CROP RESIDUE USE

Proper Residue Management

How much residue is required to protect the land and maintain an adequate amount of organic matter in the soil? This and other questions concerning residues and their management are often asked by Foard County farmers.

According to Norman Davis, technician with the Soil Conservation Service, it is doubtful if a farmer needs to be concerned about too much residue worked into the soil. It seems to be more of a question of how and when to work residue into the soil.

On the average, coarse-textured (sandy) soils require about 1750 to 2500 lbs. per acre; moderately coarse-textured soils need about 1250 to 1750 lbs. per acre; and fine-textured (clay) soils need approximately 750 to 1000 lbs. per acre for protection.

One-way plows cover about fifty per cent with each plowing; chisel-type plows cover only about ten per cent with each plowing.

Small grain residues should be left on or near the surface until about August 15, when followed by small grain. When small grain is followed by a spring-planted crop, residue should be maintained until about April 1 of the following year.

Proper residue management not only will return large quantities of needed organic matter to the soil, but also will protect the soil from erosion during the critical erosion periods, usually, fall, winter, and spring.

"Now we dislike everything about the Communist's line of chatter, but believe the group in this country which seeks shorter hours, less production, higher wages, higher unemployment benefits, etc., would do well to think over his ending phrase."—Fountain, Colo., Advertiser.

SEVENTY-FIRST YEAR
Date on 1962
Wheat Quotas
for August 24

Wheat producers will determine whether or not wheat marketing quotas will be in effect on the wheat crop on August 24. The decision farmers make is extremely important to them and the rest of the nation not only in 1962 but also for many years thereafter, said Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman when he announced the referendum program available with the effect would be far different from that which could be achieved without quotas," he added.

Two-thirds of the referendum favor quotas, cooperators are eligible for full 1962 wheat support. Although the level of support has not definitely been determined, it will be higher than the present level of $1.79 per bushel if proposed legislation now pending in Congress becomes law. At present press conference, Secretary Freeman said that the national average support for wheat is likely to be in the neighborhood of $2.00 per bushel.

Farmers decide in the referendum against quotas, there will be a limit on marketings, price support would be at 50 per cent parity (wheat parity is now $1.79 per bushel) and would be within their acreage allotment.

May 12, Secretary Freeman announced marketing quotas and national acreage allotment of 10 million acres for the 1962 crop on the basis of estimated supplies and utilization of wheat. At that time he deferred pending action to provide an approved wheat program for next year's crop.

"Though action has not been completed on a new program," the secretary explained, "it seems desirable to now set a date for the referendum on 1962 marketing quotas in order that all producers be appraised of the voting situation. Under legislation now being considered, stocks of wheat would be reduced by 100 million bushels rather than increased that amount if changes are made. This would result in a crop of $50 million in the first year, and in the period before new stocks could be disposed at present rates the savings on one crop would amount to $15 million."

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin, Tex.—Amid the sound and fury of the tax battle in the Legislature, Texans—new to the idea of far-reaching sales taxes—could be heard trying to get to the bottom of things by calculating their effect upon such things as baby's diapers.

The key to many discussions, both in the Legislative chambers and in the Capitol corridors, was the term "outer wearing apparel," to be exempt from sales taxes.

It seemed simple enough at first when the proposal was to exempt such articles costing less than $10, the intention being to exempt work clothes. But many a question popped up when the tax writers went into details and spelled out that this exemption would not include accessories like "cuff links, belts, ties, scarves, billfolds, hand bags, canes, unattached buttons, ornamental jewelry of any type, bathing suits, sleeping garments, bathrobes, lingerie, negligees and lounging pajamas."

Clearly, baby's diapers are outer wearing apparel. But, do they remain in that status when covered with rubber or plastic pants? Nobody could readily answer the question. That was something to be decided later.

And what about bathing suits? These certainly are not undergarments—except, of course, when worn under street clothes. And who ever wears anything "outer" than a bathrobe?

Then there was the more serious talk about the definition of work clothes. The exemption was confined to those made of cotton, twill, poplin, denim, and chambray. Suppose, somebody questioned, a man ran across a pair of blue denims with nylon knees?

And why, a white collar worker asked, shouldn't his wool trousers be exempt, too, since he works in them?

During the sales tax debate, Senator Wardlow Lane of Center quipped, "I'm personally not for any kind of tax . . . just like I'm not for pneumonia, death or anything else bad . . ."

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES—An Attorney General's opinion holds that the state's admission tax does not apply to tickets to baseball, football and basketball games, but is applicable to horse races, dog races, motorcycle races, auto races, dance halls, night clubs, skating rinks, "and any and all like places of amusements, contests, and exhibitions."

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, who asked for the ruling, was advised that horse races are subject to the tax because they are specifically mentioned in the tax law, while baseball, football and basketball games are not.

REFERENDUM ON HORSE RACE BETTING SOUGHT—Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio, who got nowhere with his bill to legalize horse race gambling in Texas and another calling for a statewide referendum on the question, doesn't plan to give up.

Representative Berry said petitions are being circulated by members of the Texas Thoroughbred Breeders Association asking support of a Democratic party referendum from 10 per cent of the qualified voters in Texas. He estimated 150,000 signatures will be necessary to cause the State Democratic Executive Committee to submit the proposition to the voters in the first Democratic primary election next May.

The petition, he said, calls for submission of a constitutional amendment to the electorate.

HISTORIC DOCUMENT ON WATER PROBLEM—"If Texas cannot change the weather, they can at least, through sound, far-sighted planning, conserve and develop water resources to supply their needs."

So said the State Board of Water Engineers as it turned in to Gov. Price Daniel the state's first comprehensive, projected plan for meeting the industrial, municipal and other water needs in 1980. Governor Daniel termed the 200 page document, which envisions the construction of 45 new reservoirs over the state, "one of the great things in the life of our state."

The board made the observation that the people of Texas have not yet been aroused to the dire consequences of inaction or to the consequences of building projects which at best provide for only small increases in water needs . . . in relation to long term future needs in many areas, water is the least abundant of Texas' important natural resources; certainly it is the most indispensable."

The board said that through proper development, Texas has adequate water to meet its municipal and industrial needs in 1980 and sustain agriculture and other uses. A significant statement in the report was to the effect that such a program as outlined "appears to be within the financial capability of the state and local interests, with federal participation in projects containing flood control."

In short, the so-called "Master Plan" for development of the state's water resources is at least an outline of what can be done, and might be done, to meet one of the state's most crucial problems.

ATTACK ON "SOFTNESS" LAUNCHED—Physical education teachers from over the state at a meeting in Austin have come up with a plan to turn talk into action and do something about physical fitness in the schools.

The plan includes 15 minutes of strenuous body exercise in physical education periods, teaching the right way to walk, sit, climb, pull, push and all the other ways the body obeys the laws of physics in teaching games and sports people can use throughout their life including tennis, golf and swimming and other popular sports; teaching the history of games; fitting activities such as folk dancing into social studies; emphasizing sportsmanship as part of social behavior; accomplishing social control through release of tension in athletics; and promoting a favorable attitude toward physical activity both as children and as adults.

BUS RATES GO UP—Bus travel in Texas is costing the operators more and so it will be costing the passengers more. No one objected at a hearing which resulted in a general hike of five per cent in bus fare rates approved by the State Railroad Commission.

Operators testified expenses increased 8.2 per cent in 1929 over 1928, against a revenue increase of only 4.5 per cent. The net loss bus lines were increased was in 1928.

The increase will be about 10 per cent, they said. There were some objections to the plan, but an agreement was reached and the Texas bus lines operating between Galveston, Beaumont and Port Arthur, High Island, and a 25 per cent increase for Texas Electric Bus Lines.

GOVERNOR FOR A DAY—One of the most traditions in Texas politics is that which permits the Governor-elect to take over the reins of state government for a day.

By custom, the Governor-elect and Lieutenant Governor-elect should arrive from the state for a 24-hour period in the morning when the Governor-elect has been elected by the Legislature. The tradition is that the Governor-elect should arrive in the morning and the Lieutenant Governor-elect should arrive in the afternoon.

The Governor-elect, in this case, arrived in Austin on August 9, 1930, and the Lieutenant Governor-elect arrived in the afternoon.

FARM BUREAU Insurance News!

The future, like the weather, is unpredictable. A storm, or fire can wipe out the savings of a lifetime. In an instant, you can see your home, outbuildings, barns, livestock, and crops disappear. Insurance can protect you from total loss; modest premiums protect you from these unforeseen hazards.

The Texas Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co. offers eligible farmers and ranchers Texas Standard Farm Owners Policies, affording all risk coverage on your dwelling, plus theft and personal liability coverage.

This year, Farm Bureau is introducing its own hail policy, a new concept in crop hail insurance. A population count is used in claim settlements on crop losses. All losses are adjusted on the basis of actual damage of each plant, regardless of how the year stands. Your Farm Bureau Company offers complete insurance service to the farmers and ranchers of this area. SEE JACK WELCH IN CROWELL TODAY!

Changes Explained in Social Security

There are 2,175,000 persons who now receive social security benefits at or near the minimum level of $33 a month. The new change in the social security law raises the minimum level to $40 a month. Under the new law, the lowest benefit payable to a worker who retired at 65 or later will be $40, beginning with the checks mailed early in September.

Good Dove Season Will Depend Upon Weather and Weeds

With fewer than 30 days until the opening of the mourning dove season in the North Zone, September 1, there is still a great deal of speculation as to how plentiful this year's crop will be. According to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, some hot, dry weather is needed to ripen feed seed, and darken considerably the green effect of the present abundance of foliage. In parts of West Texas where there hasn't been too much rain, weed seeds are now ripening, according to information received in Austin. In these cases, the doves seem to be plentiful at the present time. However, the abundance of rain in Central Texas has vegetation very lush, and weed seeds are not yet ripening. Since water holes have been filled completely, this will tend to scatter late evening dove shooting around the water holes. So, according to the executive secretary, it is anybody's guess as to how good the dove season will be. On the other hand, the quail crop right now looks to be in top condition. There are still a few nesting birds, but for the most part there have been heavy hatches in practically every part of the state. As a result, a big crop of birds is reported in areas where there were practically no birds last year. Under the general laws, the quail season will open December 1. The Game Commission will set the quail season in regulatory counties at its quarterly meeting early in October.

Changes Explained in Social Security

There are 2,175,000 persons who now receive social security benefits at or near the minimum level of $33 a month. The new change in the social security law raises the minimum level to $40 a month. Under the new law, the lowest benefit payable to a worker who retired at 65 or later will be $40, beginning with the checks mailed early in September.

Good Dove Season Will Depend Upon Weather and Weeds

With fewer than 30 days until the opening of the mourning dove season in the North Zone, September 1, there is still a great deal of speculation as to how plentiful this year's crop will be. According to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission, some hot, dry weather is needed to ripen feed seed, and darken considerably the green effect of the present abundance of foliage. In parts of West Texas where there hasn't been too much rain, weed seeds are now ripening, according to information received in Austin. In these cases, the doves seem to be plentiful at the present time. However, the abundance of rain in Central Texas has vegetation very lush, and weed seeds are not yet ripening. Since water holes have been filled completely, this will tend to scatter late evening dove shooting around the water holes. So, according to the executive secretary, it is anybody's guess as to how good the dove season will be. On the other hand, the quail crop right now looks to be in top condition. There are still a few nesting birds, but for the most part there have been heavy hatches in practically every part of the state. As a result, a big crop of birds is reported in areas where there were practically no birds last year. Under the general laws, the quail season will open December 1. The Game Commission will set the quail season in regulatory counties at its quarterly meeting early in October.

Six Flags Over Texas Begins First Operating Season

The culmination of over three years of planning, designing and building of Six Flags Over Texas were at hand with the opening of the entertainment center last Saturday. Precisely at 10 a. m. on that day, the gates of Six Flags opened to the general public signifying the beginning of its first season of operations.

It was just about a year ago in August that the first spadeful of earth was lifted from its bed and construction began on the 105-acre site, located midway between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Since that time, $10,000,000 has been spent turning the once tree-lined river bed into the nation's most beautiful amusement park. But the natural beauty afforded by over 1,000 trees on the site will only enhance the high adventure and family fun that takes place inside Six Flags over Texas.

For here is told, in a series of thrilling rides, exciting attractions and live shows, the story of the rich heritage of Texas under the flags of Spain, France, Mexico, Republic of Texas, Confederacy and the United States of America. It is a complete show with continual exciting changes calculated to stimulate and maintain the interest of visitors. Above all, Six Flags is universal in its appeal, wholesome in its atmosphere, diverse and fascinating to all ages.

There are six trails of adventure inside Six Flags over Texas. A beautiful landscaped garden, a turning exotic plants leads you in this corner of Old Mexico. In this section is all the charm and gaiety of our neighbors south of the border.

Everyone looks forward to riding the grayest, most hilarious train ride of them all, aboard the Ferrocarri Florida. This booming musical train chugs merrily over the countryside giving passengers a chance to see an amusing panorama of Mexico brought to life in delightful animation. Along the route you see animated Mexican characters riding merry horses while others sing and play stringed instruments. There is even an entire full light sequence complete with cheering aficionados watching a brass band parade a difficult "Yankee" to wave off the sheep herds of a changing hill. These are only a few of the highly entertaining scenes you'll see in this section of Six Flags over Texas. Now it's on to the Indian Village located in the Republic of Texas section. As you walk through the Texas section, the buildings, stores and general atmosphere remind you of the rough and ready frontier days of the Republic. In this typical frontier town the only real law was that of a bullet from a barrel of a sixgun. Of course, Judge Roy Bean and his "Law West of the Pecos" brought some semblance of order to the Texas frontier, but all visitors entering this section are warned to stay alert, for shoot-outs between lawmen and outlaws are likely to start at a moment's notice. Across the street from Judge Bean's court house stands the CRK Horse Saloon. Only soft drinks are served here and bartenders stand ready to serve both whiskey and tenderfoot alike. A continuous live show always makes the atmosphere sparkling with the singing of the colorfully costumed waiters and waitresses in the type of twin pairs.

Down the street and across the wooden suspension bridge you lead for the railroad depot to take a ride in one of the world's few remaining narrow gauge trains.

Texas link to the stars and bars of the Confederacy as their own flag during the four imperishable years of 1862-1865. As you enter through a tree-lined walkway guarded by four tall white columns that once enhanced the front of a stately plantation house, you suddenly find yourself in the land of Texas.

Near the edge of town, four white horses are being hitched up to a narrow and green Covered Wagon. This is the start of the action-packed Rostered Overland Stagecoach ride. To do this, a cart in the performance section, take a seat in the big amphitheater where the action goes on every hour during the day signifying the start of another exciting show.

Four South Texas bands are all waiting to play in the French section. This band is composed of a quartet of the best brass bands in the state of Texas. The band is led by the famous band leader, Mr. W. B. Johnson.
