrs. Manard and Mr. Black. The test is indicative of their achievement in vocabulary, reading comprehension, science, social studies and math; and at a later date they will be given an aptitude and an IQ test.

Intra-Mural Cage Games Played

The CHS Student Council sponsored the annual intra-mural basketball games during school Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. In the first set of games, the sophomores beat the freshmen 63 to 16, even though freshman coach Hester used his "secret weapon." The seniors defeated the juniors in an exciting game 60 to 48.

The play-offs were held Wednesday. The juniors defeated the freshmen 41 to 29 to place third in the tournament. Margie Raskberry, Margaret Fiske, Ely Wehba and Carolyn Wenley added to the excitement by joining the heretofore all boy teams. The seniors came out as top winners of the tournament by defeating the sophomores 45 to 45. They will be awarded a trophy by the Student Council.

Water Conservation Postage Stamp to Be Released

Soil and water conservation leaders here are looking forward to issuance of the world's first water conservation postage stamp by the Post Office Department in Washington, D. C., James H. Herring said this week.

The commemorative 4-cent stamp, printed in 3 colors, will be issued April 18 at the National Watershed Congress in the national capitol at a ceremony featuring three cabinet members, Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton, and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

"The stamp will go on sale on the following day, April 19, at other post offices throughout the country, including Crowell post office," Postmaster Alva Spencer said.

"The beautiful new stamp dramatizes the fact that water is today our most precious and most limiting natural resource," Herring said. The stamp is being released at the Seventh National Watershed Congress. Herring pointed out, because of the influence of upstream land treatment and small dams in small watersheds on our water supplies.

This congress, he said, brings together each year representatives of 30 or more agricultural and conservation organizations concerned with water problems in the nation's small watersheds.

H. L. Ayers, supervisor of the Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District, said, "local observance of the water conservation's stamp issuance is being planned."

Card of Thanks

I have not words to express my thanks to Dr. Kralick, the hospital staff and my dear friends, who have been so nice to me. The cards, phone calls, visits and nice things to eat are helping me to make a speedy recovery and I truly thank you. God has been so very near to me, and may His richest blessings go with you. Much love to all.

Pearl Crews.

Urge for Self-Betterment

"Have you ever wondered about advertising that made you want to buy something you thought you couldn't afford? Well . . . pause and be thankful for it. It's this very ability of advertising to prod us into wanting something better that keeps our economic machine whirling away at top speed . . . "Few can deny that we have achieved a 'good life' in this country . . . We will continue so long as we keep up this urge for self-betterment."—Dayton, O., Labor Union.

Waterways Questions and Answers

Q. What is a waterway?
A. A waterway may be defined as a channel for water which has a protective cover of grass to prevent erosion. Such waterways may be natural or designed.

Q. Why are they needed?
A. Waterways where needed are planned as part of a complete coordinated farm plan to carry off extra amounts of water, usually from a cultivated field which needs to be terraced.

Q. Is there just one kind of waterway?
A. No. There are two types of waterways commonly used. One is a flat bottom and the other is parabolic (bowl shaped).

Q. What kind of grasses are used to provide adequate cover in waterways?
A. Any number of adapted grasses such as sideots grama, King Ranch bluestem, buffalo, Indian grass, vine mesquite, western wheat grass, switch grass or Bermuda grass. Millet, forage sorghum or sudan grass are planted in waterway the first year (and not allowed to seed) to provide dead litter in to which the permanent grasses will then be seeded.

Q. What assistance is available?
A. Assistance in selecting a suitable location, layout, supervision of installation and check for completion is available through the local Soil Conservation Service.

Federal cost share assistance may be provided through the local Agricultural Stabilization Conservation office.

Q. If a waterway is needed, what is the next step?
A. If you do not have a complete plan on your farm, it would be well to request one through the Soil Conservation Service.

After waterway is planned, application for federal cost share may be made at the local ASC office. A copy of your application will be forwarded to the SCS. Then you are ready to begin.

Federal Government Far Behind States

"Constitutional provisions prohibit a president from knocking single items out of appropriation bills. Consequently, Congress always lumps a lot of appropriations together and submits them as one bill. It usually contains some undesirable or selfish items mixed in with the necessary ones. . . . The Federal government is far behind most state governments in this respect. The governors of some 39 states . . . exercise item veto power."—Corvallis, Ore., Gazette-Times.

Competition Never Subsides

"At twenty, a young man thinks the competition in getting ahead is fierce, and so it is. At thirty he finds it worse because more is expected of him. "Skipping the other decennials brings us to seventy, at which age it would seem that the competition would subside, but no. Those who survive seven decades find themselves members of a hardy, tough, seemingly indestructible group."—Morrison, Ill., Sentinel.

Far Better for States to Handle Money

"Instead of individuals in the states contributing extra money to the federal government in order that the federal government may dole out educational handouts, wouldn't it be far better if the states themselves would collect that same money and hand it back to the individual districts in the state?"—Phillips, Wisc., Bee.

Selling of modern accident insurance in the U. S. did not begin until 1864.

"To remove the white mineral deposits in the water cavity of your steam iron, put one-half cup distilled vinegar in the iron and steam for 15 minutes, rinsing well with distilled water after it has set eight hours or overnight," continued Mrs. Bowley. Roll call was answered by a foolish superstition. Miss Myrtle Fish read an article about the International Peace Garden and Mrs. Clyde Bowley gave the council report.

Refreshments were served to two visitors, Mrs. R. L. Walling and Mrs. Allen Fish, and members, Mrs. C. M. Carroll, Mrs. Bill Fish, Mrs. Arthur Sandlin, Mrs. Clyde Bowley, Mrs. Marion T. Gilbert, Miss Neoma Fish and Mrs. W. O. Fish.

11,000 Newspapers in Russia

"When we think of Russian newspapers, we are inclined to think of Izvestia and Pravda, just as Russians are probably inclined to think of the New York Times, for example, when they think about the American press.
"But in each country, there are more than 11,000 small and large newspapers, each with considerable influence in its own community. . . . Although we are sure that newspapers in the United States have considerably more freedom to say what they choose to say, it is also remarkably interesting to note that the pattern in Russia is more newspapers and broader circulation. This could be a healthy trend."—Howard Park, U. S. Herald (Reprinted from Publishers' Auxiliary)

Large Number of Wild Birds Are Starving

Thousands of game and song birds are starving in Texas because of the lingering icy weather that has blanketed the state. "Game wardens have reported seeing hundreds of dead or dying robins, too weak to search any longer for insects or seeds," reports J. B. Phillips, assistant director of law enforcement, Texas Game and Fish Commission.
Few plants produce berries this time of the year. Insects are in hibernation or have been killed out by the freezing cold spells typical in the state the past few months. Many birds have turned to eating things they normally pass by. Others rob protected gardens in desperation.
"Those birds need food, and they need it badly," said Mr. Phillips. "Some of them are so weak from starvation that they can't escape even to the greener pastures that lie farther south. They're simply doomed without the help of man."
Texans could help by tossing out a few bread crumbs or sprinkling a handful or two of grain outdoors each day. Most people throw enough scraps into the garbage each day to feed dozens of small undernourished song birds. "Set these scraps aside for our feathered friends," suggests the assistant director. "This would be a wonderful project for the young people."
At first, only a few birds may come for the food; however, once they learn that food will be waiting for them in your backyard, they'll return daily in flocks.

Do You Read Bible

"The question, 'Do you read the Bible?' asked in a survey would produce very interesting replies, if the truth were told. "There are some people who think themselves 'superior' because they place scant reliance on a book which is still the world's best seller. . . .
"Any number of our citizens can, and will, testify to the great influence for good that has exerted upon their lives. . . . know that its study has done them values not equalled by other publications." —Bible Ind., Enquirer.
