

As Shakespeare Might Say:

Swearing at spots doesn't "out" them, as Lady Macbeth discovered. Instead, the dry-cleaner swears by his spotter.

The spotter is an important individual, a highly-paid professional. He's the man who knows just what to do with that expensive party dress that someone splashed with Loganberry punch. You think it is ruined, but he knows better.

He knows, too, that there never was an office ink so fast that it will not yield to skill—never a grease spot so stubborn that it can't be removed.

Don't worry about bad spots, send them to us—we're paying a spotter to do the worrying for you.

FIRST thing you do next—go get some makin's papers and some Prince Albert tobacco and puff away on a home made cigarette that will hit on all your smoke cylinders!

No use sitting-by and saying maybe you'll cash this hunch tomorrow. Do it while the going's good, for man-o-man, you can't figure out what you're passing by! Such flavor, such coolness, such more-ish-ness—well, the only way to get the words emphatic enough is to go to it and know yourself!

And, besides Prince Albert's delightful flavor, there's its freedom from bite and parch which is cut out by our exclusive patented process! Certainly—you smoke P. A. from sun up till you slip between the sheets without a comeback.

Prince Albert is the tobacco that revolutionized pipe smoking. If you never could smoke a pipe—forget it! You can—AND YOU WILL—if you use Prince Albert for packing! It's a smoke revelation in a jimmy pipe or a cigarette!

Prince Albert is sold in tippy red bags, tippy red tins, hand, some pound and half pound tin tins, and in the pound crystal glass humidor with sponge moistener top.

Court on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1921, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court, No. 1117, wherein Tom P. Bray is plaintiff, and Minnie Bray is defendant, and the cause of action being alleged as follows: That heretofore about the 28th day of March, A. D. 1917, the plaintiff and defendant were legally married in the State of Washington, and continued to live together as husband and wife until about the 30th day of April, A. D. 1918, when the defendant, disregarding her marriage vows, voluntarily left his bed and board, with the intention of abandonment, without cause, and has since remained absent from him for more than three years, with the intention of abandonment; and has taken up her abode with one Frank Speaker, and has continually lived and cohabited with him as plaintiff is informed and believe; and so charges from that day until the present.

That there is no property rights between plaintiff and defendant to be adjusted but that there was born to the plaintiff and defendant one boy named Tommie Bray now about three years old. The plaintiff asks for the care and custody of said child and which is now in his possession and he alleges that he is able to care for and educate said boy as required by law. Plaintiff says that the residence or whereabouts of the defendant is unknown to the plaintiff wherefore he asks for citation as required by publication, and that on a trial of said cause that he have judgment dissolving the marriage contract between plaintiff and defendant and that he have the care and custody of the boy, Tommy Bray Jr., and for all such other and further relief in law or equity as he may show himself entitled and as in duty bound will ever pray.

Herein Fail Not, But have you before said Court, on said first day of the next term thereof, this Writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

INVENTOR OF VANE UNKNOWN
But Devices for Showing the Direction of the Wind Have Been in Use for Centuries.

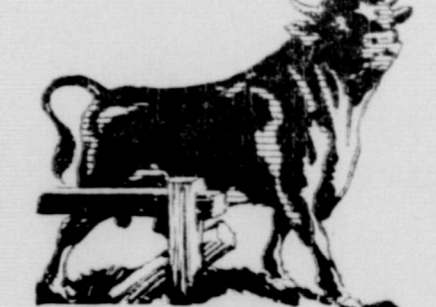

The origin of the weather vane is unknown. One of the most ancient of which there is any record is that mentioned by Vitruvius, and the ruins of the Tower of the Winds, of which he speaks, still stands in Athens. This building was erected about a century before the Christian era. He writes: "Those who have paid most attention to the winds make them eight in number, and particularly Andronicus Cyrrhestos, who built at Athens an octagonal tower of marble and cut on each face the figure of the several winds, each looking to the quarter from which that wind blows."

"On the tower he placed a marble column, on which was a Triton of bronze holding a rod in his right hand. And he contrived it that the figure moved round with the wind so that it constantly stood opposite it, and the rod, which was above the figure, showed in what direction the wind blew."

Etiquettes of many empires have done duty as vanes. Man himself has not escaped. The female form divine even has not been spared this indignity. Such a sentiment as is expressed in the sentence, "Woman fleckle as the wind," may have been in the mind of Theodosius the Great when he erected at Constantinople, in the fourth century, the vane called the "Lady of the Winds."

- 1st. Internal or double run feed cup and wheels. One side of the cup is for large seeds, the other for small seeds. Opens back reduces friction.
- 2nd. All moving parts on the speed transmission are enclosed in a strong yoke and are held in perfect place. The plate gear and the sliding gear are carefully made. Cogs in the plate gear are large strong teeth not merely little knobs.
- 3rd. The feed wheels are mounted on a square shaft which must turn every wheel at exactly the same speed.
- 4th. One revolution of the feed shaft carries out a given amount of seed. Increasing or decreasing the speed. Increases or decreases the amount of seed planted. It is the simplest kind of feed. The back of the feed cup is cutaway to reduce friction and thus making it a light draft.

Calling in Cairo.
Foreigners who are compelled to live in Cairo sometimes take up their residence in a remote portion of the city which is not laid out with any regard to the convenience of persons who are finding their way about. There is no system in the arrangement of the streets or houses and strangers have great difficulty in finding any particular location. A well-known doctor undertook to furnish directions by which the house of a friend could be reached by a third party. Here are the "directions": "The M-'s live in a house without a number in a street without a name next door to an Armenian butcher who, I think, has no sign, west of Abdin palace! The staircase has eighty-seven steps."

KIMSEY & KLEPPER, Owners and Publishers

Crowell, Texas, Sept. 16, 1921

Whenever it has become necessary, if indeed it has, for the Ku Klux Klan or any other clan to scare loafers out into the cotton patch there is something wrong with the local authorities, and if there is something wrong with them and they still remain in office there is something wrong with the people who permit the officers to remain in office. The people can, without the assistance of a body of disguised men, pretty well have things like they want them if they have the courage to stand up and say so. The Ku Klux do not stand for law because they deprive men of the rights the law grants. They stand for mob law just like any other mob. They stand for despotism and terror and their presence in this country is an intrusion on the rights of the citizens. The "Imperial Wizzard" has made his benighted followers think they are a decent set and he has lots of good men rallying around him, but he only wants the millions they are pouring into the treasury for his own personal benefit.

The official cotton report is said to give Texas only 1,938,000 bales, while last year she had 4,345,000 bales. The proportionate reduction in other states is about the same. Hence the price this year is proportionately better. One thing the farmers can do is to control the production, and that will have much to do with the control of prices.

"Knockers knock themselves over in the end," says Sugarman's Indicator. "They are pests and we shun them as pests. Be a knocker with a purpose. Kick for something. Kick to get somewhere. And kick yourself regularly. All the great men of history were chronic kickers. First, they kicked themselves into shape for great tasks. Then they kicked for something and to some purpose until they landed. A knocker is never satisfied with anybody except himself. A kicker is never satisfied with himself and gets somewhere."

The Adelphian Club

On Wednesday, September 7th, Mrs. Kirkpatrick was hostess for the first meeting of the Adelphian Club. The invited guests, Mrs. Purcell and Misses Moorehouse, Sams and Moorehouse, with the club members were served with refreshing grape punch on entering.

The new president, Mrs. Carter, presided in a manner befitting one in her position.

Current events and vacation reminiscences were the occasion of many instructive thoughts along different lines.

Mrs. Campbell lead a most interesting parliamentary drill in which she stressed some of the more important points of parliamentary law.

We were favored with a duet, "They Needed a Songbird in Heaven, So They Took Caruso Away," by Mesdames R. W. and G. B. Wells.

Mrs. Carter's address on "Ideals" was most original and showed careful thought on the subject. If each member would have a higher ideal of club work and then strive to reach that ideal our clubs would be more enthusiastic clubs and each member a more enthusiastic worker.

Delicious and appetizing refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be September 10 with Mrs. Cook.—Press Reporter.

Note the Strap
invisible when worn

IT'S a big improvement on a regular cap.

If the cap should shrink don't throw it away like you would a regular cap—slide the buckle over a bit and it fits as good as new.

For motoring on a windy day or for sports, the strap tightens so the wind won't lift it. After a haircut—just a pull on the strap and the cap is snug as ever.

Never too tight, never too loose, always right, the "SURE-FIT" CAP is the last word in comfort—down to the last day it's worn.

How It Started

THE first breech-loading rifle, or rather, gun, belonged to Henry VIII of England, who had a matchlock of that type. Henry IV of France invented one for his army, but it was not successful. The breech-loading type languished till the Civil war, which began with muzzle-loaders and ended with breech-loaders, proving again that necessity is the mother of invention.

"Dear John: We got here Monday night. (How cool the sea breeze feels!) The yachts here are a pretty sight. (Where do you get your meals?) The hotel fare I can't commend. (We've joined the bathing throng.) Be good till I get back. (Please send your salary right along.)"—Boston Transcript.

Piccadilly a "Ruff."

Piccadilly, known the world over as a famous thoroughfare of London, received its name from a tavern several centuries ago. The tavern in its turn took the name from a tennis court that was near by, and much frequented by members of the king's household.

The tennis court acquired the name because of the number of both men and women who frequented it wearing a "piccadilly," or ruff.

The name, then, was originally the name of a shirred bit of silk, or other stiff material that was gathered along the edge of the cloak, bodice or jerkin, and brought together under the chin, forming an outstanding collar or ruff often six or eight inches wide, and in some cases dandies went to even greater extremes and extended their "piccadilly" a foot or more.

Queen Elizabeth made the ruff almost historical by her constant wearing of it at court functions, and to have her portrait painted.

Odors in Apartments.

There are times in the city dwelling, especially in an apartment, when just before the arrival of guests the hostess is conscious of a deadly odor stealing o'er the scene.

Instead of relying on the incense burner which must be carried from room to room in such an emergency and which often sends out only a fleeting fragrance, it is a good plan to keep on hand a little oil of cinnamon. Fill a shallow vessel with water and place it on the stove. When it boils put in a teaspoonful of the cinnamon oil. A spicy odor will soon fill the rooms. The water should simmer slowly, but not boil violently, after the oil is added. It is said that oil of lavender and other fragrant oils will give the same result. It is rather amusing to keep one's method of perfuming the home a secret, as this will add to the individuality of one's setting.

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Theford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficacy of Theford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer in this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver.

"I have known and used it for years and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all I claim to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver and its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Theford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Theford's.

The SANDMAN STORY

SUNMAN HELPS WIND.

ONE night the Wind and the Rain met in a field and such a quarrel as they began at once. "Get out of my way," said the Rain, "or I will drench you until you cannot move."

"Ha, ha," laughed the Wind. "I guess you do not know to whom you are speaking. Why, I can drive you before me and send you where I like."

This made the Rain very angry and down it came faster and heavier than ever to show how powerful it could be, but the Wind only blew harder and drove the Rain against the trees and bushes until they lay flat upon the ground and the Rain stood in little pools.

IT WAS THEN THAT THE WIND BEGAN.

Then across the field the Wind drove it until it struck the big farm buildings and ran in great tears down the sides, splashing upon the ground.

But though the Wind blew and drove the Rain as it bragged it could, the Rain in little rivers and pools called out that it would show its power to a short time by making floods which would rise high and cover the land.

It was then that the Wind began to think it must end the quarrel and in some way that would stop the Rain, for though it knew the Rain could never overpower it, the Rain did not, and in trying to show its strength it would do great harm.

And then it was, too, that the Wind discovered that it could not do this alone, in spite of its bragging and being able to drive the Rain before it.

As soon as the Wind stopped blowing and began to think, the Rain came down faster and faster and the pools grew into little ponds, for now it was sure it had overpowered the Wind and was master of everything.

But this was not true, for over the tree tops and over the hills and mountains went the Wind, running swiftly toward the east, for there it knew was Mr. Sunman, and he could always make everything right.

"Oh, Mr. Sunman," called the Wind, "wake up quickly and get up. There is something terrible happening," and then it told Mr. Sunman all about it, taking its part of the blame.

It was very hard for Mr. Sunman to get up that morning for the Rain had thrown thick blankets of clouds over him while he slept, but with the help of the Wind he at last threw them off and up he got and away they ran.

Up higher and higher they went, and in a short time away went the Rain and even the ponds and little rivers and pools were soon taken care of, and all that remained of the dreadful quarrel were the tears of rain dropping from the leaves.

The Wind carefully ran among the trees and helped Mr. Sunman dry them, and by and by all was well in the land, and now the Wind always goes over the hill and mountain tops early in the morning to awaken Mr. Sunman and sometimes if you listen you can hear the sound of its heavy breathing as it runs.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

PUBLICITY WORK.

MANY women are making a success in publicity work, and it is a growing opportunity.

You do not need to know how to write yourself. What you require is the ability to get things into print, to know where to go for results, to handle the sort of material people are glad to hear and willing to pay for.

One way is to begin on speculation. Get something that wants publicity, and find your medium, and, if necessary, your collaborator. When you get the publicity you take the result to the firm who wanted it and are given the promised check. You may have to divide this up, but it's a beginning.

"I began in a very small way," I was told by a young woman who has just as much work as she can handle. "Just went about doing little jobs, getting something in here another bit there. I used to sit up nights thinking of original ways to exploit whatever it might be I had on hand, and I got all sorts of people to work with me on spec. Presently it began to pay, work kept on coming in, I got to know a lot of useful people, and now..."

"And there's no better fun on earth," concluded my young friend. "It is work full of variety, full of human nature. I have a partner now, and she and I are both busy every minute, and we love it. Also, we are laying up a nice little nest egg for the future, when we mean to be able to travel and see the world and be as idle as old people should be."

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name, its history, meaning, whence it was derived, significance, your lucky day and lucky jewel.

REBECCA.

A GOOD old Biblical stock is Rebecca, which is translated "noosed cord." It is said to come from the Hebrew word rabak—at least that was the origin of the first Rebecca, a name which seems to have been coined especially to be bestowed upon the wife of Isaac, of Biblical fame.

The Rebecas of the world should make excellent wives, since the word rabak, a later rendition of rabak, which means a cord with a noose, is given to convey the firmness of the marriage cord. The Septuagint and the Latin both give evidence of the name Rebecca in very early times. Another version, said to be the authorized one, makes her Rebekah. This latter form seems to be the one affected today by every young miss who is called by the name of the good old Biblical heroine.

Despite the religious significance which history has given to the name, Rebecca has been a great favorite with writers, who have employed her in more or less frivolous romances. Two Rebecas who will never be forgotten by present-day readers are the "Becky" Sharp of Thackeray's immortal "Vanity Fair," and the charmingly quaint little "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which is endeared to the hearts of American admirers of Kate Douglas Wiggin.

The bloodstone is Rebecca's talismanic gem. It has the power to guard its wearer from all dangers and preserve her bodily health, and secure her consideration and respect. Moreover, it is said to guard her from deception, especially of her lover. Sunday is her lucky day and six her lucky number. The violet, signifying modesty, is her flower.

Versatile Vegetable.

It is a blessing nowadays to discover an article of food that will serve several purposes. The cassava plant, referred to in the United States "Commerce Reports," certainly comes under the category. The tubers of this plant are put to many uses. First and foremost it is a vegetable, which is prepared for eating by boiling in plain water. It is also made into a coarse form of meal. Then the dry tuber is grated into another meal, which is made into bread. The juice is saved and boiled down, and on certain condiments being added cassaree is produced, which is the foundation of many sauces. Starch can also be made from the tuber.

Independence Hall.

Independence hall, Philadelphia, the central in what is known as the state house group, was begun in 1732, and was opened and first put to use in September, 1736, when William Allen, mayor and prominent merchant of Philadelphia, gave a dinner to the citizens. It was occupied in October of the same year by the legislature, of which Benjamin Franklin was clerk. The Liberty bell was placed in the state house steeple in June, 1753. Congress convened in Independence hall March 4, 1777, left on September 18, 1777, returned July 2, 1778, and continued to sit there until the close of the revolution.

Federal Law Forbids Klans' Illegal Practices

The boldness of the Ku Klux Klan and its operations throughout the country has brought forth an investigation by the New York World and many important revelations are being opened to the public. The light of truth is being flashed on the Klan so that its leaders are writhing in a state of misery and are threatening damage suits against the World and other papers because of what they have printed. In the meantime the revelations continue. A great many truths are going to come to light. It develops that there is a federal law against such actions as the Ku Klux Klan are guilty of. This law has been in effect since 1871. The Klan had its original birth during reconstruction days after the Civil War and their crimes became so numerous and so atrocious that President Grant called for action on the part of the National Congress for the passage of a law that would take Klan cases out of the local courts and place them in the federal courts. This was done and that law is in effect today. Relative to this we here quote from Leslie's:

The Ku Klux Klan Law

There is a federal law against Ku Klux Klanism. It was passed in 1871 after Congress had investigated the white riders and their activities. This law calls night-riding "rebellion." It makes it a "high crime" to "go upon the highways or upon the premises of another with the intent to deprive any person of the protection of the laws to hinder state authorities from providing such protection; to impede the course of justice in any manner."

President Grant was, and other presidents likewise are, authorized by this law to employ the Army and Navy, if necessary, to restore order in any state where "rebellion" exists if the local authorities fail to protect citizens from offenses or marauders. The President may suspend the writ of habeas corpus in any state where local officials cannot preserve the peace against "rebellion." No person may act as a juror in a case against a member of the forbidden "combination or conspiracy" who cannot swear that he has not been a member of the organization. All cases, under the law, are to be tried in federal courts. Any person who has knowledge that an offense is committed, and does not notify the authorities, can be fined $5,000, the money to go to the widow, or next-of-kin, of the person losing his life in "such outrage."

The penalty for Ku Klux Klanism though the law does not specifically mention the Ku Klux Klan, is a fine of from $500 to $5,000; imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for six months to six years. Injured persons may also collect damages from the guilty parties.

Since there is a law against such practices as the Klan are guilty of we are not surprised that federal judges are taking steps to bring the guilty and lawless klansmen to justice. In this connection we here quote from Judge William B. Sheppard of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York in his charge to a federal jury to go after the night riders. He said:

"Fairly and Impartially"

"In all matters which may be presented by the District Attorney or of which you may have personal knowledge, the grand jury should proceed fairly and impartially to ascertain whether any offense is committed against the Federal laws and you are not to be made the vehicle of prejudice or hatred. On the other hand, it is your province to scrutinize and inquire closely into the conduct of individuals, associations of men, no matter how eminent or powerful they may be, politically, socially or financially."

"The law, to be effectual, is made for all classes, grades and conditions of men and so long as the law is fairly and impartially administered, the people will have respect and confidence in the courts of the lands and abiding faith that justice will be administered without respect to persons and thus the supremacy of the law will be maintained and restored."

"Widespread Propaganda"

"The possible menace to society of an organization having its origin, I am sorry to say, in the South, impels me to call the attention of the grand jurors wherever I preside to the widespread propaganda of the so-called order or society known as the Ku Klux Klan, which the World is now so patriotically and beneficently exposing."

"In Georgia, Florida and Texas this society, according to press reports has committed many outrages, such as dragging persons from their homes, tarring and feathering them, whipping and giving the ultimatum of departure from their homes. Aside from these atrocities all good citizens know that there is no place in free America for such a society."

Protection of Property

"The Constitution of the United States guarantees liberty of persons; protection of property, freedom of speech and religious convictions and it is left to no secret society or clan to prescribe standards or tenets, political or religious, for American citizens. Every one charged with crime or misconduct in this country is entitled to a public trial. If our boasted democracy and freedom is to continue as one of the blessings of this Government, courts and juries must be diligent in protecting and safeguarding these inalienable rights."

T. E. L. Class Entertained

Mrs. Albert Dunagan entertained the T. E. L. Class of the Baptist Sunday School Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Kirkpatrick. During the business session Mrs. Clifton was enrolled as an active member of the class. Ten members responded to roll call with current events. During the social hour Miss Frankie Kirkpatrick gave a reading which was enjoyed. The decorations carried out the class colors, Nile green and white. The out of town guests were Mrs. Earl Davis of Hamlin and Mrs. John Davis of Paducah. The hostess assisted by Mrs. Kirkpatrick served a delicious ice course.

The next meeting of the class will be held Thursday, Oct. 13, with Mrs. W. R. Womack.—Reporter.

Cornell Panels are "Mill-Primed" so this wallboard takes paint perfectly

I'm expressing the sentiments of about all the good painters and carpenters I know when I recommend Cornell Wood-Board for walls, ceilings and partitions in homes, garages, stores, offices, factories and farm buildings.

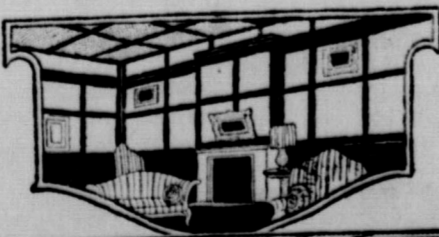

Cornell's exclusive "Oatmeal" finish is the handsomest effect you can get in a wallboard. The "Mill-Primed" surface needs no further priming and one coat of paint or calcimine is enough to produce a job that appears to be twice as expensive as it really is.

Folks prefer Cornell Panels instead of lath and plaster because Cornell doesn't crack or fall and costs much less.

Because every panel is "Triple-Sized" it gives your walls triple protection against moisture, expansion and contraction. In neat dustproof packages of 10 panels each; eight lengths from 6 to 16 feet; two widths, "Cornell 32" for small rooms, "Cornell 48" for large rooms.
