Free Picture Show and Horse Races Are Features for Trades Day Monday

Cash Prize Offered To Free-for-All Race Winner

Plenty of free entertainment is available to all who come to Crowell on Trades Day, Monday. Many bargains are offered by local merchants to make the day a profitable one for all who wish to save money on every-day needs, and this regular monthly event will also offer the people of this section an opportunity to bring the items they do not need to town and swap them for what they do need, or dispose of them through the free auctioneer service that is available on this day.

Crowell business men have contracted for a full day's run at the Thalia Theatre and admittance from 11 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon will be absolutely free to everybody, no tickets required. The feature picture, "Texas Gun Fighter," with Ken Maynard and his wonder horse, Arzan, will be shown together with a two-reel comedy, featuring chimpanzee actors in a burlesque on "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

The program will last an hour and a half and will run continuously from the time it begins at 11 a. m. until it ends at around 6 o'clock or later in the afternoon.

Horse Races at 3:30

Another outstanding feature of the day will be the free-for-all horse races that are to begin at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the old ball park grounds.

Five horses at a time will run in the races and the winner out of each group will compete in a final race, the winner of which will receive a cash prize of $7.50.

Anybody is eligible to compete for this prize. All that is required is that horses in the races must have cowboy saddles. The race course covers a distance of 175 yards.

W. B. Tysinger and Dow Miller, who are in charge of the horse racing event, state that a number of some riders will be on hand to ride the racing grounds. Therefore, it is likely that Trades Day visitors will also have an opportunity to see some good bronc riding during the day.

Scotch Tournament Is Being Played at Local Country Club

Crowell's first Scotch golf tournament is being conducted at the local country club this week with 32 participants. Match play started Thursday and was scheduled to end about Saturday.

In the qualifying round, R. D. Oswald Sr. and Grady Magee tied for medalist honors, each scoring a 71, one under par. In arranging the matches for the tournament the lowest scorer forms a partnership with the highest scorer and so on down the line, and these pairs are then matched against other pairs. The partners will play with only one ball, one taking a stroke at it and then the other in regular succession.

Matches for the tournament have been arranged as follows:

Grady Magee-M. O'Connell vs. Raymond Burrow-Pete Bell; R. D. Oswald Sr.-T. F. Hill vs. H. K. Edwards-Ralph Burrow; T. S. Haney-R. J. Roberts vs. Ernest Spears-Dow Miller; Alton Bell-John Raso vs. Guy Crews-B. T. O'Connell; R. D. Oswald Jr.-R. J. Thomas Jr. vs. J. T. Billington-M. N. Kenner; Wayland Griffith-O. L. Crowell Will Play Wichita Falls Ball Team on July 4th

Two base ball teams will represent Crowell in games on the Fourth of July. The Crowell Baseball Club will play Goodner Wholesale Grocery baseball team of Wichita Falls at the baseball diamond near the local cemetery, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

O. O. Hollingsworth, former manager of the Crowell Club, has organized a new team of players from over this area and will represent Crowell in a baseball game at Wellington on the same afternoon.

HOW IT WORKS

An example of how cotton acreage retirement plans would apply to an individual case is outlined by Texas A. & M. College Extension Service officials.

Suppose a man has 100 acres planted in cotton. He chooses Plan No. 1 which gives him an immediate cash rental to pay him for his labor and expense up to the time of plowing up the cotton, and in addition an option at 6 cents per pound on as many bales of Government cotton as his retired acreage would ordinarily produce. Suppose his land is determined to ordinarily produce one quarter bale per acre, and suppose he contracts to retire 30 acres. He would receive a cash payment of $210 this summer.

This farmer would also have an option on 7 1/2 bales of Government cotton which would be sold by the Government at some favorable time, and the farmer paid the difference between selling price and 6 cents per pound. Suppose this option cotton is sold at 10 cents per pound. The farmer would receive 4 cents per pound on 7 1/2 bales or $150. In this case he would receive a total of $360 for having retired 30 acres from production.

If the farmer chooses the second plan in order to get a larger cash rental he would be paid, in this same example, $9 per acre this summer for the 30 acres he retires from production, or $270.

POSTAGE CHANGE EXPLAINED

There is a mistaken opinion on the part of a number of people that only two-cent stamps will still be required on first class postage after July 1, according to Gordon Gribble, Crowell postmaster.

While there is a change or two in postage rates, beginning on this day, three-cent stamps will still be required on first class letters that are addressed to other than local points.

After July 1, two-cent stamps will carry first class letters on rural routes served from the local office, however, any first class letter addressed to points other than Crowell and its rural routes, will require the usual 3-cent stamp.

May Exchange Wheat For Flour Without Payment of New Tax

Wheat farmers may exchange wheat for flour without paying a processing tax, according to Section 15-B of the recently passed Agricultural Adjustment bill. Section 15-B and other information about the processing tax are published in a half-page ad of T. P. Duncan & Son, local millers, that appears elsewhere in this issue of The News.

Section 16-A of this bill is of particular interest to merchants handling flour. This section of the bill reads as follows: "Floor stocks. Processing tax shall be paid on floor stocks on the day the tax first takes effect, except stocks held by retailers. They have 30 days within which to dispose of retail stocks. (Retail stocks shall not include those held in warehouses but only such stock as is held in retail stores at the time the tax goes into effect)."

"Flour in transit or under contract from mills will pay the processing tax."

Many Local Stores To Close July 4th

Most of the business firms of Crowell will be closed on Tuesday, July 4th. No celebration has been planned here for that day, however a baseball game between Crowell and a team from Wichita Falls will take place at 3:30 in the afternoon here.

Crowell grocers carry announcements in their ads this week that they will be closed all day on the Fourth and request people to supply their grocery needs on Saturday or Trades Day.

Cemetery Ass'n. Head Asks Co-operation in Finishing Water Line

Mrs. N. J. Roberts, president of the Crowell Cemetery Association, has submitted the following statement:

"From time to time the readers of The News have been given a list of those who have subscribed to the Cemetery fund. These subscriptions have come in response to the cards sent out and the publicity given our cause by The News.

"While the response has been very gratifying, we still do not have sufficient funds to begin our program. "Our pipe committee estimated that $250 would be required for purchasing material. We had around $100 in the bank as a nucleus and to date our donations have mounted to about $80.

"Numbers of friends have expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of our undertaking and indicated a willingness to help, who have as yet, not responded.

"We are urging that all who can will do their bit and any amount will be acceptable. There are too many interested in this cemetery for us to have to raise the rest of this money with dinners and shows.

"We can't let this project fail when we are so near our goal. Subscribe now, please."

OPERATIONS AT TEXAS CO. TEST DELAYED BY GAS

Drilling operations at the Texas Co.-L. K. Johnson oil test west of Crowell were stopped several days during the past week as the result of gas escaping from behind the casing.

Mud was forced into the hole and by Wednesday the gas flow had been stopped and drilling was resumed at a depth of 3,560 feet.

The fourth and last gas sand was encountered in this test on June 9 at a depth of 3,486 feet. It brought the total gas capacity of this well to over one hundred million cubic feet daily production, thus making it one of Texas' largest gas wells. It is located about 20 miles west of Crowell on the L. K. Johnson ranch.

Monthly Banquet of Local Ass'n. Monday

The regular monthly banquet of the Farmers and Business Men's Association was held Monday night at the DeLuxe Cafe with about forty men present.

Fred Rennels and Dr. R. L. Kincaid were the principal speakers for the banquet program. Mr. Rennels discussed the cotton exchange acreage reduction plan and answered questions regarding it.

Dr. Kincaid spoke on the subject, "My Opinion of the Agricultural Rehabilitation Plan." He stated that he favored it and mentioned that the leaders of the nation had at last come to the realization that the prosperity of the country depended upon the farmer's welfare. He complimented the work of the President's "brain trust," stating that the chief executive of the nation now had experts whose interests were with the nation at large to advise him instead of strictly politicians or business men, whose advice might be of a selfish nature. "Our national recovery plans have been originated by capable thinkers," he stated.

Following these talks, plans for Trades Day were discussed. It was voted to give all visitors here on Monday an opportunity to attend a picture show at the Rialto and horse races at the old ball park without cost to them.

George Self, who acted as toastmaster, named H. E. Ferguson and John Raso to take up a collection among the business men in order to make the free picture show possible. W. B. Tysinger and Dow Miller were named to look after the horse race.

T. P. Reeder and E. L. Draper were appointed to make arrangements for ice water at convenient points about town on Trades Day. Other committees appointed were: program for next banquet—T. P. Reeder, Claude Adams and W. B. Franklin; suggestions for next Trades Day—Dr. J. M. Hill, W. R. Womack and Amos Lilly; ticket sellers, next banquet—E. L. Draper and Dow Miller.

Acreage Reduction Contracts Being Signed by Many

Farmers of Foard County are cooperating in a splendid manner in the government's campaign for voluntary cotton acreage reduction, according to local officials of this work.

A preliminary meeting was held in Crowell Monday afternoon to acquaint community committeemen with the details of the two plans offered and since then, details of the campaign have been explained at Thalia, Rayland, Margaret and Foard City. On Thursday, meetings were scheduled for Vivian and Good Creek. A meeting will be held at Gambleville at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and the final gathering of the week will take place at Crowell, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Community committeemen, who have been at work throughout the week in signing up farmers, are as follows:

- Crowell—H. E. Davis, Homer Zeibig, Dave Sollis.
- Thalia—Walter Banister, H. W. Gray, Willie Cato.
- Rayland—T. F. Lambert, H. D. Lawson, Cap Adkins.
- Margaret—Joe Orr, C. W. Ross, C. T. Murphy.
- Foard City—E. V. Halbert, Lewis Sloan.
- Good Creek—P. M. Hinkle, C. E. Dunn.
- Vivian—J. M. Marr, A. J. Sandlin, Ike Everson.

The county committee is composed of Dr. R. L. Kincaid, M. S. Henry and T. M. Haney. The campaign in Foard is under the direction of Fred Rennels, county agent.

Foard Quota

Foard County's acreage quota has been set at 14,982 acres by the government. This represents a thirty per cent reduction from the average yearly cotton acreage here during the past five years.

The county's average per-acre production during the past five years is 122 pounds of lint cotton per acre, according to government figures. Three dry years during this period were instrumental in causing this low average, however, it is to serve mainly as a basis upon which to form estimates.

Early Action Requested

Any farmers that have not already been seen in regard to this project are urged to get in touch with any of the above officials at once, since the campaign through-

Three Men Arrested In Tire Theft Case

Three men who give Vernon as their home are being held in the Foard County jail on a charge of theft in connection with the taking of a wheel and tire from the Ford coupe belonging to Alton Bell Sunday morning at about 4 o'clock.

Becoming suspicious of their conduct, Wesley Lovelady, nightwatchman, awakened P. D. Moseley, deputy marshal, and shortly afterward the two officers discovered a wheel missing from the Bell car.

The aid of Albert (Curley) McClusky and Staton Adams was immediately enlisted in the search for the tire thieves. Adams was stationed near the railroad crossing on Highway 28 and McClusky proceeded about town in an automobile. He soon discovered the suspect's car and after firing three times from a pistol, he captured its two occupants. The third suspect was caught shortly afterward by Mr. Lovelady in the residential section of the northeast part of Crowell.

In a preliminary hearing before Vance Swaim, county judge, on Monday morning, Clyde Brown plead guilty. Judge Swaim assessed his punishment at 20 days in jail and a fifty-dollar fine and costs.

The other two, Chas. Lamb and Carl Jones, plead not guilty. Their trials are scheduled to come up in county court on Monday. The three men are still in jail here. Their bonds were set at $500 each.

Famous Aviator Added To Gulf Ref. Co. Staff

Noted aviator, winner of many world's speed records, and holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross, Captain Al J. Williams has accepted the position of Manager of Aviation Sales with the Gulf Refining Co. He takes over this responsibility to devote his wide flying experience to industrial progress. He will assume his post immediately.

His career has been featured by many outstanding acknowledgments of his prowess as an ace flyer. In addition to winning the Distinguished Flying Cross, Captain Williams was one of the twelve men selected in the United States "in recognition of services rendered to aeronautics" by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. For eight consecutive years he held the American speed record for airplanes.

Captain Williams enlisted in the Navy for the duration of the war as a naval aviator. He specialized in testing airplanes for the Navy Department and developing aerial aeronautics for purposes of fighting in the air. From 1926 until 1930, when he resigned from the Navy, he specialized in high speed research.

At the time that he received the Distinguished Flying Cross, Captain Williams also received a citation from the Secretary of the Navy. This stated, in part: that he had many times undergone risk of his life for the benefit of the service—that up to 1925, he had performed this duty with aid of parachute where a serious crash was expected—that he flew one plane to complete destruction to elicit information on the vital subject of flat spinning of service aircraft—that his constant association with test and development work had been occasioned by the desire of the chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics to continue him in a position where the Navy could get the most benefit of his experience and ability—that the standard combat type of plane reflects many of the improvements pioneered in racing by him—that from 1922 on he played a major part in keeping the Navy to the fore in heavier-than-air development—that in articles written to the public he had shown himself to be a scholar as well as a master pilot.

Today Captain Williams' busy life supplies him with a diversity of interests and makes him doubly valuable as Manager of Aviation Sales for the Gulf Refining Co. He is one of the officers of the Delaware Chemical Engineering Company, a steady contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Liberty, and aeronautical journals on aviation subjects, a lecturer of note, a lawyer in the State of New York, and a Captain in the U. S. Marine Corps, Reserves. It is also interesting to note that he graduated from Fordham University, received a Bachelor of Laws degree from Georgetown University Evening Law School, and pitched for the New York Giants for two years under John J. McGraw.

Town Barely Saved

Once more we are reminded of the fact that Crowell needs water works. Only by a streak of real luck, the calmness of the bucket brigade of men, women and children and by the daring of men who mounted to the tops of threatened buildings, has this town been saved from destruction by fire.

The Elk Cafe was a total loss in the fire Saturday morning, however the Owl Drug Store and W. R. Womack's furniture store, which were on each side of the cafe were saved. The property destroyed by the fire was owned by W. W. Fox and the cafe by M. E. Whited.

W. A. (Ras) Connor arrived from Lagrange, Ga., Tuesday after spending a month at that place. He says he never expects to go back there again. When he left the old state, he turned his back forever to all that is east of the Mississippi and said he would spend the remainder of his days in the country which he had already devoted the best years of his life to develop.

Olds-Bell

One of the most picturesque and beautiful weddings of the summer was solemnized Thursday evening, June 20, when Miss Nona Olds came the bride of James Everett Bell at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Olds, with Rev. J. H. Hamblen officiating.

Miss Una Self sang, "When You Are Truly Mine." Miss Essie Thacker played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Miss Christine Ricks and Self served as maid of honor and best man.

A reception was held immediately after the wedding at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Johnson. About 100 registered in the bride's book.

The new Masonic officers are: W. Self, W. M.; J. R. Beverly, Jr., warden; N. J. Roberts, Jr., warden; R. B. Gibson, treasurer; Leo Spencer, secretary; J. R. Edgin, tiller; C. Roberts, sr. deacon; T. B. Klepper, jr. deacon; J. C. Self and J. D. Leeper, stewards; and Rev. G. H. Gattis, chaplain.

Decker Magee has moved his place of business this week to the stand formerly occupied by Frank Hill on the west side of the square. The new place is more convenient for the public than his old stand back of the First State Bank building.

Mr. Hill has sold out his confectiory goods, stored his fixtures and will work at Ferguson Bros. fountain till called to service in the army.

FOREIGNERS FINDING IT HARD TO FOOL AMERICAN DELEGATES AT LONDON PARLEY

By Frank Parker Stockbridge Written Specially for The Foard County News

The World Monetary and Economic Congress, now in session in London, represents sixty-six out of the seventy organized nations of the globe. Fifty-seven of them are members of the League of Nations, namely: Abyssinia, South Africa, Albania, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, Columbia, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Hungary, India, Iraq, Irish Free State, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Liberia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Persia, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Salvador, Siam, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, United Kingdom, Uruguay, Venezuela and Yugoslavia. The nine nations in the conference not members of the League are Afghanistan, Brazil, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Egypt, Hedjaz, Iceland, the United States of America and the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics—in our language, Russia. Three Big Objectives The main purposes of this great international convention are, first, to find some way to raise the international market to raise the prices of commodities in foreign trade; second, to remove or modify the barriers which stand in the way of the free flow of goods from one nation to another; third, to arrive at some common basis of money so that there will no longer be great disparities between the values of the currencies of different nations. On those general proposals all of the important nations except France, and practically all of the minor nations are in agreement. If France can be whipped into line it should be easy to work out the details. France, "bad boy" at London France, as is always the case in international conferences, is the "bad boy" of the London meeting. France always goes into such conferences with a complete program—all in France's favor—and protests loudly that she won't play unless she has her own way. She usually winds up by accepting the majority verdict and then going home and lamenting loudly that she has been robbed. France started those tactics at the beginning of this conference, insisting that the moneys of the world be immediately stabilized at their present ratios. That did not suit the English, who would like to keep the dollar much higher to the pound than it is now, nor the Americans, who think the pound ought to get back to its old dollar value or higher. But the French delegation circulated the report that an agreement had been reached and dollar prices began to tumble. France wants, in short, to keep the franc just where it is, and if the pound goes much higher the French will have to go off the gold standard, like the rest of the world. On the other hand, the Japanese are opposing stabilization because they want to keep the yen cheap. U. S. A. Fully Represented Every nation has sent its ablest men to the London conference. There are seven prime ministers among the delegates. There is no ground, however, to fear that the American delegation will be outsmarted. There are few able men in America than Secretary of State Cordell Hull, former Governor James M. Cox, Senator Key Pitt-

THE BATTLE OF THE CURRENCIES

man, Senator Couzens, Representative McReynolds, James M. Warburg and their economic advisers, who include such men as Professor O. M. W. Sprague and Rene Leon. They know just what America wants and they are not easily fooled by even such high politics as Europe plays. In the first major political skirmish of the convention, the fight for the chairmanship of the Monetary Commission, the Americans won hands down and James M. Cox was elected Chairman. America is in the best position of any of the nations in the conference, for we not only have more gold than anybody else but they all, or practically all of them, owe us money. U. S. World Power America, too, is in a better position than any of them to take its dollar rags and go home if the party does not go to our delegates' liking. Under the new powers granted to President Roosevelt, we can put the dollar at any price relative to the pound, the franc or the yen that we like, regardless of what the other fellow does. We can keep our tariff walls up and reduce our currency to a point where our goods can climb over the highest tariff wall any of them can erect. We can curtail production in agriculture and industry to meet our own domestic demands and no more, if we care to do that. Those are the weapons the United States delegates to London have in their hands. Nobody wants to have to use them. Everybody would prefer an amicable international economic agreement, but if we are forced to economic nationalism, we can get along better without the other nations than they can get along without us.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

July 4 marks the 157th anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence by the Continental Congress...

The idea of a separation of the American colonies from England was first expressed in the Congress through a resolution by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia on June 7, 1776...

The Declaration as written by Jefferson, with the slight amendments by Franklin and Adams, was presented to the Congress on June 28...

After the formal document had been engrossed on parchment it was signed by the delegates present in Congress on August 2, 1776...

Of the 56 signers, 7 were not members of Congress on July 4, and of those present on that day 7 never signed the Declaration...

Two of the signers, Adams and Jefferson, became president. Nearly all played important parts in the early days of the republic...

It would have been just too bad if the cameramen hadn't got a picture of President Roosevelt wearing a floppy straw hat.

A cave in Sicily is said to magnify the sound of one's voice 50 times. Some senators would simply adore that.

Perhaps the cotton surplus could be reduced by a more judicious distribution of boll weevils.

Now we have a wrinkle-proof fabric. If we could only have a wrinkle-proof face.

The trouble with all this peace talk is that it may lead to war.

THEY CAN'T SPELL

It is reported that among 298 young men and women who took a civil service examination in New York recently all but three failed in spelling.

This is not surprising to those who have had occasion to observe the spelling of the average high school graduate, or even that of some college men and women.

Why our schools do not give more attention to spelling is an unsolved mystery. Hundreds of hours are devoted to subjects of less value...

Vernon Winner of Hard Hitting Game With Crowell Team

Crowell lost a slugging match to the Vernon club here Sunday by the score of 10 to 6. The visitors were out hit 12 to 10, but three unearned runs in the first inning cost the Cats the game.

The game was featured with some of the longest hitting ever witnessed in Crowell. Both sides were hitting to the out fielders and Norman for Crowell and Sutherland and Lee Mints made some beautiful catches.

Hoke Bell was the big gun for Crowell, in 4 trips to the plate he hit a triple, double and single and on the fourth trip hit a line drive to right that Lee Mints snared with a leaping one-handed catch to rob him of a home run.

Cotton Plan—

out the South is scheduled to come to an end by Saturday night. The government program calls for a total reduction of ten million acres and the Texas quota has been set at 4,493,700 acres.

Considerable information about the campaign was published in The News last week, however, some of it will bear repeating. Whether the Farm Act will become operative as to cotton this year depends upon the farmers themselves.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has stated that a decision in this respect will be made within a week or 10 days after the reduction campaign ends this week.

Cash Relief The average retirement plan offers the farmer two choices of benefits in return for reducing his acreage at least 25 per cent and not more than 50 per cent.

By the second plan, the farmer would be paid a straight cash rental, ranging from $7 per acre to $20 for every acre retired, exact amount depending on what the land ordinarily yields.

Payment Schedules The schedule of payments on the first plan is based on what the land retired would ordinarily produce, as follows:

from 100 to 124 pounds lint per acre, $6 cash payment per acre; from 125 to 149 pounds, $7 per acre; from 150 to 174 pounds, $8 per acre; from 175 to 224 pounds, $10 per acre; from 225 to 274 pounds, $11 per acre; and land yielding more than 275 pounds lint per acre, $12 per acre cash payment.

Farmers wanting all cash payment and not desiring to take an option on Government cotton are offered a higher scale of cash rental payments than offered under the first plan.

The land retired would ordinarily produce, as follows: 100 to 124 pounds lint per acre, $7 in cash per acre; 125 to 149, $8; 150 to 174, $11; 175 to 224, $14; 225 to 274, $17; and yields more than 275 pounds lint per acre, the cash payment would be $20 per acre.

What to Plant? A number of farmers plan to let their land lie fallow, however, many are planning to plant other crops on it, if the Farm Act as applied to cotton becomes operative. The land retired from cotton may be planted to feed, vegetables or any crop that will not come into competition with other government controlled crops.

Roosevelt Helps "President Roosevelt is squarely behind the cotton acreage reduction plan of the Farm Relief Act and had a lot to do with formulating its provisions," declared O. B. Martin, director of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service to administer the Act.

Landlords and tenants are to make their own agreements as to the division of money received, should the plan become operative.

A telegram received here Tuesday from government officials warned that unfair yield estimates and questionable acreage figures would prove fatal to the program.

The government has outlined a program, which it believes will save the cotton industry, and whether this program becomes operative now depends upon the farmers themselves.

THE USEFUL HOBO

In the minds of most persons, the terms hobo, tramp and bum have practically the same meaning. But this idea is wrong, according to Mr. Leinen, agent for a large New York employment company, who declares that he has hired as many as 133,000 Boverly hoboes for railroad work in a single year, and says they were "a fine bunch of men."

Mr. Leinen describes the difference between the three classes mentioned somewhat as follows: A hobo is a traveling worker; a tramp is a traveling non-worker; a bum is a stationary non-worker. While the three intermingle in the large cities during the winter, and the classes are not strictly defined, when the opportunity comes the hobo is willing to work, while the others are not.

Hoboes travel from place to place seeking seasonal employment, such as harvesting, railroad and other construction work, as common laborers, so they fill a real place in the country's economic system. While they are not always exemplary in morals and conduct, they are honest and industrious, as a rule.

And they have a sense of pride as well. The hobo wants to be known as a hobo, and he is insulted when called a tramp or bum.

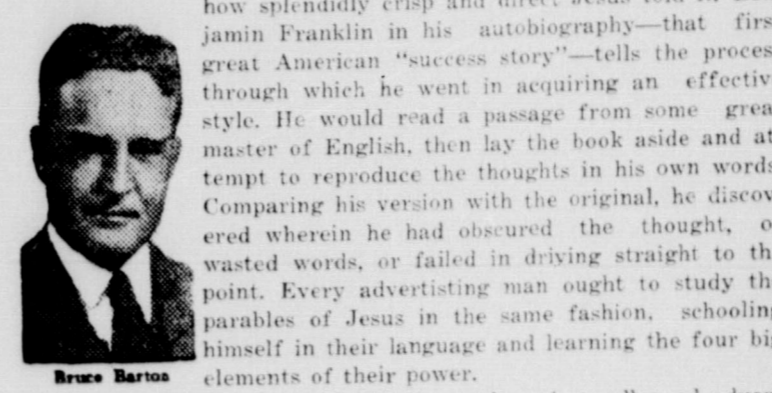

It has been estimated that every year 6,000 girls disappear in the United States and no trace of them is ever found. The popular English boxer, Len Harvey, has devised a new machine which will print and punch bus and trolley tickets, and do away with possible errors on the part of conductors.

POWER IN WORDS

If you were given the task of advertising to the world that God cares enormously for one human life—no matter how wayward and wrong the life may be—how could you phrase a message more memorable than the parable of the lost sheep? How simple; how sincere;

how splendidly crisp and direct Jesus told it, Benjamin Franklin in his autobiography—that first great American "success story"—tells the process through which he went in acquiring an effective style. He would read a passage from some great master of English, then lay the book aside and attempt to reproduce the thoughts in his own words.

Comparing his version with the original, he discovered wherein he had obscured the thought, or wasted words, or failed in driving straight to the point. Every advertising man ought to study the parables of Jesus in the same fashion, schooling himself in their language and learning the four big elements of their power.

First of all they are marvelously condensed, as all good advertising must be. Charles A. Dana once issued an assignment to a new reporter on the New York Sun, directing him to confine his article to a column. The reporter protested that the story was too big to be compressed into so small a space.

Get a copy of the Bible and read the first chapter of Genesis," said Dana. "You'll be surprised to find that the whole story of the creation of the world can be told in 600 words."

Two men spoke on the battleground of Gettysburg sixty years ago. The first delivered an oration of more than two hours in length and not one person in ten who reads this page can even recall his name. The second speaker uttered two hundred and fifty words, and those words, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, are a part of the mental endowment of almost every American.

Many noble prayers have been sent up to the Throne of Grace—long impressive utterances. The prayer which Jesus taught his disciples consists of sixty-eight words, and can be written on the back of a postcard. Many poems and essays have been penned by writers who hoped that they were making a permanent place for themselves in literature; but the greatest poem ever written consists of one hundred and eighty-eight words. It is the Twenty-Third Psalm.

TOO HOT

The temperature has reached 100 degrees or more each day for about the past week in Foard County. Only slight relief has been received from the heat as a result of scattered showers on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Information Given On Athlete's Foot

Austin, Texas, June 21—A common disease, popularly known as Athlete's Foot, is due to a little mold-like growth or fungus. When this appears on any part of the body it is called ringworm. This fungus thrives best where there is moisture and warmth. Therefore the feet make an ideal place for the growth of this germ.

To have Athlete's Foot, you must get the infection from some one else directly, or more commonly, indirectly. The most common places to get the infection are around shower rooms, baths or bath houses, locker rooms, gymnasiums and other places used by the public, where persons go barefoot. It is probably that at least one-half of all adults suffer from it

Christian Science Churches

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, July 2.

Among the citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible, I Chronicles 17: "O Lord, there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears."

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love."
"Question—Are these terms synonymous?"

"Answer—They are. They refer to one absolute God. They are also intended to express the nature, essence, and wholeness of Deity. The attributes of God are justice, mercy, wisdom, goodness, and so on.

"Question—Is there more than one God or Principle?"

"Answer—There is not. Principle and its idea is one, and this one is God, omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent Being, and His reflection is man and the universe. Omni is adopted from the Latin adjective signifying all. Hence God combines all-power or potency, all-science or true knowledge, all-presence. (p. 465.)" at some time.

An individual affected with ringworm of the feet, or Athlete's Foot should be most scrupulous about having his own towels and soap; and his socks, slippers and shoes should be worn by no one else. The use of light canvas slippers in dressing rooms would probably result in a decrease in this disease.

It has frequently been noted that those going to the seashore and exposing themselves to the sun and salt water often recover in a short time. This observation has led to the use of ultra-violet light, and, under medical supervision, this remedy is often of great aid. Infected stockings, shoes and slippers should not be worn. The Texas State Department of Health urges everyone having this disease to visit their doctor and continue treatment until pronounced cured.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

JOSHUA

Lesson for July 2nd. Joshua 1:1-9.
Golden Text: Joshua 1:9.

The third quarter of lessons introduces us to some early leaders of the Old Testament period. The first of these is Joshua. He is not, obviously, one of the supreme figures in the Bible gallery of portraits. Nevertheless he is a great soul who took a leading part in the stirring events of a critical period. He was one of the two older men who were permitted to enter the promised land. He was afraid neither of the giants in Canaan, nor of the fickle-hearted folk in the ranks of the children of God who yearned after the flesh pots of Egypt.

In these days of fear and distress, people sometimes cry, "Oh for a Moses to lead us through the wilderness!" But what we need most of all is a Joshua to lead us out of the wilderness.

Now note that Joshua always obeyed the divine command. He was never guilty, like Moses, of disobedience. Dr. Matheson calls Joshua a prosaic man, that is, a subordinate who carried out the instructions of his chief. God did the planning, and Joshua, a willing tool, fulfilled the divine decisions. "Arise, go over this Jordan," said the Lord, and Joshua and the people at once crossed the famous river into the fair land of their dreams. "See, I have given into thine hand Jericho," again cried the Lord, and this Canaanite stronghold soon fell, after a short siege. In both cases it is God who does the real work. He, it was, who separated the Jordan waters so that the people passed over on dry ground. And it was He who caused the wall of Jericho to fall down flat. Joshua was simply the obedient agent of his God.

And later, at Gideon, when Joshua faced the test of a crucial battle, it is the Lord who determined the victory, first by sending a disastrous hail storm, and then by halting the sun and moon. "The Lord fought for Israel," as the narrative says. So Joshua an obedient servant, with the strength and courage proclaimed by our Golden Text, fought under God.

AWAKENED WOMAN

by ELINORE BARRY

teenth Installment

Joyce Ashton, poor staggerer, suffered loss of memory following a taxi accident in Chicago. One morning two years ago she woke, after a fall from her horse, to find her memory restored, to find her husband, as Frills, the wife of Neil, a rich California fruit packer, determined to tell nobody of her recovery but set about learning what she could of her life in the past. From the conversation of friends and letters in her desk she gathered that she had been a pleasure-loving young girl. One letter that troubled her was from a woman signing herself "Blaming Frills for not giving a baby Sophie was care to could it be her baby, Frills?" She also found herself in an affair with a man named Maitland. In San Francisco, she went while her husband was away on business, she met Ainsworth, a poet whose she had always admired. When returned home, she decided to tell Neil than Frills. But this line was dangerous, for Neil was pathetically to win back her love, at his they call upon Neil's mother, Joyce finds adorable. Later, several times stopped for lunch when she was on horse-riding. One day he started to love to her.

Joyce's, and a quick smile of recognition spread over his face. Then his look dropped to the figure of Neil lying with his head in her lap. A quizzical shade passed over his face. "Hello, Joyce!" he shouted. His horse leaped forward under the spur of his heel, and they galloped up the slope. Before Neil could stumble to his feet Ainsworth was drawing rein nearly upon them. "This precise situation," he said easily, "demands a galloping retreat on my part, but I'm too inquisitive to be so gallant. I prefer to advance and see what happens instead!" Joyce's self-possession left her entirely. She stared numbly at the two men, miserably aware that they were both looking to her for explanation, and even more miserably aware that she knew not how to begin. Neil was the first to come to Joyce's rescue. "I beg your pardon," he said, courteously, "you seem to know my wife?" The quizzical smile deepened on Robert's face. "No, I seem rather to have made a mistake—" he began. A new, almost insolent note married me? . . . Don't look at me as if I were crazy! What was my name before you married me?" "Why, Frills, this is nonsense! Don't you know your own name? It was Florence Hilton, of course. What's that got to do—" "Oh, will you please let me tell you? Sit down, both of you, this is going to take a long time. Please don't begin by thinking I'm crazy. You've both heard of amnesia victims, of course? Did you know you'd married one Neil? Did you know that Florence Hilton was a girl without a past, without a life? You've got to help me tell this story, Neil because I remember nothing before the morning after Fire Queen threw me on my head!" Neil was staring at her dumbfounded. "You're not serious, Frills? Why—what—when—" Robert Ainsworth said, "Lord! Tell us what you're driving at, Joyce!" Joyce suddenly found it possible to talk to these two men. It was as if her mind had for some time been preparing the story it had to tell,

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"You know, dear, I haven't had with you in a dog's age. I'll cut out the golf today and take you. Take me on, will you?" spoke with smiling carelessness. The look in his eyes gave him

Please, please, don't begin to fight.

course, what time will you be here?" She spoke casually. Neil never guess the turmoil of uneasiness under that calm. Did men divine things the way women do? One man perhaps, Robert? as she stabbed her she turned quickly, scarcely hearing Neil's. "I'll come home to lunch, I. Then we'll have the whole in his voice whipped Joyce into anger. All at once she knew what her course must be. It mattered little to her what the outcome of this meeting was; she was determined not to be led into further deceptions. "No mistake at all," she said quietly. "Neil, he's lying if he says he doesn't know me—" so that the words came swiftly, tensely, dramatically. She told them of having been born Joyce Ashton, of her early life in New England, of her aunt and uncle, of her work in Philadelphia and then of her start toward the coast in search of adventure.

She looked from one to the other of the men. Neil's expression was that of the same-repressed hurt that he had shown when Maitland's name had been mentioned. She knew at once that he thought Robert had taken Maitland's place in Frills' life, but that his value of decency and dignity was holding him in check. Neil's immediate, unconscious reaction to this situation did not surprise her; he was showing no reversal of his personality.

Robert, however, had suddenly become a stranger to her. Was this her "perfect companion," was this the man whose subtlety and sympathy she had so deliriously counted on? He sat on his horse coolly and looked on them with an expression of amused cynicism. If this attitude were a cloak for his hurt feelings, Joyce thought swiftly, it was a less lovely one than Neil's!

"I remember getting into the taxi-cab in Chicago in the snow—that sort of light snow when the streets aren't quite wet, but the dirt makes them slick. The taxi skidded violently, there was a crash, and when I woke up I was in a bed, on a sleeping porch, looking out at a tree on which oranges were growing. A man came onto the porch and asked me how I felt! That was you, Neil, whom I in my first appalled state fancied to have been my kidnaper!"

Neil was in high spirits, with a gleam in his manner that filled her with shame. She rode in silence, hardly answering his questions and not looking at him. He soon fell in with her mood and rode along and no longer talked with her conversation. Suddenly then she began to feel uneasy, and wished she could be with Neil. He tried so hard to ease her in everything, to adapt to her moods. It struck her suddenly how much of that thing he must have been doing in his married life.

Robert, however, had suddenly become a stranger to her. Was this her "perfect companion," was this the man whose subtlety and sympathy she had so deliriously counted on? He sat on his horse coolly and looked on them with an expression of amused cynicism. If this attitude were a cloak for his hurt feelings, Joyce thought swiftly, it was a less lovely one than Neil's!

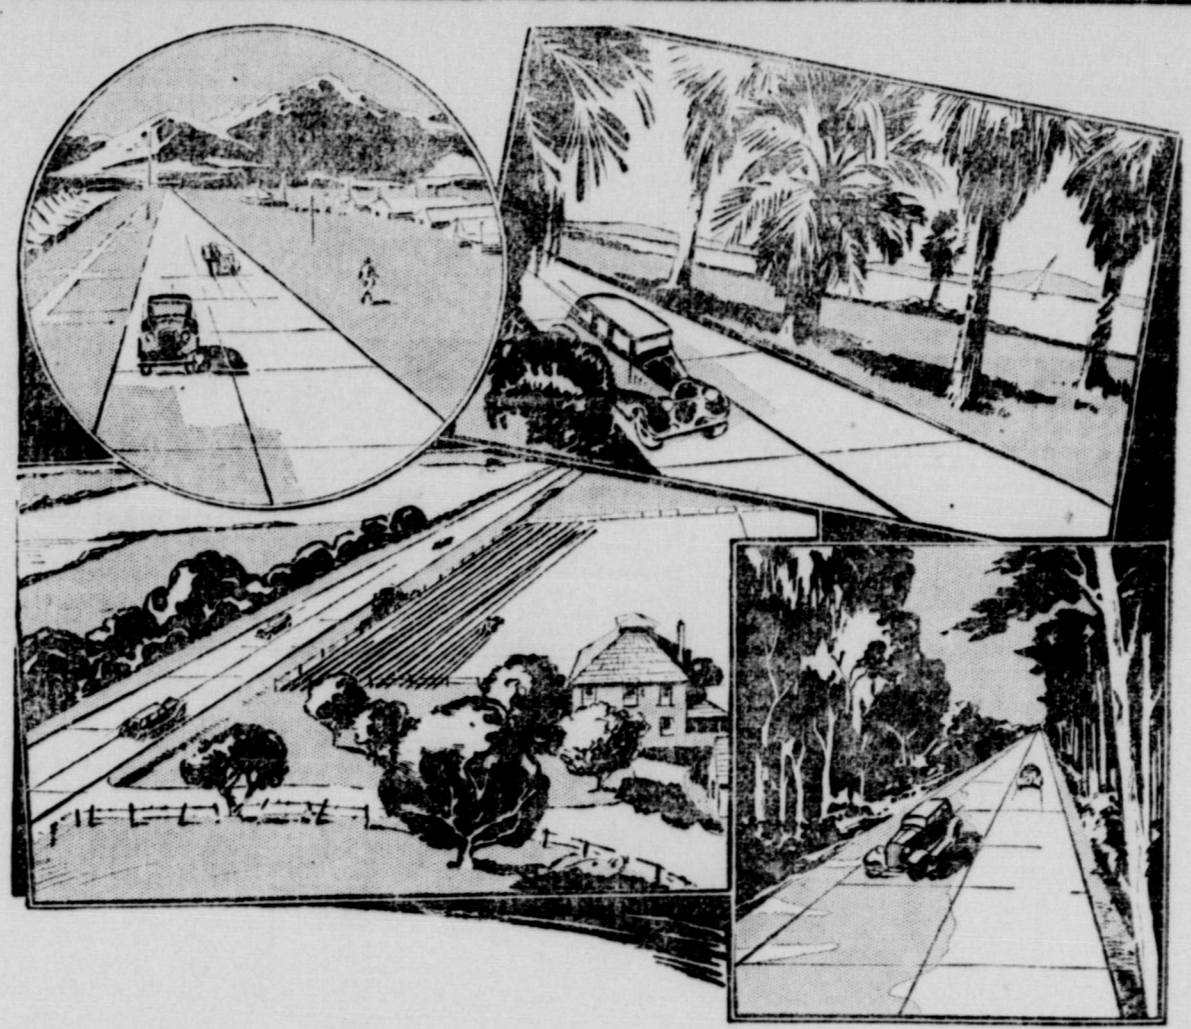

Frills was the vicious imp that had taken possession of my body while I was an amnesia victim. I found out that as well as having gotten Joyce Ashton a good husband and a beautiful home, she had made that husband desperately unhappy, been a cross little beast."

Neil looked up. "Do you mean to tell me you don't remember having married me?" "Yes, Neil, just that. I'm trying to tell you that I remember nothing between the time of the taxi accident in Chicago two years ago, and the recent accident on Fire Queen!" "Humph." Neil looked closely at his wife, as if trying to fathom some hidden reason she might have for making a fool of him.

"Neil, you've n z z m, o? Neil, haven't you noticed that I've been differently lately? Look back to your return from Chicago that last trip. Haven't I been less reckless, less troublesome generally, than the Frills you married?"

On a charge that he bit his wife's hand when she refused to allow him to use her automobile, Oliver J. Fritsch of St. Louis was fined $75.

TEXAS SCENIC BEAUTIES SKETCHED ON TRAVELAX ROUTE

Take the word of a widely known Texas artist, Guy F. Cahoon, the highways of the Lone Star State afford a variety of scenic beauties not excelled by any other section of these United States. Mr. Cahoon has made travel sketches illustrating many parts of the world, but finds sufficient subjects at home to make him especially enthusiastic regarding the natural beauties of his own state.

In Western Texas the motoring vacationist and his family can revel in the inspiring grandeur of rugged mountains," says Mr. Cahoon. "In Northern Texas they find long stretches of straight, smooth highway to intrigue them onward, mile after mile, over level, picturesque plains. In East Texas the traveler thrills to the peace and beauty of the wooded country as he motors through stately pines. To the south he enjoys a wealth of luxuriant, sub-tropical plant life as he travels through the palm-bordered roads of South Texas and the Gulf Coast country. Truly, a variety of scenery as wide as the range of sports and interests to which they lead." The above illustrations were sketched by Mr. Cahoon for the Portland Cement Association and show typical scenes along the Travelax Route. Maps showing concrete highways in Texas (The Travelax Route) are now being distributed by the Association and may be obtained by writing their offices at Dallas.

While Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Brown of Minneapolis went to church a sneak thief stole their stove, which contained a blazing fire, and a chicken dinner.

Modern Electric Service . . .
a Partner of Industry

Modern transmission line electric service has played an important and vital part in the progress and development of West Texas. With a new period of expansion awaiting this territory during the next few years—this dependable, economical and elastic power supply is destined to play an even greater role in the industrial drama to be enacted here.

Electricity has been the equalizing force that has enabled progressive small towns to compete on an industrial basis with large centers of population. Because of the adequate, inexpensive power supply furnished to this territory by the West Texas Utilities Company, it is possible for West Texas cities to go after, and secure, the valuable payrolls of industrial establishments. Much progress has been made during the past ten years—and considerably greater advances will be made during the coming decade.

The West Texas Utilities Company, serving 161 progressive cities, towns and communities in this "Land of Opportunity," will continue to work for the development of West Texas. With three major generating stations, nineteen auxiliary plants, more than 2,600 miles of transmission lines and scores of office buildings and warehouses throughout the 250,000 square miles it serves—this company's future and yours are inseparably linked. Working together we will accomplish marvels of progress during the next few years.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

This-That, Etc.

By Typo Wrighter

Excitement
"Nothing exciting ever happens around Crowell," is a statement we often hear from some of the local adventure-loving citizens. Being a loyal Crowell booster, we will present a few facts to prove that such comment is entirely unwarranted. Didn't we have three old-fashioned fist fights in Crowell Saturday night?

Didn't you hear those three shots before daylight Sunday morning and later learn that three tire thieves were arrested immediately afterward?

What about this local baseball feud? And speaking of baseball—we understand that a local pitcher has turned detective to discover the party or parties who sent him an illustrated letter. If you didn't see it—no doubt you have heard about the most sensational home run in years by Jack Roberts Jr. against Vernon.

The main trouble with these folks that can't find excitement in Crowell is that they just don't know how to find it or how to appreciate certain things that occur around here.

Here are a few suggestions for excitement hunters: If you see J. H. Self enter Reeder's Drug Store, waste no time in doing the same thing for a political argument will soon be under way that will make the Jim Ferguson-Frank Norris debate look sick; stop in and mention golf or football to Sid Haney and await results; let it be known that you are in the market for an automobile or insurance; ask some local Tech student about their 1933 football prospects (but don't mention their 1932 game with Simmons).

Of course there are also some minor happenings here that cause some excitement, such as the high school teams winning state and district championships; securing that gymnasium loan from the R. F. C.; drilling on a test west of Crowell that is already one of Texas' largest gas wells, and the annual victory over Chillicothe in football.

We Wonder
Is it going to be necessary for a human life to be lost, possibly that of an innocent little child, before Crowell awakens to the fact that great improvement is necessary in local traffic conditions?

But why wait until tragedy comes to remove dangerous and inconvenient conditions? There are a number of times during a week that the west half of the square is so blocked with cars and trucks that passage on this portion of the street is impossible.

People, especially little children, walking or running from behind vehicles in the middle of the street, barely miss serious injury each week. "D—mned if I ever come to Crowell if I can help it," commented a prominent Foard County farmer recently. He mentioned that just a moment before two children ran into the side of his car when they darted from behind a center-parked vehicle, but luckily he was going slow and nobody was hurt. This farmer also referred to the inconvenience caused by the situation and expressed wonder as to why it was tolerated.

Believe it or Not
A Crowell High grid star is going to play with the Chillicothe football team. Yes, Lewis (Hoot) Gibson is the guilty party, but thank goodness it isn't the nearby Chillicothe, but the team he will try out for this fall is that of the Chillicothe Business College of Chillicothe, Mo.

Too Bad, Too Bad
Why in the name of common sense will a person who has a large investment in Crowell business property make but little effort to support local business firms? His property wouldn't be worth a dime if other local citizens followed such an example.

Interesting Facts About The Home Town
Midnight in Crowell comes six minutes later than at Thalia, according to the local court house clock.

S. E. Scales is proprietor of one of America's shortest daily mail routes. Distance—Ferguson Bros. to the P. O. Time—arrival of afternoon bus with afternoon papers. Remuneration—a bus ride every now and then.

Weddings have been more numerous around here this summer than in a number of years and there are hot rumors to the effect that a few more couples may be counted upon to tie the nuptial knot before the end of the summer.

Old Crowell has the stuff and she is going to really come back. Her fate rests with her own citizens and we are confident that from now on they are going to be more loyal than ever before to their home town.

Advertising in The News pays. In justice to yourself and your hometown newspaper, give it a thorough trial.

The rest of the country may want 3.2 per cent beer, but Foard County will take a 3.2 inch rain and be satisfied.

Defective eyesight is the cause of thousands of accidents, errors, misunderstandings, mistakes and general inefficiency. Normal eyesight, therefore, is of such great importance that the optometrist advises a careful and thorough examination of the organs of sight every year, to ascertain whether or not glasses are needed, or whether or not lenses should be changed.

Mack Gamble Signs 1st Cotton Contract

Mack Gamble of the Gamble community was the first Foard County farmer to sign a cotton acreage reduction contract. He has acres in cotton and agreed to cut acreage 40 per cent or 62 acres. W. B. Griffin of Crowell was second farmer to sign a contract. He agreed to a 25 per cent reduction on his 100-acre tract. Both farmers took the option plan and signed contracts Monday.
