CROWELL GIVEN MAXIMUM FIRE CREDIT FOR '34

Crowell's fire insurance credit, effective March 1 and lasting 12 months, has been set at fifteen per cent, the maximum credit that can be given a city by the Texas Fire Insurance Department.

The credit is allowed on a basis of three-year fire record and a 15 per cent credit on fire insurance premiums means a saving of over two thousand dollars to the citizens of Crowell.

Crowell's poor fire record in 1931 used this city to lose the maximum credit for 1932 and 1933, the first time that this had occurred in ten years. However, the good record for her years enabled Crowell to have a 9 per cent credit during those two years.

The good fire record here for 1932 and 1933 evidently offset the bad record of 1931, since the records for these three years served as the basis for granting this year's credit.

The importance of a city keeping a good fire record is plainly shown by the instances of two neighboring cities, Crowell and Quanah. Instead of getting a 15 per cent credit, as is the case with Crowell, a 12 per cent credit has been given Quanah on account of its poor fire record. As a result Quanah citizens will have to pay 27 per cent more than Crowell citizens will have to pay for the same amount of protection.

Graham, Seymour and Iowa Park are other cities in this part of Texas that have been given 15 per cent credits. Other cities and credits given thus far are: Nocona, 12; Olney, Wichita Falls and Shamrock, 9; Albany, Canadian and Clarendon, 6; Albany and Electra, 3. Penalties of 15 per cent were given Bowie, Silerton and Petrolia and 12 per cent penalties to Quanah and Overton.

Fifteen 10-month old Herefords, belonging to Mrs. I. M. Cates and son, George Cates, topped the market for this year at Fort Worth last week, selling for 5.25 cents.

About this time last year 15 of the Cates' registered white faces also brought the highest price that had been paid on the Fort Worth market up to that time.

As a result of action on the part of county, city and local relief officials, an increase from 15 hours per week to 24 has been granted local C. W. A. workers by State relief heads.

C. W. A. projects in Foard County are now giving employment to 175 people, 12 of whom are women.

Since the first C. W. A. payroll here on Nov. 25, 1933, a total of $19,230.55 has been paid out in salaries to Foard County workers.

Work was started here Wednesday on the cemetery water line projects.

JOE W. BEVERLY DIED SUN. NIGHT AT HOME HERE

Joe W. Beverly, 83, one of Foard County's earliest and most prominent pioneers died at his home here Sunday evening at 7 o'clock following serious illness of the past few weeks.

Funeral services were held at the local Methodist Church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial followed in the Crowell Cemetery, where the interment of the deceased's daughter, Lora, 4, in 1891 marked the first burial in the local cemetery.

Rev. George E. Turentine, local Methodist pastor, directed the services at the church and read Mr. Beverly's biography. Prayer and scripture were brought by Rev. O. L. Savage, pastor of the Crowell Baptist Church, and the funeral sermon by Rev. J. H. Hamblen, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Vernon, and a former pastor here. Rev. Hamblen had been requested by Mr. Beverly to preach his funeral sermon.

A special vocal number, "The Land Where We'll Never Grow Old," was sung by Mrs. A. F. Wright and Mrs. T. B. Klepper, with Mrs. Paul Shirley as accompanist. This song was also one of Mr. Beverly's requests.

The following nephews of the deceased served as pall bearers: M. S. Henry, M. L. Hughston, Thomas Hughston and Tom Beverly, all of Crowell; Cliff Henry of Quanah, and Tom Allan Hughston of Dallas.

Members of the Crowell Masonic lodge escorted the body from the residence to the church and conducted the Masonic burial ceremony at the cemetery, with M. M. Hankins of Quanah, pioneer and prominent Mason of this section, acting as worshipful master.

The large crowd present for the funeral and the numerous floral offerings gave evidence of the love and respect of people of this section for the departed pioneer.

Here Since 1885

Mr. Beverly had lived in what is now Foard County since November, 1885. Besides being a pioneer farmer and business man of the county, Mr. Beverly was also a pioneer in church, school and civic work.

He became a member of the Methodist Church when 14 years of age and joined the Masonic order when he became 21. Later he became a charter member of both of these organizations in Crowell. He served many years in various official capacities with both the church and the lodge.

Mr. Beverly had a long record of service as a school trustee and acted as secretary of the local school board for many years. He was also a leader in numerous other civic enterprises.

He was one of the leaders in the work of bringing the Orient railroad, now the Santa Fe, to Foard County and was on the committee that secured the right-of-way for it in this county. During the long period that he lived here, Mr. Beverly was actively identified with most every move that has played a part in the development of Crowell and Foard County.

If anyone ever deserved the title of "official historian" for Foard County, then Mr. Beverly truly deserved that title. He had first hand knowledge of practically every event connected with the history of this section and one of his special hobbies was the keeping of historical records.

He was especially interested in the welfare of Civil War veterans and did a great deal of work in keeping their records and looking after their interests. While too young to participate in this war, he remembered this conflict and the horrors it caused. Five of his uncles gave their lives in service for the South, while a sixth returned from the war minus an arm.

Between 1902 and 1910 Mr. Beverly compiled a list of 40 Civil War veterans in the county, together with various information about their part in the war. Only two out of this 40 were Yankee soldiers, however, they are the only two of the entire group

TAX PAYMENTS IN COUNTY AND CITY FAR ABOVE COLLECTIONS FOR SAME TIME LAST 2 YEARS

TIME LIMIT FOR COTTON SIGN-UP WILL END TODAY

Today furnishes farmers their final opportunity to join the government cotton acreage reduction program for the years of 1934 and 1935. The office of the county agent will be open tonight in order to give farmers of Foard County a final chance for signing contracts.

Every farmer in the county who has not signed and who is eligible to do so, is urged to seriously consider the proposition before the time for the sign-up period is over, which is tonight. Reports coming from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration state that there will be no extension of time for signing contracts.

Foard to Fall Short

Foard County will fall short of its quota in retiring the cotton acreage, according to Fred Rennels, county agent. This is due to some extent to the low yields which have been produced on many farms of the county. The fact that the limit of production has been lowered from 100 pounds per acre to 75 pounds has made it possible for a number of farmers to participate in the reduction program who were prevented to do so under the first ruling.

WILL REMAIN IN CROWELL

Joe Ward, who recently accepted a position with the Cheney Chevrolet Co. at Quanah and who had planned to move with his family to that city this week, will remain in Crowell as a result of his desire to continue as a citizen of the "old home town" and the fact that he has been made assistant manager of the Lilly Motor Co.

Mr. Ward has already assumed his new duties, in connection with which he works as a salesman. He is also directly associated with most every kind of work about the motor company.

that are now living. They are John W. Wesley of Margaret and C. B. Garlinghouse of Crowell.

Born in Collin

Joe Will Beverly was born in May 2, 1850, near Plano in Collin County, the son of Rev. and Mrs. John Beverly. He was educated in the old Spring Creek school near Plano and also taught in this school a short time. A private school in Dallas gave the deceased one year of his education.

On July 4, 1877, he married Miss Laura Reid at the home of her parents at Trinity Mills, Dallas County. They lived in Collin County until coming here. Five of the ten children born to this union are now living. They are: Mrs. Clarence Hutchison of Covina, Cal., Mrs. Luther Roberts of Dallas, J. R. and A. Y. Beverly of Crowell, and Lee Allan Beverly of Wichita Falls, all of whom were present for the funeral.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. T. L. Hughston of Crowell and Mrs. T. F. Hughston of Plano, and four grandchildren. Beverly Roberts of Dallas, Reid Hutchison of Covina, Cal., Fred Allan Beverly of Wichita Falls and Joe Wallace Beverly of Crowell. Mrs. J. W. Beverly died

Poll taxes totaled 1,496, which is 63.5 per cent of the total assessed and 357 more than for the last voting year, 1932. Auto registrations up to midnight of Feb. 1 amounted to 967, compared with 655 for the same time last year. Truck registrations totaled 103 and 37 sets of license tags were issued for farm vehicles up to midnight of Feb. 1. Registrations will be increased within the next several weeks as a result of the extension granted to March 31.

City Payments

City tax payments up to Feb. 1 for the year of 1933 amounted to $6,612.70, which lacked just $2.40 of being fifty per cent of the total assessments of $13,229.80. Delinquent tax payments to the City of Crowell since Oct. 1, 1933, amounted to $2,509.31, making total collections of $9,122.01, compared with a total of $8,177.14 at the same time last year, according to figures of J. T. Billington, city tax collector.

Eighty-eight city poll tax receipts were issued, compared with 63 for last year, which was also the city voting year.

Crowell School Payments

Crowell school tax payments for 1933 were 63.6 per cent of total assessments. Collections were $9,840.48, compared with assessments of $15,457.86. With payments of $5,821.61 in back taxes, the total collections amounted to $15,662.09, according to figures released by G. A. Mitchell, tax collector for the Crowell Independent School District. The total collections up to Feb. 1 amounted to more than $4,000.00 over the total at the same time last year.

Thalia School Payments

Tax payments for the Thalia school district have been the best reported in the county. R. J. Thomas, who serves as tax collector for this district, reports that $5,987.00, or 76.9 per cent of the 1933 taxes have been paid. The total 1933 assessments amounted to $7,786.73. Payment of delinquent taxes since July 1, 1933, amounted to $3,421.96, making total collections of $9,408.96, compared with a total of $5,152.20 at this time last year.

Foard Pioneer Dies at California Home

J. Q. Carter, 83, pioneer resident of Foard County, coming here in 1889, and father of Mrs. C. E. Lyon of Crowell, died at the home of his son, Jim Carter, in Three Rivers, Calif., Feb. 8, following an illness of 18 months.

Mr. Carter left Foard County in 1910 for Old Mexico where he resided until 1916. After returning from Old Mexico he spent a few years in the Rio Grande Valley, going from there to Phoenix, Arizona, living there until he went to Three Rivers where he lived until his death.

Besides Mr. Lyon, he is survived by two other daughters and six sons. Mrs. Carter died about two years ago.

Indictment Prevented Result of Death-Bed Confession in January

A death-bed confession in a forgery case probably prevented J. T. Copas of McKinney from being indicted by the grand jury for the February term of court that is now in session in Crowell.

Copas was out on bond after being charged with forgery in connection with a check passed on Egbert Fish of the Vivian community last fall.

Shortly before his death at his home in Collin County as a result of injuries received in a fall from a freight train, Reid Stanford confessed that he passed the forged check at The Allen Co. in Crowell instead of Copas.

Copas and Stanford were employed as cotton pickers on the Fish farm last fall.

FEBRUARY TERM COURT OPENED FIVE INDICTED

The February term of district court opened in Crowell Monday, at which time grand jurors were selected. After two days of investigation under the direction of Ed L. Gossett, district attorney, the grand jury recessed Tuesday afternoon until Friday, Feb. 23.

Grand jurors for this term are: Tom Abston, G. D. Self, O. D. Rader, O. N. Baker, H. H. Hopkins, T. R. Cates, T. F. Hunter, C. E. Gafford, P. M. Hinkle, J. M. Marr, G. C. Owens and M. S. Henry.

Petit jurors made their first appearance for the February term this morning.

Six indictments against five individuals were returned by the grand jury in its first report Tuesday. They were: Chas. Loyd, murder, in connection with the fatal shooting of Bob Scott in Crowell on the night of Jan. 13; Jodie Foster, two bills, driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale; J. E. Kelly, burglary, in connection with the theft of clothing at the Wright Cleaners; F. C. Foster, alias Dave Webb, forgery in connection with a check forged on S. E. Norris for $7.95; J. M. Murphy of Quanah, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Henry Roberson, colored, charged with burglarizing the H. Schindler home on Nov. 11, 1933, and J. T. Copas, charged with forgery, were no-billed.

Garden Plans Going Forward in Foard

Garden plans are going forward in spite of weather conditions and the fear of a late freeze by a number of people. A part of the plan made by Mrs. H. H. Beggs, farm food supply demonstrator for the West Side Home Demonstration club, is the laying of one hundred and fifty feet of concrete tile for sub-irrigation. This tile can be laid for approximately one cent a foot and will irrigate at least three hundred feet of row space.

Mrs. Beggs plans to plant a large variety of vegetables and hopes to get them started in the hot bed very early so as to get full advantage of all the growing season.

SINGING AT VIVIAN

The public is invited to a singing that will be held at the Vivian school house Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

GOVT. ACREAGE PROGRAMS ARE AID TO COUNTY

With the arrival during the past two weeks of 137 checks, with a total value of $25,360.00, representing loans on option cotton taken by farmers under the 1933 cotton acreage reduction program, Foard County's income from the 1933 cotton and wheat crops now amounts to approximately $1,624,450.00, compared with about $757,187.00 for the same two crops in 1932, a difference of $867,263.00.

The payment of the 137 recent checks, 29 of which reached here Tuesday, does not represent the total amount of the money brought into the county by options, according to Fred Rennels, county agent.

The checks from the destruction of cotton and the option checks combined total approximately $187,000 for Foard farmers. The money expended for the wheat acreage reduction in the county amounts to about $30,000.00. All payments on cotton and wheat reduction which have been received by the farmers of this county total around $210,000.00.

Foard's cotton crop for 1933, based on the bales reported ginned and calculated at the average price paid for cotton, combined with the money by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, amounts to approximately $1,267,500.00, compared with the 1932 cotton crop figured likewise which amounted to $567,187.00.

The 1933 wheat crop in Foard, together with the payments from reduction contracts, amounted to about $356,950.00. The 1932 crop amounted to about $190,000.00.

Applicants for Work Required to Report Every Thirty Days

Julian Wright, who is in charge of the Re-employment Service at the local relief headquarters, is in receipt of a letter from C. W. A. headquarters at Austin stating that unemployed persons seeking work through the local offices will be required to notify the person in charge of the Re-employment office every 30 days that they are available for work.

"If an applicant fails to notify your office during the 30-day period, his application card will be filed inactive and he will not be considered for employment," stated C. B. Braun, field supervisor, in his letter to Mr. Wright.

Mr. Wright points out that this does not mean that an applicant will be given employment when he reports to his office each 30 days, but it does mean that he will not have an opportunity to secure a job through the local Re-employment office unless this report is made every 30 days.

Anyone who needs any type of worker is requested to let Mr. Wright know of their needs, whether it is a job for an hour, a day or a month. He has the names of many men needing employment listed with him, together with the kind of work that they are capable of doing.

Crowell and Margaret To Meet in Two Games For Co. Championship

Margaret's powerful Class B basketball team will meet Crowell in a series of games, beginning here Friday night, to determine the high school basketball championship of Foard County. The second game will be played here Tuesday night and if necessary, the third game will be played next Friday.

Crowell and Margaret have won the Class A and B championships of the county in games of the past week and will now battle for the honor of representing the county in the district tournament at Childress the latter part of this month.

Coach W. A. Smart's quintet has displayed plenty of real strength this season. Recently Margaret High won second place in the tournament at King's High and throughout the season, the team has suffered only a few defeats. On basis of comparative scores with teams that both Margaret and Crowell have played the two quintets appear to be fairly evenly matched.

These games may also offer fans their final opportunity to watch the Wildcats in action here this season, for at present these games are the only ones left on the local schedule.

Asks Second Term

Ed Gossett of Vernon submits the following statement to The News in connection with his announcement for re-election to the office of district attorney:

"I take this means of announcing my candidacy for re-election to the office of district attorney for the 46th judicial district of Texas composed of Foard, Hardeman and Wilbarger counties, subject to the 1934 Democratic primaries.

"As you may know, I am now serving my first term in this office. My promises and purposes are the same as they were two years ago when first asking for this office. My ability to carry out those promises and purposes, however, has increased through greater familiarity with the problems and machinery of the district attorney's office.

"The growing complexity of living together as members of a civilized community, together with the growing cost and menace of crime, make this office a challenge to the best that any man has in him. The office offers a greater opportunity for service perhaps than ever before. Therefore, it is with a feeling of responsibility that I seek re-election.

"I trust that my services have not been displeasing to you thus far. I hope they may be more pleasing to you in the future. The opportunity of serving you a second term as your district attorney is earnestly solicited."

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worry

The unwise use of harsh laxatives may drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the wrong choice of laxatives often does more harm than good.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain.

You can keep the bowels regular and comfortable.

The liquid test

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble is not "weak bowels," but sir brother-in-law cathartics:

First: select a good liquid laxative. Second: take the dose as directed. Third: gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly out any need of stimulation.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the highest standing among laxatives, and is the one which refers to it. It contains senna, a laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Juniper oil is pleasant to take in the form of BUKETS, the bladder laxative, also containing Buchu leaves, etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "retting up nights" go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep.

On Saturday nights before the first and third Sundays in each month Bro. B. M. Taylor conducts a song drill at the church building. One hour is spent studying the rudiments of music, and if you wish to learn to sing, you should avail yourselves of this opportunity.

There is to be a spring meeting conducted by John Hugh Banister, but no definite date has been set. Remember all services: Bible Study, 10:00 a. m.; preaching, 11:00 a. m.; communion, 11:45 a. m.; preaching, 7:15 p. m.

Christian Science Churches

"Soul" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Science, on Sunday, February 18.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And I will set my tabernacle among you; and my soul shall not abandon you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people" (Leviticus 26:11-12.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Human thought has adulterated the meaning of the word soul through the hypothesis that soul is both an evil and a good intelligence, resident in matter. The proper use of the word soul can always be gained by substituting the word God, where the deity meaning is required. In other cases, use the word sense, and you will have the scientific signification. As used in Christian Science, Soul is properly the synonym of Spirit, or God; but out of Science, soul is identical with sense, with material sensation" (page 482.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

Jesus' Power to Help

Lesson for February 18th, Matt. 8-9

Golden Text: Matt. 9-13

In these two chapters we read of a number of remarkable miracles. Only one of them, the rebuking of the stormy sea, treats of the Master's control of inanimate nature.

All the rest are miracles of healing, and therefore highly personal. In rapid review Matthew sketches for us the healing of a leper, of a centurion's servant, of Peter's mother-in-law, of two who were insane, of a victim of paralysis, of a woman afflicted by with a hemorrhage, of two blind men, and a dumb man who was also insane. In addition, we have the touching narrative of the raising of the daughter of Jairus.

Now we must never forget that the real miracle is not the healing act so much as the warmth of compassion behind it. The sympathy, the loving-kindness, the pity of Jesus furnish the key to a true understanding of the miracles. Much time has been wasted in a wordy debate as to whether the miracles actually took place as recorded, and many attempts have been made to rationalize them. All of this is beside the point, for the real wonder is the sheer kind-heartedness of the Master! And there need be no dispute about this. All of us can understand it. For there is nothing so lasting and intelligible as the grace of tenderness.

A superb contemporary example of this compassion is to be found in the amazing career of Albert

Chevrolet Dealers to Give Actual Delivery Prices on Products

Instantaneous public response expressed in terms of orders for retail delivery greeted Chevrolet's announcement that hereafter their dealers would quote only actual delivery costs instead of the ambiguous "f. o. b." prices on new cars and trucks, reported by A. W. Lilly of the Lilly Motor Co., local Chevrolet dealer, upon his return from Fort Worth, where he attended a meeting of the District dealer organization conducted by Spencer J. Brewer, Assistant Zone Manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, with headquarters in Dallas.

In the counties comprising the Dallas Zone, more than 6,000 bona fide orders are now on the books it was reported at the meeting by Mr. Brewer. February, March and April shipments to this Zone are expected to exceed 12,000 units.

The "new deal" in automobile merchandising, Mr. Lilly said, quoting Mr. Brewer's address to the dealers, is designed to drive into the open every item entering into the cost of a car to the purchasers. "The immediate result of the new policy," Mr. Brewer reported to his dealers, "was a flood of wires and expressions of appreciation from both dealers and public." Accompanying these expressions, too, were more than 100,000 bona fide orders for the immediate delivery of the new 1934 "Knee Action" Chevrolet models.

"We are now in production on the new cars, and our 21 plants throughout the United States are working night and day. Shipments are being rushed to our dealers. Within two weeks we expect to be in a position to make immediate delivery in quantities of the new line to retail purchasers.

"Our optimism increases as we gather reports from different localities in this zone," said Mr. Brewer. "The outlook for Dallas is one of the brightest that has been reported. Conditions in this locality continue to improve each day and we look to the Dallas zone as one of the largest volume zones in the country in 1934."

Returning to the policy of quoting only actual delivered costs to the purchase, the Chevrolet sales executive told his dealers that he considers this one of the most revolutionary merchandising plans ever introduced into automobile sales practices. "Chevrolet is," he said, "basing the success of its entire sales administration upon the soundness of the new policy. The new delivered price policy will save millions of dollars to car buyers this year," he stated. For example, according to Mr. Lilly, the average list price of Chevrolet is up 14 per cent over 1933; the actual difference to the purchaser will be only 8 per cent.

Third Installment

Roddy Gordon, who has gone to New York to make his fortune, returns home to confront his parents and his sister, Nancy, with the fact that he has stolen fifteen thousand dollars from the bank where he works to help "the loveliest woman in the world" and will soon be found out unless he can return it. "But I love her," declares Roddy to his angry father. "I'd steal for her, I'd die for her—"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was still in the room. The yellow light flared low in the lamp on the table. There lay the newspaper, and he had dropped the night before, and her mother's work-basket was returned by the hearth. Roddy had knocked it down when he sprang at his father.

Roddy was going to jail!

Nancy gasped. On a chair were her furs, her hat and her gloves, just as she had tossed them. She drew a long breath, averting her eyes from her father's grey face and went to the chair. Swiftly and stealthily she put on her hat, her fur, and her gloves. Then she stole at into the hall, dropped the chain-link, opened the front door, and slipped silently out of the still house.

It was broad daylight outside now; the morning air touched her hot face refreshingly like cold clear water. It was February and the pussy-willows swung over her head. At her feet were yellow crocuses shot up, just like the yellow eyes of Roddy's men. Nancy stamped her foot on the ground, it was that woman who had done it. She knew it with the burning jealous second sight of a woman. It wasn't Wall Street, it wasn't curb-brokers, it wasn't gambling, it was that woman with the fascinating eyes; she wanted money and she had made a boy steal it for her!

Nancy opened the gate and walked rapidly down the street, never looking back. Sunrise made the flagstones white between the new green grass; keen little blades of it thrust up through the new brown earth and gleamed in the sun like seals. The red maple buds were like scarlet haze. There was Major Comax's house, the little one standing back. Nancy walked faster; if he did not hurry she would never do it. There was the low, black iron gate—it was ajar, too, waiting for her! She drew her breath, opened it wider and went in.

She went up the steps, lifted the brass knocker, let it fall with a clang and started, trembling, to run away again. But she was only just down the steps when the door opened wide and Richard Morgan stood here, looking at her.

He was not very tall, but so loosely built and lean that he looked taller. There was a white band on his forehead, above the tan of his lean face, and his eyes held you. Strange eyes, brown with green lights glistening in still brown pools.

Nancy put her hand out and laid it on the tall stem of one of his young trees.

"I—I came to see you, Richard."

He came down the steps, holding out his hand.

"Won't you come in then, Nancy?" She breathed hard, her knees were shaking under her. She could never do it—never!

"I've got to come in, Richard," he said weakly.

He had her hand now and he led her up the steps. Three times already he had asked her to marry him, and the last time she had tried to be rude to him, tried purposely, to stop him.

They both remembered; she saw it; he did not look into her eyes just then. He took her into the library. It was big and square and friendly, and the books lined it richly. A log had just been kindled on the brass andirons; in a bowl on the table were some snowdrops and pussy-willows. A tight pain clutched at Nancy's heart, like the closing of a vise. She saw Page Roemer's face as plainly as if he stood there, speaking to her. Then she heard Richard's voice.

"Sit down, Nancy. Here's mother's favorite chair. I'll let you have it."

His mother had been one of the rich Kentucky Weatherills; she had brought her fortune to the little old town and made it wonder over her resources and Dr. Henry Morgan's luck. Her death two years ago had left all the money to her only son. Dr. Henry hadn't any to leave, but he had left practice and a good name; Richard had those, too. It was called the Morgan luck.

Richard pushed his mother's big winged arm-chair forward now for Nancy. As he did it, the clock on the mantle struck six.

trembling. A pang of bitterness shot through him; he knew well enough why his love for her had never reached her, she cared about that Roemer boy. But she was here, at his hearthstone, now, and he could let his eyes rest on her. He saw her as no one else in the world could see her, he thought. How little she was, and delicate; he could crush her body up against his with one arm! Her little head, too, was so defiant, and the trembling shin and the white throat. He could see it move and quiver as she breathed. The exquisite turn of the cheek, the little ear and the lovely glossy hair. How dear she was. He drew a deep breath and she looked up sharply, met the passion in his eyes and shrank. She shrank so visibly that it pained him again. He thrust the chair nearer.

"Sit down, Nancy," his voice sounded harsh and unnatural.

This time she sank into the chair a little huddled figure, her head down.

"I don't know how to begin, Richard!"

He became aware suddenly of her anguish. He held himself in check with a strong hand.

"Are you in trouble, Nancy?"

"Yes."

He went over to the mantle and stretched his arms along it, steadying his fingers on the edge. He had the long thin fingers of the artist and the poet, but his hand had strength and power, too. It was the hand of a surgeon. He was watching her with his strange eyes, but he was not helping her.

"Richard, I tried to be rude to you—you know—last time—"

"Last time I asked you to marry me," he said quietly; "yes."

She caught her breath. He was not bitter, but there was something in him that was like granite. There was power in his look, too, it frightened her; he seemed to have himself so well in hand, and yet—She began to feel that his love must be a power; she had always been afraid of it, she knew it now! She cast a frightened look toward the door. Could she get away?

Then suddenly she saw her father's bent gray head and his white face, his mouth hanging open—as if he had died as he slept in the chair by the hearth; he would look that way when he was dead, she was sure of it! She tried to raise her eyes, but her lids seemed to weigh them down.

They traveled along the dull blue rug to the fireplace, they reached his feet, and then slowly—up, up to his narrow prominent chin, his tight mouth, his nose—it wasn't quite straight—his green-brown eyes! She started and the blood went from throat to brow, her own eyes quivered and fell, she gasped.

"I've come to take it back," she whispered. She could not speak aloud.

"What do you mean, Nancy Virginia?"

She twisted her hands in her lap. Her gloves had fallen on the floor at her feet. She couldn't raise her eyes at all.

"I mean my rudeness to you, then. I—I take it back."

He caught his breath. "Nancy, you can't mean—?"

She straightened herself, clutching at the arms of the big chair. Her dry lips moved but muttering nothing. Then with a frightened effort, she dragged it out, tumbling her words together.

"I've come to you for help—I'm in awful trouble, I've got to borrow money—borrow it today, too! A great deal of money—I've come to ask you to lend me fifteen thousand dollars, Richard."

His eyes held hers now against her will. She did not know what he thought; she felt humiliation, it beat down on her like rain.

"It's a great deal to borrow," she faltered weakly, childishly, "but I've got to have it—today! Richard, can you lend it to me now?"

He seemed to answer with an effort, but his voice had a strange thrill in it. "I'd do anything for you, Nancy—you know that, surely I'd give you all I've got—if I could—if you'd let me!"

ard." He threw himself on one knee beside her chair; she felt his arms around her. "When, Nancy, when?" His arms trembled.

She lifted her head and looked at him, her blue eyes still wide with fear. "On Monday—in Washington."

He held her, his strong arms like a thing of iron about her; she felt as if they pressed into her heart, and yet there was a quiver in them; the thrill of his own heart-beats shook them. But his eyes were searching her. She tried to turn them away but she could not, he had a power in his that seemed to hypnotize her. But she saw the flush on his face die out and leave him white.

"God!" he whispered. "I can't lose her—my wife! Nancy—" he raised one hand to her shoulder, touching her white throat; "I'd give my immortal soul to know—that meant you loved me!"

She writhed, dragging herself away from his touch. The very act, hysterical as she was, betrayed her. She hated his touch. He caught his breath, releasing her and rising slowly to his feet. He stood looking down at her.

"You don't love me, Nancy," he said bitterly, "and it's madness, I know it—but I'll make you—I'll risk it; I'll marry you on your own terms, I—" he drew nearer again, looking down at her. "I'm taking you at your word, Nancy; you'll marry me on Monday—anywhere on God's earth—say the word and I'll be there!"

"I've come to ask you to lend me fifteen thousand dollars, Richard."

She was glad that he had let her go; she could breathe now and she remembered. She had to save Roddy—she had to save the Gordon family honor.

"On Monday, Richard."

He caught her hands in his, drawing her impetuously toward him again. His deep eyes kindled but she shrank, shivering.

"It's a gamble, Nancy, but I'll do it—I'll make you love me! I—" He lifted her hands and kissed them passionately, first one then the other. "Don't be afraid of me," he felt them shaking. "I'll do anything for you—you want to borrow money? Listen, Nancy, I know you must have some great need of it, but I shall never ask you, never! You can tell me when you are ready, but I shall never ask one word about it, never question you, I'm going to take you at your word though, and marry you on Monday because I'll make you love me, I swear I will! It's Monday then in Washington?"

His voice was low still, but it seemed to reach through space and touch some quivering, pulsating spot in her soul. She tried to rise, dashing tears from her blue eyes, and her lips shook, but she answered, drawing out one word, the word he wanted.

This-That, Etc.

By Typo Wrighter

Memories of years ago were recalled when the truck with a load of feed became stuck in the mud on the west side of the square last Friday as a result of the rain on the slight detour resulting from the removal of a fire plug to the opposite side of the street and cutting down of the court house square.

Such an occurrence came with most every big rain a number of years ago but "it will never happen again" said the proud people on the West Side of the square when the pavement was finally completed.

The truck-sticking incident prompted Floyd Thomas to mention the plank that used to be pulled following a rain by Sidney Collins, one of Crowell's contributions to the better citizenship of Vernon. Not being here at the time, we have had to rely on the reports of others in regard to the matter.

It seems that there was a low place in the street on the southwest corner of the square that gathered lots of water when it rained and which had a habit of holding it for fairly long periods. Sid got the habit of anchoring a fully equipped fishing pole to the side of the main street lake following each rain.

While furnishing amusement for most people, yet it brought some embarrassment to some of the prouder residents of old Crowell, especially when tourists made inquiry in regard to the unusual "fishing hole."

We don't know whether this was just a silent gesture of contempt on the part of Sid because the town had such an unsightly spot, or because it might increase his reputation for being such a clever little lad, nevertheless, Sid and his fishing pole may have had quite a part in getting Crowell's first pavement started earlier than the case would otherwise have been.

City Improvement Notes

Evidently Fred Rennels has concluded that the horse and buggy days are really gone, for we see that the concrete hitching post that occupied a spot in front of his home for many years is no longer there.

Typo has removed from the top of his desk 107 old letters, 1,003 note book sheets, a pair of pliers, tube of paste, an empty ink bottle, an old typewriter ribbon and all other items that have been lost in the News office for the past six months.

We don't know whether the influence of the present district court session had anything to do with it or not, but that new waiting booth at Babe's shoe shop looks a lot like a miniature jury box to us.

Who Remembers—?

Carl Thacker's big red rose? When a visit to the court house clock tower was one of the favorite Sunday pastimes? As was the visit to the depot for the arrival of the train.

When there were 27 square turns between Crowell and Vernon? When girls played basketball in Crowell High School?

The wind-powered hack belonging to Gordon and Alton Bell, Brudge Andrews and Reggie Adams?

The sled rides around the square behind Chas. Wishon's Paige auto after a snow?

When kodaking on Raggedy Creek and Sloan Springs was quite the popular thing?

When about 3 or 4 school boys dealt misery to all of their teachers and had the whole town talking as to what they would do next—in school or out?
