For the past 10 years, his ministry has been divided between the British Isles and churches in Canada and the United States. He is no stranger here as he held revival meetings at the First Baptist Church in Crowell in February, 1953, and April, 1955. Recently he has held revival meetings in the First Baptist Churches in Galveston, Bronte, Fort Smith, Ark., and Muskogee, Okla.

Motorists Urged to Get Vehicles Inspected Soon

The Highway Safety Council of Texas this week warned Texas motorists that they face the "longest waiting line in four years" if they postpone inspection of their automobiles nearer the April 15 deadline.

State law requires every motor vehicle in Texas — passenger car, truck, and bus — to pass an annual check-up on mechanical safety. It is unlawful to operate a vehicle which has not been inspected after the deadline.

Highway Safety Council Executive Director G. C. Morris said this week:

"For the past two years, 1954 and 1955, the bulk of private passenger cars have been inspected well ahead of the deadline and there have been no bothersome delays or snarls at the last minute. This year, however, inspections are far behind schedule and auto owners who wait beyond March will probably have to buck the longest waiting lines in four years to comply with the law."

One Accident Investigated Here During February

Farmers Co-Op. Station in Thalia Destroyed by Fire Last Thursday

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Farmers Co-Operative Station in Thalia about noon Thursday, with a loss of about $30,000 worth of stock.

The fire was discovered in the rear of the building where oil and grease were stored, just before noon by the manager, Joe Johnson. Two trucks of the Crowell Volunteer Fire Department and a water truck owned by Wayne Gamble of Thalia answered the alarm, but the fire had progressed too far to save any of the building. Two large gasoline storage tanks near the station presented a hazard to the fire fighters, but they did not catch.

The station was owned by the farmers of the Thalia community, and the stock included tractor parts, auto parts, oil, grease and many other items.

To Rebuild Station Plans are being made by the board of directors of the co-op. to rebuild the station in the near future.

They were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Fred Glover, in Castle Rock, Colo., when he became critically ill and was brought to the Crowell hospital.

One-Act Play to Be Presented Here Next Wednesday

"The Crucible," Act II, Se. ii, by Arthur Miller, has been chosen by the Crowell Speech Department as its contest entry this year.

This unusual play will be presented to the public and to the high school students at 1:30 p. m., Wednesday, March 21, in the high school auditorium. Tickets may be purchased from the dramatic club, at the local drug stores or at the door.

After the play, Speech I students will pass out pencils and blanks and each member of the audience will have the opportunity to rate the play and actors.

Based on truth concerning 17th century trials for witchcraft, Mr. Miller's fictional story is tense and dramatic and concerns people who actually lived in Salem, Mass., in 1692.

Mrs. Elmo Todd, speech director at Crowell High School, says, "Truly the most difficult and exciting play the speech department has presented for the past six years. 'The Crucible' will leave you thinking, whether you like the play or not. How far have we progressed in our way of thinking during the past 264 years? What may we expect by way of enlightenment in the next 264?"

Presented by arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, Inc., of New York, this section of "The Crucible" which was copyrighted by Mr. Miller in 1952, is "guaranteed to hold your interest."

Students working with the play are: Francene Coffey, Janis Crowell, Elizabeth Davis, Shirley Fox, De Anna Ferguson, Roberta Hough, Roma Jan Spikes, Glenn Carroll, Aldon Garrett, Ray Gibson, C. T. McDaniel, George Morgan, Ray Thomson and Charles Todd.

DESTINATION — UNKNOWN!

Many teenagers are like the mice in "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" who followed the piper into the river.

Often teenagers close their eyes to everything but their "ideal" and blindly follow that person in any direction.

This should make any person stop and notice in which direction he is going, because no matter how unimportant one may sometimes seem to himself, there is always another worshipfully following his every move. It is the duty of each person to "straighten up and fly right" because of the responsibility he bears.

As for the followers (and each one of us is), no one takes a trip without knowing his destination. Neither should we start on this most important journey without knowing where we are going.

JOTTINGS BY JAN AND MARKINGS BY MARKETTA

Well! We often mention in this space news of our ex-students. A recent piece of news of Essie Franklin appeared in the Gainesville Daily Register. She has been keeping books at Tyler & Simpson Wholesale Grocers for the past two and a half years.

Recently a story appeared of a widow in Dallas who used a Model T to raise and educate her brood of six children without "a speck of help" from anyone. Mrs. Shafer said, "I don't need no help from nobody, except when I do a major overhaul on my truck. I need a little help getting out the engine." At the present time, Mrs. Shafer, who is 63, suffered a heart attack while tightening the connecting rods on her ancient truck. This article appeals

Crowell Radio & TELEVISION
TELEVISION NEWS
If I were asked for the most important advice—at this particular time—regarding television in this area, here's what my answer would be: "INSURE YOUR ANTENNA INSTALLATION!" After all, this is West Texas we're living in, and this month is March, and the wind always blows hard through this and several succeeding months. This constant pounding by our wind is quite similar to taking your TV antenna apart with tools and wrenches . . . and then—of course—there is always that possibility of damage to your tower (or mast) by stormy type winds. No installation—no matter how strong or perfect the original job was—is immune to storm damage. For only two or three dollars per year, you can have your antenna insured. This month I'm shouting it from the housetops: INSURE THOSE TV ANTENNAS!! I'm NOT in the insurance business. Call the company that has your house and furniture insurance. They can fix you up in a hurry. Then you (and I!) can sleep easier each night. Don't wait even one more day . . . HAVE THAT TV ANTENNA INSURED TODAY!
Sincerely,
MARION CROWELL.

to us as we greatly admire people with resourcefulness. This woman had been making her living by collecting old newspapers and selling them for salvage.

If we studied more and talked less, our parents would be prouder of our report cards.

We hear that Ray Thomson, Eugene Monkes, Ray Trammel and Noel Wilkins drive their cars like speed demons, still, they can be angels! If they are not careful, they might be angels sooner than they think.

Eugene Monkes cut two of his fingers badly last week, one finger almost through the bone. At first, we heard that he had lost two fingers; so we were happy to hear that it was only a painful accident. Perhaps all the boys who use the electric saw should be careful.

Did you read the yellow pamphlets on the polio vaccine? You should. You should read and heed.

The girls who helped the Red Cross enjoyed their work even though they didn't quite reach their quota. They knew that it was for a worthy cause.

Final warning — mind your P's and Q's or you will be getting D's and F's.

ANA MARIE GETS A BATH

In case you can't believe your feeble eyes, let Mrs. Kenner and her first period Homemaking III home nursing students verify this headline.

Mrs. Martin Kralicko, R. N., demonstrated the giving of the bed bath to Red Cross Home Nursing students over at the cottage.

The stars of the show were Anna Marie and Nurse Kralicko. Anna Marie slipped under the sheets and proceeded to serve as the "class guinea pig." Mrs. Kralicko pointed out the little things that make cleanliness in the sick room a pleasant diversion that hastens the recovery of sick folks.

Mrs. Kralicko also gave advice to girls interested in a future of nursing. She said, "I think that nursing is one of the most interesting careers in the world."

SENIORS OF THE WEEK

Floyd Bice
One of the "easiest going guys" we know is Floyd Bice. His sleepy, friendly eyes and slow amiable smile hide the mischievousness lurking beneath.

The old adage "Never judge a book by its cover" applies to Floyd because in spite of all his "take it easy" appearance, he does anything but. He enjoys hunting, fishing, and watching or playing football.

When he does take it easy, Floyd likes to sit back and listen to hillbilly music by Slim Whitman or watch a movie featuring James Stewart and June Allyson. As for eating, he will stick with that old favorite, southern fried chicken.

Always active in school, Floyd has played football and participated in track since he was a sophomore. During his first two years in high school, he was a member of the FFA. Typing is his favorite subject and physics is his most difficult.

Proving that he is no "slouch," he wants to attend Tech and become an engineer. Lots of luck with your physics, Floyd. We know that you can make it.

Jo Helen Aly

Jo Helen Aly, a five foot eight inch senior, is one of the busiest and most popular students around CHS. People with hair as red as Jo Helen's are supposed to have a bad temper, but this isn't true of Jo Helen. She is almost always smiling.

Jo Helen's hobby is sewing, and many of her clothes that you may have thought were Nieman-Marcus originals are actually products of Jo Helen's sewing machine. Jo Helen has recently been elected president of the newly organized Library Club.

This blue eyed seniorita also belongs to the Spanish Club. The football boys rewarded her for the loyal support she gave the team as a member of the pep squad by electing her their football queen last year. In addition, her "highness" is a member of FHA and has served as local and district pianist of this organization and as vice president of the local chapter. Somehow Jo Helen finds time, among all these activities, for listening to records by Johnny Ray, eating chicken fried steak and banana cake, watching musicals, and reading books by Betty Cavanna.

Jo Helen plans to major in music at Howard Payne next year, and her nine years of studying the piano should be a great aid to her. Who knows? She might be a female Liberace!

Austin, Tex. — Possibility of convention harmony in the Texas Democratic party has taken on a new aspect. House Speaker Sam Rayburn has proposed that U. S. Senator Lyndon Johnson head the Texas delegation to the national convention.

At the same time, Rayburn suggested that Johnson be designated the state's favorite son candidate for president.

The former proposal brought conservative leaders up short. Executive committee chairman Geo. Sandlin already had proposed that Gov. Allan Shivers head the state delegation.

Liberal — loyalists immediately lined up behind Rayburn's plan which seemed designed to freeze out conservatives. Johnson himself said the suggestion came as a surprise, but promised to "consider it carefully."

Sen. Price Daniel joined in boosting Johnson as Texas' favorite son candidate, but passed the choice of a delegation head to the people. "I would not undertake to suggest what the people of Texas should do in the May conventions," he said.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, who had the support of both Shivers and Rayburn in becoming national committee-man last fall, gave cautious, limited approval. He said he favored the favorite son part of the proposal, and "if Johnson were selected by the delegation as chairman, I would be happy to cooperate with him."

Ethics Code Suggested

Coca-Cola Introduces New Size Bottles Here

The familiar Coca-Cola bottle now has "big brothers." Now King and family size bottles of the famed soft drink will go on sale today in food and beverage stores here, Eunice Wilson, president of The Vernon Coca-Cola Bottling Company, revealed yesterday. Crowell is one of the many cities in the country to have the new bottles," Mr. Wilson said. "This is the first change Coca-

Cola has made in its package in forty years."

In announcing the new-size bottles, Mr. Wilson pointed out that the present standard Coca-Cola bottle will continue to be the Company's mainstay.

"Our aim in providing the Family and King size bottles," he said, "is simply to make it more convenient for people to buy and serve Coca-Cola. For several years we have been doing extensive research on buying habits relating to soft drinks. Our surveys show the majority of the public prefers the standard size bottle, since it is the ideal size for individual drinks."

"The surveys also show, however, there is a potential market for other size bottles. The King size, for example, is ideal for refreshment in the home and the Family size for group refreshment."

Mr. Wilson disclosed that both new-size bottles have the same distinctive shape as the present bottle. "The two will be companion packages," he said, "both in appearance and in uniform quality. The size is merely a matter of preference and now the public can have its choice."

The new-size bottles will not be in all food and beverage stores by today, Mr. Wilson explained. Deliveries were started this morning and it will be several days before there is complete distribution throughout the city.

Put End to Post Office Franking Before Increasing Rates

One of the hidden penalties of the ever-growing bureaucracy in Washington is the increasing drain these agencies impose on the Post Office Department. The administration has asked for a $350,000,000 postal rate hike in order to bring revenues more in line with costs of operation. Instead of putting an extra burden on the public, it would be far better to restrict franking privileges of government agencies and congressmen and have federal agencies pay postage on the vast amounts of mail they send out. Thus, not only would the postal deficit be wiped out or greatly alleviated but we would have a better idea of what our various agencies cost the taxpayers. As it is, postal service is a hidden cost of government. There was once a time when franking privileges extended to but a handful of official bureaus, the President, vice president, cabinet members, resident commissioners, the Senate secretary and the clerk of the House. But today, who knows what numbers of bureaus are included? As the growth of these organizations, once lumped into a single classification as "alphabet soup" by Al Smith, has prospered so has in proportion, the financial health of the Post Office Department declined. At the turn of the century the annual post office deficit was $5,000,000 in round figures. Half a century later, this deficit had mounted to more than $550,000,000—a fantastic increase. In that period, the post office volume increased but five times on pay-loads. How can the post office stay in the black if it has to handle a large volume of business without charge?—Houston Post.

Lesson in Finance

For several reasons, the marketing of 10,200,000 shares of Ford Motor Company stock excited an extraordinary amount of public interest. For one thing, it was the largest stock offering in financial history. For another, it marked the transition of the last of the huge family-owned businesses into the hands of the public-at-large—a change which is in consonance with modern corporation history. And sales of the stock were made in small blocks, in order to divide ownership among as many people as possible. That too is a healthy phenomena of the times—today's typical stockholder is a man of moderate means, and a typical figure in the community.

The legions of people who follow the fortunes of the Ford issue will also learn—if they do not already understand this—how the prices of any publicly-held stock are established in a free enterprise economy. In order to sell the stock a figure had to be decided upon, based on the company's sales, prospects, assets and other relevant factors. The experts set the issuing price at $64.50 a share, and the Securities and Exchange Commission concurred. But no man, and no group of men, can hold it at that figure or at any other figure. It may go up and it may go down. But, whatever the case, the judgment of tens of thousands of buyers and sellers will determine the day-to-day buying and selling price.

The point is that a stock exchange is part of the free market. It has the basic characteristics of an auction. The exchange itself has nothing whatever to do with values. Only the investing public—which numbers many millions—has the say on that.

Senator Long on Hells Canyon

Hells Canyon on the Snake River along the Idaho-Oregon border is a great natural site for hydro-electric power development. Therefore, say the public power advocates, the federal government ought to hurry up and build a dam there before Congress decides that we've gone far enough already in the direction of a tax-subsidized federal power monopoly.

Senator Russell Long (D. La.) has been criticized for his opposition to a high, wide and expensive federal dam at Hells Canyon. It is pointed out that the senator's father, the late Huey Long, favored socialized power, and therefore his son should do the same—forever more.

However, Senator Long and a number of other Congressmen, Democrat and Republican alike, are being influenced by the facts rather than politics, in the Hells Canyon case. They know that the proposed federal project would cost an estimated $465,000,000 in taxpayer funds, and then some more if it followed the pattern of similar government projects. They also know that the publicly-regulated Idaho Power Company has offered to build three smaller dams on the Snake River, generating only slightly less energy and representing an investment of $195,000,000 or less. The clincher is that this last sum would come from private investors—not one cent from the taxpayer. What's more, Senator Long points out that he can hardly vote for construction of a federal project in Idaho when the two senators from Idaho oppose it—as they do. The Senator says he votes on each issue as he sees it. And on the Hells Canyon issue, the plain economic facts are enough to veto a federal dam.

Is This Economic Imperialism?

American businesses engaged in foreign operations are a pet hate of the communists and their dupes. They are commonly denounced as economic imperialists, bent on ruthlessly exploiting the peoples and resources of the world. American oil companies which conduct operations abroad are a standard target. That's quite logical—for oil is one of the most important weapons in hot wars and cold. The Iron Curtain nations would like nothing better than to see the free world short of oil. It would be a prelude to ruinous economic and military decay.

Actually, the record of American oil men overseas is an inspiring one. A first-class example is found in the Saudi-Arabian development, conducted by the Arabian American Oil Company. Enormous problems had to be faced and conquered—at tremendous cost and effort. Success has been spectacular. Last year production was almost 348,000,000 barrels—an all-time record. Some 141 wells were yielding crude oil as 1954 ended. During the year the company spent the equivalent of $50,000,000 for supplies, ocean and air

In The News . . . 30 YEARS AGO

News items below were taken from the issue of The Foard County News of Friday, March 19, 1926:

George W. McKown, pioneer of Foard County, died Saturday morning at his home seven miles northwest of Crowell, after a period of declining health covering several years.

Three school trustees will be elected on Saturday, April 3. Outgoing trustees are H. E. Ferguson, Dr. J. M. Hill and B. F. Ellis.

Crowell business men will buy trophy cups for the winners in the polo game to be held on the Minnick Ranch, beginning Wednesday and lasting until March 31.

Dr. R. L. Kincaid will likely be a candidate for representative of the 114th district, including Knox, Hardeman and Foard Counties.

Virgil Greer returned last week from Fort Worth where he finished a course in bookkeeping.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Spencer left Sunday for Dallas where Mr. Spencer is attending to business.

J. H. (Red) Easley is again making his home in Crowell after spending several months on the Triangle Ranch in the west part of the county.

J. R. Logan of the Cicero Smith Lumber Co.'s general offices in Fort Worth was here last week visiting the Crowell yard.

George Self returned Wednesday from Detroit where he attended a Ford dealers' convention at the Ford factory.

A letter from H. M. Ferrin says he and his wife are going from Fort Worth to Lindale for a season.

Community co-operation is wonderful. Its absence is lamentable. Where there is no working together, you will find a backward community. With harmony there is much that a community can accomplish. Without it every attempt at improvement is wasted. One group of citizens can't better conditions if other groups are knitting them. All people can't be expected to think alike, but if a spirit of give and take predominates, there is no reason why a common ground can not be found upon which opposing groups can meet and work in harmony for civic development and moral improvement. Turn this thought over in your mind. It may develop a better one.

freight charges, and related expenses, using non-dollar currencies wherever possible.

Equally spectacular has been the social and economic impact on a country which had changed but little over the centuries until the oil men came. The company has undertaken great projects aimed at raising health standards. It has introduced modern farming methods and stimulated and encouraged local crafts and enterprises. Almost 65 per cent of its working force of 21,858 is made up of Arab nationals. They receive excellent wages, along with food, housing, clothing and recreational benefits.

In short, American enterprise has brought wealth and civilization to Saudi Arabia—even as it has developed vast oil resources the free world urgently needs.

Systemic Insecticide Controls Insects

Texas entomologists report that cotton grown from seed treated with new systemic insecticide has been protected against thrips, aphids, spider mites and leaf miners for four to six weeks from date of planting, according to Joe Burkett, county agent.

Burkett says that the insecticide is compound 3911. A systemic insecticide is one that can be taken up by plants and translocated to all its parts. Seed treatment such as this will replace the first two early season applications of insecticides, but will not be effective against the overwintered boll weevil. Application of a recommended insecticide should be made before the squares are one-third grown to protect the young fruits from weevils or other insects.

Individuals can not purchase Compound 3911 because of the hazards involved. Severe toxicity to man calls for extreme caution, and all seed containers must be burned. Farmers must transport their seed to and from the treating plant. There are two companies in Texas equipped for treating seeds, both are at Waco. Seeds can be treated at a cost of about $3.00 an acre. Advantages of the systemic insecticide are four to six weeks protection against certain insects, and elimination of the first two poison applications by spraying or dusting. Adverse weather conditions cannot destroy the effectiveness of the poison in the plants, report the entomologists. Loss of time for transportation of seed, and three dollars per acre as compared to two dollars when dusting or spraying is employed, offer some disadvantage.

Dangers Involved in Flying Kites

March winds are a boon to kite flyers and kites are in the air. Now comes this word of caution from Joe Burkett, county agent, "don't fly kites near electric power lines."

Mr. Burkett says reports are already coming in from over the state on accidents or near accidents involving kites.

One of the greatest dangers, says Burkett, comes from flying kites near power lines. Should a kite become tangled in a line, don't try to get it down. Leave it there and call the power company for assistance. A damp string will conduct electricity and shock could prove fatal. Above all, he warns against using metal of any kind in the construction of the kite and of using string containing wrapping metal, such as Christmas wrapping string, for flying the kite.

Should such a combination come in contact with an electric power line, there'll be trouble and it could be very serious.

Burkett says it is fun to fly a properly constructed kite. He suggests taking the kite to an open field or pasture for flying. There the danger from power lines and traffic hazards are no problem and the kites can be flown by even the youngest members of the family.

WORKING HARD YET GETTING NOWHERE!

It may be a boat, swinging aimlessly with one oar. It may be a business with indefinite plans for expansion or improvement. It may be in a job, with nothing in sight for the future. But whatever the problem, balanced effort and straight steering are needed to solve it.

And the required means to solution is that a person should start planning for the future. The most advisable and safest step to take is to open a bank account.

OIL TANK BECOMES WHEAT BIN

The capacity of one group of petroleum storage tanks is now measured in bushels instead of barrels. Giant tanks near the Cushing field in Oklahoma, built to store oil but now outmoded by modern conservation practices of the oil industry, are being used to store United States government surplus wheat. Wheat can be kept in the storage tanks for years without the loss of a single grain from spoilage. Oil men often place their ingenuity at the service of others in unexpected ways.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT SAYS Heart Disease Picture Not as Black as It Has Been Painted

Optimistic state health officials don't think the picture of heart disease is as black as it has been painted.
"True," says Dr. W. S. Brumage, director of the State Health Department's heart disease control activities, "It kills more people than any other disease. But chinks are appearing in its armor, and research scientists are widening their chinks daily."
Take the old bugaboo of rheumatic fever. A few years ago it used to cripple or kill its victims like a relentless pirate.
Today, inexpensive penicillin readily routs the causative organism, a malicious little speck of life known as "hemolytic streptococcus."
Or think about luetic heart disease, a deadly complication of syphilis. Modern penicillin therapy, Dr. Brumage says, has pulled its fangs.
Perhaps the most impressive area of progress against heart killers is modern surgery to correct congenital heart defects. Many babies are hale and hardy today who, had they been born a few brief years ago, would have surely succumbed to heart malformation.
Also, congenital heart deformities can be prevented today by the expedience of preventing expectant mothers from contracting German measles at a critical stage of pregnancy.
"We cannot yet do anything to prevent other forms of heart disease," Dr. Brumage says, "but we can add long years to a heart disease patient's life through patient education — teaching him to live usefully in spite of his heart impairment."
The State Health Department's program of heart disease consists of:

Giving financial support to heart clinic at the Robert Green Hospital in San Antonio; sponsoring the "Heart Bulletin," a technical publication which keeps physicians abreast of most recent developments in management of heart disease; providing penicillin to all county health officers for use in rheumatic fever patients; heart disease case finding.
More than 7,000 cases of "Arteriosclerotic disease" were covered through the Department's chest x-ray program last year.
"Arteriosclerotic disease" including the type of attack President Eisenhower had — an aging population, causing most half of all deaths due to heart disease.
He said the probable future heart disease research would in finding out what causes vessels to break down, so appropriate preventive measures be introduced.
