Bind Weed Eradication was given in this column regarding killing of bind weed with salt. ntil recently this was the best known remedy, however, recently the Agricultural Experiment Station of Manhattan, Kansas, has discovered that Sodium Chlorate is as effective and cheaper. It has another advantage over salt in that it does not injure the land. Salt will exterminate the weed but it also kills the land for several years. Sodium Chlorate is somewhat slower than salt. It is recommended to apply as a spray. Commercial Sodium Chlorate is a crystalline substance very similar appearance to ground rock salt. 100 pounds of the crystals dissolved in 100 gallons of water is supposed to produce a solution of sufficient strength to kill the weeds on an acre of land. TO THE DEMOCRATS OF TEXAS

The decision of the Supreme Court June 25th upholding Land Commissioner, J. T. Robison, i. the numerous cases involving the University and Public Free School Lands and the rights of land owners accentuates the importance of the position he holds and the necessity of having n that place an experienced business man as well as a trained lawyer. No prudent man and no association composed of prudent men would intrust a business of such magnitude to an individual wihout experience in the line of business involved. The State Land Office has become a great busness institution through which come to the State millions of dollars every business judgment of the present inextremely hazardous for the people of Texas to place the Land Office in the hands of an inexperienced man of unknown business ability. Mr. Robinson has demonstrated his fitness for the place, his honesty and his courage to stand for what is right regardless of consequences and the Supreme Court has recently sustained him in what is said to be the most important land case ever be
