

City to advertise for bids on paving it 'promised' taxpayers

Demolition of 'eyesores' okayed

The city council voted Monday night at its regular February session to advertise for bids on the street paving it promised some six months ago to have done if the sales tax issue carried.

The unanimous vote to advertise for bids came after a discussion of the proposed paving project with Ralph Douglas, city engineer.

The project will include paving on Avenue S, on East Third and East Fifth streets, on Fox Avenue, a loop in the northeast part of town to serve the public housing area, and the roads in Terrace Cemetery.

The engineer recommends to the council that it "go ahead and advertise for bids so you will know the cost if other people come in wanting additional paving included in the project."

In other actions Monday night, the council:

—Called a city election for April 3 (covered in a separate story in today's Dispatch).

—Discussed the operation of the corporation court with Judge Pat N. Walker (also covered in a separate story).

—Authorized the city secretary to prepare an advertisement for bids on a new automobile and new truck.

—Voted to negotiate a contract with Robert Buckley for the demolition and removal of condemned houses.

—Appointed a tax equalization board.

—Approved the new one-year contract of Pritchard & Abbott, tax evaluation engineers.

—Voted to pay half of a $15-a-month salary raise for radio dispatchers, with the county already having approved the raise.

—Approved paying Ray Bagby, relief police patrolman for 18 hours work each weekend instead of 16 hours.

—Heard a report by the mayor on results of the bounty payment roundup of stray dogs.

—Heard a report by the mayor on the removal of old houses and junk cars.

—Received a recommendation from the fire marshal that three more structures be condemned as fire hazards.

—Approved the purchase of a transistor radio for use in one of the city vehicles.

—Voted on recommendations of the city manager that Pete Maddox be designated director of public works instead of city water superintendent.

—Heard an offer by Councilman Mike Mitchell to sell the city an all-metal warehouse building for its own use and for lease use to the schools and the county.

The new automobile to be purchased by the city will replace one of the present police department cars. The flatbed truck will replace a 1962 model truck now in use.

The contract the city plans to negotiate with Robert Buckley for the demolition and removal of old houses involves the 1962 truck the city plans to get rid of. Buckley has offered to swap his services for tearing down the old houses for the truck, Mayor Giles C. McCrary said.

Bryce Martin, Buster Moreland and Gene Moore were reappointed to the board of tax equalization, with T. E. Odam and Charlie Didway named as alternates.

Mayor McCrary reported that the bounty payments are getting results in the reduction of the stray dog population. He said 52 dogs had been destroyed since the campaign started ten days ago.

The mayor also told the council that the junk car ordinance is getting good results and that the unsightly wrecks are not as much of a problem as they have been.

Seventeen junk cars have been declared health hazards and will be removed as such, the mayor said. The vacant structures the fire marshal has recommended be declared fire hazards were listed as belonging to R. L. Carlton, Frank Blanton and Jim Pool.

Pete Maddox was given the new title of director of public works because of his expanded duties, which have long since outgrown (See City Council, Page 8)

BUSINESS, PROFESSIONAL MEN

Rotary Club to host visitors from Chile

A group of seven young business and professional men from Chile will visit Post next week as part of the Rotary Foundation's group study exchange program.

Four will be guests of the Post Rotary Club here Wednesday through Friday nights and the other three will be guests of the Tahoka Rotary Club in Tahoka for the same period.

All seven will spend Thursday in Tahoka and attend the luncheon meeting of the Tahoka Rotary Club. Then all seven will spend Friday, Feb. 12, in Post.

Their day in Post will include a tour of the Postex Plant a historical tour, a study of water conservation directed by Bailey Mayo, of the Soil Conservation Service who also is president of the Post Rotary Club.

Post Rotarians will hold next week's luncheon in City Hall Friday noon instead of on Tuesday so the seven South Americans can meet with the club.

The group will leave Post and Tahoka Saturday morning, Feb. 13, and go on to Lubbock where they have a seven-day visit planned for them.

The group will visit most of the Rotary clubs in this West Texas district through March 30, being guests in homes of Rotarians all during their 60-day visit.

The group of Chile Rotarians left Santiago by air last Saturday and arrived at the Midland-Odessa Airport Sunday to launch their study exchange tour.

Their itinerary calls for them to leave the Odessa-Midland area on Sunday and spend the next four days in Sweetwater and Snyder before coming to Post and Tahoka next Wednesday afternoon at 5 p.m.

Group Study Exchange is an educational activity of the Rotary Foundation which offers a unique person-to-person opportunity for the promotion of better understanding and friendly relations among the peoples of the world. The program provides travel grants for the exchange of teams of young business and professional men between paired districts of Rotary International in different countries, enabling them to study the institutions and ways of life of their hosts and to develop personal acquaintances and exchange ideas.

Such a group study exchange team flew from West Texas last year to Chile for an extended study visit.

The four young men who will stay in Post three nights are: Gustavo Alberto (Gus) Vega, 35, a lawyer in Concepcion, Guillermo Alejandro (Jano) Rojas, 24, of Concepcion, administrator and public relations officer for a meat products plant.

Alejandro Herman (Alejandro) Villegas, 35, a professor at the secondary school level in Los Angeles.

MAYOR, 3 COUNCILMEN

City election is set for Saturday, April 3

Saturday, April 3, was set by the city council Monday night as the date of an election in which the mayor and three city councilmen will be elected. The election was at the council's regular February session.

Terms expiring are those of May-Giles C. McCrary and Councilman David Newby, Lester Nichols and Mike Mitchell.

In order to "even up" the number of offices to be filled in the election each year, the council member elected with the lowest number of votes April 3 will serve a one-year term, with the mayor and other two councilmen elected for the customary two-year terms.

It is now, three councilmen and a mayor are elected one year and two councilmen the next year. The situation came about through appointment of a council member to fill an unexpired term a few days ago.

The term of the councilman elected to a one-year term April 3 will expire in April of 1972, at which time three councilmen will be chosen for two-year terms to even it up again.

The filing deadline for candidates in this year's election will be on March 4, which is 30 days before the election. Candidates may file with City Secretary Wanda Wilkerson at the City Hall.

Sexton Huntley was appointed election judge, with the voting box to be located at the City Hall, where the polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Improvements on Avenue S noted

A cooperative effort on the parts of the City of Post and Garza County has resulted in extensive improvements to unpaved Avenue S.

With the city and Precinct I County Commissioner Paul Jones using their equipment and personnel jointly, a caliche surface has been put on the avenue and it has been watered down and bladed.

The improvements were to the three skip blocks on Avenue S and from 15th Street to the Lubbock Highway.

TOUR OF POSTEX

30 senioritas to visit next week

Thirty young Mexican ladies from the National School for Teachers in Mexico City will tour the Postex Plant here Friday afternoon, Feb. 12, according to Mrs. Dan Howard, publicity chairman for the Junior League of Lubbock, which is sponsoring the group's visit to Lubbock.

"Operation Seniorita" which brings the group to Lubbock, is in its ninth consecutive year. The students will visit in Lubbock from Feb. 8 until Feb. 14.

They are scheduled to leave Lubbock for Post at noon Friday, Feb. 12, and return to Lubbock about 4 p.m. following their guided tour of the textile mill here.

"These young ladies," Mrs. Howard said, "will soon graduate and become teachers in the rural schools of Mexico. "While these students are visiting in Lubbock and area, the Junior League hopes to demonstrate in a personal way democracy in action while promoting good will between the United States and Mexico. Since this may be the only opportunity to visit the United States these girls will have in their lifetimes, it is our desire to extend to them a warm and friendly welcome."

Last year's "Operation Seniorita" included a tour of the Postex Plant, after which the visitors were guests for a short time in the home of Mayor and Mrs. Giles C. McCrary before returning to Lubbock.

Larry Bilberry and Judy Norman have just been named "Mr. and Miss PHS" for the 1970-71 school year, carrying on a tradition that was started some 20 years ago in the local high school. Both Larry and Judy rank high academically and are active in many extra-curricular activities. (Staff Photo)

4-Hers to assist March of Dimes

The Garza County 4-H Council has planned a community project in conjunction with the March of Dimes campaign. A special committee composed of Sue Cowdrey, Nancy Maddox, Joe Clary and Karen Williams discussed plans with Miss Judy Hood, representative of the National Foundation, in a session Tuesday at the courthouse.

All Garza County 4-H clubs will be involved in the March to begin at 4:30 p.m. on Feb. 15. This community effort by the 4-Hers is another way that the youth in the country have of saying, "We Care."

THREE CHARGED

Rural burglary is soon solved here

An afternoon burglary of the Cecil Bland rural home, six miles north of Post on the Ralls highway, was solved by Garza Sheriff Jimmy Holleman within 24 hours recently and almost all the loot taken was recovered — including the uneaten portion of the beef roast taken by the trio right out of the Bland kitchen.

The three men charged with theft over $50 in the case are now in the Crosby County jail at Crosbyton where they are being held for the grand jury's action in Crosby on two other burglaries there.

Those being held are B. J. Fritts, of Lubbock, Paul J. Reeves of Oklahoma and John H. Duplanis of Louisiana.

The trio took the roast, a presto cooker and a box of jewelry from the Bland home, ate part of the

Council changes mind on moving city court

The city council changed its mind Monday night about wanting the corporation court moved from City Judge Pat N. Walker's law office back to the city hall, following a discussion with Judge Walker at the February council meeting on the court and its operations.

Instead, the council voted to instruct member of the city police department to attend a 10-hour training institute Judge Walker volunteered to conduct for police officers.

The purpose of the institute, as the council sees it, will be to bring about better court relations between the judge and the police officers.

The council had voted at its January session that the court be moved back to the city hall within 30 days, that regular court hours be established, and that the arresting officer be present in court prior to the dismissal of any case.

Judge Walker told the council that he does not consider regular court hours necessary since only "two or three" cases a week are being filed now as compared to "about 25 a week" in the past.

Judge Walker also said there are not over two dismissals a month in his court. "The police are not entitled to have a court support them 100 per cent," the judge said.

"The function of a court is to solve problems, not mete out punishment," Judge Walker said. "Every case should be handled on its merits."

The judge also pointed out that there has not been a jury trial in the corporation court for at least two years and that in case there is one, it can be moved to the city hall for hearing.

The council authorized City Manager Bobby Pierce to confer with Judge Walker and the police officers as to the best time of the week to hold the training institute.

blaze destroys hot mix plant

Pavers' hot mix plant on top of the Fluvauna cap was destroyed by fire last Friday afternoon, resulting in damage estimated at several thousand dollars.

The hot mix plant was turning material for the hot topping of S. Hwy. 84 in that area.

Post firemen, who answered the alarm, also were called out twice during the night.

The alarm during fire practice for a blaze in a tank at Stark Construction Co. The tank was the company had been using for burning a tank emptying unit.

Friday afternoon, firemen were called to Continental Oil Co.'s Thule to put out a heater fire in a tank battery. Considerable damage was reported, with the fire burning a tank emptying unit.

SHRUBS, GRASS SUFFER

Shrubs and grass are suffering during this dry weather, with lots of small shrubs doomed by the drought unless they get plenty of water, says R. G. "Wilke" Wilkerson. "If you want to save your shrubs and grass, pour the water on them," Wilke said.

Boy Scout observance lengthened

Every year the nation observes Boy Scout Week in observance of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America 60 years ago. This year, 4.5 million Boy Scouts and their 1.5 million adult leaders will observe the birthday of Scouting under a new banner. Instead of Boy Scout Week, there is now under way a Boy Scout of America Anniversary Celebration during the entire month of February.

Presently, one out of four boys of Scout age is a member of the Boy Scouts of America, and through a new long-range development plan, called BOYPOWER '76 the Boy Scouts plan to involve a representative one-third of all boys in the Scouting program.

With one active Boy Scout troop and one active Cub Scout pack, there is room in Post for expansion of this worthwhile program. Parents are missing a bet when they overlook the good works of the Scouts. The age of Scouting begins at eight years and extends through 17. The eight-year-olds can enroll in the Cub Scouts. When a youngster reaches 11 years of age, he can become a full-fledged Boy Scout and participate in vigorous outdoor programs to teach boys concepts of honor; duty to God and country; service to others; and self-respect.

The Boy Scout organization had its inception on July 29, 1907, when a small group of boys and two men set up a camp in a sheltered bay off England's southern coast. The group was led by Lord Baden-Powell, a British hero of the Boer War, and the boys were from the streets of England's cities — and from the most exclusive schools.

Two years later, Boy Scouting came to the United States when Mr. William D. Boyce, a Chicago newspaper and magazine publisher, inspired by his acquaintanceship with Scouting in England, incorporated on Feb. 8, 1910, the Boy Scouts of America in Washington, D. C. A Federal charter from Congress was granted on June 15, 1916.

Today we owe a debt of gratitude to the vision of Lord Baden-Powell and Mr. William D. Boyce. There is no better way of expressing that gratitude than by furthering the cause of the Scouts at every opportunity during the month of February.

Rural development called for

Almost buried among the heavier "great goals" in President Nixon's State of the Union message, but still a big point, was the rural development he called for.

Aimed at making rural growth centers more attractive to industry, the point is of special interest to towns the size of Post.

"We must create a new rural environment which will not only stem the migration to urban centers but reverse it," the President said.

It's by no means a new dream. Many people, as former Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said, would gladly live in small towns if there were jobs, basic services and good schools.

The President's reported plan is to redirect federal aid for housing, hospitals, airports, waste disposal and water utilization to promising areas that could accommodate industry if they had the sales tools.

America's towns have long known that, and many have launched their own renewal programs. Broader aid programs for rural growth in all sections should heighten the appeal to industries. The fact that most of them give the employer his money's worth in labor is not the least of the attractions of the essentially rural workers.

One of the games people play

Folks who have been complaining these last few years about the pornographic mail delivered to their mail boxes can, at long last, do something about it.

A new law that went into effect Feb. 1 is designed to protect the mail receiver from receiving "Sexually oriented advertisements in the mails."

All the patron has to do is fill out a form at the post office asking that his name be added to the Post Office Reference List. Thirty days after your name is added to the list, any mailer who sends you pornographic literature is subject to both civil and criminal legal action.

The only catch we can see is that this new law is likely to suffer the fate of many other laws—become ineffective because of apathy on the part of the public. Just because there is a protective law against receiving smutty literature in the mails doesn't mean the mail receiver will take the time and trouble to go to the post office and fill out a form. The chances are he won't.

It is much like the privilege to vote. Many of us spend considerable times criticizing those in office and the laws they enact, yet we often fail to vote or even fail to register to vote. It's called apathy—just one of "the games people play."

First National BANK
The Bank of Distinction

I JUST NOTICED on our February holiday calendar that there are only eight shopping days left until Valentine's Day. I had forgotten it was that important, but then it's been a long time since my "hearts and flowers" days.

There are a lot of other things besides Valentine's Day going on this month. The Boy Scouts of America are observing their 61st anniversary with a month-long celebration stressing Project SOAR — "Save Our American Resources."

BEGINNING SUNDAY, it's National Beauty Salon Week, National Electrical Week, with a theme of "Electricity is for People," Negro History Celebration Week and National Crime Prevention Week, which like Fire Prevention Week should last the year-round.

Lincoln's Birthday is Feb. 12, which is also the first day of National Defense Week. Valentine's Day, which is Sunday, Feb. 14, also marks the start of National Engineers' Week and Brotherhood Week. National Kraut and Frankfurter Week is Feb. 18-27, and National Future Farmers of America Week starts the 20th and runs through the 27th.

FEB. 21 IS Heart Sunday, Monday, the 22nd, is Washington's Birthday, and Ash Wednesday, on the 24th, marks the beginning of Lent. And that's a reminder that Easter comes a week later this year than last — on April 11.

The man up the street says he quit taking tranquilizers because the last time he was on them he found himself being friendly to people he wouldn't even speak to otherwise.

AFTER THIS column had gone to press last week, I received some more information on the 16-foot mammoth tusk found near here in 1930. Both Victor and Hansford Hudman informed me that their father, the late J. B. Hudman, was the one who found the tusk in the bed of Spring Creek while he and George Doughty were hunting.

Victor also said he thought the tusk had been sent to the American Museum of Natural History in New York instead of to the Smithsonian Institution, as reported last week. Does anyone know for certain where the big tusk is on display?

WHEN ARE THE writers on your paper going to learn to spell? This was the inevitable question during the annual Newspaper-in-the-Classroom Workshop given by The Record of Hackensack, N. J. So Assistant Managing Editor DeWitt H. Scott explained all the effort that goes into trying to produce a flawless newspaper and how mistakes inevitably happen.

"Before we leave the subject, however, let's try and experiment a little," he said. "Why not try to spell a few words for me?"

Scott read off as teachers wrote down: accommodate, affidavit, diphtheria, embarrass, goodbye, harass, inoculate, precede, supersede, and siege. Then he spelled the words and asked for a show of hands for perfect lists. Of 173 teachers, three raised their hands. And we wonder how honest those three were.

Our own personal test on spelling is to ask how many can correctly spell hors d'oeuvres. Even most newspapermen cannot spell it, but most of them like to call it "horse do overs."

When the editor of a Nevada newspaper was hard up for matter with which to fill his columns, he had his printer set up the Ten Commandments, and ran them without editorial comment. After the paper was published, he received the following letter: "Can I cancel my subscription. You're getting too personal."

I DON'T KNOW if the Women's Liberation movement has anything to do with it, but I heard a woman say of her husband, the other day, "He's so useless he couldn't drive a red hot nail through a pound of butter." Which caused another woman to say she knew a man who was so hopeless "he couldn't pour water out of a boot even with the instructions written on the sole."

Putting a switch on those "I will not be responsible," etc., classified ads. The Rev. Frank Little of Crawfordsville, Ind., on his 30th wedding anniversary, ran this one in the local newspaper: "I will be responsible for all the obligations of my wife, Mildred Little. During our 30 years of married life, she has given me great joy, happiness and four wonderful children."

INTRIGUING SUBJECT MEMPHIS, Tex. — "Worry, But Don't Go Nuts" will be the title of the address by Jeff H. Williams of Chickasha, Okla., at the annual banquet of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development tonight (Thursday).

1971's first big rodeo draws 500 pro cowboys

DENVER, Colo. — Nearly $85,000 in prize money was awarded here Jan. 24 to winners of the 65th annual National Western Rodeo, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

The rodeo, hailed traditionally as "the year's first big one," had more than 500 professional rodeo cowboys entered. Paul Mayo, 28-year-old bareback bronc riding champion of 1970, won all around honors by winning the most money in two events. He pocketed $2,685 in bareback bronc riding, to take first in that event, and won $1,245 in bull riding.

The biggest money-winner at the rodeo, however, was Joe Watkins, 33, Mountview, Calif. He left Denver coliseum with $4,355 garnered from steer wrestling.

The biggest money-winners in the other events were: Mel Hyand, Surrey, B. C., with $1,170 in saddle bronc riding; Kirby, Woodstown, N. J., $2,485 in bull riding; Young, Peralta, N. M., $1,011 in calf roping.

Bucky Bradford, Tucuman, and Gary Gist, Lakeside, emerged top winners in the ring, each collecting $762. More than 150,000 persons watched the rodeo, which had 18 mances. Fourteen of the mances were complete.

Following the Denver rodeo, the top cowboys travel to compete in the Fort Worth, Tex., rodeo. Prize money there is expected to reach $90,000.

Professional rodeo cowboys their own travel expenses, rodeo entry fees, and receive what money they are enough to win in the arena.

Area wildcat well gauged

Melton & Waldrep of Midland has completed an initial potential test at No. 1 Williams, wildcat three-eighths of a mile west-northwest of the depleted one-well Cross (Glorieta) pool of Garza County.

Perforations from 3,109-3,186 feet pumped 13.45 barrels of oil plus 160 barrels of water in 24 hours. Gas-oil ratio was too small to measure.

The drillsite is 467 feet from south and 3,173 feet from east lines of Section 14, Block 4, K. Aycock Survey.

Ashmun & Hilliard No. 1 Welch, the discovery well in that area, was potentialized in 1956 for a daily yield of 35 barrels of 36-2 gravity oil plus 60 per cent water, through perforations of 3,142-3,158 feet.

Abilene's million-dollar zoo, one of the five largest in the state, was opened in 1966.

HOW TO BUY AND USE POULTRY

When selecting poultry, look for the USDA shield. It tells you the grade or quality of the poultry. The highest quality is Grade A. The birds are fully fleshed and meaty, well finished and attractive. Before being graded for quality, the birds (chicken, turkey, duck, goose and guinea) must be inspected for wholesomeness. The inspection mark appears with the grade shield. Another factor to consider is the class or age since this indicates tenderness. Young, tendermeated classes are most suitable for barbecuing, frying, broiling or roasting. The less-tender, mature birds are better stewed, baked or in soups and salads.

All poultry is perishable. Care and cleanliness should be used in the preparation, cooking and serving. Mishandling of the food can lead to various types of food poisoning. The common errors in handling are:

1. Failure to adequately cook foods.
2. Not keeping cold foods cold and hot foods hot.
3. Lack of cleanliness.

Frozen poultry should be cooked promptly after thawing. Use chilled poultry within 1 to 2 days. Completely cook poultry at one time. Never partially cook, store and finish at a later date.

Sometimes after you have thoroughly cooked a chicken, the meat around the bones will appear reddish brown. It's safe to eat. The fryers were marketed young — before bone marrow had fully hardened. The red blood cells have seeped in to the meat causing the color.

Always cook poultry (as well as all other meats) at low moderate temperatures. This provides maximum tenderness and juiciness with less shrinkage. It also helps make sure the center is fully cooked without the outside being overdone. Over-cooked protein food toughens, making digestion difficult.

Valentine dance plans discussed at chapter meet

Plans for the Valentine dance to be held with the Mu Alpha chapter were discussed when Xi Delta Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 25 in the home of Sue Dornier.

Mrs. Rasbury told how to get an antique look or glossy finish to different items, depending on the use of the article.

Checkout computers for grocery stores being demonstrated

COLLEGE STATION — A computer for checkouts at the grocery store, which would mean speedier checkouts and savings for the consumer, has been demonstrated for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, announces Gwendolyn Clyatt, extension specialist in consumer marketing.

The computerized checkout system was demonstrated by Virginia Knauer, presidential assistant for consumer affairs, at the agricultural Research Service Office of the USDA. It is the first working trial model.

The system consists of an electric scanner, held over the product that reads the code label and records the price, name, amount and other identifying data about the item. The customer receives a detailed list of items purchased, prices, tax and number of stamps due. The computer records this information and maintains an inventory by name and automatic ordering information for shelf replacement. It does not, however, handle fresh produce — items such as lettuce or unpackaged carrots.

Both time in the checkout lines and consumer money can be saved by installing the computers. Also, the system will save clerks considerable time and may encourage lower food prices.

Few problems remain to be worked out, but the computerized checkout system offers possibilities, Mrs. Clyatt says.

By GEORGE L. MILLER

Once again I am able to report some new books in the library. We just acquired them this past week. We've really stepped up our book buying recently.

Among our newest titles, probably the one that will interest most people is "Islands in the Stream," Ernest Hemingway's last book. He had completed the writing of it before he died, but he had not edited it. This was done by his widow. Reviews are mixed, but everyone seems to agree that if you like Hemingway (and many, many people do) you'll want to read this novel.

Another book which I have heard praised is "Inside the Third Reich" by Albert Speer. It is the memoirs of a man who worked beside Adolf Hitler from 1930 to the end of the Nazi "experiment." The New York Times called it "A remarkable portrait in depth, probably the best we shall ever get of Hitler."

For those who like their books handsome, as pleasing to the eye as they are agreeable to the mind — we have three new titles that are musts: "Madame de Pompadour" by Nancy Mitford, is the fascinating story of a fascinating woman. It is also filled with illustrations. It is color and black and white, that dazzle the eye.

"The Prince of Pleasure" by J. B. Priestley makes a suitable companion to "Madame de Pompadour." It is every bit as handsome a book, with many color photographs of an era of opulence that must be seen to be believed.

Our third "picture book" is "Atlantis" by A. G. Galanopoulos. This is the story of a search for the fabled land of Atlantis, and the author is satisfied he has found it. Many people who use our library are avid readers of anything having to do with archeology. This is by far the handsomest book on the subject we have acquired. It's bound to be a popular one.

For biography lovers we have "Mary Queen of Scots" by Antonia Fraser. When it was published, it was hailed as the finest biography of this unhappy Queen that has ever been written. Some say Mary was a tragic victim of circumstances, others describe her as a ruthless schemer who got what she deserved. Miss Fraser tends toward the sympathetic interpretation and amasses abundant information to support her view.

A title that has stayed on the Best Seller list a remarkably long time is "Love and Will" by Rollo

It's the Law...

PARENTS VS. GRANDPARENTS
Jane and Eddie, a young married couple, showed almost no interest in their baby boy. Out of sheer necessity, Jane's parents took over the task of bringing him up.

But when he was three, Jane and Eddie decided they wanted him back. The grandparents refused to part with the boy, so the two couples squared off in the courtroom to fight for custody.

"Parents outrank grandparents," argued the younger pair. But it also appeared that Jane and Eddie drank too much, worked too little, and had no home of their own. The court ruled that the boy was better off where he was with his grandparents.

It is not rare for parents and grandparents to disagree about the custody of a child. Generally speaking, the law puts the main emphasis on what is best for the child, even at the expense of parental sensibilities.

Nevertheless, in most instances, parents are indeed favored over grandparents because they are the "natural" custodians of their own offspring. As one court put it:

"The law seeks to work in harmony with nature, and to continue those ties which bind man to his own flesh."

Thus, in another case, parents regained custody of their daughter even though they had no savings, no life insurance, and only a modest income. Noting that their income at least was steady and their habits sober, the court said:

"Unless they are to be deprived for all time of the love of their child, and of the opportunity to give her their love, they should be given that chance now."

Are a child's own wishes taken into consideration? Yes, if he is mature enough to be independent. But usually this factor is not decisive by itself.

A 15-year-old boy, transferred to his parents' home after many years with his grandmother, was unhappy about the change. He said in a court hearing that because of the squabbling between his mother and father, he wanted to move back with his grandmother.

But the court held that the boy's discontent was not enough reason to grant his request. The court said he would probably soon get used to the shift from a sheltered existence with his grandmother to the normal abrasions of family life.

WHAT'S IN IT?

By CHARLES DIDWAY

EVANS

The Welsh were much later than other nationalities in acquiring surnames and when they did, most of the names were patronyms — family names derived from the given name of a father, grandfather or other ancestor.

Evans, one of the commonest Welsh surnames, is a patronym meaning "son of Evan." Evan, which meant "young warrior," is one of the Welsh forms of the name John. The "s" was added to Evan to denote "son or descendant of."

Evans was a popular personal name in Wales long before it developed into a surname. In England, however, Evans became a hereditary surname as early as the 14th century, which came about through individuals named Evan migrating from Wales to England where the personal name soon evolved into a surname.

Evans, Bevin and Bevins are other Welsh surnames derived from Evan. In Wales, "ap" meant "son of," and "ap Evan" often became Bevan, Bevin, etc.

Evans is the eighth commonest surname in England and Wales. It ranks 39th among surnames in the United States, where it is estimated that 315,000 persons are named Evans. In the Cardiff, Wales, telephone directory, Evans is the fifth commonest name, topped only by Jones, Davis, Williams and Thomas, in that order.

Christmas Evans, born on Christmas Day, 1755, was an eminent Welsh churchman. The American Oliver Evans, who died in 1819, invented a machine for making the card-teeth used in carding wool and cotton, and also invented a high pressure steam engine. The English novelist Mary Ann Evans wrote under the pen name George Eliot.

One of the first of the name in America was John Evans, an early settler of Roxbury, Mass.

There are towns named Evans in Colorado, Florida and Indiana, as well as a number of places in the U. S. with such names as Evansville and Evanston.

White collar workers tax benefits outlined

(This is the fourth in a series on ways you can save on your Federal income tax returns this year. The articles are written by Henry Block, president of H&R Block, Inc., America's largest tax service.)

White collar workers frequently have felt somewhat neglected in past years when they filled out their Federal tax returns. Many tax saving deductions which were available to other kinds of workers were denied to office employees.

Although provisions granting relief to white collar workers have been in effect for some time, there are many people in this category who are not taking advantage of their rightful tax deductions. While these deductions are available to all qualified taxpayers, they apply primarily to white collar workers.

Deduction for Training

If the goal is right, cost for special educational training can be deductible. If the training is primarily to increase your proficiency in your present job, or if it is required by your employer, your costs will probably be deductible.

For example, an office worker is in charge of programming computers in the accounting department. His employer expects him to keep up with developments in the computer field, so he takes a special course. The cost of the course, to the extent it is not reimbursed by his employer, would be deductible. A man in the sales department in the same company wants to get into computer work, so he takes the same course. The cost of the course would not be deductible for him because it does not apply to his present post.

Maybe Car Expense

An office worker cannot deduct his car expenses for transportation to and from work. But if he is required to run errands for his employer or to drive his car between job locations and he is not fully reimbursed for these expenses by his employer, they would be deductible.

Deduct Subscriptions

Office workers can also deduct subscriptions to professional journals relating to their work, membership fees in professional organizations, and of course, any charitable contributions made at work. Fees paid to employment agencies to find employment are also deductible.

Moonlighters

Many people take second jobs or "moonlight" in order to supplement their income. Such moonlighting can create special tax situations that are often misunderstood. For purposes of withholding, each employer is required to withhold taxes from you as if that were the only job you held during the year. This is true even though you may be making only $20 per week. On a job paying this amount there would be no withholding for Federal income taxes. Your annual wage would be only $1,040 and since a single person pays no tax until his income reaches $1,725 there would be no tax liability.

Of course in your case this money is added to the salary you receive on your regular job and the total amount is taxed. Assuming you claim your normal amount of exemptions on your regular job your withholding there would be sufficient to cover your tax liability if that were the only job you held during the year. Combined with your part time earnings you may discover that you owe a balance of several hundred dollars to Uncle Sam come April when you file your tax return. In order to avoid the possibility of this happening there are several possible courses of action open to you. You could claim zero exemptions on your part-time job. If this is not sufficient then you could ask your employer to withhold a greater amount from your pay each week. Another alternative would be to file a declaration of estimated tax, making quarterly payments to the government in the approximate amount of your additional tax liability.

In any case the best procedure to follow is to sit down, estimate your total income and deductions and calculate roughly what your tax liability will be at the end of the year. Then, after figuring your total withholding from your regular job, it is a fairly simple matter to determine how much additional tax should be paid to the government.

Another point to remember is that if your regular job pays you more than $7,900 you may have a credit for excess F.I.C.A. The maximum amount that can be withheld from your pay for social security is $374.40 (4.5 per cent of $7,900). Again, each employer withholds social security as if that were the only job you had all year. If you have more than one job and the combined total of your social security withholding is more than $374.40 you can claim the difference as a credit against your tax.

People have often been heard to remark "I can't afford to take a second job" or "I can't afford to have my wife work since it will put us in a higher tax bracket." There is a great deal of misunderstanding about tax brackets and this must be clarified. Our system is known as a progressive system of taxation, i. e., the more money you earn, the higher the tax bracket.

It is important to note, however, that the lower tax dollars are always taxed at the lower level, and only the additional tax dollars are in the higher brackets. In other words, if you are single your first $500 of taxable income is taxed at the rate of 14 per cent whether you are a ditch digger or a multimillionaire playboy. Following this line of reasoning, there is no way that taking a second job could cost you money.

Of course there are many other economic factors to be considered in addition to taxes. If your wife decided to take a second job to augment your income at $50 per week and then proceeded to buy a new wardrobe, spend $10 a week on commuting, $10 for lunches and $30 for babysitters, you would indeed be behind the economic eight-ball and would be better off to have her stay home.

BORERS

A garden insect, common sense has it, is a creature what dies in the cold winter. While it's true that very few insects overwinter in the adult stage, they will persist from Autumn to Spring either as an egg or in the pupa stage. As the weather warms up eggs will hatch into larva and the pupating insect will emerge an adult. The larva stage in many species is the most destructive since it is solely a feeding stage whereas the adult insect's primary function is reproduction.

Precautions can be taken in the winter, however, that will stem the activity of some species (notably borers) and curb their destructiveness as warmer weather comes. All perennial plant material is susceptible to borers, but most notable in this climate are the fruit and nut trees. Several ornamental trees, especially ash, mimosa, and cottonwood, are also very susceptible to borers. An annual treatment for fruit trees in this part of the country is not a bad idea. If you have trees that you intend to maintain, you might phone me at 495-3144 for an inexpensive borer treatment and we'll dickeer over any other maintenance that you feel is necessary, such as pruning or fertilizing.

A borer free environment insures increased longevity for the plant as well as better fruit or nut production if it is coupled with proper fertilization. (Both of these reactions of the plant are contingent, of course, upon whether or not it ever rains again).

Big events set for Feb. 20 at Lubbock college

LUBBOCK — Saturday, Feb. 20, will be the big day for Lubbock Christian College students, exes and high school visitors. Many exes will get to see the new Mabee Agriculture-Science Laboratory for the first time. Faculty members in chemistry, biology, physics and agriculture will be on hand to show off their respective labs and equipment to all visitors.

Larry Roberts, who attended LCC in 1953-55 and is presently serving as youth minister at the 6th & Izard congregation, Little Rock, Ark., will be the featured speaker at the Homecoming Chapel. Roberts, originally from Lamesa, was in Koinonia and the Meistersinger Chorus at LCC and finished at Abilene Christian College.

Counseling for high school students will be available throughout the day and they will be encouraged to participate in all the homecoming events.

Saturday evening, at the half-time ceremonies, the new homecoming queen, the Outstanding Alumni of 1970 and the winners of the float competition will be announced. The theme for the 1971 Homecoming is "We've Only Just Begun" as applied to the constant growth LCC has enjoyed since its founding in 1957.

First quarter sales and earnings reported by Burlington Industries

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Burlington Industries today reported consolidated net sales of $424,032,000 for its first 1971 fiscal quarter, a decrease of 5.6 per cent from sales of $449,320,000 for last year's comparable period.

Net earnings for the quarter, which ended Jan. 2, 1971, were $13,215,000, a decrease of 28.8 per cent from earnings of $18,550,000 for the comparable quarter last year. Earnings per share were 90 cents compared to 71 cents for the same period last year.

Charles F. Myers Jr., chairman, commented that the decline in both sales and earnings in the December quarter was more severe than had been anticipated, reflecting the unsettled state of the economy and particularly the lack of confidence which the consumer is showing. "The falloff in volume brought on more severe curtailment of our manufacturing operations and this was costly," he said. "On the other hand, this curtailment has kept Burlington inventories in line with current and expected sales levels. At the same time, inventories in the hands of our customers, both at the retail and manufacturing level, appear to be low by normal standards."

The board of directors of Burlington Industries, meeting here today, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 35 cents per share payable March 1 to shareholders of record as of the close of business Feb. 5, 1971.

ERSATZ!

By Bernard S. Ramsey

During World War II, Americans were introduced to a German word: "ERSATZ". The word means "substitute" and it applied to anything that was not the genuine article. There were, of course, many shortages of just everyday necessities during the war; that was the reason for rationing of the genuine article. People began to use the substitutes that were placed on the market: substitutes for flour, for bread, for sugar, for salt, for clothing and even gasoline. Invariably, however, none of the substitutes were half as good as the real thing.

But the word ersatz seems to still have a great deal of meaning for many people when it comes to religion. For instance, since many of you who read this didn't attend church last Sunday, we offer you this bit of ersatz worship: (Excerpts from Pastoral Prayer, First Christian Church, Sunday, January 31st, 1971)

Father . . . help us to be more patient with one another . . . gentle in our criticism; tender in our rebukes . . . and help us to remember that sometimes you take us into troubled waters . . . not to drown us . . . but to cleanse us. And that's one of the big reasons why we have come here today, Father . . . to admit that we have been somewhat crude in that we've spoken too many unkind words that cut to the quick and fell on ears that really did not deserve them. Help us Father to resolve here and now to patch up any bruised or broken relationship we've created this past week . . . we have been shoddy in that we've let slip so many good, kind, gentle, helpful, positive things because we were so occupied with our own overexaggerated interests and self-centered egos. Help us, Father to try to fix the mistake, never the blame. Remind us that we ought not to be disturbed only at not understanding . . . take from us our fretful hearts—remind us that it takes the whole of life to learn how to live—and that life is always made up of a bunch of little successes and little failures, rather than of one great achievement or one miserable blunder—just keep us sweet, Father—for life is much too bitter for some around us; and keep us mindful of the fact that the highest reward you give us for good work is the ability to do better — We pray in Jesus' Name, Amen.

Now that prayer was said in all sincerity and constituted a part of the genuine worship experience last Sunday—but if you so choose, you may save it . . . and read it over again this coming Sunday morning and let it be your ersatz worship for the Lord's Day . . . or you may take your Bible and read a Psalm or two . . . or turn on the television and watch and listen to other people worship . . . or just bow your head a couple of minutes in silent prayer . . . and call it your weekly worship experience.

But I can promise you that any method or mode of ersatz worship can never equal the genuine article . . . of being part of the Fellowship of Believers in church; of being a participant in the reading, singing and preaching of the word; of feeling and sensing the presence. Nothing . . . no ersatz can equal, can be a satisfying substitute for the genuine article or weekly worship . . . the best and most beautiful things in the world cannot be seen nor touched, but are felt in the heart.

What PHS girls look for in teen-age boys

By Karen Stanley & Vicki Maddox
Last week the boys of Post High School told what they looked for in girls. This week the girls are telling what they look for in boys. Believe it or not, here they are:

Angelique Byrd: I don't expect any more from a guy than he expects from me. There is only one thing I hate in a guy, that is he's so hung up on himself that he does not know I'm even there. I want a guy to like me for what I am, not for what someone else expects me to be. I like a guy who can go out and have fun. I don't like to eat out, I would rather just go to the park and goof off. I want a guy who likes to do this, too. I enjoy being around someone who is kind, gentle and considerate. If there is anything that makes me mad, it is for a guy to cut himself down. I am not the most popular girl in school, in fact I probably do not even rate 100th, but if a guy will be friends with me I will try to make his time with me enjoyable and I will be friends with him. Their background has nothing to do with now. I would just as soon as find out about him during our date than before because if I found out before the date

I might be prejudiced. I would rather let him tell me, then I could be pretty sure that I was hearing the truth.

Rhonda Case: What I look for in a boy is not just good looks. This really doesn't matter because his personality makes him what he is. In a boy, I look for a good sense of humor and one who likes to have a good time. Every girl wants respect and every girl looks up to a guy that gives her respect. If a boy has all these characteristics, he really has it made with all the girls.

Nancy Cook: The perfect boy has perfect manners and consideration for everyone. Looks aren't everything, but they help. I like a witty, kind-hearted boy who keeps you laughing. I like a boy who will always be himself. I hate real long hair on a boy.

Vickie Kruger: When I go out with a guy I want to know a little about him beforehand. What I look for in a guy is his type of personality. It really doesn't matter what type of clothes he wears and his hair can be either short or long but not shoulder length. I would rather go out with someone taller than I am. His age really doesn't matter as long as they are mature enough to accept responsibility of taking out a girl. When I'm on a date, I would rather listen to him talk about himself rather than me or other girls he has been with. I like to enjoy myself while I'm on a date. I like for the boy to name the place where we are going and not leave it up to me to decide. I don't like for a guy to just think of himself all the time instead of others.

I like for the guy to respect me for what I am, not what he wants me to be. The most important thing I look for in a guy is being able to trust him.

Toni Norman: I like a guy with a good personality and a sense of humor. I prefer boys that are at least two inches taller than I am. It doesn't matter what color of eyes or hair they have.

Cara East: The guy I like to date should have good manners and a sparkling personality. I like a guy who enjoys going many places and doing many different things. Looks count, but what he is really like is important. I like hair of a medium length, but I do not care what the hair color or eye color is. A guy that has good taste in clothes is the kind of guy that you don't mind going anywhere with. I prefer guys that are taller than I am and also older, but I feel maturity counts more than age. All in all, I like a guy who is really nice and treats me like a lady on a date.

Sue Strofer and Pot Johnson: the things I look for in a boy are few but important. First of all, he must be well groomed. Boys with long hair are many, but when you find one with his hair cut and in western clothes, you've found something worth investigating. Secondly, I consider his personality. If a boy is thoughtful and considerate of me, he makes an impression that will last longer than those who are self-centered and rude. I, as an individual, have certain things I like in a boy I date. Some things, like being a cowboy, being a good dancer, and even-tempered may not be important to other girls, but but they are to me.

We hope that you have enjoyed reading what these girls have revealed as to what they look for in boys. Also, we would like to express our appreciation to both the boys and girls who have been kind enough to reveal their innermost thoughts.

Debbie Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cooper, was Post's only participant in the 140 piece regional band which presented a concert at Monterrey High School auditorium Saturday night under the direction of Mr. Hemphill, who directs the Greater Southwestern Band of Amarillo.

Debbie, who auditioned on her contra bass two weeks ago, was selected by judges for the regional band which rehearsed last Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the concert.

last game Friday night against Ralls, and came out with a win. Congratulations, girls, y'all played a great game!

The students of PHS would like to welcome Mr. Davis to Post High and we hope he enjoys our school.

Damage was done to several of the windows at the high school last week, and the expense will be costly.

Just think, four more months and school will be out!

HIGHLIGHTS and SIDELIGHTS

from the State Capitol

AUSTIN — Legislators face a week of major decisions.

Before the House are key portions of Gov. Preston Smith's finance plan. House followed the Senate in hurrying to a vote the proposal to lift the $80 million a year welfare spending lid.

An emergency $48.4 million deficit spending bill to avert a welfare crisis is perhaps their biggest problem today.

A four-fifths vote of both houses is required to suspend the Texas constitution's "pay as you go" requirement and permit lawmakers to go into the red for the balance of the fiscal year which ends in August.

If legislators decline to take this route, they must pass a tax bill to raise the money by March 1. To place a revenue-raising measure into immediate effect would require passage by a two-thirds majority.

Alternative is reduction in welfare benefits by early spring.

Another matter being moved to an early showdown is Governor Smith's proposal to float a $450 million state bond issue secured by income from permanent school fund revenue diversion. Both bond issue and tapping of school land lease money would require constitutional amendments.

Regardless of the House vote on the bond issue, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes sizes up Senate sentiment toward it as cold.

Mood of both houses appears to favor early passage of code of ethics legislation.

If Governor Smith's finance program doesn't fare better than he anticipates, Barnes says, he will ask House Speaker Gus Mutscher to join him in urging the Governor to submit some alternatives.

NEW CAR INSURANCE PLAN OFFERED—Auto insurance agents in a hearing before the Insurance Board proposed "a much better insurance package" at reduced cost.

But a spokesman acknowledged no actuarial studies have been made to back up their claim.

While their plan keeps present liability coverage, it also would extend unlimited medical expense benefits to the insured regardless of who is at fault in accidents. It would replace up to 60 per cent of wages lost due to accident injuries provide death and dismemberment to maximum of $250 a week, and coverage.

Although all of the above (proposed as mandatory coverage in each policy) would increase costs, agents claimed the overall premium would be reduced if $150 deductible damage coverage was substituted for $50 and $100 deductible.

FEDERAL HELP LAUDED — Word that the Secretary of Interior has announced the availability of more than $2 million to the State of Texas for fish and wildlife research in 1971 was greeted with enthusiasm by E. A. (Gene) Walker, director of Wildlife Services

We would guess that in their visit here we are going to learn a lot more about their way of life than they do about ours — because we know so little about them and they very probably already know so much about us. Of course they all speak English — or there would be little reason for them to come visit West Texas.

Mrs. C. K. (Pee-wee) Pierce called Friday to report that the women who formed the original Clean Sweep committee are going to have a reorganization meeting soon to discuss attempting to ramrod a "cactus garden" project on Broadway to slow down and interest the tourists as well as the local folks. The idea was broached in this column last week in connection with possibly obtaining Green Thumb help with the work. Pee-wee reported she already had the same thing in mind before reading this paper.

for the State. Texas has participated in the Federal - State wildlife program since 1937 and the Sport Fish restoration project since 1950.

"This is the backbone of the work program in Wildlife and Fisheries," said Walker, "and the results of this basic research has provided tremendous increases in hunting and fishing opportunities for the people of this state."

As an example Walker cited the fact that Texas has more deer than any other state; larger bag limits and longer seasons on quail — just to mention a few of the benefits made possible by Federal financial assistance.

The Lone Star State will receive $1,538,300 in wildlife funds and $853,750 for fish restoration.

Money for wildlife research is derived from the 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition. Funds for fish projects come from a levy of 10 per cent on sport fishing equipment.

Appropriation is made available through the Interior's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. Formula for appropriating hinges on the number of hunting and fishing licenses issued in the State.

Money also can be used for purchase of land and water for wildlife and public use.

TREASURE DISPLAY URGED—An interim committee advised the Legislature in a written report to direct permanent display of treasure recovered from ancient Spanish galleons off Padre Island.

Actual ownership still is the subject of a dispute in court. Platono Inc. of Gary, Ind., which recovered the artifacts, won a decision in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals that it had a valid contract with the state for a 50-50 share of the treasure.

House interim committee on Housing the treasure concluded it should become the property of the permanent school fund, and transferred around the state in a mobile unit occasionally, so school children can see it in their own communities.

VOTE ON REGISTRATION EXTENSION — A bill to extend voter registration through February sailed through the Senate 27-1 but ran into a delay in the house.

Another Senate bill passed to the House would provide for precinct-by-precinct reporting of statewide election returns to the secretary of state.

Still another would change the name of Pan American College, Edinburg, to Pan American University.

City council—

The warehouse Councilman Mike Mitchell offered to sell the city for $15,000 is the former Caprock Grain Co. warehouse. Councilmen agreed that the purchase would be a bargain if the city could make sufficient use of the warehouse and get the schools and county to lease part of it for their use.

Also at Monday night's meeting, Engineer Ralph Douglas volunteered to reduce the $8,333 fee the city paid him some two years ago for engineering the paving project that "fell through."

Douglas told the city he would reduce the fee by approximately $3,000 by not charging the city for three engineering projects he has done since the paving contract fee was paid, and by doing the engineering work on the new paving project at a fee of 5 per cent instead of his customary 7 per cent.

The council expressed its appreciation of his offer, pointing out that he had carried his engineering work on the abortive paving project to completion, and "it was not your fault that the contract was cancelled."

Spotlight on Science

From the American Association for the Advancement of Science

THE NATIONAL REGISTER LOOKS AT MANPOWER

The October issue "Physics Today," a publication of the American Institute of Physics (AIP), in an article written by Sylvia Barisch and Theodora Johnides, reveals the earnings of physicists and astronomers. The data from the 1968 National Register of Scientific and Technical Personnel showed that the physics and astronomy group earned a median salary of $14,000, the highest in the physical sciences and $800 higher than the median for all scientists; had the largest proportion of Ph.D.'s (44 per cent) in the physical sciences and had 33 per cent at a master's-degree level; was chiefly employed by educational institutions (48 per cent) but only 21 per cent were primarily teachers, 50 per cent worked in research and development and had 56 per cent receiving support for federal programs (does not include government employees).

The American Institute of Physics has been operating the physics and astronomy section of the register since 1954, under a National Science Foundation contract. In compiling the 1968 statistics, AIP mailed 53,231 questionnaires to individual scientists. From the 37,797 replies, 32,491 met the qualifications of at least a B. S. in physics or astronomy plus two years of graduate school or work experience. Eligibility requirements differed for each of the 13 major societies participating in the register. Of the 298,000 registered scientists, 111,206 had Ph.D.'s, an estimated 90 per cent of the U. S. doctorates.

Each scientist was asked to supply information on the type and length of employment, educational training, area of greatest competence, principal work specialty and professional identification.

The $14,000 median salary for scientists and astronomers was $1,500 higher than in 1966. The increase was the largest since 1960. The highest median in the physical and mathematical sciences, $14,100, was earned by the computer scientists.

Nuclear physics, including elementary particles, solid-state physics and optics were the most popular specialties, chosen by 41 per cent of the 28,530 full-time employed.

Although the median age, 35, for physicists and astronomers was three years younger than that for all scientists, the median age for computer scientists was the youngest at 33.

CONTINENTAL DRIFT

Scientists from three institutions will join in a search through remote, ice-girdled mountains in Antarctica for fossil evidence that the world's continents once were one.

The 17-man group from the Ohio State University, Columbus; Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas; and The American Museum of Natural History, New York, N. Y., will seek fossils of ancient land vertebrates similar to those found on continents separated from Antarctica by up to 2,000 miles, a salt water. Only one such fossil, a piece of jawbone of a fresh-water amphibian called a labrinthodont, has so far been found in Antarctica. To account for finding similar animal fossils in places now so remote from each other, many scientists support the theory that these places must have been continuous at one time.

The group is part of 200 scientists and technicians from throughout the United States who will fly to the southernmost continent during the next several months to continue their multi-pronged attack on the secrets of the frozen continent.

Approximately $6.9 million in National Science Foundation grants and contracts will support the scientific investigations, to be conducted on the continent, from research vessels at sea, and aircraft.

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri newspaper. One day he got a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his newspaper and asked if this was an omen of good luck or bad luck.

Twain wrote: "Finding a spider in your newspaper is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

You will find no spider webs across the doors of the merchants who advertise in your local newspaper.

Post, country playing 'swap in, swap out'

By MRS. GLENN DAVIS

It seems Post and the country has been playing swap in and swap out. The Mason McClellan family moved to Post recently. The Bob Baker family moved back to the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Delwin Fluitt returned home last week from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gary Parnell in Hawaii. They report having a very enjoyable visit. It seems they were glad to get back to West Texas and the wide open country after their visit was over. We have an idea their three children back home were three reasons they were glad to get back.

Mrs. Ambers Parrish returned home Sunday from West Texas hospital after undergoing major surgery.

G. H. Newberry was a patient in West Texas Hospital in Lubbock a few days.

Mrs. Brenda King is still in the hospital. We wish for all those ill a fast recovery.

Southland cagers will play New Home Friday

By TOMMIE WILKE
Hello to each of you out there in newspaper land. Everything in our little Southland community is about as usual, nothing much going on this time of year. Some of the farmers are beginning to start up their irrigation wells, but it is going to start raining or snowing one of these days, really it is, because hasn't it always? We really had some nice weather last week, but it has turned cold once again.

Southland High School basketball teams played Wilson last Friday night. George Whaley of Southland was high point man with 20 points and Connie Abshire hit 20 for the girls. They played Meadow on Tuesday night and will be playing New Home on Friday night. See you there!

Garza bond sales short of quota

December sales of U. S. Savings Bonds in Garza County was $5,532, according to County Bond Chairman J. B. Potts. Sales during 1970 totaled $86,567.1, which represents 67 per cent of the yearly sales goal of $130,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Becker attended the 95th birthday party for their aunt, Mrs. Hulda Moritz, in Stamford Sunday, Jan. 31. This "young at heart" lady is still very active in her church and community. Isn't this just great? Just think — 95 years young and still in reasonably good health!

585 library books checked for month

A total of 585 books were checked out of the Post Public Library in January. Volunteer Librarian George L. Miller reports in his monthly summary of the library's activities.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Pennell went to Alamogordo over the weekend where they attended the wedding of Cherrie Bryant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bryant, cousins of the Pennells.

UNDERGOES SURGERY

Jim Hundley Sr. underwent surgery in Methodist Hospital at Lubbock last Thursday and was moved out of the intensive care unit on Tuesday.

Joe E. Basinger is going to Texas Tech this semester. He had been going to a college in Fort Worth. "Good nature will always supply the absence of beauty; but beauty cannot supply the absence of good nature." With this, I bid you adieu!

EUROPE FOR SWINGERS - A HOLIDAY HAPPENING

Wellies of London and Parisian pulchritude shape up as attractions of nightlife tour for swingers. Scenes are from London's Strand Corner House, (left), and the Folies Bergeres in Paris (right).

What does a swinger look for in a trip to Europe? The same pleasures he finds back home!
