CROWELL MAY GET NATIONAL HIGHWAY

Delegates Went to Annual Meeting of Lee Highway at Lawton Wednesday; Route by Crowell Is Favored

Delegates left early Wednesday morning for Lawton, Okla., to attend the annual convention of the Lee Highway Association which met there yesterday. Those from Crowell are Geo. Self, S. T. Crews and H. E. Ferguson. Delegates from every town west of here on the F. F. F. Highway sent men to the convention to represent their towns and communities in presenting reasons why the highway should come their way.

From facts at hand it seems that the F. F. F. Highway stands a mighty good chance of becoming a part of this transcontinental road from New York City to San Francisco.

This is a great highway that is to be built as a memorial to the great Confederate General, Robert E. Lee, and will be to the South what the great Lincoln Highway is to the North, excepting the fact that while the Lincoln is blocked with snow four months in the year, the Lee Highway will be open 365 days in the year, and therefore must be the most favored route for the tourist travel from coast to coast the bigger portion of the year. This highway is now completed from New York to Memphis, Tenn. The route will touch the military posts and will therefore come through Lawton, Okla., and go out of Texas at El Paso. We are in line for the route. The fact of the business is that the field man has been over the route from Vernon to Clovis, N. M., and has recommended that the route be designated from Altus by way of Vernon, Crowell, Paducah, Mauder, and on to Plainview and out over the F. F. F. Highway to Clovis. From Clovis it will likely go by way of Boswell. But the portion of the road we are interested in is that which connects Lawton and Clovis. The tentative route has been over the Ozark Trail, but further investigation seems to show that the more southern route is most practicable. Anyway, it is gratifying to know that the field man has recommended this.

What a National Highway would mean for this country can not be foreseen, and if Crowell should be fortunate enough to get the Lee Highway, we would be, as one says, "on one of the leading streets of America."

The delegates from Crowell went to Lawton to represent Crowell and Foard County in this matter.

S. S. Class Meeting

Friday, July 14, the W. W. Class of the intermediate department of the Foard City Sunday School met in regular business session. The following officers were elected for the ensuing quarter: Kay Ola McDaniel, president; Milton Callaway, 1st vice president; Victoria McDaniel, 2nd vice president; Joe Rader, 3rd vice president; Grady Holbert, secretary; Martha Thompson, assistant secretary; Virgie Callaway, treasurer; Marcus Mills, assistant treasurer; Clifton Stone, captain of boys; Roberta Taylor, captain of girls.

After the business session, the losing side in the recent contest for new members entertained the winning side by inviting them out in the open where games, horse-back riding, k-daking, etc., were enjoyed. At the close of the afternoon they served cake and ice cream.

Mrs. R. E. Sparks is the teacher of this very interesting class. She and the pupils very cordially welcome visitors or new members.—Reporter.

Birthday Celebration

Last Sunday was an enjoyable occasion in the home of Dave Thomson, when his relatives surprised him by gathering there with well filled baskets to celebrate his forty-second birthday.

At 12 o'clock a bountiful dinner was served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Whited and children of Quanah, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Dickerson, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Dickerson and children, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Thomson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dickerson, and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Thomson, of Crowell.

After spending a pleasant afternoon refreshments were served and we departed, wishing for Mr. Thomson many more happy birthdays.—A Guest.

SAYS ORIENT COULD ABBREVIATE SERVICE

It had occurred to the News that the Orient could cut down its service rather than discontinue, and by that means still operate until the time comes when it can again put on full service. It seems preposterous that there is no alternative. There come times in men's business affairs when they must seek means and methods of reducing expenses within the bounds of income. If the Orient has been running full time because it had to, then it ought to be paying expenses. If it could have gotten by, and if it can now get by, by cutting down the service, does it not seem that that is the logical thing to do? Of course, we are not running the road, but we feel that the time has not come for it to be junked until reasonable efforts have been made to solve its financial problems. Here is an editorial on this point from the Fort Worth Record, only a few paragraphs of the entire editorial being given. Says the Record:

The railroad is not paying expenses of operations and it is proposed to junk it. That means it will cease operations, the equipment will be sold and the tracks torn up. It is proposed to treat it as a logging road is treated after all the timber along its line has been cut off, which is equivalent to saying there is no further service for which it is needed in Texas.

The stockholders and the bondholders would like to get back the money they have invested in the line, but the bondholders will get only a very small part and the stockholders nothing if the road is junked. Their loss, in any event, will be insignificant in comparison with the loss that will be sustained by the communities served by the railroad should it cease operations.

If the service given by the railroad must be abbreviated, it is much better so than that it be discontinued. Some revenue may be expected from its operations; then make the cost of operations fit the revenue, not by curtailing wages, for the employees must live, but by curtailing service and using fewer employees, giving the communities along the railway at least what they are able to pay for. West Texas has passed through a hard period. A big revival may be expected within a few years, has already begun, and when the demand for a renewal of the better service exists, and there is money to pay for it, a restoration may easily be effected.

NEW FAIR GROUNDS ARE PROBABILITY

Local Citizen Proposes to Lease Body of Land Ample in Scope for County Fair Needs

That Foard County is soon going to need larger fair grounds and better and larger buildings to take care of a county fair has been evident for some time. J. B. Easley, seeing this need, proposes to lease to an organized association a body of ground west of his place which will permit all the improvements desired, and he together with as many other citizens as may desire to take stock in the proposition. This matter was discussed at the chamber meeting Tuesday night and seemed to meet the approval of all present. But it is thought that the improvements can not be made between this and the time for the fair this fall. Much more fencing will have to be erected and more buildings put up, besides a larger grandstand, which is to face the east where it will be more comfortable than the one we now have facing the west. The grounds to be leased comprise a body 1276 by 520, much larger than the small grounds heretofore used.

There seems to be nothing in the way of this proposition except the brevity of time, and it may be necessary to set this as an achievement for 1923. A committee was appointed to work out some plan for a fair this fall until a permanent association can be organized. The committee is made up of the following names: Joe L. Orr, Ben Easley, N. J. Roberts, Leo Spencer, George Self, Fred Rennels, M. L. Hughston, H. L. Kimsey.

This committee will meet in the office of Fred Rennels next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and all who would like to see the grounds should call on the building of the ball park are invited to appear and register any objection they may have, if any, to the enlarged program for a fair ground, which proposes to utilize the material put into it.

CITY WILL BUILD A FIRE STATION

Location Selected and Contract Expected to Be Signed Up This Week; Building to Be Two Story Brick

The site for the new fire station was procured some weeks ago, but not until recently has the contract been let for the construction of the building. The location will be on the lot just north of the Cicero Smith Lumber Co.

C. L. Hendricks has been employed to erect the building, the cost of which will be between $5,000 and $6,000. It will be a two-story brick and will be used for all city purposes. The fire truck will occupy the lower floor and the city officers and council will use the upper floor.

Incidentally we might say that the fire truck has been shipped for some time and possibly would have already been here had it not been for the railroad strike. It is due to arrive at any time. This is an up-to-date outfit and costs $5,750 with all equipment. When this is installed we will be able to handle any fire that we would likely have in Crowell for a long time. It will pump 250 gallons per minute.

This will be something we shall be proud of. Crowell has had some fires, but none to compare with those of other towns of its size, and we feel fortunate that we have not been worse hit. When this machinery is installed we can feel comparatively safe from destructive fires.

From Denton State Normal

Denton, Texas, July 17, 1922.—I have been selected by the students from Foard County who are in the Normal to be press representative to the News.

Of course when we organize the various county clubs, Foard County has nothing like the number that Denton, Collin, or any of the near counties have. But we organized what is known as the West Texas Club, including all counties west of Wichita Falls. We pride ourselves of being the leading county in the club. We have a greater membership than any other county in the club. The last four presidents of the club have been from Foard County. We feel proud of the record of Foard County and I am sure the people of the county prize the Normal if they are interested in the education of their children because so many of the teachers come from this school.

Though small and at a great distance, we had twenty in the Normal last summer. This summer we have a few less. The little village of Thalia prides itself of having as many representatives here as any other place its size and the same distance away. Thalia and surrounding vicinity have eight students in the normal.

The number who attend this school, to say nothing of those who go to other places, is a good index to the progress of the county and we think it shows up well.

Some of those who are here from the extreme eastern part of Texas and from other eastern states think West Texas is nothing but prairie dog towns and big ranches with longhorn cattle. But we are grateful that they are becoming awakened to the fact that West Texas is the best part of the state. Believe me, everyone from there certainly stands by West Texas whenever she needs defense, too.

It is our request that you boost the Normal, not only this one but all of them, and every educational institution in the state. It is our duty to move Texas from its rank of thirty-eighth in the United States to a higher status. Let's do our patriotic duty and give education our utmost moral support. Let's make Texas a better place in which to live.

C. A. DAVIS.

J. W. Klepper went to Vernon Sunday morning to take his daughter, Miss Maye Klepper, who returned to Dallas after a week's visit with friends and relatives here. Mr. Klepper remained in Vernon to have his eyes treated, and expects to be there for a couple of weeks.

J. M. Jonas, Sr., and daughter, Mrs. C. D. Hall, made an automobile trip to Wise County last week where they visited relatives. Mr. Jonas says the crop prospects in that vicinity are very poor.

CADIDATES SPEAK AT MARGARET

Your Last Opportunity of Addressing the Dear "People" Will Be Offered Tonight at Margaret

Of course, everybody will go to Margaret, too. Tonight is the time. The last round of Foard County candidates on the political stage will be witnessed, the performance to begin promptly at "early candle light," as the Harjshel preacher would say.

Margaret will be mad if you don't go. Margaret does not propose to be outdone by Crowell, so she is expecting you to come. Margaret is easily accessible now. From every direction almost, are fine highways extending and a blind man can almost drive them, so there will be no excuse, unless, of course, it happens to rain before night and gets the roads too muddy to travel.

The speaking will be in the Methodist church, a place large enough to accommodate a good large crowd, and if more happen to go than can get into the house there is plenty of room on the outside.

It is understood that there will be available to all who might happen to experience the effect of too much humidity plenty of ice cream near by.

Tourist Travel Increases

Few people have had any idea as to the tourist travel through Crowell, and so the News has asked the station men to keep a record of this for one week. Commencing Tuesday of last week and continuing for one week, according to the record kept, the tourists that have gone through Crowell amount to 250.

This is the number that has actually been noted. It is not all. There have been many cars known to have been tourist cars which did not stop for gasoline and oil, so the entire number can only be approximated. It would not be too high, perhaps, to place the number around 300.

Comparatively this may be a small number, but it must be remembered that the F. F. F. Highway is young. This is the first year tourists could pass over the dangerous streams on well built bridges. The highway is just beginning to come into use, and we think from 30 to 50 cars a day is not bad for the new highway. It will continue to increase.

In this connection we might say that at the commercial club meeting Tuesday night it was decided that housing should be furnished for the travel, and a committee was appointed to take that matter in hand and build suitable cheap tents or houses on the camping ground so that tourists may have shelter from the weather. This will be attended to at once.

Miss Christine Ricks Dead

Miss Christine Ricks was born Dec. 29, 1897, and died July 18, 1922. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ricks, and was reared in this city. At the time of her death she was at Vernon, and had recently undergone an operation.

Her death was a severe shock to her friends here who regret her passing at a time in her life when real usefulness should have commenced. The deceased was educated in the public schools of this city and the Oklahoma College for Women. Later she held a position as teacher here.

Rev. J. H. Hamblen of Stamford, her former pastor, conducted the funeral services here Wednesday, a large crowd of Crowell people, also many from Vernon and Burk Burnett, where she was well known, attending. The body was laid to rest in the Crowell cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

School Aid Received

Aid has been received for the following schools in Foard County in the amounts opposite the names of the schools and is now in the bank:

Jamison	$102

Foard City	$325

Good Creek	$100

Rev. Justin Anderson and wife of Claraville spent the week-end here visiting Mrs. Anderson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Hart. Rev. Anderson preached at the Methodist church Sunday night.

C. B. Graham and daughter returned last week from Colorado.

CROWELL COUPLE WED IN BENJAMIN

Miss Gladys McKinze, night operator for the Haskell Telephone Co., and Stanley Sanders drove to Benjamin, July 10th, where they were quietly married by the pastor of the Methodist church in that city.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple went to Seymour where they visited the parents of the bride, returning to Crowell last Friday.

Mr. Sanders is the son of Mrs. L. O. Sanders and is employed at the Sanitary Cafe. Mrs. Sanders, as stated above, has been employed by the telephone company for more than a year and has made many friends during her stay in Crowell.

The News joins in hearty congratulations and best wishes for the future happiness of this excellent young couple.

A Fine Dinner

The writer and his family were invited to take dinner with Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Digs and family Wednesday, but circumstances interfered with the wife's acceptance of the invitation but not so with the husband, not on your tin type. Two of the young journalists accompanied him also, and we all convinced the host and hostess if the entire family could have been there that full justice would have been done to the occasion.

It was a very fine dinner. Mrs. Digs knows exactly how to prepare a meal, and one of the good things to be noted about this dinner was that practically everything on the table had been grown on the Digs farm. Fried Chicken, tomatoes, cucumbers, roasting ears, peas, eggs, etc., and many other good things to eat were all produced on their farm.

In making this mention we should not fail to state that Mr. Digs has one of the best row crops we have seen in the country. His 75 acres of cotton averages up well, and his 15 acres of dwarf maize is the best in the country, we believe. Portions of it will yield two and a half tons to the acre, and he thinks the entire crop will average two tons.

Mr. Digs and family are hard workers and are building one of the happiest homes in Foard County.

Mrs. J. C. Montgomery, who was here for several days visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Hill, returned to her home at Glen Rose Sunday. She was accompanied to Wichita Falls by Mr. and Mrs. Hill.

Mrs. W. W. Griffith and children and Ed Griffith returned Tuesday from an automobile trip to Fort Worth where they visited relatives.

TO GET DATA FOR NEW RAILROAD

Canvas of Entire County Will Be Made and Information Procured from Individual Farmers

Following a talk made by R. M. Fielder, secretary of the Tullia Chamber of Commerce, at the chamber meeting Tuesday night relative to the proposed new railroad to be run from Tucumcari, N. M., to Fort Worth and on to the Gulf, a committee was appointed to procure data as to the tonnage of this county. N. J. Roberts, George Self, Russell Beverly and Fred Rennels were appointed on this committee. These men will get the information from the individual farmers of the county next week so that it can be used by C. H. Powell, the promoter of the new road, when he appears before the Interstate Commerce Commission within the next few weeks with his proposition.

A few items relative to this proposed line have been published in the News recently, and our readers will remember that Mr. Powell is a Chicago railroad promoter who seeks to interest capital in a road through this country. Mr. Fielder stated that the route had been virtually settled on, and will include Crowell and Thalia, passing through the breaks and on to Seymour where it will connect with the G. T. & W. The territory which this proposed road is to traverse is said to be the largest body of good land without a railroad in the United States.

Every locality through which it will pass is now compiling tonnage data or has already done so, and Mr. Fielder thinks the information which will be procured by this means will be a strong incentive to the building of the line.

LARGE CROWD AT CROWELL SPEAKING

District Court Room Crowded to the Limit; All Candidates Present Who Could Attend. Great Interest Manifested

An evidence of the fact that it pays to advertise was shown by the large crowd of people who were here Saturday night to attend the candidate speaking at the court house, which was brought out largely by the few lines which the News carried last week announcing the fact. The writer had been in Quanah all day Saturday, and that town looked like a busy little city, but when we arrived in Crowell at 8:15 we could hardly make our way down the sidewalk because of the crowded condition caused by the throngs of people. And all available parking space was utilized, so Crowell looked like a little city in reality.

This is as it should be. Let the people become indifferent to matters of this kind and the first thing one knows we have a set of poor officials at the head of the government, nation, state or county. This healthy condition has existed in Foard County for many years, and that fact itself has tended to bar from the races for the various offices candidates who were not of the proper kind of material, and so we have always had the best of material to select from. Consequently county politics here, as a rule, is of a friendly nature and free from many of the objectionable features that usually accompany political campaigns.

The speaking in the district court room was interesting to the extreme. All the candidates who were present responded, and so far as we have learned, all were there except Sheriff Campbell, who had gone to Kentucky after a criminal. They all made good talks, and it seems to be the general opinion that the women candidates put it by the men on the splendid talks they made. They are skillful campaigners and bold and intrepid speakers. They are not afraid to tell what they stand for, and, as a rule, they do not test out public sentiment before they announce their position on public matters. This is not saying that all men do that, but some of them do. Still if there were as many women in politics we might find no fewer of that sex who would cater to the voters as there are of our own beloved tribe, for it is preposterous to suppose that human nature is not just about the same with both sexes.

SHERIFF GOES TO KENTUCKY FOR CRIMINAL

Sheriff Campbell left last Saturday for Harlan, Ky., in response to a wire that the authorities held a man who answered the description of John Teal, a well known criminal of West Texas, and formerly a resident of Foard County. Teal is wanted in this county for bigamy and in another county for murder. Mr. Campbell has been on his trail for years and it is hoped he now has his man. No message has been received from him since he left and nothing definite about the matter is known. The description given by the authorities in Kentucky so well fitted Teal that the sheriff took chances on its being him.

To the Voters of Foard County:

Ladies and Gentlemen: I take this means of appealing to you, perhaps for the last time, though I hope not the last time, for I desire very much to be in the run-off. Now friends, citizens, opponents and all, I have no apologies nor excuses to make. More than that, I have not seen as many of the voters as I wanted to see. To those I failed to see, I want to say please don't think I passed you on purpose, for I did not. If you ever happen to be a candidate you will find it is almost impossible to see every voter, and I assure you I will appreciate your vote just as much as anyone's and when you go to make out your ticket on next Saturday I want you to think long and very seriously before you scratch my name off.

To the Voters

Having failed through neglect and oversight to get my name on the ticket, I am asking you to write my name on the ticket for commissioner of precinct No. 2. If any one should think that I am not in the race because my name is not on the ticket, this should serve to correct that idea. I realize that I am at some disadvantage by not having looked after this matter when I should have, but I hope my friends will understand it and remember me at the polls Saturday.

SQUAB RAISING

By F. W. Kazmeier, Poultry Husbandman, A. & M. College of Texas

Pigeons for the production of squabs, is a very profitable undertaking, but like poultry raising, the best results demand careful attention to details. Squabs are also produced on a large number of general farms, here they are allowed to fly out, in which case they pick up the greatest part of their living.

There is a good demand for well finished squabs in the larger cities like Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Houston, San Antonio and other big cities. Not only is there a very good demand, but the demand seems to be increasing. In hotels of many of these cities, squabs are replacing wild game like quail. We have found that where suitable markets are available a gross profit of from $2.00 to $2.50 for each pair, over and above cost for feed, each year. In the case of breeding squabs and pigeons for breeding purposes and marketed as such, still greater net returns may be expected.

One of the greatest difficulties is the question of getting good breeding stock as a foundation, especially is this true since it is exceedingly hard to tell the sex and age of pigeons. Too, old stock should not be purchased, and only properly mated pairs are of any value as breeders. Deal with a reliable breeder.

Squab Varieties

There are many varieties of pigeons, but only a comparatively small number of these are kept for squab production. Some of the more popular varieties, for this purpose, are Runts, White Kings, Carneau, Homers, Maltese, Mondaines, and Hungarians. The first three named are generally considered the most popular squab producers, altho, like in chickens, some people prefer some of the other varieties. Some few breeders make a practice of crossing the Runt and Homer. We do not recommend the general practice of cross breeding.

The Runt, is the largest variety of pigeons. For the very best results, good squab breeders, make a practice of confining every pair of breeders to individual pens. In this manner they will produce better and larger squabs and they will also produce more, and there will be no danger, at least less, of other males breaking up a mating. There are seven varieties of Runts, namely White, Blue, Black, Yellow, Red, Silver and Dun. The White variety is the most popular.

The White King is also a very popular pigeon, and certainly a beautiful pigeon. They are exceptionally well adapted as squab breeders because in the picking the white pin feathers do not show up as much as in colored varieties or breeds. They are considerable smaller than the Runt. They are very prolific breeders of good sized squabs. In weight they range from Old Cock 24 ounces, Young cock 22 ounces, old hen 22 ounces, to young hen 20 ounces.

The Carneau is also very popular but unlike the White King it is bred in many colors, but the Red and Yellow are the most popular. They are good sized squab producers and also prolific. They are about the size of White Kings, some strains, just a little smaller.

The Homers are kept very extensively, both for the production of squabs, and for the production of exhibition pigeons. Some Homer fanciers, race their pigeons over considerable distances. They derive their name from the fact when released away from home they will fly back home. For this reason, do not allow purchased Homers their freedom, because if you do they will when released, return to the lofts they were raised in. They produce rather small squabs. This has been overcome by some breeders by practicing a selection for size all the time. The Blue and Blue Checked are the most popular varieties.

In selecting pigeons as squab producers, exercise great care, select for size, vigor and prolificacy. Birds that are supposed to have pinkish or light colored legs, should be avoided when they have dark skin and legs. When purchasing pigeons it is desirable to buy mated pairs from 1 to 3 years old. Some buy young stock, in this case it is necessary to mate them at the proper age. As squab producers, pigeons are most valuable between the ages of 2 and 6 years. In the larger varieties they are mated at an age from 8 to 9 months, in the smaller varieties about two months earlier. When from 7 to 10 days old all squabs intended for breeders and to be sold as such should be banded, so that they can always be distinguished regarding breeding and age. Seamless bands can be purchased from poultry supply houses for the purpose of banding.

Pigeons are always mated in pairs, and they remain mated that way, unless broken up or one of the pair dies. Never allow unmated pigeons in the loft, fly or even on the place, because they will cause trouble in many ways.

Mating

There are two ways of mating pigeons, one is the forced way of mating. This is accomplished by placing a male and female in a wire coop with a movable partition, allowing them to remain thus for two or three days. After that the wire partition may be removed and if it is evident that the mating is satisfactory, the pair may be removed to the breeding pen. The natural way, consists in observing the birds, and letting them select their own mates. When it is observed that they are mated, move them to the breeding pen. Always be sure that they are properly mated before moving them to the breeding pen. In breeding in pigeons to be used for the production of squabs, is a very serious practice.

Feeding

In the feeding of pigeons, exercise extreme care not to feed anything that is in the least, spoiled, moldy or musty. We have found the following a very good grain mixture equal parts by weight of small whole corn, hard red wheat, Kafir corn and Canada peas and during the moulting time add 5 per cent each of hemp and millet seed. Canada peas are expensive but appear to be necessary for the best results, especially during the breeding season. Other grains which may be substituted or added, are peanuts, cow peas, hulled oats, rice, rape, and sunflower seed. Green food may be provided in the form of freshly cut clover, alfalfa, grass, lettuce, and other forms of greens. In the feeding of pigeons, a variety of good, hard and dry grains seems to be necessary for the very best results. New soft grains are not as satisfactory. Sour feed kills many squabs and pigeons each year. The grain may be fed on the floor of the pen in hoppers or troughs. Do not feed the grain on the ground. The feeding boxes should be so made that the pigeons cannot get in and soil the feed and waste it.

Plenty of clean, fresh drinking water, pigeon size grit, sifted oyster shell and charcoal should be kept before the pigeons all the time. Pigeon salt is considered necessary, and should be kept before them.

Pans of water for bathing should be provided daily, except during the winter and placed in the yards or flyways. These bath pans are usually filled in the morning and emptied at noon and hung or placed out of the way. In the winter they should not be used more than two times a week.

Shut Out the Flies

It would be better if all the flies in the world were killed, but since that is practically an impossibility, the next best thing to do is to shut him out of your home. Kill all you can. "Swat the Fly" is a worthy slogan and should be heeded by every person in the country. But after you have swatted all you can there are enough left to plant typhoid germs in every home, which, when these develop into that deadly malady, sometimes take a heavy toll from the ranks of our population.

Come to our yard and buy screen doors, a size for every door. They will save you much annoyance and relieve your mind from the danger of flies. A new shipment just in.

Luncheon

In response to an invitation given by Mesdames M. S. Henry and S. S. Bell, nine of their friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Henry at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

This social function was given in honor of Mrs. W. B. McCormick of Snyder, who was visiting friends in the city. She being District Chairman of Thrift of the seventh district, it was very appropriate that as Mrs. Henry is State Chairman of Thrift, the predominating feature was various forms of thrift. Several games of "42" were first enjoyed, and at the noon hour the guests were invited to enter the dining-room where we were served a most appetizing four-course luncheon. The prevailing color scheme was green and white. The home was artistically decorated in daisies and various sizes of the letter T. The favors at each plate were dainty Japanese fans. The honor guest found a double portion of dainty gifts to serve as a pleasant reminder of the delightful occasion. As she unfolded her napkin there came into view a beautiful hand-made handkerchief embroidered in daisies.

These present were Mesdames McCormick, M. O'Connell, T. B. Klepper, A. Y. Beverly, Joe Johnson, C. P. Sandifer, J. P. Fields, R. C. Campbell and H. Schindler.—A Guest.

An Adelpian Meeting

The Adelpian Club spent a pleasant day at the home of Mrs. S. S. Bell Friday, July 14th. The shower of the morning did much to abate the heat and the weather was ideal for a picnic luncheon. The meeting was held in honor of a charter member and ex-president of the club, Mrs. W. B. McCormick of Snyder, Texas.

Old friendships were renewed and new ones made. Mrs. McCormick entertained us with a splendid description of her visit to California as the guest of Mrs. Carl Thacker, who was also at one time a member of our club when she resided in Crowell. Mrs. Couch and Mrs. Sandifer told pleasant reminiscences of their visit to California. The rest of the hours were spent listening to music as we busied ourselves with fancy work.

Twenty-one club members were present with the following guests: Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Schindler, Miss Cotton and Miss Wishon.—Reporter.

CALOMEL SALIVATES EVEN WHEN CAREFUL

Treachorous Drug Can Not Be Trusted and Next Dose May Start Trouble

Calomel is dangerous. It may salivate you and make you suffer fearfully from soreness of gums, tenderness of jaws and teeth, swollen tongue, and excessive saliva dribbling from the mouth. Don't trust calomel. It is mercury; quicksilver.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to the druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

AMARYLLIS

This is a brand new flour manufactured at Amarillo in a new plant, one of the finest in the South, costing $1,000,000, with the most improved machinery for flour making known. No expense has been spared in building a plant that would put out a product without a superior and with few equals. This has been accomplished, and we are today handling the product of that mill. The best proof of the merits of the flour is the favorable report of those who are using it. Not a complaint has reached us.

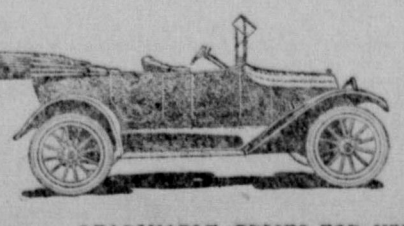

Every sack of this flour is backed by the strongest guarantee, and the beauty is that it costs no more than any brand of flour of recognized standard.

We want you to try it, because we know it will please you no matter how particular you may be.
