WICHITA AND THE ORIENT RAILROAD

The Wichita Eagle Tells of the Rich Country Traversed by the Orient and of the Marvelous Growth of Business

The completion of the Orient railroad between Wichita and the Red river of Texas, marks an epoch in the commercial expansion of this center of Southwestern business.

The Orient opens to Wichita a trade Territory that is potentially rich beyond estimate with the things that give opulence to a city.

There is no desert in the land it traverses, nor waste land; but on the contrary, the entire country along the line of the road is productive in things that make commerce great.

Corn, wheat, other grains, alfalfa and other grasses, cotton, broom corn, cattle, hogs, salt and building stone are among the natural resources of Orient territory between here and the Red river, and there is a market for all of them in Wichita and establishments.

The trade in these things, worth millions, should naturally pass through Wichita. And they will pass through Wichita if its commercial captains will cultivate the producers and establish trade relations with them that will not be ossified but of advantage to both. In other words we should have a broad reciprocity with these people based on the closest business friendship. We understand that already they have contributed much to the marvelous growth of our stockyard interests, and it is only a question of time until they will contribute equally as well to our growing milling interest. If we can get them to increase their sales here it will naturally follow that they will increase their purchases and in this way they will be doubly valuable as contributors to the growth and glory of this city.

The people along the Orient are our own kind of people. To a very large extent they are a branch of our own family. They understand us and we understand them. Our sentiments are as one and our relations ought naturally to be close and reciprocally friendly.

There is a binding influence in all railroads, and it ought to be especially strong in the case of the Orient. The road got its first encouragement here among us, and perhaps it was that initial encouragement that assured its completion to the Red river of Texas with such extraordinary rapidity considering the many difficulties that had to be met and disposed of, in the way of hostile jealousies among other roads that aspired to be exclusive carriers of growing Pacific commerce, financial difficulties and a legislative crusade deemed by less courageous men that Arthur Stillwell to be unfavorable to the building of railroads. Wichita responded to the road's first appeals for help, and it is well that it did; for if the project had been delayed a few years longer it is possible that the start would not have been made yet.

We are quite sure that nothing but the indomitable spirit of Arthur Stillwell could have accomplished such a marvelous achievement as the completion of the line between Wichita and the Red River in the few years since the idea was born into his remarkably clear and fertile brain. There was inspiration in its conception and nothing short of inspiration could have carried it so far in so short a time. To even experienced railroad builders its progress has been incomprehensible without the aid of Wall street from which financial center it not only did not receive encouragement, but positive discouragements and interferences.

On other pages of the Eagle the story is more fully told and the meaning and value of the road are made plainer by maps and data, and, above all, by the stories of the local towns which are given very completely. In these towns there are men of spirit—men of twentieth century ideas—and it would be well for the readers of the Eagle to get acquainted with them through our pages. There are opportunities galore in the country they are making, and it is to be hoped that people looking for locations to build homes in communities that have such a splendidly developed civilization, will examine them.—Wichita (Kans.) Eagle.

Damage at Chillicothe

Tribune-Chief:

Chillicothe, Tex., June 16.—A hailstorm struck Chillicothe at about 10:45 last night and it is impossible to estimate the damage done. Every house in town was injured more or less by having all north windows broken out, and almost every house has hundreds of holes knocked in it. The hailstones varied in size from one to three and one-half inches in diameter. About one half the wheat crop had been cut and it is thought that which is standing is completely ruined. However, the telephone wires of the local exchange are all down and there is practically no news in from the country yet. Old settlers say that never before for twenty-five years has there been such destruction by hail here. L. Chipper of the Bank of Chillicothe had a fine calf killed by the hail and one of J. S. Martin's work horses was badly injured.

Sound the Loud Tocsin

There is no more important subject just now, that has taken so good and lasting hold upon the sensible and conservative masses of the country than the demand for "Fever and Better Laws," and it is to be earnestly hoped for the good of all Texas, the development of her many undeveloped sources of wealth and the betterment of all classes of her people, that the tocsin will be kept sounding until the demand is obeyed.

Nearly every country paper in the State has taken up the cry and is advocating its enforcement.—Laredo Times.

The demand for fewer and better laws is not confined to Texas alone. The demand is being made in other states and the growing sentiment in favor of "Fever and Better Laws" is going to have an effect.

ORIENT CREW MAKING SPLENDID PROGRESS

Track Is Now Laid to Truscott—Surfacing Crew Crosses North Wichita—Beaver Dam to Be Rebuilt

G. T. Crowell came from Benjamin Monday and talking a few minutes with the Orient railroad crew, gained some information as to their aims and expectations. The crew was then laying track within three miles of Truscott and by Wednesday night expected to be eight miles north of Truscott with the surfacing work. A squad of surfacers was then to be sent to North Wichita and another to Beaver Creek to rebuild the railroad dam. The steel crew was not very large, numbering only about 60, but are making very good speed, considering the rough portion of country over which they were laying.

At last the road is almost within the bounds of what we call home, and if good time is made in bridging the Wichita, we will soon hear the whistle.

A Congressman's Advice

In a letter to the men of Yale college, Congressman Parsons tells them that, "It is right for a college man to engage in politics with ambition in mind, but it is his duty as an educated man to do at least his share in politics without any hope of reward."

This is good advice not only for college men, but for men of all classes and conditions. It is proper and fitting for any man to be ambitious to hold office, there seems to be something in the atmosphere of America to incite such an ambition. A man may strive for political preferment and at the same time be a conscientious and patriotic citizen and may so continue even though he meets with victory or defeat.

But there are men who are not ambitious for political honors. They do not want office and prefer the life of private citizens. Even though these men are not expecting and are not wanting reward, it is their duty to be active in politics.

In a country like ours every voter has a responsibility which he has no right to shirk. In a degree he is accountable for the kind of government under which he lives and the quality of men who are elected to office. Every good citizen likes to believe he is a patriot. He loves his country. He wishes to see it prosper and wants it to be well governed. Without any desire for personal reward he should be active in politics to the extent of having capable and honest men elected to office and local, state and national governments administered in the interests of the people.

If he does not do this he falls short of his duty. If he remains away from the primary and fails to give his influence and his vote to men and measures which he honestly believes is for the welfare of the greatest number of citizens, he cannot lay claim to the title of patriot.

Every man should get into politics, and if he fails to do so he has little claim on the protection and privileges which are accorded to the citizens of the republic. Mr. Parsons' advice is timely for college men and for all others. — Toledo Blade.

EFFECT OF CLEANLINESS

Cleanliness never hurt any body or gave him typhoid. The death rate in Rome has fallen from 30 per 1,000 to 10 per 1,000 since it raised its street cleaning expenditure from $15,000 a year to $200,000 a year. Hamburg had 13 cholera epidemics between 1851 and 1873. The city cleaned up along with other German cities, and now the German physicians are praying the government to limit the supply of medical students. Cleaning up helps to destroy the flies' breeding places, and the flies carry half the diseases into the groceries. — Nirneapolis Journal.
Cleaning up is a mighty good thing for a town, but in order that it may be well done at all times, every town needs a board of health!!!

Got His Reward

An editor died and slowly wended his way to where he supposed a warm reception awaited him. The devil met him and said: "For many years thou hast borne the blame for the bad spelling the printer has got off in the paper. The paper has gone for $1, and alas! the dollar has failed to come in. The printer has bedeviled thee for wages when thou hadn't a farthing to thy name. People have taken thy paper without paying for it, and cursed thee for not getting out a better sheet. Thou hast been called a dead beat by all the railroad conductors when thou hast shown thy annual pass to their envious gaze. All these wrongs thou has borne in silence. Thou shalt not enter here." And as the editor turned and walked away Satan muttered: Heaven is his home, and besides, if I let him in here he would have been dunning his delinquent subscribers, and thus creating a discord in my kingdom." — Hamilton Herald.

WHERE OTHERS FAILED

"Each spring for five or six years, I broke out with a kind of Eczema which nothing seemed to relieve permanently. Finally I tried a box of Hunt's Cure which promptly cured me. Two years have passed but the trouble has not returned." — Mrs. Kate Howard, Little Rock, Ark. Sold by all druggists.

WORKING ALL THE TIME

Did it ever occur to you that the principal organ of your body, the liver, works all the time? Is it any wonder you are sometimes constipated, bilious and out of sorts generally? You hear the expression "lazy liver," would you be lazy, do you think, if you were expected to work twenty-four hours a day? Most people eat too much, thus putting extra work on the liver. Be good to work on the liver. Be good to which is only found in a bottle Morgan's Cascara Compound. Price 50 cents. Guaranteed by Ferguson Bros. druggists.

Peaches stolen

On Wednesday night of week some parties entered Cole's peach orchard near and carried away practically entire crop, which was estimated at about 15 bushels. Mrs. was intending to commence picking the peaches next day did not know that the trees had been robbed until she entered the orchard Thursday morning. They had evidently been cut out to some near by place loaded on a wagon.

All accounts of the old firm are due me, and I hope that those who know they owe anything will make arrangements to meet it promptly when it is due. I think the people generally know that merchants have to buy from larger wholesale houses and they are compelled to meet their obligations when due or be denied credit. So I wish to notify one and all that I am not financially able to sell on credit longer than 30 days to any one. However by paying one-third cash and giving a note secured by him on furniture, I will sell goods on two to three months time.

Respectfully,

Realizing the importance and benefit of helping to sustain a first class musical organization in Crowell, the News takes occasion to remind our public spirited and liberal citizens of the necessity of extending a helping hand to the Crowell Orchestra. Although Crowell is considered an inland town, there is not another south of the Mason and Dixon line of double its population which can boast of, nor produce as much high grade musical talent. This is the verdict of traveling people, many of whom are musicians and are in a position to extend such a favorable criticism. The Crowell Orchestra is of strictly home talent, and an amateur organization which is always ready and willing to help any charitable purpose without compensation. It has never asked the good citizens of Crowell to contribute towards its expenses, and can now show a library of music, both popular and classical, which would be a credit to any professional orchestra in Dallas or Ft. Worth. In order to further entertain the public, the organization needs a piano which can be used for public entertainments. The Bush & Gerts Piano Co., of Dallas, have kindly offered the association an instrument through their representative Mr. Richard Lynn, who is also conductor of the orchestra, at absolute cost of manufacture, and if the public spirited citizens of Crowell will help to make the first payment, the association will assume the responsibility for the balance. The orchestra at present is composed of the following members all of whom are active and render some part in the entertainments: Mrs. C. E. Hutchison, Miss Essie Thacker, Mrs. J. F. Witherspoon; Messrs. C. E. Hutchison, D. L. Reavis, T. B. Knapper, J. J. Kroll, A. Y. Beverly, Lee Allen Beverly, Archie Campbell and Richard Lynn.

The Governor's Speech

It was the privilege of a representative of the News, among hundreds of citizens of Harde-man and others from Foard, to listen to the address of Gov. Campbell at Quanah, Tuesday, and while the speech cannot be reproduced through the News, a few of the most important matters upon which he spoke may be briefly mentioned.

The Governor is mindful of the fact that he has, since the beginning of his administration, been assailed, as has the Thirtieth Legislature, but he classed his assailants as enemies not only to himself but to the people and as friends to corporate interests within the State. These had bitterly opposed his policies and had sought to influence the legislature to actions favoring corporate interests, the legislature had been confronted by one most formidable lobby that ever assembled at the capitol of a state to defeat the will of the people, but defeat met the lobbyists. He was perfectly willing for his record of office to say whether or not he had been true to his pledge to the people. He made a strong defense against attacks upon the Thirtieth Legislature and pointed with patriotic pride to the splendid laws they had enacted and the good results already realized.

Some of these laws were mentioned, among them being the Anti-Gambling Law, which makes the keeping of gambling houses a felony; the Anti-Free Pass Law, the effect of which is to destroy the feeling of gratitude, which is naturally felt towards the railroads by the man who has been favored with free passes. The Governor grew eloquent when he affirmed that if the legislature had not passed that measure, he would not now be canvassing the State, but would be at Austin with the legislature hammering on that measure. The practice of the railroads in giving free passes is regarded by the Governor as one of the most gigantic evils that has ever been in our midst, and against this he made his strongest fight.

The Tax Measure received more of the Governor's time during his speech than any other law passed by the legislature, the effect of which has been to equalize taxation in proportion to the property valuation. The powerful corporations in the State have been allowed to render their property at a very small per cent of its real value and have been escaping the taxation which they should have borne to equalize the burden upon all. The effect of that law is to lighten the burden of taxation upon those who have been paying more than their share and increase the burden upon those who have been escaping taxation. He stated that as a result the rate of State tax 1906 was reduced from 20c in 1907 to 12 1/2c and would this year be somewhere between 5c and 7c on $100. Gov. Campbell feels that he has done all he can to relieve the people of heavy taxes and if the county commissioners will do their duty there will be a general reduction.

He was heard by a large and appreciative audience and his speech will produce a telling effect at the coming primary.
