 The machinery of the Bell Mill and Elevator Company was put into operation last Friday and everything moved off in perfect order. J. R. Beverly Falls on Cow
 J. Russell Beverly was seriously injured Monday afternoon as the result of a fall from a windmill tower near Foard City. Mr. Beverly, with his wife, had gone to the Beverly farm to do some work on a windmill.
 While on the tower about twenty feet from the ground Mr. Beverly stepped on the end of a board which he supposed was securely fastened at the other end, but Mr. Beverly's weight caused the board to tip, precipitating him to the ground.
 Luckily however, a cow had just come up and had taken a position directly in line with Mr. Beverly's descent. He fell across the cow, striking the animal about the shoulders. The cow probably saved Mr. Beverly's life as he suffered three broken ribs and a very severe shock.

Bluebonnett Is Mystery Flower
 Fort Worth, July 23—(UP).—Bluebonnets of Texas, to which hundreds of tourists turn each year with admiring "ohs" and "ahs", are the mystery flower to scientists, Dr. W. M. Winton, botanist at Texas Christian university, has revealed.
 Bluebonnets won't grow in the back yard or in a flower pot. They also carefully select their homes on pasture land and rocky hill. In fields of bluebonnets covering acres there will be spots without a single bit of blue, due to some chemical deficiency in the soil, according to Dr. Winton.
 Botanists have not yet determined the peculiar demands of the flower, which grows profusely under varying circumstances throughout Texas. It is claimed that the flower is loyal to the Lone Star State, and never crosses the border.
 The bluebonnet was made the Texas state flower by decree of the legislature in 1901. Botanists declare it is unequalled in color and shades by any other massed blue flowers, the nearest being the cornflower of Europe.
 Various legends depict the origin of the flower. Mexicans say they

TOO MANY GOVERNMENTS

One reason for the rapid increase of taxes is in the increasing number of governments and government officials which the taxpayers are called upon to support.

Governor Roosevelt of New York recently pointed out that no citizen of that state can live under fewer than four governments, and many of them live under no less than ten different sets of public officials.

There are the Federal, State, county and city governments, as a minimum. "If one lives in a town outside of a village he is under five layers of government: Federal, State, county, town and school. If he lives in a town outside of the village another layer is added. If he lives in an incorporated village another layer is added. If he lives in a town outside the village he may be in a fire, water, lighting, sewer and sidewalk district, in which case there are ten layers of government," said Governor Roosevelt.

Similar conditions exist in every state. Most of the work of administration could be done by half as many people as are employed at the public expense, merely by merging the different governmental units. Dr. C. J. Galpin, sociologist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, suggests the consolidation of townships, small villages and even of counties. This is necessary in many rural districts, he says, if adequate modern facilities for education and other community enterprises like hospitals, libraries, parks, playgrounds, churches, fire companies and the like are to be available. He estimates that it takes a community of at least a thousand families to support up-to-date facilities of such kinds. If he is right, then there is no way out for small communities except such a merger of interests as Dr. Galpin and Governor Roosevelt propose.

County government in general is not very satisfactory anywhere in the United States. It is natural that people give their first attention to their local, town, village or city government. They do not, in many sections, have occasions often to come in contact with their county governments. If all the functions now delegated to local communities became the business of the county as a whole perhaps the effect would be beneficial not only in making county officials more responsive to public opinion but in lessening the burden of multifarious taxes and superfluous public officials.

Of course, the professional politicians will resist any movement of this sort. They will always resist any movement which reduces the number of office-holders and so reduces the number of prizes they can hang up to their partisans to scramble for. But local government ought not to be the plaything of politicians, and the time will come when it will not be.

WOMEN

"I'm going to live my own life," she said. "And then two years later, she learned that men may mix many things but want their women straight," wrote the editor of the Waxahachie Light. State Press, of the Dallas News, accused the Waxahachie editor of cribbing the lines from a recent motion picture, but interpreted unreservedly in that broad interpretation of a universal, social philosophy.

No greater false hood can issue from a woman's lips than "my life is mine, I'll live it as I please." Not for a single, solitary instant is a woman's life her own. For to her custody has been entrusted the hope, the integrity, the moral strength and the courage of the human race. Man may slip without doing society a permanent injury, but when woman slips the world slips with her.

With a trust so sacred, woman must walk circumspectly. She who makes herself too accessible, whose telephone number is in the possession of too many men of too many shades of respectability, invites suspicion; and she who flaunts the conventions society has laid down for her, commits a sort of social suicide.

It is a hard rule, but a fast one, from which have sprung a thousand covariants. One of them is that traditional law of the sea: "Women and children first." Another is: "The woman pays." There seems to be no middle ground. Woman is either too good or not good enough, for man. It is a dictum sounded with the accumulated authority of generation upon generation of men.—Editors of the Month.

A SERIOUS INDICTMENT

Perhaps the most shocking revelation that has been made public for many years is the report by the Wichersham Commission on Crime and Punishment of the way in which child offenders under Federal laws are misused, neglected, even tortured in various state penal institutions to which they have been sent by the Federal courts.

The Federal government maintains prisons for adult offenders, but has to turn children who are convicted of violating Uncle Sam's laws over to state and county institutions. Investigators report that in some of these prisons they are placed in damp, unsanitary, dark cells, in others mixed with hardened adult criminals, in others practically starved, and in others beaten and otherwise mistreated for the slightest infraction of discipline.

If anything can turn a boy or girl of 15 or so into a habitual criminal, it is prison treatment such as that.

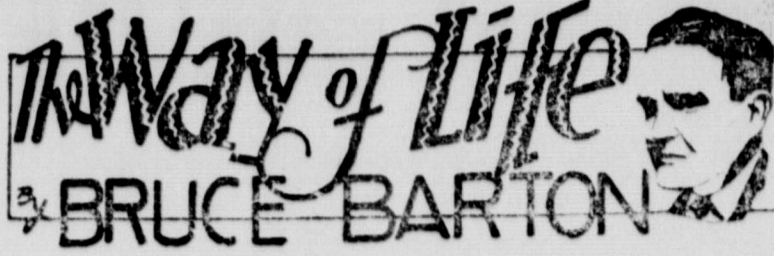

These children have done nothing to merit any such treatment. It is only occasionally, to be sure, that a minor comes under the ban of the Federal laws. These young prisoners have been found guilty of running a stolen automobile across a state line, which is one of the most recent crimes under Federal laws, or of acting as messenger for drug-peddlers, again crossing a state line, or of other inter-state acts which, while serious enough, do not call for such brutal and heartless treatment as these youngsters get.

If the United States Government must send children to jail, then let the Federal authorities establish their own prisons for minors and see that they are humanely treated.

World Fliers Used Goodyear Air Wheels

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who completed their round-the-world flight in eight and a half days, were assured safe landings no matter what kind of airport they selected in their thirteen intermediate stops, declared M. F. Crowell, local Goodyear dealer, "because their red and white monoplanes, Winnie Mae, was equipped with Goodyear Airwheels—those big, rubber pillow-like tires that are the last word in safety and comfort in happy landings and speedy takeoffs."

"In this field of tires for aircraft, as in other tire fields—of equipment for trucks and buses, Goodyear has done the pioneering," continued Mr. Crowell. "For instance, we owe to Goodyear the early development of the straight side tire, the pneumatic cord truck tire as well as balloon

KILLING THE SNAKE

A pamphlet issued by one of the big insurance companies tells us how to act in emergencies; how to revive a drowning person; how to bandage a burn; what to do for snake bite.

On this last subject there is an introductory sentence which is set in big type for emphasis. It reads: "DON'T STOP TO KILL THE SNAKE."

The idea contained in that crisp utterance has far-flung applications. Whether any specific deed should or should not be done depends not merely upon its character but equally upon the circumstances and the time.

Years ago I interviewed Dr. John R. Mott, a great leader, and I asked him his rules for selecting executives.

"I watch a candidate for a long time before I decide," he answered. "I want to satisfy myself on two points: Does he do small things well? Does he do FIRST things FIRST?"

As he spoke I remembered a well intentioned, hard working man who was under my observation at one time. He had a most amazing capacity for doing his work in the wrong order.

He was to meet his boss one day at the Grand Central Station with tickets for Detroit. The boss arrived five minutes before train time and, telephoning to the office, found the man still at his desk. His excuse was that he was engaged on a plan which he thought might possibly double the business and he had become so engrossed in it that he had forgotten his watch.

The plan might have been all right, though it turned out not to be, but in dealing with it at the wrong time he caused the boss to miss a train and lose an order.

He was forever writing memoranda on matters outside his department, while neglecting the routine duties for which he was paid. He was usually late to the office because he had gone out of his way to make a call which he believed might be of benefit to the company.

All of his activities were inspired by a genuine desire to increase the business and so raise his own earning power. But he was a nuisance, and was finally fired.

The human race possesses all the information necessary for the successful conduct of its affairs. Many of its troubles arise because men fail to make a schedule and arrange their tasks in the order of relative importance.

The parade is held up by perfectly good people stopping to do perfectly proper things at exactly the improper time—letting the patient perish while they earnestly kill the snake.

truck tires, and of course Supertwist Cord which is in the sturdy carcass of every Goodyear tire made.

"The Goodyear Airwheel permits the pilot of a plane to set down in a rough field cushioning otherwise unpleasant jars and jolts, not to mention. The airwheel practically eliminates the danger of ground-looping and also enables him to take off from a muddy, sandy or soft field which would mire in a plane equipped with high pressure tires." Mr. Crowell, proprietor of the Crowell Service Station, has been operating as a Goodyear dealer for three years.

Quanah Barely Wins Over Crowell Team

In the best game that Crowell has played this year the local nine was barely beaten by Quanah in a baseball game in that city Sunday afternoon by the score of two to one. This was the result in spite of the fact that Crowell made nine hits to Quanah's five. Quanah made 4 errors while Crowell made three.

Russell pitched capably for Crowell while R. Young occupied the mound for Quanah. Both of Quanah's runs were made in the first inning while Crowell's lone counter came in the ninth.

regardless of whether he keeps on climbing the ladder from one office to a higher one. If he loses his seat in the British Cabinet he is content to continue as an ordinary Member of Parliament. HAPPINESS

Dr. C. E. K. Mees, research director of the Eastman Kodak Company, thinks people were happier as a rule when they had fewer modern improvements.

Of course, Dr. Mees is right. Happiness has nothing to do with money, possessions or comfort. Nobody can confer happiness; it must come from within one's self. These things which we lump under the general term of "improvements" merely give the individual more time in which to pursue happiness.

All of those things do not make happiness, however. The only source of happiness is in fitting one's self into the social scheme in such a way as neither to interfere with the lives of others nor to be interfered with by others, and to find something congenial with which to occupy one's leisure time. And that is, I am convinced, easier to do now than it ever was before.

JEFFERSON

Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello, at Charlottesville, Va., has been bought by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation and restored to its original condition. It is one of the most beautiful buildings surviving from our nation's early days, and gains additional interest because Jefferson himself was its architect and it was built of brick made on his own estate.

Few people today realize what a many-sided man Thomas Jefferson was. He was a successful farmer, a leader in scientific research, an accomplished musician and linguist, and the inventor of the first scientifically-designed plowshare, of the swivel chair and the folding buggy top, among other things. His greatest achievement, however, was the drafting of the Declaration of Independence and his devotion of the re-maintaining fifty years of his life to the effort to establish the principles of individual liberty which that great document promulgated.

The Jefferson Foundation is now raising a national endowment fund to provide an income for the maintenance of Monticello as a shrine of liberty. I can think of no cause more worthy of the contributions of every liberty-loving American.

COURAGE

Some surprise has been expressed that young men wealthy enough to own seagoing yachts should have the courage to sail their own craft in the ocean race from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth, England, especially over the dangerous northern route. This surprise is voiced by newspapers and individuals who regard courage as an attribute solely of the so-called "working class."

That is a peculiarly American point of view. We have come to regard the man who does no useful work, but lives on inherited wealth, as a feminized sort of person, unfit to associate with "he-men."

The fact is that courage has nothing to do with wealth, occupation or social status. Brave men are to be found everywhere.

GOLD

The great gold reef in South Africa, known as The Rand, is still producing as prolifically as ever, according to a recent report of the company which operates this, the world's largest gold mine. Since gold was discovered in the valley which the Boers called "Witwatersland," in 1886, more than five billion dollars of the precious metal has been taken out of this one group of mines. Two hundred thousand native workers and 22,000 whites are employed in the mines, which are now down 7,000 feet below the surface and show no signs of petering out.

So long as the world's trade is carried on with money which represents gold—and no other kind of money is of value in international commerce—there is need for a constant fresh supply of the metal.

CANNING RECIPES

The following canning recipes have been furnished The News by Miss Dosea Hale, Foard County Home demonstration agent.

Canning String Beans Pick over carefully, string, wash thoroughly, and cut into one inch lengths (a bean cutter may be used for this purpose) cut diagonally or "on the bias". Add enough boiling water to cover and boil for 5 minutes in an uncovered vessel. Remove and pack No. 2 or No. 3 cans immediately. The cans should be firmly packed. Shake the can and press down with back of spoon in order that cans may be firmly packed. Bacon may be added to each can, the size depending on cans used. A cube of bacon 1 inch x 1 inch and 1-2 inch is sufficient for each No. 2 can, a cube of bacon 1 inch x 1 inch and 3-4 inches thick for No. 3 cans. Cover with boiling water to within 1-2 inch of the top. Add 3-4 teaspoon of salt to each No. 2 can and 1 teaspoon of salt to each No. 3 can. Seal and process immediately at 10 pounds pressure for 45 minutes for No. 2 cans and 55 minutes for No. 3 cans. Wash and label cans before storing.

Canning Peas (Black-eyed, Crowder, Cream and Lady Peas.) The same method for canning peas may be used for canning string beans except for the time processing. The black-eyed peas may be shelled and included with snapped peas. If snap peas are used with the shelled peas about 12 snapped pods are sufficient for each No. 2 can and about 18 pods of snapped peas are sufficient for No. 3. Bacon may be added in the same proportion as given under string beans. Cans should be packed at once while the peas are hot. Time for processing peas is as follows: No. 1 cans—10 pounds pressure for 40 minutes; No. 2 cans—10 pounds pressure for 60 minutes; No. 3 cans—10 pounds pressure for 1 hr. and 15 minutes.

Corn By far the best quality of corn is secured by cooking the corn in an open vessel on the stove until the starch has thickened, then filling the cans to 1-2 inch of the top, adding 1-2 teaspoon salt and one teaspoon sugar to each No. 2 can. This gives a better flavored product and needs the addition of no water in the can. No. 2 cans should be processed at 10 pounds pressure for 80 or 90 minutes. If a 10 pound pressure is used it is a safe plan to let the tempera-

Introducing

MISS LOU DELL GREEN

Miss Green is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otho Green, and is working hard to win the top prize, and she says she will do it if she can collect her. She led on the count which was bulletined Monday and is determined to lead again at the close of the First Period, if not sooner. Her friends are helping her.

MISS DOROTHY HINDS

Miss Hinds was among the first to enter the "Weekly Payroll" drive and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hinds. She has been among the hardest workers and is determined to be at the top when the prizes are distributed. Her many friends are promising her subscriptions and if all that have "promised" will back it up with a subscription, this young lady will be hard to beat.

MRS. JOHN HUNTER, JR.

Although she has her share of the house and farm work to do, Mrs. Hunter is not neglecting her campaign, and is steadily moving upward in the standing. If her friends could only be made to realize that she has a wonderful opportunity to win, if they would only give her their subscription now, it would not be a surprise to see her around the top. Many have promised her, and she says she is in to "stick." Keep your eye on the standing, folks, next week.

MRS. S. E. MILLS

Here is another worker that is a "worker." She is not afraid to "hit the line hard." The whole Truscott territory is backing her to win and she is piling up the NEW subscriptions. Although the leader today, may not be the leader at the close of the First Period, you can rest assured that Mrs. Mills will fight to the bitter end and will make larger reports this and next week.

MRS. ELLA RUCKER

Mrs. Rucker is known as a hard worker in anything she undertakes and doesn't know the meaning of the word "quitter." She has been handicapped to a certain extent and was not able to give as much attention to the campaign as she would have wished, but says that she intends to work HARD from now on, and as everyone knows, when she says she will, she WILL.

MISS LORENE SHULTZ

Miss Shultz led on the very first credit count and her father is the proprietor of the drug store at Thalia. Although she has since dropped in the standing, she and her friends are determined that her name will be back up there at the close of the First Period. They know it is going to take hard work and a lot of subscriptions for anyone to get there and stay, but they, also, are not "quitters" and welcome the battle which is coming. If those who have promised her will not go back on their word, she will turn in scores of subscriptions.

MISS CLARA SKIPWORTH

Miss Skipworth only recently moved back to Crowell from Vernon, where she is well known and popular. She is the daughter of Perry Skipworth, who lived in this section and Thalia nineteen years ago. You only have to talk with Miss Skipworth to realize that she is a determined worker and is out to win that top prize. She was the last of those now in to enter the campaign, but believes that the "last shall be first," when the campaign closes. She is getting a number of promises and hopes that her friends will not fail to give her a subscription now, in the First Period, when it will bring so many more credits.

JOHN WISHON, JR.

Everybody "knows John" and there are many who are pulling for him to win, and if he keeps on, he is going to make someone hustle to beat him out of the choice prizes. He expects to do his best work in this and next week. He isn't afraid to "Ask" and that is a big part of the battle. No one can be timid and win in this race, for it will be the hustlers and workers who will capture the most valuable prizes. John Wishon is not made of "quitter" stock and is expected to be one of the hardest workers in the campaign.

AND FURTHERMORE

There is the line-up, folks—take your choice, for each and every worker is a battler. You have evidently promised one of them and they are banking on you to keep your word. It doesn't mean so terrible for the paper anyway, but it ribly much to you, for you will sub-means LOTS to them. Give your favorite that promised subscription TODAY, so they can concentrate on new territory. Don't hold your friend back. Subscribe and then do some boosting. They'll never forget you and a stronger tie will bind the friendship. Don't go back on a friend.

A SAFE INVESTMENT

If we were endeavoring to advertise a newspaper and secure subscriptions, we should make use of the fact that every newspaper pays its own way into the subscriber's home and really costs him nothing. The point is that it returns him more in dollars and cents than he pays for it. We cannot imagine a publication so worthless that some item of information in it, some bargain advertised or some service performed is not worth more to the subscriber in real money than the cost of his subscription.

Almost every newspaper puts money into the pockets of non-subscribers. This is continuously the case when the newspaper leads or supports any movement which brings trade to the town in which it is published. It is the case when the newspaper hammers for local improvements—the spending of a dollar that two may grow in its place tomorrow.

The weekly newspaper, at two dollars a year costs the subscriber less than four cents an issue. We defy anyone to point out where the subscriber can spend four cents and get an equal amount of pleasure and real value. Four cents will not buy much of anything else, but it will buy the week's news of the community and supply other information and service that is likely to be worth many dollars to the reader. No other institution in the world expects so little and returns so much as does the weekly newspaper.—Collingwood Bulletin.
