MARGARET MUSINGS (By Special Correspondent)

This week will wind up the threshing in the vicinity of Margaret. Several outfits have pulled in and those remaining will finish the work.

The people expected to get the price fixed by the Government when they delivered their grain to the railroad but they find they have to pay freight over Government roads to Galveston although the wheat never goes there. Why did they not charge freight to France or Germany so the farmer would not be bothered with any surplus?

Mrs. Lizzie Roe Ragsdale has been visiting her folks and has returned to her home.

Jonathan Bradford has moved to Crowell to give his children the benefit of a good school very soon. The John Taylor and family of New Mexico will occupy the house vacated by Mr. Bradford.

It is uncertain when our school will begin. The free books have not been furnished and there is not much hope of getting them very soon. The large schools have received their books but the little places don't amount to much. The big fish always eat the little ones.

John Mahoney and family of Quanah, also Walter and Luther Taylor, were visiting relatives in and around Margaret on Sunday and Monday.

We are informed that a new grocery business will open in the Odd Fellows' building in the near future. This will increase the cost of living for we will have more merchants to feed on the same amount of business. Tom Goodman and family who have been visiting in the east returned this week.

W. A. Dunn and wife have gone to Iowa for medical treatment for Mrs. Dunn. We hope she may return in good health.

Wanted—We need at Margaret a postmaster, a preacher, several teachers and other things but can't get them.

Jim Ewing has received many replies to his ad for a wife and has undecided which one to accept. He has been threatened with breach of promise, breach of contract and several other kinds of breaches, but we think he has concluded to accept the lady who is the authoress of the following poem, and we will submit the letter for the approval of the News.

Feeding Hens for Eggs

Any one following these simple rules cannot fail to get lots of eggs, any and every time of year, if stock is from good laying strain. Tack this up for reference.

OUR FOURTEEN POINTS

- First—Hens must be healthy. Every time a chicken picks up food from the floor or ground it gets more or less disease-producing matter, resulting generally in bowel trouble. Keep things clean as possible and give Ger-mozone in drinking water three times a week—daily for a few days on first indication of illness.
- Second—Hens must be well housed. The hens should be kept as nearly as possible at same temperature night and day. A poultry house hot in daytime and cold at night leads surely to colds and roup. Read our book, "Secrets of Success." Cull out the non-layers.
- Third—Hens must be kept free from lice, mites and other vermin. Don't guess at it. Look. Hunt. Make sure. Lee's Lice Killer and Lee's Louse Powder are easy and sure.
- Fourth—Hens, to lay, must have lots of fresh vegetables. Crisp green stuff, like cabbage, is best. A horse would soon die without hay. It's just as important for a chicken.
- Fifth—Hens must have an assorted grain ration. Corn or some other one kind will not do alone. Corn, wheat and oats, mixed, make the best assortment, but other assortments can be used.
- Sixth—Hens must have meat food and some condiments. If fresh, chopped meat or bone is used: give 10 per cent of that in the morning mash. If beef scrap, 10 per cent. If Lee's Egg Maker, 5 to 7 per cent. Lee's Egg Maker contains rich meat and protein food, also all necessary condiments.
- Seventh—Hens must have exercise. They won't work if they get plenty to eat without. The morning mash should be as early as possible and just as much as they will eat quick and clean. Nothing at all the rest of the day except small grain in deep litter that they must scratch and work for. Then, the very last thing at night, a good, full feed of whole grain but none extra left scattered for morning.
- Eighth—Hens must have water—plenty of it, and warmed in cold weather. The egg is mostly composed of water and a hen cannot make eggs without it. Add Ger-mozone three times a week.
- Ninth—Hens must have grit. Grit containing lime is best but should be hard. It furnishes lime for the eggshell and the teeth for the gizzard in grinding the food.
- Tenth—Good layers need long days. Make the winter days as long as possible by artificial light night and morning.
- Eleventh—Hens need quiet and content. Don't fuss the hens and don't let any one or any thing else do it.
- Twelfth—Dark, secluded nests appeal to the hen's instinct to lay and aid proper food and other attention.
- Thirteenth—At moulting time in late Summer or early Fall increase gradually the percent of Lee's Egg Maker, meat, or other rich protein food and the hens can be kept laying all through the moult, as well as growing a new coat of feathers.
- Fourteenth—Above all the hens must be kept free from vermin, and healthy free from colds, roup, ptomaine poisoning, bowel trouble, etc.; also from getting all clogged up with fat inside—around the egg-making organs especially and exercise are simple and inexpensive remedies.

CALOMEL DYNAMITES A SLUGGISH LIVER

Crashes into sour bile, making you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury.

Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver.

When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel.

Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasing and safe to give to children; they like it.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AND THE PEOPLE

"Very few things are more dangerous to life and property along the streets of town or the public roads than a team of mules or horses running with a wagon," said one of our citizens Monday when he had just witnessed the sight of a running team, and in addition to the above remark he asks these questions:

"In case of damage to person or property is the owner or driver of the team responsible to the party hurt? Is there a city ordinance against the owner or driver of a team leaving it standing on the streets with traces hitched? If there is such an ordinance do the people of the town want it enforced?"

Then, the further remark was made that it seems in most towns ordinances and regulations are to a very great extent enforced by officers as public opinion demands.

As to the information sought in the above questions, the News wishes to say it is not a bureau of information as to law. It is ours to give the news—facts as they happen—and sometimes the local paper is expected to lead in fights for certain things because they are used to getting it back and don't mind it.

There is one thing we want to call attention as suggested in the above remarks, and that is that public opinion is responsible for the enforcement of law. That is not only true, but public opinion is responsible for nearly everything else we have, whether good or bad. If you don't think this is true, stop and think about it right seriously and you will agree with us.

We don't want to be radical just for the sake of being different from somebody else, but we do want to get the whole truth. The good we have is what we contend for and the bad we have is what we allow. We are responsible for the good we get by working and contending for it, and we are responsible for the bad by allowing it to exist.

In connection with these statements we wish to call attention to another evil, one several times mentioned in these columns, that of spitting on the sidewalks and streets. We say "spitting" because we never did get used to saying "expectorating." If any reader likes the latter better than the former, he may think it as we shall use the former.

Spitting on the sidewalk, and even on the street is a bad practice because it is dangerous. It is especially dangerous in the case of one who may have tuberculosis. Precautions too great can not be taken against this dreadful disease when year by year thousands of our people are becoming its victims. It is easy to see the danger. Especially in this country where the winds are frequent, and in all countries where there are flies, both of which are carrying agencies of disease.

But when the public permits this act of carelessness on the part of one who has unfortunately become the victim of disease, and who himself or herself may have contracted it because of the same carelessness on the part of somebody else in years past, the public is responsible because it permits it.

The best interests of the people demand law and its enforcement, and if we have neither, or one without the other, it is evident that we haven't the proper consideration for the public interests.

DOCTOR ADVISED HIM TO TAKE IT

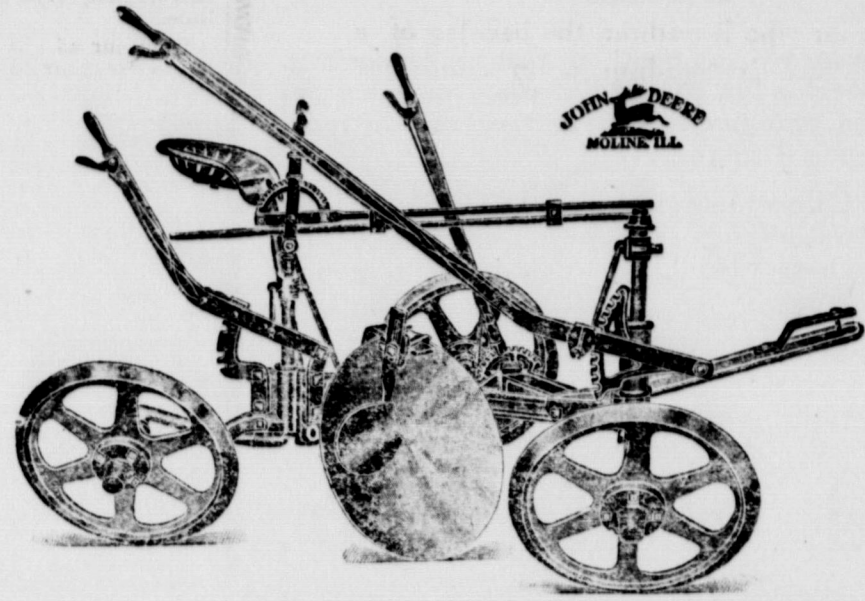

A. F. Roberts, Successful Cattle Dealer Gains 16 Pounds in 60 Days Taking Tanlac

"One of the best doctors in Colorado advised me to take Tanlac, and it has not only overcome my troubles but I have gained sixteen pounds since I began taking it sixty days ago," said A. F. Roberts, who lives at Rocky Ford, Alberta, Canada, a few days ago.

Mr. Roberts is one of the largest cattle dealers in his section of the country, and before moving to Canada a short time ago, he had spent most of his life in Colorado, U. S. A.

"I can now understand why Tanlac enjoys such wide popularity both in Canada and the United States," continued Mr. Roberts, "and since it has done me so much good, I know that it is a very dependable medicine and deserves all the praise that is being given it. For the past two years I have suffered from stomach trouble, and when I commenced taking this Tanlac, it was almost impossible for me to retain anything I ate. I was very nervous and never got a good night's sleep, and finally got so weak and rundown that I was hardly able to get about. I often had dizzy spells, and was bothered a great deal with constipation."

"My physician certainly knew what he was doing when he prescribed Tanlac for me, for it has done the work for me, as I am as healthy and strong now as I ever was in my life. In fact it has done much more for me than I expected it would do. I have a fine appetite and everything I eat agrees with me perfectly, and I never have

CAMELS supply cigarette contentment beyond anything you ever experienced! You never tasted such full-bodied mellow-mildness; such refreshing, appetizing flavor and coolness. The more Camels you smoke the greater becomes your delight—Camels are such a cigarette revelation!

Everything about Camels you find so fascinating is due to their quality—to the expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos.

You'll say Camels are in a class by themselves—they seem made to meet your own personal taste in so many ways! Freedom from any unpleasant cigarette after-taste or unpleasant cigarette odor makes Camels particularly desirable to the most fastidious smokers. And, you smoke Camels as liberally as meets your own wishes, for they never tire your taste! You are always keen for the cigarette satisfaction that makes Camels so attractive. Smokers realize that the value is in the cigarettes and do not expect premiums or coupons!

Compare Camels with any cigarette in the world at any price!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

A great many remedies have not only been proposed, but are being tested out, to reduce the high cost of living. But two great outstanding principals cannot be disregarded, nor can legislation change them, namely: whenever the demand for a great necessity materially exceeds the supply, an increase in price is inevitable; and visa versa, when the supply exceeds the demand a decrease in price follows. Temporary conditions relative modify but never can alter this principal of economics and finance. Greater production will figure the biggest remedy.—Baptist Standard.

A LITTLE LAY AUTOMOBILE SERMON

The suburban residents of Kansas City for many months have been bothered to exasperation by "spooning parties" that spend the night hours in "auto hugging," right under the noses of said residents. Now the city has taken up the matter and all such spooners will be arrested and given a stiff fine if they are caught.

Our novels are full of clandestine meetings, romantic situations and falling in love at first sight—with strangers—and the girl in her teens inexperienced, uninformed as to character, without proper balance or knowledge of the ways of the real world and its pitfalls, reads, longs, giggles and readily accepts the offer of a midnight to morning joy ride with most any boy who happens to ask her company. At first she is shocked, and perhaps refuses another such ride in the car that was such an attraction a short time before. But she soon finds out she is being left out by her set of friends. Somehow other young men get the word that she is "too good" to go joy riding and she is left alone. Everywhere she turns from novel, story, movies, parties, dances, picnics, even Sunday School and night church service, she is brought in contact with romance thrilling her, compelling her, and she soon begins to excuse what she once thought perfectly disgraceful. And before she realizes what has taken place in her life, she is again whirling along some dark and lonesome road with the very youth she vigorously slapped when she took her first ride with a party, or alone, she is a wise girl and little by little her repugnance for joy riding is overcome and she rather looks forward to such trips and lies, deceives and slips off if her parents object. And the young man? "Oh, well, he'll be all right, after he has sown his wild oats!" And he goes on sowing his wild oats, and mother and father think he is the most noble youth in the land.

And after a while the girl marries and settles down; or does not settle down; as the case may be. It is an even guess as to whether she will be true wife and mother, or the reverse. If parents would begin with the tiny girl, being her chum and her confidant, her companion and friend, as she grows up to womanhood guarding, guiding and keeping step with her, seeing her need, and if it fairly and squarely there would be fewer automobiles racing up and down the earth to the utter ruin of once perfectly nice young girls and once equally nice young men.

Furthermore the community where the young folks are allowed to be out at all hours and where they are not kept step with the young folks and parents have been too lazy to properly bring up their children, there is sure to come a rude and sorrowful awakening.

But there is another side to this story. What of the girl who must spend her working hours in store, office or kitchen?

She may be without the protection of a home. She may be alone in the city, homesick, underpaid, too lonely to care and a joy ride may take her out in the open, away from the hot streets and her hot little room. She has no place in which to see her friends, she has no place to entertain but the street or the park. It is one of the rules of business that girls must not entertain her "company" during work hours. The park has long since become no place for lovers and what self-respecting girl wants to go out in the suburbs in a car to spend the evening and run the chances of being arrested for spooning in public?

The fact of the matter is that some place should be provided for the young people to meet. Older people should be ashamed to let the youth of the land run to ruin by way of an automobile on a lonely road with the moon for chaperon.

The girl with a home should entertain her friends there. The girl without a home should be provided with one and given an opportunity to meet respectable young men and enjoy the youth time of life, the romance time of life, the most glorious and happy

DALLAS MAN SAYS AGITATION EFFECTS PRICES

Washington, Aug. 30.—The Kenyon-Kendrick bill was opposed before the State Agricultural Committee today by C. E. Hunt of Dallas, one of the owners of the Star Cash Stores Company, operating a chain of forty-five grocery stores in Dallas and twenty in Houston. Hunt said his company sold on a close margin and that the average net profit per customer throughout the year was less than 1c.

"One of the greatest evils is the agitation," said Hunt. "The producer, the dealer and the consumer are satisfied with the conditions if left alone. Only a few people I find are complaining about the high cost of living, as not more than 10 per cent of the people who deal with us mention it at all. If the agitation was cut out in Washington, which is regarded the fountain head of it all, it would gradually wear out over the country."

Sees No Good in Bills

Hunt said he opposed the bills because they would not accomplish the intended purpose, as in his judgment only the supply and the demand would regulate prices. It would be unwise he added, to disturb the packing companies in their refrigerator service at this time, and that more cars ought to be furnished either by the Government or the railroads to assist in the marketing situation. He related that potatoes in Dallas had advanced 2c a pound recently; that potatoes are scarce due to the failure of shipments to reach that market, through a lack of proper railroad equipment.

"Potatoes were scarce and the price went up," he told the committee. Hunt said that if he believed what the Federal Trade Commission reported to be true as warranted by the conditions, that he would favor passing the legislation. The agitation growing out of it, he said, was hurting the producer as well as the business man, and thought that if the country had more production, with proper facilities for getting the goods to market, and less disturbance, prices would soon adjust themselves. As it is, he said, the people appreciate the reason in many instances for price advances. He was against the license system for the packers or for business generally.

Dalhart Cattleman Heard

A growing impression exists among the cattle producer that the bills mean in its last word not only governmental supervision of the packing establishments, but the producing business as well, was a statement made to the committee by J. H. Boyce, a large rancher from Dalhart. The cattle producers, he said, were fearful for opportunities to "get from under." Mr. Boyce also complained about the agitation, asserting that it was injuring not only cattle, but other lines of business, and suggested to the committee that every time legislation was directed against a given class its all effects were felt by others.

Other Texas cattle raisers will appear before the committee on Monday.

CONSUMER MUST GET PRICE REDUCTIONS

Washington, Aug. 30.—Unless reductions in wholesale food prices resulting from sharp breaks on the producer markets are passed on to the consumer vigorous punitive action will be taken by the Department of Justice, it was said today.

Profiteering in sugar virtually has ceased, according to Judge Ames, assistant to the Attorney General in charge of administering the food control law. Eleven cents, he said, now is accepted as the just price by dealers throughout the country.

High costs of living which the Government now is seeking to combat are due primarily to the curtailment in the production of nearly all commodities, hoarding, profiteering and inflation of currency, the Council of National Defense said in an exhaustive report sent to Congress. The report was made public today through Secretary Baker, chairman of the council.

Suggestions of the council for meeting the situation include stimulation of production, repression of hoarding and profiteering, improvement in the methods of distribution and marketing and the dissemination of more exact news concerning probable future national requirements.

Gross profiteering in the wool and shoe industries through conscious curtailment of production was alleged in the report. The shortage of housing accommodations was attributed to a shortage in building material, caused by certain conditions and to labor disputes, and the report said the shortage probably would "continue for some time to come."

A national standard of living higher than that existing during the war or before can be maintained, the report said, if production is placed on an efficiency basis.

After Sunday, September 7, all business houses will be closed on Sunday. When the harvest season opened it was thought best to allow some lines of business to open certain hours on Sunday, not because the business men wanted to open, but in order to accommodate the people engaged in the harvest of the immense grain crop. Now that season has about ended and all business houses will be closed on Sunday.

PLAINVIEW POINTERS
(By Special Correspondent)

Alma Gray has been very sick but is some better.

Mrs. Will Morris is very sick at this writing.

Ed Shannon and Wallace Scales were visitors in Crowell Tuesday.

Mr. Edwards of Rayland has been very sick but is better at this writing.

Joe Huntley and family are visiting his mother and other relatives in this community.

Jim Rogers and family are spending a few days with Mrs. Rogers' mother who lives near Crowell.

Baptist meeting is still going on at Rayland. Rev. Pierson of Thalia is helping with the services.

Miss Addie Coffman left Saturday for Hereford, Texas. She will teach school near there this coming term.

Ben Haney and J. M. Adkins have been making some good old sorghum molasses. My, they surely are good.

Mrs. Sam Scales and Grandma Scales, Joe Huntley and family were callers at the Cap Adkins home Sunday.

Homer Myrick and family, Mrs. Ed Leslie and children and Miss Shirley Short, spent Sunday with Kebe Short and wife.

Luther Wari and family, also Buck Clark and family, visited Uncle Bud Clark and wife who live across the river Sunday.

Mrs. Jim Gray happened to the misfortune of getting her foot badly hurt by a kick from one of their horses one day last week. She is confined to her bed.

Brent Tarlton came in last week to spend a few days with relatives and friends. He was formerly a Foard County boy, and is a nephew of Mrs. E. T. Huntley.

One of the men helping with the oil well at Rayland got his hand badly mashed Monday eve. He was carried to Vernon for medical aid. Mr. Young carried him in his car.

Little Mabel Sims, three year old daughter of Lewis Sims, died last Friday. She had been an invalid all of her life and has suffered much, and was sick several days before she passed away. To the bereaved ones we extend the community's sympathy.

Mr. Cress of Blair, Texas, and Miss Gladys Reeves of this community, were married at the home of the bride's parents last Sunday eve. Miss Reeves has many friends who will be glad to hear of her marriage. They left Tuesday for Blair where the groom has a farm.
