Five New Homes Completed

Five new rural homes are being completed this week. The first is a three-bedroom brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hammonds and is located in the east part of the county, just west of the highway, and the three-room brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vecera and two children of town about seven miles. Featured this week are the remodeling jobs of the Joe Burkett home on North Second Street and the Fred Bomar residence on Main.

Hammonds Home
A new red brick home of Mr. Mrs. Hammonds has 1,800 feet of floor space. There are three bedrooms, a living room and kitchen-den—plus a utility room and two baths. Attached double garage. A storm cellar, located under garage, is easily accessible either the house or outside. Located on the west side of house.

The kitchen-den features mahogany paneling and cabinets, built-in and burners. A mock fireplace is the center of interest in den, around which is displayed deer heads. Louvered doors from the den into the living room and cooling, is finished in red brick, and has planters around the front porch.

Vecera Home
Wood mania paneling is used in living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vecera. Their house has three bedrooms, living room, kitchen, bath, with a double adjoining garage. The house was built on a floor plan designed by Mr. Vecera, and contains 2,200 feet of floor space, including garage.

Arch paneling and cabinets are in the kitchen. As much of the maker's time is spent in the kitchen, both the kitchens in the Vecera and Hammonds homes are located on the front.

The children's bedrooms are decorated in colors chosen by the mother and daughter, with a tile floor in each room. The boy's room has a built-in desk and gun cabinet. The home is heated by wall heat.

Burkett Re-Modeling
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Burkett and four children formerly contained four rooms and bath, 1,400 square feet of floor space, since it has been re-modeled into five rooms, two baths, and 1,400 square feet of floor space. A garage, which was on north, was taken into the living room and kitchen, and another was added to the north. The front of the garage has a large storage closet.

The home is heated by two floor spaces, one in the living room and the other in a hall. A combination washer-dryer is located in kitchen. The kitchen cabinet covered with a green formica and has an abundance of storage space.

A large new concrete storm drain is conveniently located at rear of the house. Wall-to-wall carpets are used in the living room and hall, and linoleum is used in the kitchen and both baths. Mr. and Mrs. Burkett and their children moved back into their home last week, following completion of the inside work.

Bomar Re-Model
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bomar, who recently bought the S. W. Gentry home on North Main, have done many improvements at their new residence. Mr. Bomar took in the front porch and made it into a room. The outside of the house has been covered with asphalt siding. Inside, a new bathroom heated, new rugs laid, and plumbing re-worked. Painting and papering of the entire inside was planned by Mr. and Mrs. Bomar.

Concrete piers were run to bolster the foundation, and plaster has been put around the base of the house.

17,000 ACRES OF FOARD LAND HAS WIND DAMAGE

As March went out with a sandstorm leaving about 17,000 acres of Foard County sandy cropland swept smooth, soil removed, depressions level and hummocks or fence row drifts forming, the Foard County Needs Committee finished estimating probable land use changes expected by 1975. James H. Herring of the SCS, and chairman of the committee, said Monday.

This committee has been working on this physical land inventory since August, 1958. Mr. Herring says. The committee is made up of ASC office manager, Mrs. Jean Reeder (secretary); County Agent Joe Burkett; ASC county committee composed of Ray Hysinger, Jake Wisdom and Leslie McAdams; Supervisors Grady Halbert and H. L. Ayers of the Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District; MHA county supervisor F. O. Smith; C. L. Boynton of the Game and Fish Commission; and the chairman, Mr. Herring.

Based on soil survey data furnished by the SCS, the committee determined that 36,461 acres of cropland in Foard County had a major problem of wind erosion. This total acreage was divided into three classes of land according to acres capabilities. The three classes

RAINS HERE WEDNESDAY MORNING

At last! Foard County received a good rain Tuesday night. Measuring 1.1 inches by the government gauge in Crowell, and ranging from .9 inch to 1.7 inches over the county, the rain accompanied a cool front which moved into this area Tuesday.

This is the most moisture recorded here at one time since the latter part of September when two inches fell.

Whether the moisture came in time to benefit the small grain crops very much remains to be seen, but the rain was welcomed as possibly a sign that the drought of the past seven months is ending.

High and low temperatures recorded here this past week follow:

Thursday: high 88, low 50.
Friday: high 77, low 56.
Saturday: high 80, low 41.
Sunday: high 94, low 49.
Monday: high 88, low 58.
Tuesday: high 74, low 67.
Wednesday: high 63, low 42.

Foard County Farmers Sign Up to Plant 600 Less Acres Than 1958 Allotment

A final tabulation following the filing deadline March 16 shows that Foard County cotton farmers have signed up to plant in 1959 approximately 600 acres less than was allotted in 1958.

Jean L. Reeder, county office manager for the ASC, said that figures tabulated after an audit of forms filed by farmers indicating their selection of alternate plans, Choice A and B under the new cotton price support program, revealed that 34 farms will be operated under Choice B.

There was a total of 1,931.3 acres involved in the 34 Foard County farms that will operate under Choice B. This represents some 551.9 acres increase over the amount the farmers planted under the Choice A.

Mrs. Reeder said the total acreage allotments for the county will amount to around 12,405 acres or an estimated 600 acres less than the county had last year.

Over the state, 10.6 per cent of the cotton farms will operate under Choice B. The Choice B acreage on the 21,594 Texas farms that will be operated under that plan totaled 1,467,337 where, the Choice A allotments on these farms would have amounted to 1,008,098 acres. The over-all result will mean an increase in cotton acreage in the state.

Funeral services were conducted at Central Christian Church in Vernon at 2:30 p. m. Friday with Rev. Lamar Hooker, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Gaudin was born Oct. 20, 1905, in Honey Grove and moved to Vernon from Henrietta in 1927. He was married to Miss Mae Self in Frederick, Okla., on Nov. 9, 1929.

He is survived by his wife; one son, his mother and father, three brothers and four sisters.

were composed of 26,153 acres of Class II land, 1,074 acres of Class III land, and 9,234 acres of Class IV. By 1975 the committee estimated 3,390 acres of this cropland will be put out of use as cultivated land.

After a study made by Research Specialist H. H. Fennell of the SCS in the heart of the Dust Bowl from 1936 to 1947, he stated, "In terms of how fast land tends to wear out, we found that the land classes rate pretty much as follows: about one acre out of 40 of Class II land has been going to the bad every 22 years. Under average farm conditions, Class III cropland is being put out of use four times as fast as Class II land. Finally, Class IV land is being ruined nearly seven times as fast as that in Class II."

Using this report, Mr. Herring says, in 88 years from 1947 it could be expected that about 10 per cent of Class II, 40 per cent of Class III and 70 per cent of Class IV sandy cropland in Foard County could be ruined unless it is treated according to its capabilities.

Mr. Herring emphasized that, "This seems like a long time to look into the future but suppose you had a 160 acre farm of Class IV sandy land and it was not protected from blowing. Seventy per cent of your farm could be ruined in your children's lifetime."

"If you have Class IV land on your farm and if it is a hazard to your better land, why not convert this land to grass in order to treat it according to its capabilities. This land is hard to maintain under cultivation and is always a problem."

"The Great Plains Conservation Program offers Federal cost-share assistance on the initial establishment of vegetative cover. While in this program, the acreage diverted from production of any commodity subject to acreage allotments or market quotas in order to carry out your contract shall be considered as acreage devoted to the commodity."

"If you are interested in this program, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office," Mr. Herring concluded.

THIS WEEK
—In Washington

Clinton Davidson

The stork and agricultural scientists are engaged in a life and death race in which the scientists are ahead, but in which the stork is gaining.

That, in a nutshell, is what is back of all of the arguments in Washington over appropriation of more than a hundred million dollars a year for continued agricultural research.

Why, some are asking, should we spend huge sums to find ways to increase crop yields, or make hens lay more eggs, or cows give more milk, and then spend more billions to get rid of the surpluses?

Those who are betting on the stork to win in the long run counter with figures to show that while crop output per acre is increasing by only 1 per cent a year, the population is increasing by 1.7 per cent year.

Land is Limited
Even with the addition of two new states, Alaska and Hawaii, we have only about 350 million acres of cropland on which to produce food for 175 million people at present. That is exactly two acres per person.

We are diverting approximately two million acres of that cropland to roads, new housing developments and factory sites annually, and at the same time adding some three million persons to be fed each year.

Population experts say that "under extreme pressure" we perhaps could add no more than 100 million acres to our cropland total, through irrigation, drainage and the clearing of forests. That would take care of the population increase for only about 33 years.

They argue that by about the year 2,000 the United States will have either to grow more food per acre or provide a diet of more grains and less meat, milk and eggs.

On the Other Hand
The research scientists, however, argue that there is no reason to become concerned over the possibility of a food shortage. They contend we can, through research, expand our food production to feed as many as a billion people in this country.

We are eating more and better food today, because of research, than ever before. Twenty-five years ago it took seven pounds of feed to grow a two-pound broiler. Today it takes only about three pounds of feed.

We are also producing more milk, pork and beef per pound of feed, and we are growing more corn, wheat and other crops per acre. And, the scientists point out, we are not farming now nearly as well as we know how.

If we can lick the problem of plant and animal diseases, and crop pests, that alone would increase our food production by 25 per cent. And if we can learn to control the weather, as it seems we may, we could at least double our crop yields per acre.

Our scientists, in other words, are away ahead of the stork and perfectly confident they can stay ahead.

Game Warden Makes Record Quail Wing Study

A record number of bobwhite quail wings were turned over to the Texas Game and Fish Commission headquarters this year for study by Game Warden Charles Boynton.

Boynton's three-county district, made up of Foard, Wilbarger and Hardeman, showed a total of 4,153 wings collected for study, according to a letter from A. S. Jackson of Canadian, wildlife biologist with the Commission.

Of the record total, 2,908 were collected in Hardeman County, 710 in Foard and 535 in Wilbarger.

In Hardeman County, the study showed 81.8 per cent of the total were young quail or an average of 7.2 per adult hen. Foard showed 77.6 per cent young with 6.4 per hen and Wilbarger, 80 per cent young with an average of eight per hen.

Jackson told Boynton that his collection "set a record that will not be topped for a long time to come. You have checked a remarkable number of hunters or enjoy the best cooperation from hunters and I expect you did both."

"I would like to express my appreciation for your all-out cooperation in the study of quail reproduction through wing analysis," he said.

For 14 Lower Plains counties the per cent of young in 8,264 birds was 80.8 and the average number of young for each adult hen was eight. The last figure is influenced by losses to the old hens during nesting season and doesn't represent the true hatch.

Also from the three area counties were 1,143 blue quail wings. The per cent of young in these was 82.

Spenders Should Think of Taxpayers
"It costs a lot of money to live and work in these United States and it's worth it, but we wish the spenders would think of the taxpayers when they dream up new ways to give away their hard earned wages, salaries, pensions and dividends." —Corvallis, Ore., Gazette-Times.

Wild Turkeys Have Unusual Roost Habits
There are many reasons why the wild turkey is a very hard customer to plant, according to E. A. Walker, director of wildlife restoration, Game and Fish Commission. One, and probably the most important, reason is their sensitive attitudes toward roosts.

Usually, the turkey picks special trees for roosting. He, along with his band, will roost in these same trees each night. This is particularly true in all regions of the state except East Texas, where attempts are being made to plant the eastern turkey. They'll wander several miles each day, circling about in search of food, usually returning to the roost by nightfall. If while they are gone the roosting trees have been disturbed, the flock will abandon the roost, sometimes permanently.

Several examples were mentioned at the wildlife symposium held recently in Huntsville. As an example, a farmer didn't touch the trees in which the turkeys were roosting but cleared some of the cover brush around them. The birds refused to roost in the trees again. Some of the authorities at the symposium believed there is a key tree around which most of the turkey activity is centered, and this tree should never be disturbed.

This bird, which is so proudly displayed each Thanksgiving day, likes acorns, but the most important food in the turkey range. Other wild foods include many insects, weed seeds, grass seeds, and native fruits and berries. Cultivated crops such as oats, cultivated crops such as oats, alfalfa, maize, and corn are frequently taken when they are available.

Government Does Not Owe Anyone a Living
"The government does not owe anyone a living. Thrift, security for the future, and saving, must continue to be praised in our great country. The federal hand-out system is needed in many cases, and that's why we have it. On the other hand, we must keep its payments at a minimum, for it should never be forgotten that the industrious hard worker, who might accumulate something in life, should not be forced to pay an exorbitant bill for the bums, the lazy, shiftless, or the good-for-nothings—who will always put the pressure on the politicians for bigger and bigger handouts." —Canton, Georgia, North Georgia Tribune.

Improving Community by Improving Himself
"The main business of every citizen is to improve the community by improving himself. That's the only way it can be done." —Canton, N. C., Enterprise.

For the opening services, the boys each told a story about Canada. These same stories are to be used in their Shadow Play skit at the Pack meeting next Monday night, April 6. They related the Canadian histories of the Indians, totem poles, Royal Canadian Police, eskimos, trappers and fishermen.

The Cubs finished painting their totem pole with supernatural beings, and painted the faces on their puppet heads. They took the latter home to dress them, and will display the puppets along with their bird houses at the Pack meeting.

Ken Ferguson, the Den Chief, led the boys in the closing flag and living ceremonies. Joe Burkett, Larry Ellis, Bob Shirley, Billy Hord, Randy Simmons, Doyle Goodwin and Dickie Statter answered the roll.

How Bills Become Laws in the Texas Legislature

Senator George Moffett has recently written an article on "How Bills Become Laws in the Texas Legislature." Hoping that it will be of interest to our readers, the article is reprinted below:

The Texas Legislature meets in a regular session for about four months once each two years. About 1500 bills are usually introduced at each regular session. The House of Representatives and the Senate are separate branches of the Legislature. Any member may introduce as many bills as he desires upon any subject, except that tax bills must be introduced in the House of Representatives. Only about one-third of the bills introduced ever reach the Governor's desk. He vetoes some which do.

In order to become a law, it is necessary that a bill receive a majority of the votes in each branch of the Legislature. The Constitution requires that a bill, immediately after being introduced, be referred to the proper committee. This committee may or may not recommend the passage of the bill. If the committee takes no action on a bill it is stopped and never proceeds further. Perhaps two-thirds of the bills receive a favorable committee report and are placed on the calendar of Representatives or the House of Representatives, depending upon the branch in which the bill was introduced. Our calendars sometimes have as many as four or five hundred bills pending at the same time.

A bill can be, and often is, amended in either or both branches. If it receives a majority vote in the first branch, it is then sent by messenger to the other branch, where it travels the same course that it did in the first branch, and, if it is amended in the second branch, it is then returned to the first branch. The latter must approve the amendments or the bill does not go to the Governor's office.

I receive a heavy volume of mail daily about the hundreds of bills that are introduced. Time does not permit a member of the Senate to keep up with the bills over in the House of Representatives. Since a House bill may be amended several times after its introduction and while still in the House of Representatives, it is almost useless for a member of the Senate to waste time on it until it comes to the Senate. Many House bills never reach the Senate.

This information is intended to explain the conditions and difficulties under which we work in the brief 4-month session of the Legislature. We make a few mistakes—the wonder is that we do not make more—on account of the indescribable load of work involved, including the answering of hundreds of letters and telegrams each week.

I am always glad to have your advice and reasons as to why a bill should or should not be passed.

Practically every sale of every product manufactured in the U. S. will be purchased by one of the 100 million people who read a newspaper on an average day.

Our Weekly Sermon
God's Tape Recording

To back up charges that Russia deliberately shot down an unarmed American aircraft, the State Department recently released a tape recording of the conversation between Russian jet fighter pilots engaging in the attack.

Six Americans are known to have been killed in the crash and eleven others are missing, with no Red report of their whereabouts.

The Russians have denied the authenticity of the recording, but world opinion has tended to support the American position. Had the Russians known that a recording was being made, it is unlikely the incident would have occurred.

The Bible tells us that some day each one shall give account of himself. The basis of judgment will be our own words and deeds recorded before God.

Jesus said, "There is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known. Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops" (Luke 12: 2, 3).

"But I say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned" (Matthew 12: 36, 37).

A tape recording can be erased; so can the record of our evil deeds and words if we have Christ as Saviour. Jesus said, "He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath eternal life, and cometh not into judgment" (John 5:24).

Now is the time to take care of the record.

Fort Yukon Reports Highest and Lowest Temperatures

Passenger car advertisers invested over 13 per cent more in newspaper advertising in 1957 than in the previous year.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin, Tex.—With just about a month left between now and May 12, automatic adjournment date, in "now or never" time in the Texas Legislature.

Bill sponsors are challenging other members to "pass it or kill it." No more playing the waiting game. Less juggling of the parliamentary ball.

House Speaker Waggoner Carr gave this "get with it" mood a strong shove by taking a firm stand on tax goals. "There is no Santa Claus," Carr told House members. Texas must raise $300,000,000 in new money to meet its obligations, he said. On "how to do it," the Speaker made these suggestions and observations:

1. A bill is needed "which will include a broad array of selective taxes—including, but not confined to—selective sales taxes."

2. A general sales tax is "out." Lawmakers will—and should—keep their promises not to pass one.

3. "Broad" taxation would include upping levies in areas suggested by the governor—natural gas, liquor, cigarettes, corporations—but at a lower rate than suggested by the governor. In addition, many new items would be added, in keeping with the "spread thin, hurt little" principle.

4. "Piecemeal taxation" is unfair, inadequate to the present challenge. State government should not "reward political favorites." New taxes should be "spread across as much of the Texas economy as possible."

5. Likewise, on appropriations. If college professors and state employees get a raise, public school teachers should, too.

Carr's speech was regarded as public announcement that he is taking the reins of leadership to get a tax program passed.

Gov. Price Daniel's comment on Carr's statement was in the vein of "why didn't you say so before?" Daniel said, "I am in agreement with much of it and only wish it had been made 30 days earlier."

House Taxation Committee chairman V. L. Ramsey of Beckville named a five-man committee to write a tax bill and have it ready early next week.

Robert of Lamesa, H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock, Joe Burkett of Kerrville, Ben Atwell of Dallas and Warren C. Cowen of Fort Worth.

ABANDONED PROPERTY BILL — Governor's abandoned property bill has been reported favorably by the House Tax Committee, but sponsors claim it has been "gutted" by committee action.

As originally proposed, the bill would have allowed the state to take over bank accounts and money and property held by banks, insurance companies, oil and gas companies, etc., if unclaimed for seven years.

As amended, the measure cut out all holdings except bank accounts and upped the waiting period to 20 years.

Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio, sponsor, said this would take away 60 per cent of the revenue raising possibilities.

TEXAS IN 1980 — Creation of a vast "government center" that would cover most of an area seven blocks long and four blocks wide is the aim of the Capitol Hill Master Plan.

Legislators, whose assent will be needed to make the dream a reality, got a preview of the 20-year plan from architects and Building Commission members.

Governor Daniel said the $37,000,000 project could be financed with no new taxes. Income, he said, would come from the Confederate pension fund, funds of state agencies now paying rent for privately owned buildings and funds now available to the Building Commission.

Recommended steps for 1960-61 are buying up several more blocks of land and remodeling the Capitol to provide offices for House members.

PARTY REGISTRATION FIGHT—A watered-down party registration bill is in line for House consideration after approval of the Elections Committee.

Original proposal by Rep. Jamie Clements of Crockett would have required that a voter state his party preference and have it stamped on his poll tax at time of purchase. Thereafter, the carrier of a "Republican receipt" could not vote in a Democratic primary and vice versa.

Attorney General Will Wilson ruled this unconstitutional. He said it set up requirements for voting not authorized in the constitution.

As amended, the measure provides that a voter would have his receipt stamped when he voted in a primary or participated in party conventions. This would prevent his participating in the convention of a different party until he bought a new poll tax.

Liberal Democrats, particularly DOT spokesmen, were very dissatisfied, even called the attorney general's opinion "dead wrong."

HELP FOR BUSES—In this two-car-in-every-garage age, public transportation companies say they've fallen into hard times, and need tax relief.

A bill to lower the license fees on motor buses to a rate equal to trucks of the same weight has Senate Transportation Committee approval. It is sponsored by Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas.

City transit companies are asking to be relieved of motor fuel taxes. Rep. Warren C. Cowen of Fort Worth is sponsoring a measure to do this.

Transit companies are caught in a cost squeeze, say supporters, that makes it hard to continue serving working people at reasonable rates. San Antonio transit lines had to give up, were taken over by city government.

SUNDAY SALE BAN—Senate has given final approval to a measure that would prohibit selling, buying or trading motor vehicles on Sunday.

Exempted would be persons who observe some day other than Sunday as the Sabbath, such as Seventh Day Adventists.

Bill had lively opposition from several senators whose argument was that it would "restrict competition in the name of Christianity."

Missile Leaks Device
West Lynn, Mass.—A super-sensitive instrument to detect missile fuel leakage can sniff out leaks so small that it would take more than a year for 1-100 of an ounce of gas to escape undetected. It consists of a control unit and probe.

To test for leaks, the operator introduces a tracer gas into the rocket engine system and then passes the probe over the external surface. Any escaping gas sets off an audible alarm and causes an electric signal on the control unit.

Flag Designed by 13-Year-Old Schoolboy
Alaska's flag was designed by a 13-year-old school boy, according to the World Book Encyclopedia. The flag shows seven gold stars, representing the gold mining industry, in the shape of the Big Dipper on a field of blue. An eighth star in the corner represents the North Star, symbolizing Alaska's far-northern location.

The tire and tube industry increased its investment in newspaper advertising in 1957 by 39 per cent over the previous year.

Group of Fifth Grade Girls Meet to Organize Girl Scout Troop in Crowell

A group of fifth grade girls with their mothers met at the home of Mrs. Ray Shirley last Thursday afternoon, April 2, and discussed the organization of a Lone Girl Scout troop of their grade. Mrs. Shirley is to be their leader, and Mrs. Mike Raspberry was obtained to be the assistant leader. The girls will meet every Friday afternoon at the Lone Scout house from 3:30 to 5 p. m.

The following citizens have volunteered their services on the Lone Scout committee which each troop must have: Rev. Carl Hudson, chairman; Mrs. Hubert Brown and Mrs. R. G. Gribble, Plans were discussed to repair the Girl Scout house, but nothing can be done until an insurance adjuster inspects the wind damage that was done during a recent wind storm. The girls elected to clean up the inside of the building at their next meeting date, Friday, April 10.

The Lone Troop organization must go through the Dallas office, and the equipment suppliers are listed from St. Louis. Vernon and Quannah each have a troop, and Wichita Falls has several troops and a group working on setting up a Council for this area.

Crowell has had active Girl Scouting in the past, and it is hoped that the movement can be started again with organization of more than one troop. It is also hoped that in the near future an area worker can come to Crowell, and assist in setting up more troops, both Brownie and Girl Scout.

Irving Fisch has been acting trustee of the Girl Scout property since Mrs. Moody Bursey moved away.

The fifth grade girls who attended the meeting were Sharon Mapp, Rosa Lee Latimer, Shirley Mike Raspberry, Dena Todd, Linda Whitely, Gail Russell, Paula Vecera, Karen Shirley, Patsy Hall and Ella Hollenbough.

Mothers present were Mesdames Jack Mapp, Dick Todd, Floyd Latimer and Glendon Russell. The troop is open to all fifth grade girls, and all are invited to attend the next meeting.

Adelphian Club

Business was conducted by Mrs. W. B. Johnson April 1 when the Adelphian Club met with Mrs. Bert Ekern as hostess.

The program, in charge of Mrs. C. V. Barker, began by a piano selection played by Barry Barker entitled "Whispering Hope." Mrs. Barker brought a very interesting article to the club about the life and very capable leader, Senator Lyndon Johnson. "Lyndon Johnson stands for everything that is morally and spiritually right. His whole life symbolizes a high Christian leader, fairness in dealing with the many people in every walk of life. An average day brings in not less than 600 letters, which are answered by the staff of Lyndon Johnson." Mrs. M. S. Henry also brought a few highlights in the life of Senator Johnson and Peter Marshall, her two most admired men. "Everyone should strive for and treasure his or her friends in life and should have worthwhile friends as they are one of the most important things in your life," stated Mrs. Henry.

Refreshments were served to 16 members by the hostess.

Gambleville H. D. Club

Mrs. W. J. Garrett was hostess to members of the Gambleville Home Demonstration Club Friday, April 3.

Business was conducted by Mrs. Milton Hunter and minutes were read by Mrs. Jack Thomas and approved by the club. The roll was called and each member answered with a joke.

The program, entitled "Touring Can Be Child's Play," by Carol Lane, women's travel director, was given also by Mrs. Hunter. She also brought a packed suitcase to give the members some packing tips and told how to pack a suitcase. Very interesting literature was given each member of the club.

Mrs. Glen Shook received the hostess gift.
