Oil expert predicts for Garza County

91 million barrels of oil next 12-13 years

Garza County will produce over 91 million barrels of oil in the next 12 to 13 years — as much as has been produced in the county since oil was discovered on the Boren property 42 years ago in 1924. That was the bold prediction made to Post Rotarians at their Tuesday luncheon by Ralph S. O'Connor of Houston, general manager of George R. Brown's oil and gas division, who came here to make an Oil Progress Week talk before the civic club.

Drilling activity continues to gain

George R. Brown's oil interests here this week have announced one new well completion in the city, potentials on the new Well 1, Unit 35 triple producer, the city hearing on its application to drill a second well on Unit 39, City of Post, a drilling report on its C. L. Williams No. 2G, and its intentions to drill another new well just as soon as its application is approved by the Texas Railroad Commission.

The new completion, as a single producer, is the Montgomery Davies E No. 2G, which has been drilled south of US-84 next to the highway on the north edge of the city. It will be completed from the SZ-5 zone of the Glorieta. Potential tests await arrival of a pump jack.

E. R. (Buster) Moreland reports the No. 1, City of Post, Unit 39, is now coring in the Glorieta and should be ready for completion soon. The city council has scheduled a hearing for Monday night on Brown's application to drill well No. 2 of Unit 39 on the same site.

Moreland also reported the C. L. Williams No. 2-G, located in a field just north of Westgate Terrace addition was drilling yesterday at 3,161 feet.

He said a drilling rig will be moved to the J. E. Lynn No. 1 location, just west of Westgate Terrace Addition, as soon as the railroad commission approves the application to drill the test.

Moreland said the No. 1 well, City of Post, Unit 35, which has been completed as a triple producer has been potentialized at 101 barrels of oil and six barrels of water from the San Andrea C zone, 118 barrels of oil and five barrels of gas. "I SAY THIS because I firmly believe that through better technology, secondary recovery projects, sharper geology and possibly new, unheard-of chemical recovery projects, we will sweep more oil from your county's known reservoir rocks and actually increase your reserves without finding any new major fields," O'Connor explained.

O'Connor pointed out that Garza County's "big, deep obvious oil structures have been drilled in previous years," that no new major oil discoveries can be expected, and that the exploration dollars in the future will be spent out of Garza County.

"Don't you believe that your county and your city are going to go down hill in a hurry because there is no new virgin territories in the county to explore, no new big oil to be found," O'Connor declared.

Dr. Bausman to undergo surgery

Post and Garza County's "doctor shortage" and "hospital situation" hit new all-time lows here this week with the temporary retirement from practice of Dr. C. H. Bausman to undergo major surgery.

Dr. Bausman left Sunday with his wife for Dallas where he will undergo 10 days of treatments in Baylor Hospital. Present plans call for him to undergo major surgery in Plainview following the Dallas treatments.

He announces on page 8 of today's Dispatch his temporary retirement from practice for approximately one month because of illness.

Dr. Bausman stopped seeing patients at the Bausman Clinic last Thursday, but has clinic personnel on duty during his absence to forward records and accept payments.

The illness of Dr. Bausman has left Garza Memorial Hospital without patients and without a local physician on its medical staff.

HOSPITAL trustees met Monday night and decided to keep the hospital open for the present and the hospital staff intact "out of necessity."

Shutting the hospital even temporarily probably would mean it could never be reopened, due to the lack of skilled personnel. Giles McCrary, hospital board chairman, pointed out.

McCrary said present hospital personnel would have to seek other jobs if the hospital were shut down even for a few weeks, and with the country's present shortage in hospital personnel, a new staff probably could never be assembled.

W. C. Silvers, hospital administrator, said efforts are being made to run down every lead to bring a doctor or doctors here either on a temporary or permanent basis.

He said efforts to date have proven unsuccessful to try to secure part-time services of physicians from Tahoka, Slaton, Lubbock or Dallas.

The administrator said that Dr. J. A. Stirman of Plainview, who has been performing surgery at the local hospital every two weeks, is now on a vacation trip but has promised to "see what he could work out" to help Post in its present doctor-hospital emergency.

THE HOSPITAL staff of 16 Monday launched a "general housecleaning" of the entire hospital. "We are cleaning everything," Silvers said. "It is hard to completely clean a patient's room with a patient in it, but with the hospital empty we are able to go all out."

He said the cleanup will take about two weeks to complete. The hospital administrator also said that two or three hospital employees have volunteered to take some "time off" without pay as soon as the hospital clean-up project is finished to help hold down hospital overhead expenses.

Post man sought after shooting

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Victor Salas, 30-year-old Post man, on a charge of assault to murder in connection with a Saturday night shooting on a Garza County road.

Domingo Ramirez, 19, of Post, is in Mercy Hospital at Slaton with a pistol wound in his abdomen. His condition yesterday was reported by the hospital as "satisfactory."

Deputy Sheriff Bill Gordon said Ramirez was shot through the abdomen with a .38 caliber pistol bullet.

He said his investigation showed the shooting occurred during an argument between Salas and Ramirez, who were with two other local men at the time.

Gordon said efforts to apprehend Salas to date have proved unsuccessful.

Early school bus run scheduled for Friday

Due to the necessity of an early start to the football game at Morton Friday night, school buses will take the bus students home at 3 p. m., the day, according to Supt. William F. Shiver.

The school buses will be used to transport the team, band and non-squad to the game, the superintendent said.

LIONS PANCAKE SUPPER The Post Lions Club's annual pancake supper will be held from 5 p. m. until 8 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, at the school cafeteria. Tickets will sell for 75 cents each, with proceeds from the pancake supper to be used by Lions on the club's community projects.

1966 homecoming plans under way

Post Ex-Student Association homecoming activities will commence at 4:30 p. m. Friday, Nov. 4, at the All-Star Corral in the west part of town on the Tahoka highway. Elwood Wright, president of the association, said today.

The newly remodeled and redecorated All-Star Corral is in the building that formerly housed the bowling alley.

Homecoming activities will start with a reception and will continue until 6:30 p. m., with a business session included, Wright said. Following the Post-Slaton football game, which starts at 7:30, a dance will be held at the All-Star Corral.

The reception will also include buffet refreshments, Wright said. Ex-students will not be charged for refreshments at the reception or the dance, where the admission price is $5 a couple. "That is the only charge being made ex-students, and no donations will be asked, making this the least expensive homecoming in several years," the president said.

Cliff and Jay and the Caprock Ramblers will furnish music for the dance, catering to everyone's taste by playing both western swing and popular music. The combo will feature Bill O'Neil on the saxophone.

County approves library agreement

The Garza County Commissioner's Court at its October meeting this week voted unanimously to enter into an agreement with the City of Post for the operation of a city-county library according to state statutes.

The court earlier had allocated $500 in its 1967 budget for the library.

The court also appointed election judges, assistant judges, and a canvassing board for the upcoming general election in November.

Interest picks up

County judge race has 3 candidates

Interest in the Nov. 8 General Election picked up here this week with the entrance of a write-in candidate in the county judge's race, which already had two candidates, one on the Democratic and the other on the Republican ticket.

John Hopkins, who ran third in a field of six county judge candidates in the first Democratic primary, has announced that he will be a write-in candidate for the office now held by J. E. Parker.

Max Chaffin, who was the Republican party's only county nominee in the primary election, is making his formal statement to the voters in today's Dispatch.

County judge race has 3 candidates

Judge Parker, seeking a third term in the office, ran second in a field of six candidates in the first Democratic primary and then defeated E. E. (Elva) Peet in the runoff primary to win the Democratic nomination.

Also adding interest to the upcoming election is the race between U. S. Sen. John Tower, Republican, for re-election, and his Democratic opponent Waggoner Carr.

Absentee voting for the General Election is to open Oct. 19 and continue through Nov. 4.

Rites conducted for Grover Mason

Funeral services for Grover T. Mason, 60, of Route 3, who died of a heart attack Monday morning, were held at 3 p. m. Wednesday at the Graham Methodist Church, of which he was a member.

Mr. Mason became ill Monday morning while at work in the field with his son, Lewis. He was taken to the Medical Center here after complaining of not feeling well. He then was rushed to West Texas Hospital in Lubbock by ambulance where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Born June 6, 1906, in Gonzales County, he had been a resident of Garza County since 1925. He was married to Miss Willie Lewis in the Graham community in 1926 and had farmed there since. Mr. Mason had been a member of the Methodist Church since childhood.

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Joy Barron of Columbus, Miss.; and Mrs. Jackie Hutson of Fort Stockton; three sons, Homer Joe and Lewis Mason, both

Newspapers make a big difference

"Newspapers Make a BIG Difference in People's Lives." That is the theme of National Newspaper Week Oct. 9-15.

One reason newspapers make a big difference in people's lives is that people are forever asking, "What's new?" When cave men met along their jungle pathways, more than likely they greeted each other with, "What's new?"

Most of mankind, from antiquity through the Middle Ages, lived only with hand-written or word-of-mouth communications to inform each other. Julius Caesar, as early as 60 B.C., was posting hand-written bulletins of battles, fires, elections and actions of the Senate.

The Peking Gazette was established in the 7th or 8th century in China, where paper, ink, type and engraving had already been invented. Transmission of news in Europe was confined to the spoken word: town criers, ballad singers and even wandering minstrels. Traders and rulers exchanged private letters regarding foreign developments.

Until Johann Gutenberg developed printing with moveable type in 1450, most men and women lived in intellectual as well as physical serfdom. Gutenberg unknowingly revolutionized communications which, in turn, revolutionized civilization by providing the means of spreading ideas, as well as news, quickly and inexpensively.

Within 50 years, printing presses were turning out leaflets and pamphlets of various kinds and soon news began to appear in print. Feudalism had already started to crumble, but it was the hammer blows of ideas that brought the walls tumbling down. Ideas made men dissatisfied with their lot, making them demand a change.

The first "newspapers," called corantos, were smuggled into England from Holland. Then came diurnals in England, covering happenings in Parliament. Most were declared illegal, but a few were licensed and censored by the government.

During the struggle between Parliament and King Charles I, the press enjoyed relative freedom in England, but when Cromwell became Lord Protector in 1649, suppression became the rule. The press in England fought licensing continuously and it finally disappeared in 1695.

But the government was still reluctant to permit public criticism in the press. "Libel laws" were enacted which forbade such criticism. Both British and American newspapers fought such "libel laws" for nearly 100 years before they were repealed.

The first attempt at publishing a newspaper in America in 1690 was suppressed after the first edition because the publisher did not secure permission to print it. The first licensed newspaper in the colonies began publication in 1704. It was the Boston News Letter and was heavily censored.

Within the next century, many more newspapers sprang up in the 13 colonies. All were weeklies or semi-weeklies until 1783 when the Pennsylvania Evening Post and Daily Advertiser became America's first daily newspaper.

By 1800 there were 235 newspapers being published in the United States, only 24 of which were dailies.

Today there are more than 10,700 newspapers being published in the United States of which 1,731 are published daily and more than 9,000 weekly.

You can see that the printed word and the newspaper has come a long way since the invention of movable type. They're still bought for the same reason, however—because people want to know, "What's new?"

Every week, we here at The Dispatch office rededicate ourselves anew to the task of trying to put out a better and newer newspaper next week than we did this week. The reason it is easy for us to rededicate ourselves to our job is the large number of people who start coming into the newspaper office soon after 8 o'clock every Thursday morning wanting to know if the paper is out yet. They want to know, "What's new," and people will still be wanting to know a thousand years from now. That's the reason "Newspapers Make a BIG Difference in People's Lives." — CD

100th birthday for Texas oil

The Texas oil industry this week celebrates its 100th birthday. It comes only six or seven years after the national oil industry celebrated its first century of oil progress.

Oil more than any other single economic factor has made Texas robust and powerful today. Oil has also converted Garza County in the last 18 years from a small farming—big ranching county into an oil county with 1,800 producing oil wells.

Oil today pays over half of our tax bill outside the city. It used to pay two-thirds.

Today oil production is staging something of a comeback in Garza County and particularly right here in Post itself where rigs are now busy drilling for five new pay zones on vacant lots.

The oil "drought"—when the rigs shut down and moved out—has been longer than any farm drought. For a number of years, Texas oil was held down tightly in production and this curtailed the search for new oil.

But the George R. Brown oil interests within the last 12 months have discovered new pay zones right beneath the city and we have a new burst of drilling activity.

There has been more drilling too in other parts of the county this year than in recent years.

It's a mighty hopeful sign for Garza's economic well being.

Garza's oil industry is widely spread, not concentrated in a single manufacturing plant as is Postex Mills. But this oil industry is highly important too.

Today's Oil Progress Edition, which contains the special advertisements of a great number of local oil interests, will help put the importance of oil here in perspective for The Dispatch reader.

It's a big edition—and a mighty big industry. And one well worth singing "happy birthday" to. —JC

What our contemporaries are saying

Some where, some time and not too far away, somebody in high office is going to have to call a halt to riots, insurrection, mob violence, murder, rape, unlawful assembly, throwing of Molotov cocktails, advocating overthrow of government—all in the name of "civil rights." Other citizens have rights, too, and if Washington doesn't wake up, the voters will—or our civilization is a goner! —Frank Hill in The Lynn County News.

Down in the Hill Country they have a custom of estimating the number of mortgages on a ranch by the number of gun racks the owner has in the cab of his pickup.—Douglas Mearns in Matador Tribune.

The reason prayer was banned in our schools is that the Supreme Court thought they were getting so much Federal aid it wasn't necessary for them to have spiritual aid, too.—Cecil Ryals in Southwest Dallas County Suburban.

I've never been to a Roman orgy, but don't guess I've missed anything since I luck out and get to go to the South Plains Fair once in a while. Between being jostled by the crowd and dodging sticky cotton candy, it's hectic, but as long as we have children it looks like it's necessary.—Billy Stockton in The Crosbyton Review.

Men just don't understand the logic in women's purchasing policies. For example, a woman can find a suit marked down to $66.66 from $87.88, save $21.22, then find a pair of shoes marked down from $39.99 to $19.99, save $20, then buy an $18 bag and have lunch on what she saved. Husbands, for some quirky kind of reason, get real grim faces when you try to explain this type of economics to them. Looks like men, who profess to understand governmental spending, could understand women's spending, which is really very similar.—Billy Stockton in The Crosbyton Review.

THE WRITER of this column feels that he is rendering a public service by heading it off with the reminder that from here on out all the Post-Azalea football games will start half an hour earlier—at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock. So, those fans who have a hard time making an 8 o'clock kickoff are going to have a 30-minute harder time making a 7:30 kickoff. Even the Post band was almost late at the Tahoka game.

The man up the street says an optimist is a man who thinks his wife will get him something with trading stamps.

THOSE 1-0 GAMES in the World's Series weren't much closer than some of last weekend's football games I've never heard of so many games in which 6-3 was the final score or the score at one time or another during the game. Post and Tahoka started it off with their 6-3 game Friday night. Saturday afternoon's televised game between Georgia Tech and Tennessee ended in a 6-3 decision, and TCU and Texas Tech kept it up Saturday night when the Horned Frogs beat the Red Raiders, 6-3. At one stage of the Tahoka-Oklahoma game, the Sooners led the Longhorns by a 6-3 score, and Texas Western was ahead of West Texas State by that score until they kicked a field goal to make it 9-3.

If a woman really wants to dress to please her husband, the way to do it is fast.

A FEW DAYS ago, a fellow called from Dallas and wanted us to estimate the 1966 population of Post, Southland, Close City, Graham Chapel and Justiceburg for the new edition of the Texas Almanac. By putting our heads together, some of us here at The Dispatch office were able to come up with the population estimates the man wanted. In the course of the telephone conversation, I asked the caller if he wanted population estimates on any of the other communities in the county, but he said, "No, these are all I have on my list." On a trip to Snyder a day or two later, we saw from the highway a railroad sign the other side of Justiceburg, but still in Garza County, that read "Auratus." That was a new one on me. I'm sure the sign has been there a long time, but it was the first time I had noticed it. So, who has the story on Augustus?

Along the same lines, I've received a copy of the new Texas Travel Handbook from the Texas Highway Department, and while I've barely had time to glance at it, I'm sure it is a gold mine of information on Texas towns and cities. To give an example, I opened the book at random, and read this about Memphis, Tex., which is now the home of many former Post residents: "Winning an election made Memphis the county seat of Hall in 1890. And it got its name when one of the founders noted a letter in the post office addressed by accident to Memphis, Tenn., rather than to Memphis, Tenn. The industries of this banking and marketing center include grain and cotton storage and processing, a textile manufacturing company that makes sheets and pillow cases."

LAST FRIDAY morning on the front page of the Plains Record, I read where Joe Curry, Rogers Curry and Roy Edwards are setting up a plant in the Yukon County seat town to manufacture a new game they've invented, "Forty-five or Bust." I've known Rogers Curry for a number of years, having worked with him on the Brownfield News, and when the wife and I saw him at the Post-Tahoka football game, I asked him about this new Forty-five or Bust game. Rogers, who is now an employee of the Lynn County News at Tahoka, said it is a washer-pitching game played with two boards containing three holes each and eight metal discs. The three holes are scored as 5, 10 and 15, the object being to score 45 points before your opponent—without going bust. There's more to it, but that will give you an idea. Rogers said he and his partners have received contracts to make the game, which will be sold in five states by 318 salesmen. Two people are presently working in the plant at Plains, but if the salesmen turn in orders that they are hopeful of, it will mean employment for several more people.

This washer-pitching game is just another example of no one knowing where a new industry is liable to come from, and that is something Post's new Industrial Foundation should remember in its search for new industry. That is why the Texas Industrial Commission encourages inventions as a factor in creating new industry.

HOUSTONIAN ELECTED Charles S. Conley, Houston pipeline contractor, is now president of the University of Texas Ex-Students' Association. He was formerly first vice-president of the alumni organization.

We feel our whole family had so many more advantages than in a large city. Our sons participated in many extra activities in school, that they would have been lost in the crowded schools of a city. They also worked on fund drives, visits to Rotary, etc. Leslie going to Boys State was the deciding factor of his life's career in a "law" degree. Hope the American Legion continues this project each year.

We learned to get along with our fellow man and help each other in time of need. We did not know this when we moved from Dallas to Post.
I don't believe any town has the same warm, happy, one big family people as Post. We feel we were very fortunate to have the opportunity to devote time to community affairs. I think everyone should; it helps their town as well as themselves. We have come away from Post much richer than when we moved there. What we learned there is going to be a tremendous help to us here.

We will always miss Post and our many, many wonderful friends.

We want everyone who comes to Houston to come to see us. Our address is 2730 Briarhurst Drive, Apartment 26. Phone number is Sunset 2-9370.

Sincerely,
Leo and Lucille Acker
Houston, Tex.

WANTS TO SEE HOME TOWN GROW SOME MORE

Dear Jim and Helen:

We enjoy the Post Dispatch every Sunday—takes that long to get here. It has been interesting to watch the developments of the Industrial Committee, and it is commendable to see fifty-five men and firms underwrite the $80,000 needed to get started. There must be a little conflict, because it was noticeable some names were missing—i.e. in the automobile, cleaning, furniture, tire, oil, insurance, restaurant, barbers, hardware, dime stores and package stores.
The Industrial foundation is a good move, and should be a lot better than Post Developments, Inc., which had the unfortunate label of "The Empire Builders."
Our folks live in Post, we own property there and want to see our home town grow some more.
Tom Power
Casper, Wyo.

100 Years Later

In the Fall of 1866, Lyne Taliaferro Barret drilled the first oil well in Texas near Nacogdoches.

He used the rotary principle — with some crude tools made by a local blacksmith — to bore down 106 feet and hit oil. The well's production was rated at 10 barrels a day.

Since Barret's well, more than 500,000 wells have been put down in the search for Texas oil and gas.

Texas today produces almost 3,000,000 barrels a day in comparison with Barret's 10.

A century ago Texas crude oil was more a curiosity than an item of commerce. Texas wells today pump more than four billion dollars a year into the Texas economy.

Oil and gas development has enriched and endowed the state's educational system. The industry's tax revenues pay more than one-fourth of the cost of state government. The processing of oil and gas constitutes more than one third of the state's growing manufacturing industry.

CONFERENCE ON CATTLE FEEDING SET FOR AREA
 Space age developments which are rocketing the Southwest into the leading fed beef production center in the world will be featured at the sixth annual Southwestern Cattle Feeding Conference in Lubbock, Dec. 5.

High on the list of subjects which progressive feeders are talking about these days is steam flaking of grain, and this topic will be covered in detail by Dr. William H. Hale of the University of Arizona, recognized as one of the leading authorities in the nation. He will also discuss other factors having significant impact in cattle feeding circles in his address, "New Methods in Grain Processing."

Dr. Hale's address is one of several which are expected to prove highly beneficial to cattlemen looking for more efficient ways of producing beef.

White River Marina grocery store opens

Fishermen, skiers, picnic groups and visitors to the White River Lake may now buy hamburgers and colas, home permanents, sun-burn lotion, groceries, fishing lures, minnows, gas for the car and gas and oil for their boat, all in one stop at the White River Marina grocery store.

The new store, managed by Mr. and Mrs. Posey Wilcher, is now open and is owned by White River Marina, Inc., consisting of John Brown, T. J. Taylor, Hulien Clifton, Roy Lee Ellis, T. W. Stockton Jr., Bart Lynch, Jack Hash, J. W. Jackson, Charles Hudman and Jimmy Charles Dunn, all of Crosbyton.

It is the first of the concessions to be opened by the corporation which has leased all recreational and commercial concessions from the White River Municipal Water District.

The approximately 40 x 62 turquoise steel building features an expansive view of the lake through the all-glass and brick front of the building. A covered patio in front will be furnished with picnic tables for snack bar customers.

The snack bar, at the north end of the building, is equipped with eight stools; fixtures are stainless steel, and the formica counter is in a wood grain finish.

The large office and storage room is located just off the snack bar. The building contains restrooms.

Grocery shelves and notions and the check-out counters are situated in the center of the store. Mr. and Mrs. Wilcher have stated that grocery prices will be competitive and they invite all area residents to visit the new store.

An important feature of the store is the new 10 x 12 cooler in which perishables will be stored and where Wilcher plans to keep the meats for both the grocery store and the snack bar.

The store will stock all kinds of canned soft drinks, eliminating the need to return bottles and some of the hazard of breakers, glass around the lake.

Fishing supplies and the bait shop are located at the south end of the building. The bait includes minnows in large concrete for fresh-keeping.

The White River Marina store will have White River Lake fishing and boating permits and they plan to sell state fishing licenses, pending state approval.

Stran Steel was contractor for the building. Total cost of the building, fixtures and stock is estimated at $40,000.

White River Marina, Inc. is now in process of building a dock for gas service to boats on the lake. The store and dock are located near the dam and near the boat ramp on the west side of the lake.

Future plans include construction of a fisherman (enclosed fishing barge), boat storage and a trailer park. A steak house will soon be under construction by Mrs. Jack Hash, who has sub-leased the restaurant concession.

It's My Turn

— By MRS. C.

You know there are approximately 76 residences and buildings and approximately 60 old cars in the City of Post that are PUBLIC HEALTH HAZARDS?

These figures didn't come from census taken by the federal, county or city. They were listed by the self-appointed Mrs. C. and Rosemary between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock last Sunday afternoon.

Asked Rosemary to join me in street-by-street countdown could share any wrath that is forthcoming with her. I did to be selfish about it, and the two Mrs. C.'s will sound formidable than one.

The only area not included in the northeastern section of town across the railroad tracks and north of the Clairmont way. That alone will take hours.

The list is composed of houses and buildings that have been deserted. By deserted we mean that windows or doors (or both) are broken out or boarded up, the weeds are high and the whole property is in disreputable condition. Two classic examples of what we mean are the Ameen Hotel and the houses located at 121 North Broadway.

As we have an ordinance dealing with such PUBLIC HEALTH HAZARDS as "junked" cars this could be taken care of immediately by our city "fathers." We have the addresses and they can take the next step.

Some of the houses and buildings on the list were considered for condemnation several weeks ago by the city council but no action has taken place as yet at these places. Why?

A few houses on our list do include those with "For Sale" or "For Rent" signs in windows because they are in such deplorable condition and do constitute a PUBLIC HEALTH HAZARD.

Our highway approaches on U. S. Hwy. 84 sort of look like "before" and "after." If you're coming in from Lubbock it all falls in the right sequence — you see the "before" before the "after." If you're coming in from Snyder and pass our lovely park and the highway department's beautiful layout, you see "after" before you see "before."

Why did the two Mrs. C.'s make these lists? Because we like this town and we hate to see it lose its reputation for being "one of the prettiest and cleanest little towns in West Texas" to being just another tired little town that's gone to "pot."

Post has too much good and too much natural beauty going for it to let itself fall into a state of neglect. All we need is to generate some collective interest in making our town a place that looks bright and upcoming.

We are sharing our findings with the city council and with the Chamber's Industrial Committee, as they appear ready to go in attracting new industry. A good place to start is in improving our town so new industry will like the way "we" look.

We are also keeping a list of our findings so we can let you all in on the action which is being taken.

What this all boils down to is a matter of pride, says this Mrs. C. as she steps down from her soapbox.

GUESTS LAST WEEK

Guest speaker is heard here at meeting of church women

Mrs. Earl Reasoner of Slaton, District 2 secretary, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the women of the First Christian Church, which was held in the home of Mrs. Lee Davis Jr.

Mrs. Reasoner spoke on the Quadrennial Assembly, International Christian Women's Fellowship, which was held at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

Purpose of the assembly is to provide an occasion for Christian women to confront situations in which they must act with courage, said Mrs. Reasoner. The theme was "Courage to Be Christian."

The speaker said the "fish" with the Greek acrostic seems an appropriate symbol for Christian women at this particular time, explaining that it was dangerous to be a Christian in the early centuries so secret signs and symbols were used as means of identification. She went on to say that frequently in art forms the "fish" signified Christ himself.

An outline of a fish around the word "fish" in Greek letters was projected dramatically on a great curtain during assembly worship each morning, Mrs. Reasoner told the group.

Highlight of the assembly to the speaker was the Missionary Appointment Service which was held in the Purdue University Music Hall Seventeen men and women, including several young couples, were commissioned as first term missionaries.

Refreshments were served to the following:

The Post Music Club will present a musical adaptation of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" taken from the classic written by the Brothers Grimm with music from Walt Disney's cartoon, Saturday, Oct. 29, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the primary auditorium.

The Post Music Club chorus will portray the "seven dwarfs." They are Joy Pool, Lynette Thuet, Sybil Hillock, Nancy Macy, Marita Jackson, Fran Stewert and Peggy Bird.

Library Listening Post

One of the funniest (ha, ha, funny) books we have in the Post Public Library is our juvenile section. "Cinderella" and "Sleeping Beauty" are presented by Berlitz Publications, Inc., in Berlitz German for children.

On the book cover is the explanation that this is a truly original approach to language — teaching for children, made possible through simple phonetics and easy question-answer techniques developed by the world-famous Berlitz Schools of Languages.

All that I'm sure is true and noteworthy, but they forget to mention the pure fun that can be had by mothers who read to children and children who are learning to read. It would be hilarious to sit down and read this aloud to your little ones.

I can't resist giving you a few excerpts. The first line is, of course, in German. The second line shows how to pronounce the first line, and the third line needs no explanation. Such as:

"Was ist das? Das ist ein Kamin."

"Vahs isst dahs? Dahs isst ine kah-Meen."

"What is this? It is a fireplace."

"Was sehen wir im Kamin?"

"Vahs SEH-ben veer im kay-Meen?"

"What do we see in the fireplace?"

"Fuer und Ashe."

"Foy-ehr oont AH-sheh."

"Fire and ashes."

"Wer ist dieses junge Machen?"

"Vehr isst DE-zes YOON-geh MAID-ken?"

"Who is this young girl?"

"Es ist Aschenbrodel."

"Ess isst AH-sheh-bruh-d'l."

"It is Cinderella."

"Sie wohnt in der Küche und schlaft in her Ashe."

"Zee vohnt in dehr KEW-kheh oont shleht in dehr AH-sheh."

"She lives in the kitchen and sleeps in the cinders."

"Armes Aschenbrodel!"

"AHR-mess AH-sheh-bruh-d'!"

"Poor Cinderella!"

Need I say more? The whole family ought to be in stitches by now. Both stories are in the same book and are much funnier than Batman and Robin could ever be.

If you haven't been in yet to sign up for a library card, please do. It doesn't cost a cent. All you have to do is fill out a card, and get a library identification card. It's painless and will furnish you with more entertainment than you can get anywhere anytime.

Mrs. Lee Davis, who is the Saturday afternoon librarian, told me when I was in Saturday to check out a 1966 best seller addition, "Saturday the Rabbi Went Hungry", that five school children had been in to get cards. When she asked them why they hadn't been in during the summer, they informed her "they didn't have time then." The best seller I was lucky enough to get is a mystery by Harry Kemelman and well worth reading.

The library cataloguing chairman brought in the following figures which are most interesting: Approximately 1,000 books when library opened; 200 books loaned by the State; added since July with book donations, 1,502, which gives us a total of 2,702 books. The chairman says she has approximately 300 more to catalogue, which will give us a bit over 3,000 books — two to be exact.

Ready for more good ones!

Joining our long list of book donors are the Rev. and Mrs. George Miller (he's the new Presbyterian minister) Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Duke, Mrs. Raymond Shaw and the Post chapter of the American G. I. Forum of Texas. Carlton Webb and Mrs. G. R. Cowley and Terry have repeated with their giving.

Oil companies are assisting in beautification

Oil companies throughout the United States are receiving awards and praise for their leadership in air and water conservation and their cooperation in the nationwide beautification program.

Oil Facts, published by the American Petroleum Institute, cites these examples:

—A Texas oil refinery won a 1966 Honor Roll Award given by the Isaac Walton League of America for leadership in water conservation.

—A new service station in Washington, D. C., won an award from the First Lady's Committee for a More Beautiful National Capital. It was the only commercial establishment so honored in a year-long competition.

—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson also congratulated a New Jersey oil jobber who built a handsome circular office building. She said he was "making a valued contribution to beauty" in his community.

BUYS REGISTERED CALF

Momer Huddleston of Post has purchased a bull calf, Trix Majesty 32603, from John McIntosh of Clovis, N. M. The new animal is a registered Milking Shorthorn and the record of the transfer of ownership has been made by the American Milking Shorthorn Society at Springfield, Mo.

MORE GAS WITH WAGES

The average manufacturing employee in the United States could buy 31 per cent more gasoline with an hour's wages in 1965 than in 1955. Oil Facts reports that during those years, average wages rose while gasoline prices decreased.

—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey complimented a Pennsylvania refinery on the fact that storage tanks are painted in a variety of pleasing colors and the grounds are well cared for.

—Vermont oilmen were praised for launching a plan to have oil storage tanks on Lake Champlain painted green or other pastel colors to blend with the background of trees and grass.

MAN WITH AN IDEA

John Franklin Carll, pioneer geologist who applied his knowledge of underground rock formations to the search for oil, was one of the many men whose ideas sparked oil's first century of progress.

Until Carll's work gained recognition, it was thought that great rivers of sub-surface oil flowed from Canada through Pennsylvania to Mexico. He insisted that the best guides for oil prospectors were rock structures.

Carll's published reports are asserted to have created the geology of petroleum. They became standard reference works and were important in the development of knowledge about sub-surface oil accumulation.

Since 1859, when the first oil well was drilled, men with ideas have worked to provide Americans with this abundant, low-cost source of energy — energy that has meant more human progress in the last century than in the previous 6,000 years.

Q. Where can I get a list of schools and colleges approved under the new G. I. Bill?

A. No such list is available. The schools are approved by state agencies. Best method is to contact the school of your choice.

Q. I have been on active duty in the Army since 1960. When I am discharged I will need a loan to re-establish my own business. Can I get a loan for this purpose under the new G. I. Bill?

A. No. Business loans are not included under the provisions of the new G. I. Bill.

Q. I am uncertain as to what I want to be, but I want to use the G. I. Educational Bill. Can VA help?

A. Yes, the Veterans Administration has a counseling service available to assist you in selecting the most suitable training program.

Oil is found in hand-dug well

A Wyoming oilman who recently found oil in a hand-dug well 21 feet deep astonished the experts, according to Oil Facts.

Al Smith resorted to a pick, shovel and a few sticks of dynamite because time was running out on his lease and no drilling rig was available.

Although more than two million holes have been drilled in the United States in search of petroleum in the past century, no other hand-dug well is known to exist. The average well is more than 4,000 feet deep, and only one out of nine drilled in unproven areas finds even a trace of oil or gas.

Britain's Princess Margaret receives $42,000 annually from Parliament.

OIL SCENE IN 1880's — This rare photograph, appearing in an 1891 Texas Geological Survey report, shows workmen filling barrels in Texas' first commercial oil field near Nacogdoches. It was developed about 20 years after the Barret well. Visitors to field today collect souvenir samples of oil from these wells.

Municipal League opposed to proposed amendment concerning farm land tax

AUSTIN — Opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment relating to taxation of agricultural land in urban areas was registered today by the Texas Municipal League Board of Directors.

The proposed amendment will appear as No. 1 among 16 on the ballot at the Nov. 8 General Election. If adopted it would permit land designated by the owner for agricultural use to be assessed for all tax purposes on the consideration of only those factors relative to such use.

In a resolution adopted at a meeting in Austin today the TML Board called proposed Amendment No. 1 "unsound tax policy and detrimental to the cities and other political subdivisions of the state." The Board, governing body of the 651 member city League, asserted that consequences of the proposal have not been fully considered.

Five objections were specified in the TML Board's resolution, which stated that adoption of Amendment No. 1 would:

—Result in a boom in land speculation by holding so-called agricultural land out of development at low tax value, while such land increases in value, and while surrounding land becomes urbanized.

—Increase the cost of utility service as a result of the necessity for providing service to developed areas beyond such undeveloped land.

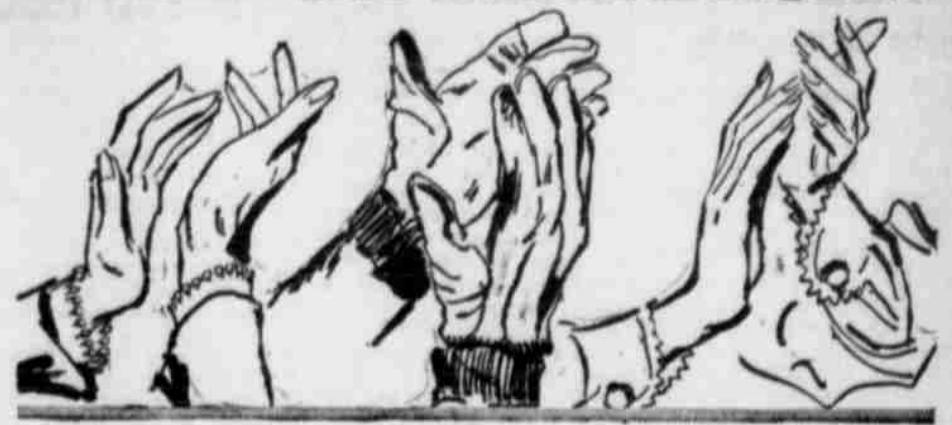

—Cause an increase in litigation as a result of the vague definitions in such amendment.

—Create confusion in planning for orderly municipal development.

—Increase the cost of local government and will probably result in an increase in property taxes.

The TML resolution gave formal confirmation to the position expressed earlier by individual board members. A detailed statement of opposition to Amendment No. 1 which appeared in the August issue of the TML's official magazine stressed the points set out in the resolution.

A BIG ROUND OF APPLAUSE...

FOR OUR GARZA OIL MEN

We want to say a sincere "thanks" this Oil Progress Week for the many contributions you are making to our community.

WE APPRECIATE YOUR PATRONAGE

SHORT HARDWARE

The 100th Birthday of Texas Oil

Petroleum historians have determined the first producing oil well in Texas was drilled 100 years ago—in the fall of 1866—by a fellow named Lyne Taliaferro (Tol) Barret in Nacogdoches County.

More than 500,000 wells later—over 1,600 of which are in Garza County alone—the oil industry is still searching for new Texas oil.

A very large part of the robust Texas economy today depends upon oil as its lifeblood.

So it is fitting that Texans this year honor the memory of this pioneer oil man—Lyne Taliaferro Barret—who did so much for his adopted state.

Golf course lease approved

Directors of the White River Municipal Water District have tentatively approved a lease agreement with the proposed White River Country Club organization for construction of an 18-hole golf course, clubhouse, swimming pool, and other facilities on the lake-shore.

The lease agreement is needed prior to the submission of a loan request to the Farmers Home Administration for $275,000 to construct the recreational facilities.

Tentative approval was given last Thursday night at the October directors meeting at the filtration plant.

(Continued From Front Page) You all know that the oil industry has been bearing over 50 per cent of your tax burden, and we see tangible evidence that you are not trying to raise our burden and put some of the small producers out of business, but you are going forward to see how this burden can be spread equally over all.

O'Connor declared that "such things as voting for the new airport and raising $80,000 for organizing a commission to find and attract new industry will take up the slack when the oil does start to deplete."

"Post will be a success because your leaders are trying, and I have found that when a community will actually seek out ways to help business, business seeks out that community."

O'Connor said he would be remiss if he did not praise "Post citizens one and all and our employees because through this difficult time of forming the 40-acre units, then drilling in the town, we have not had one complaint." O'Connor said "everyone is doing their best to help us get in and our people are doing everything possible to get in as quickly and as quietly as possible."

In conclusion, O'Connor said that "when your new airport is built, Mr. Brown's Houston personnel won't be strangers to this nice town."

He included Mrs. L. J. (Jack) Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Myers and Mrs. Curtis Palmer of Garden City.

Rites for mother of Post resident

Mrs. Lee Rogers, 71, of Trent, mother of Mrs. Ansil O'Neal of Post, died Wednesday morning of last week in Hendricks Memorial Hospital, Abilene, following an illness of about two years. She had been in the hospital two weeks.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Friday at the First Baptist Church, Trent, with burial in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Rogers is also survived by her husband, another daughter and two sons.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal were in Abilene at the time of her mother's death there. Mrs. O'Neal teaches in Post Junior High School and her husband is manager of the Pioneer Natural Gas Co. office.

School Supt. William F. Shiver and James E. Pollard, junior high school principal, attended Mrs. Rogers' funeral.

Max Chaffin—

(Continued From Front Page) am completely inexperienced, but I do have a great desire and feel that I have the ability to perform the duties of County Judge of this county so as to be a credit to any of the voters who might place their trust in me.

"I will not question the intelligence of the voters by attempting to state all of the things that are wrong in Garza County. Everyone is aware of these.

"I have been in business in Garza County since leaving the service in 1960. I farmed in the Pleasant Valley community for six years and presently operate the Chuck Wagon Cafe at 322 East Main in Post.

"I am a candidate on the Republican ticket because I believe in the two-party system, something we have never had in Garza County, but it is something I feel we should have. Throughout history one-party systems have always failed and will always be destined for failure.

"Many people have asked me if they had to vote in the General Election for the party in whose primary they cast their ballots, Nov. 5 will be a general election. A person can cast his or her ballot for whatever person or whichever party they choose; this is a constitutional guarantee.

"I would like to state at this time, that I will never place party above principle and I feel that good government is more important than party affiliation. The only thing that I am a diehard at, is being an American, and I will do battle with any political party, bar none, or anything that threatens to destroy our American Heritage.

"Business commitments will prevent me from seeing many of you personally since it requires approximately 18 hours a day of my time, but if elected, I will just as freely give those 18 hours a day to the people of Garza County since I would be a full time judge.

"If elected I can promise only the following things: Good management of your tax dollar, honesty in dispersing them and performance of all the duties of County Judge by the constitution and by-laws as they are set forth, and give justice to each and every person regardless of race, creed or color, name or what they street they live on.

"I am not running for this office because I need a job; I have one, but because I have an honest desire to serve the people of Garza County. In closing, I sincerely solicit your vote and influence. Thank you."

O'Connor had a lot of very nice things to say about Post during his Oil Progress Week talk before Rotarians Tuesday. It is obvious to us that the oil Post folks are now making to work together for a brighter future is attracting notice—it has been in George R. Brown's oil offices at Houston.

Oil, gas and water began flowing from a 106-foot-deep well in Nacogdoches 100 years ago, a well drilled by Lyne Taliaferro Barret, then a 34-year-old Virginia native and Civil War veteran, brought in that first oil and realized, briefly, his dream of wealth.

Barret helped form the Meirose Oil Company in 1865. With a tripod of wooden poles for a derrick, Barret began drilling Dec. 30 at Oil Spring, 12 miles southeast of Nacogdoches, using an auger fastened to a length of pipe and rotated by a steam engine. The next September, at 106 feet, it began flowing oil at the rate of 10 barrels a day.

Barret later drilled a second well, but money ran out and his infant oil business was abandoned. He died in 1913 and is buried in the Meirose Baptist Church cemetery, 10 miles east of Nacogdoches.

Oil had long been in evidence in Texas. Oil seeps in Nacogdoches County and other areas of the state had yielded a slick, tarry substance that Indians and early Spanish explorers had used for medicinal purposes, ship caulking and to grease axles and wheels. Generally, however, the oil seeps were regarded merely as nuisances which fouled the water supply.

Brownwood had oil excitement in 1878 when a wagonyard keeper, Martin Meinsinger, dug a water well to 102 feet and found oil sands that yielded about five gallons a day of dark green oil. He sold it for several years as a medicine and lubricant.

The state's first recorded use of natural gas was in 1879 near Greenville, in Washington County, when a water well being drilled by William Seidell struck a gas pocket at 106 feet. It was piped to a nearby house and burned as fuel.

POST, TEXAS

Prospectors rushed to Nacogdoches. Hitchcock drilled more than 40 wells before 1890 and completed 30 as producers. He had the first steel oil storage tanks in Texas and laid the state's first pipeline, a three-inch 14½ miles long, from the wells to a 2,000-barrel tank at Nacogdoches.

Soon a rival, the Lubricating Oil Company, had a similar operation. It also built the first Texas refinery, primitive though it was. But the production in the Nacogdoches area was not enough to be profitable and by 1890 most of the activity had subsided.

In the same year the Nacogdoches boom had begun, eGeorge Dullin struck oil in a water well at his ranch, six miles southeast of San Antonio. He sunk other wells and sold some oil by the barrel. He also found enough natural gas to supply the ranch.

Col. William L. Prather found oil rich in paraffin while drilling a water well on his farm south of Waco in 1891.

In 1892, Patillo Higgins, a Beaumont real estate man, studied geology and, forming an oil company, made the first scientific search for oil at seeps in the nearby Sour Spring Mound area, but failed.

IN 1894, WATER well drillers hired by the City of Corsicana were failing in their efforts because they kept hitting oil. Businessmen formed the Corsicana Oil Development Company and brought in Pennsylvania drillers to run it. In 1897 a frenzied oil boom struck the city and Texas oil production reached 65,975 barrels from 47 wells. New companies were formed and derricks popped up all over the east side of town, in yards, gardens and horse lots. Hotels and rooming houses overflowed. Prices skyrocketed.

By the end of 1898, Corsicana had almost 400 producing wells. Daily oil production was 2,300 barrels, compared to 500 at the end of 1897. Production was outstripping the demand until J. S. Cullinan of Pennsylvania came to Corsicana and built an illuminating oil and gasoline refinery that was a predecessor of the Magnolia Petroleum Company. The refinery had a capacity of 1,000 barrels and cost $150,000.

The Corsicana boom saw the rotary drill replace the auger for drilling. Oil was soon used to settle dusty streets and also to burn in locomotives. The Texas Legislature passed a law in 1899, the first oil and gas statute, requiring the casing of productive wells and the confining of gas to prevent its waste.

Then in 1899, Patillo Higgins and his associates who had failed to find oil at Sour Springs Mound brought Anthony F. Lucas, an experienced salt dome prospector of Washington, D. C., to Texas.

LUCAS BEGAN drilling south of Beaumont in October, 1900, and on Jan. 10, 1901, the drill pipe shot through the top of the derrick. A powerful column of dark green oil spouted twice the height of the derrick and showered the surrounding area.

Spindletop, the greatest gusher the world had ever seen, had blown in. And the sputtering pulse of the Texas oil industry was away and racing.

The oil rush to Beaumont brought 50,000 people almost overnight to a town of 9,000. By the time Lucas' men had capped the Spindletop geyser nine days after it came in, tracts of land near the well that had gone begging at less than $10 an acre, suddenly sold for up to $200,000. In 1901 alone, 1,750,000 barrels of oil were shipped from the new field.

Spindletop ushered in a new era in the use of petroleum—for fuel oil, lighting and lubrication. Exploration in other parts of Texas was intensified.

The Henrietta (later named Petrolia) oil field on the Red River Uplift was discovered in 1902. On the coast, discoveries were made at Saratoga, Sour Lake, Batson, North Dayton and Humble. Other finds came quickly. In 1907 and 1908, eight-inch pipelines were completed from Oklahoma to the Gulf Coast.

ELECTRA HAD the next major oil find in Texas. In 1911 a towering gusher blew in near the North-western Texas town, where W. T. Wagoner, a rancher, had spurned the oil found in wells he was drilling for water several years earlier.

Electra became a boom town, with prices soaring. Many of those who rushed there had to live in tents and shacks. Within two years, the Electra field was producing more than eight million barrels a year.

Also in 1911, production started in Archer County. Gulf built a refinery at Fort Worth. The Humble Oil Company was chartered. Natur-

Will we STRIKE OIL-

or

STRIKE OUT?''

Texas Oil Men have been asking themselves this question for the last 100 years

Lyne Taliaferro Barret undoubtedly asked himself this question — before he brought in Texas' first oil well — a 10-barrel well from 106 feet down in Nacogdoches County in the fall of 1866.

Texas oil men probably will be asking themselves the same question for the next 100 years too — but the search will go on — and America will be the stronger for it.

his site for $3,600. Soon, however, as production leveled off and declined, the oil fever subsided and the town settled down.

THIS BOOMING era also saw the beginning of the Railroad Commission's supervision over oil and gas affairs. In 1917, the Texas Legislature declared pipelines to be common carriers and placed them under the jurisdiction of the commission. Then in 1919, the Legislature formed the Oil and Gas Division of the Railroad Commission, which adopted 38 permanent rules.

It was also in 1919, that leading Texas oilmen gathered in Fort Worth and organized the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, now one of the largest and most influential trade associations in the industry, and recommended conservation practices for the state. As a result, the Railroad Commission issued its first proration order, for the Burk Burnett field.

Another major gas discovery was made near Amarillo in 1905, where the world's largest gas well had a daily output of 10 million cubic feet. Oil production had returned to some semblance of order in Texas until 1921, when two big gushers blew in on the same day at Mexia.

ONCE AGAIN, the rush was on. Mexia's population jumped from 4,000 to 40,000 in a few days. Newcomers slept in cars or tents, or anywhere else they could find to lie down. Along with the oilmen came the bootleggers, dope peddlers, gamblers, hijackers and prostitutes. Crime became so rampant that Gov. Pat M. Neff declared martial law in 1922 and sent Texas Rangers to restore order. But the oil field produced more than 35 million barrels that year.

It was in 1923 that Santa Rita No. 1 blew in on state-owned land in West Texas near Colorado City, making the University of Texas the richest college in the nation and opening the vast Permian Basin oil fields.

It was also in 1923, that the first penny tax was put on gasoline by the Texas Legislature, which specified that three-fourths of the revenue was for highways and the other one-fourth for schools.

As discoveries continued, Texas took over the world's leadership in oil production in 1925, with 257,320,000 barrels, to Oklahoma's 249,857,000 and California's 231,811,000.

DEVELOPMENT in the industry had become systematic, when in 1930, a 79-year-old shoestring wildcatter, Columbus M. (Dad) Joiner persisted in drilling for oil in the woods of Rusk County, where orthodox geologists had repeatedly said no oil was to be found. After traces of oil had been found at the site, seven miles west of Henderson, 1,000 people had streamed to the site to watch the blowout of the gusher that heralded the discovery of the vast East Texas oil field. Longview's population jumped from 5,000 to 10,000 in a month and Kilgore's from 1,000 to 8,000 almost as quickly.

Producers in the rich field ran wild and by 1931, the price of crude oil in Texas had dropped from $1.10 a barrel to as low as 5 cents. Finally the Railroad Commission ordered the field's flow cut in half, but many producers flouted the orders and finally Gov. Ross S. Sterling ordered the East Texas wells shut down and sent National Guard troops to take charge under martial law. By the end of the year, crude prices were back up to almost $1. In 1932 a federal court ruled that Sterling's martial law action had been unlawful.

RANGER, 1919 — The colorful Ranger boom, which began with a 1917 discovery, produced some of the wildest boom town stories of them all, but this scene of an auto mired in its main street gives authenticity to reports of visitors paying to be "ferried" across muddy streets.

By then the state was attempting to enforce proration orders, but "hot oil" running flourished. Operators used "dummy" wells, with their pipes attached to a good producer, or trucked oil out at night, to escape the law. In November, 1932, the Legislature empowered the Railroad Commission under the "Market Demand Act" to restrict production to the amount of oil for which a market could be shown, still a cornerstone of the state's conservation system.

BY 1933, despite the depression, Texas' oil production was 462.6 million barrels, more than double that of any other state.

New fields continued to be discovered and then World War II came, Texas was ready with the oil reserves required to supply the energy for allied forces, providing most of the nation's 80 per cent increase in production required from 1942-45.

By 1943, the "Big-Inch Pipeline," 24 inches in diameter, stretched nearly 1,500 miles from Longview to near Phoenixville, Pa., a joint effort of 11 oil companies to get Texas crude to Eastern refineries. The same year the 20-inch diameter "Little Big Inch Pipeline" was completed from Beaumont to Linden, N. J., a distance of 1,714 miles.

After World War II, drilling activity increased. The biggest discovery since Dad Joiner's East Texas gusher was made in Scurry County in 1949, when the small cattle town of Snyder suddenly became a boom town. Derricks even sprouted on the golf course and in churchyards.

During the Korean War of the early 1950's Texas oil activity was spurred as the state produced two-thirds of the increase in national production required.

In 1953, with strong Texas backing, Congress passed the bill that gave the states control of their tidelands, and drilling in the Gulf of Mexico increased.

In 1956, Texas' all-time crude oil production record of 1,107,808,000 barrels was set.

A STATE investigation of slant-well drilling in East Texas was triggered in 1961, when an illegal well slanted at a 55-degree angle pierced the casing of a 25-year-old well. By 1963, investigators had found 93 wells slanted to obtain oil from someone else's lease.

Meanwhile, through trials and booms over the years, the processing of Texas oil and gas has become a major industry in the state. By 1962 investments in petrochemical plants on the Texas Gulf Coast were $4 billion, with about a hundred plants in the Houston area alone pouring out $8 billion in products a year.

Drillers went deeper and deeper and in 1963 the world's deepest gas well was completed at 19,895 feet near Fort Stockton.

Conservation has been a major concern in recent years. The industry and the Railroad Commission have made great strides in combating water pollution. About 90 per cent of the salt water produced in drilling is now being pumped back to underground formations where it cannot harm fresh water.

The Railroad Commission passed laws to provide wider spacing of wells, granting them higher production rates, so fields could be developed with fewer wells and less cost. The Legislature, in 1965, passed a pooling statute which set up provisions so that various owners of a field could combine small tracts of land into a larger unit, where a single well, would be drilled and all would share in the proceeds.

THE NATION'S economy in recent years has brought about changes in the industry too. There is less exploration than in previous decades and reserves have declined slightly in recent years. More emphasis is being put on secondary recovery, by going back to old wells to squeeze out the last feasible drop. Most large companies have been through cost-cutting programs in recent years.

As Texas celebrates its oil centennial, it is again being called upon to provide the extra production for the Viet Nam War, and despite vast discoveries of oil around the world still provides the nation with a fourth of its total energy.

Today the state's petroleum operations, in 210 of its 254 counties, provide $4 billion a year in income, payrolls of $1.3 billion and 22.3 per cent of state tax revenues.

Centennial booklet tells story of oil and gas industry year by year

DALLAS — The development of the oil and gas industry in Texas is told in an illustrated centennial history published by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

The 40-page souvenir booklet, "The First 100 Years of Texas Oil & Gas," was written by Wayne Gard, author, retired Dallas Morning News editorial writer and vice president of the Texas State Historical Association.

The history traces the oil and gas industry in decade-by-decade steps since Lyne Taliaferro Barret completed the state's first oil well in September 1866, near Nacogdoches, relating it with the significant worldwide historical events of the last century. Photographs of the oil fields of each decade are used to illustrate the publication.

It is dedicated to Charles A. Warner of Houston, historian, oil man and author of "Texas Oil and Gas Since 1843," published in 1939, which is regarded as a classic history of the state's petroleum industry.

booklet are available through the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, 2929 Southland Center, Dallas, Texas, 75201.

NEW WRITING AWARD

Look What's Happened Here in Texas in 100 Years!

In the fall of 1866, Lyne Taliaferro (Tol) Barret successfully completed the first Texas oil producer. It's total depth was 106 feet — and it rated at 10 barrels daily.

The well was located in Nacogdoches County.

Oil didn't make Mr. Barret rich. He failed in efforts to secure needed financial backing. His only other drilling effort was an 80-foot-deep duster.

But from this small beginning grew the Lone Star state's No. 1 industry — oil.

Over a half million Texas producing wells have been drilled since Barret's first one. Texas wells today pump more than four billion dollars annually into the Texas economy.

But finding oil in Texas is still a mighty risky business — just as it was 100 years ago for Tol Barret.

But the search goes on — at an average cost of 8 dry holes for every producer in new territory. It will go on through the next 100 years too.

Texas DPS has 231 vacancies in uniformed patrol services

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Public Safety announced today it has 231 vacancies in its uniformed patrol services and reminded interested men between the ages of 21 and 35 that the next deadline for applications is Oct. 17.

Examinations will be held on Oct. 22 for the next cadet training school scheduled to begin Jan. 3. Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director, said vacancies exist in all four of the uniformed services — Highway Patrol, License and Weight, Driver License, and Motor Vehicle Inspection. Most of the openings are in the Highway Patrol Service.

"These opportunities for careers in the public service offer many and varied advantages for qualified young men," Garrison said. "Men who would like to dedicate their lives to helping people can at the same time enjoy a livelihood with security and opportunity for advancement."

He pointed out that effective Sept. 1, higher salaries and the five-day week went into effect for all DPS uniformed personnel. He said cadets at the DPS Law Enforcement Academy in Austin will receive $400 per month while in training, and will be off Saturdays and Sundays. The training period will last approximately 18 weeks, including 13 weeks of basic training. The remainder of the per-

THIS WEEK IS CELEBRATING ITS

100th BIRTHDAY

Lyne Taliaferro (Tol) Barret Drilled Texas' first oil well in Nacogdoches County in October, 1866

Using crude tools made by a local blacksmith he bored down just 106 feet and hit oil.

His first producer was rated at 10 barrels a day.

From this small beginning has grown the great Texas oil industry which today is the back bone of the Lone star state.

George R. Brown

HAWKS POLICE RANCHES
BRADY — Great numbers of Swainson's hawks have been migrating through this area, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fieldmen noted many airborne between here and Rochelle and east of Stephenville in Erath County. Observing land owners realize their good fortune, according to the Department, when the southbound feathered predators stop over to rest and feed. During the visits, sometimes running into several days, they feast on rats, snakes, and grasshoppers.

Time-savers, housekeeping shortcuts of importance to working mothers

COLLEGE STATION — Time-savers and housekeeping shortcuts are important to all mothers, but especially valuable to the working mother.
 Here are a few ideas from Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University. Written schedules can improve your efficiency. You may not want to run your home on a stopwatch timetable, but it does help to write down everything that must be done, and then assign an approximate hour for doing it. This not only gives you an idea of the scope of your job, but helps you to see and eliminate non-essentials.

 Allot yourself an extra hour in the morning to accomplish a few tasks. Many mothers prefer to get up early rather than face a messy kitchen and unmade beds at the end of the day. Some women keep up with the ironing by doing a few pieces several mornings a week. Others prefer to save this task for evenings or weekends. Remember that no-iron fabrics and wash-and-wear clothing save lots of time and energy.

Plan menus for the entire week so that there's no last-minute meal planning every afternoon after work. Do main marketing once a week. Stock up on staples, canned and frozen goods, and then fill in with fresh fruits, vegetables and meat as needed during the week.
 Lists kept in strategic places help to jog your memory. For instance, a pad and pencil hung on the kitchen wall make it possible for you to jot down needed items when you think of them.

A blackboard or bulletin board in the kitchen makes a fine place for notes and family communications. It also provides a convenient spot for posting special chores to be done by the youngsters, and for tacking up menus. A busy mother can leave messages for the family.

alone with her thoughts

Are they good company — her thoughts, that is?

For this is a time of her life when much can depend on the outcome of these moments when she is alone with her thoughts.

Decisions will be made — irrevocable decisions.

Steps will be taken that cannot be retraced.

The happiness of those who love her hangs in the balance . . . as she tries to discover where her own happiness lies.

But her thoughts are projections of the lessons she has learned, the experiences she has had.

And high among these are the truths she learned in her church life, and the rich experiences she has known with Christian friends who grew up in religious homes.

Alone with her thoughts . . . this girl is in good company!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Lopes to open district play at Morton Friday night

Kickoff time
7:30 p.m.

Post Antelopes and Morton will get their 1966 District football campaigns under way with the kickoff set for 7:30 minutes earlier than the non-conference games have been starting.

Coach Glenn Gregg's Antelopes heavily favored over Coach Weaver's winless Indians. The Post coach says that they mean the Antelopes are the Morton game lightly. They have a big team, and you can't tell when a "sleep" will come to life, we're going to try to make sure it isn't us Friday night," the coach said.

At least three of the Morton's outstanding players who've been out of action or hampered by injuries will be ready to fall strength against the Antelopes. They include quarterback St. Clair, 175-pound senior, and Jimmy Waters, 183-pound senior, and end LaMell Abbe, also senior.

FRIDAY NIGHT will also be the homecoming, which is another reason the Antelopes are going guard against being slipped by Coach Gregg said.

Indians played a good game at Bovina, a strong Class A last Friday night before the 30-16. The score was tied in the second quarter.

Morton lost only six points, to Friona, which has emerged as a favorite with Abernathy district 3AA after beating Olton Lockery.

Indians have lost handily, 28-0 to Olton, 28-0 to Abernathy, and Muleshoe, 67-8.

Coach Gregg said Post scouts that in St. Clair the Antelopes will be going against the best back they've faced yet this year. He takes and throws well, one of the team's best ball carriers.

THE team's 183-pound back furnishes the team's running.

Indians run most of their offense with a winged T in a flank-aster set and also employ tandem I formation.

Probable starters for the Indians: Jerry Luper, 170-pound senior; end; Larry Smith, 155-pound senior, left tackle; Larry King, 180-pound senior, left end; Ray King, 170-pound senior; Billy Smart, 185-pound senior, right guard; Dick Vanlandingham, 180-pound junior, right end; Lonnie Smith, 135-pound senior, right end; St. Clair, quarterback; Charles Jovee, 145-pound senior, tailback; Danny Culmure, 185-pound junior, wingback.

Tahoka scores on late drive

3 points not enough; Bulldogs edge 'Lopes

The Post Antelopes learned the hard way Friday night that they couldn't make a second quarter field goal stand up against an aroused Tahoka Bulldog eleven, and came home on the short end of a 6-3 score.

It was the first setback of the season for Coach Glenn Gregg's Antelope eleven and came in a bruising defensive battle played before what must have been the largest crowd ever to jam the Tahoka stadium.

The victory kept the Bulldogs' string intact through five games and enhanced their already high standing among the state's Class A elevens.

The Post field goal came 5 minutes and 20 seconds deep in the second quarter off the toe of fullback Paul Walker, and until late in the second quarter it appeared that the 20-yard field goal might stand up as the margin of victory.

BUT COACH Don Smith's Bulldogs had other ideas. Mounting a drive on their 12-yard line after holding for downs, the Tahokans drove 88 yards for a touchdown on a 17-yard pass play from quarterback Mitchell Williams to end Chris Roberts, with only 2:06 showing on the scoreboard. The Post forward wall blocked Cliff Thomas' extra point kick, but, as it developed, the Bulldogs didn't need the point.

The 88-yard touchdown drive and Waters, fullback.

With the exception of end Roy Sappington, who may or may not see action against Morton, the Antelope squad is in good condition for Friday night's district opener, according to Coach Gregg. Sappington, who injured a knee in the Hamlin game, missed Friday night's Tahoka contest.

"Otherwise, bruises are the extent of our injuries," the coach said.

The squad will leave at 3 p. m. Friday on the 100-mile trip to Morton, their longest jaunt of the season.

| 1               | Fumbles Lost     | 0        |

was the only real scoring threat Tahoka made in the second half, but they set it up perfectly by blunting two serious threats by the Antelopes, one of the drives ending on the eight when the Bulldogs recovered Walker's fumble and the other on the 12 when they held for downs.

With the Post defense keeping Tahoka's 185-pound halfback Cliff Thomas bottled up for most of the night, the Bulldogs seriously threatened the Post goal line only once in the first half and were stopped cold in the second half except on their touchdown drive.

Post picked up two first downs after receiving the opening kickoff, driving to the Bulldog 39, but Tahoka held after quarterback Duke Altman had lost six yards trying to pass and the punt sithered off the side of Davis Heaton's foot and out of bounds on the Tahoka 37.

THOMAS followed good blocking to rip off 23 yards to the Post 40, then he and fullback Larry Arnold picked up another first down to the 30. Three stabs at the Post line gained only five yards and Donnie Windham stopped Thomas for a yard loss to give Post the ball on the 25.

Early in the second quarter, Heaton's punt set the Bulldogs back to their 17 and a clipping penalty, called on the punt return, set them back to the 13. Doyle Schneider got three at the line, but Dick Kennedy downed Thomas for a five-yard setback, and Williams lost six more yards to the five. Thomas' short punt went out of bounds on the Tahoka 24.

Two tries at the line gained only five yards, but Walker rumbled through center on a quick opener for 15 yards to the four. He and Heaton gained only a yard in three tries, and Walker stepped back to boot the field goal from the 10 with Kennedy holding.

TAHOKA GOT down to the Post 38 with 1:43 to go in the half, but Dennis Altman intercepted a pass on the 12 to halt the drive.

Midway of the third quarter, Jimmy Bartlett returned a Thomas punt 16 yards to the Post 31, and Walker carried twice for 13 yards and a first down on the Antelope 44.

After Duke Altman and Heaton had gained five, Altman hit Windham with a jump pass for a 17-yard gain to the Tahoka 34. Walker carried for two and Bartlett for five, and then the Post fullback ripped off gains of three and nine yards for a first down on the 15. Bartlett picked up two at center, but Walker fumbled after gaining five and the Bulldogs covered the ball on the eight.

After Windham had thrown Thomas for a nine-yard loss on the first play of the fourth quarter, the Bulldog back punted to his 44, from where Walker picked up a first down on the 34 in three carries.

BARTLETT GAINED two and Windham took Altman's short pass for a five-yard gain. Bartlett rounded left end for six yards and a first down on the 21. Walker and Altman each gained three, but Bartlett failed to gain, then picked up only three on a fourth down try to give the Bulldogs the ball on the 12, with 5:23 left.

Williams found end Wayne Thurman with a 16-yard pass to the 25 and Post was penalized 15 more to the Tahoka 43 when an official ruled that a Post defender had grabbed Thurman's face guard.

Thomas swept end for 14 before being chased out of bounds by Bartlett, and Clyde Cash stopped Williams for a yard loss. Williams passed to Schneider for 12 yards and a first down on the 32.

Thomas gained six, but Windham threw Schneider for a govern- (See Tahoka Game, Page 20)

Post scored twice in the first half, the first time on a 15-yard pass play, Altman to Bird, and the second time on a 19-yard slant by Torres. Altman passed to Torres for the extra points after the first touchdown and to Neff Walker for the extras after the second.

Coach Bill Smith's team scored two more touchdowns in the second half. The first came on a 30-yard pass play, Altman to Bird.

Southland schools to observe 'Western Day'

By MRS. EDMUND WILKE
This Southland reporter has kinda been under the weather for the past four or five days, so please excuse the short report. You've heard the song, "Old Rocking Chairs Got Me". Well it sure 'nuff did, couldn't get up or down for several days. Feeling some better now, but still not up to snuff!

Western Day is going to be celebrated in the Southland school Friday, so everyone be on the lookout for those gun toting cowboys, dance hall girls, tenderfoot gun slingers and the like! Probably will be a wild day at dear old Southland school.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Barton returned recently from visiting Jack and Neil Roberts in Balmorhea. They spent from Friday until Tuesday and reported a wonderful time.

Paul Winterrowd had the misfortune of breaking a small bone above his left ankle while he was at work Saturday. His leg is in a cast and he will be getting around on crutches for awhile. He had many visitors coming to check on him Sunday. From what I understand, it could have been a very serious accident and he feels lucky getting out of it with only one broken bone. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Becker and sons, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moore and children have just returned from a trip to Paris, Tex., where they visited relatives. While there the men all went squirrel hunting and Junior and Louise brought back 20 squirrels. They are supposed to be real good eating—but I don't know!

The Junior Becker family visited in Idalou Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Flusche.

Little Monica Dyess spent last week in Spur with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Dyess. Coach and Mrs. Dyess and Blane spent the weekend in Spur and attended Spur's homecoming. Monica returned home with them Sunday. Blane is attending kindergarten at the Baptist church in Stanton.

Mrs. Opal Pennell and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cederholm visited Mrs. Lee Fredrickson in Lubbock Saturday. Sunday, Mrs. Pennell and Karen Gale Callaway visited Mrs. Fredrickson and also went to visit Darrell Bishop, a nephew of Mrs. Pennell's, who had been injured in an accident last Friday at work. He received some internal injuries, but as far as they know at this time, nothing very serious. It could have been a very tragic accident and he is a lucky young man. Darrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bishop.

Southland is getting a new family. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Stolle will be moving into the house recently vacated by the Kenneth Callaways. We would like to welcome this newly married couple to the community.

Rodney Callaway, student at Cisco Junior College, came home to attend the wedding of Joe Hall and Pam Owen.

Miss Judy Malone spent the weekend in the home of Mrs. Selma Kessel and Judy.

SOUTHLAND football boys will be playing Loop Friday night here. This will be their first conference game. Good luck, boys. So far they have won three games and tied one. So all of you come on out and help root them on to their fourth victory!

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stolle, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Stolle and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stolle attended the Stolle reunion last weekend at Columbus, Tex.

The Southland school board met Monday night for a regular monthly meeting. They meet on the second Monday of each month. Trustees for the year are Donald Basinger, Billy Lester, Herman Dabbs, Spencer Bevers, Jerry Melcher, Valton Wheeler and Edmund

Oilmen help in pollution fight

No one has found any quick, easy or inexpensive solutions to the nation's complex air and water conservation problems, according to the president of the American Petroleum Institute.

In an article in the API publication Oil Facts, Frank N. Ikard points out that public health officials and industry leaders have been working on these problems for many years and that they have stepped up their efforts in the past few years.

The nation's oilmen, Ikard said, are spending millions of dollars annually on research and on control equipment, and are cooperating with all levels of government in seeking ways to eliminate air and water pollution.

"The prize of clean air and water," he added, "will not be won dramatically, with a flourish of trumpets; rather, it will be won gradually, with the route marked by hundreds of small discoveries in the nation's laboratories."

NO ENORMOUS PROFITS

Contrary to a popular notion, oil companies do not earn enormous profits, according to the publication Oil Facts. It quotes a study by the First National City Bank of New York, covering 2,300 manufacturing firms of all kinds. The average return on net worth for 1965 was 13.8 per cent, compared to 11.9 per cent for oil companies.

We were so sorry to hear that Herman Havis' sister, Mrs. Hazel Bridges of Roaring Springs, passed away quite suddenly Oct. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Havis and Bro. and Mrs. Hill attended funeral services Oct. 5. May God comfort this family in their time of sorrow.

Mrs. G. D. Ellis has just returned from a trip to Duncan, Okla., where she visited her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Giles, and her daughter, Mrs. Mansell. She also visited in Bonham with another son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Giles, and with some former Southland residents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Young. She had a lovely time while she was gone.

Edmund and Yours Truly visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jerrel Marburger and new baby daughter in West Texas Hospital Tuesday. We also visited Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Donahoo, a pair of newlyweds. Jerry is the grandson of Mrs. Wes Donahoo.

Harold Wayne and Linda Donahoo and children visited in our home Friday night. They are staying with Mrs. Wes Donahoo for awhile.

Outdoor recreational fatalities are increased by 13 in last three weeks

AUSTIN — Outdoor recreational fatalities were increased by 13 during the last three weeks, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Eight deaths were from accidental gunshots in connection with hunting. Three persons drowned, one while fishing.

In unusual sports recreational deaths, a 16-year-old West Texas boy was killed by lightning while hunting rabbits and an Athens man was killed by a car while adjusting lights on his fishing boat trailer.

The gun deaths raised the total to nine for the year. A 16-year-old Brady boy earlier was reported as a casualty from stepping in front of a rifle as it was being discharged.

The eight new gun fatalities involved mainly youngsters. But one adult, an Amarillo man, was killed when his gun was discharged as he placed it in his car. He had been hunting prairie dogs. A Memphis, Tex., mother was killed returning from a hunt when a shotgun was discharged as her husband removed it from their car.

In a tragedy similar to the earlier one occurring at Brady, an 18-year-old Nacogdoches youth was killed by a bullet from a jammed rifle.

A 14-year-old Cuero lad was killed when struck by a .22 rifle bullet while hunting rabbits with other lads.

An 18-year-old Brownfield boy was fatally wounded by a rifle discharged as it was removed from a car during a hunting trip.

The Department noted the 1966 hunting death toll was ahead of last year when 23 fatalities were unofficially reported connected with the hunting season.

It was suggested that, in the predominantly hunting areas among youngsters, they be supervised with adult supervision in using firearms.

No cash for gas in Soviet Union

Cash has gone out of style at gasoline stations in the Soviet Union.

The American Petroleum Institute publication Oil Facts reports that Russian motorists have to fill out a questionnaire, go to a government office to buy a coupon booklet, then go to a government-owned station to trade the coupons for gasoline.

At the stations, which are hard to find even in large Russian cities, the motorist may have to wait in line for a long time. Then he has to guess how much his tank will hold, check his coupons, and handle the hose himself. All the attendant does is to collect the coupons and set the pump dial. For oil, anti-freeze or repairs, the driver has to go elsewhere.

By contrast, Oil Facts points out that United States motorists are free to choose among an estimated 214,500 privately owned stations, each competing to supply the best possible goods and services.

Mobile offshore drilling rigs to number 150

About 150 mobile offshore drilling rigs will be probing the oceans of the world for new oil and gas reserves by the end of 1966, according to Oil Facts, published by the American Petroleum Institute.

The total value of these rigs will be approximately $600 million. Some will be able to drill exploratory wells in water 1,000 feet deep.

Some industry leaders believe that in another five years the number of seagoing rigs will reach 200, with a total worth of $1 billion. By that time, some oilmen believe it will be possible to drill exploratory wells from floating rigs in water 3,000 feet deep.

So far, the petroleum industry has invested an estimated $3.5 billion in offshore operations in U. S. waters and an overall total of $10 billion in similar projects throughout the world. Oil Facts points out that the dollar return from these activities still lags far behind the amounts spent.

Several new concepts in ocean exploration are being developed, including proposals to send complete drilling rigs enclosed in watertight shells to the ocean floor, where drillers could work for long periods of time. Another idea being discussed calls for sending a crewless rig to the bottom of the sea, to be operated by one man on shore.

HIGHWAY TAX TAKE

Highway users pay more than 24 per cent of all state taxes collected in this country, Oil Facts reports. In fiscal 1965, the states collected $26 billion, of which $6.3 billion came from taxes on motor fuel and motor vehicles and from drivers' license fees. Motor fuel taxes alone amounted to $4.3 billion.

USAF saves taxpayers money by commercial pipeline transportation

U. S. Air Force officials estimate that they have saved the nation's taxpayers more than $53 million in the past 12 years by using commercial pipelines to transport petroleum fuels to air bases.

Oil Facts, published by the American Petroleum Institute, reports that 57 Air Force installations have been connected to oil pipelines since 1954. Connections at bases are made at no cost to the government.

Military officials say that while the annual volume of petroleum fuels required by the Air Force has increased by 44 per cent over the past 12 years, the annual cost of transporting these fuels has been reduced by 14 per cent. In fiscal 1965, pipelines delivered more than half of the 3.3 billion gallons of petroleum fuels used by the Air Force.

Major General Frederic H. Miller, commander of the Air Force Logistics Command's Middletown

PETROLEUM PRICES DOWN

Oil Facts reports that while most prices have risen in the past decade, petroleum prices have decreased. The wholesale price index for all commodities has increased 6.5 per cent since 1957. Wholesale petroleum prices include the following items: crude oil down 4 per cent; gasoline down 6.3 per cent; and light fuel oils down 9.2 per cent.

BIRD SANCTUARY

Hundreds of waterfowl have turned part of a Texas oil refinery into a bird sanctuary, according to Oil Facts. Herons, egrets, roseate spoonbills and other birds are nesting in a water-purification lagoon area, almost in the shadow of oil derricks and refining equipment.

Air Material Area, recently commented that pipelines not only save the Air Force money in transportation, storage and handling costs, but also provide supply lines that would be less vulnerable to attack in the event of a national emergency.

An Open Letter To Voters of Garza County

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Voter, After careful consideration, I have decided to yield the urging of a number of my friends and offer my candidacy as a write-in candidate for the office of County Judge at the General Election on Nov. 8, 1966.

In such elections as the General Election, it is perfectly legal to write in candidates for any office on the ballot. If you think it is time for a change in the County Judge's office, I am asking you to consider my candidacy and, if you see fit, to write in my name when you go to the polls on Nov. 8.

I received a good vote as a candidate for County Judge in the first Democratic Primary election last May, finishing third in a field of six, but failing to get into the run-off. I am asking you to take this means of giving me another opportunity to serve you in the important office of County Judge.

My platform now is the same as it was in the first primary campaign—efficiency and economy in county government, cooperation at every level, and fairness to all, regardless of race, color or creed.

If you have any questions to ask me concerning my candidacy, I shall be happy to discuss them with you at any time. In the meantime, I earnestly solicit your influence and support.

Harvest Festival is set for Saturday

By MRS. GLENN DAVIS
 Our community was saddened Monday morning by the sudden death of Grover Mason. We extend sympathy to all the relatives. May God bless them.
 The Graham Methodist Church will hold their annual Harvest Festival and Lord's Acre sale Saturday, Oct. 15, in the Graham Community center. There will be a supper from 5 p. m. until 8 p. m. Everyone is invited.
 Mr. and Mrs. John Griffen and her father, Cye Koger, of Dublin visited Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Newberry and the Mack Ledbetter family Tuesday and Wednesday.

 Saturday night and Sunday guests of the Elmo Bushes were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rylant of Lovington, N. M. Other Sunday guests were the Marion Mathews of Morton, Mrs. Harold Reno and sons of Lubbock, the Morris McClellans, Carl Fluitts and grandchildren, Mrs. W. O. Fluitt Sr., and Miss Judy McCampbell.
 Mrs. Jerry Ligon spent some time last week in Lubbock with her mother, who is in the hospital.
 Mrs. Bobby Cowdrey and Mrs. Glenn Davis attended funeral services of Mrs. Wayne Williams a week ago Tuesday in Snyder at the First Baptist Church. We extend sympathy to the bereaved family.
 Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cowdrey visited awhile Saturday afternoon with the Henry Lynch family in Lorenzo.
 The Donald Gossett family were Sunday luncheon guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Ritchie, and visited in the afternoon with his parents, the Fred Gossetts.
 Mrs. Quanah Maxey received word last week that her nephew, Lt. Green, had been injured in Viet Nam. We hope he will soon recover.
 The Glenn Hill family of Plainview visited Sunday with the Elvius Davis and Jerry Ligon families.

 There was a mistake in last week's news. That was Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith Davis who visited Mrs. Jewell Graham and Mrs. Viva Davis last week on their way home to Austin.
 THE THURSDAY Club met last week in the home of Mrs. O. H. Hoover. The members sewed and visited and made some plans for the club family Christmas party. Refreshments were served to the following: Mmes. Lella Gilley, Sue Maxey, Minnie Wright, Iris McMahon, Ada Oden, and Viva Davis. The club will meet with Minnie Wright Oct. 20.
 Mrs. Glenn Davis was a Sunday luncheon guest of the Lonnie Peels. Late afternoon guests were the Punk Peels and George Millers.
 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gossett were in Lubbock one day last week and Fred went to the doctor.
 The Pete Hays family entertained with a Sunday luncheon honoring her mother, Mrs. Morris McClellan, on her birthday. Attending were the honored guest and her husband, the Mason McClellan, Bill Stone, Raymond Thane, Ray McClellan and Marion Matthews families and Mrs. Harold Reno and sons. The Delwin Fluitt family visited in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Gene Peel are the proud parents of a daughter, Kayla Donice, born Saturday afternoon in West Texas Hospital in Lubbock. Their son, Kraig, is staying with his grandparents, the Lonnie Peels.
 Mrs. Bertha McKinney of Lampasas is visiting her sister, Mrs. Elgie Stewart, and Mr. Stewart.
 The Wayne Hair family of Crane visited Saturday evening with the Ray McClellans. The Raymond Thanes were weekend guests.
 There isn't much news this week. Only the sadness that struck our community again. I don't feel much like trying to get news. It has been too short a time since my family and I went through the same ordeal. We really know how to sympathize with the Mason family. We can't really know how we have the same experience.

It's tough to lose when that loss breaks a winning streak. But that's the way it was at Tahoka when the Bulldogs pulled out a 6-3 victory in the final two minutes. Ask Frank Broyles of Arkansas or Texas Coach Darrell Royal. They had big streaks broken over the weekend too.

But the big loss is behind us — and the five important district games lie directly ahead. The first comes out at Morton tomorrow night when the Antelopes attempt to bounce back and get off on the right foot in district play against the Indians.

Morton which has lost five straight in non-district play will be starting over with a fresh slate too. It's important for the Antelopes not to "look beyond" Morton this weekend to the Denver City game here next week.

PHS pep squad has 52 members always boosting school spirit

By Jane Cannon
The Post High School pep squad includes 52 active members who spend several hours each week trying to boost school spirit both before and during football games. The members meet each Thursday evening and prepare signs for the hallways and for the football players' lockers. They also prepare the large antelope hoop which the football players run through as they enter the field for each game.

Several new yells have been taught to the pep squad members by the cheerleaders, Marcia Newby, Linda Altman, Kay Altman, Vickie Martin, Mickie Sterling and Nedra Childs.

Archeology Club makes field trip

By Eddie Jennings
Sunday, 18 members of the Archeology Club of Post Junior High went on a field trip to an area about four miles southeast of Justinburg.

A few Indian scrapers were found and some Indian pictographs also located and observed. One member found a kind of metallic object or rock, which is thought to be a piece of a meteorite.

This winter, after the first frost, the Archeology Club members are planning to excavate a probable Indian site in which an early man might have made his home.

Student Council special meeting

By Cheryl Pennell
A special meeting of the Student Council was held last Thursday night, with Ronnie Pierce, president, presiding.

Methods of boosting school spirit was discussed and a motion was made and passed to sponsor a contest before the Denver City game. Each class and club should decorate a car for the game and the organization with the most decorative car will be awarded a prize. All student council members attended the meeting.

Juniors raise banquet funds with concessions

By Elaine Bland
The disappointment of only four home games hasn't slowed down the Juniors in their efforts to raise money by sponsoring the concession stand at the football stadium. The class's net profit is, in fact, well over that which was estimated.

Student and parent volunteers as well as class sponsors, Mr. Gordon Lee and Mrs. Fleming, work in the concession stand during all the home games.

The stand has been open during both varsity home games and was in action for two freshman games. Money raised from the concession stand goes toward financing the Junior - Senior banquet to be held in the spring.

Mr. Lee said more students were needed to help and that any junior class member interested should contact Donnie Cole, Junior class president.

Committees appointed for Drama Club work

By Peggy Bevers
Last Friday, the Drama Club met in the Junior High auditorium at 3 o'clock. The meeting was called to order by the president, Chip Polk. The roll was checked by the secretary, David Hart, and the minutes read.

The president appointed committees to cut stencils for the plays, to make the scenery, to make costumes, to read over plays for the Drama Club to present for Thanksgiving and Christmas, and a committee to make a schedule for each week's program. One group will prepare and present a skit next week.

Arts, Crafts and Hobby Club conducts meeting

By Debbie Cross
The Arts, Crafts and Hobby Club of Post Junior High School will meet once a month, it was decided by Ronald Martin, president, and Debbie Cross, secretary and reporter, at a meeting Friday. The minutes will be read and business discussed at the meetings.

The rest of the period we worked on our arts and crafts. Those who did not have crafts worked on paper basket chains.

Tahoka band sponsors get-together for Post

By Beinda Lee
The Tahoka High School band sponsored a get-together for the Post High School band Friday night after the football game. Cokes and doughnuts were served to all the band members.

Each organization's officers were introduced to everyone. Both bands seemed to have a very enjoyable time.

Post High School Happenings

By Marcia Newby
School spirit was the greatest yet this year in last Friday's pep rally, largely due to the presentation of the "spirit stick." For those of you who don't have the faintest idea as to what a "spirit stick" is, let me explain. To boost the spirit, the cheerleaders decided that a little healthy competition between classes would do the trick. Therefore, a spirit stick was made that would be presented to the class displaying the most school spirit in the pep rally. Mr. Hutchins and Mrs. Lee acted as our impartial judges, and the spirit stick was awarded to the Freshman class. Even though the

Seniors studying for college tests

By Sherry Woods
Some of the Seniors of PHS can be seen, during spare minutes in class, studying their College Board sample questions.

The College Board Admissions Tests include the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), Achievement Tests, and the Writing Sample. Approximately 800 colleges and 250 scholarship programs require applicants to take one or more of these tests and submit the scores.

There are five dates between December, 1966, and July 1967.

The test dates are: Saturday, Dec. 3, 1966; Saturday, Jan. 14, 1967; Saturday, March 4, 1967; Saturday, May 6, 1967; Saturday, July 8, 1967.

If some of you Seniors have not picked up the material concerning the tests, and wish to do so, you may get the booklets in the office.

Veterans' Land Board Forfeited Land Sale will be held Nov. 15

AUSTIN — Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler announced that a Veterans' Land Board Forfeited Land Sale would be held Nov. 15, 1966, in the General Land Office. He pointed out that the program has exceeded all expectations in its success and value to the people of Texas.

Sadler said that the delinquencies on veteran contract payments are lower today than at any time in the history of the program. Land prices are higher and the program is making a $2-1/2 million profit per year for the taxpayers of Texas, in addition to helping veterans own a tract of land that they fought to preserve.

"We have purchased some three million acres of land for 25,300 Texas veterans and placed some $243 million in circulation to boost the economy of this State," Sadler said. Although new purchases under the program are no longer possible, a vast amount of work remains to be done in servicing veterans' contracts. Carving out homesteads, issuing fractional severance deeds and paid-in-full deeds, approving oil and gas leases, and issuing easements have to be performed throughout the life of a veteran contract.

The American flag of 1777 was not changed until 1795 when Vermont and Kentucky were admitted to the Union, requiring 15 stripes and stars.

New fund project for FHA chapter

By Lorena Anderson
Since the Future Homemakers of America chapter does not sell refreshments at the concession stand during football games this year, they now have a new money-raising project.

Not only is this project, the selling of Stanley products, a profit to the FHA but it can be rewarding to any girl who really wants to do her best at it.

To the girl who sells the most, a prize of a large tote bag or wrist watch is her reward. The second prize winner will have her choice of either a set of scissors or a sewing kit. The third prize is a vanity mirror or a Ming jade set. Any girl who sells $25 or more of the product will receive her choice of either a jade pendant necklace or a Spanish Ship pin.

Each FHA girl has her own separate sales kit, so the whole town of Post will probably know before long that the FHA is now a gang of sales girls.

Ag students go on Farm Tour

By Billy Jack Hodges
Members of Vocational Agriculture III and IV were participants of the Garza County Farm Tour on Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Highlights of the tour were: Visiting the Don Robison bird farm; the noon luncheon provided for by the Post Rotary Club, and a tour of the Postex Cotton Mills.

The trip was made possible by various government agencies, assisted by Mr. E. A. Howard, vocational ag teacher, Post High School.

COKE, CANDY MACHINES
Cokes and candy are now available to Post High School students. The securing of these vending machines was discussed at a meeting of the Student Council on Sept. 15. Plans for the Coke machine were executed the following day and candy machines were obtained the following week.

Transportation of oil triples in 25 years

The amount of petroleum transported in the United States has more than tripled in the past quarter-century, Oil Facts reports. More than 1.3 billion tons of crude oil and refined products are moved in this country in a year's time. Pipelines transport 44 per cent of the total, trucks 28 per cent, ships and barges 26 per cent, and railroads 2 per cent.

Oil Facts points out that competition among different forms of transportation helps keep petroleum prices reasonable.

Friday Night Picks

By HARRIS RATING SYSTEM of DALLAS

As sponsored weekly by Bob Collier, Druggist, an outcome of games played by Post Antelopes and their seasonal opponents.

Post over Morton

99.2 — Power Ratio — 69.2

By 30 Points

Post's close loss to Tahoka Friday dropped the Antelopes from first to third among Class AA clubs on the South Plains with Denver City's Mustangs taking over the top rung followed by undefeated Abernathy, according to the Harris ratings. Post lost two points in its power rating from 101.2 to 99.2 by the loss and dropped from 57th in the state AA ratings to 69th. The highest the locals had been previously in the state was a tie for 45th. Denver City climbed almost 4 points in its power rating to 103.2 with its first win of the season. Abernathy is 57th. Three of the six teams in District 4AA rank among the 10 poorest AA clubs in the state. Frenship is 182nd, Morton 186th, and Stanton 188th. Slaton is on the climb now ranking 139th. If you want the real power club on the South Plains this year below AAA rank it's the resurgent Class A Spur Bulldogs. Spur is ranked third in the state with a power ratio of 112.1, which means it's rated above all the state's Class AA teams but the top 16. According to its power ratio it could whip Denver City by 9 points tomorrow. The Harris Ratings had an 83.4 per cent correct mark last week in picking all the high school games in the state, but stumbled badly with their choices on Post and their 9 seasonal foes. In those nine games they had five upsets, but four correct for a .444 percentage.

Difference between power ratios determines predicted margin.

In the last century of oil progress, we've come a long way from Tol Barret's 106 foot well drilled with crude tools made by a blacksmith. But the search for oil today—with all its tools and scientific help is still a mighty risky and expensive business.

It's also an industry which illustrates the best workings of free American enterprise.

Tahoka game—

Spts. Morton Game HTK. yard loss before Williams hit Tyler with an 18-yard pass to the Post 15. Thomas lost two in a try at end, but Roberts snared Williams' pass on the five, shook loose from the tackler and went across, with the clock showing 2:06 to play. DUKE ALTMAN ran Thomas' short kickoff back to the Post 36, from where he hit Windham with a 24-yard pass to the Tahoka 40. Another pass overshot its mark and Roberts intercepted the next one on the Tahoka 28, with 1:18 left.

Williams kept for one and Thomas gained six, but a five-yard penalty set the Bulldogs back to the 30. Thomas again failed to gain and Bartlett returned his punt seven yards to the Post 40. Altman's pass, intended for Windham, failed to connect as the game ended.

Walker, with 118 yards on 27 carries, was the game's leading ground gainer. Thomas was held to a 76-yard net on 23 tries for his lowest output thus far this season. Bartlett gained 28 yards on eight carries and Heaton 21 on the same number.

The game marked the first appearance this season of guard Joe Hudman, who missed the first four games because of illness. The senior letterman contributed to the stout Post defense that did a good job of containing the Tahoka ground attack.

winning, 6 to 0, after the 7th grade had lost, 14 to 0.

Quarterback Robert Bullock's 27-yard run with 3:43 to go in the second quarter provided the margin of victory in the 8th grade game. Halfback Jimmy McGuire failed in an attempt to run over the extra points.

Coach Bud Davis' Post team dominated play in the first half, but the visitors took the upper hand in the second half, with only a stout Post defense stopping them.

The Tahokans drove to the two-yard line in the waning seconds, but Menchaca broke through to throw the ball carrier for a loss on a third down play, and a fourth down pass was incomplete as time ran out.

Bullock alternated with Robert Pace at quarterback, both turning in good games on offense, with Bullock also outstanding on defense, along with Perez, Larry Bilberry and others. McGuire carried for most of Post's ground gains.

Tahoka scored in the first and fourth quarters in winning the 7th grade game over Coach Will Bigott's team. The Post starters on offense were Bobby Ammons and Ricky Hair, ends; Gary Shepherd and Larry Bevers, tackles; Ricky Bush and Kim Owen, guards; Bill Criswell, center; Kyle Josey, quarterback; David Hart and Richard Sanchez, halfbacks, and Danny Vargas, fullback.

All 39 members of the Post 7th grade squad saw action in the game. The Post junior high teams are to play Slaton here next Tuesday, with the 7th grade game starting at 5:30 p.m.

Freshman team—

with Altman touching to Butch Heaton for the extra points. Torres ended the scoring for Post by going across on a trap play from 10 yards out, but the try for extra points failed.

Friendship scored its eight points late in the game. The Post team's next game will be against Slaton here Thursday, Oct. 20.

Raiders to host Florida State

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech should be hard-pressed to retain its superiority over non-conference grid foes when the Red Raiders are hosts to Florida State in Jones Stadium at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

Coach J. T. King's Raiders will be seeking their 12th straight win over a regular season non-Southwest Conference foe. But the Seminoles, despite a 1-2 mark, loom as possibly the strongest threat yet to the streak that began in 1962.

Since the Raiders lost to Boston College in 1962, Texas Tech has won regular season contests from these non-league foes — Colorado, Washington State (two), Kansas State, Texas Western, Mississippi State, West Texas State, Kansas (two), Oklahoma State, and New Mexico State.

Texas Tech opened its season by downing University of Kansas at Lawrence 23-7. Since then the
