"Good Enough" Philosophy

Ralph T. Moore writes in the Oregon Voter: "As American industry girds its loins for a desperate struggle for survival in competition with Europe's Common Market, its chief problem will be the eradication of the 'good enough' philosophy that has prevailed during the past half-century. This is an insidious doctrine that has enervated American effort in every shop and factory, every office and personal service, throughout our land."

Warnings Issued on Gardening Time

It's gardening time again. And the American Medical Association warns enthusiasts to take it easy during the first few weeks. Muscles and wind need a chance to gain strength gradually, particularly if you've done nothing more strenuous all winter than walk to the car. It also says that the home gardener who neglects getting a shot of tetanus toxoid is asking for trouble—tetanus germs linger in the soil.

Spot in Dallas Has Changed Lives of 25,000 Youngsters

There is a small, dedicated spot in Dallas that has dramatically changed the lives of nearly 25,000 youngsters from nearly every community in the state—and now it discloses bold new plans to do even more.

This is the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, which has helped that many children since it opened its doors 40 years ago. President is John McKee, prominent civic and business leader, who has worked untiringly for years in the interest of the little patients.

Doctors are continuing their dramatic work at Scottish Rite in rehabilitating children who have been crippled by one or more of hundreds of different birth defects and diseases.

But some of the vast energies which for years went into the rescue of polio victims, for which Scottish Rite Hospital became famous, are now being put into studies of congenital malformations, or birth defects.

Hospital officials announce that several new case studies have been begun this year that may help shed light on why some 6,000 Texas babies every year are born with defects.

Although always oriented to medical investigation and education as well as treatment, the newly announced study impetus amounts to an additional service that Scottish Rite is adding to its more traditional job of helping crippled youngsters to lead normal lives.

"It is our conviction that Texans want and rightfully expect that this hospital shall maintain a study program that is bold and dramatic," said a hospital official. "Every one will, we feel, be most gratified as we report on our progress . . ."

Staff physicians, residents in orthopedic surgery and technicians will participate in various phases of the study projects, which will include both basic research and clinical aspects.

The doctors will take experience that dates from 1925 from treating and rehabilitating youngsters with congenital deformities into the new program, it was pointed out, and patients of the present and future may be able to give the specialists vital new clues while the youngsters are being helped.

Scottish Rite Hospital was founded by a group of inspired Masons and is run by contributions and bequests from all over the Southwest and the nation.

"There are only three simple criteria for admission by crippled children from anywhere in Texas, regardless of race, creed or color: They must be under 15; they must be able to be helped to become self-sufficient; the parents must be unable to afford this complete treatment elsewhere," Halbert J. Hopper, administrator, points out.

"Scottish Rite Hospital is completely free. There is no way that parents of patients can pay for the invaluable care that they get," Mr. Hopper added.

One of the nation's most respected orthopedic surgeons is chief of staff of the hospital, and the most prominent specialists from throughout the Dallas area help the active staff, when needed.

There are also 126 other highly trained workers, including nurses, physical therapists, brace-makers and even two teachers—for the 70-bed hospital has a full-time, accredited school to assist in educating the youngsters who must stay a long time, or who must come back often.

Many crippled youngsters enter the hospital for the first time pitifully hobbling or unable to walk at all.

After their treatment is over, whether it be from a brief stay or therapy extended over many years, they become improved, useful, happier citizens.

Drive Has Been Accelerated

Raymond Moley writes in Newsweek: "Since the early 1930's zealous proponents of public power, notably the late Secretary Ickes, have been waging a cold war against the privately-owned companies in the West. Even under the Eisenhower Administration's policy of partnership, the Interior bureaucracy carried on this fight . . ." And now, he adds, the drive has been accelerated.

Potential Political Pork Barrel

In the view of the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, the Urban Mass Transportation Bill is a potential political pork barrel. It cites the view of Senator Lausche of Ohio: "You are going to have political strings pulled. The one that is closest to the throne will get the aid, and those who are farthest removed will get the hindmost."

Should Be Given at Least a Fair Chance

"If this nation wishes to improve and increase labor conditions it can do so by doing away with as many as possible of the business taxes and reports. . . . Make it possible and probable for new people, younger people to venture into business on their own and be given at least a fair chance to succeed." — Oswego, Kan., Independent.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Farmers Co-Op. Society No. 1, Thalia, Texas, will be held on Saturday, June 1, 7:30 p. m. at the Thalia School. It is very important for all members to attend due to an amendment of the by-laws concerning new co-operative tax laws.

One word for Rural Electric Co-ops is . . .

The freedom to do for themselves what no one else would do made it possible and necessary for groups of local people to form Rural Electric Systems over a quarter century ago.

Rural Electric Cooperatives today are locally owned, locally controlled and locally managed business enterprises. Each member has one vote to help govern and operate his co-op through the board of directors, elected from the membership.

The folks who lived outside the centers of population gained more freedom when abundant, low-cost electric service became available to them. This freedom has resulted in a better way of life for rural residents . . . and a stronger economy for everyone.

Rural Electrification, the 20th century miracle, is good for ALL Americans.

Don't you read before you buy?
Most people generally do. Not only do they read; they cut out and show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples. When people see an advertisement in print, they can compare designs . . . features . . . and prices of nationally known products and services. (And people do compare before they buy.) Advertising in print is a handy thing. You can always check back; the message is still there even if your attention is distracted. When you add it up, print advertising—the kind you read in this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales.

Truscott H. D. Club

Nine regular members and one visitor, Mrs. Monroe Cash, met for the regular session of the Truscott Home Demonstration Club May 23 in the home of Mrs. John Black with the president in charge. Meeting was opened by the group saying a prayer followed with the reading of the THDA creed by Mrs. Chowning. Mrs. E. J. Jones was nominated as a nominee for delegate to state meeting and elected by acclamation. Mrs. Rake had the devotional. Program on food fallacies was given by Mrs. J. R. Brown, Mrs. W. O. Corder and Mrs. W. O. Solomon. Mrs. Brown discussed food fallacies, and food facts. "Public can't believe all they read and hear. Money is wasted and health endangered by food fads and quack diets. Doctor should prescribe diets." How much health in health by Mrs. Corder. "It has been proved that there is no harm in cooking in aluminum. Most agricultural sprays are safe, and life expectancy is longer due to good nutrition." Food, drug and cosmetic act by Mrs. Solomon. "Foods inspected for sanitation, as well as how it is prepared and stored. Prevent food poisoning on picnics by keeping germs out and food chilled."

Hostess, Mrs. Black, served refreshments. Next meeting is June 13 at the Community Center.

Camp Fire Girls

Truscott Camp Fire Girls and Happy Blue Birds met Thursday, May 23, at the home of Bette Sue Barry for a ceremonial and weiner roast.

A ceremonial presentation of handbooks by the group's guardian, Mrs. Jack W. Brown, was made around a council fire. Bette was in charge of the Camp Fire ceremonial and Helen Quintana led the Happy Blue Bird ceremonial.

No registration fees or dues are charged in either group. Each girl had to participate in a money-raising project to be registered and to earn her handbook.

Judy Taylor, Jacquelyn Brown and Billy Brown were guests for the ceremonial.

Participating in the Camp Fire Girl ceremonial were the above-mentioned and Mrs. Harold Barry, assistant guardian; Nancy Looney, Elvera Palacio, Shirley Robinson, Pauline Quintana and Rosa Linda Quintana.

Ruth Brown, Blue Bird was unable to be present.

A game and song session followed the council fire and guests took turns riding a goat cart.

Special guests arriving later for the weiner roast included Truscott Cub Scouts Murray Bullion, Michael and Joe Tomanek.

The Foard City Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Grover Owens on Tuesday, May 21. Seven members answered the roll call with "my worst insect enemy." Mrs. Owens read the "Collect for Club Women" as the opening exercise. Council report was given by Mrs. Glenn Jones. Mrs. Floyd Borchardt was elected from the club as delegate to the state convention in September.

Mrs. Bill Cox gave the program on "how to destroy household pests." She said that "lindane evaporizers have been condemned." DDT can be used for most insects.

The hostess served delicious refreshments to the members and Susie, Kathy and Butch Borchardt. Mrs. C. N. Barker will be hostess for June 4.

This machine—called a Micronaire—will be used to test the fineness of cotton fibers produced in this area. All cotton farmers who belong to Smith-Doxey organized groups are eligible for this service offered by the Altus Cotton Classing Office. The usual fee for this USDA service is 25 cents per sample, but Smith-Doxey farmers can get it for 8 cents a sample. A micronaire reading is an additional measurement of the quality of cotton which supplements the traditional cotton classing for grade and staple length. Cotton fiber fineness is shown by the position of the air-flow instrument indicator on the micronaire scale seen in this picture. The lower the "mike" reading, as the trade calls it, the more immature the cotton. Usually low "mike" cottons have not matured normally and are lower in quality. These immature cottons cause processing difficulties at the mill. That's why most buyers look for cotton with a "mike" reading above 3.5. As a result more and more farmers want their cotton "miked" to help market it. To meet this need, the Agricultural Marketing Service is offering the "mike" service to all cotton farmers in Smith-Doxey groups. Applications for the service must reach the Altus Classing Office by July 1.

The News has heard much favorable comment on the column, "On Foard Farms," since it was started in this paper on May 12. It is written by Fred Rennels, county agent, and contains much worthwhile and interesting information each week.

Vegetable coolers with water spray systems have been installed this week at two local grocery stores, Hancy-Rasor and M System.

Miss Madge Craig and Seth A. Woods of Truscott gave their many friends quite a surprise by motoring to Altus, Okla., and being married Tuesday, May 23.

Leslie Thomas and Crews Cooper returned this week from Dallas where they have been enrolled in a law course at Jefferson University.

Crowell lost another thrilling ball game here Sunday when Burk Burnett scored the winning run in the tenth inning as the result of an error by Crowell's third baseman in throwing the ball over the first baseman's head, which allowed a visiting player to score.

Constitutional Dedication

Supreme Court Associate Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, who was formerly Secretary of Labor, recently spoke on the New York newspaper strike. He did not discuss the merits on either side. But he did say this: ". . . I do not believe that either publishers or unions in the newspaper industry fully comprehend the duty implicit in their constitutional right to publish. That duty which, I emphasize, is moral, and not legal, is voluntarily to agree upon means by which they can discharge their necessary function to publish—to be a free press—without interruption. I am confident that those means can be found without abridging management or workers' rights—if both parties approach the task in a spirit of constitutional dedication."

Will Only Aggravate and Not Solve

"Intellectual and political freedom thrive best in an educational system which is not subject to conformity in content and teaching practices dictated by remote control. STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin, Tex.—Members of Gov. John Connally's "Committee of 25"—to study education beyond the high school—have only one thing in common... they're all Texans.

Twenty-three, however, have something else in common—they are college graduates. Ten hold master's degrees and five have doctorates.

Eight have something else in common—they attended Connally's alma mater, The University of Texas.

Other than that, their backgrounds vary.

Included are lawyers, bankers, contractors, telephone company executives, oil men, engineers, a district judge, a hospital administrator and educators.

Committee is composed of: George R. Brown, Martin Burns, Morgan J. Davis, and Mrs. Ray

L. Dudley of Houston. Also, James H. Dunn and Mrs. Albert B. Martin of Amarillo; John Erik Johnson, Willis M. Tate and Gifford K. Johnson of Dallas. Austinites are Vernon, McDaniel, J. M. Odum and Dr. Harry H. Ransom. Others include Sister Mary Vincent O'Donnell and H. B. Zachry of San Antonio; Elmer H. Danner, San Angelo; Jenkins Garrett, Fort Worth; and Judge Reynaldo G. Garza, Brownsville. Also John E. Gray, Beaumont; H. H. Imray, Longview; Ben W. Jones, Corsicana; Dr. Abner McCall, Waco; Dr. Earl Rudder, College Station; Tom Sealy, Midland; M. Harvey Weil, Corpus Christi; and Dr. Dossie M. Wiggins, Lubbock.

ODESSA OUT—The expected bumper crop of college students in 1965 will have two more state colleges to choose from. Angelo State College in San Angelo and Pan American College in Edinburg join the state-supported system in the fall of 1965.

But Odessa Junior College still will be a junior college, despite strong efforts by Rep. George Cook of Odessa and Sen. Frank Owen III of El Paso.

STATE STUDIES PROJECT—When the 58th legislative session ended, lawmakers immediately began to study possible legislation for the 59th Legislature.

Interim committees of legislators will look into guidance training in public schools; boating safety; reservoir planning; Texas boys' care and discovery of tuberculosis cases; poverty and indigency in the state; state and local tax policy; and a thorough survey of the oil and gas industry.

WOMEN WIN SMALL VICTORY—The army of women's clubs, led by Mrs. Hermine Tasholovsky of Dallas, lost their season-long battle to get the Legislature to approve a proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan to provide "equal rights" for women.

Moore's amendment was lodged in a reluctant House Insurance committee at the session's end.

But they did gain something in the way of equal property rights under bills passed by Rep. George Cowden of Waco to:

1. Give married women the right to manage and sell their separate property without their husband's consent.
2. Take away the "examination apart" required of notaries public.

NEW A. G. SETS RECORD—Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr reports that his Bond Division set an all-time record for bonds examined and approved during the first four months of his administration.

He stated that the record of 274 bond issues approved—$189,000,000 worth—exceeded the first third of any calendar year since the Attorney General's office was first given these duties in 1905.

Also since January 1, Carr's office has handled a total of 1,311 cases; 986 won, 61 lost and 264 disposed of in other ways.

COTTON DEADLINE EXTENDED—Agriculture Commissioner John C. White announced a 10-day extension of the cotton planting deadline in 17 coastal counties. Extension to June 1 was due to extremely dry weather in the coastal bend area.

Planting of the state's 1963 cotton crop is three-fourths complete, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

JUDGES' PAY—Another legislative study will concern the pay needs of judges.

One of the most controversial subjects during this legislative session has been the proper pay for district judges.

State pays all district judges an annual salary of $12,000. Many counties supplement this. Many more have asked their representatives to pass bills this session to authorize county supplements.

Lawmakers from districts where judges get only $12,000 or a slight supplement have battled every bill that called for increased pay. Some increases would have run as high as $20,000 a year. Rural members argue that judicial salaries like that cause too much competition.

Rep. Maurice Pipkin of Brownsville noted that creation of a new Court of Civil Appeals in Corpus Christi and the opening of three justice jobs at $15,000 caused a flood of applications.

GOLD IN THEM HILLS?—People who think a hidden fortune may lie "somewhere north of the Big Bend" may get a chance to test their theory under a new law. It allows prospector permits for 610 acres, at 25 cents an acre annual rental, for a maximum of five years.

Rep. Grainger McElhany of Wheeler, author of the bill, noted that present law limits a hard-minerals prospector to 40 acres.

WATERSHEDS—Speed-up in planning watershed flood protection projects won approval from the Senate-House conference committee on appropriations.

It allocated $100,000 a year to the State Soil Conservation Board to be used to plan small-watershed programs.

LEAFHOPPERS

Leafhoppers come in assorted shapes, sizes and colors. An acre field may contain more than 5 million leafhoppers, but on the plants and the potential profits.

When you walk through an infested field, it is easy to notice hundreds of these tiny, mottled, green, yellow or multi-colored pests hopping or flying around as they are disturbed. Plants will show a typical lack of vigor, in many cases accompanied by whitened or discolored foliage. Damage often is twofold.

First, leafhoppers suck sap from the plant and reducing its potential yield. Also important is the fact that several species of this pest, notably the potato and beet leafhoppers, carry serious virus diseases. Hopperburn on potatoes, and curly top of tomatoes, beets and beans can be expensive trouble for farmers.

Winter is spent in various stages, according to the species. Some survive as adults or nymphs in sheltered spots around fields. Other types hatch from eggs each spring. All through their lives, leafhoppers sap the profit from whichever crop they attack. Entomologists rate potato leafhopper as one of the most injurious pests on potatoes in the Eastern United States.

The reproduction cycle includes eggs that hatch into nymphs. The nymphs molt several times, finally becoming winged adult leafhoppers. Most species are about 1/2 inch long.

Early control has proved economical to avoid possible buildups. A new type of chemical that controls leafhoppers resistant to older pesticides has been effectively on many species of this pest. It is Sevin insecticide, a carbamate that is chemically different and safer than the previously-used chlorinated hydrocarbon and phosphorus materials. This new material attacks the problem of controlling leafhoppers that have developed resistance to older chemicals.
