STREET PAVING IS DISCUSSED AT LUNCHEON THURSDAY

At the luncheon given by the chamber of commerce last Thursday at the Sanitary Cafe, one of the most important subjects discussed was that of street paving for the city of Crowell.

Sentiment has been growing for some time in favor of this but it was not known just how general it was until it was manifested at the luncheon Thursday.

When the test was made it was found that every property owner present was favorable to the proposition. And it might be said that a big majority of those owning property in the public square were at the luncheon.

The proposition is that the city pave the crossings and alleys, the property owners half the streets in front of their property and the county the rest of the streets adjoining the court house square.

This would just about third the cost, we are told, among the three, but how much the cost will be has not been carefully estimated, but it would not be a burden to either the county, the city or the business men, as we understand it both the city and the business men are now willing to go ahead with the matter, but the commissioners' court has not yet favorably considered the matter.

It has been pointed out by those who favor the proposition that the expense can be met without additional taxes. This is made possible by reason of the fact that the payments of interest on outstanding indebtedness is getting less each year, and by maintaining the present rate of taxation the expense can be met without increasing same.

Judge Owens went to Austin the first of the week on business and among the matters to be given attention was that of conferring with the State Highway commission relative to procuring state and federal aid on paving the F. F. F. Highway through the town of Crowell. In use we procure assistance from that source the cost to all interested parties in Crowell and Foard County will be lightened.

The matter of paving is one in which all people in the county are interested, both the rural citizens and the people of Crowell. Traffic has doubled and tripled within the last two or three years and paving the most traveled business streets has become almost, if not entirely, imperative. As the News has stated before, there are no stretches of highway in the county so poor as the streets through the business portion of town. This ought not to be, but it is because traffic is centered here on all over the county at times and the streets are simply not constructed so as to stand up under it. It is the desire of those interested in this matter to make the streets such as at they will be most serviceable to the people, both in the country and town.

That is the reason the county is asked to bear its share of the cost, if that of the streets, excluding the crossings and alleys.

That seems to be only a matter of time, and we believe all fair-minded men will so regard it. It should be necessary to maintain public property through private funds, or county property through the city's funds.

Gabe's Confectionery Moves to New Quarters

Allen Sanders moved his confectionery business Monday morning to a place formerly occupied by Hill's confectionery in the Bell building. This gives the Sanitary Cafe, which has been in the rear from Gabe's confectionery, the front portion of the building, room very much needed for the cafe.

The fellow who opposes a public improvement is often among the first to complain when he finds that it is popular.

The fellow who confines his interest in public affairs to election day has no right to complain about the way things are being run.

"Religion in the Home" Is Used As Text of Sermon

Now there was a certain man in Caesarea, Cornelius by name, a centurion of the band called the Italian band, a devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, who gave much alms to the people and prayed God always—Acts 10:1-2.

This scripture was used as the text of a sermon delivered Sunday morning by Rev. T. C. Willett, the subject being "Religion in the Home."

"The religious home is indispensable to the nation," said the speaker. "It is the one institution of all institutions," he said, "that can not be done away with. The church itself depends upon it. The government of the nation rests upon it."

"Family religion is the most primitive and most ideal and God guards with jealous care the religious home because of the relation it bears to these. Without the religious home the church and nation must fall to pieces. They are what they are because of the home."

He showed that practically all great characters of history have come from homes in which Christianity held its rightful place, or at least was recognized as essential to the making of character.

It was pointed out that the family was the original source of government. It was the first organization ever created on earth. That organization furnished the basis for all subsequent governments and expanded from tribal to national and now the world is coming to plan some form of international government for the regulation of human conduct as commercial and religious affairs of all people become more interwoven. This is the expansion of government as first exemplified by the home, the essential foundation of which is the Christian religion. This is fundamental because if the home is pure, government is pure, and if the home is impure, government is of a similar character. Plant true religion in the home and government will stand. Eliminate it from the home and government must fall to pieces.

The speaker said that home can be home only in the true sense where Christianity reigns. It is not the costly house and the beautiful surroundings that make a home. On the other hand, it may not be the lack of these that prevents a home from being such in the true sense. Home is rightly designated as such only where the Christian religion exists as a leavening influence.

Some of the reasons assigned as an explanation of the fact that our greatest and best men come from the religious home is that such home has the blessings of God upon it; that the atmosphere in such home is the best place for the formation of character, and that it is best suited to the development of the mind.

"It requires courage on the part of the parents of the home to make it religious," said the preacher, "but that is exactly what the children are looking for in parents—religious courage. That is the great need today."

"To make the home a religious one parents should not hesitate to use a liberal quantity of authority," he said, and then he called attention to the habit that has become too general of permitting the children to remain out of church and Sunday school because they don't want to go. This was impressed by the comparison of the sick child refusing to take castor oil because he does not want it. The effect of the oil is the same whether he willingly licks it from the spoon or is assisted by the mother in getting it down by the use of a razor strap.

The home-going habit after Sunday school was pointed out as a dangerous one and should receive the attention of the parents along with the disinclination to go to church. The exercise of religious authority should have the effect of correcting this practice under ordinary circumstances.

There is about one automobile to every eight persons in the United States, but they are not all Fords and therefore there are not enough for us all to ride.

No community is going to go forward so long as some of its citizens continue to go backward.

ANOTHER CITIZEN OF FOARD COUNTY CALLED BY DEATH

Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Hembree of Margaret Friday, February 15, and took from it the father and husband, R. P. Hembree.

Mr. Hembree was born December 12, 1853, in Murray County, Ga. He was converted and joined the Methodist church when he was seventeen years of age and entered the ministry at about 30 years of age. He was married to Susan Cash December 19, 1878, to which union were born six children.

The deceased resided in Catoosa County, Ga., until December 5, 1907, when he and the family came to Foard County where they have since resided. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. R. P. Hembree, of Margaret, and five children, W. S. Hembree of Dimmitt, Texas; S. H. Hembree of Herford, Texas; M. W. Hembree of Margaret, Texas; Mrs. H. Newth of Mangus, Texas; and Mrs. L. A. Goodman of Margaret, Texas. All the children were present to attend the funeral, as was also Mr. Newth of Mangus.

Brother Hembree, as he was familiarly called by all who knew him, was one of Foard County's good men and substantial citizens, and his passing is a loss to our county in many ways. It is a loss when men pass who have been an asset to our citizenship. It may seem that there is always some one to take their places, but in the strict sense of the word that is not the case. Each individual alone can fill his own place in life. He lays down his work and it is carried forward, but not just as it was done before.

Yet, the passing of men is but natural. Brother Hembree had lived his life well and goes to his reward, yet the influence of his life will continue to be felt. His example was worthy of emulation and through the lives of many he will continue to live.

Left for Training School in Georgia

Capt. Q. R. Miller was offered the opportunity a few days ago of going to Camp Benning, Ga., for a three months' infantry training course, which he has accepted. He and his wife left for Georgia Wednesday, driving through.

The management of Mr. Miller's business here, the Sanitary Meat Market, will be left with F. J. Meason during the three months' absence.

It is not understood that the Government is giving training for special military service, but aims to merely maintain efficient men for such service at any time it might be needed.

Capt. Miller regards this as an opportunity for improvement of time in such way as to make it profitable to him from a business standpoint as from the standpoint of increased efficiency for military service.

Auto Dealers Start Advertising Campaigns

The Ford campaign of advertising has been on for some months and is pitched on a national scale. As is known, the agency is held by Self Motor Co.

In addition to the Ford campaign the News starts the first series of ads for the Chevrolet people this week over the signature of McMillan & Swaim, dealers of this city. Their campaign will cover a period of several months.

The Overland people will also put on a campaign in the near future in this county, operating through their local agents, Messrs. Henry Burrell, Leo Spencer and D. C. Greer. These men will constitute a firm the style of which will be Burrell, Spencer & Greer.

All the local dealers for these companies are now ready to show their cars and demonstrate them to prospective buyers. Light cars are favorites, as a rule among most people, who are looking to service, especially, and the companies putting out these small cars are striving to make a car perfect in all points. So they are eliminating objectionable features and are better prepared than ever before to give the buying public the worth of its money.

Several People Will Attend Poultry Demonstration Today

County Agent Fred Rennels sent out letters to those in the county who are interested in poultry the first of the week announcing the fact that there was to be a poultry demonstration at Quannah today, put on by specialists from the A. & M. College. This car is making a tour of the country over the Fort Worth & Denver road.

The car is equipped with model poultry houses, brooder houses, feed hoppers, etc., everything, in fact, that goes with the business of poultry raising.

Not only will this be a source of valuable information to those interested in poultry, but the fact that Hardeman County is having at the same time its county poultry show, will make it even more profitable, as well as interesting.

Mr. Rennels says in his letters that there will be a special lecture given for the boys and girls club members by Miss Myrtle Murray of College Station and also by a club boy of Iowa Park.

His aim was to get as many as 20 cars to go to Quannah today. The Pease River bridge managers agreed to let that many cars go and come for half fare, or only 50 cents for the round trip.

The cars will leave today, Friday, at 8 o'clock.

Cicero Smith Is in Favor of Paving

In answer to inquiry made by R. J. Roberts, manager of the Cicero Smith Lumber Co., as to how the head of the company stands on the paving proposition for Crowell, J. L. Johnson of Fort Worth, president and general manager of the company make the following reply:

"Mr. R. J. Roberts, Crowell, Texas. "Dear Mr. Roberts:

"Answering your letter of the 15th, you can say to the business men of your city that we are altogether agreeable to joining them in the street paving project. We are somewhat in doubt as to the best paving to put down, whether brick or concrete, but personally the writer is inclined to favor the concrete, provided specifications call for a first-class job. We always consider that the cost of paving is worth the money to our property in any town.

"Yours very truly, "J. L. JOHNSON, Pres."

Grandma Pearce has been ill with pneumonia at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. F. Hunter, and her recovery has been doubtful. A message was sent to all the children out of the county last week and all of them except Mrs. J. W. Hassell of Bryan arrived the last of the week. The relatives having arrived are T. R. Pearce of Floydada, also his son, Keith; T. H. Pearce of Portales; Mrs. C. B. Battle of Wichita Falls and her little nephew, Charley Mendenhall; Miss Clarice Hassell of Bryan, a granddaughter of Mrs. Pearce.

Tom Beverly Jr., Paul Crews and Garland Shults came in Wednesday from the Baptist College at Decatur and will spend the remainder of the week with homefolks.

RAYLAND FARMER TO HAVE MODERN COUNTRY HOME

A number of things have combined within the last few years to make the country home the most attractive place in which to live. Or at least that possibility has been created.

Among the agencies now at work to bring the rural districts to their own are the automobile, good roads, phonographs, telephone, radio, etc. The last named one perhaps has done more than any others for the rural districts.

It is a great thing that the family can sit at home and hear good programs almost any night in the week. They can get the best music and speaking the country affords. This should have the tendency to keep the boys and girls at home. At least it means added attractions for the rural districts that should have the desired effect in helping to keep the boys and girls on the farm.

But these are not all the attractions that may be had in the rural districts. There are those which can be provided independent of the things above mentioned. We happened to learn this week from H. D. Lawson of Rayland that he is modernizing his country home not only with a radio and other similar things, but that he already has a Deleo lighting system and is now figuring on a system of water works. In speaking of it to a News representative he said: "I expect to have all the conveniences of the town people." And he will have.

He will put in a large tank, mounting it on a tower, into which water will be raised from a well by means of a pump. He plans to put water throughout his home and will add sewerage, thus making his country home modern in every particular.

What city or town home could be more attractive than a country home provided with water, lights, sewerage, radio, etc.?

It is the most attractive place on earth for ideal living.

GRAND JURY REPORT

Crowell, Texas, Feb. 19, 1924. Hon. James V. Leak, District Judge, Crowell, Texas.

Dear Sir: We, the grand jury empaneled for the February term of the district court of Foard County, Texas, herewith tender into court three felony indictments and no misdemeanor indictments, the same being the result of our findings.

We have thoroughly investigated every violation of the law brought to our attention or within our knowledge and gladly report that there are not many violations of the law in the county.

It has been called to our attention that youths in different portions of the county, and especially at Thalia, have been rather boisterous, in some instances destroying school property, disturbing public worship and loitering in and around school houses and premises at times when they are not supposed to be there, and last that a number of these youths, which includes boys and girls, are joy-riding at unreasonable hours of the night upon the roads and highways. We especially call the attention of the parents throughout the county that these practices are wrong and improper and it is evident that violations eventually arise from this conduct and it is suggested that a little stricter parental control be exercised over our children, to the end that they will make useful citizens.

We wish to commend the able and efficient work of our county officials and especially the peace officers, and also to thank those who assisted us in our labors.

We have concluded our work and beg that we be discharged.

Respectfully submitted, T. M. HANEY, Foreman.

Cameron & Comany Favor Street Paving

A letter from Cameron & Co., of Waco, bears information that that company, which has holdings in this city, is favorable to street paving.

They express themselves as favoring Bitulithic paving, as that has been very satisfactory wherever it has been used, it is said.

Saved Kansas City, Mexico & Orient R. R.

The fight for the life of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad has at last seemingly been won, according to former lieutenant governor Lynch Davidson of Houston, whose efforts are credited by many with having spared West Texas the loss of one of its chief lines of transportation in the Orient's threatened abandonment a year ago.

"After going fully into the matter of the pending foreclosure sale of the Orient railroad with Senator Morris Sheppard, Congressman Claude Hudspeth and Mr. W. T. Kemper, receiver of the road, I feel confident that its future safety is assured," Lynch Davidson announced upon his return home today. "I believe we have succeeded in convincing the Interstate Commerce Commission that the public disaster incident to the Orient's dissolution must not be permitted under any circumstances. In fact, the decree of foreclosure sale provides specifically that the property shall be sold subject to the condition of its continued operation by the purchaser and his assigns. This gives the road a new and, I hope, permanent lease on life, and the people of West Texas need have no further fears in that regard."

Under the differential rates secured from the Interstate Commerce Commission last year, when frantic efforts were being made to avert the collapse of the Orient, the property is now thriving better than it has for a long time, Mr. Davidson said. Moreover, he declared that if certain divisions suits now pending in the Supreme Court are successful, it will continue to operate on a healthy basis, and should be an attractive proposition to purchasers.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

Lower Panhandle to Promote Fairs

Childress, Texas, Feb. 17.—A meeting was held in Quannah, attended by representative business men of Childress, Vernon, Quannah and Memphis, to organize the Green Belt Fair Association of the Lower Panhandle. The counties comprising the district are Childress, Donley, Hardeman, Wilbarger, Collingsworth, Cottle, Motley and Wichita.

Monthly meetings will be held in each county and extensive newspaper advertising will be done. These counties have four-fifths of the population of Northwest Texas and produce the same percentage in cotton, oil and minerals.

Fairs will be held in these counties and efforts will be made to secure immigration for the Denver Railroad territory. The next meeting will be held at Childress. Dates were set for the fairs at Wichita Falls, Vernon, Quannah, Memphis and Childress.

For State Road North and South

Judge Owens and Gen Easley of Crowell were in town Thursday evening, accompanied by the Superintendent of Maintenance of State Roads of this district. They were anxious to have the road from Quannah to Knox City via Crowell designated as a state road, and wanted the assistance of Hardeman.

Judge Welch arranged with Judge M. M. Hankins of Austin to meet with Judge Owens before the State Highway Board, which meets in Austin tomorrow, when a vigorous effort is to be made to put this project over. It has been presented to the Board before but always with poor success.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

Mrs. Crawford Hostess

Mrs. C. Q. Crawford was hostess at a six o'clock dinner on last Thursday evening complimenting Mrs. A. M. Ragland and Mrs. R. L. Bryant of Pilot Point, mother and sister of Mrs. C. W. Thompson, and also Mrs. G. W. Thompson, mother of Mr. Thompson. Covers were laid for the honor guests and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Thompson and two daughters and the host and hostess and daughter. A sumptuous dinner was served and a delightful evening was spent. The guest-favors were beautiful hand-made handkerchiefs.

Luck isn't everything, but it's an item to be considered when added to hard work.

Folks, some of you are too late. We have already sold the 4-pc ivory bed room suite and the 8-pc walnut dining room suite for cash, as advertised. We still have the living room suite. It is a wonderful bargain at $250. Just think of it! A $325 living room suite for only $250. First class in every way. Don't fail to see it.

When one says Leggett & Platt, in speaking of bed springs, it is the same as speaking of a Stetson hat, a Packard car or a Florsheim shoe. It means the very best of everything that goes into the making of a good single coil bed spring. In 16 years of constant selling the famous Leggett & Platt single cone bed springs, sold under an unlimited guarantee, we have taken up only two hprings, exchanged one, refunded money one.

One kind, 96 coil, carry wt. to 350 lbs. $6.50
One kind, 117 coil, cary wrt. 350 to 500 $7.50
One kind, slatless $11.00 and one kind $12.50
If you will buy Leggett & Platt you will like it.

TRADE MARK

LEGGETT & PLATT
CARTHAGE, MISSOURI.

The above cut is an exact reproduction of the BLACK TIN TAG found only on the original LEGGETT & PLATT patented single cone noiseless spring beds. This line is positively imitated more than any other line of single cone spring beds on the market. Why—because the idea of its construction is and has been for the past twenty years universally known, to be the best. Compare the temper, workmanship and finish with that of the imitators. See that your spring bears the Black Tin Tag.

We feel that we should at this particular time give the public some real information about how to buy furniture. We know without doubt that some Crowell folks went to a neighboring town and bought themselves BARGAINS in Genuine Walnut Bed room suites. They were told by the dealer (so they say) these bed room suites were genuine walnut. We have seen with our own eyes two such suites and can make positive proof that not one grain of walnut wood is in the entire suites. They are nothing but Gum wood stained Walnut finish, and so advertised and sold to the furnituer dealer. They state plainly in the descriptive matter—"Walnut finish,"

"mahogany finish," or "walnut or mahogany combination," "walnut or mahogany finsh." Some of these suites are very pretty but the beauty is strictly in the varnish, and not in the wood. Anyone knows that genuine walnut or genuine mahogany costs more than Gum or cheap hard woods, and though made up exactly alike and look very similar in color, the price may vary $25.00 to $100.00 on account of quality difference.

A walnut bed room suite that should sell for $195.00. The very same design in gum or magnolia wood painted (walnut finish) would sell for about $150.00, or about $50 to $75 cheaper. A genuine walnut veneer bed room or dining room suite to sell at $175.00. The imitation would, if exactly like it would sell for about $135.00 or $140.00, and one that would sell for $140.00 should be bought for not over $120.00 in imitation.

Folks, if you will come to me with your troubles, I will take pleasure in showing you the difference.

If you are told by any furniture dealer that your suite is walnut, ask him if it is walnut finish, or walnut combination, or genuine walnut veneer. Make him state it in his bill in writing. Then he will come clean. We will sell against any furniture dealer on exact identification of quality. Give us a chance.

We do not mean by quality groceries that these are too costly to buy, but on the other hand we mean that no others are as cheap in the long run.

We mean by quality groceries that they are pure and wholesome, and therefore nourishing. That's what you buy food for.

Groceries bought at this store have merit as pure and wholesome food and are as cheap in price as inferior grades, in fact, cheaper in the long run.

We are consistent, therefore, in requesting your business.

You will never have cause for regret at having placed an order with us.

Crowell, Texas, February 22, 1924

Dr. Evans, the foster daddy of the klan, says there is thirty times as much absolute illiteracy in this country as in Germany and Denmark. Also he says there is twelve times as much illiteracy here as in Switzerland, and six times as much as in Norway and Sweden. Those countries are the home of the reds, bolsheviks, socialists, and other things of similar nature, but they are not breeding places for the ku klux klan. Does it mean that when we become less illiterate we shall have a higher order of isms and cisms? Perhaps it would be well to stop and ponder the extent to which the klan depends upon ignorance and religious and racial prejudice for its existence.

We wonder why some folks are always wanting to create something sensational. That fellow Vanderlip was not satisfied until he brought the late President Harding's name into the oil scandal, and now Mr. Tumulty finds it interesting to himself, at least, to make the statement that President Wilson intended to resign if thus and so happened. Why say anything about these little things? What good do they do? If they have any effect at all they are hurtful to the memory of these great characters. As far as we are concerned, we give very little credit to such statements.

An announcement by those supposed to know, that the Orient railroad is in better financial condition today than it has been for some years produces a state of more perfect contentment among the business interests along the road. It is said that the prospects for continued operation are better than they have been since before the war. Government operation of the railroads came very nearly putting the Orient out of business and it is just now recovering.

The grand jury made quick work in the discharge of its duties this week. This is in compliance with the charge of the judge that time should not be spent in useless investigations. They drove to the point and made quick work. Foard County has a good citizenship and the civil officers are able to handle the situation very well themselves.

Texas led all the states in the value of its agricultural crops last year, which is another reason one is proud that he is a Texan, even if by adoption. But that is not all there is to Texas. There are more possibilities in this state today than in any other one and within the next ten years she will be leading in many respects.

The cotton acreage in this county will be bigger this year than ever and with fair seasons we should take our place among the big cotton producing counties of the state. Farmers are coming to realize that $1.00 wheat is a losing proposition. Cotton is far more profitable at a moderate price.

Cattle are reported to have passed the winter in Foard County in excellent shape. Wheat grazing has been the best in years and the winter has been unusually mild. As a consequence the cattle that are now put on the market go in the best condition.

PRIVATE INSTRUCTION

One tiny match, lighted in a private garage recently, gave a $3,000 lesson in fire prevention to a Seattle motorist. While working on his car the man dropped a tool and struck a match to look for it; an explosion and fire immediately followed in which garage and car were destroyed and the owner injured. Costly tuition, certainly, but the lesson probably will not have to be repeated.—The Manufacturer.

Grocery Sale Nearing Close

While we had fixed no date for the expiration of our big sale on groceries, the time for its discontinuance is drawing near, because it cannot be continued without end. We are selling groceries too cheap for that. This sale was intended to reduce the stock and only a few more days will be required for the reduction.

If you want groceries at cost and less than cost you will have a short while in which to buy such bargains. This sale will be discontinued without notice.

We have had fine sales but there are those whom we should like to benefit by these grocery reductions.

Better come in within the next day or two and buy while you can save not only cents but dollars on even small purchases.

A score of Russian "whites" were sentenced to death, which probably made them see red.

Telephones are for business and pleasure, but not for conversation lasting a half day.

Things of General Interest to Think of Public Spirited Citizens

So many towns and cities are named after men. Why? Because the men thus honored have done something for the good of the community, have left something behind so that their name will not be forgotten, have performed a public service that will benefit children yet unborn.

They did not live their lives in vain. They appreciated the fact that they were not put here on earth to live a selfish life, to hoard whatever wealth they chanced to accumulate, but that if fortune favored them, it was their duty to share it with others less fortunate.

It's a sad commentary on Crowell that we have had so few men and women who held this point of view—who recognized their responsibility to the community when they were especially favored with this world's goods.

No town or city is going to develop very rapidly unless it has citizens of this class.

We need men and women who are willing to give for the benefit of everyone, who have enough pride in their home town that they will make some sacrifices for it.

Who is going to be the first one to render a service of this kind?

The Big Things

Theodore Roosevelt once said of a consular agent, whose ability he recognized and whose friendship he prized:

"If a man disappoints me the first time it is his fault. If he disappoints me the second time it is mine. I never blame a man who fails from accident . . . He is kindly, courteous and successful in all the small things but he fell down on the one big thing that came his way."

How true that is today as it was in the days when Mr. Roosevelt occupied the White House. But how many men measure up to the former president's standards.

So many of us fail to realize that when we disappoint our superiors, we lose their confidence, and when we find what our failure to meet the expectations of others has brought about, we are very apt to lose our self respect, our grip on ourselves.

The two thoughts expressed by Mr. Roosevelt link up together. Disappointing those who have confidence in us that we can do the right thing at the right time and falling down on the one big thing that comes our way.

Inability to recognize the big thing when it does come is the fault that is inherent with most of us and that causes us to fall down. Most any man can be successful in small things, little daily detail, routine work, but the man who gets ahead and rises above the ordinary type is he who sees the big thing when it presents itself.

You can pick out the men in this community who have been successful. Study their characteristics and most of them you will find to be very similar to other men's. But they have that one trait that has caused them to forge ahead—the ability to see their opportunities when they come and to make the most of them.

Germany's Affront

The German government, through its official representatives in Washington, recanted and decided to pay tardy recognition to the memory of America's war president.

Though the Germans did fly their embassy flag at half-staff during the time that the funeral of Former President Wilson was taking place, they paid the delayed tribute only after it dawned upon them that they had blundered.

The former enemies of the United States did not realize the temper of American people—that Americans respect, honor and revere those who served in the highest office within their gift, regardless of any partisan feeling, and that they wish to cherish the memory of men of such ideals and rare attainments as those possessed by Mr. Wilson.

The first excuse given at the German embassy at Washington was that the German government regarded the former president as a private citizen and therefore did not deem it necessary to show any public respect for his memory.

Finding how its announcement reacted, the embassy then authorized the statement that "It having been officially announced this afternoon that there will be general mourning for the late President Wilson after 12:30 o'clock, the German embassy will join the expression of the na-

Miss Meadors Entertains
Miss Lottie Meadors entertained a group of friends Saturday evening in a seven o'clock dinner. The table was beautifully decorated with white tulle streamers led from the chandelier to the four corners of the table. Hearts and cupid's heads scattered over the table and the place cards were miniature cupids. A delicious four-course dinner was served to the following: Misses L. Ellis, Minnie Ola Nash and Mary Giddings; Messrs. Ernest King, Edward Bursey and Garrett Jones.—Guest.

RADIO, AUTOMOBILES AND WAR
Henry Ford says the automobile is an agent of peace; more automobiles—less war.
"When the automobile becomes as common in Europe and Asia as in the United States, the people will understand each other because there is an easy interchange of ideas and ideals."
There is a great deal of truth in Mr. Ford's assertion. He should have added, however, that radio, which annihilates distance and territorial boundaries is the latest enemy of war as the greatest agent of world enlightenment.
When people in various parts of the world can hear by radio, discussion of political and domestic questions of their neighbors, and when they can ride in automobiles and get acquainted with the "other fellow" through actual association with him, an insurmountable barrier will be raised against war and its ravages.—The Manufacturer.

School Finances

School officials who are penurious in dealing with men and women engaged in the biggest work in this county—training the future men and women of the country, is beyond understanding.

Being miserly with school teachers or in maintaining schools is the poorest kind of business judgment. Shaving pennies when the question of the training of school children is involved is not economy.

The school boys and girls of today are going to be the men and women of tomorrow—the farmers and the farmers' wives, the physicians and surgeons, the lawyers, the shoe merchants, the grocers, the dry goods dealers; in fact, they will be the people who will be in charge of all lines of activity when those now in the prime of life have died or retired.

It will be only two short decades hence. The future of those in whom responsibility will fall is being molded in the public schools. It is to the best interests of everyone that they have the best chance it is possible for the present generation to afford them.

They may be good citizens or they may be criminals who will steal into your house in the night and rob you, and shoot you down if you interfere. It depends largely on the kind of training they are receiving now.

When the possibilities of the school children of today are considered in this light, good judgment will dictate the greatest care in their training and not a penny-wise policy that seeks to shave a few cents off of the taxes.

Paying Homage

The death of Roosevelt, Harding and Wilson, all in a comparatively short space of time, has aroused a new sense of appreciation of the men who sit in the White House.

The strenuous days of the war and the tumult of the reconstruction period cost the nation two leaders whose endurance could not withstand the strain that the duties of the presidency imposed upon them.

If these two have given their lives, that others may be saved, they will not have died in vain. If their sacrifice on the altar of duty awakens America to the fact that it asks of its presidents more than human mind and body can endure, it will result in a new understanding of the situation and a lessening of the demands upon the president.

DISTRICT SECRETARY VISITS M. E. MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The ladies of the Methodist Missionary society met with Mrs. S. H. Crossley of Chillicothe, district secretary, in a devotional meeting Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the basement of the M. E. Church. Mrs. Crossley selected the Sixty-third Psalm as her Bible reading and the comments on it were helpful to every one. She spoke of the importance of giving your life in youth to God and thereby becoming an efficient worker for the Master as the years passed. That prayer was never lessened and the comfort that was derived in time of trouble from prayer. She gave us much information on the work, speaking of the great necessity of the pledge, as the dues were inadequate to meet the needs. Much valuable information along all lines of the work was given to the various officers.
It was indeed a profitable meeting. She left on the north-bound train to meet with the Margaret ladies.—Reporter.

tion's mourning by flying its flag at half-staff."

The incident means more than it outwardly appears to. It gives Americans a direct insight into the attitude of the German government, which reflects the state of mind in Germany.

It clearly demonstrates that Germany was a poor loser in the war and that she still harbors hatred for America. No other construction can very well be placed on the incident.

It portrays to this country a condition that no one imagined existed—at least to a very great extent.

America has been Germany's best friend. Even now two of its foremost citizens are in Europe trying to bring order out of chaos and to help restore German economic conditions.

Even while Germany's embassy officers in this country were laying themselves open to violent criticism, American friends of Germany were making a stirring appeal before a committee of the house of representatives for an appropriation of fifty million dollars from this government to help the starving people of Germany.

Citizens of the United States have already sent millions to Germany for relief work among the war survivors and a campaign is being conducted at this moment to raise more millions to feed the undernourished and starving children of Germany.

In the light of these facts, even though Germany did intend a studied insult to the memory of America's foremost private citizen, which Americans will not tolerate, especially from its former enemies, the affront will not soon be forgotten and will serve to reopen the war wounds, that were being healed by time and a forgiving people, who were led to believe that Germany had repented.

LEO SPENCER, Crowell, Tex.

It's not that there is always something wrong in congress, but that some congressmen demand investigations just to keep congress on a side track most of the time.

Wise men never allow themselves to forget their past follies.

Women may have the vote, but the men are doing a fairly good job of clinging to the offices.

It was President Grant who first used the words, "Let no guilty man escape." It was a big order for his day, much less in present times.

Small girls can't see the logic of the argument that they should wash their faces so often when mother only applies a little more powder.

Being Proficient

The coach of one of the best college basketball teams in the United States never played a game of basketball in his life.

He is the exception, rather than the rule. The best athletic coaches are generally those who have played the game and have had experience in it.

That is a rule that almost invariably holds true in life.

The best ditch digger is the one who has been digging ditches all of his life—has made it a business and knows the quickest and best way to do the job.

The best doctor is generally the doctor who has studied the most, has had the most experience and has made the greatest effort to keep pace with the advancement of medical science.

The same is true of any profession, any business, any trade.

To be proficient, we must "know our business." We must make a study of it and devote all of our energies to making the most of what we have.

Look around you and observe the men and women in this community who are regarded as the best in their line.

It makes no difference whether they are men who labor with their hands or men who are skilled in some profession; whether they are women whose chief aim in life is to have a good home or women who have chosen the business world for their activities.

To be recognized as a leader in whatever you are doing is honor enough for any person, whether it be digging a good ditch or skill in one of the professions.

Proficiency in whatever you choose for a livelihood carries with it a certain sense of satisfaction and it ought to be recognized more than it is.
