WITH THE OLD TIRE OFF YOUR CAR

WHILE most everything else has gone up, one important product has stemmed the tide of rising prices. Tires. And B. F. Goodrich was the first tire maker to bring you these savings below prewar levels. But price is only the first of many ways B. F. Goodrich tires cut your costs. You get more mileage than you've ever known before from the new, wider road level tread that runs flush-to-the-road giving the tire more road contact, equalizing the strain, reducing wear. You get more safety from costly accidents because greater road contact means more rubber to grip and stop. And the scalloped, tooth-edged ribs fight side-slip and skidding. Finer, sturdier cords and more of them add strength to the cord body to resist damage from pounding and the danger of blowouts. On top of this, you can get a big allowance for your present worn tires. For instance, your old tire and $12.95 will buy you a new 6.00-16 Silvertown that outwears prewar tires. $1.50 DOWN—$1.25 A WEEK PUTS A NEW 6.00-16 B. F. GOODRICH SILVERTOWN ON YOUR CAR

The Department of Agriculture reports that the reserves of old corn on hand are 37 per cent higher than a year ago totaling 727,359,000 bushels and an off the farm storage of 39,600,000. By the time the new crop is ready in October the department believes there will be old corn on hand to the amount of 350 million bushels. The reserve on hand last year October 1 was about 170 million bushels. The larger reserve on hand will help offset a prospective decline in this year's crop due to unfavorable weather.

Did you ever can a United States Savings Bond? Don't answer "no" too quickly because that's what millions of wise Americans are doing daily. By buying bonds regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where they bank, they are preserving income for future nourishment. Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell) Finding the Cube Root of Life: I remember as a boy in school that one of the problems that caused me a good deal of concern and not a little worry was the problem that had to do with the matter of extracting the cube root of a given number. The first time I tried it I filled several pages of figures and in the end, more bewildered than ever, I had to admit that I was no nearer the solution than in the beginning. My father who had an excellent understanding of mathematics asked me what the trouble was, and, seeing my aimless figuring, suggested that I look up the rule for the extraction of a cube root and follow it. If I did that, he said, I would have no difficulty. The easiest way to extract the cube root of a number, he said, is the right way according to the rule. I looked up the rule, committed it to memory, and after that had no difficulty with the extraction of cube root. I have thought a good many times since then that the same thing might be said of life. One can blunder about aimlessly in life and get nowhere by doing things the wrong way. The simplest way is to observe the rules and follow them. As in the solution of the problem in cube root the right rule always brings the desired result.

Will you be the GOAT —ten years from now? Why should you be the goat, and risk your present and future reputation, when it's a demonstrated fact that unless new homes are wired for ELECTRIC RANGES they're not modern now and will be even farther behind the times ten years from now. Survey after survey proves that! Protect your reputation by building houses that are truly modern. Avoid kick-backs by including wiring for an Electric Range. An Electric Range requires only: 3-wire service from point of cut-in to the distribution panel; a minimum of two No. 6 wires and one No. 8 wire; a 60-amp. switch with overload protection and a 3-wire circuit from the distribution panel to the range outlet in the kitchen. Make this your minimum wiring specification.

Work Is Good

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 31—Proverbs 6:6-11; 18:9; 24:30-32; Ecclesiastes 3:12

MEMORY SELECTION—Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.—Ecclesiastes 9:10

Editor's Note: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By William Cuijbertson, D. D., of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

Wise indeed is that legislator who understands that there are two extremes to be avoided in dealing with the problems of the working man. The one extreme is that heartless, cruel exploitation of labor which grinds men to powder, which deals with individuals as chattel. The other extreme is to provide such an amount of free time for the individual that both his personal life and economic prosperity are in danger.

Work is good. It is well to keep in mind that before the fall man was commanded to tend the garden. Perhaps to some of us that command is not a command to work, because the evidences of sin in a cursed creation were not present!

Life without purpose, life without activity for good, would be vain and actually intolerable.

I. An Illustration of Prudence and a Warning Against Indolence (Prov. 6:6-11; 18:9).

The illustration from the creature world is apt. Ants, as this scripture states, have no overseer, and yet they are diligent in providing for the time of need.

It would seem as though they are constantly active in caring for present and future needs. In Palestine, where they may be active throughout the year, there is still the need of stored provisions for the rainy season, and so it is true that the ant gathers food in the harvest for future needs.

Anyone who is tempted to be indolent would be wise to consider the ways of the ant, and to manifest as much concern for present and future needs.

The sluggard is described as one asleep, as one who is never satisfied, but constantly wants more slumber. Such folding of the hands, such indolence, brings poverty, and that poverty comes as a robber.

Indolence is not mere passivity. The man who fails to work is not guilty of omitting to do what he should do, but he is actually a robber of society. There is an active element involved in indolence; not only has the man failed to contribute, but, in addition, the good that he might have done has remained undone. The sluggard is therefore a brother to the destroyer (Prov. 18:9).

II. An Illustration of Indolence and a Lesson in Prudence (Prov. 24:30-32).

It is striking that the Word of God presents the ant as the illustration of prudence, but when it comes to an illustration of indolence it directs our attention to man.

The illustration is that of the man who is lazy, who is void of understanding. The Preacher visits him. Going to his field and vineyard, he finds it grown over with thorns, covered with vetches, and the stone wall broken down.

Instead of citing the particular lessons learned, the Preacher simply observes that he looked in, thought deeply, and received instruction. Perhaps the best antidote to laziness is to see it in its inaction. The squalid conditions, the inability to cope with emergencies that we normally see in the life of the man who wants only ease are sufficient to warn most of us against it.

Entirely apart from the dignity of labor, the homely recompense of being able to meet our own needs is the compensation of self-respect that initiative and resourcefulness bring. May we have a higher goal as we labor than merely providing for our own needs, though this is certainly important. Beyond it, of course, is the ability to help others also (cf. Eph. 4:28).

III. A God-Given Reward for Labor (Eccles. 5:12).

One of the great compensations of faithful labor is sleep. This passage speaks of the sleep of the laboring man as sweet. When as Christians we have fulfilled our duty, when we have given an honest day's work, the recompense of the Lord is surcease from labor.

The great stress of the Word of God is similarly on the main in authority doing that which is right for those who labor under him, and on the laborer, to be worthy of his hire. Thus does the Bible guarantee a cordial and happy relationship between employer and employee. When either party departs from biblical standards, chaos results. There is a plan as up-to-date as the present hour, as workable as the most precise mechanical device ever made. All that is necessary is that the Word of God be followed.

As a result of bills passed by Congress, crop insurance the coming year will be on the experimental basis only. During 1948 the insurance shall be limited to not more than seven crops including wheat, cotton, flax, corn, tobacco and to not more than three additional crops in each year thereafter. Insurance is provided for any agricultural commodity except wheat, corn, cotton, flax and tobacco shall be limited to producers in not to exceed twenty counties. Insurance for wheat, corn and cotton shall be limited to producers in not to exceed fifty counties and for flax and tobacco to producers in not to exceed five counties, for each such community. In presenting the legislation the House agriculture committee said it believes that the present crop insurance program is, on the whole, neither sound in insurance nor profitable experimentation.

Camps Will Train 60,000 in Summer

National Guard troops are going to camp this summer for the first time since 1940 when the first units were called into federal service during the emergency preceding World War II.

Major General Butler B. Miltenberger, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, estimates that approximately 60,000 men will undergo the 15-day field training. An additional 20,000 will attend special schools.

The War Department has directed that all National Guard divisions and regimental combat teams federally recognized as of April 15, 1947, self sustaining in the field and manned to at least 20 per cent of their table of organization strength, must attend the 15-day encampments.

Other ground units meeting the same requirements may take the training at the discretion of State authority. Shorter local training was authorized for units not qualified for regular training.

In line with the six-year training program set up to bring the National Guard to its full effectiveness, the Army Ground Forces announced that individual and specialist training, including small arms familiarization firing, will be emphasized.

Army commanders will have the responsibility of directing the training for States within their areas. Senior Army instructors will conduct the local schools of training which will also emphasize individual and specialist instruction.

The National Guard Bureau has
