SIXTH YEAR NUMBER 1

Rotary's District Governor to Visit Local Club Tuesday and Wednesday

Rotary Club of Crowell on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 18 and 19, will host to Sydney A. Gaines, Governor of the 186th District of Rotary International, making his annual official visit to each of the 36 Rotary Clubs in Northwest Texas. Gaines is general manager of United Electric Company in Wichita Falls, and for many years has given leadership to civic, fraternal, religious, and business activities on both local and state levels.

Club President Brown, in discussing the District Governor's visit, pointed out that wherever Rotary Clubs are located, their activities are similar to those of the Crowell club. All Rotary activities are based on the same general objectives — developing better understanding and fellowship among business and professional men, promoting community-betterment undertakings, raising the standards of business and the professions, and fostering the advancement of good will, understanding and peace among all the peoples of the world.

Mr. Brown stated that Rotary International continues to grow in numbers and strength each year. During the past fiscal year, 351 new Rotary Clubs were organized in 48 countries of North, South and Central America, Europe, Asia, Africa and the Islands of the Pacific. Seven countries were added to Rotary's roster—Angola, Iran, Iraq, Jordan, Netherlands, New Guinea, Ruanda-Urundi and Swaziland.

Voting Places Designated for Foard County's Wheat Marketing Quota Referendum to Be Held Friday, July 20

Voting places in Foard County for the wheat marketing quota referendum to be held July 20 were designated this week by Ray Hysinger, chairman of the Foard County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The polling places are as follows:

A—Margaret community—Margaret Community House.

B—Thalia Community—Farmers Co-Op. Station.

C—Crowell Community—Base-ment Court House.

D—Foard City Community—School House.

E—Vivian Community—Base-ment Court House.

Growers eligible to vote in the wheat quota referendum are all those who will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest on a farm in 1957. These farmers have been notified of their wheat allotments. Quotas do not affect farmers who harvest 15 acres or less of wheat for grain on a farm.

If quotas are approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the wheat referendum, the quotas will remain in effect for 1957, and the wheat price support rate will be at a national average of $2.00 per bushel to those who comply with farm wheat allotments, and the unit rate for determining payments under the 1957 wheat acreage reserve of the Soil Bank will be 60 per cent of $2.00 or $1.20 per bushel national average with the usual differentials for local areas.

If more than one-third of the growers voting in the referendum on July 20 disapprove marketing quotas, marketing quotas will not be in effect and the 1957 support rate will be 50 per cent of party, or approximately $1.20 per bushel national average to those who comply with their wheat allotments, and the unit rate for determining payments under the 1957 wheat acreage reserve of the Soil Bank will be 60 per cent of the support rate, or approximately 72 cents per bushel national average with the usual differentials for local areas.

The polling places as stated above shall be open at 8:00 a. m. and closed at 7:00 p. m. All eligible voters are urged by the local committee to cast their ballot.

SERVICE TO VETERANS

The American Red Cross provides service to veterans at 73 Veterans Administration offices throughout the country.

Austin, Tex. — Reunions, Roddeos, fishing trips. From now until school starts, vacationing Texans will take to the highways by the thousands.

They are likely to find the roads more crowded than at any time in the state's history.

From year to year, total traffic volume has climbed steadily. Highway Department surveys show the 16 units required for graduation. Committee suggestions were part of an overall effort to strengthen high school curricula academically, especially in scientific studies.

VACCINE FOR ADULTS SEEN SOON—Texans over 20 may be able to get polio vaccinations within "a month or two."

But, said State Health Department officials, this is still "purely speculative." Actual timing will depend on when the vaccine supply exceeds that needed for youngsters and expectant mothers.

In Texas, polio takes its heaviest toll among tots under four years of age. They have 51.2 per cent of all cases, 69.1 per cent of paralytic cases.

Persons over 20 account for only 17.4 per cent of total incidence, 6.8 per cent of paralytic cases.

Forty-one new cases were reported in the state last week, bringing the '56 total to 440.

WORSE AND MORE OF IT—More and more Texans have less and less water. In its monthly report, the State Water Board listed these gloomy details:

Texas reservoirs were down 17 per cent, and observation wells and springs were at all-time lows.

Storage in Trinity River basin lakes was at 27 per cent of capacity; in Red River lakes, 55 per cent; in Lake Texoma, 51 per cent.

Famous Comal Springs near New Braunfels ceased to flow for the first time in history.

Ground water levels, below average in almost all areas, hit record lows in four areas.

No general area of the state could claim normal rainfall. State-wide precipitation was 46 per cent of normal.

Five key areas — Houston, El Paso, Austin, Waco and the Fort Worth-Dallas area—will be assumed hit by bombs between 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. that day.

Smaller towns and rural areas also will participate in Operation Alert. Many have been designated as reception centers for evacuees from cities.

State Civil Defense and Disaster Relief Headquarters in Austin has asked all mayors, county judges and other local civil defense officials to cooperate.

Strategic industrial centers, such as Beaumont - Port Arthur, will practice vacating plants and schools. Military bases will test their full-scale emergency measures.

Purpose of the drill is to show up any flaws in the plan whereby federal, state and local officials and trained volunteers would cooperate to cope with a major catastrophe.

Nationally, Operation Alert will presume 52 cities bombed. FCC has ordered all radio and TV stations off the air at 3:10 p. m. July 20. Special civil defense frequencies, 640 and 1240, will be used for test broadcasts of disaster instructions.

Faces around the Department of Agriculture these days are wider than they are long, and that is quite a change. Officials feel certain their popularity rating among farmers is going to go up.

Pay no attention to that cynic leaning over your shoulder and asking, "Where else could it go?"

For the first time in four years, the optimists around the Department are not afraid to look at the statistics prepared for them by their economists. They can quote facts and figures.

Farm prices now average about 10 per cent higher than when Santa Claus last passed up millions of farmers. For the first time since 1952, prices received by farmers are higher than they were a year earlier.

Cash income, the kind you can jingle in your pockets, isn't much to boast about yet, but it is higher than it was a year ago. Price averages for both crops and livestock have been going up for six months in a row.

Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse became so enthusiastic over the statistics that he made a speech saying: "The decline in farm prices and the parity ratio has not only been stopped—it has definitely turned up. The most difficult part of the adjustment for agriculture apparently is behind us."

Talk with the economists who prepared the figures and you get a more cautious optimism. But, you understand, they are not running for re-election. They say chances are we have passed the bottom of the farm recession, but that it is a bit early to claim that it is over.

Exports of farm commodities required by state law, he said.

A State Board of Education study committee recommended they no longer be counted among the 16 units required for graduation. Committee suggestions were part of an overall effort to strengthen high school curricula academically, especially in scientific studies.

VACCINE FOR ADULTS SEEN SOON—Texans over 20 may be able to get polio vaccinations within "a month or two."

But, said State Health Department officials, this is still "purely speculative." Actual timing will depend on when the vaccine supply exceeds that needed for youngsters and expectant mothers.

In Texas, polio takes its heaviest toll among tots under four years of age. They have 51.2 per cent of all cases, 69.1 per cent of paralytic cases.

Persons over 20 account for only 17.4 per cent of total incidence, 6.8 per cent of paralytic cases.

Forty-one new cases were reported in the state last week, bringing the '56 total to 440.

WORSE AND MORE OF IT—More and more Texans have less and less water. In its monthly report, the State Water Board listed these gloomy details:

Texas reservoirs were down 17 per cent, and observation wells and springs were at all-time lows.

Storage in Trinity River basin lakes was at 27 per cent of capacity; in Red River lakes, 55 per cent; in Lake Texoma, 51 per cent.

Famous Comal Springs near New Braunfels ceased to flow for the first time in history.

Ground water levels, below average in almost all areas, hit record lows in four areas.

No general area of the state could claim normal rainfall. State-wide precipitation was 46 per cent of normal.

Light grazing, though conserving soil resources, give the ranchman the most his range. Moderate grazing favored because of more for the long run and also ranges remained in a good condition.

Burkert points out the research is highly significant cause during the last breeding stock were used from stock raised under the three grazing intensities. Six lots of cows had used in the experiments for each grazing pattern.

TEXAS OIL PIONEERS

(One of a Series)
JAMES DONOHOE
by William A. Owens

(Editor's note: Sketch compiled from records of "Oral History of Texas Oil Pioneers," University of Texas. Persons who can contribute additional information, documents, or photographs of early oil fields should write to the Archives Collection, Box 7767, University Station, Austin, Texas.)

Jim Donohoe of Batson is a bachelor, Irish to the bone, and a good teller of stories about the Gulf Coast oil fields. He is also an oil pioneer with a sense of history.

An Ohio farm boy and a Spanish-American War veteran, he rambled down to Texas to see what the oil excitement was about. He came to San Antonio as an excursionist, and ended up a roughneck in the Batson Oil Field February 12, 1905. While other roughnecks went from boom to boom, he stayed on in Batson, and prospered.

The boom was at its height when he arrived. In a little over a year Batson had grown from five families scattered about the saucer-like prairie to a population of about 10,000. They had cut back the edges of the Big Thicket to make room for themselves and their oil field machinery.

Batson was a 24-hour a day operation when he arrived — for workers in the oil fields, for gambling joint and saloon keepers in the shacks and tents of Fannin Street, for the various kinds of people who follow a boom.

Donohoe took a room at the Caledonia Boarding House, run by a Scotsman named Simpson. This was a two-story frame house with 10 or 12 rooms for sleeping, each furnished with two cots and nothing else. The roof leaked, and during rainy seasons, the roomers had a hard time dodging drips. Men brought mud on their boots from streets and oil fields. They used hoes instead of brooms to scrape mud from the dining room floor. There were no screens, and flies and mosquitoes made life miserable.

Donohoe had a turn at various jobs: fireman, pumper, tank gauger, roustabout, and superintendent of the lease.

For years he worked for $90 a month and paid $26 a month for room and board—a margin of profit that figured prominently in his career as an oil man. He saved his money carefully and invested every cent he could in the Batson field.

In 1915 he bought part interest in a lease. Through good times and bad he stayed on, adding to his holdings as large companies and individual owners pulled out. At last he was able to consolidate them in the Adabel Oil Company.

In spite of the inconveniences at the Caledonia, he stayed on until the building was destroyed in 1928, or, as he says, he wore it out. Then he built himself a nice bungalow adjoining his lease. He can sit in comfort on his front porch and watch his walking beams go up and down pumping his oil into his tanks.

As for his sense of history: Before many persons were interested in marking sites of discovery wells in Texas oil fields, Donohoe decided that a marker should be erected for the Batson discovery well—to show his appreciation and to give permanence if the Big Thicket should edge in again.

At his own expense he had a surveyor help him locate the old casing. Then he had a Texas granite marker erected on the spot, at not a great distance from his own front porch. Afraid that a bronze plaque might find its way to a scrap heap in time of war, he had the words cut deep into granite.

The marker stands there with its message. "Discovery well, Batson Oil Field, Paraffine Oil Company Number One. Total Depth—790 feet. Initial Production—600 barrels. Completed October 31st, 1903."

"Arrive Alive"—Slow Down and Live!

"Arrive Alive—Slow Down and Live!"

That's the slogan of the current speed control program which the Texas Safety Association, the Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council are sponsoring this month in cooperation with the "Slow Down and Live" program of the National Conference of State Safety Coordinators. It's also a pretty good maxim for any motorist to live by.

In commenting on the program, E. C. McFadden of Dallas, vice president of Employers Casualty Co. and president of the Texas Safety Association, stressed the necessity of impressing the average driver with the importance of setting his speed to suit the prevailing conditions.

"Much has been said about the speed demon's role in the traffic accident toll, and rightly so," McFadden said. "But too many people lose sight of the fact that many drivers invite accidents by driving at speeds too fast for conditions, even though these speeds are far below what is thought of as 'burning up the road'."

McFadden said the average driver should check constantly to see that his speed is safe for conditions of weather, traffic, road, the mechanical condition of his car and his own physical and mental condition at the time.

"Much of the dangerous haste that involves ordinary drivers in traffic accidents comes from the too-prevalent habit of not allowing enough time for the daily schedule," he said. "Trying to make up a few minutes in traffic can be deadly."

He pointed out that the driver who is obsessed with making time will not slow down for heavy traffic, slippery or rough roads, reduced visibility, fatigue or other physical disability. Moreover, his preoccupation with the time element impairs his judgment.

"My advice to drivers is to allow enough time to make the journey without pressure," McFadden said. "If you do happen to get a late start, don't try to make up time on the way. It's better to get there late than not at all!"

1955 One of Bloodiest Years on Highways

1955 was one of the bloodiest years on the nation's highways, with a near record total of 37,800 deaths. As if this were not grim enough, our young drivers figured prominently in compiling these statistics. More than 27 per cent of all drivers involved in fatal accidents last year were under twenty-five years of age, a greater number than ever before.

This figure, in the recently released safety booklet "Fatal Fatalities," an annual publication of the Safety Service of The Travelers Insurance Companies of Hartford, Connecticut, emphasizes the fact that the safety record of drivers under twenty-five deteriorated sharply in 1955.

The inescapable conclusion to this is that excessive speed and recklessness are the principal faults in these accidents.

In comparison, it can be pointed out that the group of drivers over twenty-five years of age made a significant improvement in their safety record for 1955. This improvement was evident particularly in the incidence of fatal accidents, once again pointing to the speed and recklessness of younger drivers.

Young people react quickly and learn quickly. With these two factors in their favor, their driving record should theoretically be better than their elders'. Fast reflexes are not enough, however, to avert a serious accident involving a recklessly driven car traveling at an excessive rate of speed.

The capacity for rapid learning must be utilized as well, in increased driver training programs, particularly in high schools. Speed and recklessness should be the primary targets of these programs.

Dates Set for Duck and Dove Seasons

Austin — The Game and Fish Commission recommended that duck and goose seasons open simultaneously in Texas this fall and acknowledged a slight Federal Fish and Wildlife Service increase in the mourning dove season.

Meeting in Austin, the Commission implied an anticipated curb in waterfowl hunting this fall by stating a preference that if the Federal authorities do reduce shooting privileges that the season's length, rather than the bag limit of five and ten birds, be cut.

Last year, the duck season was increased from sixty to seventy-five days. The goose season was kept at sixty days and did not open until fifteen days after the duck harvest began. The Commission asked that zero hour for ducks and geese be identical, with Friday, November 3, suggested as the preferable beginning date in Texas.

The Fish and Wildlife Service authorized continued zoning for Texas mourning dove hunting and permitted an additional five half days to be divided between the two zones which had forty-five days of shooting last fall.

One change in regulations for the twenty-eight county Panhandle bracket requires plugging of shotguns to a limit of three shells for hunting quail and wild turkey.

Voting Intelligently Is Responsibility of Each Citizen

Too many citizens are inclined to show distaste when the word "politics" is mentioned. They have the idea that politics is dirty and they, as clean and upright citizens, will have nothing to do with it.

Politics is only as dirty as the people permit it to be.

Webster defines politics as "the science and art of government." In practice, politics is government.

"ACCEPTS" WESTERN ARMS PROPOSAL — Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko (front) addresses the 12-nation United Nations Disarmament Commission meeting in New York City. Russia agreed to "accept" western proposed military manpower limits and suggested a four-point arms reduction program, including an outright ban on the use of nuclear weapons.

The United States is a republic, governed by the elected representatives of the people. Ours is a government "of the people, by the people, for the people."

When citizens fail to participate in politics through the medium of the ballot box, they are leaving the field open to organized minorities acting as a political machine to capture elections.

Apathy and indifference by the voters breed abuses of the representative system. Apathetic citizens must share the blame when government becomes corrupt.

The apathy begins to make itself apparent when the time comes for citizens to qualify themselves as voters. Texas requires payment of a poll tax. Citizens may pay the $1.50 tax from Oct. 1 through Jan. 31. Usually, only half of those eligible to qualify as voters pay their poll taxes.

The apathy shows itself again at the elections, when only a fraction of the qualified voters turn out to cast their ballots.

Many important elections here have been decided by a comparatively handful of voters.

When voters are so apathetic, why should they be shocked by poor government or corrupt government?

You can't achieve integrity through legislation. Integrity in government is achieved by electing honest, capable persons to public office. An honest man will conduct his office honestly. A capable man will give his constituents the kind of government to which they are entitled.

The voter has a two-fold responsibility. He should make a diligent effort to inform himself to the best of his ability on the background, qualifications and character of the candidates seeking public office. He should inform himself on the merits and demerits of the issues to be voted on.

Then the citizen should go to his polling place and cast an intelligent vote. Casting an intelligent vote does not necessarily mean that the citizen votes for any one faction.

It means that he has informed himself well as to each candidate and issue, and votes according to his convictions for honest and capable candidates who hold views nearest his own.

Too many voters are prone to

Said in 1933

"The evidence in general indicates that the operations of the Federal government in the field of private enterprise have reached a magnitude and diversity which threatens to reduce the private initiative, curtail the opportunities, and infringe upon the earning powers of tax-paying undertakings while steadily increasing the levies upon them."

That sounds as if it had been said yesterday. Actually, it is almost a quarter-century old. It is from a 1933 report of a special committee of the House of Representatives appointed to investigate government competition with private business. This competition was a serious matter then—in the ensuing years, it has increased to a vast extent and the issue is infinitely more urgent.

K. N. Merritt of the Railway Express Agency quoted the committee's statement in a recent speech. It was natural that he did so. For Railway Express has had full experience with government in business. The parcel post service is an excellent example of a government activity which infringes "upon the earning powers of tax-paying undertakings."

And, as the Hoover Commission has recorded, during much of its history the parcel post has been operated at a loss and been subsidized by the taxpayers.

The great foundation on which free representative government rests is free private enterprise. Government in business eats away at that foundation.

The Story of Freedom

Each year the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge presents awards, in the form of George Washington Honor Medals, for various achievements. This year the top award in the advertising category was given to the Florida Power & Light Company for a local campaign in newspapers of select candidates on the basis of prejudice or propaganda. Emotional votes are highly susceptible to deception by a demagogue. Reason, not emotion, should be the controlling factor in a voter's decisions.

The advertisements which were honored are striking and unusual. They pay tribute to the deeds of private enterprise in a lengthy list of fields—transportation, communications, insurance, building, retailing, banking, labor, the professions, and so on. The work of free men and women, the texts emphasize, has given us unequalled material benefits and comforts—and, along with them, freedom and opportunity. And the point is also made that private enterprise in electric power development has, as in the other lines of endeavor, given us world leadership.

It would be good if more business enterprises followed a similar line in their advertising in their towns and regions. We tend to take all the good things of life for granted. We know that any service or commodity is available when we want it. And we tend to overlook what has made this possible, which is freedom—freedom to compete, freedom to take a chance, freedom to go as far as one's desires and capabilities permit. Freedom is basically a spiritual value—but all our material values have stemmed from it.

Periodic Health Examinations Aid to Longer Life

"Health examinations won't prevent old age, but many tens of thousands of persons, whose records of these examinations have been studied, have not only been helped to live longer, but also be sturdier and healthier, and enjoy more comfort and happiness by following the advice of the physicians who have made such examinations," declared Dr. Henry A. Holle, Commissioner of Health.

Once the individual leaves school, he assumes the responsibility not only for his choice of work and method of living, but also for his continued good health.

But he often fails to apply the available methods of preventing disease and prolonging life. Hardly a day passes in which our attention is not called to the untimely death of some prominent person or acquaintance, which may

It is our firm belief that if the disease of the gastrointestinal tract, which includes the lips, tongue, teeth, mouth, stomach and bowels, are recognized in their early stage, their progress may be curtailed, adequate treatment advised, and many deaths prevented.

Today the medical profession realizes that many childhood diseases are now under control and that our present problem must center about the adult, encouraging periodic check-ups. What's new about the new 1957 lines of TV? Actually there are no radical changes. The most popular change in practically EVERY brand is in the type of optional automatic tuning. Some merely have push-button type controls, with remote controls connected to the set with wires. Others are more elaborate with wireless setups whereby a small transmitter in the remote control actuates a relay in the TV set by means of a receiver. Most of the lower priced models are almost EXACTLY like the 1956 models. New sets now are constructed with a "vertical" chassis which makes all tubes more accessible for the technician, but there is very, very little change in circuit in the new models.

Saw an article in one of our daily papers the other day wherein it said "call an expert when you have TV trouble, but YOU can repair your own antenna." I sincerely hope some of my customers will take this article with a grain of salt. It just seems to me 'twould be downright unlady-like for some of my widow women customers over fifty to attempt atop our fifty foot towers!

USDA Meat Inspection Service Observes Fiftieth Birthday

The act providing for Federal inspection of meats produced in the packing plants of this country for marketing interstate or in foreign commerce was passed by Congress on June 30, 1906. Today 80 per cent of all meats produced in this country carry the purple stamp of Government approval. "U. S. Inspected and Passed." Other meat sold commercially is produced under state or local supervision.

For a half century, this service, operating in close cooperation with the meat industry, has given American consumers assurance that the meats available for their family meals through meat retailers and food markets are clean and wholesome and produced from healthy animals. Inspection of meat begins with live animals at packing plants and continues through each stage of preparation for market. Federal supervision covers such details as plant cleanliness, adequacy of heat in canning and extends to the accuracy of labels on cans and packages.

The $64,000 Question

There never was a better text book lesson in how high income taxes take the zip out of initiative than the TV program, "The $64,000 Question," according to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Out of the dozens of persons who have appeared on the program, only two have attempted the final question. Seven had reached the $32,000 level at this writing but decided to stop there.

new segments of the meat-packing industry under Federal meat inspection. Not only fresh meats, but cured, smoked, canned and frozen meat products are inspected.

Federal meat inspection, in addition to safeguarding meats for U. S. tables, helps guide pioneer research in such matters as the use of irradiation to preserve meat and the effect of atomic blasts on meat animals, meat and meat products.

The purple stamp of Federal inspection or approval has become a symbol of standards for wholesomeness in meats that provide a pattern for the entire world. Under the theme "Meats With Approval" distributors are planning special promotions and sales events for the summer and fall months.

The state of Delaware has perfect circular arc for one of boundaries.

Four took $16,000.

Why should anyone back away from $64,000?

One obvious answer, says the Chamber, is the huge cut of the pie Uncle Sam takes for himself. A single person, earning $4,000 at his job, who answers the $32,000 question correctly actually wins only $16,000—the rest goes to the U. S. Treasury. But if he goes on to answer the $64,000 question he can keep only about $8,700 out of the extra $32,000. Thus he risks an assured $16,600 for a chance to win an additional $8,700.

Under present federal income tax laws, the same individual would have to win $448,711 in order to keep $64,000.

But in addition to national taxes, the Chamber points out, the citizen may be subject to state income taxes and, in some communities, municipal income taxes.

This same disinclination to take risks because of taxes also acts as a brake on business initiative and the potential investor. But with an important difference. The TV contestant may not win, but he can't lose. The businessman or investor can't.

Living Habits Affect Gas Mileage

Are you getting as much gas mileage as you should? Check your driving habits. C. C. McFadden of Dallas, president of the Texas Safety Association, gave this tip to motorists last week. He spoke on behalf of the current speed control program which is being conducted by the Texas Safety Association, the National Safety Council, in cooperation with the "Slow Down Live" program of the National Conference of State Safety Administrators.

If you've got a heavy foot, you're your trouble lies right there. "Your gas mileage would probably go much better if you cut down on your speed. A vehicle traveling at a rate of speed burns up gas at a much faster rate than one traveling at a moderate rate. It also wears out tires and brakes faster."

He pointed out that this dollar is not likely to be compensated for by time saved, either. "The person who travels at a faster rate of speed than the normal traffic flow often loses out. His efforts to get ahead of the pack are often backfire by causing consuming traffic jams.

The "in-a-hurry" driver also loses a good deal of energy," he said. "Edgy and nervous, driving for every advantage, he is himself out unnecessarily. This kind of heedless and erratic driving is the cause of many accidents," McFadden said. "Advice to drivers is to slow down. You'll save money, time, and temper AND your life."

Our Weekly Sermon

The Desert Storehouse

Most people think the desert is barren and God-forsaken. But actually, the desert is the most fertile area in the world.

Have you ever stopped to think where the great civilizations of antiquity arose? In the fertile deserts! Egypt, for example, and Syria, Palestine, Iran, northern India, Arabia, the north coast of Africa—these were all arid lands. Thus there were the Incas in Peru, the Toltecs and Aztecs in Mexico. Great civilizations these, all reared on desert plateaus.

The desert is most fertile because it is a savings bank without any withdrawals. Plants need minerals just as we need meat and vegetables and fruits. Some of the desert lands of our West contain three times as much potash, six times as much magnesia, 14 times as much lime, as the humid lands of the East.

The desert is an inexhaustible storehouse of food for the plants of thousands of years to come. But this source of plant food cannot be used until it receives a supply of moisture. Then the desert will burst into profuse bloom.

To some people the Bible is like the desert, dry and uninviting, of no real value in their everyday lives. But many have discovered that if the Word of God is watered by faith, it yields precious treasures, including salvation, eternal life, and complete peace of mind. "For we are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus" (Galatians 3:26). We have access into all of God's gracious spiritual provisions by faith (Romans 5:2).

Thus we can enter into God's promise: "The Lord shall guide thee continually, and make fat thy soul in drought; and make fat thy bones; and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not" (Isaiah 58:12).

Fort Worth — Mid-July cattle and calf prices showed unexpected strength at Fort Worth Monday. Despite numbers well above the 100,000 mark around the major market circle, the largest run of the season at the Fort Worth market, prices were fully steady to strong all through the list.

Fort Worth's Monday offering of cattle and calves was around the 11,000 mark, and a top of $22 was paid for about 125 steers fed by Clyde McClung of Johnson County. It was the best price of the summer here.

Movement of both slaughter and stocker and feeder classes was active, and good and choice steers and yearlings ranged from $26 to $22, while common to medium sorts sold around $10 to $16. Fat cows drew $9.50 to $12.50, and canners and cutters sold from $6.50 to $9.50, some strong-weight cutters above that range. Bulls moved in the $9.50 to $13.50 bracket.

Good and choice slaughter

Falls were recent guests in the Cecil Carpenter and Loyd Fox homes.

calves bulked at $15 to $18, with common and medium sorts $11 to $14, and culls around $9 to $10. Good and choice stocker steer calves sold from $16 to $18.50, and steer yearlings sold from $17 down. Stocker cows trade continued dull in view of the hot dry weather.

In the special stocker and feeder sale for Angus and Angus crossbreds held at the Fort Worth market July 13, prices were strong to $2 higher and some of the tops sold around $2 above recent levels.

The quality was generally high in the offering and heavy buying power from Cornbelt areas was on hand for the event.

Top steer calves sold from $18 to $22, with top heifer calves at $15 to $17, with some of the champion heifers scoring $18.50 and $20. A total of 1,745 calves and yearlings grossed $154,668.19 to average $88.64 per head.

Favorable reports in the dressed meat trade along the Eastern seaboard, enabled salesmen at Fort Worth to press for higher prices Monday. Lambs and yearlings were strong to $1 higher, and tops were $2 above last week's close. Good and choice fat lambs were sold from $17 to $20, with medium and lower grades from $10 to $16. Stockers and feeders drew $13 to $16.

Fat yearling muttons sold from $14 to $27 and old ewes cashed at $4 to $5, with a few $5.50.

Hogs topped at $15.50 to $17.50 at Fort Worth Monday, or strong to 25 cents above last week's close. Sows sold from $13 down.

the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Tall baskets of white gladioli were blanketed by tall white candelabras holding long white decorated candles.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a lovely pale pink polished cotton dress, designed with a close fitting long torso style, and a bouffant skirt in street length. The bodice was trimmed with white embroidery and sequins. Her close fitting hat was of white lace and she wore pink slippers.

The bridal bouquet was of white French Carnations, showered with white satin streamers. She carried a white Bible, which was a gift from the groom. She carried out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue.

The bridesmaid, Yvonne Beavers, wore a white silk dress with the same long torso style as the bride. She wore a pink hat, and pink slippers. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink asters, with pink satin streamers.

The candle lighters, Misses Myra Steinsley and Jan Davis, wore dresses in pink and lavender polished cotton, designed with the long torso effect. They wore white hats and matching slippers. Their flowers were wristlets made of pink carnations and pink ribbon.

Gene Paul Pogue of Wadonia Falls served as best man at his sister's wedding.

Ushers were Dell Gower and Billy Foster, Durant.

The mother of the bride chose a lavender lace dress over pink, for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were pink, and her corsage was of pink asters.

The groom's mother was attired in beige and white and wore pink asters.

The pastor, Mrs. Curtis Casey of Truscott, aunt of the bride, provided appropriate wedding music, and for the lighting of the candles, she played "The Lord's Prayer." She carried out the bride's chosen colors and wore a lovely pink dress in polished cotton with matching accessories. Her flowers were pink asters.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, southwest of the city. Hurricane lamps brightened the walkway to an exquisite white Mexican hand-drawn cloth, over pink which featured a silver and crystal setting. Tall silver candelabras with pink decorated candles, from which streamers of pink satin ribbons extended to the center of the table, where white bridi cherubs and pink satin bows were clustered. The candelabra also held crystal bubble bowls, filled with pink asters, bells of Ireland, and pink net poufs.

The large white three tiered wedding cake decorated with pink roses, and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served by Mrs. Jay Reed, assisted by Miss Steinsley.

Pink fruit punch, in a crystal bowl, decorated with bells of Ireland, was poured by Mrs. Cecil Stewart, assisted by Miss Davis. The buffet held a large silver bowl, filled with pink roses and bells of Ireland, with pink net poufs and satin ribbons. Pink cherubs were also used with streamers of pink satin ribbon. Similar flowers were arranged of the china cabinet in a silver bowl.

A cluster of wedding bells hung from the dining room arch way. Pedestal baskets of white gladioli decorated the entrance of the two rooms. Pink roses and bells of Ireland decorated the living room.

Miss Janice Carroll, cousin of the bride, kept the guest register. In the receiving line were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Pogue, the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. J. Derryberry, and the honorees.

Traditional wedding music was played during the reception by Mrs. Casey and Miss Steinsley.

The bride was an honor graduate of the 1956 class of Durant High School. The bridegroom, who recently received his discharge, after serving two years in the armed forces, is employed at Ellis Appliance.

After a short wedding trip to points of interest in Oklahoma, the couple will reside in Durant. Out of town guests for the wedding and reception were Mrs. J. J. Derryberry, Calera; Mrs. G. W. Pogue, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Casey, Mrs. Pearl Hester and Miss Tina Casey, Truscott; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Patton and son, Danny, of Crowell; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carroll, Janice and Kenny, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. A.
