SIAMESE PIE-MELON

It is not unusual to see pie-melons along highway fence rows, however, Adrain Thomson and W. L. Scott of the State Highway maintenance department brought a freak of this nature to The News office Monday in the form of a Siamese pie-melon that they had found next to Highway 28 on the Foard-Wilbarger line.

The two melons were of normal size and were completely connected across the length of one side. They had grown from one stem.

BOBCAT GETS LOOSE

"Popeye," Crowell High School's bobcat mascot, lived up to its reputation of being a real wild cat Monday night when someone released him from his cage at the home of A. W. Lilly.

The one-year old cat raided several chicken yards and took the lives of several fowls at different points over the town before he was caught Tuesday morning.

Evidently he had heard of the Wildcats' smashing victory over a bunch of Eagles recently and possibly wanted to scatter some feathers himself.

ACCIDENT IS FATAL TO RELATIVE OF LOCAL MEN

T. J. Taylor and son, R. L. Taylor, of the Foard City community returned Tuesday after attending the funeral services Saturday in Celina for their daughter and sister, Mrs. John C. Flannery, 50, of that town, who died in a Denton hospital last Friday evening of pneumonia, which developed following an injury received in an automobile accident at Denton on October 28.

Mrs. Flannery is survived by her husband, an adopted daughter, her father and six brothers. She was spending the week-end with her daughter, Lucille, who is attending school in Denton, when the accident occurred. Her condition did not appear serious until pneumonia developed.

Following funeral services at Celina, interment was made in the Cottage Hill Cemetery, near that town. The deceased had lived in Collin County 41 years.

T. J. and R. L. Taylor were called to Denton last Thursday on account of Mrs. Flannery's serious condition. They visited relatives in McKinney before returning home.

73 Years on Job

CROWELL STATE BANK

WHISPERING ROCK by JOHN LEBAR

fourteenth installment

Ruth Warren, living in the East, comes into possession of a three-quarter interest in an ranch, left to her in the will of her brother, reported to be on business in Mexico.

Each day, as she returned from the south pasture, sometimes driving a weak cow, or even carrying a day-old calf across her saddle, the swelling fear in her heart increased.

As day succeeded day, each hotter, more hopeless than the preceding day, her anxiety increased.

ON WITH THE STORY

Charley himself had remarked that the rains began about the first of June; Snaveley had admitted that it might rain around the first of June—before the rains set in; but Ann, Donna, Alfredo, and Magda had insisted that the rain would not begin until the first of San Juan.

Now the twentieth of July, the single storm of more months before, there had been a cloud in the sky the size of a mountain.

When the last of the water was gone in the south pasture, Ruth felt that she would gladly give every animal on the place to any one who could take them to green fields and running water.

"Well," said Will, "there's one thing certain—when the rains hold off as long as this they make up for it when they do begin."

Here is a year old Marie Sieber, daughter of Marlene Dietrich and Rudolph Sieber, who makes her screen debut with her mother in a picture soon to be released.

gave my note to Parker for the cattle—my interest in the ranch will be gone by November—there's no water—the cattle will be dying in another week.

"Another week!" Both men stared at the girl. "You must be wrong," said Old Charley.

"What?" ejaculated Will. "Aren't you using the upper well at all?" "Upper well—what upper well?" asked Ruth in a dazed voice.

"There's a big pile of pipe behind the barn," said Ruth. "Tell me quick! Is there water we can use in the north pasture?"

When the last of the water was gone in the south pasture, Ruth felt that she would gladly give every animal on the place to any one who could take them to green fields and running water.

"If no rain came within a week the cattle would begin dying by dozens."

An automobile built like the cabin of an airplane, is under tests at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, N. Y. It has a top speed of 120 miles an hour and travels 30 miles on a gallon of gas.

THE COTTON GINS

The United States census statistics show that when most young men and women finish their schooling they go into business.

Not only are they untrained in modern business methods, but they are not even trained in common business discipline.
