Gene Keith Bray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bray, had surgery Friday in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock to remove two steel plates from his leg. These were put in two years ago when Bray broke his leg when a horse fell on him during a training lesson . Mrs. Bray reported that he is doing real fine and is in room 213A and should be home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown and their daughter Lissa of Lazbuddie, went to Hawaii May 30. They went to see their son Scott Brown who is attending the University of Hawaii. He is attending summer school there for six weeks, during the regular school year he attends T.C.U. The Browns enjoyed the beach and sunny weather before returning home June 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Shafer and their son Terry of Muleshoe went to the Amarillo Airport June 6 to pick up their other son Larry Shafer. He is home for summer break from the Airforce Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado. Shafer will return to the Academy the end of June after which he will go to Georgia to airborn school.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Preure of Muleshoe celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary by taking their family to Matzlan, Mexico, May 29. Their family included their two daughters Miss Judy Precure, Miss Cassie Precure and their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Stan Harrison. They enjoyed the beach and sightseeing before realized as construction work begins on a lake and flood protection and recreation resevoir at Running Water Draw.

The opening of construction bids will be held at the City Hall in Clovis Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. The awarding of the contract should occur within 10 to 12 days following the opening and reading of the bids. It will be approximately 30 days after bids are opened and the contract is awarded before actual construction will begin.

The construction stipulated performance time is 410 days, this is from the time bids are awarded to completion. The planning and design surveying has been completed and the layout surveys for construction are now in progress.

Plans and specifications of the dam are 697,000 cubic yards of earth fill, 396 cubic yards of concrete in the principal spillway and 416 feet of 48 inch concrete pressure pipe in the principal spillway. A permanent recreation pool is designed in the structure with a capacity of 2,160 acre feet of storage.

The Running Water Draw Watershed application was approved by the New Mexico State Engineer in June of 1962 and authorized for planning in January 1965. Work plan for the project was completed in November 1968 and the job approved for installation in May 1970.

Application for the Running Water Draw Watershed project has included a history of flooding in the area, dollar damage and other water-related problems that the local people needed assistance with. The application was then submitted under Public Law 566, Small Watersheds Program. The Soil Conservation Service will administer the 100 percent federally funded project.

After the structure is completed, responsibility of maintenance and operation of the dam will be vested in the var-

Announces Final Planting Dates

The following newsletter comes from the Bailey County

ASC Committee: Farmers may plant or replant crops as late as they wish and could normally expect to make a crop, but the final dates for planting cotton in the Bailey County area is June 5. A request for prevented acre20. Prevented cotton acres may subsequently be planted to another crop without loss of the cotton disaster payment.

The final date for planting feed grain is June 20. A request for prevented acreage credit must be filed by July 5. If farmers are prevented from planting a total acreage of nonconserving crops at least equal to the wheat-feed grain allotment, then a man would be eligible for a disaster payment under the Feed Grain and Wheat program.

If cotton is planted or feed grain, but it fails to come up or comes up and dies and it is too late to replant; come by the ASC office and file an ASCS-

ed. Do not do anything to the ground until a visit is made if you want to eligible for a payment.

The fact that nothing be done to an area on which failed acreage credit is requested is very important. The farms disaster payment depends on the appraisal visit. If another use has been made of the area, this makes the farm ineligible for disaster payment.

The maturity date for outstanding grain sorghum loans is June 30, 1974. If the grain has not been redeemed by this date, the grain will go to Commodity Credit Corporation.

July 1 is the final date to request measurement service

Summer Reading Club Gets Underway Here

Anne Camp, librarian at the Muleshoe Public Library, reports that there is still plenty of time for boys and girls to register and read in the Summer Reading Club, "Let's Go Fishing for Good Books" is the theme and so far over 150 boys and girls are fishing and reading, and beginning to receive awards for their efforts.

It is a "reading for fun' project, but should be encouraged by all parents who want their children to improve their reading skills and develop a love of reading that will be with them all the rest of their lives. The library will cooperate with the school again this year in providing library services for students in the Summer Migrant School, Starting June 10, children will be brought to the library by their teachers to enjoy all the services the library provides.

The emphasis fight now is on children's program, but by no means does the library intend to Cont. on Page 2, col. 6

Consumer Price Index

WASHINGTON -- The Consumer Price Index rose 0.6 percent in April to 144.0 (1967-100), the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor reported.

The rise was due to higher prices for many consumer goods and services, notably used cars, apparel commodities, energy items and restaurant meals.

The effect of these increases, however, was partially offset by lower prices for some grocery store foods, particularly meats. The April CPI was 10.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the CPI rose 0.6 percent in April, about half as much as in each of the preceding three months. The food index -- which includes food at home and away from home -- declined 0.4 per cent, the first decrease since September of last year.

The index for nonfood commodities rose 1.1 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis in April -- the fourth consecutive month of rapid rise in this index. The services index increased 0.6 percent, slightly less than the monthly increase in the first three months of this year.

The index for food purchased in grocery stores -- usually unchanged in April -- declined 0,7 percent. Beef prices fell sharply following a smaller decrease in March, Pork, poultry and egg continued to drop Cont. on Page 2, col. 5 and fresh vegetable prices also declined in April.

These declines more than offset price rises for most other including processed fruits and vegetables, dairy products, cereal and bakery products and sugar and sugarbased products.

The index for food away from home -- restaurant meals and snacks -- increased 1.2 percent in April, almost twice the monthly increases in the first quarter of this year.

The nonfood commodities index increased 1.3 percent, considerably more than is usual for April. Over a fourth of the rise in this index resulted from sharply higher prices for used cars. The used car index had declined stadily from July of last year through March.

Prices of apparel commodities increased more than they usually do in April.

The index for gasoline and motor oil continued to rise but the monthly increase (1.7 per cent) was the smallest since these prices begun advancing rapidly in October of last year. The index for fuel oil and coal rose in April after declining slightly in March. The new car index increased, instead of declining as it usually does in

Prices also rose for avariety of other nonfood commodities such as furniture, appliances, housekeeping supplies, toilet goods, newspapers and alcoholic beverages. The services index rose 0.6 percent in April. Residential rents increased 0.3 percent. Prices on other household services advanced 0.8 percent. Increases in charges for gas and electricity were somewhat smaller than earlier this year. Water and sewerage charges rose sharply. Charges for doemstic and laundering services increased more than in recent months.

The index for medical care services rose 0.6 percent in April, about half as much as in March because of less rapid increases in physicians' fees and most hospital services. Among transportation services, charges for auto repairs and auto insurance continued to increase but local transit fares declined.

Charges for other services such as drycleaning, barber and beauty shop, and recreational services also continued to in-

Article Concerning Local Government Makes Changes

AUSTIN--Article IX concerning local government in the proposed new constitution makes a number of important changes in the present constitution written in 1876.

Another effect of the newarticle is to streamline and consolidate provisions concerning local government which are scattered throughout the present constitution.

For example, sections describing local tax and debt limit ations are in one article while provisions dicating terms of office and elections are in otner articles. The fact that the proposed article on local government under one article is a substantial improvement in the organization of the constitution.

Only three of the sections of the proposed article are entirely new and have no counterpart in the current constitution. Section 2 of the proposed constitution consists of a general statement that defines the powers of counties. The present constitution does not

Rev. Alfredo Padillia and others will meet with the court at 1:30 p.m. to discuss Revenue Sharing assistance for a Day Care Center.

The court will discuss the programming of Revenue Sharing Funds for the 1974-75 Entitlement Period.

They will also discuss the matter of providing additional personnel for certain County ofmake county powers explicit. but duties and functions are referred to throughout the current

A second new provision, Section 4 gives local governments more local control by allowing county governing bodies to enact ordinances.

This power to enact ordinances may be granted or repealed at any time by a majority of the voters. The section is intended to allow more local control over such matters as subdivision standards, building codes, sanitation and environmental protection.

The Local Government Committee and the convention felt the section dealing with the adoption of county-home rule charters was important enough that voters should consider it separately.

The county home-rule charter would allow the voters broader discretion over the organizations and functions of county government. This provision allows a majority of the voters of a county to adopt, amend or repeal a home-rule charter.

Other sections of the new article lower the population limof cities that may adopt home rule charters from 5,000 to 1,500. Cities under 1,500 would be governed according to general law.

Another important section of the proposed Local Government Article allows cities and counties to create special districts and authorities within their boundaries. This section encourages cities and counties to provide new services which would otherwise require the creation of independent special districts, separate and apart from the structure of city and county government.

The net effect should be to reduce the demand for independent special districts which have proliferated under various sections of the current constitution.

The proposed Local Government Article consolidates all of two articles and portions of three others into a single article with 1,400 words. The corresponding sections in the 1876 constitution contain over 9,500

The general effect of the article should be to make the operation of cities, counties and other local governments more flexible efficient and responsive to the voters.

What is the best weather for the hitter--in baseball?

The best kind of day for the hitter, or slugger, in baseball, is the warm, clear day, when the air is light, or when the wind is blowing from the homeplate to the outfield. This weather produces excellent vision, light air, with no handicap of a headwind for the ball being

Since warm air is lighter than cold air, a ball will travel just a little further in warm clear air. The batter's vision is best on a clear day. On the other hand, the best weather for a pitcher is a cold, dark day, with the wind blowing from the outfield to homeplate.

In such weather the batter's vision will be more restricted, the air will be just a little heavier, and the ball will not travel as far when hit, and the wind will also check its flight. A combination of these factors can often be important in a baseball game, although any one of them (with the exception of a strong wind) is not overly important.

When we pray we sometimes become impatient and wonder why our prayers are not answered immediately, but we must realize that man's ways are not Gods ways and that he is ever mindful of us and maybe what we pray for isn't the best thing for us, so I think as I pray this little prayer with all sincerety that he hears and knows and cares and will answer in maybe a different way than we expect and hope for. It goes like this, my prayer that is, "God grant me patience, let me unworried wait upon thy plans for me, teach me Lord, submission of my stubborn will to thine sweet serenity" and may we learn to pray in all humility and humbliness of heart and often we feel his answer maybe though in a different way but we know he lives and cares for us, so let us pray in all humbliness of heart and spirit and soul, May Gods blessing be yours as you read this little humble prayer of mine.

America the Beautiful...

From the time that Columbus discovered America...men have thought of this country as something special. It was here that Ponce de Leon sought the Fountain of Youth, and men have long admired America's majestic mountains and beautiful valleys. However, the real beauty lies not in the land, but in the people. The people came...seeking a land where they could worship God in freedom, and under God developed a kind and loving spirit. This is what makes America beautiful.

Attend church regularly . . . help keep America beautiful.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Lt. Governor's Report By Bill Hobby

After a month long recess to allow members to spend some time in their districts before the primary election, the Constitutional Convention tentatively passed the Legislative Article.

The proposed article maintains the basic structure contained in the 1876 Constitution, but gives the Legislature some additional flexibility.

The Legislature continues to be a bicameral body consisting of a Senate of 31 members and a House of 150 members. These members must be elected from single-member districts. The present constitution allows multi-member districts.

The voters will be given the choice between two and four-year terms for representatives. Members of the House now serve two-year terms.

two-year terms.

The Legislature continues to be required to redistrict senate and house seats after each federal census. If the redistricting plan is found invalid by the courts, the Legislature must meet in special session to amend the redistricting plan. This provision is not included in the existing constitution.

If the legislature then fails to enact a redistricting plan, a redistricting board performs this duty.

The voters are also given a set of alternatives concerning legislative pay. It is currently set by the Constitution at $4,800 a year. Voters can choose between the salary commission approach and a fixed annual salary for legislators of $8,750.

In addition to the present provision for a regular legislative session not to exceed 140 days every two years, the new article provides for a 90 day regular session to be held in even-numbered years. The 140 day sessions would continue to be held in odd-numbered years.

A new provision would allow the Legislature to call itself into special session upon petition of two-thirds of the membership of each house.

The provisions pertaining to organization and procedure of the Legislature are similar to existing provisions with the added authorization of organizational sessions prior to the convening of a regular session.

Provisions relating to conflict of interest of members are retained.

The Legislature is prohibited from enacting local and special laws except when a general law cannot be made applicable. This is similar to the present document except that prohibited subjects for local and special laws are no longer specifically listed.

A similar provision relating to impeachment of executive officers and judges of the supreme court, which is presently found in a separate article on impeachment, is included in the Legislative Article.

The Convention also has approved the Separation of Powers Article on second reading. The delegates retained the basic separation of powers principle that has been included in all Texas Constitutions since 1845. This Article establishes the three branches of state government -legislative, executive and judicial -- as separate entities and preserves their integrity by prohibiting one branch from exercising the powers of another except as authorized by the Constitution.

LUBBOCK --- Modern agricultural practices, improved varieties of sorghum and wheat, and new developments in herbicides, insecticides and fertilizers have boosted yields far above those of only a decade ago. But an oversight in such small matters as combine adjustment and operation can wipe out those expected high yeilds at harvest time, warns an agricultural engineer.

Roy Childers, area specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, explains why.

"Basically, the operation of a combine can be separated into four major divisions, each with a specifice function. These divisions are: (1) cutting and feeding, (2) threshing, (3) separation, and (4) cleaning. Any one, or all of these operations may be cause of harvesting losses.

'Specifically,' he adds, "the four major sources of grain losses are the cutter bar, cylinder, straw rack and cleaning

"Losses from the cutter bar would include grain shattered by an improperly adjusted reel, uncut heads below the cutter bar and heads cut which drop to the gound. These losses do not include shattering which occurs prior to harvesting.'

Childers defines cylinder losses as unthreshed kernels left in the head which pass out the straw rack. This may be caused by either improper concave clearance or cylinder speed. Rack losses, are those kernels which are threshed but are carried over the straw rack. And losses from the cleaning are kernals carried over the shoe with the chaff.

The engineer points to crop condition, operator experience and skill as determing factors in these problems, But sometimes the problem source is a bit hard to find, he notes.

The operator can determine his cutter bar losses by counting loose kernels and/ or heads of grain on the gound under the combine. Kernels on the ground in the standing grain ahead of the combine were shattered prior to harvest and should not be counted as cutter-bar loss. The engineer explains that the number of kernels per square foot in front of the combine are counted and subtracted from the number of kernels per square foot beneath the machine. Then, by using the table below, cutter-bar losses in bushels per acre can be determined. If all other components are adjusted porperly, this will usually be the largest loss. Cylinder losses can be determined by examining heads for the presence of unthreshed kernels. Regardless of crop condition and machine adjustment, this loss will usually be small.

The rack loss is measured by catching the straw in a box or on a piece of tarp. An operator can measure the area over the straw was collected (swath width X distance traveled) and count the number of kernels in the sample. These figures will determine the number of kernels per square foot and thus, losses in bushels per acre, Improper rack speed and an overloaded straw rack are the two major causes of these

On some combines, the cleaning shoe losses are measured by catching the chaff coming over the rear of the shoe and figuring the bushel-per-over acre loss as outlined for rack loss. However, on other combines the strawer and chaff are mixed together. With the latter type, the shoe loss is determined by subtracting the rack loss from that which is measured by catching the mixture of material leaving the rack and improve the stand and quality and boost production.

"Over seeding small seed crops is a natural tendency of home vegetable gardeners. So, thinning at an early age and when the soil is moist will help insure a proper stand and will increase yields of high quality vegetables," says Spener Tanksley, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Thin when the plants are no more than two inches tall and before the roots become entwined. Pinch or cut off cucumers, squash, melons, okra and similar plants rather than pulling them up, as this disrupts the roots of the remaining plants Tanksley points out.

Thin beets, carrots and radishes to one to two inches between plants. Bush beans, peas, onions, spinach, turnips, mustard perform best when spaced at two to four inches. Thin leaf lettuce, parsley, lima beans and swiss chard to allow four to eight inches between plants.

Sweet corn, cabbage, chard endive, kale, head lettuce and potatoes grow best when spaced 8 to 10 inches apart.
