DOYE ARNOLD TO DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR APRIL 19

Doye Arnold, Breckenridge man, who twice received the death sentence for the murder of his divorced wife, Zelma Arnold, in 1932, was sentenced to death in the electric chair on Friday, April 19th. The sentence and date of execution being set by Judge M. S. Long in the 42nd Judicial court here at 2:15 Monday afternoon.

Judge Long advised Arnold to make peace with God, when Arnold replied, "I have done that and I know you are doing your duty. I don't blame you, but I did not plan the murder of my wife."

Arnold, who has been in jail at Breckenridge since his trial here in March 1934, was brought to Baird Monday morning by Sheriff R. L. Edwards and Deputy Sheriff, W. A. Peterson. Zelma Arnold was beaten to death with a rock on a Breckenridge street, September 10, 1932. At his first trial at Breckenridge during October, 1932 Arnold was assessed the death penalty. The case was reversed and remanded for new trial at Haskell. The second trial resulted in a hung jury, and the case was transferred to Baird where on March 16, 1934 Arnold was given the death penalty. The case was appealed and a few days ago the Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the case.

Sheriff R. L. Edwards and Deputy Sheriff F. W. Short, of Putnam left here Wednesday morning with Arnold for the State Penitentiary, Huntsville, where the execution will take place.

She professed faith in Christ and joined the Missionary Baptist church when 19 years of age and has lived a faithful consecrated life all these years. Rev. O'Brien spoke of how he with members of the church enjoyed gathering at the home for special services for "Aunt Biddie" and the joy she got from the services. She had a remarkable memory and her eye sight and hearing was good. She being able to read without the aid of glasses. She was loved by all for her beautiful christian life and lovable disposition. She will be missed by all, especially the Pierce family and the children of the community whom she loved and who showered her with flowers and visits.

President Returns From Vacation to Face Critical Test of His Administration Policies as Foes Stand Firm on Prevailing Wage Clause.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD © Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ended his vacation at Hyde Park and left for Washington where his administration faces serious trouble, involving the prestige of the White House. Capitol Hill is full of lively curiosity over the President's program, and whether he will fight the present congressional defiance of his leadership and go before the people with one of his famed fireside talks, or whether he will agree to a compromise.

Mr. Roosevelt at the end of his second year in office faces a predicament in his relations to congress similar to that which confronted Mr. Hoover in 1931. Unless he regains control his entire program is likely to bog down. The fight hinges on the $4,880,000,000 work-relief program, the first item in the President's budget message and the principal mainstay of his program. Secret conferences at which slices of pork were reported to have been dangled before the avid eyes of revolving senators were said to have been held.

Secretary Ickes has been no help to the President in quelling the revolt. In his recent testimony, Ickes was reluctant to tell a senate committee about allocation of $238,000,000 for a naval shipbuilding program. The senators finally pried out information which would indicate that the navy and the speculators knew all about the appropriation, but none of the members of congress knew about it. The money was to be spent at executive discretion, and senators feel this does not auger well for the proposal to hand to Mr. Roosevelt unlimited power in spending the proposed five billion dollar appropriation.

Since next year will bring another Presidential election, a third of the senators will be up for re-election, and all of the house members. They are watching closely the present situation because, if the President is slipping, they want their own records back home in good order.

MUSSOLINI has sent 5,000 more Italian troops to east Africa, making 10,000 that have been dispatched for the possible war with the empire of Ethiopia. With the latest contingent went Gen. Rudiofo Graziani, who will be in command of the expeditionary army. The soldiers were given a fine send-off at Naples, Crown Prince Humbert being present.

Mussolini has set European governments buzzing in a speech in which he roared defiance at Italy's foes, asserting that he could put eight million armed men in the field if necessary. Newspapers during the past few weeks have openly referred to the possibility of a war between Italy and Germany over Austria, and it was thought that Il Duce's speech was made to impress upon the Nazis that he was prepared to defend Brenner pass, although a part of the troops are being used in Ethiopia.

Britain is keeping a close watch on Ethiopian developments. Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the house of commons, Simon said that the agreement of 1908 between Italy, France and Great Britain to preserve the political and territorial status quo in Ethiopia is in force and that Britain has drawn Italy's attention to this fact. He added, that the whole trouble is over the frontier between Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland which has never been properly defined.

THE Blue Eagle lost another tail feather the other day, when Federal Judge Nields at Wilmington, Del., held that the collective bargaining provision of NIRA is unconstitutional when applied to companies not engaged in interstate commerce. The administration and organized labor immediately joined in a fight to preserve the validity of Section 7-A, and announced that an immediate appeal would be taken before the United States Supreme court.

The Wagner labor relations bill making Section 7-A the law of the land and outlawing company unions may have to be revised, if Judge Nields is upheld by the high court. The ruling also gives support to opposition now forming in congress against extension of NRA unless it is reorganized.

Judge Nields' ruling was on an injunction suit brought by the government against the Welton Steel company to enjoin the steel firm from alleged violations of Section 7-A of NIRA and the labor section of the fair competition code of the iron and steel industry. He upheld the right of employees to form company unions for collective bargaining, thus upsetting the claim of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, that the company intimidated employees and dominated the company union. The court held that the company is primarily engaged in state, not interstate commerce, which congress is not empowered to regulate. Judge Nields stated:

"Power to enact Section 7-A was not conferred upon congress by the 'general welfare' recital in the preamble of the Constitution, nor by the welfare clause, Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution."

Unless the Supreme court reverses Judge Nields, the decision will prevent the New Deal from interfering with employee-employer relationships of a vast majority of American business.

New Deal policies received another jolt the same day when Judge Charles L. Dawson on application of 35 western Kentucky coal operators issued a writ enjoining the government from enforcing the bituminous coal code, reaffirming an earlier decision that the national industrial recovery act was unconstitutional. Judge Dawson declared that the coal mining is an intrastate business, and beyond the power of congress to regulate.

He had previously issued a temporary writ, on petition of the operators on the ground of invalidity of the code, but the court of appeal remanded the case for a finding of fact on the question of irreparable injury. "When the government unconstitutionally interferes with the right of a citizen to do business in his own way, that interference constitutes an injury to the property rights of the citizen," said Judge Dawson, who labeled as fallacious the government lawyers' contention that gains resulting from the coal code should offset losses.

FEDERAL JUDGE W. I. GRUBB of Alabama gave the New Deal a sharp rap that threatens the great electric power development in the Tennessee valley. He ruled that the Tennessee Valley Authority has no legal authority to dispose of surplus power generated at hydro-electric plants on the Tennessee river. The administration is depending on this enterprise to bring about the lowering of private power plant rates, and it was believed there would be an immediate appeal from the decision.

In Washington especial note was taken of the fact that Judge Grubb made permanent an injunction restraining 14 north Alabama cities and towns from negotiating with the Public Works administration for loans to build electric distribution systems. There was speculation as to what effect, if any, this might have nationally on PWA's policy of giving financial encouragement to municipal power developments.

INTERNAL troubles continue to rock Cuba, and President Carlos Mendietta's regime appears tottering. Manuel Despairigne, the only member of Mendietta's cabinet who was in office, has resigned as secretary of the treasury, completing the rout of the ministry brought about by the school strike. And twelve assistant cabinet secretaries have also deserted the administration.

The cabinet resignations began over differences of opinion as to how to deal with the strike of several hundred thousand students and teachers which has developed into a national movement to oust the Mendietta administration. Communist-led labor organizations are ready to throw their strength behind a revolutionary general strike, and the situation is becoming critical. Although armed forces are being held in readiness to quell disorders, there is some doubt as to their loyalty to the president. Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staff, was reported ready to throw his support to Dr. Carlos Mendietta de la Cruz for president in the Mendietta government falls, but leaders of the anti-Mendietta movement have indicated Batista's choice would not be acceptable to them.

Terrorism continues rampant. Bombing has become general, railroads have been blown up, and Havana has suffered considerable damage to property.

POSSIBILITIES of a merger of Democrats with Republicans in fighting for repeal of the "pink slip" or income tax publicity section of the 1934 revenue act was seen as Representative Bell, Missouri, pleaded for immediate passage of his bill eliminating the publicity provision.

"Not only is there fear on the part of the people of the country on account of gangsters and racketeers," Bell asserted "but there also is concern among business men, because their competitors will have the opportunity of nosing into their secret files."

What Is Ahead? Muscles Soon Old The Moon Pulls Us To Toughen Your Legs

In 1914, as the world gradually moved toward war, no one in Europe realized what was happening or going to happen.

In 1935, as this country moves toward the result of various theories, experiments and efforts, nobody has the vaguest idea of what is really about to happen. Almost anything might happen. It is possible, and fortunately probable, that what has happened before will happen again, that business and industry will gradually find their way back to normal, and, with officially shortened hours making labor scarce, the slogan may change from "Let the government support me" to "Give me a chance to work and climb to the top."

Arthur Brisbane will happen again, that business and industry will gradually find their way back to normal, and, with officially shortened hours making labor scarce, the slogan may change from "Let the government support me" to "Give me a chance to work and climb to the top."

That may come, and something very different may come.

Once in so often it is necessary for nations and individuals to learn wisdom through first-class failure. That may be on the program for this country at this moment. The wise man will make his arrangements.

Time passes quickly; age comes soon if you depend for success on muscles, legs, arms or eyes. Fifteen years ago Babe Ruth, "home run king," was bought by "the Yankees" for $125,000, highest price ever paid up to that time for a baseball player. Now, only forty-one years old, he is released and goes to the "Boston Braves," who are not asked to pay even a penny for the man that has drawn millions of men and dollars to the club that "owned" him.

As we go around the sun, with the moon circling round our little earth, and our sun doubtless revolving around some other great central star unknown to us, the moon is always pulling at the earth, as a child pulls at its mother's skirt. That pull gradually causes the earth to "slow down" in speed, turning on its axis.

Doctor Nicholson, astronomer at Willson observatory, says this constant pull of the moon will eventually make the earth turn so slowly that its day will be 47 days long instead of 24 hours.

"Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings."

Jack Dempsey, who really seemed to like fighting, apart from the profit, in his championship days, discussing other fighters in his "sere and yellow leaf" at forty, says men that refuse to do "road work" should know that "you can't toughen your legs in a chair or posing for pictures."

Legs are not important, but brains are. Young gentlemen should know that you cannot toughen your brains, or make them work better, without thinking.

Chancellor Hitler orders every man in Germany, young or old, to take physical training and be ready to fight. The Spartans trained men early, even taught the young to murder working slaves for practice. They did not last long.

In New York a boy of fifteen, his father "on relief," leaves home and a message saying: "I am going to get a job of my own and help myself."

That expresses the feeling of millions of Americans compelled to be on the dole or relief against their will. It is to be hoped that depression, relief and dole will end before too many Americans lose the habit of work and the desire for it.

Mr. James J. Walker, once mayor of New York, writing a column for the London Sunday Dispatch, supplies one paragraph that is probably meant. Others might remember it:

"After all, the counting of time is not so important as making time count."

Senator Carter Glass, who takes money seriously, says, "We are on a flat money basis." Possibly, but we seem to be doing better than when we were on a gold basis.

Do you notice much difference? Is money more plentiful, are prices lower? Is not money scarce, is not everything dearer, on the contrary?

Who knows anything about money? Nobody.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, for instance, says the United States is still "on the gold basis." Former President Hoover wants to go back to the gold basis, even if we have to be content with a 50-cent dollar, based on the new kind of "expensive gold."

Wiley Post failed in his effort to fly the continent in eight hours because of a mechanical accident. His plan was to travel 40,000 feet up in the stratosphere, where slight atmospheric resistance makes high speed possible. He will try it again. American flyers fortunately are not easily discouraged. If they were, the flying machine would not have been invented here.

Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—Although it has been several weeks since the Supreme court of the United States rendered its historic making decision in the gold cases, there is no slackening in the disturbance from the effects of the administration's gold policies, even in the light of the court ruling. While the court held that congress had no power to enact legislation invalidating the gold clause in government bonds, it said in the same breath that collection from the government by a bond holder was another story. Since the government has taken gold out of circulation, collection appears virtually impossible but the appearance is not going to stop bond holders from seeking what they regard as justice.

Call It Repudiation It is now apparent that the government's action is going to be regarded both here and abroad as repudiation. That is a nasty word when applied to governments and its repercussions likely will be heard for a good many years.

While the repudiation of the gold payments will affect comparatively few people directly, the significance of the action in a political way is becoming more and more apparent. The repudiation in its effect on the bond holders may be only temporary, but its effect politically will be far-flung.

I think it is generally considered now that the gold question will become a paramount issue in the next political campaign and it is not impossible that it will continue to be an issue over a period of years. This is so because, admittedly, actual damage has been done to American prestige in foreign lands. It is made to appear, therefore, that there will be a combination of international and domestic influences at work henceforth with respect to this government's gold policies.

Domestically, the issue was born in the presentation in congress of two bills designed to restore, partially at least, the status of this government as regards the gold policies to that obtaining before the devaluation of the dollar. Simultaneously, former President Herbert Hoover, in one of the few expressions made since retiring from office, declared his belief that the return of gold payments was necessary and vital to stabilizing conditions and re-establishing the United States in world favor.

Of course, with the abundant Democratic majority in congress, the gold bills will get nowhere very fast. Likewise, Mr. Hoover's expression can and will result only in providing ammunition for New Deal supporters, whose answer to criticism usually is a question whether it is desired to return to the conditions that caused the depression.

Nevertheless, I hear considerable discussion to the effect that these ripples must be considered as only the beginning. They will have the effect of causing many people to think about the problem. Discussions will take place in the homes and in the shops. There will be those who contend for sound money of the old style. Equally vehement defenders of the New Deal will arise. Thus, the issue becomes joined and it is not outside the realm of possibility that monetary questions will become as important in 1936 as they were in the Bryan free silver days.

Now as to the practical operation of the gold rulings:

Operation of Gold Rulings There can be no doubt that the Constitution gives congress power to coin money and regulate its value. The Supreme court always has sustained this power. So, when congress, by resolution, allowed President Roosevelt to seize all of the gold in this country and hold it in the treasury, it accomplished indirectly that which it could not do directly. In this way it forced the invalidation of thousands of private contracts wherein one party promised to make payments in gold. Congress made such payments impossible and those who were to be paid have nothing left but disillusionment. As to the gold payment clause in the government bonds the Supreme court said that congress had no right to enact legislation the effect of which was to void that payment. It would seem, therefore, that some way should be found to force the government to make good. That way lies only through the Court of Claims of the United States, and when that court is denied jurisdiction in suits to recover, the bond holder is left with a right, but that right is unenforceable since the government can be sued only with its permission.

On top of these circumstances, and as a long range proposition, considerable attention has been directed to the relationship between the gold clause decisions and inflation. There is a direct link. This link, without doubt, should be watched by all of those who think of the future of this nation.

Inflation of the credit has been going on continuously since Mr. Roosevelt took office. The federal government has set no limit to the borrowing which it will undertake in its program for recovery. The Supreme court has said directly that government securities are worth whatever the administration and congress determine them to be worth because the

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well sir I am always writing about Politics, or Supreme Court, or World Court, or

I can just see you all saying to yourselves, well I wonder what on earth it is that he knows anything about.

Well sir its Mules, M. as in Musilini, U. as in Youraguay, L. as in Longitas, E. as in Eucalyptus, S. as in Staten Island. Mules, those things with long ears and short tails. Let me tell you something. You know what was the first thing out of perhaps a million industries, or products, that came back after "Despondency". Well you wouldnt guess in a million years.

Of course Democrats were the first thing to come back. They had been in a state of unemployment since 1918, and come back in 1932, 14 years and not a Postmaster in a thousand car loads. So to be fair we must assume that Democrats were the first to feel the touch of prosperity again, but what followed the Democrats? Why Mules, Mules, Mules. Franklin D Roosevelt in all his triumphant march back into the jaws of the U.S. Treasury was only one jump and a kick ahead of the old Mule. The Mule was the first quadruped to recover, and that takes in Centipedes and thousand legs.

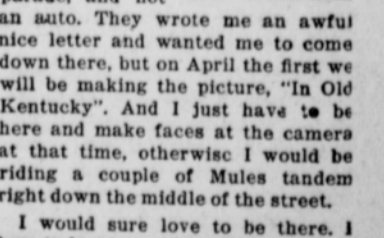

I got some old Mules here on my little ranch that looked at one time like they wouldnt be worth a thing only to run away with prominent guests on a hack ride. They afterwards told me it was Irvin Cobb they were after. Kentucky hasnt been as fair to the Mule as Tennessee and Missouri. And when you stop to think of it, why shouldnt the Mule be the animal to lead us back to the old haywire days again? It was us leaving the Mule and taking to machinery that put us in the dog house. Thats why I think in a lot of things we got to get back to old principles. The Mule has got to bring the farmer back, and the contractor back, just the same as many another common every day thing has to bring us all back. The difference between good times and bad times is gasoline, and what goes with it.

A Mule was a fundamental that we had thought we could discard, but we couldnt, and thats just one of a thousand fundamentals that we will have to get back to. Then will come work, wages, and contentment. Did you ever hear of Columbia, Tennessee? I figured some of you are just liable to be pretty ignorant. Well it was the home of President Poik, the 7th President of the U.S. and the home of Pop Geers, the greatest horse driver that the world ever knew. Andrew Johnson operated a tailor shop in Columbia, Tennessee, home of the first horse to ever beat two minutes. The only town in the whole U.S. that ever had a kite-shaped track. Hal Pointer and Direct, ran their famous race over it.

I could go on for an hour about Columbia, Tennessee, but here is what makes it outstanding in present day world history. Its the biggest street Mule market in the world. What the thoroughfare of Wall Street will do to you if you dont know what a stock is, Columbia will do to you if you dont know a Mule. Maiden Lane, N.Y. City for diamonds, but Mule Street in Columbia for Mules.

Mules are diamonds today. They are pearls. They are the best ready money. They are the tops. Thousands and thousands of Mules are sold in this town every year. The largest street Mule Market in the world I am telling you, and on April the first they have their great annual live stock show. They will be 1500 Mules and horses in the parade, and not an auto. They wrote me an awful nice letter and wanted me to come down there, but on April the first we will be making the picture, "In Old Kentucky". And I just have to be here and make faces at the camera at that time, otherwise I would be riding a couple of Mules tandem right down the middle of the street.

I would sure love to be there. I love to be at any old time home celebration, and this one has been going on for about 75 years. But dont any of you other towns start writing me inviting me to your place, and then think I am going to write a long story about it. This is a story about Mules. Its not about folks, and its not about towns, its about Mules.

A few obeyed him. The rest could not, he suddenly realized; and he had to leave them, dying.

Figures from the black leaped at them, and it was hand to hand. Tony fought with a bayonet...

"Come on!" cried Jack Taylor's voice; and with Taylor he ran in the dark. They reached the buildings...

The attackers could not shoot out hundreds of globes so simply as they had smashed the searchlights.

They were doing this; but it delayed them. It held them up a few minutes. Room by room, dormitory windows went black.

The yells ceased; some sort of assault was being reorganized.

Tony moved in the dark. "Keep down—down—down—down," he was crying. "Below the window-line. Down!"

Many did not obey him; he did not expect them to. Yells at the farther end of the main laboratory told that it was hand-to-hand there in the dark.

Tony found Taylor beside him; they had stuck together in the dark; and a dozen others rose and ran with them into the melee.

More and more lay where they fell. Tony, stumbling and slipping on the sticky wet floor, realized that this rush was stopped.

"Jack?" gasped Tony; and Taylor's voice answered him. They were staggering and bleeding, both of them; but they had survived the fight together.

He caught breath, bitterly. Bronson was there. Bronson, the discoverer of the two stranger planets...

"To the ship! Into the ship!" Tony cried to them. "Everybody into the ship!"

Creeping on hands and knees, from wounds or from caution, and dragging the wounded with them, the men started the retreat to the Space Ship.

Tony caught up in his arms a young man who was barely breathing. He had a bullet through him, but he lived.

When he laid his burden down, Ransdell confronted him. From head to foot, the South African was dabbled and clotted with blood.

The second rush was coming. No doubt of it, and it would be utterly overwhelming. There would be no survivors—but the women. None. For the horde would take no prisoners.

While he stood there his attention was attracted by a strange sound—the sound of an airplane motor, and the plane itself became visible.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

and his skin was yellow. His pilot remained at the controls of the plane, and the old man hobbled toward Tony...

Tony stepped forward. "I'm Mr. Hendron's assistant. We don't allow visitors here. Perhaps you will tell me your errand."

Tony realized that the man constituted no menace. "Perhaps," he said coldly, "if you will tell me your reason for wanting to see Hendron, I can arrange for the interview."

The old man almost shrieked. "You can arrange an interview! I tell you, young fellow, I said I would see Hendron, and that's all there is to it!"

Hendron lifted it five hundred feet farther, and the blast spread in a funnel below it. A thousand died in that instant. Hendron ceased to elevate the ship.

Half an hour later, Hendron brought the ship down.

A pale delicate light carried away the depths of night. From the numbness and exhaustion which had seized it, the colony roused itself.

At last Hendron sucked a breath into his lungs. "My friends, what must be done is obvious. We must first bury the dead. There are no survivors of the enemy."

TEXAS CENTENNIAL

Texas, preparing to welcome the world within its portals in 1936 for the Statewide celebrations of its Centennial, is looking to her sister States to participate actively in the commemoration of the achievement or her in dependence.

To this end, Walter D. Cline, managing director, has sent letters to the Governors of the forty-seven other States requesting them to take suitable action to assure exhibits from their respective Commonwealths at the forthcoming exposition at Dallas. Mr. Cline pointed out that most of the State Legislatures now are in session and that makes the present an appropriate time to submit to them the matter of State exhibits, in order that they make adequate provision of funds through appropriations, in the several States, for such exhibits.

Mr. Cline is authority on the assertion that the central exposition may provide a separate building to house such State exhibits, although at other expositions some of the States have erected their own separate structures for that purpose. California and Florida customarily prefer separate exhibits, he said.

Mr. Cline's action, together with that of the Texas Centennial Commission, in sending out formal invitations, signed by Governor James V. Allred of Texas, to all of the Governors of States to attend personally the Texas celebrations, constitutes the State's first official proclamation to the world that the Texas Centennial of 1936 is nearing a reality and, in the future, will have become an accomplished fact.

The world is being put on notice that Texas expects its citizens to come and view its wonders and possibilities and that Texas is preparing to act in accord with the words of its Governor, who has urged that "during the Centennial, we should let our visitors know that all Texans are a friendly people."

Thus merchants and manufacturers, outside of Texas, are informed that in Texas through the Centennial, they are to be afforded a splendid opportunity to contact personally and demonstrate their merchandise and products to over 6,000,000 Texans and millions of transients, visiting the State, for the Centennial year.

County Agent News

ROSS B. JENKINS
County Agent

LAST CALL FOR PEANUT CONTRACTS

All persons who expect to sign a peanut contract must get it to the committeeman by March 9th as that is the official closing date. The contract pays $2.00 per acre in this section on all acres planted for commercial purposes and harvested in 1933 or 1934 average or 10 per cent less on either of the years. The $2.00 is paid on the acres allowed to be planted this year.

CORN-HOG CAMPAIGN CLOSES

There has been a slackening of corn and hog growers in Callahan the past year. This year found 117 corn-hog signers who expect to grow corn or hogs in 1935 whereas there were 204 contracts last year. If any bona-fide hog producer has not signed a contract and wishes to do so, it is necessary to attend to this by March 9th.

1935 RENTED ACRES

The most discussed phase of the cotton program that is being brought to the attention of the county agent is the disposition of the Rented Acres. It is therefore proper to discuss it in this column.

The government is paying a cash money rent on that portion of the land taken out of production and has ruled that it should be handled as they direct. There was a great amount of laxity allowed the drouth sections last year because of the short feed crop but no such laxity is contemplated for the coming year unless another drouth should develop.

The Rented Acres are not to be used in any case if the number of acres ordinarily set aside will produce a sufficient supply of feed. If the number of acres usually set aside for feed and food do not, on the average, supply enough for home needs, then the producer is entitled to use the rented acreage so long as it is for home consumption by the producer on his farm. In no instance is any of the produce to be sold, directly or indirectly. Neither are the Rented Acres to be used in place of other acres. That is, if the farmer sells feed from any of his holding he can not truthfully claim that he needs the rented acres for a supplement to his regular feed acres. The government has ruled that rented acre will be permitted to be planted if the committeeman is convinced that they are needed according to the above regulations.

The producer is not required to pay any rent on those acres neither has the landlord any claim to such proceeds as the contract states that it is for the producer for his use on that farm.

The government also wants the rented acres staked so that any person may know where they are at any time. These acres should be selected now and so staked off so as not to cause a shifting later should so other portion of the farm show up to a less advantage. These acres should be as good as any planted to cotton or peanuts.

The rented acres should not be planted to corn, maize, cotton, wheat, peanuts, hogari, or any grain sorghum. Sudan grass, peas, clovers, alfalfa, millet, oats, and soy beans are allowed on these acres. This is about all the crop so far that can be planted that does not violate the contract.

The government also looks with pleasure to the proposition of leaving out strips of land for terraces. These may be counted as the Rented Acres and permits a producer to work on them at his leisure time. This is a most acceptable use for those questionable acres.

Genuine love is the highest form of selfishness.

Invariably, false ideals send us on the hike for worthless ambition.

Eula News

Well, how is the Star force? We are all better out this way. We have had fine rains and the farmers have been very busy planting oats. We have a fine chance to make a good grain crop which is looking good. We sure need a good grain crop for most farmers are very short on feed. We all need two year's supply of feed stock of all kinds are going high, in fact too high to eat. One thing we have learned we can do with a lot this depression seems like a curse but it may be a blessing in disguise. It has taken the starch out of us all. It has harmed the fellow whom the dollar first did not get very far.

Now the drouth is broken and the depression seems to be gone. We have a good world after all to live in. Life is what we make it anyway so here's hoping we will make 1935 a Banner year.

Our commissioner, Borah Brame, is doing some real road building in Eula. He is doing a job that has been needed for the last thirty years.

We all feel grateful to him for what he is doing. There's nothing better than good roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Farrar have returned from Colo. and report a nice time. H. E. Jones, who has been sick is able to be up again.

We are glad to hear Clyde Johnson is still improving.

Met my good friend W. E. Melton of Coleman City. He tells me he is doing well in his new business over there. We are having what they call it up north, a dust storm but I call it a real sandstorm down in Texas. You know I don't like sandstorms but we have them just the same in the W. B.

I will come again when the dust isn't so bad.

Our services Sunday were good. Let everyone pray a dwork that each Sunday may get better.

Tuesday a large group of women from over the county met at the church for A Mission Study institute. Three women from Abilene, Mrs. Joe Burnam directed the meeting, Mrs. M. F. Richardson taught one class and Mrs. White taught another, both morning and afternoon was used for these studies and our women provided a nice lunch for the noon hour. The meeting was splendid and I am sure everyone not only enjoyed it but profited by it.

We want a full house next Sunday at both morning and night service. We have some important announcements to make and we want you there to get them.

Wednesday night of next week is the regular time to elect officers and teachers for the Sunday School and the whole church should be there to help do it. We hope to see you there.

Our Workers Conference will meet with the Seranton church next Tuesday and surely a large delegation will go from Baird, for we all know that Seranton is a mighty good place to go.

Because of the many meetings at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon I will not go to Midway, but will go the Third Sunday.

We expect to see our Methodist people at the Church services. We cordially invite others to worship and study with us.

NECESSARY SERVICE

Electricity has brought a new era of dependable service to West Texas in recent years. Twenty-four hours of the day, approximately 43,000 homes and places of business served by this Company in 160 towns and communities rely on this service in some way every minute of the day.

Its large variety of uses acclaim its acceptance as a necessary service. Homes employ it as a means of lighting, washing and ironing, refrigeration, cleaning, water heating, cooking, air conditioning; for the operation of the radio and many small appliances. The uses of electricity in industry are innumerable. Almost every task has in some way been lightened and more nearly perfected by this necessary service. It has truly served all the people in some way and has shared immeasurably in our progress.

The West Texas Utilities Company has provided this service practically uninterrupted and economically cheap. No greater words of praise could be spoken of this service than that our customers have become so accustomed to its reliability, until today it has become a commonplace item of the household and place of business.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

Supreme Court Saves the Day

Danger of Panic Averted by Gold Decision; Baby Bonds Grabbed Up

By EARL GODWIN
WASHINGTON.—The ship of state was in a frightful storm; the first mate concluded he needed more heavy ballast in the hold. So he took all the passengers' gold and locked it tight 'way down near the keel to keep the ship steady.

The passengers kicked; they went to the captain, who told them the first mate was right; that the gold belonged to the passengers, all right, but that the safety of the ship was more important than squabbles over who owns a little gold.

That's one way of describing the famous Supreme Court gold decision.

There had been so much publicity about the fact that possibly $1.63 would have to be paid out for every dollar of principal and interest on a hundred billion dollars' worth of bonds that there was danger of an unprecedented panic if the thing had gone against the New Deal.

But providentially we have a Supreme court so composed that a majority of them, five out of nine, have stepped up into a new era of liberalism where they see the destiny of the nation as being superior to hard and fast contracts which call for their pound of flesh.

Go back two years to the day Roosevelt came into office. Banks were tottering. Roosevelt ordered a bank holiday and there followed in quick succession moves which took all gold coin from circulation and made it illegal to have any gold. In this series of manipulations congress passed the law which was attacked in the gold cases in the Supreme court.

This act recognized the fact that all the gold coin is locked up in the Treasury and authorized the government to pay its obligations in the money then current (rather than in the gold coin stipulated in many bonds). It declared that all debts, public and private, regardless of whether they contained gold payment clauses, could be paid in the sort of money the government is issuing.

There were several people, though, who believed that a contract to pay in gold should be sustained; and they went to court with their complaint. When the suits got to the Supreme court the matter was important enough for Attorney General Cummings himself to handle. He put up a terrific plea to sustain the government; I've heard lawyers around here say he made a political stump speech, but actually he was arguing so high above the heads of the ordinary fellow that they didn't realize he was talking for a new era in human affairs. It is a New Deal in law. Yet the bondholders who brought suit would go to the extent of breaking the nation for a few cents on every dollar. It was a startling example of men who wanted their pound of flesh, come what may.

Cummings argued that the government had the right to keep the ship of state riding on an even keel by putting the gold in ballast. The fact that the Supreme court recognized it as within the power of this government to handle the money situation as it did shows that we have five supermen on the bench. The five who saved the day by this decision were Chief Justice Hughes, and Associate Justices Brandeis, Stone, Roberts and Cardozo, five liberals who have been upholding the New Deal philosophy.

PLENTY OF "LAZY MONEY"

There's enough "lazy money" in this country to run the government as far as its cash needs are concerned; and for that reason Henry L. Morgenthau, our secretary of the treasury, is putting out "baby bonds" and letting every one chip in with as little as $17.50. If you haven't heard about these bonds, ask the postmaster, as they will be sold in all first, second and third-class post offices and at all fourth-class post offices at county seats.

"Lazy money" is Henry Morgenthau's own term for the enormous savings deposits and idle cash reserves. For the first time, the administration asks people to save money. Up to this time the whole effort has been to get people to loosen up and spend. Evidently there has been enough of that; the administration has now definitely concluded that normal times are returning.

There has never been anything exactly like these bonds. They range in price from $17.50 to $750; they will run for ten years, at which time the $17.50 bonds will pay you $25 and the $750 bond will pay $1,000. There are several denominations in between these figures. All other government bonds have had coupons attached, representing interest to be collected at stated intervals, but the new bonds are presumably for people who are laying them away for ten years and who intend to hang on to them.

What splendid opportunities they present for such things as annuities, or educational funds! You can lay away $37.50 a month from now until 1945, and at the end of ten years these bonds will begin to mature at the rate of $50 each month. The bond you buy, say in April of this year, starts working as of April 1 and comes to its full maturity April 1, 1945. Here's the safest thing you can buy, I imagine, for a fund for something ten years off. The interest you earn on these bonds is figured here in the Treasury at 2.9 per cent, less than you can get somewhere else—but it's as safe as the Republic itself.

CHARGING THE BATTERY

Congress did a most important thing a few days ago when it extended the life of the Reconstruction Finance corporation two years and told it to lend another two billion dollars. This was just like charging the battery.

More than nine billion dollars has been loaned to American business by the R. F. C. since it was created in the Hoover administration and seven billions of that has been loaned in the New Deal. It was put out to closed banks, frozen mortgage concerns, busted cities that could not pay teachers' salaries, railroads and what not. It has loaned more than a billion dollars to receivers of closed banks; it has put more than a billion dollars into the capital of 7,000 banks; it has loaned more than a billion and a half to farmers through the Farm Credit administration. Through these operations cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco and many other farm products are now selling at living prices.

These operations are loans at interest, handled in a business-like way, and are being repaid to the government. Repayments, by the way, already total more than two and a half billion dollars. It is not money thrown away.

Had it not been for the RFC this country would have been as flat as a pancake. Remember the tattered state we were in when Roosevelt was inaugurated: The banks were closed, assets frozen, depositors yelling for money; building and loan associations were drooping and needed to be propped up; live stock was at its lowest ebb; corn was selling for ten cents a bushel, wheat at thirty-six, cotton at six cents a pound—and so on.

Old institutions were going on the rocks, strong leaders were being beaten down, credit was drying up.

It took heroic work on the part of the RFC to overcome that situation.

MONEY LEGISLATION

If you had an old time car that ran pretty well, but had an inefficient radiator with the gas line, so that the old bus would stop without the slightest warning, would you welcome a fellow who could make the gas and water flow constantly and without these interruptions? Chances are, that unless you have the Senator Carter Glass complex, your answer is "Yes."

That just about describes the thing this New Deal is trying to do with the banking system of the country with its proposed federal reserve changes. New Dealers want to radiate the money supply through the country. Somehow or other, Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, insists the present money system needs no improvement. And Carter is quite a power.

It's difficult to explain money legislation simply, but I got a clearer view from Marriner S. Eccles, the governor of the Federal Reserve system, than I ever had before and I'm going to try to pass it on to you.

They are trying to prevent recurring periods of tight money, tight bankers, hard times, etc., and I believe Eccles and his group have the answer. It will be thrashed out in congress soon; and will be difficult to follow, but the three main principles of the New Deal central control plan for the Federal Reserve system are about like this:

The bulk of our money supply, that keeps circulating through our business system like water through your radiator, is composed of the money in the banks; there is about $19,000,000,000, subject to check, in the commercial banks, out of a total pile of money of $24,000,000,000.

Now as variations of the supply of this money occur, business is affected. When there is an increase of money (good times, prosperity) business is stimulated. Bankers will lend you money, and everybody has jobs. When there is a decrease in the supply of money, banks and bankers get tight and tighter; business falls on hard times.

Now if you view this great stream of money as something like the circulation system of your body or of your car, you would realize it should have a central control of some sort. Experience has shown that when this money system tries to control itself there are all sorts of freak variations; money pours out and then disappears; there are wide fluctuations; and business is good one year and poor the next.

The New Deal wants a centralized control of this stream of money; some one in Washington to regulate the stream of money; to keep it from these wide fluctuations. . . . That's all there is to it.

I remember years ago when I was a cub reporter Carter Glass, then chairman of the banking and currency committee of the house, was a hero to me because he had the nerve to attack J. P. Morgan, the elder, who opposed the new idea of a federal reserve system, which was a part of the Woodrow Wilson program. Morgan came down here to Washington to prove that it was better for all concerned to give him the purse strings of the country. He had an idea that panics and hard times were unavoidable and that he was the fellow who should be given the power to dole out funds to closed banks. He induced Senator Elihu Root of New York to declare with dramatic forcefulness that if a federal reserve system was created, on the next day the country would see the greatest and most destructive panic of all times. . . . And yet they look on Root as a man of foresight.

Lesson for March 10

PETER PREACHES TO GENTILES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:1-11:18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Of a truth I perceive God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. Acts 10:34, 35.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Learns That God Loves Everybody.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Learns Something New.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Gospel for All.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Overcoming Racial and National Prejudices.

The missionary program of the church having broadened to include the Samaritans in Phillip's preaching in Samaria, we see in this lesson the program still widening and embracing the Gentiles. Through the conversion of Cornelius, the middle wall of partition was broken down (Eph. 2:14).

I. The Man Cornelius (10:1, 2).

1. His official position (v. 1). He was a centurion, a Roman officer over a company of one hundred soldiers.

2. His character (v. 2). a. "A devout man." b. A benevolent man. c. A praying man. d. Highly respected by his family.

The Lord chose Cornelius as the channel of the transition of the gospel to the Gentiles because of his character and position.

II. Supernatural Preparation for the Transition of the Gospel to the Gentiles (10:3-35).

In order to bring this about, observe:

1. Two visions were given.

a. The vision of Cornelius (vv. 3-8). While engaged in prayer, an angel of God instructed him to send to Joppa for Peter, who would tell him what to do. Cornelius sent at once for Peter.

b. The vision of Peter (vv. 9-16). While Peter was praying (v. 9) he saw a certain vessel containing clean and unclean animals let down from heaven, and heard the command, "Rise, Peter; kill, and eat." Peter protested that he had never eaten any unclean thing. God replied, "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common." This vessel, let down and taken back, indicated that both Jews and Gentiles were accepted on high.

2. A messenger sent from Cornelius (vv. 17-22). Peter was greatly perplexed over what he had seen, but not for long, for a messenger from Cornelius made inquiry at the gate for him. The Spirit informed Peter of the matter and bade him go, nothing doubting.

3. The meeting of Cornelius and Peter (vv. 23-33).

a. Peter took six witnesses along (v. 23 cf. 11:12). In a matter of so great importance he must have witnesses.

b. Cornelius waiting for Peter (v. 24) called together his kinsmen and near friends.

c. Cornelius, about to worship Peter (vv. 25, 26), was told by Peter that he himself was but a man.

d. The reciprocal explanation (vv. 27-33). Peter explained how God had taken from him his Jewish prejudices. Cornelius explained how God had instructed him to send for Peter.

III. Peter's Sermon (vv. 34-43).

1. The introduction (vv. 34, 35) showed that God is no respecter of persons (see Golden Text).

2. His discourse (vv. 36-43) touches briefly upon the mission of Jesus, showing that he was qualified for his work as a Mediator. He then exhibited the work of Christ.

a. In his life (vv. 36-39). He went about doing good, even casting out demons, as a proof of the fact that God was with him (v. 38).

b. In his death (v. 39). The just suffered for the unjust that he might bring us to God (I Pet. 3:18).

c. In his resurrection (vv. 40, 41). God raised him up the third day, showing openly that Christ was his Son (Rom. 1:4) and that his sacrificial work was satisfactory (Rom. 4:25). In this discourse Peter sets forth

(1) The basis of salvation—the sacrificial death of Christ (vv. 39, 40) (2) The scope of salvation—"whosoever" (v. 43). (3) The method of appropriating salvation—"believe on him" (v. 43).

IV. The New Pentecost (vv. 44-48).

As the gospel was entering upon its widest embrace the Holy Spirit came in new power.

V. Peter Vindicates His Ministry to the Gentiles (11:1-18).

Being called to account for visiting and eating with Gentiles Peter's defense took the form of logical argument, showing how God had set his seal on the work by the miraculous gift of the Spirit.

Religion of Love

Self-confidence is good, and one can do very little without it, but it is something that needs watching, in order that its tendrils do not overgrow the vital's and one of the things in life which are vital is love, and from love springs happiness.

Strong Appeal in Braided Rag Rug

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Braided rugs appeal to many rug makers because the work is simple and requires no tools. They, however, are not as durable as the crocheted rug, owing to the fact that the braided strands are sewed together, and for this reason we advise to sew with a strong wax thread.

The above "Pin Wheel" rug measures 25 inches and requires about 4 pounds of cotton rag rug material. The center section has a black background and the 3 section design is white. The outer circle and inner center are of hit-and-miss mixed colors.

Cut strips 1½ inches wide. Fold edges under and then fold again to make a strip about one-half inch wide. Use three strips in braiding.

Start in the center and sew 8 rows of braid around, keeping work flat. Start next row on opposite side of where the previous row ended. Work around, changing colors for 9 rows, as illustrated. To change color sew strips of new color desired to the ones in use. Start again at different place for 8 outside rows, then sew on the last row separately. This rug has 26 rows.

If you are interested in making rag rugs, send 15c to our Rag Department for book No. 25, which contains 26 rugs in braiding and crochet. Instructions are given with each rug, also directions for braiding and crocheting rugs and how to prepare your rags into strips to get the best results.

FITTING NO OBJECT

An old negro recently approached a relief worker and asked for clothing. He particularly wanted a pair of pants.

"What size do you wear?" he was asked.

"A 38."
"I'm afraid I don't have your size," she informed him. "The smallest I have is a size 59."

"Well, that's all right. You see, Miss, we ain't so much for fittin' as for hidin'."

Once Was Enough

Two women were waiting for a bus, which was nearly full when it came along.

"Room for one inside and one on top," said the conductor.

"But surely you wouldn't separate mother and daughter."

"I did once," replied the conductor, as he rang the bell, "but never again."—London Tit-Bits.

Natural Effect

The accused had just been convicted of bigamy, and the judge asked, "Have you anything to say?"

"No, not a word," was the sullen reply.

"It's hardly likely," mused the judge. "A man with two wives would never get a chance."—Stray Stories.

THE SWEET FLAVORED GUM

Belief in "Black Magic" Not Confined to Jungle

Horace in ancient Greece wrote entertainingly of two witches in the Esquiline cemetery.

Pliny in ancient Rome wrote that laws were enacted "against injury to crops by fascination."

There were the Dark ages and "Black Magic."

Shakespeare wrote of Macbeth learning his fate from witches.

Time moved on. A new world was found. Then came Salem. And pious New England witch hunters read in Exodus "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live," rolled up their sleeves and went to work.

The "enlightened centuries" with science and education came on. In the distant jungles voodoo drums beat and blood was offered in sacrifice. This, men said, happened only in distant places. Men were advancing, leaving behind old superstitions and tommyrot.

ri-

But from Pottsville, Pa., came a story of old beliefs lingering. It is a link in witchcraft, evil eyes and practices ordained by "the evil forces."

The story is this: Nineteen years ago, Susan Mumme told her husband she had a feeling he would not return from work. He never did. He was blown to bits in an explosion. The story grew into a superstition, and from that into a murder.

A "pumpkin ball"—used in shot-guns for killing deer—crashed through a window and killed sixty-four-year-old Susan Mumme. A twenty-four-year-old taxi driver, Albert Shinsky, told police "I feel like a reborn man because I've killed her. She had me hexed. She sent a black cat down from the skies."

Albert said a "pow-wow" doctor told him a chant which chased the cat away—the cat had been tearing at his side—but the "hex" lingered. So one night he took care of the "witch."

Mrs. Mumme had been ministering to a boarder when the shot crashed into the room, killing her. The boarder and Mrs. Mumme's daughter, Tuvella, cowered in a corner until daylight before calling police.

Thus in a manner of violence, indorsed through the ages, Shinsky disposed of "a witch." It has happened before in our "enlightened" day.

Drive through the hills of the "Pennsylvania Dutch" sections. One comes upon trim modern barns. But high on these barns are hung cabalistic, five-pointed stars surrounded by circles, swastikas and other mystic signs decreed to ward off evil.

"Of course we don't believe in such signs," the farmers will say with an embarrassed snicker. "They're against the evil eye. The painters thought they would look nice."

Nelson Rehmeyer of York, Pa., "a witch doctor," was slain by three youths seeking a lock of his hair to end a curse. Rehmeyer was accused of putting a spell on the Hess family.

It would appear that a strong current of witch fear flows through those hills. Esoteric mysticism, taught in the Middle Ages, has been handed down in old wives' tales. The tales and lore were transplanted to the York valley by the settlers who came in Revolutionary days.

Keys were hung on backs to stop nose bleed. Strings tied to the dead had their "powers" and hairs from the head of the witch were invaluable.

Witch doctors appeared to release those who were "hexed." The doctors worked without fee because there was a power and glory in it for them.

"The Long Lost Friend," a compendium of magic, is guarded still in many farmhouses. In the Pennsylvania hills you do not have to seek far for a witch doctor.

Mrs. Mumme's and Rehmeyer's deaths are not the only ones. Verma Delp, 21 years old, died at Allentown, Pa., of three poisons, given to her as a mystic potion, Irving Heagy of York was shot by his wife. A witch doctor had told her that he had put "the evil eye" on her. Those things came to public attention.

And if such old beliefs and practices still seem too remote to Detroiters to be of this age there was the unsolved murder in 1929 of Benny Evangelista, his wife and their four children in their home at 3557 St. Aubin avenue. His headless body was found in a chair of his office surrounded by the strange symbols of the cult he founded. Detectives, in their investigation, uncovered copies of "The Long Lost Friend" in several Detroit homes. They found Evangelista's own bible, "The Oldest History of the World Discovered by Occult Science," Michigan within modern times has had several cases of murders committed because the victim was accused of having "an evil eye," casting spells or weaving charms.

In Africa the tom-toms beat and the awful witch doctor rules the jungle tribe. In Haiti, in the dark of the moon, lambs and sometimes, it is said, humans are sacrificed in barbaric rites.

And in Pennsylvania, Michigan, and even closer, in Detroit, strange practices come to light. There persists a tie between the man, called civilized, and the one termed savage.—James S. Pooler, in the Detroit Free Press.

THEIR OWN FAULT?

There are men who seem to provoke the question, "How did you succeed in becoming profoundly homesick?" For it is manifest that much of their uncomeliness is their own doing.—Exchange.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

New Anesthetic

A new anesthetic which was discovered in Germany puts a patient into a condition resembling natural sleep within a quarter of a minute after being injected, according to Dr. Peter F. Hildebrand, a New York surgeon.

"The new anesthetic," says Doctor Hildebrand, "is painless, absolutely safe, is free from the mental and physical shocks of many drugs, and leaves the patient with no bad after effects. It has been successful beyond our highest hopes and it has turned out marvelously well in all the cases in which we used it. This anesthetic has been used in 17,000 cases in Germany with excellent results."

Support Your Home Bakery

The bakery business is rated among the ten largest in America. In employment it ranks seventh. The employees number around 200,000. This means 1,000,000 of our population are directly affected. The baking industry consumes about three-fourths of all the flour. It offers the farmers their greatest market for wheat.

The consumption of bakery products throughout the United States is perhaps not more than 50% of what it was two or three years ago. This is in view of the fact bakeries are producing the highest quality goods ever known to the trade.

The expense of operating a bakery is likely 50% more than it was 12 months ago. As a result of smaller consumption and higher expense statistics shown 47% of the bakeries throughout the land lost money during 1934.

By the unwarranted, uncontrolled and unnecessary competition, most of the bakery owners in Texas wonder how they are to succeed. The class of competition that is out to wreck never expects to live in your County but is willing to destroy those who do live here if you help them. You are helping them when you purchase their bread instead of ours.

EVERY BUSINESS IN THIS COUNTY SHOULD HAVE A GOOD EXCUSE FOR ASKING YOUR SUPPORT. WE OFFER OURS AND ASK YOUR CAREFUL CONSIDERATION.

I

By disinterested scientific search our bread and pastry scores with the best. It often shows to be of higher quality than that of larger bakeries. We give extra care to our workmanship. If our bread is not as good or better than others we know we can not sell it.

We are not just an ordinary bakery. We are small but that does not signify we do not know our business. It is acknowledged that our doughnuts are superior to any that were ever made in or near here. Our bread is carefully handled and made in the following varieties:

- REGULAR BUTEREG
- MIXED WHOLE WHEAT & WHITE FLOUR ROLLS
- PULLMAN
- 100% WHOLE WHEAT

This might be interesting news to you. So far as we know only one other bakery, (Eastland), in several Counties around here makes 100% Whole Wheat bread. This achievement bears us out when we say we are not just an ordinary bakery.

II

In 1934 we paid bills as follows:

All the other Bakeries of Bread made away from here will not spend this much in our County in 10 years.

ADVERTISING	$149.48
At lease $125.00 of it was spent in Callahan County.
WATER	$22.60
This went to the City of Baird
INCIDENTALS	$341.38
More than $300.00 of this was to various lines doing business in Callahan County.
COMMUNITY NATURAL GAS CO.	$401.90
Fuel supply.
WEST TEXAS UTILITIES CO.	$332.31
Light and Power.
CAR AND TRUCK EXPENSE	$992.07
More than $900.00 of this went to Filling Stations, Garages and their Mechanics in Callahan County.
RENT	$480.00
This was paid to Mr. Nitschke. No doubt he spent it all in Baird for taxes and to live on. He was your pioneer baker and has been your friend and neighbor for 33 years. He is now past 70 years of age. Why not help him receive an income from his property?

LABOR $2137.58
It is likely more than 90% of this was spent in Callahan County by those whom received it. Out of the above amount one of the Sons drew $21.94 and the other Son $353.44. No salary for Dad, if you please.

GROCERIES $606.48
More than $575.00 of this was spent with Callahan County Merchants and does not include any merchandise bought from them for use in the bakery.

MERCHANDISE
Speaking of this item. Looking over our books we find 4 articles bought from Callahan County Merchants that total $2610.01. They are:

LARD	$412.35
CELEPHONE BAGS	110.00
2425 LBS. SUGAR	128.44
FLOUR	1959.22

In addition to the above we bought many hundred dollars worth from Callahan County Merchants.

TAXES

We are called on to pay every kind of tax you can think of, including $1.38 on each barrel of flour we use. We use several hundred barrels per year.

GENERAL

We have a bakery in what you might call a one-bakery-town, that is, a community with only sufficient population to support one bakery.

We are confronted with the following kind of bread competition: One of the Grocery Stores in Baird ships all their bread from Dallas. In addition to this a bakery from Abilene and one from Cisco truck bread into Baird and other parts of Callahan County every day. Is it any wonder we urge you to look for our bread and give us your support?

We often hear it said there is not much out-of-town bread sold here anymore. Let us give you an example of how it affects us. Take the store that ships their bread from Dallas. Suppose they ship in 25 loaves per day. They have been doing so for three years. Suppose we earn 2 cents per loaf on our sales. It is easily figured they have cost us $540.00. They would take all the bread business if they could and we would have to leave town. We therefore hope you pass them up and go where you find our bread.

Now suppose the other two bakeries coming here sell 25 loaves each per day to all the other merchants and you in turn come along and buy it from them. This is another $1.00 per day difference to us, or $360.00 per year. Such items as these would enable us or any other small town bakery to add more modern machinery from time to time and thus be in position to serve you more efficiently.

TO CITIZENSHIP

This outline and appeal is not directed to Baird and its citizens alone, but it is time for everyone in the County to think about this matter, not only with reference to the bakery but toward all home owned and operated business. Of course we are particularly anxious to have you bear us in mind when you think of bread.

The bakery at Clyde recently closed. Only two bakeries now remain in the County. If Callahan County wants them to remain in business one thing is certain; YOU MUST NOT PURCHASE BREAD THAT IS MADE ALL THE WAY FROM ABILENE TO DALLAS. That will not get the job done.

We wish you would think this over. Then go to your grocery merchants at Putnam, Baird, Clyde, Eula, Dudley, Denton, Oplin and Rowden. Tell them you want your orders filled with our bread. Also discuss the situation with your neighbor. If they are not supporting us please urge them to do so.

WE THANK YOU IN ADVANCE
