Last rites for Arvie Raydale Redman, 29-year-old oil field worker of 408 South Ave. H. who was killed late last Friday in an automobile accident east of Brownfield on U. S. Hwy. 380, were held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Fred Thomas Bufkin, 24, also of Post, suffered a broken collarbone and head lacerations in the accident. He was taken to a Brownfield hospital.

Highway patrolmen said the accident occurred less than a mile east of the Terry County line in Lynn County. They said Redman's car was traveling west when he apparently lost control on a curved stretch of the highway. The auto overturned, both men being thrown from the vehicle.

Redman died in the Brownfield hospital about 45 minutes after the accident, which the highway patrolmen said occurred about 10 p. m.

Redman, born in Honey Grove, had lived in Post about 12 years. The Rev. D. W. Copeland and the Rev. Dale Dozier, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, officiated at the funeral services.

Burial was in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Hudson Funeral Home. Pallbearers were Tommy Hill, Jerry Gerner, D. L. Mason, Charles Huffman, Roy Sappington and Larry Johnson.

Redman is survived by his wife, Brenda; a son, Donny Ray; his mother, Mrs. C. A. Redman of Post; three sisters, Margie Ann and Betty Ruth Redman of the home, and Mrs. Sue Foster of Post, and a brother, Charles Wayne Redman of Post.

Funeral held for former resident

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie Maude Hood, 91, former Post resident, who died early last Friday in a convalescent home at Plainview, were held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church here.

A native of Bell County, Mrs. Hood lived in Post from 1949 until moving to Plainview in 1964. She was the widow of A. H. Hood and the mother of M. B. Hood, mayor of Plainview.

Other survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Minnie Fitzgerald of Miami, Tex., Mrs. N. E. Melton of Las Vegas, N. M., and Mrs. Clifford Kelly of Belton, and five grandchildren.

L. F. Welch, retired Baptist minister of Lubbock and the Rev. Joe Vernon officiated at the funeral services. Burial was in Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Lemons Funeral Home of Plainview, with Hudman Funeral Home in charge of local arrangements.

County hires two for sheriff dept

The Garza County Commissioners' Court in a special meeting Tuesday authorized the employment of a full-time secretary and a "sleep-in jailer" for the county sheriff's office here.

Mrs. A. J. Baumann was employed as the sheriff's office secretary at $200 a month and Marvin Farmer was employed at $100 a month to stay each night in the old jailer's quarters in the courthouse to provide a nighttime attendant for any prisoners in the jail.

Mrs. Baumann had been working as secretary drawing only $40 a month as jail matron.

Judge J. E. Parker said a member of the commissioners' court visited with Sheriff Claborn in the Methodist Hospital for his approval of the night jailer's appointment before action was taken. The night jailer could be called should any county prisoner become sick during the night, Parker pointed out.

Giles McCrary, who with his wife, Louise, were two of the few West Texans from this area to attend President Nixon's inaugural activities in the nation's capital over the weekend, told The Dispatch yesterday that "the security was so tight it was almost unbelievable."

Everyone was under constant surveillance from police, soldiers, and plain clothes detectives stationed on rooftops, flying overhead in helicopters, and manning check points all over the principal government areas, McCrary said. "You almost took your life in your hands if you reached into Highway patrolmen Wednesday morning investigated an accident involving two large semi-trucks just outside the southeast city limits on U. S. Hwy. 84.

Highway patrolman Jon Robbins said one of the trucks ran into the rear of the other at about 6 a. m. Neither driver was seriously injured.

The driver of the truck that rammed the one in front was charged with failure to control speed to avoid collision, the officer said.

Hospital comes near paying all operating costs in 1968

Garza Memorial Hospital for the year 1968 came within $70.20 of paying all of its actual operating expenses, Hospital Administrator Kenneth Sledge revealed this week in making public the hospital's annual report.

The hospital collected $113,609.45 and spent $113,679.65, according to the report.

This means that practically none of the $25,000 allocated from county tax funds by the commissioners' court as a hospital subsidy was used by the hospital except for the 3,000 principal and interest payment to retire time warrants issued by the county to remodel the hospital three years ago and purchase some new equipment. The administrator said hospital expenditures included a $4,223 refund to Medicare for overpayment to the hospital in 1966.

The annual report showed a total of 585 patients admitted during the year for a total of 2,570 patient days or a patient day average of seven.

Twenty babies were born in the hospital during the year and 11 deaths were recorded.

Sledge said the hospital had an average payroll throughout the year of 17.9 employees who were paid $70,253.20 in salaries, making the hospital an important "small industry" for this community.

The administrator said the next principal and interest payment on the hospital remodeling time warrants comes due next month and funds are available for its payment. He pointed out that this would leave only one more annual payment on the time warrants in 1970 to completely retire them and free the hospital from any debt.

But he cautioned that the hospital trustees are facing a major hospital expenditure in replacement of the hospital boiler plant.

"It's in very poor condition," Sledge commented, "and the necessity for its replacement could come at any time."

Garza Memorial Hospital's annual report, which showed the hospital came within $70 of paying all of its own operating expenses in 1968, is the best news The Dispatch has printed on its front page in a good many months.

It shows simply that the "hospital situation" has changed a "wonderful lot" in something like the last 14 months.

The fact that the hospital can literally pay its own way with two doctors on the staff certainly brightens the hospital picture here. If either or both local physicians could bring in an additional doctor or doctors, there would be no more angry community arguments about the size of any hospital tax subsidy. No subsidy would be needed.

The 1968 fiscal record at the hospital wasn't established without lots of hard work by hospital administrator Kenneth Sledge and by careful direction of hospital trustee and his trustees, we tip our hat for a job well done.

Over on page 7 of today's Dispatch you'll find an "ad invitation" from the Clearview Company of Post to "get on their TV cable" and enjoy six channels of good TV viewing plus a seventh channel with local weather and stereo music, instead of receiving "one and one-half channels" most receivers pick up via their antennae. The "half" we refer to with disgust is old snowy channel 13.

Tuck Monk, who is hooking local set owners up to the cable, reports that already he has 100 hooked - on customers and that the waiting period for hookup is only two or three days over the western half of Post and in "mill village."

Tuck explains that the Clearview firm has its own poles in some alleys and in others has run its line on Southwestern Public Service Co. poles. He said he plans to get his cable lines up in the eastern part of town as quickly as possible. Right now he can accommodate most all resident living west of

Circulation gains

'68 saw library grow some more

Post Public Library trustees at their January meeting Tuesday night heard Librarian George L. Miller report another year of steady library growth during 1968 and then made plans to convert a portion of an old storeroom in city hall into a library reference room.

Trustee David Newby is to draw up some plans for the conversion of the small storeroom and obtain cost estimates on the work for detailed consideration by the library board next month.

Miller in submitting his annual report to the board before forwarding a copy into state library headquarters in Austin reported a circulation of the Post Library for 1968 of over 6,300 books checked out, as compared to a 1967 circulation of approximately 6,000.

He reported the library added 750 volumes to its shelves during the year and withdrew 50 and now has 6,850 volumes or 6,700 titles in its collection.

The trustees voted their unanimous endorsement of a bill to be introduced at the current state legislative session relating to the establishment, operation and financing of a state library system.

Jim Cornish explained the various provisions of the proposed act to operate such a system of which the Post Public Library would become a part.

Cornish pointed out the proposed state bill would provide state incentive aid to libraries much like the million dollars in federal aid Texas libraries will receive in 1969.

The chairman of the trustees said the Post library could not qualify for incentive federal aid for its library program until it receives a minimum of $5,000 annually in local tax funds.

The library is now being operated by volunteers entirely on $1,500 from the city each year and $500 from the county.

Librarian Miller reported the library in 1968 received over $900 in private funds, most through the Friends of a Public Library and profits from last spring's Book Fair.

Also attending the trustees session were Mrs. Patty Kirkpatrick, board secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Young, board treasurer.

CofC president sees cooperation as biggest need

Jim Jackson, president of the Post Chamber of Commerce, told Post Rotarians in a luncheon talk in city hall Tuesday that "we need to work together and understand each other" in this community.

His voice ringing with sincerity, Jackson told Rotarians that "Post, Texas, is one of the finest towns I could ever pick to live in."

He said he had no answer to the various problems of this community other than "to try to establish better relationship among Post citizens" so they can work together for the betterment of the town.

Jackson quoted from the scriptures that we need "to live peaceably with all men."

He said as president of the Chamber in 1969 (he is now serving as president to fill a vacancy) he plans to visit with every Chamber member to find out what every member of the organization thinks about the town and its problems.

He pointed out that the Post Chamber needs "not only money through memberships for its projects" but to involve all local businessmen working together in its projects.

He said he plans to appoint a special Chamber committee to work closely with both the city council and the county commissioners' court in an effort to establish the cooperation of all three organizations.

He also announced in 1969 he wants "to put every Chamber member to work on one or more Chamber committees."

For conservation

Farmer, rancher plaques awarded

The Garza County Soil Conservation District's annual Outstanding Conservation Farmer and Rancher award plaques were presented farmer Gerald Norman and rancher Arnold Sanderson at a meeting of the district board Monday night in the home of board member Ralph Welch.

The plaques were presented by Sam Ellis, chairman of the board.

Norman owns and operates a 269-acre farm eight miles west and two miles south of Post, on which a complete conservation plan has been completed.

Sanderson owns and operates a

2,200-acre ranch in the Verbena community.

In presenting the Outstanding farmer plaque, Mr. Ellis said: "An aerial photograph of this (Mr. Norman's) farm, taken earlier this year, has received widespread publicity. It has been used in numerous conservation articles and publications statewide, and was used on the cover of the national publication, 'Soil Conservation,' printed in Washington, D. C."

The school consolidation issue

Within the last few weeks the Governor's Committee on Public School Education completed years of concentrated work and reported out a number of significant recommendations, probably the most important and controversial of which is its plan for Texas school consolidations.

The committee's consolidation proposal is based upon the plain facts that many Texas school districts are so small that they cost many more tax dollars per student to operate than do larger districts and yet offer far less educational opportunities to that student than do larger educational systems.

Not only are educational costs rising rapidly now but it is obvious they are going much higher in the foreseeable future. The same also can be said for other taxes in general. The federal government is closing in on a $200 billion budget this year. Each biennium the Texas legislature has to "find" $100 million to $150 million in new taxes to meet the mounting costs of state government.

So educational economics are growing more important by the year. The governor's committee says that no one can argue the fact that proper school consolidation will give better educations to thousands of Texas youngsters, nor that such consolidations will not save millions of tax dollars.

This proposed consolidation plan will be presented to the Texas Legislature this session. At the local level this plan calls for the consolidation of this county's present three school systems (Justiceburg, Southland and Post) into a single system.

Actually, the governor's committee recommends that the minimum size system be considerably larger than that the proposed Garza consolidation would offer, but due to mileage considerations for burning of students the committee did not believe it practical to consolidate a larger than county area if it can be avoided.

Some six years work already has gone into these consolidation efforts at the state level and eventually the basics of this plan are going to become law in Texas.

If it fails to gain passage during the present legislative session, it will be back for the next one with added support and less opposition. That is because as the years unfold the financing of Texas public education will move steadily into a crisis period.

Consolidation is simply good economics for the state as a whole and since the state pays a considerable portion now of the cost of all public education through state aid, pressure is building at the state level to force the consolidation issue.

Thousands of Texas schools have consolidated out of pure economic necessity in this decade, but thousands more will not move in this direction voluntarily as smaller communities fight to retain their identities.

The Dispatch offers this explanation of the state school consolidation plan because the recommendations of the governor's committee probably caught the average Texan by complete surprise. He has not been aware how far down the consolidation road the educational forces in Texas have already moved.

Obviously, the Garza consolidation recommendations will not come into being until the legislature writes the state consolidation plan into law.

This is a state problem which eventually will be resolved at the state level. With the recent reapportionment of the legislature, the "say so" at Austin today lies largely with representatives of the state's bigger cities who will view the school consolidation plan largely as an economic "must."

Out here in West Texas where one legislator in the lower house may represent a full dozen counties, there is no need whatsoever for any mis-directed "hard feelings" among ourselves over the consolidation issue.—JC

He made Texas a great governor

One veteran Texas publisher terms Gov. John Connally who moved out of the governor's mansion at Austin the first of this week as "the finest governor of my lifetime."

This newspaperman's knowledge of state administrations dates back to the regime of James E. (Farmer Jim) Ferguson who was impeached in August of 1917.

Over the weekend we have read a number of illustrious tributes to the departing Connally for the good he did for Texas in his six years in office.

They reviewed his major accomplishments of vastly improving public education in Texas, of throwing the weight of his office into the attraction of 1,400 new plants and industries to Texas, and his sponsorship of the state's first major effort to attract tourists which resulted in the tripling of tourist income with an annual yield (1967) of over $36 million in taxes to the state.

To these big pluses can be added many others, such as the efforts he has begun to overhaul and improve Texas' woefully weak library system, which actually wasn't a system at all when he came to office. He has promoted the awareness of Texans to their heritage through the historical programs encouraged by his administration. Only in his last days in office did he establish the Texas Academy, the membership of which he opened only to Texans who had made significant contributions to Texas.

For us, John Connally's outstanding asset was his creativity.

He brought to the governor's office a head full of fresh and dynamic ideas. He worked for them, fought for them, and guided them a long way down the road to total realization despite the fact that all of them were not politically popular because they involved huge new tax expenditures.

His contributions to Texas education alone, especially at the college and university level, have been simply tremendous.

It matters not to us of what Democratic faction John Connally represented himself to be, he has made Texas a great governor and for his contributions he deserves the heartfelt thanks of all Texans.

One Fort Worth man expressed it best in a brief letter to the editor in one of Sunday's papers. He wrote, "Every Texan who has been proud of Gov. John Connally should sit down and write him a post card expressing appreciation. He would treasure this more than anything."

What a tremendous idea that could be if say a million appreciative Texans did just that.—JC

Still leaves a lot to be desired

This is a reminder to all that while poll taxes no longer are required in Texas, every voter must register by Jan. 31 if he wants to cast any election ballots in 1969.

This newspaper for years editorially fought the poll tax, but when the poll tax was finally abandoned in Texas under heavy federal pressure, it was replaced with a rigid annual registration law which is almost as bad, if not so vicious producing.

Why should it be necessary for every voter to visit the courthouse before Jan. 31 of each year to be able to vote for the next 11 months? As long as he votes regularly, why require all the wasted efforts to keep registering him.

We suspect that the annual registration law in Texas was designed to hold down the registration of those who are not property holders and thus property taxpayers. A man or woman with property who goes to the courthouse to pay his taxes is registered to vote in the same office without any special effort on his or her part. In other words for these people, voter registration is quite convenient.

For everybody else, it isn't—and probably intentionally so.

But in many towns and cities, business firms and organizations step forward now each January to help with voter registration. This has enabled thousands and thousands of Texans to register to vote who otherwise would never have made the visit to the courthouse within its business hours (and those people's working hours) to register. In Post, local liquor stores this month are offering this registration service.

During the 1969 session of the legislature bills will be introduced to change some of the Texas election laws and to try to push through a permanent form of voter registration in this state, a system dozens of other states already have.

This newspaper will continue to add its editorial support to such efforts until a permanent registration law finally is won in fairness to ALL Texas voters.

But in the meantime don't forget to register before Jan. 31 so you will be eligible to vote in 1969.—JC

Jaycees' work is for others

"Service to humanity is the best work of life" are the tenets of the Jaycee Creed, and one of the Post Jaycees, who this week are celebrating National Jaycee Week, have done much to contribute to their "service to humanity" goal.

The Jaycees' work in Post has been for others in the community more than for themselves, and with the realization that they also benefit from anything that benefits the community in which they live.

The local Jaycee organization, aptly described as "Our Own Men in Motion," has contributed greatly to the town's progress since its organization here some four years ago and has taken its place as perhaps the community's top ranking organization when it comes to getting things done.

The Dispatch joins the entire community in this week's salute to the Post Jaycees.—CD

What our contemporaries are saying

Do magazines fold up when people quit reading, or do people quit reading when magazines start folding up? Either way, it's sad.—Ruth Coffey in Colorado City Record.

If you're smart you'll learn from experience—other people's.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Why trade at home? I ask you: Can you hurriedly run into a Lubbock department store shouting, "Bring me white gloves and charge 'em," and have a salesperson who is also a friend meet you halfway down the aisle with the right size so you lose only seconds on way wherever? Can you call a Lubbock store and ask 'em to drop off a couple of pair of pajamas for your sick nine-year-old when they go to the post office? Admittedly, this is imposing on the retail merchants here, but bless them, they take pretty doggone care of us, imposing or not.—Billey Stockton in The Crosbyton Review.

MEMBERS OF THE Chamber of Commerce, as well as many non-members who will attend, are eagerly looking forward to the organization's annual membership banquet Feb. 6.

This is the time of year for Chamber of Commerce banquets throughout Texas, and speakers are getting a work-out. There are a dozen or so Chamber speakers in great demand at these annual banquets and Lee D. Herring, Grand Prairie banker, who will speak at the banquet here, is one of them.

MR. HERRING, WHO will also speak at the Memphis, Tex., Chamber banquet Feb. 18, is said to have begun his flourishing career on the knife-and-fork circuit in a Will Rogers manner. Some time back, Herring got up to talk. Everybody laughed. And ever since, audiences all over Texas and the Southwest have been listening and laughing, and quoting Lee Herring jokes and ad-libs.

Another Chamber speaker in great demand is radio executive Clint Formby of Hereford, who used a Dizzy Dean-coined word, "individuality," as the theme of his talk at the Morton Chamber of Commerce banquet held recently.

"IT TAKES ALL kinds of people to make this old world," Formby told his audience, "and we like to think positively. Dizzy Dean called this 'individuality,' or, in other words, the feelings of the individual."

Firmly went on to say that "individuality" is "the idealism we hope still exists in the United States and in small communities such as Morton. It's all in how we look at things."

AT LEVELLAND where Monta Moore, formerly of Post, will be installed as president at that city's Chamber of Commerce banquet on March 5, Bob Murphy, Nacogdoches attorney and humorist, will be the speaker. If Murphy's speech is a long one, the Levellanders are liable to be at the banquet until midnight or after. For, in addition to the installation of officers and the speech, they're going to present awards for "Man of the Year," "Woman of the Year," "Farm Family of the Year," and "Oil Family of the Year."

There isn't much else to do in Levelland, however.

Bleeding: To stop bleeding, pronounce the biblical verse Ezekiel 18:8 silently three times.

General diseases: Lay on the affected part a hair from the head of a man who has never seen his father.

Freckles: Remove them by washing in dew the first of May.

Leg pains: Wear a dime around the ankle on a string.

Corns: Put shaving soap in the shoes.

Chills: Step across a creek backwards.

Toothache: To prevent toothache, trim fingernails only on Fridays.

Warts: Rub the wart with a stolen dishrag and then hide the dishrag in a tree stump.

THE NATIONAL JAYCEE STORY:

The world's young men's civic organization began because young Henry Giessenbier, in St. Louis, Mo., felt that young men should not have to wait until middle age to participate in civic affairs.

Giessenbier was struck by the thought young men should be organized for the purpose of performing civic service and developing leadership in themselves. He called a meeting of interested young men and 32 responded.

By 1916 the work of the new organization had attracted attention of many others. The Jaycees had promoted projects aimed at securing greater participation in government, a better relationship among agriculture, industry, and labor, less juvenile delinquency and a host of other activities.

Word about their activities spread and inquiries began to pour in from all parts of the United States. In 1919 Giessenbier sent a call to all known groups asking them to St. Louis to form a national organization. Twenty-four cities responded and on Jan. 21, 1920, the United States Jaycees came into existence.

The Jaycees have grown until the present membership exceeds 275,000 in 2,500 local clubs.

Needlecraft Club begins new year

The Needlecraft Club met last Friday to begin their new club year in the home of Mrs. W. R. Graeber.

Officers for the new year are Mrs. Tillman Jones, president; Mrs. S. C. Storie Sr., secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Lee Bowen, reporter.

In calling the meeting to order Mrs. Jones gave a brief history of the organization of the Needlecraft Club in 1913 by the late Meses, J. B. Slaughter and W. O. Stevens. Mrs. Graeber reviewed the book, "Still Meadow," written by Gladys Taber, before she served refreshments of ham - filled sandwiches, potato salad, cranberry salad, meringue shells filled with strawberry cream filling, olives, candy and coffee.

Plate favors were prayer cards and each lady read her prayer aloud. To conclude the meeting the ladies joined hands and repeated the Lord's Prayer.

It's My Turn

By MRS. C.

"Hey, Mr. C, why didn't we think of this a long time ago?" said Mrs. C as she stretched out lazily about 8 a. m. Saturday morning. "This is really the life," she continued as she yawned.

"What time do you want to get up?" asked Mr. C as he hopped out of bed. "Right now," said Mrs. C. "I have all sorts of things planned." "Oh, lay there awhile while I go get the morning papers," commented Mr. C. "then we'll have breakfast."

Mrs. C gave another big yawn and immediately fell back to sleep. However her subconscious was at work and the sleep lasted only as long as it took Mr. C to take a quick run to the post office and the Post Dispatch office. Upon hearing the car turn in the driveway, she jumped out of bed and ran to the kitchen trying to act like she had been up ever since HE had left.

Not being a bit fooled Mr. C put on the coffee and commenced to get breakfast. Mrs. C had been a bit worried that maybe this was a day off might mean that Mrs. C expected her to fix breakfast. A faithful reader of this column will be aware that Mr. C has been fast every morning as if he were working for him.

Skipping gaily (if a woman is gaily) Mrs. C returned to the room to prepare herself for a surely breakfast with Mrs. C. The morning papers yet!

An hour later Mr. C asked Mrs. C, "Well, what are you going to do with this glorious morning?" Not having "really" touched the house since Christmas other than underdecorating it Mrs. C replied: "I am going into our closet and clean, clean, clean I haven't even put up my summer clothes and here

NITRATE NITROGEN TEST AT EXTENSION LAB

Something new has been put into use at the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory, a part of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Center north of Lubbock.

A specific ion meter is now being used to determine the amount of nitrate nitrogen in West Texas soils, reports Jim Valentine, area soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This promises to be of real value to West Texas farmers since the new test will lead to increased accuracy in predicting the amount of nitrogen fertilizer needed for the next crop," says the chemist.

Research shows that heavy clay loam soils are capable of accumulating nitrogen when fertilizer rates exceed crop removal, points out Valentine. Recent soil testing work done on these heavy soils shows many instances where relatively high rates of readily available nitrate nitrogen are present. Most often higher concentrations of nitrate nitrogen are found where heavy rates of nitrogen were applied last year to crops having a low nitrogen requirement or where heavy rates were applied to high nitrogen requiring crops and, for some reason, the yield was low.

"The new test will be especially valuable in evaluating the amount of nitrogen needed for cotton and other crops where excessive nitrogen may be undesirable from the standpoint of lowering quality," adds Valentine.

In order for this new test as well as the basic soil test to be of most value, Valentine stresses the importance of collecting a representative sample for analysis. Inadequate or careless sample collection can bring misleading results.

PRODUCING LONGER STAPLE COTTON STILL BEST BET

A kind of dilemma is facing many cotton farmers on the Texas Plains concerning the growing of longer staple varieties. There has been a rapid movement to the production of longer fibered cottons over the last two years, but prices during the past season have been disappointing to growers. At present, textile mills are more interested in shorter staple cottons because they are cheaper.

A partial answer goes back to last year's market activity. Stocks of longer staple cottons have increased rapidly relative to short staple cottons. As a result, mills have a good supply of long staple cotton on hand. Furthermore, last year's wide edwep s eariptceni year's wide price spread between short and long staple cotton was an abnormal situation and could not be expected to remain.

In most cases, however, longer staple cotton is still bringing $15 to $25 more per bale than short staple cotton. Another encouraging aspect is that cotton breeders are developing longer staple, storm-proof varieties which have the yield ability of popular 15 to 16-inch cottons.

In yield trials in Dawson County the past season, researchers from the Texas A&M University Agricultural Center at Lubbock found that new stormproof cottons with an inch plus staple averaged slightly more in yield than old 15 to 16-inch staple varieties.

Farm electrification short course scheduled in Post for Feb. 10-13

A farm electrification short course on electric motors for adult farmers will be held Feb. 10-13 under the sponsorship of the Post High School vocational agriculture department, according to Bill Shiver, superintendent, and E. A. Howard, teacher of vocational agriculture.

Bob Jaska, farm electrification specialist with the Vocational Agriculture Division of the Texas Education Agency and the Department of Agricultural Engineering at Texas A&M University, will do the instructing in the course.

Jaska holds a master's degree in agricultural engineering. Since 1947 he has been prominent in research work in farm electrification at A&M University, in addition to teaching farm electrification in the Agricultural Engineering Department. His research and field work has carried him over the entire state so that he is very familiar with all types of electrical problems on the farm.

The short course at Post High School is scheduled to begin Monday, Feb. 10, at 7:30 p. m. in the vocational agriculture building. Other meetings in the series of four will be held Feb. 11, 12 and 13. During the dates the short course is in progress, Jaska will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Mr. Howard.

Farmers interested in attending the short course should write or call Mr. Shiver, the superintendent, or Mr. Howard, the vocational agriculture teacher. An entry fee of $3 will be charged. Farm Electrification Short Course certificates are to be presented to each farmer who attends all the training sessions.

American Indian Day is observed on the fourth Friday in September.

A Prayer for Our National Leader

By Charles E. Peters

God, bless the leader of our nation today.

Bless him with courage to face the gigantic problems of government. May he have rock-ribbed convictions of integrity, honesty and responsibility. Help him, O Lord, not to be swayed by expediency. Even when his choicest advisers fail, may he find in Thee an unfailing Guide.

Bless him daily with fresh wisdom from Thy Word. May he see the folly of trusting his own wisdom and understanding. Reveal to him, O Lord, Thy will in matters great and small. Give him a clear view of duty—and a delight in performing it.

Bless him with renewed strength for recurring responsibilities. When the ship of state passes through tempestuous seas—steady his hand on the pilot wheel, O Lord! Guide him that our ship may miss the the hidden rocks of economic ruin, the threatening storm of total annihilation, the hurricane of godless revolution.

Most of all, O Lord, bless him with a calm sense of personal trust in thee. Make him Thy servant as well as servant of the people! Make him a channel of Thy blessings to all nations.

In the worthy name of Christ we pray.
Amen

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

NEW GRASS VARIETY APPROVED FOR USE

A new high yielding grass variety has been approved for certification by the State Seed and Plant Board and released for public use. Bailey Mayo of the local Soil Conservation Service reported this week.

Called Selection 75 Kleingrass, it is a palatable, drought resistant tame pasture grass which is being released for certified seed production, Mayo said. SCS and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations joined in the release after both agencies cooperated in making evaluation plantings across the state.

Mayo said the newly certified grass is one of the most promising ones developed in Texas in recent years. He pointed out, however, that it will never replace top grasses already in use — it just gives livestock men another good grass to choose from when planting improved pastures.

SELECTIONS of kleingrass were introduced in 1951 from a 15 to 18-inch rainfall belt in South Africa for planting at the SCS nursery in San Antonio. After extensive evaluation at the James E. "Bud" Smith Plant Materials Center at Knox City and in soil and water conservation districts across the state, Selection 75 was picked as the one strain best adapted to Texas conditions.

The grass is adapted to a wide range of soils, but on dryland it does best on sandy loam to clay. Kleingrass 75 recovers quickly from drought after a rain. Established plants are hardy almost anywhere in the state, although first-year plants have winter-killed in the Panhandle. Second-year plants have withstood a hard freeze — 18 degrees below zero — at Tahoka. The plants green-up early in the spring and stay green late in the fall.

Kleingrass 75 produces high yields of top quality forage. Hay yields have exceeded three tons on dryland at Tahoka and more than eight tons under irrigation at San Benito and the Knox City plant center. It apparently will not produce as much forage as Coastal bermudagrass and other high yielding grasses, yet grazing studies made by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Beeville showed livestock making better daily gains on Kleingrass 75 than on Coastal. At the McGregor Station, average daily gains were better on johnsongrass than Kleingrass 75, but neither Coastal bermudagrass nor johnsongrass produced as much total gain per acre under low to medium fertilizer applications.

THE GRASS has also done well at such widely scattered points as Spur, Knox City, Fort Worth, Bal-linger, Mineola, Rusk, Temple, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Victoria, San Benito and Angleton.

The plant has fine stems and green to bluish green leaves and it grows about four feet high. It is related to blue panic and switchgrass. The seeds are small and shatter early, which restricts seed yields.

Quality deer and other wildlife also find kleingrass attractive. Quail eat the seeds, and deer relish the forage, especially in the early spring when few other plants are green.

Breeder's seed are produced at the SCS plant center at Knox City. Foundation seeds were grown in 1968 and will be available in 1969 through the Foundation Seed Section, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station. Limited amounts of certified Selection 75 seed will be available in early 1969 for spring plantings.

About 1½ to 2 pounds of pure live seed per acre are needed for drilled or broadcast plantings, Mayo said. For row plantings about one pound is used. For further information, contact technicians of the local SCS office assisting the Garza Soil and Water Conservation District.

Vietnam View

as reported by Marine Corps Combat Correspondents and edited by GySgt. Bob Montgomery

Striving toward a common goal, education for the youth of Vietnam, Da Nang religious leaders have pooled their resources to develop the Association for the Encouragement of Learning (AFEL).

Sponsored by the III Marine Amphibious Force chaplain, the AFEL's membership includes representatives from the Catholic, Protestant, Cao Dai Buddhist faiths. The organization was formed to provide high school scholarships for deserving Vietnamese youths who otherwise would be unable to continue their education.

ON DEC. 22 the organization's three years of efforts were highlighted during a ceremony at the American Cultural Center in Da Nang. One hundred Vietnamese youngsters from Vietnam's five northernmost provinces (comprising the I Corps Tactical Zone) were awarded scholarships and five youths were presented awards for a short-story contest sponsored by the AFEL.

Marine Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, commanding general of the III Marine Amphibious Force (III MAF) and Vietnamese Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, I Corps commanding general, made the presentations to the contest winners.

In addition to awards, the ceremony featured an international concert performed by segments of the Da Nang educational system. The concert included Christmas carol performances in Vietnamese, English, Chinese, French, German and Korean.

The III MAF chapel choir presented selections representative of American Christmas music. In addition to the choir, the III MAF Drum and Bugle Corps supplemented the Vietnamese I Corps military band providing instrumental background for the various performances.

SPEAKING BEFORE the forum of Da Nang's educational and religious leaders, General Cushman said, "The wealth of South Vietnam lies in its children." The commander of Marine forces in Vietnam continued, "It encourages me to see members of the various faiths pool their efforts and work together so that children who otherwise might not have the opportunity, can attend school."

The AFEL was developed as an American effort to provide a vital assistance to the present and future Vietnam. Navy Capt. F. L. Garrett, the first III MAF chaplain, organized the group in July 1966 with the aid of Father Bernard Huang, a Vietnamese Catholic priest. Representatives from the four religious groups were contacted and, although there was then some religious strife in the Da Nang area, all agreed to discuss the formation of the AFEL.

To get the program off the ground financially, $3,000 was donated from the III MAF Chaplain's Civic Action Fund. Additional funds have since been received from unit chapel funds, the Captain Beach Memorial Fund, and various organizations in the United States.

In October 1966 the first 23 scholarships were presented during a ceremony at the Cao Dai temple. Since the first presentations, the organization has expanded throughout I Corps with branches now functioning in all five provinces.

Marines at Vandegrift Combat Base have experienced another hazard in the Vietnam war during the past few weeks.

Several incidents have been reported involving animals which are invading the combat base, a vital staging and supply point in Vietnam's northernmost tactical zone.

ON ONE occasion a Marine was walking toward his bunker late in the evening. He was startled by someone - or something - throwing rocks at him. When the Marine turned in the direction the rocks were coming from, he saw a Rock Ape staring at him.

Hoping to scare the four-foot tall ape away, he picked up several rocks and returned fire. Much to his surprise, the ape ducked the barrage, picked up several more rocks and the battle was on.

Several minutes later the ape either became frightened or realized he was losing the battle and headed for the hills by clearing the perimeter's concertina wire in a single bound.

Liquor by drink legislation may be tried again

AUSTIN — Sponsors of unsuccessful 1968 efforts to legalize liquor by the drink in Texas will take another tack this session. Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso and Rep. Cletus Davis of Houston will propose that a constitutional amendment on the question of open bars be submitted to Texas voters.

And since Gov. Preston Smith endorsed the constitutional-amendment approach in his campaign platform and the State Democratic Party platform, he is expected to support the Christie-Davis plan.

Senator Christie feels that a "sure enough" mixed-drink bill would have a better chance of passage by the Legislature than Gov. John Connally's "mini-bottle" bill had last summer. If it would take effect only on statewide voter approval.

But he and Representative Davis are bound to hear arguments that while a referendum on the subject won over a majority of voters in the 1968 primary election, the majority came from big-city residents, and less counties went for the proposition than against.

Weevil control program cost is near $800,000

LUBBOCK—Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have just released a summary of the 1968 High Plains Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program showing a base control zone of 168,000 acres sprayed from one to six times for an aggregate total of 616,629 acres.

All cost figures have not yet been finalized, but the approximate total will come to about $800,000, according to Ed Dean, PCG field service director. The program is jointly financed by cotton producers on the Plains, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas Department of Agriculture. Federal funds match, dollar for dollar, those supplied by producers and the Texas Department.

Primary objective of the program is to prevent the westward spread of boll weevils across the High Plains, New Mexico and on into California. And from this standpoint Dean states that the program can again be termed successful, as it has been since 1964.

However Dean pointed out that in terms of weevils remaining in control zone cotton when 1968 sprayings were terminated the "degree of effectiveness" fell short of the high standard set in previous years.

'International Day' is scheduled by students

By MRS. EDMUND WILKE
Hello out there in newspaper land. Here it is Monday again, and guess what? The sand is blowing! Hope it isn't, wherever you are. It isn't bad, but it could get worse because the wind is blowing quite strong.

One day this week the high school students will have an "International Day." All the students will come dressed in costumes depicting different countries. It will be interesting to see what countries they will be represented.

Well, the Winston Lesters, moved in yesterday. Or, as Winston said, they got things piled in the house. The moving van was hours late getting here so it took them into the night to get things moved in. Once again, welcome back to our community.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Max Arguello on the birth of a son born Jan. 20 at 12:43 p. m. This young man came into the world weighing eight pounds and was born at Mercy Hospital. Mrs. Arguello is the former Julia Cisneros. May God bless this young family.

Until week after next, so long.

'Barbarella' is Tower attraction starting Friday

Paramount Pictures "Barbarella," showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Tower Theatre, recaptures the spirit of the early days, a time when even the impossible was possible.

The film is marked by the same audacity and originality, the same mixture of fantasy, humor, beauty (and) horror, cruelty and a cynicism which made the comic book a wide reading favorite.

"Barbarella," played by star Jane Fonda, is a beautiful girl with long hair, golden skin and a strange sweet name.

The setting for the film is the year 40,000 on planet Lythos, where Barbarella has made a forced landing while traveling through outer space alone in her rocket. She handles herself like a female James Bond, vanquishing evil in the forms of robots and monsters.

A futuristic romp, "Barbarella" stars Miss Fonda and co-stars John Phillip Law, Anita Pallares, Milo O'Shea, Ugo Tognazzi, Marcel Marceau and David Hedinger.

The film is in color and Paramount.

College?

Make sure when he's ready for it you'll be ready, too.

College costs are high. They'll be higher by the time this young man gets there. But you can be ready for them if you start your savings fund now and stick with it.

U.S. Savings Bonds are ideal for the purpose—safe, guaranteed, with an assured rate of 4.25% when held to maturity and an automatic extension privilege after maturity. But perhaps even more important, they offer tax savings that can substantially increase the value of your education fund.

If you pay state or local income taxes where you live, there's an automatic saving, because Savings Bonds interest is exempt. And even Federal tax can be saved if the Bonds are bought in your child's name and a tax return filed for him to declare interest on an annual basis.

The details of this plan are important—consult the special folder, "Savings Bonds for Education" for particulars. Request a free copy from: U.S. Savings Bonds Division, The Department of the Treasury, Washington, D.C. 20226.

Do it today. And while you're in the writing mood, sign an application for automatic Bond purchases through Payroll Savings where you work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. Make sure when Junior's ready for college you'll be ready, too.
