DEMONSTRATION WORK DEVELOPS LOCAL LEADERSHIP

Building for Permanent Work Takes Place of the Emergency Activities of Previous Years

Home demonstration work carried on by representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture cooperating with the State Agricultural colleges through an organization composed of the people of the community was undoubtedly much better understood at the end of 1920 than it was the year previous. People began to have a greater sense of their responsibilities with regard to the problems of better living. The relation of food to human efficiency, of clothing to health and economy of improved household conditions and conveniences to living standards, appears to have been more clearly appreciated.

Large Gains in County Membership

The proof of this is the increased number of rural women who acted as local leaders of demonstrations or who lent their support, encouragement, and personal interest to home demonstration work in the counties. Membership in the county extension organization increased in practically every State—in several States as much as 50 per cent. All States in the North and West report work in 1920 in some phase of clothing, nutrition, and home management work. Food preservation was a project in every State but one, health in all but two, and food production by women, especially poultry improvement, was carried on in practically all the Western and Middle States, according to circular just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The problems of food, clothing care of children, the comfort of the home, and the general business of housekeeping confront every homemaker and every group of housekeepers in all parts of the country. The call for guidance in clothing work in 1920 was so compelling that clothing specialists were added to the State extension staffs of the agricultural colleges in a number of States. The circular points out that rural women do much of the family sewing. High prices of fabrics and of ready-made garments increased the amount of home sewing all over the country, and farm women warmly welcomed the assistance of the home demonstration agent or State specialist. The fundamental idea underlying clothing demonstration has been economy of time, effort, money and material.

Various phases of health work have been carried on in every State in cooperation with State boards of health, with county, school, and Public Health Service officers, and in many instances with the Red Cross. Home nursing, sanitation, and various phases of child care, including nutrition, have been the projects of major importance.

Winners' Report

According to the Government report of the cotton ginned up to November 1, 1921, Foard County had to its credit 6,234 bales, as compared with 4,043 on November 1920.

This will not be far short of the entire crop for this year, as most of the cotton is already out. The fine weather this year accounts for the fact that we are more than 2,000 bales ahead of what we had at the same time last year.

Judging from the report of the local weigher, C. W. Thompson, also it seems that nearly all the cotton is in. He has been weighing not more than 25 bales a day for some time, and he thinks he will not get more than 2,500 bales this season.

Buys Ross Farm

A deal was closed this week whereby M. F. Crowell becomes owner of the J. F. Ross farm south of town near Foard City. This farm consists of 471 acres and is one of the best wheat farms in the county, and is a bargain at $55,000 an acre, the price Mr. Crowell paid. He has 441 acres planted to wheat.

Mrs. W. R. Womack, Mrs. Clifton and children, and Miss Lela Womack visited at Vernon last week. Mrs. Clifton is visiting her parents and Mrs. Womack and Miss Lela are visiting the family of J. D. Ferguson.

Knox City Defeats Crowell Hi 20 to 2

More than thirty of the home bunch went to Knox City Saturday, Nov. 6 to see the game between Crowell and Knox City's eleven.

Knox City carried off the palm by a score of 20 to 2, our score coming as a touch back in the last part of the first quarter.

Knox City's right half, Carpenter, interfered two forward passes attempted by the Crowell team and got away both times for a touch down. Carpenter is the man who intercepted a forward pass here in our first game for a touch-down—the only one made in that game.

Our boys were a little slower than usual, perhaps because of the long tiresome ride in a truck overland, but they put up their old plucky style through most of the game.

Kuhn of Haskell and Jack Brian of Crowell were in charge of the game.

Seniors Entertained by Juniors

We were agreeably surprised last Friday morning when Mr. Tate asked the Senior Class to retire to the cloak-room and, after shutting the door, told us that the Juniors were going to entertain us on the campus that night with a hobo stew. He told all the girls to come dressed in their aprons and the boys to wear their overalls.

When we arrived on the ground we found two camp fires burning merrily, one of which was suspended a huge pot that made us think of the "Melting Pot." We later discovered that it resembled it even more than we thought for at first, for in it were mixed those several varieties that constitute a really good stew—a pleasing result; just as the annual is composed of those many little things that, when combined, go to make up a book that is valued highly by every student of C. H. S. We accept this incident as a good omen.

We were glad to have the Chillicothe team and their spectators with us. They took their defeat of the afternoon bravely—which goes to show what really good sports they are.

The fun of the evening was started when the boys chose their partners and, to the music of the Edison, we danced the Virginia Reel. Then the Juniors served us to Hobo Stew—a dish that although never tasted by us before, proved to be very good. Next came songs and yells and various games. Mrs. Cook showed her ability to keep the games going and lively.

When the last sparks of our camp fire began to dim we reluctantly departed. Again, Juniors, we want to thank you for the pleasant evening you gave us; and we want you to know that each and every one of us greatly enjoyed the Hobo Stew. We will not forget it soon.—Senior Reporter.

Celebrate Armistice Day with Banquet at Quannah Hotel

On last Friday evening, Nov. 11th, the Misses Henson were hostesses to a large crowd of Crowell young people at a banquet given in the dining room of The Quannah Hotel at 8 p. m. This delightful affair was given in celebration of Armistice Day. Upon arriving in Quannah late in the afternoon the party had the pleasant privilege of making a short visit to the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cope.

The elaborate menu consisted of the following:

- Petite Pois in Cream
- Scallop Corn
- Snowflake Potatoes
- Hot Tea Biscuits
- Cream Bread

A theatre party at The Texan added to the enjoyment of the evening.

TRAFFIC INCREASES OVER SOUTH END OF HIGHWAY

One can easily see that more people are coming to Crowell since the bridge has been completed over the Wichita river. The bridge was opened for use last week and since that time several people from Knox County have been seen on our streets.

Crowell can easily become the trading point for most of those people across the river and on down around Truscott. It is no job at all to travel 20 miles over such a highway as we have to the river, and the bridge eliminates much of the trouble and annoyance people used to encounter in crossing the river. Foard County and Knox County are now connected with one of the best bridges in West Texas, or anywhere else, as for that matter. Those who have not been over the highway south since the bridge was completed should go down and cross it. It looks as though it could not keep from staying there for the next 25 years.

All Over Texas News

Mrs. J. M. Busby and her four children were seriously burned one day last week at Wichita Falls when a mixture of gasoline and carbolic acid exploded. The mixture had been prepared for killing insects and exploded in the home, which was destroyed by the flames caused by the explosion.

It was suggested that any student who did not desire to remain in the room during the period of Bible reading, be permitted to retire.

Off On Deer Hunt

Henry Gribble, George Self and Glen Halsell left Sunday for the mountains of New Mexico on a deer hunt. The fact that they are on that kind of mission is no secret for it's too far away from home for anybody here to be interested in the number of animals they kill. Of course, they will stay within the bounds of the law up there. Anybody knows that if after they have killed all they are allowed to kill and happen up on a bunch grazing the boys will just go along and let them be undisturbed.

The News is not interested in operations in New Mexico, but it expects to watch out for the boys when they come back. It expects to know if they bring deer meat with them.

Geo. W. Owens and wife returned this week from Valparaiso, Indiana where George was taking a course in Wireless telegraphy, however, the course was not completed for the reason that his health would not permit him to live in that climate.

WORLD'S COTTON CONDITIONS GENERALLY LOOK IMPROVED

Economic conditions in Europe, outside of Russia, are gradually improving, according to William R. Meadows and William L. Pryor, of the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture, recently returned from a four months' trip through Europe and Egypt studying general market conditions for cotton, especially as bearing on the prospective demand for the American product. The department's representatives report that the consumption of American cotton may be expected to show a considerable increase, perhaps 10 to 13 per cent over that of last year.

Visits were made to England, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Poland, the free city of Danzig, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Italy, and Egypt. In addition, Mr. Meadows also visited Palestine. At all the cotton marketing and manufacturing centers conferences were held with Government officials, cotton men, bankers, and others, and much valuable information concerning conditions affecting American cotton was secured. The recent advance in the price of cotton, they say, has greatly relieved the cotton merchants, spinners, and bankers of Europe as well as similar lines of industry in this country. According to the best information obtainable, the cotton manufacturing world begins the new season with a clean slate, there being no large stocks of cotton or cotton goods held by manufacturers in any European country. In the judgment of the department's representatives Europe must of necessity follow a "hand-to-mouth" policy in purchasing its supplies of raw cotton, and American holders should adopt a gradual marketing policy to conform to Europe's requirements.

Turkeys vs. Cotton

Although cotton has sold for a splendid price this fall, it is doubtful if it is more paying than some other lines of farm work. We have in mind just now turkey raising.

If there has ever been a year when big fat juicy turkey gobblers did not command a good price here we do not recall it. This year is no exception to the rule and many are the farmers and farmers' wives who are getting far more than pin money out of the bronzed-feathered tribe. J. L. Moore finds his turkeys (or his wife's, as the case may be), even more profitable than cotton at its splendid price this year. Turkeys are a good price, too. Mr. Moore sold 4¢ last week to a local buyer that brought him $262.50, the price per pound being 35 cents.

These 49 turkeys, after the first week or two of their lives, made themselves, practically and consequently they almost represent net profit. That's the beauty about the turkey business. This bunch brought as much money as two bales of cotton would sell for, but not half the cotton is net profit. Any farmer can figure that out for himself and see just how much he cleared on a bale of cotton. Let him figure his seed, preparing the land, cultivating, and picking the cotton. There is no limit to the expenses. But the turkeys grow into money and do their own picking.

Chaney Goes to Wilbarger

Effective Dec. 1, P. D. Chaney has resigned his work in this county as county agent to accept the same position in Wilbarger County. The opportunity presents itself in this case for a more remunerative position and really comes as a promotion which it is felt that Mr. Chaney deserves. He has acted as county agent of this county for about two and a half years and his services have been worth much to the farming interests of Foard County. Mr. Chaney succeeds Guy Jones who goes to Wichita County. He will be succeeded by Roy Rennels, who has for some months occupied the position of assistant county agent.

Mr. Rennels is thoroughly familiar with the work in this county and will take it up where Mr. Chaney leaves off and will go right ahead with it. He is active and full of energy, so that he will be expected to make good as county agent.

CROWELL WALLOPS MUNDAY 14 TO 7

Crowell Hi furnished our football fans with bouquets of real thrills here Tuesday, Nov. 8, when they walloped the Munday eleven to the tune of 14 to 7.

Munday kicked off and Crowell carried the ball on to Munday's 40 yard line before that husky home interference could be stopped. Then began an exhibition of that good old fashioned football play known as the center back. The ball was walked through the first ten yards in two downs. Then on a brilliant, fierce center rush Cates for the home squad broke through the Munday lines for a 27-yard run putting the ball on the opponents' 3-yard line. Two straight center backs put Cates over for the first touchdown and Glover kicked free goal.

Munday came back fierce and fast and went over Crowell's goal by a series of forward passes, capped off by a center rush for the last four yards. Munday kicked free goal as the whistle of the timekeeper ended first quarter.

The 2nd quarter was scoreless. In the third quarter Munday fumbled on her own 20-yard line, and Carter for Crowell recovered the ball and ran eighty yards for the winning touchdown. Cates kicked free goal.

Birthday Dinner

On Wednesday November 9th at the residence of Clyde McKown a most sumptuous dinner was given by Mesdames McKown and Williams in honor of their mother, Mrs. B. F. Ringgold, whose birthday they were celebrating. Covers were laid for sixteen.

Shortly after eleven o'clock the guests began to arrive and they were met by Mrs. Ringgold with a smile of welcome for each one, and they were conducted into the living room where they met with other guests and exchanged social greetings and spent the time in pleasant conversation until the dinner hour.

To say that we enjoyed the dinner would be putting it mildly. It would be impossible for this writer at this time to mention all the good things served, suffice it to say, they were varied and abundant.

In the afternoon a nut contest was given and was won by Mrs. Clark, and this was followed by a marsh mallow contest which caused a great deal of merriment. We were lined up in two rows facing each other and were each given a marsh mallow with a long string attached. We were to take the string in our teeth and the first one to reach and eat the mallow won the prize which was a huge stick of candy. Mrs. Edwards won the prize which she presented to the guest of honor and she, in generosity of heart, divided with the less fortunate.

We were also entertained with accordion music by Mrs. Edwards, such melodies as Old Black Joe, My Old Kentucky Home, Nellie Gray, Maryland, My Maryland, were well rendered and much enjoyed by all.

Wishing to have a reminder of the pleasant occasion, we were invited into the yard and a kodak picture was made of the group.

As the shadows began to lengthen we were reminded that all good things have an end, so after expressing our appreciation of the delightful time shown us by our hostesses, we wended our way homeward with the wish in our hearts that many happy returns of the occasion might be vouchsafed the honored guest.

Those present were, Mesdames R. B. Edwards, J. W. Bell, Hamp Carter, G. A. Mitchell, R. M. Magee, J. J. Brown, Joe Johnson, Ida Cheek, Bettie Thomson, Hines Clark, J. A. Wright, J. S. Long, N. A. Crowell and Fannie Thacker.—A Guest.

Got Caught

Parties from Vernon and Seymour who were running a blockade still near the Wilbarger County line got caught last week by the officers of Wilbarger and Baylor. The names, as given by the Baylor County Banner, are J. A. Land, Will Claybrook and Frank Riggs of Vernon, and Joe Glover of Goree.

These fellows were running a pretty big outfit. The capacity of the still is said to have been 50 gallons a day. While some of the party manufactured the stuff, others put it on the market, and doubtless found ready sale for it.

ARMISTICE DAY FOOTBALL GAME WON BY CROWELL

Plucky Visitors Go Down Before Home Squad in Last Game of Season Here 6 to 0

The largest crowd yet assembled on the home gridiron witnessed the defeat of the Chillicothe High School eleven by Crowell's purple and gold. The game was a thriller from the first whistle to the last. Both sides went in confident, and throughout the first three quarters there was a fast, fierce, scoreless fight.

The visitors early in the game saw the futility of attempting anything through Crowell's line, and so concentrated on end runs, trick plays and forward passes. But the trick plays that worked so beautifully for Paducah in her first game against our inexperienced squad were lost on a wiser bunch this time. Their end runs were consistently stopped by our superior tackles and their forward passes, save one were broken up by our fast backfield men. Only once did Chillicothe have a chance to score. This was in the third quarter when they were on our eleven yard line. They were held four downs however and the ball went over.

The one touchdown for Crowell came near the middle of the last quarter of play. Chillicothe in an attempted end run fumbled, and Glover for Crowell covered the ball and made a hair-raising run of thirty-five yards with both teams stringing after him. He was rushed too close to the side line by Chillicothe's fast full back and referee Jack Brian's whistle called him back to where his left foot had gone over. This put the ball on Chillicothe's three yard line. The rest was sure and certain—two demonstrations of that "good old Crowell center back" quickly laid the pigskin spheroid beyond the visitors' goal. Glover missed free goal and the teams went back for six minutes of play. The time was too short for the visitors to hope for a score against the home boys, but they put up a brilliant battle till the last whistle.

Altogether it was pronounced the cleanest, pluckiest and most exciting game of the season.

Methodist Church Notice

Sunday School promptly at 10 o'clock, M. S. Henry, superintendent, in charge. He is very anxious to have you there on time for the opening service, as it helps to prepare you for the lesson that follows. Our attendance was much better last Sunday but not just what it ought to be yet. We are looking for you next Sunday and shall be disappointed if you are not there.

Preaching at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. We trust that every member of the church will be present at these services if possible. That twenty minutes song service at the evening hour is especially fine. Come and enjoy this service with us. To those who have no service at your own church, we will be delighted to have you worship with us and take part in our services. If you are a stranger or visitor in the town you will find a welcome at the Methodist church.

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

Hindu Barber Kept Busy.

The Hindu haircutter is an individual of immense importance in India, and as his duties are many, he is in constant demand. At a birth the Hindu barber is the man employed to carry the eventful news to the various family relatives, whilst at a funeral he shaves the heads of the living—and the dead.

The Hindu haircutter has no shop, and, unlike our barbers, he displays no poles, signs or symbols. He can be seen strolling along near the bazaars with a small bundle under his arm or carrying a little bag.

At all religious rites he is to be observed; he bores the girls' ears and noses for the various rings which are worn; and, in fact, the busy Hindu barber will undertake almost any surgical operation.

Besides births and deaths, he attends marriages. At a wedding this busy barber is "best man."

THE FOARD COUNTY NEWS

KIMSEY & KLEPPER, Owners and Publishers

Crowell, Texas, November 18, 1921

It is not likely that Secretary Hughes' proposition to scrap all ships now in process of construction together with a number of dreadnaughts already afloat will be accepted by Great Britain and Japan without change, but it furnishes a working basis, and it is not unlikely that a satisfactory agreement will be reached. There are strong indications that all three of these nations would like to see certain restrictions in navy construction. Certainly every other country represented at the peace conference would be glad to see all battle ships and submarines scrapped, because they have none themselves. Secretary Hughes surprised not only the representatives of the various nations but he surprised the American people by his frank, clear-cut, plain proposition to scrap the navies and take a holiday for ten years. But so far, we have seen no adverse criticism of the proposition in the press of the country. The one who pays the fiddler—which comprise the rank and file of the world—would like to see the dancing cease and have the fiddle laid on the shelf.

Many do not realize the effect advertising has in the creation of business. Suppose every business man in the world should quit advertising for one month. Thousands of articles now in the market would cease to be manufactured; scores of people would be thrown out of employment; the price of raw materials of all kinds would drop in price; the farmer could not find a market for his products. In short, commerce would be destroyed and business would cease. That would be hard on everybody, even on the wart who hangs out on the public square with a store and claims the right to your patronage, and who enforces himself in his shell, does not advertise, does not contribute to waterworks, public highways, commercial clubs, or anything else that aims to benefit the public in general—such a business man would suffer—because the biggest per cent of his business is created by other establishments in the town which do advertise.

There are not enough hens on the farm. Every one could well afford to keep as many as 100. Hens are one of the greatest revenue producers in this country, but they are not given their rightful place. The Lockney Beacon runs the aliteration of "hens and hogs" like this: "Hens and hogs will build any community. Hens and hogs are making the Plains country very prosperous. Hens and hogs are mortgage lifters, and revenue producers for the people." We might add that hens and hogs and Holsteins are a great help in freeing the average family from dependence on the paper sack for their grub.

Our readers will pardon us for dragging Coffee Arbuckle across this page, but we see where he is going to have his trial shortly. He says his lawyers have advised him to keep silent until his time comes, which will be when he is put on the stand. Then he thinks he will have no difficulty in proving his innocence of the death of Virginia Rappe. Whatever the decision of a jury, it will be a long time before Arbuckle is acquitted in the minds of the public generally.

Judging from a paragraph here credited to an Arkansas paper, one would think they have their experience over there with reckless auto drivers. Here is a recipe for the fool killer, as given by the Leachville Star: "Take one reckless natural fool, two or three big drinks of white mule; soak the fool well in the mule, place in the car and let him go. After due time remove from the wreckage, place in black satin-lined box and garnish with flowers."

JUDGE M. M. HANKINS FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

Judge M. M. Hankins of Quanah places his name before the voters of Foard County as a candidate for District Judge of this district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary. Perhaps there is no lawyer in this district with a wider acquaintance with the people of this country, or one who holds higher standing in the legal profession than Judge Hankins. So it is only necessary for the News to call attention to the fact that his name now appears in our announcement column.

A good milch cow for sale or trade. See Bruce Lee.

The Home Town

We live in this town because we believe in it. We believe in it because it is a good town, regardless of its few defects, and its people are the peers of those to be found anywhere.

This town may not have the wealth of some more favored communities but it has character, and character is a possession which can not be purchased with gold.

If you believe in your home town you will like it, and if you like it no effort toward its improvement will be too great for you.

Again we ask you to have faith in your own power; to also have faith in your own town.

When you feel like criticizing it check the thought before spoken. You can always find something good to say instead, and even then the half of the truth will never be told.

It is a good town now, but faith, loyalty and united action, will make it a better one.

Our faith in this town, brother, is simply faith in you, because the town is a collection of you's.

Surely your faith is not less than ours.

Let us unite—let us act—for a more cohesive community.

It is your home—and ours.—From the Scottish Chief.

T. E. L. Class Meeting

The T. E. L. Class of the Baptist church enjoyed another good meeting in the home of Mrs. W. R. Womack, Nov. 10th, this being the regular time of meeting.

Mrs. Billington led the devotion, reading two passages from Paul's writings and stressing two points, "The Christian Should Always Look up," and "We Should Live So As to have a Clean Conscience Toward God and Man."

Mrs. Speck presided over the business session. The class voted to buy one of the large windows in the new church, having paid our class pledge in full.

The Thanksgiving talks called for by Secretary Mrs. McGonagle, were an inspiration to all present for we as a class have many things to be thankful for.

Mrs. Womack's home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and the social hour was one of the best yet. The plates passed were well filled with chicken sandwiches, pie and coffee.

Mrs. J. W. Allison and Mrs. Edgar Womack were gladly welcomed as visitors.

Class will meet with Mrs. Henry Gribble next month.—Reporter.

Movements of the Earth.

The continents stand at an average height of about 15,000 feet above the ocean bottom and their weights causing a pressure of 15,000 to 20,000 pounds per square inch on their bases is supposed to be causing a slow creeping of the land into the sea against the 5,000 pounds of pressure by the water at the bottom. The rocks of mines are observed to creep under less pressure. In recent experiments, two hemispheres of rock were fitted together by plane surfaces, and a cavity was ground in one or a steel washer was laid on it and the hemispheres were then forced together by hydraulic pressure continued for months, at room temperature. It was demonstrated that a pressure of 80,000 pounds per square inch will close even small cavities in granite, basalt, obsidian or limestone.

American Legion News

The mayor and chief of police of Lincoln, Neb., have endorsed a plan for the employment of jobless ex-service men as night watchmen to aid the police department in suppressing crime.

The home in which the daughter of Betsy Ross, maker of the first American flag, lived at Fort Madison, Ia., has been purchased by the Fort Madison post of their American Legion for a club house.

A chicken that came into the world "shimmying" and grew to full size in spite of its affliction, was one of the attractions at the "Joy Day" celebration of the Hedrick, Iowa post of the American Legion. It was billed as "the world's only shimmying chicken."

A five-mile walking race will be held Thanksgiving Day by the Charles A. Learned Post of Detroit, Mich. Both men and women have entered the contest. Only Legionnaires are eligible. Prizes valued at more than $1,000 will be offered.

Joseph Sentic, a world war veteran who lost a leg in the Argonne, walked seven miles at the head of the Shelbina, Mo., post of the American Legion in the Legion parade at Kansas City. Sentic gets around with the aid of a crutch.

A post of the American Legion composed entirely of World War veterans of Polish descent has been formed at Toledo, Ohio, and is known as Argonne post. Frank Szumigala is the commander. Stanley J. Grzezinski is vice commander and Joseph Malinkowski is adjutant.

Flying a kite "to keep the wolf away from the door" is the occupation of a World War veteran who during the war flew an airplane in France. The veteran was jobless and the only work the American Legion Employment Bureau at Minneapolis, Minn., could find for him was flying an advertising kite for a file company.

Reunited after seventeen years separation, Frank and Joseph Payne, who had been placed in an orphanage in St. Louis in early childhood, found in comparing the war experiences that they had sought safety in the same shell hole in the Argonne but did not at the time know they were brothers. The reunion occurred at Kansas City Mo.

Roy Phillips, member of the American Legion at Nashville, Tenn., received a 5-lb. box of candy in the mail five-pound box of candy in the mail and wondered who loved him. After eating some of the candy he was sent to the hospital, where physicians pronounced his condition critical. The candy contained poison and Phillips is now wondering who hates him. The police are investigating.

There is one officer to every seven men in the United States army, according to information received by the American Legion. It was explained by the War Department that the high proportion of officers was due to the present army policy of maintaining an army capable of quick expansion in time of war. The army today numbers 138,000 of which number 18,000 are officers.

Members of the American Legion who served with the United States forces in France, will be called upon to give facts relating to Senator Watson's charge that American soldiers were shot and hanged in France without formality of a court-martial. Secretary of War Weeks in a request to the Legion's cooperation said the War Department desired to prove or definitely refute the Georgia Senator's allegations. Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the Legion said he was sure the National Commander would cooperate.

The first official act of Hanford MacNider, newly elected national commander of the American Legion was his attendance at the Armistice Day ceremonies at Arlington as representative of the majority of ex-service men in the United States. He will remain at Washington during the disarmament conference. MacNider's election has been approved by the Legionnaires everywhere. "He is exactly the type of man we want to lead us," seems to be the unanimous comment. The impressive things about the new commander are that he went into the army a buck private and came out a lieutenant colonel with 11 citations and nine decorations; that at the age of 32 he is head of a large banking business in Iowa and that he is a "Harvard man without the Harvard accent." He has been hailed everywhere as a "real soldier."

STORMY WEATHER

By PAULA PHILLIPS.

© 1921, Western Newspaper Union

Nanette, seated in the garden where fountains tinkled, and rare flowers bloomed, was very miserable, indeed. For the beautiful gift of happiness was to be found neither in her father's luxurious home or garden. Nanette, with her many conquests and care-free days of girlhood, had left unlearned the lesson of true love. Now that it was before her, it was a difficult lesson to understand. It had been very sweet before she had known that it was love at all. Knight Evers was such a companionable satisfying sort of friend.

She was usually busily engaged in her partnership of some game. But Knight would turn occasionally with his bright smile of comradeship toward her, and leaving her still undisturbed. So in their rides together, he always had time to pause for the viewing of the glorious scenery which held her spellbound, and seemed to know instinctively when and where Nanette would wish to linger most. They were merry together, too, with little secret jokes concerning others, that were innocently their own; and also, Knight was unostentatiously careful of her.

When father Norton, millionaire Norton, he was called, noticed the growing friendliness between his only daughter and the young nobody whom the Fallings had inconsiderately invited to the country club as their guest, he merely raised supercilious eyebrows.

Nanette seldom showed any admiration undivided attention, and he believed that this unusual acquaintance would be of short duration. But as time passed and Knight Evers, office employee of an insignificant business concern, continued to visit the country club, and later to visit Nanette herself, Mr. Norton became annoyed and chagrined; for his obedient daughter, for the first time in her life, ignored his request.

"It would be wise," her father advised her, "to cease encouraging young Evers. You know as well as I, that nothing can come of such an attachment. To put the case frankly, he is decidedly beneath you and your family, in position. Drop him. We have other views for you."

But Nanette did not at once drop Knight Evers. Though knowing her father, she knew that he would not relent in his judgment. She wondered, tearfully and vaguely, if Knight should ask her to marry him, and Nan was pretty certain that the question was trembling on his different lips, if Knight should ask her, would she be able, after the diffident manner of her raising, to make him a competent helpmeet.

Would Knight be unhappy in her failures? Would she be unhappy in her restrictions?

Nan pondered seriously, and it was Jim Brent who came to be her father's best aide. Capable Jim Brent, with his poise and assurance. Her father's friends called the man Jim naturally, to most of them he was their confidential banker. He was an officer in the country club, of which Nanette's father was president, and he was a bachelor. This latter state, however, he was quite willing to forsake at Nan's little yes. As yet, Nan had not quite whispered it. But when she compared her future wifely duties at the accomplished Jim's side, to those unacquainted duties which she must painstakingly learn as Knight's wife, Nanette was inclined to throw up even love and its sweetness for certainty and the approval of her own family.

So when Knight's question came, spoken all impulsively in the beautiful moon-lit garden, Nan was ready for him. Knight had scarcely time to regret what he called his own "selfish rashness" before Nanette uttered her no.

"It cannot be Knight, good old friend," she said firmly. "Love is all right for sunny weather, but when it comes to storms, the frightening storms of life—well, it really takes more than love, dear."

Knight had choked up at the little word dear, and had gone, blindly on his way. The days that followed were the hardest Nanette had ever known. She had expected to miss her understanding pal, but she had not counted upon the constant ache of a longing heart.

And when, one day, Nan fled to the woods, to be free from the chatter of guests that wearied her, Jim Brent's talk seemed like idle chatter now, too—Nan walked farther in the woods than she knew. And there, a thunderstorm found her. A flashing, roaring thunderstorm in the cathedral of trees.

From childhood, electrical storms had been Nanette's terror. Wild-eyed, white-lipped, she waited. Before the last fearful reverberation, she closed her eyes. Then out of the threatening darkness, came miraculously, two strong protecting arms to enfold her. Nan glanced up quickly, gratefully, at the comforting sense of support.

Knight Evers stood looking down upon her tenderly, forgivingly.

"Nan," he said, "my life has been all trouble and ripped to pieces—like the storm clouds since you left. I can't live without you, Nan, even if your dad is worth a million."

"A million dollars," said Nanette contentedly.

"What's it worth when you are out in the storm? A strong protecting arm like yours, Knight dear—"

Peace had followed the storm.

Queen of the Pantry

The name "Queen" stands for superiority. This is especially true in its application to the Queen of the Pantry flour, for every particular bread maker knows it has no superior, if indeed an equal today. One can not speak of this highest grade flour without associating with it the thought of the very finest baked bread, pies, etc.

Another thing, Queen of the Pantry is as good today as when it first came out. It is made for use, not just to sell. That's why it stands up. If you want the best flour to be had buy Queen of the Pantry. Accept no substitute. This is no higher than many cheaper grades and is far superior. Every sack absolutely guaranteed.

Cabinet Plans to Stop Mail Thefts

Washington, Nov. 8.—A thousand marines have been ordered to man mail trains and trucks in an effort to check the epidemic of robberies and holdups that have been sweeping the country.

The marines will go on duty Wednesday, heavily armed, under orders to shoot to kill if necessary to protect the mails.

Decision to use the marines was made at a Cabinet meeting Tuesday. It was decided the robberies should be stopped at all costs. Meantime, a corps of guards will be organized for permanent duty.

"We're at war with crooks and bandits of the country," said Postmaster General Hays. "The United States mails will be protected at all costs."

The Postoffice Department has been provided by the War Department with 50,000 pistols, 2,000,000 rounds of ammunition, and a number of sawed-off shotguns. More arms will be asked.

Cities where the marines will first go on duty are those in which Federal Reserve Banks are located, from which come large shipments of currency. The cities include Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas and Los Angeles. Most of the marines will come from Quantico, Virginia, but those for Western duty will be from Mare Island, Cal.

Must Protect Mails
"There is no length to which the department will not go to prevent these mail robberies," said Hays. "These mails are inviolate and must and shall be protected."

Most recent mail robberies have been at Kansas City, New York and Paxton, Ill.

Hays said that recently when employees were armed and rewards offered for the capture of bandits there was a marked decrease in the number of robberies. But the three recent robberies, he said, necessitated drastic measures.

"The marines will be detailed to ride with the mail trucks and the mail coaches in which the valuable mail is conveyed, and will be stationed at those points in postoffices and stations where protection is essential," said Hays. "Additional marines will be furnished if necessary. In the meantime there will be recruited from the department itself to take the place ultimately of these soldiers as an armed guard as a permanent branch of the service. The 1,000 marines are selected men."

Hays blames dereliction of duty for the New York robbery. Mail was carried through the postoffice under guard, loaded into a truck and sent out of the city without protection, he said. Hearings are under way to fix responsibility, and three officials have been suspended from the service.

The loot was about $2,000,000.

DRY MASH NECESSARY TO MAKE HENS LAY

The poultry husbandman, F. W. Kazmeier, of the A. & M. College advises those engaged in the poultry business to feed their hens the following dry mash:

- Wheat bran 15 pounds
- Corn meal 30 pounds
- Ground milo 35 pounds
- Meat scraps 20 pounds

It is further advised that every good dry mash mixture should contain not less than 10 per cent and not more than 25 per cent meat scraps. This is the most important ingredient of any dry mash mixture. Wheat bran is also a very important ingredient.

There is much to be learned about raising and caring for poultry and the A. & M. College is the source of much information that would be helpful in this work. Our county agents are here to help you and they should be used.

By giving the poultry business a little more thoughtful attention it can be made a very profitable business. This is the time of year when eggs bring a fancy price. It is also the time when hens are prone to strike. They will lay if they are properly cared for in the matter of feed and housing.
