Civilian Volunteer Registration Begins Monday, Jan. 12

fense committee, Judge B. H. Freeland has proclaimed the week of January 12 through 19 as Civilian Volunteer Registration Week. The public is urged NOT to confuse this regstration with the impending registration of men for military service. It is merely an attept to classify all men, women and older "hildren in the rounty for local defense pur poses, and has no connectionn with military service. The Registrant will not be called upon to serve outside his county, and the action is entirely voluntary.

The local defense committee has found that in order to fully cooperate with the plans of the National Defense committee it will be necessary to have a file showing the training, ability, and service preference of our entire citizenship. Special training courses will be offered in several departments of defense work; through countywide registration it will be possible to check on the number interested in any particular phase of defense work.

From time to time, new problems will present themselves, and by this simple and direct procedure for contact between Federal State, and Local offcials, these emergencies can be met skillfully and quickly.

The Mayors of each town have men of the Registration committee: they are to appoint as many ger. committeemen as may be needto suit local condition. In the rural communities the following chairmen have been appointed:

Oplin-Walter Nobles. Denton-R. B. Padon. Eula-Lee Smith. Rowden-Bill Taylor. Cottonwood-Floyd Coffey. Atwell-Bernice Foster. Admiral-George Eubanks. Dudley-Hawk Roberts.

All residents of Callahan county who have reached their sixteenth birthday are urged to register. There is no restriction as to the place of registration, but the committee has attempted to establish headquarters at convenint places throughout the han county, let us prove ourselves cer. equal to the emergency by devoted effort and cooperation in the task now at hand.

REGISTER FOR CIVILIAN DEFENSE.

KEGISTRATION IN BAIRD WILL BE HELD AT CITY HALL

Beginning Monday morning at 8:00 o'clock the Civilian Volumteer Registration is scheduled to get under way at the City Hall. A crew of volunteer worker will be on hand to assist with the fill ing out of registraton blanks; the office will be kept open as long as applicants are coming in.

Everyone who possibly can do so is urged to register the first day; this will enable the volunteer clerks to return to their regu lar duties with as little loss of time as possible. However, registration will continue all through the week in order to give every one a chance to sign up for defense training and duty.

where'd you GET your gun?"

FROM the supply sergeant, of course. He got it from the Ordnance Departmentand they got it from a factory. It's the finest Army rifle in the world.

But before one factory wheel could turn-for the first model or the finished job-there had to be power-and most of it is electric. Electric power helped put your Garand in your hands, Johnny.

It takes a tremendous lot of power to make all the guns, tanks, planes and ships we need-but America has a lot. Power reserves, built up in advance by the business men who manage America's electric companies, have been able to meet almost every defense demand overnight.

Requirements keep increasing, of course-and the electric companies are working day and night to keep ahead of the nation's needs. In 1941, they built and installed almost 2,000,000 more horsepower in Democracy's busy arsenal!

You have the hardest part of the job, Johnny, but we're glad we can help by doing our share. We're gald to pledge our co-operation with you, the government, and other industries-to make America so strong it can remain forever free and unafraid.

They Never Holler "Tex" In The Marines

There's a legend in California Marine posts that you don't holler "Texas!" unless you want to call a convention. And it probably stems back to the time when a recruit camp sergeant, seeking a certain Lone Star state youth and not knowng his name, stepped up to the barracks door and yelled: "Hey, you, Texas!"

The story goes that the men in the squad room snapped to attentionn and that the sergeant lacking better identification, lined them up and had them pass in single file until he found the man for whom he was looking.

Figures as to the number of born-Texas and Texans-by-adoption who are with the Marines in California and at Pacific outposts are not avalable. But information received by Major J.D. O'Lea by of the Dallas recruiting office indicates that it would be hard to find a platoon of men that doesn't include at least two or three from Texas.

"We know there are hundreds of them out there, and the number is increasing rapidly," he pointed out, referring to the rush of enlistments which his office has handled since the outbreak of war.

"In addition to the enlisted men, there are scores of officers who call Texas 'home', although many of them have resided in many foreign nations since they left Texas. We know that Texans make good Marines. Texas has always produced good fighting men and it still does. We're doing our best here to see that the Marines get their share," he continued, with a glance at the in the Terminal Annex Building.

If the boys going out to San or more Diego for basil training should get to hankering for some Texas company, all they have to do is holler "Tex!" and stand aside for the rush.
