Loss heavy in Medical Center fire last night

Mostly from heat, smoke and water

The Medical Center and Laboratory at 111 North Ave. I suffered heavy smoke, heat, water and fire damage from a fire which broke through the roof of the building about 8 o'clock last night. No damage estimate is yet available.

It was the third major fire here in Post in the last seven months. The 50-foot-high Caprock Grain elevator was destroyed by fire last July 12 with damage estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000. The Wacker's store burned late in the afternoon of Sept. 27 for a loss originally estimated at $200,000 in buildings and stock.

The alarm was turned in by a clerk at United Super Market, a half block to the west, at 8:02 p. m.

Firemen got two hoses on the roof of the medical center, chopped two holes through the roof, and knocked the tops off ventilators to get to the flames.

As little water as necessary was used on the ground floor level, but the building was filled with smoke and heat, and water poured down through the false ceiling.

Shortly after the alarm was turned in, smoke was drifting heavily over a three-block area directly west of the Medical Center.

Volunteers helped remove records and equipment from the center and carried them to the former post office building directly north of the center, for storage. This building is owned by the Tubbess.

31 PROPERTIES OFFERED

Second big sheriff's sale to be Tuesday

The second major sheriff's sale of the current delinquent tax collection drive comes up here Tuesday afternoon with 31 properties offered — most of them vacant lots of unlocated owners who have not paid taxes on them for the last 30 or 40 years.

The sale is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 1 on the east courthouse steps.

Attorney Pat N. Walker, now in the wrap-up stages of a delinquent tax collection campaign which started June 1, 1969, said many of the vacant lots which will go under the hammer Tuesday have not had any taxes paid on them since back in the 1930s and 1940s.

The oldest property, as far as its unpaid taxes are concerned, dates back to 1929 — some 43 years ago. By auctioning off these old properties, which have created only weed and health problems over the years and left the town unsightly, local taxing units hope to return the properties to the tax-paying rolls.

No one expects the sale bids to be high enough to pay all the back taxes on them, but local officials hope that the sales will at least pay court costs and legal publication fees.

The Dispatch on page 11 in today's edition publishes a half page advertisement giving not only the legal descriptions of the 31 properties, but as nearly as possible the street addresses of them for those interested enough to check locations.

Only a few of the owners of the properties have been found though every legal means was employed to reach them.

The first 29 such properties being sold for taxes were offered on Nov. 2. In December, two or three other properties were put up for Walker estimates there are still some 50 to 75 tax suits now on file in district court which may eventually reach the sheriff's sale stage.

He said he hopes to wind up the tax delinquency drive by June of this year, which would be exactly three years after it got under way. Since the campaign was launched (See Sheriff's Sale, page 8)

'Scout of Year' award presented

David McBride, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Theibert McBride, has been awarded the "Scout of the Year" trophy for 1971, presented annually to the boy who has shown the greatest progress during the year in the Scouting program.

David is a first class Boy Scout in Troop 316, where he serves as a senior patrol leader. He established himself throughout the year as the best Scout of his troop, according to Scoutmaster Silas Short and Assistant Scoutmaster Jimmy Mitchell. "David has shown his leaders and fellow Scouts that he is very capable of living up to the Scout Oath, the Scout Laws and the Scout Motto," they said.

David is off to a good start toward becoming Post's next Eagle Scout, his leaders said.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON

6 from Burlington to visit at plant

Charles F. Myers, chairman of the board of Burlington Industries, Inc., will head a group of Burlington officials who are scheduled to visit the Postex Plant here this afternoon.

John R. Williams, division manager of Burlington Domestic Division, and Kohn Sherril, products development manager for Burlington's Domestic Division. The officials are on tour of the domestic division plants.

The group was scheduled to arrive here about 2:30 p.m., visit the various departments of the plant, and then meet with the plant's supervisory personnel.

POSTEX EMPLOYEES NIGHT IS FRIDAY

A number of Post stores will be open from 7 to 8:30 p. m. here Friday night for the first Postex Plant Employees Night of 1972.

The event was moved from Thursday night to Friday night as an experiment.

Among those advertising in today's Dispatch that they will be open Friday night for night-time shopping are Maxine's, Wackers, White Auto, Hundley's and Harold Lucas Chevrolet-Olds.

Two other store owners were out of town at Dallas market and may join the group for their stores when they return.

The stores are attempting to hold such Postex employees nights every two weeks to give persons who can't shop in the daytime an opportunity to do so at night.

BRIGHTENING UP MAIN STREET

Plants placed in downtown section

While we were battling with the annual "lousy flu feeling" Monday afternoon in came a pot of pretty tulips from Maurine's.

They're for you, the delivery gal declared.

Well, we responded, somewhat at a loss, we didn't know we needed that.

But the flu had nothing to do with those tulips. They were from Maurine and Margie Wilson congratulating us on "really sprucing up" Main street with The Dispatch's new red cedar front. (We're not sure if a sort of woody pun was intended or not.)

Anyway, the tulips reminded us of a goofed in not installing a flower box right on the front itself.

Everybody who bothered to vote said yes to our "new orange" for so when the sign goes on tomorrow to complete the project it will be "new orange" too.

It's not wrought iron either, but best steel.

Some folks call our new front end, but we already have nicknamed it after gathering up all the bills this week and paying them after a visit to the bank.

We call it "The First National Bank front on The Post Dispatch."

No wonder politicians get the jitters in election year. We heard somebody the other day saying he wasn't going to vote for Jimmy Coleman for sheriff because "he's holding all those sheriff's sales."

Truth of the matter is that Sheriff Jones is a good sheriff. (See Postings, page 8)

Rites conducted for Walter Jones

Funeral services for Walter James Jones, 60, of 705 West 13th St., who died suddenly about 10 p. m. Saturday at Garza Memorial Hospital following a heart attack, were held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Church of the Nazarene.

Jones was an oil field worker and an oil company employe until his retirement last October. Born Jan. 7, 1911, at Gonzales, Tex., he moved to Post in 1932, and was married to Reba Doggett at Snyder on Dec. 9, 1938. He was a member of the Graham Chapel Methodist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Reba; three sons, Billy and Danny, both of Waco, and Jimmy Jones of Graham; three daughters, Mrs. Junior Gray of Graham, Mrs. Donnie Johnston of Lubbock and Mrs. Joyce Lee of Abilene.

Also four brothers, Bernice of Post, Norman and Hal, both of Jal. N.M., and Elmer Dee Jones of Brownfield; three sisters, Mrs. E. E. Peel and Mrs. Chester Morris, both of Post, and Mrs. Paul Hedrick of Lubbock, and seven grand-children. (See Jones Rites, page 8)

W. S. (Bill) HEATLY

Heatly candidate for House seat

The Post Dispatch has been authorized to announce that W. S. (Bill) Heatly of Paducah will be a candidate for the office of State Representative from what is now designated as the 101st Legislative District.

Formal announcement, which will include information concerning Heatly's qualifications and his views on matters of state business will be made at a later date.

Heatly has been a member of the Legislature since 1954. He was first elected from a district composed of Cottle, Foard, Hardeman and Wilbarger counties. It has been enlarged twice and is now made up of 15 counties including Garza.

His candidacy will be subject to action of the Democratic primaries.

CIVIL AIR PATROL

'Lost hunters' will be object of air search

Members of the C. W. Post Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, met Tuesday night to complete plans for hosting a simulated search and rescue mission to be staged here Sunday afternoon, Jan. 30, by the Wolf Pack Squadron, CAP, of Wolforth.

The patrol from Wolforth will use at least six airplanes in searching for two "lost" hunters in the area, with the City-County Airport here as the home base.

One of the two lost hunters being searched for will have been killed in a fall from a cliff and the other seriously injured — all simulated, of course.

In addition to the planes flown in from Wolforth, the newly-organized Post unit of the CAP will

More than one penalty involved

Like all cities and most smaller towns, Post has developed a marijuana drug problem at youth level.

This is not to say that all the kids, even half the kids or a significant percentage, are smoking marijuana. But it is here and is becoming more of a problem now than ever before.

The arrest of four youths, three of them under 16, at 2 a. m. on downtown Main Street with a package of marijuana in their possession should raise parental eyebrows.

This followed by only a week or so with the arrest of two other local youths on similar possession charges.

Such arrests, of course, lead into our courts where of course an initial effort is made to straighten out young people in trouble, not penalize them severely for their first mistakes. Kids and their parents can hope for suspended sentences and probation procedures.

But it is worth pointing out that this isn't the only penalty involved at the local school-age level.

Post school trustees back in 1969 adopted a school trustee policy that any students convicted of possession, sale or use of any dangerous drug or narcotic drug "will be expelled by the trustees for the semester and no credit will be given for that semester."

This is not an administrative choice, it's a trustee policy adopted three years ago after the Texas Educational Agency ruled that students could not be expelled for drug convictions occurring off school premises unless trustees had a prior board policy so stating that students would be expelled upon drug convictions.

So here we have a more significant drug deterrent even than the penalties of state law itself for those of school age.

The Dispatch wants to point out the school policy so there will be no misunderstanding among parents or students when convictions do bring the expelling of students involved.

And it well may be that the policy will serve to some extent as a preventative too. At least we hope it will.—JC

IT'S A LITTLE too early yet in this presidential election year for political slogans to start coming out, but when they do they're bound to be interesting—since the presidential campaigns themselves are shaping up that way.

I've already heard one fellow mumbler to himself, "Nixon's Through in '72," but I heard another whisper, "Nixon Sticks Till '76." Either one or both would make catchy bumper stickers.

AND HOW ABOUT this woman Shirley Chisholm who's going to try for the nomination. "Chisholm Trails" would be too negative, and "Welcome Abroad" might not be in the best of taste. How about "Early for Shirley?"

I try to make no secret of the fact that I'm a Kennedy man—regardless of which Kennedy it is you're talking about. So, perhaps, you'll forgive me for suggesting, "Ready for Teddy," and then, after the convention, "He Can Do More for America."

AND, SINCE Wilbur Mills has a kind of our image, why not give him a little excitement with "Mills Thrills."

Getting back to Kennedy, how about "All the Way With EMK," or did we wear that one out with LBJ?

AND, SINCE John V. Lindsay has to first get rid of his Republican identification and associate it himself with a Democrat, and then has to show he's a fighter, don't you agree that "Give 'em Hell with JVL" might fit the New Yorker?

You'll have to agree that figuring out a slogan for Sen. Edmund Muskie isn't the easiest thing in the world. "Trust Muskie" sounds pretty good, but then the possibility of human error being what it is, it might come out "Trusk Muskie." With the element of "LOUD cheering" mixed in, one could settle for "Husky for Muskie," along with a bonus "Hoarse for Morse," which would take care of the Oregon campaigner.

FOR CANDIDATE George McGovern, "Let George D It" is too much of a cliché, so how about "George Is on My Mind," or "Clean McGovernment"?

We could take care of Humphrey with "I'm Not Over the Hump," and "Prosperity Pete" might do thought of another one for Mills—"Win With Wilbur."

THERE'S NO getting around it, though. Political slogans just aren't as easy to come by as they used to be. Way back there in the 1840's, such a slogan as "Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too" probably just came naturally.

And not many years after Tippecanoe (William Henry Harrison) and Tyler were elected, someone came up with a real classic, "We Polk'd You in 1844, We Shall Pierce You in 1852."

MORE RECENTLY, there have been such slogans as, "I Like Ike"; "Madly for Adlai"; "In Hoover We Trusted, Now We Are Busted"; "Keep Cool With Coolidge"; and "Land a Job With Landon."

So, it will be interesting to see what this campaign year actually gives birth to in the way of slogans.

At the Post Public Library, Librarian Pee Wee Pierce has something that might be considered a slogan, although not a political one, attached to a goldfish bowl which last Thursday had money, marbles and chalk.

The sign attached to the goldfish bowl reads something like, "We've Got Marbles and Chalk. What We Need is Money — for Our Building Fund." I don't think it was meant that way, but the money, marbles and chalk expression is a take-off on Jimmy Banks' new book by the same name.

While I was looking at the goldfish bowl and its contents, the librarian showed me an advertising folder on Banks' book, "Money, Marbles and Chalk," which is all about Texas politics and politicians. Pee Wee suggested someone might like to purchase the book, which costs a little over $6, and donate it to the library. She said she would see to it that the donor's name was placed inside the book before it went on the shelves.

I WOULD HAVE had Pee Wee order the book then and there if it hadn't been for the fact that, like the goldfish bowl, I have more marbles and chalk than I have money.

The Abundant Life... BLESSED ARE THE BROKEN-HEARTED

"Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted." Matthew 5:4

This is the second of the nine beatitudes Jesus gave in the sermon on the mount. The Greek word for "mourn" Jesus uses here is the strongest word for mourning in the Greek language. It is the word which describes the grief one shows in lamenting for the dead. It is a sorrow which cannot be hidden.

There are two ways this beatitude can be taken.

- (1) It can be taken quite literally. Happiness can come to the man who endures the bitterest of sorrows. The Arabs have a proverb: "All sunshine makes a desert." In deep sorrow we can discover the basic kindness of our fellow-man and also the comfort and compassion of God. Most of us never understand the wonders of God's love and the willingness of our friends to help until tragedy strikes.
- (2) The main thought here goes deeper than man's sorrow which results from tragedy and misfortune. The mourning Jesus speaks of is the sorry of the Godly for their sins and own unworthiness. Christianity begins with a sense of sin. Only when we understand how terrible sin is can we repent and turn to Christ. A boy or girl may go their own way breaking laws of God and not think of effects and consequences of sin. But someday they will be faced with wrecked and wasted lives. When one is confronted with this waste and ruin in his own life and is genuinely stricken with grief, then the door is open to repent and turn to Christ for complete forgiveness which is given to all those who obey Him. (Rom. 6:17-18).

Slow me down Lord

Slow me down, Lord. Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind.
Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time.
Give me, amid the confusion of the day, the calmness of the everlasting hills.
Break the tensions of my nerves and mutes with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in the memory. Help me to know the magical, restoring power of sleep.

Teach me the art of taking minute vacations—of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book.
Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny.—Anon.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

NEWS OF EXPERIMENTS IN SOCIAL ACTION THAT HAVE PROVED HIGHLY PROMISING

STUDENTS TEACH THE TEACHERS

By James D. Farley
Executive Vice President
First National City Bank
New York, N.Y.

When teachers at a New York City high school asked students to evaluate current teaching methods last spring, they got some surprising answers.

In one math class, students demanded that they be given more, not less, homework. They felt they weren't learning fast enough.

Other students wanted to be tested more often so that they could gauge their own progress, but didn't want the tests "held against" them in grading; they thought most tests should be used simply as a tool of learning. Asking students for ideas is part of a new educational concept that regards teachers as managers and students as employees. As managers, teachers are to enlist the active support of their students in producing the product—the students' own education—in the most efficient way.

The teachers, all from the James Monroe School in the Bronx, had just returned from a weekend seminar on Long Island sponsored by our training department.

One of our people, Jim Capobianco, who participated, explained: "Before the conference, the teachers had considered the principal to be the manager, the teacher as an employee and the student as a product. We got into a new concept—the teacher as a manager with 20 or 30 people under him—people he must motivate and for whom he must make the work interesting."

We borrowed the idea of getting the teachers together at a conference for a weekend of professional discussions from the business world. Once there, the teachers immersed themselves in a series of informal lectures on "systems analysis" (systematic methods of attacking problems) and possible ways to apply it in the classroom. The sessions began on Friday night and continued through to noon, on Sunday.

Dr. Norman Willard, who heads up our training facilities, said, "We hoped to teach a new way of thinking. If we can show the teachers other ways of handling things, we can 'blow their minds' a little. The idea is that by giving teachers exposure to these skills for analyzing problems in planning and decision making, we can help bring about change in schools."

Of all the business concepts presented, perhaps the most "revolutionary" was that the function of the test, in business, is to test the teacher, not the pupil.

In business when someone is hired to teach something to employees and the employees fail to learn, it is the teacher who has fallen down, not the employees.

"You must have a clear explanation of the goal—the mission—of an institution before you can determine the job definition and the training requirements of the system," Dr. Willard said in the seminar's opening session. "If you cannot define your objectives, you don't know where you're going and you'll certainly never be able to know when you've gotten there."

Virtually all the teachers who attended decided to revamp their lessons plans and restructure their courses along lines discussed at the seminar. They are also submitting many changes to the principal, Max Ostrover, who is an enthusiastic booster of the seminar.

The big lesson learned from a joint venture like this is the need for cooperation. In a school environment, there are a number of elements—students, teachers, parents, community leaders and business. If there is to be progress, each one of these elements has to be in place, collaborating with the others. When that takes place, the community may anticipate some giant steps forward.

Another round of district competition began Friday night and the basketball players and coaches wish to thank the fans for the wonderful job they are doing in supporting the Antelopes and Does. It means so much to the players to know that parents, friends and relatives are behind them.

The Antelopes will have four more games at home and the Does two more games.

Our basketball squad has really improved this year and we feel the fans had a great deal to do with it. It makes a player feel good and play better to know that he is supported by our town. Once again, we would like to thank you all for your support.

"All tied up" usually suggests that one's movements are restricted.

But to us, "all tied up" means good things. For example, this year we'll complete building a transmission line that will enable us to move electric power to the Public Service Company of Oklahoma... maybe even as far away as the East Coast. Or, to bring electric power into our system from far-away places.

Either way, it's a good deal for you — our customer. It means efficiency in the distribution of electric power and it means firming up dependability.

Yes, "all tied up" means we'll be — so you won't be!

Library volunteer workers are thanked at appreciation event

Post Public Library volunteers and their husbands or wives were entertained with a Library Volunteer Appreciation Supper Monday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Kirkpatrick.

Hosts and hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Earl Chapman, Mrs. B. E. Young, the Rev. George L. Miller and Jim Cornish, the library trustees.

Preceding the serving of a buffet supper, Cornish, chairman of the trustees, thanked the volunteers for their contributions in bringing the library into being.

He said this is not "thanks and goodbye," but urged the volunteers to "stay hitched" for the 1972 drive to boost the library's memorial building fund near or over the $10,000 mark for expansion of the library.

Cornish gave the volunteers a preview of the trustees' plans for library development. He pointed out that the present paid librarian who relieved volunteers from over five years of desk duties was only on a "temporary status" as salary funds come from the federal emergency employment act and will expire Aug. 19.

MY REAL SELF

By BOB FORD

John Killinger, in the devotional book, "Alive Now", writes the following words. I share them with you because I think that they might strike a nerve which needs to be struck.

"I remember now with much pointedness that my own attachment to the church, that has since circumscribed my life, began in those bittersweet hours of late adolescence when I stopped by a gurgling brook or watched the moon in a fishpond or sat on a high hill looking at the world with God and thinking what I must do for him to make it all his again. I didn't live a day then without walking and talking with him (are the hymn lyrics so far-fetched?): without laughing and crying in the wind, without feeling like a young animal caught up in the rhythm of nature."

"That was all very juvenile, of course, and I have since learned to curb the "I." To muffle it and gag it and drug it and deter it and denature it until it is quite unsure of itself, sickened and humiliated and nearly destroyed. But not quite. It survives. And sometimes it revives."

"Sometimes it waxes again, and for a moment I feel something surging back, something like health or strength or power or excitement—something like life; and I wonder if I have not been wrong to hedge it and hurt it, to squelch it and Welch on it, to bang it and bury it—if maybe, it is not the better part of me, the only real part of me, the only real thing I have to give to the world or to God, the single, sole essence of what lives in my house and calls itself by my name. I wonder, in short, if I have not been guilty of murder, if I have not taken by suicide the life that God gave me to live and enjoy the world."

Only burrs lost in fire at gin

Five and one-half hours were required Sunday to extinguish a burr fire on the Pleasant Valley Gin yard, but what looked like a disaster when flames broke out at 10:30 a. m. turned up in the end with loss only of the burrs.

Bill Alexander, ginner, told The Dispatch that the gin was not even in operation when the fire broke out. At the time he was "dragging the yard" with a blade. He said he had no idea how the fire started.

"It looked real bad for a while," Alexander said. The Post Volunteer Fire Department was called and fought the burning burrs well into the afternoon.

County Commissioner Ted Aten provided a maintainer and driver to keep the burning burrs away from trailers and equipment while farmers in the area helped to clear the yard and prevent fire loss to the trailers.

It wasn't until about 4 p.m. that the fire finally was extinguished.

Garza switched back to Mahon

Garza County goes back into George Mahon's 19th Congressional district, according to the realignment established Saturday by a three-judge federal court which declared the redistricting bill adopted by the legislature unconstitutional.

The legislature's line-up had switched Garza County from Mahon's 19th district to Cong. Omar Burleson's 17th district.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has asked the U. S. Supreme Court to block the implementation of the new redistricting plan ordered by the three-judge federal court Saturday.

Gov. Preston Smith told a news conference Monday he definitely will not call a special legislative session to draw a new set of district lines for congressmen.

LISTENING POST

By GEORGE L. MILLER

The word for today is cooperation. Library cooperation.

One of the special features of our library is its relationship to other libraries in our geographic area and to the libraries of the state as a whole. We are linked to all the libraries in Texas through a system which allows us to borrow books from anywhere in the state.

The way this works, if you come into the library looking for a particular book—and can't find it—we can request it for you simply by making a phone call. The library in Lubbock starts the search, and if they have the book, they mail it down to us.

If it's not available in Lubbock, a request is put on a Telex machine referring our request to the State Library in Austin. Most of our Inter-library Loan books come from Austin. But if it's not available there, the request is sent on to the other ten major libraries in the state.

All this search and service is available to us at practically no cost whatsoever. All you pay (and we ask you to pick up the tab) is the price of the postage to return the book. Since library rate is the cheapest rate you can get, it rarely costs as much as a dime.

There are some limits. For one thing, if the books is available in paperback we may not request it through Inter-library loan. We figure it is cheaper for you to buy your own copy. Also, it sometimes happens that the book is just not available. Unfortunately, you may have been anxious to get your book, but the search took several weeks, meaning delay—only to end in disappointment. We can't promise satisfaction with every order, but we can offer you the resources of the whole state—which makes your library as big as any library you ever heard of.

One time a patron requested information for a specific book which he knew was out of print and not likely to be found in our library. A preliminary check of Texas libraries showed it was not available in the state. However, we were lucky—the patron had been told the book was available in the library of the University of Kentucky. The request went out again, this time directed to the Kentucky library.

Sure enough, the book was located—and though we could not borrow the book, it was available on microfilm. Our patron made a quick trip to the Lubbock library where microfilm readers are available, and was able to get the information he was looking for. Here is library cooperation, at work for you.

This past week we had a second example of library cooperation come our way. We received three cartons of books from the Lamesa library. We are particularly pleased with this gift because fully half of them are Science Fiction titles! We now have enough of them to set up a separate collection of Science Fiction titles—just like the Mystery section and the Western section.

But please, give us a little time to get the books ready before you beseege us for them.

And one last item on library cooperation. Last Monday night, the library board hosted a delicious supper for our volunteers who have worked so faithfully to bring the library to what it is today. Here is the most visible form of cooperation we have. It has taken shared effort, and a willingness to sacrifice often at moment's notice—to make our library succeed. We're proud to recognize the accomplishments of the volunteers, and we're not ashamed to say we'd never have made it without them!

Bouchier whacks at U. S. inflation

Tom Bouchier told Post Rotarians at their Tuesday luncheon that "you have to be over 55 years of age to know anything about a democratic America."

What Tom meant was that he is convinced America has been run by "bureaucrats and politicians", certainly not by the people for the last 35 years. So he figures a lot of Americans don't know about the "other America" because 26.9 is the average age of the American citizen today with 60 million of them under 18 (all Tom's figures).

Tom spiced his talk with a lot of facts and figures about our long-term inflation like the $400 billion dollar debt increase since 1932 when "the bureaucrats and politicians took over."

At the finish, Bouchier had a lot of questions about national and international fiscal policies to bounce around the room at the members and keep them on their toes.

It was a very interesting 30 minutes.

BROWNWOOD — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will officially open his statewide campaign for governor with a "home country" rally in the Brownwood Coliseum at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 3.

The rally is being organized by a group from Barnes' old legislative district who urged him to start the campaign "back among the people who know and respect you the most."

The steering committee said participants in the rally will come from a 43-county area. "We have delegations coming from more than 100 miles away, and special entertainment is being planned along with a few surprises," the committee announced.

Steve Newby in front page fire picture

Steve Newby made the front page of The Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City last week. He was pictured climbing out of an upper story window of the Sigma Nu fraternity house on the University of Oklahoma campus at Norman during a fire.

No one was injured and the fire was confined to one student's room but the heat, smoke and water damage were so great that all of the members had to be moved out into apartments while fire damage repairs are made.

Newby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Newby and a sophomore at OU.

HIGHLIGHTS and SIDELIGHTS

... from the State Capitol

By BILL BOYKIN
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Another federal court ruling — voiding the new political filing fee law — jarred state officials and posed the possibility of an emergency special legislative session soon.

While an earlier decision invalidating the old filing fee law was still on appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, three judges in Dallas knocked out a back-up statute passed last year.

If rulings stand, Texas will be without any method of financing its May and June party primary elections. The filing deadline is Feb. 7.

In the original 1970 decision on the old law, fees were declared unconstitutional because they were used for revenue-collecting and were an absolute requirement to get on the ballot.

Legislators in 1971 passed a law effective Jan. 1, 1972, setting maximum filing fees amounting to four per cent of a candidate's term salary. Another provision provided for getting on the ballot by pauper's affidavits of inability to pay, together with a petition signed by 10 per cent of area voters. This, too, was invalidated by a federal court last Thursday.

State is now enjoined from implementing any fee system for financing the primaries.

Gov. Preston Smith and Secretary of State Bob Bullock have expressed hope courts will stay the latest order until the Supreme Court rules on the first case.

Circuit Judge Homer Thornberry advised party county and state executive committees to make new rules for carrying out the latest ruling.

Since there is no authority for state financing of the primaries, a special legislative session apparently would be necessary to provide for that before May. One suggested alternative is voluntary contributions to pay the election bill — an estimated $1.5 million statewide.

Oil Allowance Delayed — Texas Railroad Commission decided to delay setting the February oil allowance pending further study.

Major purchasers, the commission explained, report inventories are higher than needs, although crude stocks are at a four-year low mark.

Seven of 14 major crude oil purchasers requested a larger oil allowance factor for February. Two requested a small one, and five proposed to keep the January factor of 67.5 per cent of potential. The U. S. Bureau of Mines predicted demand in February would be 3,530,000 barrels a day, or 10,000 less than January.

Marijuana Penalty Drop — Two Texas task forces looking into problems of children and youth in preparation for a White House conference recommended the penalty for first offense possession of limited amounts of marijuana should be reduced.

The groups advised Gov. Preston Smith the penalty should be lowered from felony to misdemeanor status.

A total of 264 recommendations were made to Smith covering 16 areas of exploration by the steering committee.

Other proposals included: Mandatory sex education in public schools as early as possible; opposition to capital punishment; repeal of abortion laws, state funds for low cost housing, and drug education starting with kindergarten or

MUSEUM BUFFS WALK AS SOFTLY AS INDIANS

Recently, New York's 102-year-old American Museum of Natural History solved one of its biggest problems — Indian style.

Who would have thought, when the building was founded in 1869, that it would host more than 4 million visitors annually? Certainly not the people who installed the terrazzo floors, who — way are children, whose young voices and clattering shoes are echoed and amplified by the bare floors, plaster walls and high museum ceilings. This cacophony of sound makes it tough for tour teachers and guides, whose descriptive remarks all too often go unheard.

This problem has been solved, however, in the popular Eastern Woodlands and Plains Indians section, one of the museum's 35 fascinating exhibit halls. A 900-square-yard expanse of blue-green contract carpeting, woven of Celanese Fortrel polyester by Bigelow Sanford, Inc., has just been laid over the hard, bare, resonant terrazzo floors.

Along with dampening the clacking of shoes against stone — and absorbing much of the racket from boisterous conversation and other sources — the soft, padded carpeting provides visitors welcome, comfortable relief from hard surfaces.

And now, museum buffs can walk as softly as Indians — as they view the artifacts of these first Americans.

"The greatest financial risk confronting many prosperous individuals or families is a liability suit for $100,000 or even $1,000,000 for causing injury or death to others. Does the Post Insurance Agency have "excess liability" insurance to cover exposed risks and excessive legal awards?"

Ag Opinions: Texans can claim refunds on part of car sales taxes paid between Aug. 16 and Dec. 10, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

Those who get refunds of the federal excise taxes (repealed on Aug. 16) can also put in for refunds of the state tax (calculated on the total amount paid for a car).

In another recent opinion, Martin concluded:

The Board of Pardons and Pardon has authority to hire two deputy rules-reviewing deputy compact administrators at $600 a year.

Democrats in Quandary — Just about the time a controversy over party rules appeared to be settled, Democrats found themselves with a leadership dispute on their hands.

State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Roy Orr of DeSoto accepted appointment as a Dallas county commissioner setting the stage for the new wrangle.

Secretary of State Bob Bullock said he would not issue a certificate of appointment as a commissioner to Orr until he resigned his SDEC place because election duties of the two offices may prove incompatible.

Orr was quoted as saying he would resign, then that he wouldn't, then that he might in 30 days and again that he wouldn't.

Meanwhile, Gov. Smith asked William R. Anderson Jr. of Cor-

LUBBOCK — The Air Force recruiting service in West Texas now has a permanent nurse advisor assigned to its headquarters here. She is Capt. Georgann Minterfering, who has assumed the duties of nurse coordinator for West Texas and Oklahoma and desires to meet all nurses in the West Texas and eastern New Mexico areas.

Capt. Minterfering will be available to discuss Air Force opportunities and benefits to include the new pay raise, which provides a starting salary of $650 per month and more if experience is involved.

Appointments to discuss Air Force nursing with Capt. Minterfering can be made by calling her office at 495-231-4311, collect, in Oklahoma City, or contacting an Air Force recruiter in Lubbock or Amarillo.

Retroactive Pay Approved — State employees and school teachers will receive retroactive pay in creases for the Sept. 1-Nov. 13 period in mid-February.

The extra money represents pay raises approved by the 62nd legislature but stalled during the presidential wage-price freeze.

State officials have notified the federal pay board of intentions to go through with the raises that would have been granted September 1 had the freeze not been in effect.

OSBORNE
Variations in the spelling of the same surname can be attributed to the fact that there were no set rules for spelling back when surnames were just beginning to come into common usage. And so few people could read or write that there was a tendency on the part of the recorder to confuse the dialects of the people involved.

The surname Osborne, for instance, is also found in a variety of other spellings, including Osborn, Osburn and Asburn.

The name stems from the Old English word "osborn," which, in turn evolved from the Norse personal name "Asbiorn," meaning "divine bear". Asbiorn was one of those ancient personal names composed of two elements—in this case "divine bear". Many times these name elements had no definite meaning in their combined form.

Hereditary surnames in England date from after the Norman Conquest in 1066, but Osborne was a personal name in England long before the coming of the Normans. Osborne, like so many other personal names, became a surname unchanged.

The name appears both as Osborn and Osburn in the Domesday Book, a record of English landholders compiled late in the 11th century. By the 14th century the name began appearing in records more frequently as Osborne and Osborn.

Among the first of the name in America was Richard Osborn of London, who in 1634 settled in Hingham, Mass. Most of his descendants added an "e" to the name to make it Osborne.

Among surnames in the United States, the Osborne spelling is the 406th commonest with an estimated 60,000 persons by the name. An estimated 31,000 persons use the Osborn spelling with the name ranking 905th.

Briscoe says Texans have lost faith in state government

CENTER, Tex. — Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Texas governor, says residents of the state have "lost faith in state government."

The big election issue, Briscoe said here Friday, is a two-faceted problem, one to make the Texas Legislature more responsive to the needs of the people and two, to place it out of the reach of unscrupulous manipulators.

The Uvalde rancher pointed specifically to the Sharpstown bank investigations. High officials, he said, must be stopped from using their positions of trust for personal gain.

Bill Jones opens political race

AUSTIN — Lieutenant Governor candidate Bill Jones formally opened his campaign here Jan. 19 with a pledge to work for more responsible and responsive state government to restore the confidence of the people.

The Odessa businessman, seeking the Democratic nomination in the May 6 primary election, told the noon rally that he will conduct a "direct people-to-people campaign" at street corners across the state from his 28-foot mobile headquarters.

Jones said the people of Texas are growing more interested in new faces "because they are restless and suspicious about the conditions brought on by incumbent office holders who stood by and did little but watch our problems mount for the past several years."

Lubbock PGA is one of 34 Texas associations that together loaned more than $942 million to the state's farmers and ranchers in 1971, he said.

The association, with offices in Lubbock, Brownfield, Levelland, Ralls, Seminole and Tahoka, makes agricultural loans in Cochran, Crosby, Gaines, Garza, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum counties.

Cotton harvest passes million bale figure

LUBBOCK — The South Plains cotton harvest passed the one million bale mark this week, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Cotton Classing Office of the USDA.

Samples from 1,012,000 bales of cotton had been received by the Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa and Levelland offices through Friday, Jan. 21.

Sample receipts began a gradual decline as the harvest neared completion. Because of this decline in sample receipts the seasonal office at Levelland closed on Friday, Jan. 21. The remaining cotton from the Levelland area will be classed in Lubbock.

Estimates indicate that 90 to 95 per cent of the South Plains crop is now out of the fields. Samples from 118,000 bales were classed at the four area USDA classing offices during the week ending Friday. This brought the total classed this season to 987,000, compared to 1,620,000 at this time last year.

Low Middling Light Spotted was the predominant grade at Lubbock last week with 51 per cent of all cotton classed. Strict Low Middling Light Spotted made up 13 per cent, Strict Low Middling Spotted 6 per cent and Low Middling Spotted 20 per cent.
