

SAVE AT LEAST ONE-TENTH OF WHAT YOU EARN

You should put one dollar out of every ten in your thrift and opportunity account and more if you possibly can, out of each week's salary. Then add to this your surplus dollars—money that you would otherwise spend foolishly and watch the total of your savings grow.

You will soon have enough to begin to realize your ambitions in life.

Lillian Bell Gives Party for Sophomores

Lillian Gene Bell entertained the Sophomore Class with a Hallowe'en party at her home Friday night. The house was decorated appropriately for the occasion. When the guests arrived, they were conducted through the chamber of horrors and taken to the spirits. Miss Bell proved that she could read our minds. The guests then paraded before the judges for the purpose of selecting the most original costumes. William Hicks won the prize. Refreshments consisted of all day suckers and apples.

Womack Home Is Scene of Junior Class Party

The Junior Class was entertained with a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Womack last Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. Upon arriving, each boy selected a partner for the different features which were to follow first, the couples in turn departed from the house to the witch's "den." Here the witch served them with a drink called "witch's delight," and it proved to be very hot indeed. Next on the program was an endless ghost story telling. The next and most interesting feature was the fortune telling, which included a very shocking experience for every person there. The remainder of the party consisted of different games. Delicious refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pickles, cakes and chocolate were served to each guest.

Musings of The Owl

To some of us the memory of Hallowe'en lingers like the onions after the hamburger. Bill Middleton says "When I take my girl friend out to dine, the law of supply and demand receives a severe shock." Says Ralph Burrow, who, by the way, is among other things a philosopher, "Every thing has its drawbacks, even to being the High-school bell." Like our old last summer's straw at the new gymnasium suits of the day are perfectly good, but a little bit of season for these cold days. We brought back from Matador that we took with us with the exception of a small amount of shoe leather. Oh well, Hallowe'en comes only once a year. Throckmorton is to be played this week but it is the Monday game that most of us are looking forward to. And what a whale of a game it will be. The Owl sincerely hopes that the fellow who tied that milk cow to our back door on Hallowe'en night really didn't mean anything personal in that clever trick. About the only pleasure that we receive from writing this column is the opportunity of hearing the unbiased opinions of its very numerous critics. As they are good and bad, and even some are indifferent. We heard a fellow the other day complaining that nothing he had written had been printed. Sorry, we heard the one about the Scotchman, now tell us the one about Pat and Joe. Mr. Todd says that the only free thing that a person can get now is radio music from the air. So he bought him a radio. Ta-Hoot Ta-Hoot, Ta-Hoo. THE OWL.

PERSONALS

Freshies in Charge of Assembly Program

Monday morning the Freshmen gave a very interesting program to the student body. A party, portrayed by members of the class, given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Black, who were recently married. An old-fashioned square dance was given by members of the party. A school scene was portrayed by some members of the class. This program was gotten up by Merle Smith, a member of the class, and was enjoyed by everyone.

Seventh Grade Girls Entertained Wednesday

The low seventh grade girls entertained the ward school with an interesting program Wednesday morning. The feature act was a playlet, "The Family Going to a Bridge Party," by seventh grade girls. Other features of the morning were: two short readings by Sammie Gene Mills; a duet by Mary Housouer and Jannie Dee Coffey a story, "The Origin of Hallowe'en," by Doris Oswald; reading, "New Patriot," by Fred Allen Beverly; story, "How the Witch Came to Sweep the Clouds from the Sky," by Florene Miller, and a song by five girls from the primary department.

HALL GOSSIP

What "sneak" got off with my pencil? We had more fun. Why aren't you coming to the party? I've a notion to knock you in the head. Peggy's got a new green coat. Where did you all go? Wouldn't it slay you? Does anybody have a comb? Beat it, here comes I. T.

Merle Smith Hostess For Freshman Party

The Freshman party was given at the home of Merle Smith on Hallowe'en night. The house was decorated in Hallowe'en colors. They first played "Clap-in, Clap-out." Then Lona Johnson told fortunes, and all present, with the exception of a few, received a sudden and severe shock. They played "Pleased or Displeased," and nearly everyone was displeased, although they usually got pleased, except Mozelle when she had to go walking with Travis. They played several games afterward and all had a very good time. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served, and the party ended at about nine o'clock, only to continue with "spooking."

OFF TO MATADOR

One, two, three, go! We're off to Matador. Besides the main football squad there were three carloads of pep squad girls who responded to this command at 10:30 a. m. Friday morning. Upon arriving at Matador the people from Crowell assembled at the Texas Cafe where they had the time of their lives. From the cafe they went to the school house and they were treated with the utmost courtesy while attending the classes of the Matador High School. When they had been in all of their classrooms they went to give their new gym the "once over." It was equipped with every form of modern conveniences. It made them wish they had one like it. By this time it was time for the boys to suit out for the game which was to be held at 3:00 o'clock. The girls, while the boys were gone, went to the football field and found a suitable sideline view for the pep squad and had a pep rally. The game that followed was one of the most exciting ones of the season. The way our boys went through the line assured us more than ever that our "eleven" was one of the best yet. The game ended with the score 19 to 0 in favor of the black and gold. Immediately after the game, the Crowell girls and boys were taken to the high school. There were two large rooms decorated for Hallowe'en. The Crowell girls were seated in one room with the Matador boys, and the Matador girls with the Crowell boys.

A very interesting game followed. It was a "get acquainted" game. A delicious refreshment was served, then we left the school house to do what we liked. Never before have we had such a good time, and we hope to go to Matador again next year.

JOKES

Orville: "Did you know that William talks in his sleep?"
Fred: "No, does he?"
Orville: "Sure thing—he recited in English this morning."
Mr. Todd: "Name some liquid that won't freeze."
Hubert S.: "Hot water."
And there was the Freshman who sent his pants to the Associated Press.
Clinton (reading a joke): "Fancy this, Wilburn: A chap here thinks that a football coach has four wheels."
Wilburn: "Haw, haw, and how many wheels has the bally thing?"

John Todd: "Coach, I can't shut my locker."
Coach—Take your sleeves out.

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normal lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic physios and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings. The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe bowel stimulant. This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative. It has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds, fevers. At your druggist, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.
