Forty-First Year Post, Garza County, Texas Thursday, February 15, 1968 Number 38

Two new members in three hospital board appointments

The Garza County Commissioners Court named three men as hospital trustees for two-year terms at their February meeting Monday.

They reappointed Ed Sawyers, chairman of the hospital board for a new term, but did not reappoint Jack Lott, naming instead Bill Pool, local car dealer, and Bob Tidwell, Justiceburg farmer.

In another action of general public interest, the court set the county's 1968 tax levies, road precinct levies, and the Justiceburg common school district levy.

The county-wide levy again will be 95 cents, but the breakdown The breakdown into various among funds is slightly different.

Precinct No. 1 road tax remains at 30 cents for 1968, precinct No. 2's has been lowered from 5 cents to 25 cents.

J. F. Barron in Precinct 1 race

J. F. (Jim) Barron today authorized The Dispatch to announce his candidacy for the office of County Commissioner of Precinct 1, Garza County, subject to the Democratic primary elections.

"I am 57 years old, I and my family (wife and three children) moved to Garza County, two miles east of Close City, Feb. 22, 1949.

"My policy will be to hold taxes at their present level and to pay off the debt that the county now has. No more $20,000 tax adjusters out of Lubbock.

to 25 cents. The levy for the Justiceburg common school district remains at 75 cents again this year.

In other actions, the court: Named the same election judges and assistant judges for 1968 as had served in 1967; established vacation, sick leave, holiday and working hours policies for county precinct employees working by the hour; and voted to invest $45,000 in the permanent school fund in 4 1/2 per cent government bonds instead of 3 1/2 per cent Lamesa school district bonds.

TRIP TO GALVESTON

Billie Snow, 13-year-old Post boy, and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Gene Peel of the Junior Chamber of Commerce board train en route to Galveston, where physicians said a condition that has caused abnormal development of Billie's face can be corrected.

Thanks to the Post Junior Chamber of Commerce, 13-year-old Billie Snow has a better outlook on life this week than he's ever had before.

Billie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Snow of Post, is tentatively scheduled to enter John Sealy Hospital at Galveston in March for correction of a condition that has resulted in an unnatural development of his facial bones and tissues.

The Jaycees have received assistance from a number of non-members. These include Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Surman, and Dr. Harry A. Tubbs, who made the necessary contacts at the John Sealy Hospital for the youngster's examination.

The police chief called on two witnesses who told the council of occasions on which they had called for city police officers but had been unable to get them.

When the White River water district put in a bid for the new power plant Southwestern Public Service Company is planning to build in Lubbock recently, it wasn't nearly as strange as most folks might imagine.

Water experts predict there won't be a lake in Texas without an electric power plant within a few short years. The utility firms need to add more generating capacity as the area's electrical demand grows.

Water District Manager Al O'Brien told lake directors at their monthly meeting last Thursday that the lake will have a good chance to get SWPS's next generating plant, if not the one now planned. He added the savings in taxes alone on the plant, if located at the lake instead of in Lubbock, would amount to quite a figure, something like $65,000 a year, if our memory is correct.

Supt. Bill Shiver is appealing to all parents of local school children to cooperate to the utmost during the remainder of the school year to get their boys and girls in school each day.

Cooperation means real savings (See Postings, page 8)

MOISTURE OFF TO GOOD 1968 START

It's hard to remember—even for the oldtimers—when this area got off to a better moisture start on a crop year than in 1965.

A cold front moving in Monday poured an official .79 inch of rain through the late afternoon. Snow followed Tuesday afternoon with the falls measuring up to 3 1/2 inches with a moisture content of an additional .42 of an inch.

That brought the total for the first half of February to 1.21 inches, which goes on top of a three-inch moisture January—the best since 1959.

It totals 4.20 inches of moisture. Wind kept the snow from doing much drifting, but school authorities called off school Wednesday as a precautionary measure after the difficulties encountered in the surprise January snowstorm which caught some school buses out on the road.

Complaints by the police department that the City of Post is not getting its share of benefits from the city-county operated police radio will be aired at a joint meeting of the city council and commissioners' court at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Feb. 19, at the City Hall.

Washington would have approved

George Washington probably never had the faintest idea back when he was helping shape the destiny of this nation that one day bargain sales would be held in many towns and cities of the land to help mark the anniversary of his birth.

Had he known, however, he no doubt would have approved, for the Father of Our Country was almost as economy-minded as his colleague and fellow patriot Benjamin Franklin.

George Washington Birthday Sales, such as the one to be held in Post this Saturday, feature "I cannot tell a lie" sales bargains—and that, too, would have made a hit with George.

Sponsored by the retail promotions committee of the Post Chamber of Commerce, the George Washington Birthday Sale is being held for the fifth annual time, with this year's sale bidding fair to be the biggest of the five.

Throughout today's Post Dispatch, the reader will find the promotion advertised by participating merchants, with their ads listing dozens upon dozens of bargains—made possible through "chopped down" prices.

The reader will have a couple of days to read about those bargains before the George Washington Birthday Sale starts Saturday morning. He is invited to do so in order to acquaint himself with the many bargains, and then shop, shop—and save, save, save!—CD

1968 seen as big year for tourists

We've been hearing a lot lately about how tourist travel is going to help Texas move in 1968 than it ever has before. There's something to it, all right, but so far Post hasn't done anything about overnight accommodations, such as camp sites, for tourists wanting to spend the night.

There has been talk about these proposed camp sites ever since it first was brought before the city council early last year, but nothing has "jelled" yet. It won't be long until it is entirely too late, as far as 1968 is concerned.

Every town along any heavily traveled highway will benefit some from tourist trade this year, but many of them could benefit even more by putting out extra effort to make it attractive for these travelers to stop and spend the night.

All over Texas there are towns with the idea in mind that tourist travel is going to be big business this year and that they may as well get in on it.

There's an old-timer up in the Texas Panhandle with an idea that we think is a bell-ringer. He says that if the proper person would get him one of those bona fide chuck wagons and park it beside one of the main traveled highways and offer real chuck wagon grub, such as beans and fried steak and sourdough biscuits, served right off the side of the wagon, he would clean up—and would get his picture taken so many times that he would be in family albums from Maine to California.

Severe weather conference slated

It is hoped that Post and Garza County will be well represented by city and county officials and other interested persons at the day-long severe weather conference to be held in Lubbock March 7 by the state Office of Defense and Disaster Relief of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The conference is being held to acquaint those attending of the preparations they need to make to meet the challenge of natural weather conditions. Communications procedures will be stressed as a part of a weather watch for tornadoes.

No town is ever 100 per cent ready for a tornado, but every town needs to be as ready as possible. The severe weather season isn't far away, and no one will argue the point that the best time to get ready for it is before it strikes.

Comes as breath of fresh air

The news that Howard Payne College at Brownwood has adopted a policy barring "hippies and other bizarre personalities" from enrollment comes as a breath of fresh air.

to change their ways or to withdraw."

"In no circumstances will any student or any other interested persons at the day-long severe weather conference to be held in Lubbock March 7 by the state Office of Defense and Disaster Relief of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The conference is being held to acquaint those attending of the preparations they need to make use any kind of hallucinatory, habit-forming or harmful drug or alcohol," continued the announcement from the Baptist-supported institution.

What a good thing for this country it would be if all other colleges and universities fell in step with Howard Payne College.

There'll be a hue and cry, of course, that Howard Payne is stifling freedom of expression, but the hue and cry will come only from the hippies and other border-line cases.

Record quarterly sales reported by Burlington; net earnings increase

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Burlington Industries, Inc., today reported record consolidated net sales of $391,716,900 for the quarter ended Dec. 30, 1967, an increase of 16 per cent compared to sales of $337,700,000 for the same period last year.

Net earnings for the quarter increased 24 per cent to $20,032,000, equal to 79 cents per share on 25,322,000 shares outstanding at Dec. 30. For the comparable quarter last year, net earnings were $16,146,000 or 64 cents per share.

Charles F. Myers Jr., president, said the results were in line with earlier expectations that textile demand was recovering from generally depressed market conditions of last year. "We have experienced a marked increase in business since last September in most areas of operations," he stated, "and we expect the improvement to continue in our second fiscal quarter."

The Board of Directors of Burlington Industries, meeting in New York today, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share, payable March 1, 1968, to shareholders of record at the close of business Feb. 2, 1968.

Texans-for-Reagan movement starts

HOUSTON — Formation of a statewide Texas headquarters devoted to the draft-Reagan-for-president movement has been announced by J. R. (Butch) Butler, prominent Houston oil man. Formal opening of the "Texans For Ronald Reagan" state headquarters in Houston is scheduled for next week. Butler is chairman of the newly-formed group.

Butler, who organized and managed the highly-successful Republican fund-raising dinner in Houston Oct. 26 at which Governor Reagan delivered the principal address, commented that the organization has been formed in response to intense grass-roots interest in the California governor.

"Spontaneous Reagan for President groups, co-ordinated by experienced and respected Texans have been operating in many Texas areas for several months," Butler said, "and when organization of the state headquarters is completed shortly, the names of these regional chairmen will be announced. Draft-Reagan groups are already a powerful political force," he added.

"The widespread Reagan support in Texas is due to the Governor's personal magnetism and appeal," Butler commented, "and even more to his remarkably suc-

It's My Turn

By MRS. C.

Mr. C and I end up going to the darndest places to press meetings. The West Texas Press Association was held at Hereford last weekend and we attended the meeting for two reasons. One, we hadn't been to the WTPA convention in a few years and two, we had never been to Hereford.

Hereford lived up to expectations. That is a thriving, prosperous community. We were a wee bit envious. Hereford has refurbished its downtown area with attractive plantings and covered sitting areas. They also have a new mall which need take no backseat to one in a city. They did not seem to have an "Amen Hotel" any place that showed. That is really something, as most towns do have. Those on the go apparently do not.

We went through several towns that I've heard of for years but had never seen. These included Anton, Hart Camp, Olton, Springlake and Dimmitt. On the way home we came back through Littlefield so we could see what gains they have made with their downtown renovations. They, too, had attractive store fronts, lovely planters and covered rest stops. They also were minus an "Amen Hotel" on the main drag.

I was a little startled Monday when a man came into the office and asked if I write a Republican. I informed him I thought that was a question one doesn't go around asking people. He looked a little startled at that and showed me a piece of paper with a few printed words on it in Spanish and said he had to have a "republican" take care of it. The light dawned and I sent him across the street to have a notary public take care of him.

If you don't want to waste your time don't check "The Instrument" by John O'Hara out of the library. It is not worth the time and effort. I'm sort of unhappy with the "best-seller" list upon hearing a discussion on television about how books get put on the list. The book publisher, according to this English author, decides which book he thinks is going to make the most money and they print them in their best type with an attractive cover and tell the public this is a "best-seller." I felt like I had been "taken" upon hearing this so I'm going to start a one-woman campaign to tear the best-sellers apart if I read them and they don't come up to standards. "The Instrument" definitely does not. And I can complain long and loud without hurting anyone's feelings because I purchased the book (with library funds) myself.

There is a new business opening in Dallas which I found very interesting to read about. It's called "Gift Exchange" and created out of frustration. The first such store opened in Los Angeles, Calif., in 1957 and now authorized "Gift Exchanges" are operating in most major cities in the United States and Canada.

The idea came about when the couple that opened the first store felt that the time, labor, and in some cases, rudeness of clerks, was "just not worth the effort."

Who exchanges what? Well, brides are the best customers. They get a lot of repeats and it's easier to take them to a "Gift Exchange" and get what they need or want by paying a charge of 10 per cent, than maybe taking a chance on offending the giver on the off chance they might be "caught in the act." Other big customers include people who win things on television they don't want. The stores have a master price list to check all items against. You can even take credit if you want and wait until you really need something.

Post minister will participate in area assembly Jehovah's Witnesses

Lenard M. Robertson, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses in Post, has been appointed to organize the volunteer service department for the circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses at the Wilbarger Auditorium in Vernon, Feb. 25-26.

According to Robertson, more than 13 different departments are required to distribute the responsibilities of a large group of people meeting in assembly. Robertson expects 50 to 100 assembly delegates to volunteer their services in the work involved. "All volunteer their services freely," Robertson stated.

"All of us work together like one big family," Robertson noted. "We have no national or racial problems in the New World Society of Jehovah's Witnesses."

He attributes this unity to the power of God's Word. "Bible teaching," he said, "unifies the Witnesses and draws them together in bonds of Christian brotherhood."

Referring to a large district gathering this past summer in Amarillo, Robertson reported that several officials praised the Witnesses for their convention organization and marveled at the way all worked together in unity and enjoyed their work as much as they enjoyed attending the sessions which consisted of intensive Bible training.

Commenting on the program that is being arranged in Vernon, Robertson said that even more emphasis is being placed on the spiritual aspects of the program. He described the purpose of the three-day gathering as advanced

Fishermen can grow earthworms at home

AUSTIN — Few anglers will dispute a fish's partiality toward the earthworm, and the fisherman who grows his own earthworms can enjoy almost unlimited bait for very little money.

The angler who decides to sell a few worms can even come out ahead.

According to a circular from the U. S. Department of Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, several thousand half-size worms can be grown yearly in a tub two feet in diameter and ten inches deep.

The circular says worms can be fed chicken mash or a mixture of coffee grounds, dried cracked wheat, and bread crumbs.

For more information on how to grow earthworms, write the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701, and ask for the circular, "How to Grow Earthworms for Fish Bait."

Bible training with 13 hours of Bible talks and discussions along with dramatizations to be featured.

"In this way Christians are instructed in carrying out their ministerial responsibilities both as students of the Bible and as teachers of it," Robertson concluded.

FOR THOSE WHO FOLLOW

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Imagine picking your way along a frozen wilderness trail. You're bitterly cold, but see no sign of human habitation, mile after terrifying mile.

Then, thanks to someone who's already gone this way, you come upon a crude shack. Even with shelter you could still freeze to death, but you find wood already gathered for a fire.

Later, before venturing on, you too pile high more wood for someone yet to come.

No matter who you are—or where—your life marks a trail that someone is following. Along that way is the Church—a haven from storms of the world.

Yet the building alone is not enough. It must have people to work in it and to gather fuel for the fires of faith.

Begin today to support and strengthen the Church for those yet to come.

Pandale, Tex., claim to fame tiny school

Editor's Note: The one room, one teacher school, once a fixture in American education, has almost disappeared. Only a few remain in Texas. One of them is in Pandale, a "mini village" tucked away in the isolated splendor of Val Verde County ranching country. This is the interesting story of Pandale School, its dedicated teacher and her student body of five children.

PANDALE—A battered, hand-made sign nailed to a pair of rugged cedar posts proclaims this little Southwest Texas town's vital statistics. It says: "Pandale, Tex. City Limits, Population Varies."

One of the population is Mrs. D. Forester, the only teacher in Pandale's one classroom school. She has five pupils which account for the entire student body although the school is set up to teach eight grades. Two of the pupils are in the first grade, one in the second, another in the third and the other is in the seventh.

Mrs. Forester can stand on the porch of the tiny school and see every other building in town. There is the two-story ranch house of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mills Jr., but they spend most of their time in Del Rio.

And there is the store which is run by Al Mills, brother of Henry. A stark windmill stands guard. There is one other structure in town. That is the wee house trailer Mrs. Forester lives in five days a week. On weekends she goes to her permanent home in Del Rio, 70 rugged miles away.

THE POPULATION of Pandale does vary—going from as many as maybe four clear down to almost nobody.

But the town really fills up on school days. That's when the five Velasquez children come to school. They are the sons and daughters of a man who works on the Bunker Ranch which is five miles from school, somewhere up in the hills.

To get an idea what Mrs. Forester and the Pandale School is up against you have to know something about the country. It is hilly, near-mountainous land on which nothing much grows except scrub cedars, wiry bushes that yield rock, a little grass and plenty of rocks.

Not far from Pandale is the Pecos, a wild little riverlet that has cut a path of stunning beauty out of the exposed rock. Sometimes the Pecos is more wild than little, like the time in 1954 when it came out of its banks, wiping out the school.

THIRTY MILES south of Pandale is the bygone hamlet of Langtry, virtually a metropolis compared to Pandale. Langtry has a school with two teachers and a name in history, thanks to the antics of Judge Roy Bean and his "Law West of the Pecos."

The road between Pandale and Langtry is little more than a couple of ruts which dip low into canyons and rise high across the hills. Ranchers in this wide country raise mostly sheep. There is talk of oil companies signing leases in some parts, but there is no apparent evidence of drilling yet. For the most part there is nothing but miles and miles of nothing but miles and miles, a long way off from everything.

But the people here—what few there are—love their land. One of the ranchers around is Larry Arledge who might have stepped out of the cast for a John Wayne western. He is president of the three-man Pandale school board. He has lived here since 1911 and is as much a part of the land as any living thing on it.

MRS. FORESTER is in her second year of teaching at Pandale. She is a dedicated teacher and brags about the progress of her students, although she worries that Esperanza, who is 16 and in the seventh grade, may quit school. Esperanza, who is 16 and in the her age group in school. If she continued at the rate of one grade per year, she would be 21 or 22 when she received a high school diploma, about the same age when some youngsters are graduating from college.

The other children are somewhat more enthusiastic. Joe, the only boy in the school, is 14 and he's in the fourth grade.

"I preach and preach to them about the need of getting a good education," Mrs. Forester says. "I tell them if they don't go to school they will never get a good job."

Her urgings have apparently registered with Joe. "He's become very interested with going on in school and to college," she says. Joe wants to be an interpreter.

BESIDES JOE and Esperanza, there is Gloria who is 8 and in the second grade and Mary, 6, and Linda, 7, both in the first grade. Little Mary can't speak English. She is like Linda was last year, but Mrs. Forester says Linda has made great progress and is now "the best reader in the room."

How did Mrs. Forester, who doesn't speak Spanish, ever teach Linda to read English? "Heavens, I don't know," sighs the teacher. "I started her out by using flash cards to teach her a few words and she just came along."

Linda and Mary, declares Mrs. Forester, are curious and interested in learning about things. From what Mrs. Forester says, it seems clear that the Velasquez children differ not from more fortunate children in intelligence. Their lack of progress has been caused chiefly by sketchy school attendance in the past and, primarily, that the language of the schools—English—is to them a foreign tongue. Only Spanish is spoken at home. With such a language handicap it is a real accomplishment that they have progressed as far as they have.

THE DIFFERENCE is in teaching. Mrs. Forester a veteran teacher, says she does not have a college degree. But whatever she may lack there seems to be made up in commitment to her task of teaching children. For she has evidently sparked in the Velasquez children the innate curiosity possessed by all children.

The teacher is human, of course, and realistic, as well. She is afraid that the Velasquez children may never have the opportunity to go on in school beyond what is offered at Pandale. And for her personally the task at the little school is not easy.

She makes no mention of it but it is obvious that Pandale lacks much in the way of modern school needs. The only apparent teaching aid for the geography lessons she gives to Esperanza and Joe is a small globe, about the size of a grapefruit. New York and Rome, but, of course, not Pandale, are shown on the globe.

BUT MRS. FORESTER'S dedication makes up for some of this lack.

"I had started Esperanza on a little geography and Joe overheard us and became interested. He asked if he could stop what he was doing at the time and join us and so I invited him to take part."

"They had never heard of Spain and Portugal nor how Columbus discovered America and so they have become very interested," she says.

Thus, Joe was proceeding at his own pace, which, if handled properly, may be the way all pupils someday progress through a non-graded curriculum.

But while progress occurs, there are sometimes reversals. For example, the new math was completely beyond Esperanza because of her poor ability in English. Mrs. Forester got out the textbook for the "old math" and began to teach math in the old style—simple, rote-learned arithmetic. Esperanza is improving and learning more this way than with what was to her completely unintelligible "new math."

MRS. FORESTER is happy that she can innovate and experiment to discover the best teaching formula for the five Velasquez children.

But it doesn't keep her from getting lonesome at Pandale.

"Is it lonesome out here," she replies in answer to the question.

"It's the quietness—you can hear a pin drop and sometimes it gets so quiet you can hear the mountains talking to each other."

Television? "There's no TV way out here and the radio won't pick up anything."

One of her only companions is "Ol Sol"—the card game of Solitaire—and the deer which are plentiful and nearly always around.

"Sometimes the deer nearly drive me crazy at night rubbing up against the trailer house."

Such is the life of a dedicated teacher and such is life at Pandale which is a long way off from anywhere.

Gun silencers were invented in the U. S. by H. P. Maxim in 1909.

Crow shooting popular sport in West Texas

SAN ANGELO—Wardens and biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department remind hunters that crow shooting is still a popular sport in western counties, and there is no closed season or bag limit.

Some areas have huge roosts of the black bandits. Over-shooting isn't urged, but normal shotgun pressure seems to have no adverse effect on the birds. It also serves to minimize potential crop damage by the tricky targets.

Uranium talk —

 Federal uranium contracts run out in 1970 and after that time more or less of an open market is expected for the first time, Wright explained, although some government controls probably will remain.

He said firms manufacturing atomic reactors for power already have a "10-year backlog of order" and that uranium demands are expected to climb steadily in future years.

Major firms seeking uranium are going to drill 30 million feet of holes this year in this country testing for uranium, Wright said. More money will be spent on uranium exploration in 1968 than in all uranium exploration in past years lumped together, he added.

"You are going to see all kinds of folks interested in uranium come in here," Wright said.

IN ANSWER to other questions, Wright said the community and its people should be as courteous and helpful as possible to well-known development firms.

Wright told Rotarians that a uranium lease which has a gold ore deposit can make a landowner rich, just like a lease which leads to a big oil pool.

But he said that lease terms between oil and uranium are not comparable. "In wildcat country, such as Garza County, five per cent is 'a good and fair uranium royalty,'" Wright said, while landowners expected 10 per cent or more from oil.

He cautioned that uranium development firms will not pay premiums for leases in undeveloped areas, but will merely move along to some other area if such premiums are demanded.

WRIGHT SAID a uranium mill, at least within 150 miles, will be needed for local uranium deposit development and one within 50 miles, or "preferably right here in Post," would be better.

He explained uranium mills crush the rock and extract what is called "yellow cake" to sell on the uranium market. Long haulage of the ore is not economically feasible. He said the nearest uranium mills are about 400 miles from Post, in Texas and New Mexico.

Wright reviewed the history of uranium development and explained how it was mined, its chemical deposits, and how processed for sale.

Cornish said in his introduction he hoped uranium could mean as much to the future development of the High Plains area and Garza County as the growing sulphur industry apparently will mean to the broad Pecos area of West Texas, which already has taken four to five years just to get started.

Two file in Post school election

Two school trustees, A. C. Cash and K. W. Kirkpatrick, filed Monday night to make the spring race for second three-year terms on the board of the Post Independent School District.

The two filed after the February meeting at which trustees set Saturday, April 6, for the school election.

Cash will seek the No. 4 place on the board of trustees and Kirkpatrick, place No. 5.

The filing deadline is 30 days in advance of the election.

Two positions are the only ones coming up at the school district's spring elections.

Candidates at the time of filing must file for a specific numbered position on the school board.

 board that Hutchins' resignation as principal, which Shiver received with regret, also will mean the loss of Mrs. Hutchins as a fourth grade teacher.

Trustees in other actions called the spring trustees' election for Saturday, April 6, authorizing the election notice to appear in this and next week's edition of The Dispatch; and approved terms for the sale of four 1968 model Volkswagen appliances from the high school home economics department. The sale ad appears on page 4 of today's Dispatch.

Supr. Shiver told the board that seven of the classrooms in the primary building have been painted and efforts are being made to complete painting the remaining rooms prior to the annual school open house.

 STOCKTON also told White River directors his corporation plans to install a breakwater to protect boats and docks on the west bank of the lake and directors gave their approval.

Al O'Brien, general manager of the water district, told directors that to date 138 lake-front lots have been leased for cabin sites and that there has been quite a rush for lots the last two weeks with 15 or more leased in this period.

In another important action, directors unanimously passed a resolution, as drawn by the district's attorney, Bob Jung of Crosbyton, authorizing O'Brien to employ "one or more peace officers" for the water district as may be needed to enforce the district regulations and to protect the lake from properties of lessees.

Such a peace officer would take the oath of office as prescribed by Texas law for sheriffs and his duties would be those authorized by provisions of the act of the Texas Legislature in creating the district.

THE PEACE officer would be authorized to make arrests against those violating the district's rules and regulations and to file complaints against such violators in established courts.

Directors have been aware of the need for more law enforcement in the lake area and, after conferring with the Crosby County sheriff, have felt it was a peace officer as authorized by law would be the most workable approach.

O'Brien indicated he expected to have such a peace officer on duty later this spring and prior to the summer recreational rush.

The water district manager told directors a meeting is scheduled in Austin, Feb. 14, by 17 municipalities and water districts now proceeding with civil actions against five pipe corporations for alleged violations of the anti-trust act in the fixing of the price of pipe.

A criminal action is pending against three of the firms in the U. S. District Court for the northern district of Texas, which sits in Dallas. Civil actions are being filed in the same courts.

UNDER FEDERAL law, recovery of three times the amount of the damage in such price-fixing cases is authorized when violations have so judged.

Since the White River district has spent up to a million dollars for pipe in its pipelines to member cities, it might be possible to recover up to $300,000 in such triple damages, should the district eventually win its case.

O'Brien told directors that pipe companies in California found guilty of price fixing have paid off millions of dollars in civil damages to customers.

 on apportioning school district taxes because absenteeism is cutting the school district's attendance record on which state aid for next year is based.

Bill explains that the flu epidemic of January cut heavily into attendance figures and unless attendance can be held high for the remainder of the year may mean the loss of a teacher or more in state aid funds.

Shiver points out that on "good days" attendance seldom gets above 92 or 93 per cent. "We need to get that attendance up to 98 or 99 per cent on 'good days,'" Shiver said to keep from losing state funds.

COUNTY COURT
 Charles Edward Morgan pleaded guilty Monday in county court to driving while intoxicated. He was fined $75 and costs and probated for a three-day jail sentence and six months driver license suspension.

 "getting worse all the time." Numerous complaints are being received about the number of dogs running at large.

The police department was authorized to file complaint in corporation court against dog owners in violation of the city ordinance requiring that dogs be licensed and kept up.

Due to pending court action, it was pointed out, officers are enjoined from going on private property to seize a dog running at large or being harbored in violation of the ordinance without the consent of the owner of the property.

The city council suggested that property owners who are bothered by dogs on their property call the city police, who, with the property owner's permission, will seize and impound the dogs.

"The city requests the cooperation of all citizens in dealing with this situation," said Mayor John Hopkins.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, the council heard a progress report from Clearview of Post, which was recently assigned a TV cable franchise. The cable firm reported that construction is well under way, and that an agreement has been made with utility firms here to use their poles, where possible.

Making the progress report for Clearview were Joe Shields, Bill Searle and Tuck Monk.

Congratulations, Vernon Scott

Trail is scenic in hill country

AUSTIN—A stair-step chain of lakes, a President's home, historic San Antonio and a bounty of attractions and scenic drives highlight the Texas Hill Country Trail, one of 10 Travel Trails unveiled here Jan. 17 by Gov. John Connally.

Stretching for an estimated 378 miles, the trail traverses the counties of Bandera, Bexar, Blanco, Burnet, Comal, Gillespie, Hays, Kerr, Llano, Medina, Real, Travis, Uvalde and Williamson. It swings south from Austin via Farm Road 1826 to Wimberley, a Blanco Village community noted for its cool, shady streams beneath tall cypress trees. Dude ranches and youth camps cover the area.

STATE HIGHWAY 12 leads to San Marcos, home of unique Aquarena Springs and Southwest Texas State College, alma mater of President Lyndon Johnson. In addition to its submarine theatre, Aquarena offers glass-bottom boat rides on the San Marcos River, a Swiss sky ride and a Texana Village featuring a frontier town. New Braunfels is the next trail host where the annual "Wurstfest" celebration in November attracts thousands to pay tribute to the sausage-makers of the region. Two of the state's outstanding caverns are in this area—Wonder Cave in San Marcos and Natural Bridge Caverns, located about 12 miles west of New Braunfels off State Highway 1863.

Also near New Braunfels is Canyon Lake, one of the state's newest. Its 13,000 surface acres lie in a hills-and-valley region that provides spectacular lake views where elevations vary 1,000 feet and more.

Rites for mother of Post resident

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie Frances Stark, 88, longtime resident of Crosbyton, were held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the First Baptist Church of Crosbyton.

Mrs. Stark, who died last Thursday in Crosbyton Convalescent Home, was the mother of R. C. Stark of the Post Police Department.

A native of Comanche County, Mrs. Stark moved to Crosby County in 1928 from Snyder.

She is also survived by three other sons, including Fletcher Stark of Crosbyton, who is Crosby County sheriff, three daughters, a brother, two sisters and 14 grandchildren.

Burial was in the Cone Cemetery.

First annual meeting of Water, Inc., Feb. 20

LUBBOCK — Water, Inc., officials are expecting a large number of state and federal water resources development specialists to attend the organization's first annual meeting Tuesday, Feb. 20, in Plainview.

John J. Kendrick of Brownfield, Water, Inc., president, stated that in response to invitations "several leading members of both the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers and the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation will be on hand, as well as representatives from the Texas Water Development Board and other state organizations."

THE HILL Country Trail skirts San Antonio on the north via Loop 410 connecting with State Highway 1957 which leads to Castroville. Beautiful Medina Lake and River nearby make the area one of the most scenic in the state. Castroville was founded in 1844 and is rich in Alsatian traditions. The Landmark Inn, built in 1848, and St. Louis Catholic Church, constructed that same year, are sites worth the visitor's time. Leaving Castroville on U. S. 90, the trail turns abruptly north on Farm Road 889 for Bandera, site of the state's largest concentration of dude ranches. A change-of-pace life—breakfast, cooked on an open fire, a peaceful trail ride along a quiet stream, and an evening meal around a glowing campfire—awaits visitors.

Uvalde is home of the late Vice President John Nance Garner and the state park bearing his name. The trail turns northward once more, continuing to Camp Wood via State Highway 55 and on into Leakey on the Frio River. More spectacular scenery awaits the traveler in the Leakey area on State Highways 83 and 39 leading into Kerrville, county seat of Kerr County and home of Schreiner Institute. Nearby lakes on the Guadalupe River provide visitors excellent fishing and water sports on a year-round basis.

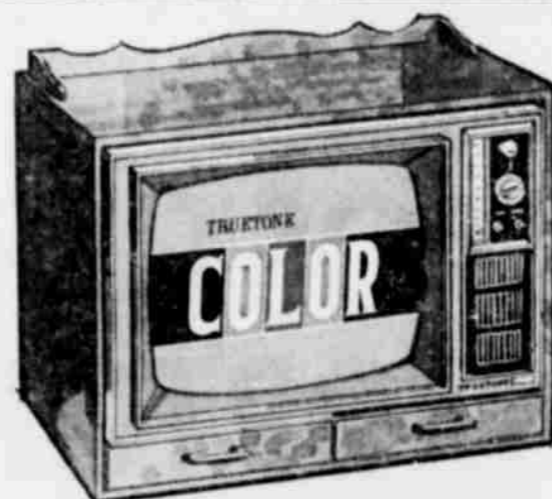

MOVING NORTH on State Highway 16 across the Pedernales River the traveler arrives in Fredericksburg, a city of old-world German charm. From here Chester Nimitz went to war, returned as a fleet admiral and became a legend in his own lifetime. A memorial museum containing personal documents of the famed World War II Naval commander has been established. One of the community's most famous historical structures is the 1847 Vereins Kirche, an octagon-shaped replica of the community's first church. Rock collectors visiting Fredericksburg marvel at the two nearby geologic rarities, Enchanted Rock and Balanced Rock, both located on Ranch Road 965. Enchanted Rock, the largest granite mountain in the southwest, is 17 miles from town, covers 640 acres and rises to a height of 500 feet. Balanced Rock is only four miles out and is maintained as a roadside park. The huge boulder is perched on a pinpoint base.

From Fredericksburg to Johnson City along State Highway 290 is Lyndon Johnson country. Here the President was born, reared and returns for his leisure hours. The LBJ Ranch on Ranch Road 1 has become one of the state's leading tourist attractions. Visitors are allowed near the site except when the President is at home. President Johnson's boyhood home is open to the public in nearby Johnson City, while a replica of the birthplace home is on the ranch.

THE RETURN to Austin passes the forest-crowned shores of the Highland Lakes, a 143-mile stairway of water that tumbles from limestone caverns and winds among the cañons and scot slopes.

Once the crystal blue lakes were a flooding threat. Then dams were built to harness the powerful Colorado River. And the lakes became a placid playground.

Longhorn Cavern and Inks State Parks offer recreational stops along the way. One of the oldest parks, Longhorn Cavern abounds in legends of outlaws using the cave as a hideout.

Vietnam View

as reported by Marine Corps Combat Correspondents and edited by
GySgt. Bob Montgomery

There has been a lot of discussion about the Draft program lately. Everyone has a different opinion on the U. S. Draft. The common thought of the program is North Vietnam's draft.

Vietnam's draft director is an unpleasant task in 1968. The Amphibious Force, Marine air-ground team was made for 17,352 permanent duty last year for Uncle Ho's birthday. If there were 100 million north of the demilitarized zone the size of Imperial Valley, Calif., Winter Park, Fla., Okla., Connersville, Ind., N. C., or Kent, Ohio, it would have problems. It would be the entire city to be drafted by the North Vietnamese. The program wouldn't win public Ha Nam is not a prosperous village. Its inhabitants eke out a living fishing nearby streams and lagoons, and cultivating a few barren acres.

The village also, until recently, sat astride a major Viet Cong infiltration and supply route. The fishermen thus were forced to pay taxes both to the government and the V. C., a major drain on their already meager resources.

Ten months ago when the nearby settlement of Ha Chau faced a similar problem, the villagers simply uprooted their homes and moved several thousand meters to a site adjacent Combined Action Platoon H-2 along Highway 1. That move was successful and the Ha Nam villagers decided to follow suit.

Dismantling their homes piece by piece, the villagers have moved from their former site to within 500 meters of the CAP outpost to be under Marine protection.

"Buddha" is a small black Vietnamese dog who stands out in a crowd.

The crowd is over 100 German Shepherd scout dogs. Buddha is the mascot of the Scout Platoon, 3rd Military Police Battalion, Force Logistic Command.

The Maines are not sure where Buddha came from, but they think he just wandered in one day shortly after the platoon moved to Vietnam two years ago.

For fun, Buddha likes to humiliate the larger dogs by running the obstacle course, especially going over an almost vertical wall which towers over him.

"The first time I saw him run the course I didn't believe it," said Lance Cpl. Wally Warwick of Key Port, N. J. "He makes the shepherds look awful bad," the Marine laughed.

To earn his keep, Buddha keeps the area free of rats. "There isn't a rat here and if one does come around he doesn't last long," commented another of the dog handlers.

It's the Law ...

WHEN A CHILD DARTS OUT

Rare is the parent, and rare is the motorist, who has not been haunted by the vision of a child darting out in front of an oncoming automobile. Yet, tragically, such accidents are anything but rare.

If a child is injured or killed in this manner, who bears the legal responsibility?

In a sense the child himself is at fault, since he "took the initiative" in causing the accident. But the law adjusts its standard of care to fit the age of the individual. In most of these darting-out cases, the child is too young to be tagged with the label of negligence.

Yet, the fact that the child is not responsible does not automatically shift responsibility to the motorist. Our impulsive, humanitarian sympathy for the youthful victim does not justify placing the blame on someone who is truly blameless.

Thus, a motorist is ordinarily not liable for running down the child who darts out suddenly from behind a parked car. For there is nothing to give the motorist fair warning of what is to come.

But there are many circumstances which should put the motorist on a special alert. An obvious example is the presence of a child in the street. The motorist should not assume, even if he blows his horn, that the child will promptly and prudently retreat to the sidewalk.

Even if there is no child in sight, other telltale signs may cry caution. For example:

In one case, the fact that a ball bounced into the street was held good reason for an oncoming motorist to expect that a child might follow.

In another case, a posted notice of "CHILDREN AT PLAY" was held sufficient to call for extra careful driving.

It is true that this special responsibility on the motorist, when children are in sight or in prospect, has a tendency to slow the movement of traffic.

But it is also true that cars are killing thousands of our youngsters every year. The law is willing to slow the traffic, to slow the slaughter.

1,862 credit reports issued in 1967 by Retail Merchants Assn. of Post

The Retail Merchants Association of Post issued 1,862 credit reports in 1967, according to the manager of the association.

"People who applied for credit in Garza County area last year were helped by the Retail Merchants Association," said the manager. "It was a substantial contribution because the increase in the percentage of credit sales as compared to cash sales reached an all-time high last year."

Nationally, credit bureaus affiliated with the Associated Credit Bureaus of America, Inc., reported about a one per cent increase in credit reports issued in 1967. ACB of A members issued 97.5 million credit reports in 1967 compared with 96.4 million credit reports in 1966.

The Retail Merchants Association of Post is a member of ACB of A.

The RMA manager predicted a renewed emphasis of helping families obtain credit in 1968 coupled with a decline in the national rate of growth of credit reports issued.

Ralph Locke, of Manchester, N. H., president of ACB of A, said the national rate of growth in credit reports issued will continue to decline because of deflationary measures taken by the federal government.

"WE STILL WILL have an increase in the number of reports issued even if the rate of growth declines slightly," Locke said.

"The best way for our credit economy to remain stable is for credit bureaus to expand their role of helping families obtain credit and to assist the business community in credit selling at a reasonable profit," Locke said.

"The most important function credit bureaus serve is to identify consumers who are good credit risks for credit granters," Locke said. "But credit bureaus are increasingly aware of their public service responsibility in counsel with families who have credit problems."

"Most consumers can begin solving credit difficulties by visiting their local credit bureaus," Locke stated. "If they have a serious problem, they may be referred to a family credit counseling agency."

Locke also forecast a return to the fundamentals of credit reporting in 1968.

"THERE HAS BEEN a tendency for the credit reporting industry to talk about glamorous things like automation when our real challenge is the quality of credit history information," Locke said.

"Computers are only as good as the information you put in them," Locke added. "If the computer does not have all of the information on all of the credit users from all credit sources, it can only deliver a fragment of the answer faster."

"Technology and computers do not change the basic concept of the credit reporting industry."

Locke said. "The credit granter wants to know to whom he is granting credit and how the consumer fits his own credit criterion."

"The existing network of local credit bureaus, organized through ACB of A, is the answer to this challenge," Locke said. "This network has the greatest amount of information about the greatest number of people right now."

"In an age of escalating costs, we have the responsibility of maintaining the lowest possible cost of credit to the consumer," Locke said. "The elimination of fragmentation of credit history information through a one-call, total record file in each community will help meet this responsibility."

COMPUTERIZED CREDIT bureaus, which will be introduced in Dallas and Houston early this year, will influence only credit bureaus in metropolitan areas, Locke stated.

An increased emphasis in the use of credit bureau services for market expansion and credit promotions was foreseen for 1968 by Locke.

"We've already had indications from a number of major oil companies and other national credit granters that they will step up their activities in credit promotions this year," Locke added.

Credit bureaus will continue the trend of serving more major national credit granters this year.

"Prior to World War II, most credit bureau business was generated in local communities," he pointed out. "But with a mobile population and big increases in national credit organizations, most credit bureau business now is generated outside the local community."

120 pupils tour TV station and bottling plant

By Sherry White

Tuesday of last week, the 6th grade of Post Junior High School took a field trip to Lubbock. Since they are studying Mass Media in Language Arts, they were shown through KCBT television station.

The class was divided into two groups so everyone would be able to see a live telecast. The first group saw the news and weather, given by Mr. Robbins, while the other group saw Ford Mitchell interview Dr. Pearce of Texas Tech on "Community Close-up."

After each group was shown through KCBT, they toured the plant of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, where they were served Sprite or Fresca, courtesy of Mr. Ward, the plant's production manager.

About 120 students, riding three buses, went on the field trip. Donald Windham, Waco Reynolds and Billy Hahn drove the buses. Other adults making the trip with the students were Mrs. O'Neal, Miss Caffey and Mrs. Hudman. The students are grateful to these people for arranging and making the trip possible.

Merlin, 'Man of Mystery,' comes here Feb. 21-22

Awe, skepticism and bewilderment are just some of the thrills in store for those who attend the performance of "Merlin, the Man of 1,000 Mysteries." Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 21-22, at 8 p. m. in the primary school auditorium.

This fascinating figure of the entertainment world is being brought to Post by the Post Lions Club, who will use their part of the proceeds to help finance their community projects.

The Merlin Show is a colorful fast-paced performance, using more than a ton of special equipment and presented by a top-notch entertainer who has amused and befuddled audiences for years by, among other things, reading the minds of people right in their own seats in the audience.

Advance tickets are on sale by members of the Lions Club. By buying a ticket in advance, adults can save 50 cents. All advance tickets are being sold at $1, but at the door they will be $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Rites conducted for band leader

Funeral services for Jimmie Mackey, 41, owner and manager of the western band, Jimmie Mackey and the All Stars, were held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the East Hill Church of Christ in Brownfield.

Mackey, who was well known in the Post area where his band had played for rodeo and other dances, died at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock at 4 p. m. Friday after a short illness.

A 1944 graduate of Meadow High School, Mackey was a former resident of the Needmore community.

Survivors include his wife and four daughters, his parents, and three sisters.

Burial was in the Terry County Memorial Cemetery.

Band welcomes special visitor

By Zelka Freeman

Wednesday of last week while the director Herb Germer was at a state music convention, the Post High School band was privileged to have a special visitor, Jim Conlan, a representative of the Welch Scientific Company, and an accomplished trumpet player, assisted in directing the band and, at the insistence of the band members, played a few Tijuana Brass and other selections.

Mr. Conlan played solo trumpet in the Harvard University band, and was a member of the Boston Young People's Symphony with LeRoy Anderson. During World War

Kay Litton 1968 'Miss Valentine'

By Beth Peel

Saturday night, Kay Litton, representing the Commercial Club, was chosen as the Valentine Sweetheart in the Future Homemakers of America's annual contest.

The first runner-up was Jan Wilks representing the Choir, and the second runner-up was Natha Jo Mears representing the Letterman's Club.

These three were chosen from seven finalists who were Emily Potts, Peggy Bevers, Micki Sterling, Patti Peel, and the three winners. These seven were chosen from a group of 22 girls.

Before the seven finalists were chosen, each of the 22 contestants answered a question she had drawn earlier.

Before the judges could make their final decisions each of the top seven was required to present a talent.

Kay Litton played the theme from "Exodus," on the piano; Jan Wilks played "Born Free" on the piano; Natha Jo Mears pantomimed "These Boots Are Made For Walking"; Micki Sterling sang "The Sweetheart Tree"; Emily Potts read a speech, "Is America Worth Working and Fighting For?"; which she had written herself; Peggy Bevers modeled a formal she had made, and Patti Peel performed a twirling routine to the song, "Somewhere, My Love."

The contestants were judged on beauty, poise and personality as each one walked across the stage and answered her question.

Each club and class in Post High School sponsored a representative in the contest. Sponsors included: cheerleaders, Donna Stewart; National Honor Society, Sharyn Bilberry; Does, Karen Lee; freshman class, Ryan Thomas; junior class, Debbie Tucker; sophomore class, Pam Petty; senior class, Adrienne Cook; Antelopes, Sherry Bird; pep squad, Kay Altman; band, Mickey Taylor; Science and Math Club, Voda Beth Voss; Future Teachers of America, Emily Potts; Student Council, Peggy Bevers; Future

The winners were crowned by FHA Beau Wiley Miller.

NAMED TEXAN OF THE YEAR—Each January the Texas Press Association designates a native born Texan, now residing outside the State and bringing honor to the state, as its TEXAN OF THE YEAR. This year the selection was from the field of sports. Chosen was Raymond E. Berry, outstanding end for the Baltimore Colts. Berry, born in Corpus Christi and raised in Paris, has been with the same National Football League club for the past 13 years. TPA President Harold Hudson (left) of Perryton is pictured here helping the sterling athlete hold his award-winning copper engraved plaque. Presentation was made by President Hudson on behalf of the newspapers of Texas for Berry's outstanding accomplishments, gracious Christian leadership and conduct both on and off the field of play.

Kenny Patterson wins lion's share of money at '68 Fort Worth Rodeo

DENVER, Colo. — That root of all good fortune — money — grew into a sizeable sum for seven professional rodeo cowboys at Fort Worth, Tex.

The seven, from all quarters of the nation, pocketed a combined $24,474 at Fort Worth's annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. The 20 rodeo performances ended Sunday.

Competing for shares of the total $76,538 in prize money were 429 members of the Denver-based Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Lanky Kenny Patterson, 22, Fairview, Tenn., won the lion's share of the money, earning an even $5,000 in calf roping.

Patterson, raised near Shawnee, Okla., joined a roping club at the age of 15, where the practice calves were furnished by his father, L. M. Patterson. The latter today trains cutting horses in Kentucky and Tennessee, but young Patterson continued his early calf roping efforts.

He joined the professional R. C. A. ranks last summer, and his first major win was last winter at Chicago where his roping talents earned him $1,100.

There were 162 entries in the Fort Worth calf roping. Patterson was the first roper out during the first performance. He tied his calf in 11.4 seconds, good for first place in the first go-round. However, he then had the nerve-tightening experience of watching 161 other ropers try to beat his time.

Fort Worth's all around cowboy (winning in two or more events) was Ken Stanton, 26, Weiser, Ida., who garnered $3,664 in bareback bronc and bull riding.

Others earning more than $2,000 each were: Jack Roddy, San Jose, Calif., the 1966 steer wrestling champion, $4,726; Roy Duvall, Boynton, Okla., 1967 steer wrestling titlist, $3,476; Junior Garrison, Marlow, Okla., 1966 calf roping champion, $2,844; Dickie Cox, McKinney, Tex., $2,585 in bull riding; Ivan Daines, Innisfall, Alta., $2,179 in saddle bronc riding.

Stanton's big win put him in second place in the national all around cowboy standings, less than $60 behind the leader, Larry Mahan, 24, Brooks, Ore.

Mahan, the 1966 and 1967 all around titlist, was winless at Fort Worth.

Roddy's efforts catapulted him from seventh to first place in national steer wrestling standings, and Duvall went from 11th to third.

Three-time saddle bronc champion, Marty Wood, Diamond, Mo., strengthened his bid for the 1968 title by winning $408 at Fort Worth. The same occurred for the 1967 bareback bronc titlist, Clyde Vavra, Burk Burnett, Tex., who won $1,806.

The only Negro in pro rodeo who has been a title contender, Myrtis Dightman of Houston, Tex., won $1,778 at Fort Worth, moving him from eighth to second place in bull riding.

The 1967 rodeo rookie of the year, Jay Himes, 19, Beulah, Colo., received a cracked vertebrae in his neck when he was thrown from

Total cattle numbers in U. S. in decline for third straight year

DECLINE STATION — Total cattle numbers in the United States declined in 1967 for the third consecutive year, according to John G. McHaney, assistant economist at Texas A & M University, all of the decline has been in dairy cattle because were probably down to about 108 million head. Final figures on 1967 numbers are not yet available, explains the economist.

BEEF COW numbers in the United States have increased. These amounted to about 24.2 million head on Jan. 1, 1958, compared with 34.6 million head on Jan. 1, 1967, a 43 per cent increase in nine years. They were probably up a little on Jan. 1, 1968.

The economist said that feed grain prices will more than likely be on the low side for the first part of 1968. With more favorable livestock-feed price ratios in prospect, feeding per animal unit may be heavier. Fed cattle marketings in 1968 are expected to rise and market weights are likely to be heavier.

Other meat will continue to give beef competition. McHaney said livestock producers are expected to produce a little more red meat in 1968 than in 1967.

He predicted that during the winter (January, February and March) of 1968, cattle feeders will more than likely market a few more fed cattle than during the same months of 1967. However, with strong consumer demand, fed cattle and feeder calf prices during the first three months of 1968 will probably near prices received the last three months of 1967.

McHANEY SAID that pasture and range conditions at the present time indicate favorable prospects for winter grazing. This will help to hold some feeder calves off the market and out of the feed lots. If range conditions were poor, larger marketings would be encouraged.

Some price weakness could develop late in the winter of 1968 and in the spring of 1968. He explained that on Oct. 1, 1967, there were considerably more cattle on feed than a year earlier in the weight groups that will supply a large part of the fed cattle marketings in the late winter and spring of 1968. The number on feed on Nov. 1, 1967 and Dec. 1, 1967 were also up from a year earlier.

McHaney predicted that during the last half of 1968, marketings of fed cattle will remain at a high level and will more than likely be a little larger than in the last half of 1967. He also expects prices received for both fed cattle and feeders to be down a little from the last half of 1967.

LIFE LINES

ICE HOCKEY

In 1870, students at McGill University in Montreal played the first crude form of ice hockey on the frozen surface of a river. Skates and regular hockey sticks were used, but the puck was cut out of a hard rubber ball.

This swift sport is unlike any other in rules. When a player commits a serious offense, he must sit in the penalty box for a designated time period. His team is handicapped, for no other player may be substituted for him.

Today there are more than 2,000,000 pro hockey fans... with enough enthusiastic followers to support six new teams this year. To keep all fans zoned in on this fast-growing, fast-paced sport, get Life's February 2nd issue with its colorful 14-page pictorial review of all the rough and tumble.
