FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1911

would seem that its roots are in authentic soil, as J. W. Neill, its father, is the director of institute work under the supervision of Ed R. Kone, Commissioner of Agriculture. Now the present officers, as declared by Mr. Neill, are H. M. Ferrien, President; W. S. Bell, Vice-President; and W. L. Campbell, Sec. and Treas.

However much these officers may feel the need of a good Farmers' Institute in Foard County, whatever their trust or brightest dream may be of the present and far-reaching benefits, not only to the farming population but to all the vital interests of our county, might come through the medium of a well conducted farmers' institute, they cannot accomplish anything worthy the name without the united effort of the farmers and kindly help in some way from the commercial interests and professions including teachers, lawyers and preachers.

Any institution that will in some way benefit all should receive the encouragement of all. The basic foundation of all prosperity in our county at the present time is agriculture in its varied forms. There was a time when stock raising with great grazing territory was in the lead. It still has a very prominent place, but more limited territory. The prosperity of the larger per cent of our rural population depends today upon soil tillage. The most satisfactory results intellectually and financially should come to us by and through a knowledge of our soils and how best to use them for present and future possibilities. The institute should give us new ideas, brighter hopes and develops us along social, moral and intellectual lines and such development is the brightest goal to which any occupation can point. There is a general awakening all over country, to the fact, that the rural population has not been reaping their portion of the uplifting influences of modern thought and modern knowledge. For years there has been more inviting fields than the farm, made so because of more effort expended in other directions and such movements have taken many of the brightest and most promising young people away from the farms.

Many of our leading educators now recognize the folly of such a course and there is a grand movement quite general throughout the country not only to keep many of our most promising young people on the farms, but to make farm life so attractive in its varied branches that some at least in overcrowded centers of population will hear and heed the call, "back to the farm." There is also a recognition among leading educators that the great subject of agriculture has not received the attention its importance demands. Our great State, in common with all others, is now giving more thought and opening more facilities for the study of agriculture in its many branches. Our A. & M. College and Commissioner of Agriculture aided by the general government through the Secretary of Agriculture and his force of employees are showing up the agricultural possibilities of our State. The papers are giving aid in this great awakening and the teachers of our public schools are in many places doing even more than the farmers themselves to bring more of intelligence into rural life, which means more of general prosperity and happiness.

Now the question, are we as farmers of Foard County willing and ready to join in with the moving forces? We may not see any wonderful benefit all at once but with united effort it will surely tell for good in time. The officers have no desire to crowd something upon the people. If you feel the need of a farmers' institute and are willing to respond, then be present at the first called meeting, a notice of which will appear in the News as soon as arrangements can be made to make sure a short program. Articles II and VI taken from the form of constitution for such institutes, sent out by the Department of Agriculture are here given that all may become familiar with the object and know who are eligible to membership. These articles can be made broader in their scope if desired.

Article II. Object.—The purpose for which this institute is organized is to promote the practice of better methods in agricultural and live stock pursuits to perfect and establish better methods of marketing to promote the educational and social welfare of the industrial classes of our community, and to that

PEOPLE FAVOR BOND ISSUE

MASS MEETING HELD FRIDAY AFTERNOON TO DISCUSS SCHOOL PROPOSITION

BOARD ORDERS ELECTION

For February 25. Committee Selected to Assist Board in Selecting Suitable Location

A large body of citizens of the Crowell Independent School District met in the Opera hall Friday for the purpose of considering the building of a school house. It is very encouraging indeed that the entire body was virtually a unite on the proposition, all favoring the issuance of bonds and not a dissenting voice being raised. As a committee to assist the board of trustees in the selection of a suitable location for the building were appointed the following gentlemen: J. C. Haney, W. R. Vaughan, Dr. R. L. Kincaid and C. T. Schlagal.

It was agreed that the location is to be north of the business portion, anywhere between Main Street and the railroad. It is altogether probable that the selection of a site will be made in the northern portion of the city on the most elevated ground

The city valuations will justify the issuance of $20,000 worth of bonds, and that is the amount for which the election to be held February 25th calls.

This is a matter that is settled and is settled right so far as public sentiment is concerned. There has been no fight over the proposition and in the face of present conditions none is anticipated. A good school means too much for our town for its citizens to wrangle over the proposition of needed equipment. This step was the only one to be taken and if the election carries, and we have no doubt that it will, there need be no cause for regret. It is unnecessary to discuss the matter in this connection. Every one wants a good school and without a good building and better equipment than we now have all efforts will fall short of their aims. The steps taken in the direction of improvements along this line should and no doubt will have the hearty endorsement and support of every lover of education.

Success Sulky Plow

A Frameless Plow that Will Last a Lifetime

Simple Strong Light Draft Easy Running The Best in Every Way

This famous Sulky Plow has been the leading riding plow for nearly 15 years. No other plow made approaches it for simplicity. It has only two levers (one with a double adjustment) but it is just as flexible, and has all the advantages of plows requiring three and four levers.

"No one ever made a mistake in buying the Success. It has every other thing of each kind for strength. The manufacturers have no truck confidence in it but they'll back it up with an unqualified guarantee. You can't buy a better plow—they don't make them any better than the Success."

The Famous Sulky Plow

There are several reasons why the SUCCESS sulky plow is superior to other plows; the rear wheel works automatically, allowing the plow to be turned right or left without the use of lever. A feature that no other sulky plow has.

And another most important feature that this plow has is the wide adjustable clevis which makes it easy for three horses to walk on the land while the other horse walks in the furrow. The front axle on a sulky plow is the first thing that wears out except the share. On account of being detachable the Success axle costs only 60c, while other makes costs from $2.00 to $2.50. The cost for repairs are very small on this plow. This plow is equipped with three horse even, 16-inch rolling coupler and one extra case hardened soft center steel share. There are other plows that sell for less money but they are not in a class with the Success when QUALITY, EFFICIENCY and DURABILITY are considered.

BOYS, DON'T

Don't forget that you are to be men and husbands.

Don't smoke in the presence of ladies. It is never respectful.

Don't measure your respect to a person by the clothes he wears.

Don't try to make your fortune by easier means than hard work.

Don't speak carelessly of a lady's character. It is her only anchor.

Don't forget that the best and greatest man that ever walked the earth was a boy.

Don't haunt the lady of your choice at a ball, party or picnic. She has certain civilities to pay elsewhere.

Don't fix your stare on the fair ones who pass along the streets. To stare at anyone is not manly.

Don't neglect your business. Take pains to do your work well. Good workmen are always in demand.

Don't sneer at the opinions of others. You may learn wisdom from those far less pretentious than yourself.

Don't swear. It is not necessary and does no good. It is neither wise, manly nor polite, nor agreeable to others.

Don't grow up to be a soured old bachelor, when there are so many true and lovely girls that will make such excellent wives.

Don't flirt with a young lady to whom you are a perfect stranger. It looks most ridiculous; and you may get thrashed for it some day.

Don't unnecessarily make enemies. The good will of a dog is better than his ill will. But don't cripple your independence and your individuality to please friends.

Keep up with the wagon. Change your old views and habits for new and better ones when you find them and be always on the lookout for them.

JEALOUSY

How fortunate it is that there is not a jealous person among our large family of readers. We do not know of one; do you? Such being the case we can severely censure these jealous people that are to be found in most all other communities. The first boy ever born was jealous. If you remember Cain took a rough stick and killed his brother because he was jealous. The sacrifice of Abel had been accepted while Cain's was rejected. Jealousy is simply a grief we experience on account of the superiority of others. Their superiority in talent, wealth, beauty, virtue or social or political recognition. It is the shadow of other people's success which clouds our lives. It is the thunder of our neighbors' popularity which sours the milk of human kindness in us. It is the father and mother of half the woes and crimes of the human race.

When you hear a man or woman abused, drive in on the defendant's side. Watch for excellences in others rather than for defects, morning glories instead of night-shades. If some one is more beautiful than you, thank God that you have not so many perils of vanity to contend with. If some one has more wealth than you, thank God that you have not so great a stewardship to answer for. If some one has a higher office in church or state than you, thank God that you have so many to wish for the success of your obsequies. If some one is assailed by jealousy, give him a compliment, for people never jealous of a failure.

For jealousy an elevation is not a blessing. Seeing others rise above us let us work more hard. Life is short at the long run and will be filled with helpfulness for others work and sympathy for each other's misfortunes, and our arms full of white mantles to cover up the mistakes and failures of others. Surely this world is large enough for you and all your rivals. God has given you a work to do. Go ahead and do it. Mind your own business. In all circles, in all professions there is room for straightforward successes.

WHAT TO TEACH GIRLS

Teach her that 100 cents make a dollar.

Teach her to arrange the parlor and library.

Teach her to say "No" and mean it "Yes" and stick to it.

Teach her how to wear a calico dress and to wear it like a queen.

Teach her how to sew on buttons, darn stockings and mend gloves.

Teach her to dress for health and comfort as well as appearance.

Teach her to cultivate flowers and to keep the kitchen garden.

Teach her to make the neatest room in the house.

Teach her to have nothing to do with intemperate or dissolute young men.

Teach her that tight lacing is uncomely, as well as injurious to health.

Teach her to regard the morals and habits, and not money, in selecting her associates.

Teach her to observe the old rule: "A place for everything and everything in its place."

Teach her that music, drawing and painting are real accomplishments in the home, and are not to be neglected if there be time and money for their use.

Teach her the important truism: "That the more she lives within her income the more she will save and the further she will get away from the poor-house."

Teach her that a good, steady, church-going mechanic, farmer, clerk, or teacher without a cent, is worth more than forty loafers or non-producers in broadcloth.

When most people are not taking medicine to cure them, they are eating something to make them sick.

Progressive "42"

Mr. and Mrs. Will McCormick royally entertained a large crowd of young people on last Thursday evening from 8 until 11 o'clock with progressive forty-two, honoring Mrs. Robert Lee McLain, of Knox City. When the game was finished the hostess served delicious refreshments consisting of fruit salad and cake, after which the gentlemen were invited to the living room where they were furnished with cigars and the privilege of smoking. Installation of Officers

W. O. W. installed officers on the night of the 14th inst. Walnut Camp No. 1569, located at Margaret, Texas. After the installation the boys entertained their camp with fruit and oysters which was very much enjoyed by all present.

Fraternalism is growing in our town. In June 1903 thirteen of us boys walked into the old jail at Margaret and organized our camp. The superstitious dubbed us the unlucky thirteen. In the eight years we have been organized not one of our sovereigns have fallen, for which we return thanks to our Supreme Ruler, and we now number fifty-three strong, stalwart choppers, ready to assist any needy sovereign. We haven't been idle all these years. We have heard the cry, "the tree is fallen," several times, and answered several times, as all true sovereigns should.

We have our home paid for and a real pleasant home it is, and with the following officers at our head we expect to bring things to pass in the year 1911. J. D. Jameson, P. C. C., Jno. L. Hunter, C. C.; A. L. Easley, A. L.; J. H. Ayers, Banker; L. Y. Jameson, Clerk; R. D. Reinhardt, Escort; Roy M. Fox, Watchman; C. L. Carter, Secretary; Thos. F. Cherry, Physician; M. F. Bagley, C. Stubblefield, J. D. Booth, Managers.

Pipe lines are primarily city builders. The pipe line brings the oil field to the refinery and the gas well to the city and the factory, and reduces the cost of transportation, as well as provides a feasible method of distributing the products of the oil and gas wells throughout the state.

It costs about $5.00 per head to ship cattle from Texas to the Chicago packing houses, and the shipper must pay the freight. If we had enough packing houses in Texas to utilize our supply of live stock, and do our own feeding, we would add $15.00 per head to our cattle. Packing houses sufficient to meet the present needs of Texas would add $43,000,000 to the value of our cattle, which is more than the packing houses would cost.

We may gridiron the state with railroads, dot it with factories, build cities and fill the valleys with happy homes but we cannot create another acre of land. The investor may come to Texas and buy land, and if he cares to do so later can sell it and leave the state with all the property he brought into the state, but the investor who builds railroads, factories, irrigating canals, etc., cannot take them back with him, and he has established permanent values within the state.

This week a petition was circulated among the business and professional men of Childress, asking Mr. Colquitt to appoint Judge S. P. Huff to preside over the new court of civil appeals, in case such court is established. So far as learned, everybody was glad to sign the petition, not because we are tired of our district judge, but because he has served us so well in this capacity that we feel we would honor both himself and his district in the proposed new court. If capability and universal popularity cut any ice in the selection of a man to fill this honorable position Judge Huff should be an easy winner.—Childress Post.

We call attention this week to an article on the Farmers' Institute written by H. M. Ferrien of the Margaret community. Mr. Ferrien is very much interested in improving methods of farming, as every farmer should be, and believes a farmers' county institute to be an excellent medium through which to work to that end. Such an institute has been organized in this county with Mr. Ferrien as its president, and he is anxious for the co-operation not only of the farmers but of all the interests in the county. It appears to us that every farmer in the county should regard the movement to improve farming methods as being of the most vital importance to himself and should be active in an effort to bring to pass such conditions.

Saving the birds is a subject that is receiving consideration at the hands of conservationists in Texas. Eight hundred millions of dollars worth of products of the United States are destroyed annually by insects according to an estimate made by the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, which it is claimed could have been saved by the sparing of the birds. The Audubon society of Texas is trying to impress the people with necessity for preserving the birds and especially those which destroy insects. The society makes the just claim that the saving to the state of the waste places and the reclamation of arid lands, while of the utmost importance, is no more so than the preserving of the sweet voiced songsters who save many thousands of dollars the agricultural interests of the state every year by the destruction of insects.

The agricultural demonstration trains sent out by several of the railroads during the past year met with such hearty approval of the farmers that the roads have decided to make these exhibits a permanent feature of their Industrial Departments. Corps of expert farmers and lecturers are sent along with these trains delivering lectures, giving advice and answering questions. In several cases representatives of the State and National Department of Agriculture have accompanied the party, as well as directors of experiment stations and farmers famous in special lines of production. The practice of sending out these trains gives promise of becoming general on account of the amount of practical lasting good accomplished in the way of stimulating production and consequently increasing earnings.

Wedding Chimes

♦The marriage of Mr. M. F. Crowell and Miss Ella Rasor, two of Crowell's most popular young people, was solemnized Sunday evening January 22, at 8:30 o'clock at the Christian church in this city in the presence of a vast number of admiring friends.

Preceding the appearance of the bridal party, Mrs. E. W. Muse sang most effectively, "I Love You Truly." As the beautiful strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. J. C. Self and Miss Georgia Wolford, greeted the ear, Clarence Self and Herman Allison, ushers, led the way down the broad aisle to the platform where the party formed for the ceremony. Following the ushers came H. Garland Burns with Miss Mabel Crowell, sister of the groom, Miss Leona Young, as maid of honor, accompanying the bride. They were met at the chancel by the groom and his best man, Mr. Riley Self, and they ascended the platform together where Rev. J. E. Chase of Benjamin was awaiting them, and who said the beautiful marriage service that united these young people for life.

The church was artistically decorated with potted plants and evergreen which altogether produced a most charming effect. Both the contracting parties are well and favorably known to this community, the groom being at the present time the efficient clerk of Foard County, and the bride filling most acceptably the position of teacher in the grammar department of the Crowell Public Schools. They will continue to make Crowell their home and a large circle of friends join most heartily in wishing them "Bon Voyage" as they sail the sea of life together.

Still Worrying

The experts are now dealing in an incredulous spirit with the signatures supposed to be Shakespeare's. Sir E. Durning-Lawrence disputes the genuineness of all five. What he has to say on the occurrences of the name in the will is curious. He finds the three very dissimilar. The "W's" are all three differently shaped; the "S's"—there are only two—are different also; the "B" in one case begins at the top and in the other at the bottom, which is also the case with the following "a," while the "K" and the "r" are as widely unlike as possible.

"What," he asks, "could have induced a man who really signed his name to his last testament to play tricks with the first letter of his Christian name?" And his contention is that the clerk who drafted the will wrote the names and varied the forms of the letters to indicate they were not autographs. The argument seems not unreasonable, for it more likely that a clerk writing another man's name should vary in the writing of it than one should who was writing his own.

Judson's Birthplace.

Baptists will be interested to learn that the birthplace of Adoniram Judson in Malden, Mass., has come into the possession of the American Baptist Foreign Mission society and has been refitted and refurbished and will be used hereafter as a house for Baptist foreign missionaries at home in America for rest and recovery of health. This house was built as a parsonage for the Congregational church in Malden when William Emerson, Ralph Waldo Emerson's father, was pastor of the church, and was occupied by Doctor Judson's father while he was pastor of the same church. For many years it has been private property, and it is gratifying to know that this historic house is to be preserved.—Boston Watchman.

Stamp Collector's Freak

A wealthy Russian stamp collector's freak has been the subject of some comment among philatelists. M. Stemmmer of St. Petersburg, a well-known collector, has in his possession five old stamps, mostly German, which he believed were the only specimens in existence. His friend Fritsch Troubetzkot ridiculed the idea and after much advertising obtained duplicates from dealers in the United States and paid $5,000 for them.

Stemmmer was furious and wanted to buy them immediately, but Troubetzkot refused to sell. After much persuasion the five stamps changed hands for $12,500, and, bearing with 50% Stemmmer threw them into the fire.

"Now my set is really unique," he exclaimed to the amazed Troubetzkot.

THE CITY OF UNDERSTANDING

Ragged Tramp Was the Only One who Truly Sympathized With His Fellow of the Life Class.

In the park a man was asleep on one of the benches. His face was turned to the sun. His hat, which he had evidently placed over his eyes to protect them from the glare, had fallen off and rolled away in the dust. Now and then a passer looked at him, some curiously, some with amusement, some with scorn, some with indifference. "Let him sleep," they seemed to say. "Pretty soon a policeman will come along and wake him up by pounding the lazy fellow on the soles of his shoes and sending him off to sleep somewhere else." In a workaday world there is little sympathy for the idle.

Some seats distant sat another man of the same stamp. His own ragged feet were stuck out in front of him, and he contemplated them steadily, as if he wondered a little at which they had of his own life to which they had conformed him. His hands were deep in his pockets, and his battered hat inclined well over his nose to protect his eyes from the sun. Presently he grew weary of sitting and rose unsteadily, as if wondering where to sit next. Then he advanced along the path toward the sleeper.

The hat lying in the dust caught his attention. He stopped and looked at it, and touched it absent-mindedly with one foot. Then he looked at the sleeper.

He seemed neither amused, nor scornful, nor curious. He picked up the battered hat carefully and dusted it with the sleeve of his coat. Then he knelt beside the sleeper, placed the hat over his face and shambled off along the path, and he did it all with infinite precaution, so as not to awaken the sleeper.—Youth's Companion.

ELECTRICITY AS ILLUMINANT

Commercial Value Was Not Developed in This Country Until After the Centennial Exhibition of 1876.

The first experimental philosopher to discover that electric light could be produced by a dry battery was Sir Humphry Davy, who in 1810 exhibited a light three inches long, between carbon points, before the Royal Society of London. But no commercial value was attached to the use of electricity as an illuminant until more than half a generation later. The Centennial exhibition, held in Philadelphia in 1876, really marks the era of our present form of electric light, though electric lights had been in use abroad prior to that time. The exhibition of modern and practical demonstrations of electric lights at Philadelphia in 1876 attracted the attention of scientists and capitalists in this country, and the first incandescent lamps and the first arc system were put to practical use in a small way in 1878. The Brush arc light gained favor in the beginning as the most adaptable for street lighting, and Cleveland, O., the home of Charles Francis Brush, the inventor, was the initial American city to adopt the arc system for street lighting.

Since 1878, both the Brush arc system and the Edison incandescent system have developed.—Morley's Magazine.

The Open Mind in Travel.

To leave oneself behind is perhaps the first and best initiation for travel, says Harper's Bazaar. As one steps on the train or goes up the gang plank, one says farewell to that warring and aggravating personality who has tried so close to us for months, demanding, exacting, questioning, exacting us with anxieties and brooding troubles. It requires no entire cessation of mountains to prove to us how "that the spirit often hindereth itself." Fresh fields and pastures new, a head and the hour to throw aside the old and put the best foot foremost brings a new heart as readily as conversion. Care is shifted from the shoulder; the back is turned upon testing, repeated, obligations, and adventures and strangeness, so exhilarating after a long siege of the accustomed round, are ahead. Montaigne says that some one reported to Socrates that a certain man was in no wise improved by his travels, and he replied: "I can well believe it since he took himself along."

Toilet's Bootmaking.

Many who have never read a line of Tolstol know that the count, with his peculiar notions of work, made his own boots. Aylmer Maude, in his Tolstol's biography, quotes an incident in that connection. "As to the boots Tolstol made, I asked a man to whom he had given a pair and who had worn them, whether they were well made. 'Couldn't be worse,' was his reply. 'I suspect,' adds Mr. Maude, and the average reader will not dissent, "that Tolstol's boot-making was of more value as a spiritual sedative than it was as a contribution to the solution of the economic problem."

The Sketch Diagnosed.

When the curtain went up at a small pace on the vaudeville playlet, a weeping-willow lady gowned in soft clinging stuff was discovered seated alone before the red-lantern-lighted fireplace in the dimly-lighted drawing-room, of a late November evening. "That settles it," whispered Galey to his wife, as he reached for his hat; "I'm going out to see a man for half an hour—to see the man who can fix both of us!"—Hill Magazine.

THE Day of Cheap Cotton is Over

Every month in the year cotton and cotton seed products are finding new markets. There is only a comparatively small portion of the earth's surface that will grow cotton. So the man who invests his money in land that will grow cotton will never see the time when his investment will depreciate in value. Mining enterprises and city property may be changed conditions lose their value. Not so with a cotton farm. We have a large lot of land specially adapted to cotton growing. Come and see us.
