Rain Monday Night Further Delays Harvesting of 1957 Wheat Crop

Rain Monday night over the county caused further delay in the harvesting of the wheat crop which had already suffered heavy damage from excessive rains of the past few weeks.

Precipitation Monday night in Crowell measured .23 inch, but it was considerably heavier in the Vivian community, measuring from one to three inches.

Combines began to run again Monday afternoon and it is conservatively estimated that the harvest is seventy-five per cent complete. A shortage of combines has also delayed cutting of some fields.

Wednesday at noon, elevators of the county had received approximately 575,000 bushels.

Rain in the Truscott community Monday night amounted to 1.3 inches with just .2 inch in the Gilliland community. Combines were running in the Gilliland community Tuesday and Wednesday morning, but no harvesting had been done in the Truscott community up to Wednesday at noon. It was estimated that the Farmers Elevator at Truscott had received approximately 100,000 bushels up to Wednesday morning.

Thalia Pioneer Observes 90th Birthday June 12

Mrs. M. E. Moore, resident of the Thalia community for the past 67 years, observed her 90th birthday Wednesday of last week, June 12, at her farm home near Thalia.

Native of Kentucky, she was born Minerva Ann Wheatley June 12, 1867, at Texas, Kentucky. She was left an orphan at an early age and was reared in the home of a Baptist minister. She joined the Bethlehem Baptist Church in her home town at the age of 12.

In 1890, she came to what is now the Thalia community to the home of her sister, the late Mrs. David C. Nowlin. She moved her membership to the Thalia Baptist Church and has been a member since. Each year, on Mother's Day, the church gives her a flower honoring her as the oldest mother in the church.

On July 19, 1891, she was married to Marritt E. Moore. They established a home in the Thalia community, and but for a few years they lived over the line in Wilbarger County, she has spent her entire married life in the Thalia community. Mr. Moore died in 1936.

Mrs. Moore recalls her preparations to come to Texas and her impressions of the open range. Thalia was not to be found on the map, but after a long search, they found Vernon, Texas, on the map. When she arrived in Vernon, there was no one there to meet her, and a man with a horse and buggy was hired to bring her to Thalia. The driver drove up to a "Kentucky potato hill" and a man came out of the ground and the driver asked him where Mr. Nowlin lived. She looked at the mesquite trees and thought that was the largest worn-out fruit tree orchard she had ever seen.

Mrs. Moore recalls being in Vernon when the Indians came there to trade. She also recalls the panic of 1894, and will never forget the large amount of potatoes she and the family ate while Mr. Moore was out working with the thrasher for $1.00 per day.

Mrs. Moore has three children: Bill, Jim and Miss Odessa, of Thalia; three grandchildren and four great grandchildren; one sister in Louisville, Ky., and a brother-in-law, H. A. Moore, of Mineral Wells.

Rialto Theatre to Close June 29th

The Rialto Theatre in Crowell will be discontinued at the close of business on Saturday, June 29, according to a letter received by the manager, Mrs. Alyone Graham, from Boyd F. Scott of the Frontier Theatres, Inc., in Dallas. Part of Mr. Scott's letter follows:

"After much discussion and figuring, it has been decided to close the Rialto Theatre in Crowell at the close of business on Saturday, June 29.
This decision was reached because of business conditions and the cost of operating the theatre, most of which is beyond your control. You have done a fine job in managing the theatre and we want you to know your efforts are appreciated."
"It is our feeling that any small town without a theatre loses other business to surrounding towns. If, in your conversations with some of the business people in Crowell pertaining to the closing, any of them show an interest in either buying or leasing the theatre, we will be happy to talk with them."

FISTS FLY—BUT IT'S BASEBALL—The baseball diamond of the big leagues looked more like a fight arena this past week as numerous cases of tempers, jittery batters and tense pitchers, came to blows. Shown above is the fight which involved Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale after he hit batter Johnny Logan with a ball. Right after they came to blows the Brave's batter teammate, Eddie Mathews, raced into the fight and, with his right arm cocked, sprawled pitcher Drysdale. Heavy fines have been assessed against a number of big-leaguers who have been involved in the numerous scrap.

are planning to have two meetings next week. On Monday morning at 9:30 in my home. Mrs. J. G. Adecock and Mrs. R. Brown from the Trust Home Demonstration Club will be here to give a demonstration on Drying and Dying Flowers for Winter Bouquets. This meeting will begin at 10 a. m. The leaders will not give this demonstration back to their clubs until September, but we are having the training meeting early so that the leaders can begin collecting their supplies now.

Our recipe this week is:
Strawberry Cheese Salad
 1 pkg. strawberry gelatine, 1 cup boiling water, one 10-ounce pkg. frozen strawberries, two 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese, 1/2 cup chopped nuts.
 Dissolve gelatine in boiling water.

er; add thawed strawberries; set aside to cool. Soften cream cheese with a little cream, milk or mayonnaise; shape into balls and roll in chopped nuts. Place balls of cheese in mold and pour cooled strawberry mixture over cheese. Place in refrigerator to congeal. Serve on lettuce leaf with salad dressing.

DEDICATED DOLLARS
 Every minute of the day ticks off more than 300 oil-industry dollars spent on research and development—well over 160 million dollars a year. Out of each research dollar spent by the industry, 52 cents goes to develop new products and processes, 37 percent to improve existing ones, and 11 cents to fundamental research.

TAXES FOR TEXAS
 One bona-fide "Texas oil-lionaire" who never risks "going broke" in the chancy and complicated game of oil-finding is the state. The petroleum industry picks up almost one-third of the state tax bill every year—well over 188 million dollars. This is over one-half of all taxes the state collects from industry. Much of the money goes to build and improve Texas public schools which, over the years, have benefited to the extent of some 228 million dollars—$30 million in 1955 alone. From 1924 through 1955, the university fund received more than $226 million in payments for leases, bonuses, and royalties.

Rep. W. S. Heatly Speaks to Lions and Rotarians

Portions of Rep. W. S. Heatly's talk to the Rotary and Lions Clubs last week follow:

"In endeavoring to present to you the happenings during the 55th Legislature, I am certainly not going to say that the 55th Legislature cured all ills. However, we endeavored to do what we thought was best in our judgment during the time we were in session, and I think that we did a lot toward bringing our State up to date in many things. Practically everything that is done cost money and consequently we certainly have to keep in mind the cost of every bill when voting on it."

"The appropriation bill was some $225 million higher for the ensuing bi-annual, than the current appropriation bill."

"The State of Texas now has an annual budget of slightly over a billion dollars. The increase is brought about because of the increased demands for more services by all agencies of the government as well as the public. I will endeavor to enumerate some of the items that this new money goes for."

John Selmon, rugged and venerable foreman of the SMS Flat Top Ranch, is one of the familiar sights at the Texas Cowboy Reunion in Stamford each year as he leads the grand entry into the arena when the band strikes up the music to signify the start of another exciting enactment of the thrilling cowboy events. With hands calloused by many years of hard work and minus a thumb and little finger on one of them, John is still very much at home on a horse (which may account for the slim waistline revealed by his blue jeans and western shirts.) He was selected the most typical cowboy under 55 years old the first time in 1932 and would easily be identified as such even now on the sidewalks of New York or the streets of Paris, despite the additional years.

John and his boss, W. G. Swenson, (called Willie by many who knew him when), general manager of the SMS ranches and president of the Texas Cowboy Reunion, are the only two persons who have been actively associated each year with the reunion since its origin in 1930. Both will be on hand July 2, 3, and 4 for this year's performances.

DOWN TO THE SEA

An oil-carrying supertanker was launched recently, by far the largest tanker ever constructed in the country. Second only to the liner, United States, in over-all dimensions, the 737-foot World Beauty can carry 16,500,000 gallons of oil and oil products. This load equals that of three of the oil-carrying giants of World War II, and would fill a 17-mile train of present-day railroad tank cars. The World Beauty and her sister supertankers reduce operating costs and increase the speed of delivery.

The movement of livestock to market at Fort Worth, and all around the major marketing circle, was of more moderate proportions. All species were in smaller numbers than last week, and well behind a year earlier.

Preoccupation of farmers with field work was given a major part of the credit for the moderate movement.

Good and choice fed steers and yearlings cashed at $20 to $23.50, while common and medium slaughter kinds sold from $12 to $19.

Good and choice stocker steer calves cashed at $20 to $24, and heifer calves ranged mostly from $21 down.

A check of the prevailing prices at Fort Worth at mid-June a year ago reveals sharp improvement on cattle and calves.

Vaccinate Before Too Late!

Millions of Americans today are looking a gift straight in the mouth. The gift we mean is the Salk vaccine against paralytic polio.

Year after year we have seen the polio season come. We watched its approach with dread. When it was heaved a sigh of relief.

During the epidemics we saw how the virus killed and paralyzed some children and their mothers and fathers. Lots of us worried about the medical science could ever be eliminated from our society. But polio . . . ?

Then on Tuesday, April 1955, at a momentous meeting at the University of Michigan we were told that Dr. Jonas Salk had handed us a gift of real power against polio.

What have we done then? Well, as of May 1955, more than half of all Americans under 40 are still unvaccinated.

Obviously, polio isn't licked as long as so many remain unvaccinated. Let's not ignore this gift beyond price. Now—in these remaining months before the summer "polio season"—get everybody up to 40 vaccinated!

Polio Vaccination Program

Adults line up for their polio vaccine shots. An emergency mass vaccination program against polio is under way today in thousands of communities across the country in a race to beat the crippling 1957 epidemic. The emergency note was given the program as latest statistics show that 58,000,000 persons under 40—potential carriers of the disease—were without any Salk vaccine protection at all. A call to action was made by the American Medical Association, the U.S. Public Health Service, and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Three organizations have joined out advisory procedures involving millions more under 40. The call for inoculation in the offices of private physicians and in public clinics, depending on local planning across the country. Officials of the A.M.A. recently urged state, city and county medical societies to take the leadership in the mass vaccination drive. Dr. Dwight H. Murray, A.M.A. president, said: "I implore you and urge you to do everything possible to get your state and county medical societies behind the A.M.A. polio campaign to encourage everyone to be vaccinated up to the age of 40."

These Forty Years!

Forty years ago, in June of 1917, the Humble Company received its charter from the State of Texas.

The Company was formed through a merger of the properties of a number of independent oil operators. Its founding brought together a remarkable group of men who occupy an important place in the annals of the oil industry:

R. S. Sterling and his brother, F. P. Sterling, the principal organizers of Humble Oil Company from which the present company acquired its name; W. S. Farish and R. L. Blaffer composing Blaffer and Farish; H. C. Wiess with assets from Paraffine and Reliance Oil Companies; Walter W. Fondren and C. B. Goddard, producers; and L. A. Carlton and E. E. Townes as lawyers.

All of these men contributed greatly in adopting the principles, in shaping the policies, and in laying out procedures that have guided the Company's progress through these forty years. Their influence will survive as long as the Company continues.

They possessed courage and business judgment. They established high standards of performance. They built a strong organization of competent men and women.

The Company, as it stands today, is a tribute to the leadership, the vision, and the work of its founders.

But it is doubtful that these men, with all their foresight, visualized the changes that have occurred in the oil industry since 1917, or the size and complexity of Humble's present operations, or the extent of the Company's contributions through the years to the progress of our society.

To all who have made those contributions possible—employees, customers, shareholders and the people of the states in which the Company operates—Humble extends its thanks.

Showering of Bride with Useful Gifts Is Charming Institution

Showering the bride with gifts of lasting usefulness is a charming institution. And it's fun for everybody.

In fact, the bride is rare who would feel quite properly married without at least one shower in her honor.

The party itself is all frothy gaiety. But the gifts are practical as practical can be. As Vogue puts it: "The practical wedding present—for the bride."

The shower—which is given by friends, never relatives of the bride or groom—may center around a luncheon, bride party, tea or supper.

Usually the mothers of the bride and groom and girl friends of the bride's age are invited. No one should be asked who isn't on the wedding list.

Purpose of Shower
Invitations may be given by telephone or informal note. The theme and color scheme, if any, are included in the invitations.

The main purpose of a shower is to give the bride gifts she needs to start housekeeping. Since the same persons will have to give wedding presents later on, shower gifts are usually not too expensive.

But this doesn't rule out giving larger gifts. Often two or more girls—or the whole group—will pool their money to buy a toaster or electric coffee maker or rotisserie. These gifts make more sense than the cute but useless contributions that clutter an attic later on.

The most successful showers carry the theme through gifts and decorations.

Decorations, of course, don't have to be elaborate to be effective. Ingenuity and good taste are what count.

One good basic decoration—which can be varied to suit—is the opened umbrella, standing at an angle on table or floor, serving as a sort of cornucopia from which the gaily wrapped gifts spill.

The latest—and most practical—kind of bridal shower features the many wonderful gifts of steel to make the bride's home more beautiful and her housekeeping easier. These include pots, mixing bowls, egg beaters, ladles, stainless steel flatware, trays and chafing dishes, pitcher, ice bucket, ashtrays, candelabra, fireplace screen and the various electric appliances.

For decorations a perfect note is a pretty umbrella—which can be one of the bride's gifts because it has steel ribs—placed open in the center of the table to frame the gifts. Around the edge of the umbrella, at the tip of each steel rib, attach a small steel cooking utensil—children's sets are ideal for this purpose—such as a small coffee pot, egg beater, spoon, etc.

A steel shower centerpiece may be made using a flower-trimmed steel umbrella frame, inserted partially open, into an inverted funnel surrounded by a wreath of forget-me-nots.

Kitchen Shower
Among gifts to delight a bride's homemaking heart are the practical items to stock a well-equipped kitchen: steel pots and pans in a wide range of sizes and at least two sturdy steel can openers. Cutlery is ever welcome: paring knives, potato peelers, bread knife, carving set, set of steak knives and butcher knives. The quality of the knives is important if they are to last. For this reason, be sure they are made of stainless steel.

Steel canister sets are attractive necessities. Other handy items are sieves, graters, funnels, spatulas, scrapers, measuring spoons and cups, and steel cake and pie pans.

To personalize the gifts, each girl could include her favorite recipe.

Wedding Bill Mainly Dad's Own Problem

Since the groom faces the prospect of paying all the little woman's bills from now on, doubtless he thinks it only fair that Pop pick up the check for the wedding.

Probably Pop's view is different; but in the rush it is rare for anyone to ask his opinion on this particular matter. By the time the bill arrives, the happy couple are far away on their honeymoon (paid for by the groom).

Just who pays for what is often a vexing problem, and it is as well to get the long-standing customs governing wedding expenses straight right from the beginning.

All that the bridesmaids are responsible for—except any showers in which they become involved—are their own dresses. These are chosen by the bride, who has complete authority on color and design even though she isn't paying the bill.

Besides the groom's outlay on the obvious expenses, such as the engagement and wedding rings and the marriage license, he must also pay for his bachelor dinner, the bride's bouquet and going-away corsage, corsages for his mother and mother-in-law, his own and his attendants' boutonnieres, gloves and ties, hotel bills of his attendants from out of town, a present for each of them, the clergyman's fee, and his own wedding and honeymoon clothes.

What does this leave father with? Quite a tidy number of items.

Etiquette is unbending in its dictum that the bride's family must sponsor the ceremony and the reception—no matter how poor her family or how well-off her fiancé's.

Among these main expenses are all the arrangements for invitations and stationery, the bridal outfit and the trousseau, all flowers for the church and reception, all reception costs, fees for the sexton, organist, choir and soloists, transportation to and from the church, and cost of overnight accommodations for the bridesmaids, if necessary.

Biologists Study Algae in Lakes

Many Texas lakes right now are showing an overabundance of unicellular green algae brought on by an overdose of land fertilizer, according to Marion Toole, director of Inland Fisheries of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

"We are watching it very closely," the director said. "Right now there is a very heavy covering of this algae on some lakes, particularly Lake Travis."

"It can do two things. First, it can be beneficial by affording food for plankton feeding fishes. On the other hand it can get so heavy it will cut off oxygen in areas, which will result in killing off some fish."

Ken Jurgens, aquatic biologist for the Highland Lakes area, says he has been checking on the algae situation. He says it is caused by rains flooding over lands rich in fertilizer. This sudden burst of fertilizer into the lakes, fed by the sunshine, is responsible for the rapid growth.

Biologist Leonard Lamb in the Fort Worth area reports not too much algae. He is worried, however, about "the top ten feet" of trees now under water. He says some trees 40 feet high are under water in Benbrook Lake.

News from the Congress

by Congressman Frank Icard

There can be little question but what our nation made a grave mistake in its decision to turn over to the Japanese Army Specialist William S. Girard, for allegedly killing a Japanese woman while on duty. There can be no justification of our drafting young men into the military service and sending them into the bases located on foreign lands only to have them stripped of the protection of the laws of this country which the Constitution guarantees them. Notwithstanding the fact that our military personnel must not be allowed to seek refuge behind American laws in an effort to escape punishment for the violation of the basic laws of foreign lands or the rules of human decent conduct, they should most certainly be entitled to take refuge under our Constitution to the extent that they be guaranteed the type of justice to which our nation is pledged. Any agreement that would allow us to send our youths to foreign lands while refusing them the protection of the very freedom that they seek to protect can have no justification whatsoever. The Girard case has focused great public interest in this whole general subject, and there is a better chance now that some action would be taken in Congress to prevent this situation from arising in the future; however, there are two facts in the problem that Congress cannot meet: First, the Congress can only ask the President to withdraw from a treaty that would deprive our military people of the kind of justice that they are guaranteed by the Constitution, for the treaty powers are invested in the President by the Constitution; and in addition, in Girard's case, the problem did not arise under a treaty provision. The United States has contended that the treaties do not cover the Girard case but that our government agreed anyway to hand him over to the Japanese government, this decision having been made by our Secretaries of State and Defense and concurred in by the President as Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Services. Special Congressional committees will shortly begin looking into this matter, and it is hoped that strong Congressional opinion will have some influence on the Executive Branch.

The House through May 31st had passed 11 appropriation bills for various departments and agencies of the government for fiscal year 1952. The total of these appropriations show almost a four billion dollar cut below the budget estimate or an average reduction of about 7 per cent. During the same period of time the Senate finally acted on four appropriation bills with an average reduction of about 8 per cent.

THE NEIGHS HAVE HAD IT

Petroleum powers the plow on more than two-thirds of the nation's farming "food factories." Farmers today spend about 15 cents out of every dollar on petroleum products—a record $1.4 billion yearly. The money spent by farmers on petroleum products alone in the 15-year period between 1939 and 1954 soared from $112 to $418 per farm, a good indication of the growing trend from oat-fed horse power to oil-fueled horsepower.

Americans Are Slowly Becoming Vegetarians

A University of Texas biologist says Americans are slowly toward vegetarianism because of expected rapid population increases.

More people can be fed on smaller amounts of meat eat vegetable matter, the animal matter, Dr. Carl M. Quast, specialist in population trends, or demography, says.

At the present rate of U. S. population will double in the next 50 years. At the University of Texas elsewhere are attempting to develop new food sources, algae, so that future generations will not go hungry.

U. S. population now at 171 million. World population is 2,700,000,000.

Are You Protected?

Most Americans are prepared for the polio season that is just around the corner.

People are being vaccinated at an average rate of more than three per second, according to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. During the first four months of this year more than 35 million shots of Salk vaccine were given, double the rate of 1955.

So far 61 million persons in the United States have received inoculations since the vaccine was approved just two years ago. Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, warns, however, that there are 48 million others below the age of 40 who still are not protected against this disease, long known as the crumpler.

In the realm of the spirit there is a crumpler infinitely more dangerous to the soul than infantile paralysis is to the body. The Bible names him as Satan against this enemy, of course, yet there is a way that we may protect ourselves from him.

The apostle Paul outlines the answer in these words: "Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil" (Ephesians 6:11).

What is this armor? Have "your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be

THIS WEEK - In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

The battle of the bulging budget goes grimly on in Washington, with the deadline for start of the next fiscal year only a week away.

Economy has become the watchword of the embattled 85th Congress entrenched on Capitol Hill. "Cut that budget" has become the battle-cry as congressmen rally to throw back the spenders.

President Eisenhower, who as a field general directed the crushing of the military might of Germany and Italy, has been unable to repel the onslaught of Congress on his $71.8 billion budget.

When Congress would not heed his pleadings, the President turned to those who started the whole economy drive in the first place, the tax payers. Congress, he warned, was trifling with our national defense.

It was just over 12 years ago that Gen. Eisenhower almost suffered his worst military defeat, in the battle of the bulge on the Western Front in Europe. He won only after he had cut off the enemy's source of supply.

Now, he is trying to win the battle of the budget by the same tactics; by cutting off flow of letters and telegrams that give Congress the ammunition and backing it needs in the economy drive.

The President is plagued by the large number of deserters: Republicans who have joined the Democrats in the attack on the budget. Mr. Eisenhower, however, believes that in politics, as in military strategy, a good attack is the best defense.

He has counter-attacked by charging that cutting the defense budget now would weaken the free world and encourage Russia to become more belligerent and aggressive. Congress has heard that before, and heeded.

Congress is torn between the fear of weakening our defense, and the desire for a tax reduction in 1958. Democrats are anxious to get credit for any tax reduction, and many Republicans are unwilling that they shall.

Both parties in Congress are proceeding on the theory that "to the victor belongs the spoils." The "spoils," in this case, might well be control of the next Congress, and the White House by 1960.

Congress, however, may be overlooking a bit of history: The spenders never have been defeated in Washington. And, only a few times have they been slowed down.

Already they are getting ready to battle for an even larger budget year from now. The Bureau of the Budget, which totals what all the spenders say they need, has arrived at a total of $75 billion for the 1959 fiscal year.

That adds up to $3.2 billion more than the Bureau figured the government would need for the 1958 fiscal year. The figures are not final, but they give the country a rough idea of what the spenders have in mind.

The Budget bureau figures that defense will be even more costly in 1959, but that maybe a billion or so can be shaved off of farm program costs. USDA budget estimates are reported to be considerably lower for 1959.

Congressional economists appear undismayed. A 1959 budget of the size suggested would, they say, mean just that much more work to cut spending a year from now. Meanwhile, they are keeping their eye on the ball: Tax reductions effective next January 1.

Texas judicial section.

Other new member will be David B. Irons of Fort Worth, former assistant attorney general under Daniel, now with the Justice Department in Washington. Joe P. Gibbs of Seguin, retired board member who returned last spring at the governor's request, fills out the new board.

An acting commissioner of insurance is to be named by the board to serve until Sept. 1 when legislation for a permanent commissioner takes effect. He will receive $20,000 a year, and be charged with administration of the department.

Present board members John Osorio and Mark Wentz will continue to serve until the new appointees take office.

GOODBYE TO CHIPS—Texas gambling has got to go, says Atty. Gen. Will Wilson. An all-out effort to shut down the multi-million-dollar empire in Galveston was called just the beginning.

Wilson and Department of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr. cooperated in planning a massive raid on Galveston's illegal establishments. But the gamblers got word, closed up and cleared out ahead of the raid.

Wilson's staff followed up by filing padlock suits—boxes full of them—to try to prevent the places from re-opening.

Wilson and Garrison said they would follow the same pattern in other areas. First, local officials will be called on to suppress gambling and state cooperation offered. But, said Wilson, "if local officials fail to do this job, we will do it from the state level."

Gov. Daniel gave his full backing to the crackdown, hailed it as the "beginning of a new era in law enforcement."

MORE SCIENCE FOR TEENS—More study, with emphasis on science, will be required of future high school graduates.

New standards set up by the State Board of Education direct that:

1. Graduates complete 16 units of study, rather than present 15, including two years of laboratory science.
2. Physical education cannot be counted in compiling the units.
3. Not more than one class period of the day may be used for competitive athletics.

New rules will take effect during the 1958-1959 school year, but are to be applied to ninth graders next fall.

SHORT SNORTS — No one person has a right to all the water in the river, ruled the Third Court of Civil Appeals. Its decision favored the Great American Development Co., which sued a Comal County landowner, Clayton N. Smith, after his irrigation pump dried up Rebecca Creek. . . Gov. Price Daniel has asked the Army Corps of Engineers to remove silt and sand blocking the mouth of the Brazos where it enters the Gulf. Recent floods have shown the need for an adequate discharge channel, he said. . . State Supreme Court upheld an order of the Industrial Accident Board preventing two Waco attorneys from practicing before it. While the Board does not have authority to disbar attorneys, ruled the court, it does have a right to require ethical practice from those appearing before it.

Miss Nell Johnson Becomes Bride of Gordon L. Jones

Miss Clara Nell Johnson of Crowell and Gordon Lee Jones of Eldorado, Okla., exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents. Rev. W. B. Fitzgerald of Thalia performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Johnson of Crowell, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Jones of Eldorado.

Miss Janie Bowers furnished the traditional wedding music, playing "Clair de Lune," "Bridal March" and "Meditation."

Vows were exchanged before an arrangement of baskets of white gladioli flanked by green foliage.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a dress of white cotton with square neck and capped sleeves. The tightly modeled bodice featured lace inserts in front and back, with a full street length skirt. Her accessories were pastel pink. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Linda Johnson, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a pastel blue dress with white accessories, and carried a corsage of white carnations. James Donald Jones, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home. The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth and arrangements of pink roses and sweetpeas. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

White candles in crystal candelabra and a punch bowl surrounded by sweetpeas, completed the setting.

Assisting with serving were Mrs. Sam Gann and Mrs. Fred Priest, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Paul Johnson, her sister-in-law. Other members of the house party were Misses Linda Johnson, Janie Bowers of Crowell, Miss Mary Frances Jones of Eldorado.

For their honeymoon trip to points in Oklahoma, Mrs. Jones chose a powder blue sheath dress with black patent accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Crowell High School and has been employed as high school secretary since her senior year. Mr. Jones is a graduate of Eldorado High School. He served two years in the armed forces. At present, he is employed with the Halliburton Oil Co. in Duncan, Okla., where they plan to make their home.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.
HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

Last month an Austin State Hospital physician called the State Health Department to report that a radium needle, being used to treat a patient with skin cancer, had been dislodged or lost.

Did the Department have radiation detection equipment with which the needle might be located? The Department did, and the needle was subsequently found in a gauze bandage.

This incident, one of many that take place every month, illustrates the manner in which the Department's Division of Occupational Health, working in cooperation with private physicians and other agencies, is quietly going about the task of protecting citizens from the dangers of excessive radiation exposures.

A great deal has been said in recent months about the imminent peril the entire nation is facing from excessive radiation. Much of that information has been true in general, but some of it has been misconstrued to the point where people have cancelled much-needed x-ray treatments or examinations because of unjustified fear of radiation exposure.

One of the state's leading radiologists, writing in the Texas Medical Association Journal, has summed up the situation by saying that curtailment of radiologic examinations would cause a failure in diagnosis that would result in many times the number of deaths than would theoretically occur from radiation accumulation in the population 20 generations from now.

There is no question but what the various sources of radiant energy now in use—radioisotope usage in industry and medical research and the so-called "fall-out" from nuclear weapons testing—are potentially dangerous.

But the very fact that danger exists serves as a sort of safety valve. Persons engaged in peacetime use of radiation equipment and materials, acutely aware of the hazards, act with extreme caution.

Competent physicians and dentists keep accurate records of their patients' radiation exposure level. Wealthy foundations have been set up to train technicians in the safe use of radiation devices. And federal and state governments—along with medical, dental, and engineering schools—have made considerable investments of money to insure the proper control of radiant energy equipment.

And as a sort of clincher, the Texas State Department of Health is one of five states which has complete regulations regarding the registration and proper use of all radiation-producing equipment and materials.

So while it is true that ever-increasing uses of radiant energy in national defense, medicine, and industry does demand that we exercise every precaution, that caution must be tempered with

Pressure—Invitation to Disaster on Texas Highways

"Jump that light... pass that car... beat that train..." That's the crash-inviting rhythm of the road for the speed-minded driver.

Captain K. B. Hallmark Jr., commanding officer of the Wichita Falls district of the Texas Highway Patrol, says, "Very often there's no reason for his hurry. He's just conditioned to getting ahead of the other guy."

"As a result, his driving is uneven, characterized by such accident-inviting practices as lane hopping, improper passing, and disregard of traffic laws."

"Not a flattering picture, is it? And yet it's a picture of many drivers on our roads today. Yes, even of you and me, upon occasion."

Hallmark says, "If we're honest with ourselves, most of us will admit that now and then we get caught up in the tempo of the times. The nervous hurry-for-hurry's sake seems to get into our blood. There's so much pressure, so much tension."

"If we happen to be driving when we're in one of these moods, the chances are we'll set our speed by the inner rhythm of hurry. That's deadly dangerous—that's why enforcement officials are concentrating on it harder than ever this year all over the nation."

There is only one safe way to set speed. That is by driving at a speed that is safe for the conditions prevailing at the time—conditions of road, traffic, weather, the driver's mental and physical state, and the mechanical fitness of his car.

Hallmark adds: "This is a fact we should remember every time we step into our cars. On those occasions when we're driven by pressure, we should deliberately take time to calm down before starting the engine—try to relax and get ourselves in a sensible state of mind for our driving job."

"If we fail in our efforts to unwind, we should take the key out of the ignition and settle for some other means of transportation."

common sense. Radiation in controlled amounts can be more beneficial than hazardous.
