Crowell High Wins First District Football Championship Here Last Friday

BURK BULLDOGS LOSE 52 TO 7 IN LAST DIST. GAME

The first district football championship in Crowell history officially came to the Crowell High School Wildcats last Friday afternoon following their 52 to 7 victory over the Burk Burnett Bulldogs in the final District 4-B contest of the year.

The visitors gave the local team and fans a real scare in the first half. The first quarter was scoreless although the Wildcats came within ten yards of a touchdown twice in the early part of the game, but each time they were turned back by a stubborn Bulldog defense.

Crowell scored two touchdowns in the second quarter. After the second one, Burk came right back and scored and the half ended with Crowell leading by one touchdown, the score being 14 to 7.

Dick Todd, Crowell's ace halfback, was the outstanding star of the game. In scoring 7 of the 8 touchdowns for his team he hit center for 15 yards for the first; circled end for 51 yards for another; hit the line for 1, 6 and 7 yards in scoring three others; returned a punt for 55 yards for one and intercepted a pass and raced 35 yards to make the final touchdown. Todd also performed brilliantly on the defense. Raymond Gibson made Crowell's other touchdown, going over from the one-yard line in the last quarter.

A pass for 17 yards, Goodlet to Sims, gave Burk its only touchdown.

First Quarter
McKown took Wheeler's kick-off on the 6 and returned to the 37. On a series of line plays Todd gained 2 yards, and then 2 more. Horn picked up 4. Todd added 6. Whitfield circled left end for 16. McKown's pass was incomplete. Horn gained a yard. Todd's pass failed and a 5-yard penalty put them back to the 27.

Todd went around right end for 15 yards. After Todd had gained but 3 yards on 2 plays, placing the ball on the 9-yard line, Dunagan passed to Gafford over the goal line, Burk taking the ball on the 20.

Making only short gains, Wheeler punted out on Crowell's 42. Whitfield gained 18 yards around right end. Horn made 3. Todd added 8. Horn gained a yard. On the next play the pass from center failed to find a receiver rolled back to the Burk 42, where Todd picked up the ball and raced through and around the entire Burk team before he was stopped on the 13. Whitfield gained 3. Todd lost 3. Dunagan's pass to Todd out the ball on the 8. Todd's pass was incomplete on the fourth down and Burk took the ball on their 8 yard line.

Wheeler gained 9 yards and then 3. Sims made a yard. Carrying the ball 7 successive times, Wheeler advanced the ball to his 40. Goodlet's pass failed. Dunn dropped Young for a 2-yard loss. Another pass failed and Wheeler's punt was downed on Crowell's 38 as the first quarter ended. Crowell 0, Burk 0.

Second Quarter
Todd broke loose for 22 yards. Horn made 2. Todd started around left end, cut back through tackle and gained 23 yards, placing the ball on the 15. On the next play he went through center for a touchdown and then passed to Gafford for the extra point, making the score 7 to 0.

Goodlet returned Todd's kick-off from the 21 to the 33. Two line plays failed to gain, a pass was incomplete and Wheeler punted out on the 50. Wheeler stopped Todd for a yard loss. On the next play Todd swept around right end for 51 yards and a touchdown. Horn hit right tackle for the extra point. Crowell 14, Burk 0.

Burk Scores
Sims returned Todd's kick-off from the 13 to the 30. Wheeler took the ball to the 42 on 3 plays. Goodlet's pass to Sims gained 15 yards. Wheeler again carried the ball to the 37. 32, 31, 23, 22, 18 and 17 on successive line plays. With fourth down and 5 yards to go. Goodlet's beautiful pass was taken by Sims, who stepped the remaining few yards across the goal line. Wheeler kicked the extra point. Crowell 14, Burk 7.

Patton took Wheeler's kick-off on the 20 and returned 18 yards. On two line plays Todd took the ball to the 50, where Crowell was penalized 15 yards for holding. Todd gained 11 yards and then passed to Gafford for 24 yards, putting the ball on the Burk 30. Bentley stopped Todd for no gain. Dunagan's pass was incomplete. Todd gained 3 yards. In an attempt to pass on the 4th down, Todd lost 3 yards and Burk took the

Processing Tax Is Required When Hogs Are Killed and Sold

Farmers and others who slaughter hogs and sell the products to consumers without paying the processing tax are violating the Agricultural Adjustment Act regulations promulgated thereunder, according to Commissioner of Revenue Guy T. Helvering of Dallas in an announcement made on Nov. 27.

This provides that any person who slaughters hogs for market must file appropriate returns and pay the processing tax. The party who owns the hog at the time it is slaughtered is the one to pay the tax. A man may kill a hog produced by himself and consume it within his own household and under this condition is not subject to the processing tax. If the party in this case sells a portion of this hog he must pay a processing tax on that portion he sells.

A restaurant or hotel that slaughters its own hogs and feeds the pork to the boarders must pay a processing tax. The tax is 50c per cwt. from Nov. 5 to 30, $1.00 per cwt. Dec. 1 to 31, inclusive, $1.50 per cwt. Jan. 1 to 31, inclusive, $2.00 per cwt. after Feb. 1, 1934. This tax is based on live weight in all cases.

Heavy penalties are provided for violation of the law or evasion of the tax. Anyone affected by these regulations should confer with the collector of internal revenue for this district.

Over Top Three Times

Writing under date of Oct. 21 Frank Arp says: I have been over the top three times, so you know I know how it goes. Well, I just killed 12 the first day, so you know I got my part, and if they don't give up I intend to get some more.

You ought to see this country. It is just blown to pieces. The guns they shoot now, shoot twenty miles, so you know they do some damage. In the first battle I was in, the bullets cut my pack-cover off my back, so you know I was in a close place. Another boy and I killed 21, and I got 12. We were in some hot places. I got one old captain in the German army and got me a German pistol. The Germans are on the run now and I don't think the war will last much longer. With lots of love, Sergt. Frank B. Arp.

Sale of Christmas Seals Begins Dec. 1

Many residents of this county will receive in their mail on December first a supply of Christmas seals sent by the Texas Tuberculosis Association in its annual seal sale to raise funds for the campaign against tuberculosis.

For the twenty-fifth consecutive year the letter enclosed with the seals will be signed by H. A. Wroe, who has served as treasurer of the Texas Tuberculosis Association since its organization in 1908.

Mr. Wroe is well known in banking circles throughout the state. He is chairman of the board of directors of the American National Bank, Austin, and has held office in the Texas Bankers Association.

Commenting on the general outlook for this year's seal sale Mr. Wroe said: "Raw silk is again moving across the country by water and rail, telephone installations show an increase, the Michigan-Ohio football game had a gate receipt of $150,000, the New York Federal Reserve District reports a 15 1/2 percent gain for wholesale trade in New York State; chain stores particularly increased business in nearly all lines throughout the country.

"Business is definitely on the upgrade. Unemployment is decreasing, the public is feeling better, happier, and is spending more money, all of which forecasts a seal sale that will insure a needed expansion in 1934 of the effective, year-round program of the Texas Tuberculosis Association."

As we approach another Thanksgiving Day when each and every one should feel grateful for all that has been provided for our common good.

We especially are grateful for your loyalty to us and we give thanks for the opportunity of serving you.

One of the most important things of life is life itself, and to be able to live a life of service to our fellowman, and as we cross the threshold of this, another year, we do so in a spirit of thankfulness.

Let us accept life cheerfully and hopefully. If we do this, each day will be a day of Thanksgiving.

Thankfully yours,

WRONGFUL IMPRISONMENT

In spite of the many legal safeguards which surround those accused of crime, a good many innocent persons suffer imprisonment, and even death, as the result of perjured and otherwise unreliable evidence.

There is the case of William Wilson of Alabama, convicted in 1914 on the charge of murdering his wife and given a life sentence. After he had served more than three years the supposedly murdered woman was found living in Indiana, and Wilson was pardoned.

Another victim, J. B. Brown of Florida, served 12 years for a murder of which he was finally found entirely innocent. The state gave him $2,412 in installments, or about $200 for each year in prison.

Mississippi was not quite so liberal with Moses Walker, who served five years under a false charge, but awarded him $500 upon his release.

These payments by the states concerned were made through the passage of special bills by their legislatures. Two states, North Dakota and Wisconsin, have permanent laws providing compensation for wrongful imprisonment.

It is hard to imagine anything more tragic than the punishment of an innocent person. When such unhappiness occurs, it seems that compensation should be made a fixed public policy in every state. No money payment can really compensate for the mental and physical suffering experienced by the victim of false imprisonment, but it would at least assist him in making a new start in life.

SCOTLAND YARD

For more than a century the police force of London, operating from headquarters in famed Scotland Yard, has held an enviable record for efficiency, although in its early years the organization was far from popular with the public.

Owing to the unsatisfactory state of law observance at that time, Sir Robert Peel in 1828 took steps toward the organization of an effective police force for the British metropolis. Its first headquarters at Scotland Yard was furnished with only a table and two chairs, but its facilities were rapidly expanded and the force was soon recruited to about 3,000 men.

Feeling that the new powers conferred upon the police constituted an undue restriction of liberty, hooting crowds reviled the new force, calling its members obnoxious names, including those of "Bobbies" and "Peelers," which have persisted to this day. These names, of course, were derived from that of their sponsor, Robert Peel.

As an illustration of the effectiveness of the present force it has been pointed out that in a recent year only 15,662 crimes were reported in London, while 333,083 were noted in the less populous city of New York. The efficiency of Scotland Yard detectives is proverbial, and comparatively few London murderers go unpunished.

This probably accounts for the fact that while the yearly homicide rate in London is only 1 in 100,000, in several cities of the United States it runs more than 50 times as high, and averages more than 10 times as high in the country at large.

BRUCE BARTON

Writes of "THE MASTER EXECUTIVE"

Supplying a week-to-week inspiration for the heavy burdened who will find every human trial paralleled in the experiences of "The Man Nobody Knows."

THE GREATEST TRIBUTE

A few minutes later Jesus returned to the garden to find the disciples sleeping. Even so short a vigil had proved too heavy for their feebleness. In the hour of his greatest need there was no help for them. Again he went away, his spirit torn with agony. He was young, thirty-three; he did not want to die. He cried out to God that the cup might pass from his lips; that he might have time to sweep away the charges of blasphemy and evil which his enemies had heaped upon him. So he prayed, and coming back, found them again asleep.

Bruce Barton

It was the victory chant after the battle. With the calm peace of the conqueror he could make ready for the end. He had not long to wait. The soldiers were already at the entrance of the garden. He waited until the armed men stumbled into his presence and then, rising, stood before them.

"Whom seek ye," he demanded. Startled, awed, they could only mumble his name. "Jesus of Nazareth."

"I am he," he answered proudly. They had expected angry denunciation. But such calm, such dignity were beyond the boundaries of their experience. Involuntarily they gave way and, rough veterans as they were, some of them "fell to the ground." It was a supreme tribute.

Then, Jesus, thought rebounding to those who had shared his triumphs and his sacrifices through the years, "If therefore ye seek me let these others go their way."

But he had no need to think of the disciples' safety. Already they had made their swift escape—the last of the deserters—First his home town, then his best friend, then his relatives, then the crowd, finally the eleven.

He was left to face his faith alone. On a barren hill beyond the city walls they nailed his perfect body to the cross. Two robbers were crucified with him.

It was over. And yet—"Jesus." It was the voice of one of the robbers. "Jesus," he says painfully, "remember me, when thou comest into thy kingdom!"

Read that, oh men, and bow your heads. There have been leaders who could call forth enthusiasm when their fortunes ran high. But Jesus, when his enemies had done their worst, so bore himself that a crucified felon looked into his dying eyes and saluted him as king.

With The Home Demonstration Agent

Childress Demonstration

The packing house that "utilizes everything about a hog except the squeal" has nothing on the group from this district who staged a pork killing, cutting, curing, and canning demonstration in Childress on November 21 and 22. Even the squeal served its purpose by attracting the attention of the passers-by to what was going on. Miss Ruby Mashburn, District Home Demonstration Agent, with the assistance of three farm and three home agents conducted the demonstration.

Over one hundred and fifty men and an equal number of women watched the demonstration the two days. The first day the farm agents, V. E. Hafner of Childress County, J. O. Stovall of Collingsworth County, and Cameron Siddall of Hardeman County demonstrated the killing and cleaning of three hogs, emphasizing the necessity of thorough bleeding, proper scalding, and a number of "tricks of the trade" such as the use of a hook for removing the hoof from the toes and a hairpin for cleaning sausage casings.

The next day was spent in cutting the meat and putting it into cure "the A. & M. way." The home agents, Miss Mashburn, Helen Cowan, Childress County, Elsie Phillips of Hardeman County, and Myrna Holman of Foard County, demonstrated the canning of pork products including roasts, sausage, pork chops, head cheese, mince meat, scrapple liver paste, pickled pigs feet, and soup stock. Special emphasis was put on the proper searing of the meat in order to retain all of the juices and thus make a more desirable product, and on the importance of thorough pre-heating. All roasts, steaks, liver paste, and other products that were not packed boiling hot, were placed in the cans, left unsealed, and heated in the pressure cooker at 15 pounds pressure for 10 to 15 minutes for No. 3 cans and 5 to 10 for No. 2 cans. They were then removed and sealed while still hot and processed. These may be heated through in the oven if care is taken to prevent the meat from drying out too much while heating. It requires about forty-five minutes to heat the meat through to the center.

The farm and home agents of Foard County are scheduling similar demonstrations in the various communities. Everyone is urged to attend these meetings and then prepare their products for the meat shows in Crowell, Wichita Falls, and Lubbock early next spring. Both canned and cured meats will be featured in these shows. Prizes will be offered for most of the canned products mentioned above.

Mrs. Shaw's Pantry

Thanksgiving might be observed in the old fashioned way with a large variety of meats, fowls, vegetables, and fruits with all the trimmings. Mrs. Z. D. Shaw, pantry demonstrator for the Ayersville Home Demonstration club, has in her cellar and garden the materials necessary for such a celebration. In her spring and fall gardens she planted twenty-nine varieties of vegetables and has carrots, lettuce, shallots, turnips, radishes, squash and mustard still available for use fresh. Mrs. Shaw made a well balanced food budget for her family of eight and has conserved enough food to more than meet the needs of eight families. She has conserved 1100 quarts which she has canned and stored in her cellar. When one considers these figures together with over 3500 pounds of vegetables used fresh, one wonders what might have been done had weather conditions been more favorable and facilities been available for irrigation.

Proclaim good will and good health to all by using a Christmas Seal on every package and letter.

"Beware of Common Colds," Says State Health Dept. Head

Austin, Texas.—"Beware of the common cold," Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, in a statement issued here today, cautioned the people of the State of Texas. "This is the season of the year when colds are most prevalent, and their consequences more far-reaching. The organism causing the disease is not known, but every individual is acquainted with its effects."

Not a little of the susceptibility of catching colds can be overcome by a gradual acclimating to lowering temperatures and inclement outdoor weather. This hardening should begin now, and consist of regular exercise—walking is good—to be continued throughout the winter, in weather of every kind. Some things to avoid are wet stockings, drying on one's feet; over-heavy clothing; overheated rooms.

There are two broad principles to observe in the treatment and prevention of colds. The first says: "Let the patient keep to himself, and keep his oral and nasal discharges to himself." This includes indiscriminate spitting, kissing, and other forms of contact.

The second principle requires doing away with coddling and over-protection of the body against the elements. "The cold is a common disease," Dr. Brown said. "But every cold is important enough to justify careful attention and treatment for its immediate cure. Death-dealing pneumonia and tuberculosis may begin with colds that did not receive care and attention.

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 3.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him. . . (Genesis 1:27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The infinite has no beginning. This word beginning is employed to signify the only, that is, the eternal verity and unity of God and man, including the universe. The creative Principle—Life, Truth, and Love—is God. The universe reflects God. There is but one creator and one creation" (page 502).

"Over-indulgence of devitalizing stimulants, such as alcohol, tobacco, tea, and coffee do much to lower the resistance to colds."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

Paul in Ephesus

Lesson for Dec. 3rd. Acts 19 and 20

Golden Text: Matthew 5:10

Ephesus was the capital of the Roman province of Asia. An important center of commerce, art, and religion, its crowning glory was the famous temple of Diana, one of the seven wonders of the world. In this pagan community, notorious for its faith in magic, Paul carried on a long, eventful ministry. At first he taught in the synagogue, but because of opposition he withdrew to the school of Tyrannus and there taught and preached for two years. So favored was he by God's Spirit that he was able to perform miracles of healing and exorcism.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Naturally enough, when certain Jewish exorcists learned of Paul's success in casting out evil spirits, they were encouraged to imitate him. The consequences, however, were so disastrous that the Ephesians became panicky, and a very valuable assortment of books on magical arts was publicly burned. The Christian faith, as a result, gained in prestige and influence, spreading rapidly throughout the whole province. So many converts indeed won to Christ that the tradesmen who held silver shrines of Diana suffered a serious loss of business, and therefore, in alarm, organized a noisy and turbulent demonstration against the apostle.

But to get a complete picture one must supplement the account in Acts by a study of the references to Ephesus in Paul's letters. Here we learn that he was prostrated by a severe illness (2-Cor. 1:8); that he apparently was condemned to a combat with wild beasts in the arena (1 Cor. 15:32), and endured other painful trials (1 Cor. 4:11). His mission was a success but he himself, as in other places, suffered greatly.

Yet how unconquerable is his spirit! Read carefully his appealing farewell address, in Acts 20, to the Ephesian elders. Here we feel the contagion of one of the bravest, noblest, and tenderest of men.

Paul had now labored in four of the provinces of the Roman empire. He now journeys to Jerusalem, bearing a collection for the poor.

When Mrs. Agnew of Chicago was warned by a policeman to be less noisy, she struck him over the head with a large kettle.

Charging that his wife served him nothing but bacon and eggs until he couldn't even look at them, let alone eat them, Clint O. Trout, of Hanford, Calif., sought a divorce.

Fifty dollar fines and 30-day sentences were given Mabel E. Wright and James Edward of land on conviction of operating confidence game—on a man John Swindler.

Grief-stricken because of the loss of her pet cat, Mrs. Mabel E. of Denver, committed suicide.

Frau Augusta Gurovosh of burg, who died at the age of 85, outlived eight husbands.

WHISPERING ROCK

by JOHN LEBAR

Twentieth Installment

PSIS: Ruth Warren, born and raised in an Eastern city, is willed a fourth interest in the Dead Lantern ranch in Arizona. With her husband, who is in poor health, and their small son, David, she comes to Arizona to take up the ranch. Ruth's brother, reported killed in Mexico, had left off. They had a Dead Lantern, 85 miles from the nearest railroad, with the help of Charley Thane, neighboring rancher who also carries the rural mail. At the ranch they find the owner, Snavelly, and a huge woman, Ann, who greet them suspiciously. As they trudge the 5 miles to the ranch gate to the house they see a huge rock in a gulch where a man whispers, "Go back. Go back." The husband caught in a rain after their arrival contracts pneumonia and passes away before any aid can be brought. Ruth, helpless and without friends, attempts to carry on but is balked at every turn by the crafty and cunning Snavelly. Despite obstacles, Ruth gives notes on her interest in purchase cattle, assisted by Old Charley Thane, his son, Will Thane. A Mexican has been hired to assist with the livestock. Snavelly, with "liver fever" . . . and says he has powder for the water to cure disease. Ruth's whole future is made on the development of the land to meet her notes following the first round-up.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I'm so sorry," whined the boy, "but I just can't open it."

"Well, why can't you open it—your brother?"

"I'm taking a bath," said the voice from the house.

"It was too much. Old Charley had the sole of his boot against the door with all the force in his hand. The door flew inward and Will stepped to the threshold. He was right in, Dad—I knew you'd come today."

Charley sat down slowly on the porch, utterly heedless of the basin. After a time he murmured, "If you was only ten years old again for about half an hour."

After he had eaten Will's dinner, the old man was somewhat tired. "Will, you ornery pup, and if this ain't the happiest day I've seen! And you've already been a month. You son-of-a-gun—get up on your homestead. And see all through with real estate?"

"I'll jump through, Dad. Turned everything I had into cash a month ago. Cash'll come in handy when we get that section south of us here picked up some more stock."

Charley nodded happily. "I know you'd be coming back in these days. Yet what have you been doing here the last month? Working most of the day, I reckon. I never saw you so fat an' glossy."

Ann slowly awoke and saw that it was still dark. She wondered idly if Ann was moving about in the night so late, and was luxuriatingly going back to sleep when she felt the thump of boots, as Snavelly came from his room and walked to her house to the kitchen. Suddenly Ruth knew that it was morning. The long-awaited morning when the round-up was to begin. As she and struggled into her riding clothes, the great weight of anxiety had lifted during her sleep. The round-up would there be enough cattle?

In the two months since she had tentatively placed poison in the troughs no new harm had come to the cattle—but, were they going to meet her note? Her desire to find the answer to this question increased with each day but she could not estimate the number of animals scattered over the range. She could not give an intelligent guess about weights and quality and price. She only knew that she had lost more than a tenth of the value of her note.

Then, too, if her deal with Parker was to do the ranch any good, only the poorest of the cattle could be sold. The rest of the stock and fine must remain for the improvement of the ranch. Ruth could not see much advantage in selling all the stock to keep the man Witherspoon from foreclosing on the note—what was there in three-quarters' interest in a cattle ranch with no money—or, in a ranch which only brought in fifteen hundred dollars a year?

She left David sleeping and went to the dining room. She and David breakfasted silently by the light, then went to the corral. It was just light enough at the dawn to distinguish one horse from another. The six Mexican cowboys were waiting by the gate, each with a cigarette in his mouth and a rope coiled over his arm. Snavelly invited to each of the men the horse to ride for the day. The Mexican entered the corral, caught his horse, and led it to the saddle shed. Snavelly and the Mexicans went into the north pasture. About five miles from the ranch house they gave each man his orders, and rode away to the west. To Ruth he had said nothing, nor could she understand much of what Snavelly had told the Mexicans. She stayed where she was, on a hilltop. The men, she supposed, would ride west and distribute themselves along the line fence as it wound through the mountains. They would then all start eastward driving the cattle before them.

She waited two hours on that hilltop before she saw the first cattle coming. Two miles to the north an ant-like string moved over a ridge and disappeared into a ravine. A moment later, and much nearer, she saw a small bunch of animals emerge from the underbrush followed by a man on horseback—Snavelly, she thought. By the time the first two bunches were opposite her, three more were in sight and she turned her own horse eastward. She soon came upon three cows, each with a calf, and drove them before her. Just where she was driving them she had no very clear idea, but she could see that the other riders were converging toward a common point and governed herself accordingly. This point proved to be a level piece of ground about half a mile from the eastern end of the pasture.

The nine small streams of cattle merged, flowed on, and were thrown into an eddying pool by the circling riders. Two of the men left at once, looting to a ravine where mesquite was plentiful. When they returned dragging firewood at the end of their riatas, the cattle were in a close-packed bunch, and the remaining riders sat their horses at intervals around the circle. Snavelly, Alfredo, Don Francisco and one of the extra Mexicans dismounted, kicked off their chaps, and building a fire, laid on the branding irons; Ruth and three Mexican keeping the herd together, meanwhile.

When the irons were hot Snavelly motioned to the grizzled old Juan, who left Ruth's side of the herd and advanced into the center of the milling cattle, swinging his riata.

Ruth had her hands full. With only three riders to keep the herd in place many of the cattle decided to break away. Every ten seconds, it seemed to Ruth, some animal on her side of the herd would bolt. She had abandoned old Brisket for such active riding in favor of Boots, a springy young horse with an alert mind and a thorough knowledge of the cow business. He enjoyed running after the animals that broke from the herd—Ruth rather suspected him of egging them on.

Such riding is exhilarating sport for half an hour—rather like the fastest moments of a fast polo game, but in three hours it can be wearing.

When all the calves had been branded the herd was driven to the holding pasture, a small enclosure of one thousand acres. As the cattle passed through the gate the counting began: one man counted calves; another, yearlings; another, grown steers, and a fourth, cows.

The count was over and the riders were returning to the home ranch when Ruth rode up beside Snavelly. "Well, how does it look?" "How does what look?" replied Snavelly.

"I mean—do you think we're going to have enough? Weren't there a good many calves and young steers in that bunch?"

"Can't tell nothin' yet," said Snavelly, gruffly. "I don't know if you're goin' to have enough or not. As a guess I'd say you ain't."

"I have it all figured out just how many we—"

"You figured, I reckon, that a quarter of the sale don't apply on that fool note, didn't you?"

Ruth drew herself straight in the saddle. "Certainly, Mr. Snavelly!"

She reined in her horse and dropped back between Alfredo and old Don Francisco. The Mexicans pulled their horses aside to make room and with many smiles and chuckles began talking to her. They loved to hear her broken Spanish. By the time the company reached the saddle shed, Ruth had learned that Don Francisco considered the cattle large and fat and the calves plentiful. He also succeeded in conveying to her the results of the count.

That evening Ruth studied these figures in connection with others she had gathered in her conversation with Old Charley and her studies of the cattle raisers' magazine. But she went to sleep as undecided as ever. The round-up would take four days and if on each of these days the count ran as high as one the first, and if on one of these days about one hundred extra animals should appear, Ruth knew that she would meet her note. Provided, of course, that Old Charley had guessed shrewdly about the prices the cattle buyers would be paying . . .

Ruth never knew how she got through the fourth and last day of the round-up. Twice, after the cattle had been gathered and the branding begun, she left the herd and rode into the foothills. But neither time did she see a single overlooked cow or calf.

She stood biting her lower lip and pulling at her saddle strings as the counting began. There simply must be more than one hundred and twenty head, she kept telling herself—there just had to be!

As the last of her cattle passed through the gate, the counters drew together and Ruth rode up. She listened as each man gave his count to Snavelly and wrote the figures in her notebook with trembling fingers: 32, 15, 44! Twice she added the column before she was sure that the total was 151. Then with a slap she whirled her horse and galloped toward the ranch house. Her cheeks were wet and she sang a throaty chant to the pounding hoofs: "I've won! I've won! I've won! I've won!"

That evening after supper while David and Ann were making the chickens secure against skunks and coyotes, Ruth put on a gown she had not worn for more than a year, and did her hair three times.

When David came in he asked, "Why are you dressed up so, beautiful, Mama?"

"Oh, just because," Ruth did not quite know, herself; but she was convinced it was the thing to do. "I think we ought to celebrate once in awhile, don't you, David?"

"Like a party?"

"Rather, yes."

"Mama! Let's go down to the barn—they've got a nice fire there and Alfredo's playing music. Shall we? Come on!"

Ruth grasped the boy's arm and led him guiltily out of the house by way of the back porch. Snavelly was in the sitting room.

The Mexicans sat around their fire, talking, laughing and singing, as the mood and the ever-entwining strings of Alfredo's guitar persuaded them. When they saw Ruth, wonder shone from their faces, then admiration and pleasure. They all sprang to their feet, but Don Francisco was first.

The round-up has been good. I think we will have a celebration.

Ruth smiled, went to the fire and spread her hands. "It is cold," she said in matter-of-fact Spanish. Immediately Francisco bowed her welcome and hurried to the barn for one of his rawhide chairs. But when he returned Ruth had seated herself on the ground next to Magda. She was not going to be the only one of the group who sat on a chair, gown or no gown.

Gradually, it became apparent to the Mexicans that the Senora Ruth and her son had merely come to the fire for warmth and company. Delightfully, they assured each other of this by smiles and nods. Little Magda sat closer to Ruth, and made her own importance felt among her companions by speaking exclusively in English, thereafter.

Suddenly Ruth had an inspiration, and with many pauses and appeals to Magda for the right word she made a speech: "My friends, we have worked and gathered many cattle. The round-up has been good. I think we will have a celebration—a fiesta grande. Some of you have friends in Palo Verde—bring them and the mothers and children. On Saturday we will cook a cow."

This-That, Etc.

By Typo Wrighter

"No way to beat you, no way to cheat you. It's all fair and square, so just step right up folks and try to out-guess me." Oh, no—those carnival buzzards here last week wouldn't beat or cheat anybody, nevertheless they carried away hundreds and hundreds of hard-earned dollars in working their skin games on the "suckers."

One local man was stuck for $110; several for upwards of $50 and no telling how many for three, five, ten and fifteen dollar shots. Some folks say that if the suckers are that ignorant, they got what was coming to them. They need to be taught a lesson, no doubt, but we insist that they need protection, for that type of education costs entirely too much and not only the "suckers," but the community as a whole suffers.

We can see no reason whatsoever why another carnival should ever again be permitted to come to Crowell. The best of them are bad enough, but the one here last week was without a doubt the most vicious affair that we have ever seen thrown on the public.

While possibly the smallest in amusement and riding devices of any carnival that has ever hit the old home town, yet in population, we believe this one was the biggest of all. We saw as many as three "fronts," "come on men" or whatever you may call those low forms of humanity, operating in co-operation with one skin game operator and they were putting their stuff over in such grand style that the "suckers" thought all of them were his pals. Every stand had plenty of "fronts" and that is why this carnival had the greatest number of people connected with it of any that we have seen operated in Crowell.

After seeing that damnable bunch fleece old men, boys and others that ought to know better out of every dollar on their person, we are convinced that "rambling" is as respectable, when compared to last week's operations, as a parlor is to a hog pen.

Those birds had a way of taking a person's money before he realized what had happened. They certainly had their activities organized in the most vicious and efficient manner and the best way we know of protecting our own community from further activities of this type is simply to forbid carnivals from using our local city as their happy hunting ground.

If we simply must have carnivals, then let them be confined to local talent. We have had these kind before and they have provided more wholesome entertainment and lasting good than all of the road carnivals that have ever been here.

Thanksgiving

At this, another Thanksgiving season, we are prompted to think over some of the things for which we should be thankful and here they are:

We are Thankful:

For the best cotton crop in years and the general upward trend in business.

For a President who has the real qualities of a leader and who is unafraid to take a definite stand on national questions.

To superintendents Kemp, Hancock and Westerfield of Seymour, Chillicothe and Burkburnett, respectively, for their fair play and broad-mindedness in dealing with the situation when Olney questioned the eligibility of a Crowell football player.

For that which has made it possible to have regular meals, an extra shirt and that faithful old patch that has held the seat of our trousers together.

That the center-parking and double-parking situation on main street is improved over one thousand per cent over what it was during the summer.

For our new subscribers and those who have renewed their subscriptions and for the co-operation in general that made it possible for your home newspaper to win second prize for general excellence at the Dallas Fair.

To the advertisers in The News. They have not only made the existence of a newspaper in Foard County possible, but have also provided a distinct service to the people of this section by telling them of ways to save money and by informing them of the latest features, etc., of products and services that can be secured here.

For those who have given so freely of their time and effort in the interest of worthy causes without remuneration for same. If it were not for the people who live for their community, the community would not be worth living in.

To Dick Todd for the thrills that he has given in both basketball and football.

That we live in a town that has a high school with such winning ways. Think of it—a state championship, quarter-finalist honors in basketball in the state tourney at Austin, and nine district championships since 1930 in athletic and dramatic team competition.

For the Civil Works Administration that has put great numbers of unemployed back to work through its projects.

For the prospect of witnessing basketball games and other local events in one of the finest gymnasiums in West Texas.

For our new oil field and the developments that it has started.

For Bill Dunagan's wonderful passes and the remarkable ability of Jim Riley Gafford and Paul McInerney in catching same to give Crowell that longed-for victory over Goff.

And in conclusion, we appeal to all of our fellow citizens to ask forgiveness for not being thankful for the hundreds of other things for which we should be thankful.
