Bobby Davis resigns as football coach and athletic director

Post, Garza County, Texas

To AAA job near Corpus

Bobby Davis, Post High School's popular athletic director and head football coach, has resigned here effective March 31 to accept a similar dual athletic assignment at Class AAA Calallen Independent School District on the north edge of Corpus Christi.

Davis tendered his letter of resignation to Supt. Bill Shiver Tuesday afternoon. Shiver immediately accepted the resignation.

aware that Davis had been invited to Calallen about three weeks ago while Davis was attending the Franka spring football clinic at San Antonio. Trustees had agreed to release Davis from his contract should he request it.

The new Calallen position is a coaching advancement for Davis who has been in the coaching ranks 11 years, the last five of them here in Post. It is expected that several members of his Post coaching staff will follow him to Calallen next fall but that others will choose to remain in

Tornado season reminder

From the Insurance Information Institute over the weekend came a big mailing on

Since 1916, 969 Texans have died in 4,204 Texas tornadoes with actually the worst decade being the 1920s when 239 persons died in 138 Texas tornadoes. The decade of the 1950s was the next worst with 208 deaths in 3,722 Texas tornadoes

Official tornadoes records were not kept until 1916 and efficient methods of reporting did not begin until about 1952, which may account for the sharp rise in the number of tornadoes recorded after that date. Last year Texans led the nation with 10 tornado deaths in 118 recorded twisters. All told the nation had 917 tornadoes resulting in 59

In the period, 1963 to 1973, Texas recorded tornadoes in every month of the year with the most in April (98), May (148), and June (135), which is called "tornado season" here in West

Only nine of the 50 states - Alaska, Arizona, Hawaii, Idaho, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Washington did not record a tornado last year.

The biggest Texas "killer tornado" struck Waco on May 11, 1953, with 114 killed and 597 injured and property damage estimated at

The most damaging tornado, in dollar losses, was the one which hammered Lubbock May 11, 1970, resulting in 26 deaths, 500 injuries and $135,000,000 in property damage.

The Texas Insurance Information Center lists some 56 "memorable Texas tornadoes" beginning with the one which whacked Cisco April 28, 1893, killing 23, injuring 93 and causing $400,000 in property damages.

National Weather Service statistics indicate that 95 percent of tornado-related fatalities are caused by only two percent of all fornadoes. These killer tornadoes, called "maxi-tornadoes" are large, fast moving funnel clouds which hug the ground with unusual persistence.

The greatest outbreak of tornadoes on roord was associated with Hurricane Beulah in September, 1967. When this giant hurricane biew through the Texas coastal area it spawned 115 tornadoes during a five-day period. Sixty-seven of these tornadoes occured on Sept. 20, a record number for a single day.

While tornadoes can occur in any month and at all hours of the day, they occur with greatest frequency during the late spring and early summer months between the hours of 3

In terms of intensity and area covered, the most violent Texas tornado on record swept White Deer, Glazier and Higgins in Texas and Woodward, Okla., on April 9, 1947. The huge vortes of this tornado was one and a half miles wide and 221 miles long.

The smallest Texas tornado on record was no more than six to eight feet in diameter and occurred in Austin May 17, 1965. We write all this to get your attention that the spring tornado season is at hand.

While Post has never experienced a tornado, it is smack in the middle of tornado alley and local folks hit the storm cellars several times a year.

The insurance folks remind you if anything does happen to get in touch with your insurance agent. But seriously, just as in the case of fire, you need a complete list of your personal property to file your accurate claim for loss

Safety rules for tornadoes are simple and have remained pretty much unchanged over the years. The key word is "Low." In homes and office buildings, the lowest floor is the safest. Go to the basement if there is one. If not a small room or closet in the central part of the structure is safest. Factories, auditorium and other buildings with wide, free-span roofs are not desirable as

Most deaths associated with a tornado are caused by flying debris and most injuries are due to being struck in the head or chest. For this reason, no matter where shelter is taken protect your head and chest.

Automobiles and mobile homes are dangerous places to be during any strong winds, but especially during a tornado. Both should be abandoned in favor of more secure shelters. In open country, when escape seems impossible, get out of the car and run toward the approaching storm. Then lie, face down in a ditch or the nearest hollow and cover your head and neck with your arms.

As for the local tornado plan, remember Post has a tornado alert via wailing siren and also a "take cover" signal. The "take cover" signal means a tornado has been sighted in the

Loopholes

A loophole in the sales and use tax law is costing Texas cities $16 million a year, the comptroller's office told a House subcommittee.

The loss is due to "direct pay" permits available to about 200 businesses which purchase $200,000 or more worth of items for their own purposes annually and pay taxes directly to the state.

Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown said he also believes the state is losing between $15 million and $200 million a year in taxes on cigarettes coming across the Mexico-Texas border

If your decorative container doesn't have a drainage hole, there are three basic things you can to. First, simply insert the plant, pot and all, into your lovely container, then cover the pot with moss, bark or pebbles, to camouflage it.

The second technique also involves putting the pot inside the decorative container but this time. you fill it with a loose medium like perlite or vermiculite to retain moisture. Adding a little charcoal will help keep the water smelling sweet. And, once again, appropriate coverings will hide the

With the third method, you plant the plant alone in the new container. But, since there is no drainage hole, you must also place fine gravel on the bottom to catch the drainage. In addition, you can insert a plastic tube, with dipstick into the soil, to check for excess water; this way you won't give your new decorative object too much.

It's as easy as that. Instead of wasting those interesting "antiques" hidden away in the corners of your home, make them the talk of the neighborhood - and win praise for your marvelous creativity

LUBBOCK - The Federal estate tax, sometimes aptly referred to as a death tax, has become a "death-dealing" tax when applied to family farm enterprises.

This is what W. B. Criswell of Idalou, President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, told members of the House Ways and Means Committee March 15 in Washington

Criswell appeared before the Committee in support of legislation to increase the Federal estate tax exemption and provide for basing the evaluation of farm and ranch land for tax purposes on its ability to produce income from agricult ural commodities

The current Internal Revenue Service code exempts $60,000 from estate taxes and evaluates land and other assets at market price. A bill introduced by Congressman Omar Burleson of Anson would raise the exemption to $200,000 and permit the value of farm, ranch and wooded lands to be determined by its value for production. The Ways and Means Committee began hearings March 15 on Burleson's measure and other proposed tax changes, including the Administration's proposal that estate taxes be deferred for a period of time and then be paid on an installment plan.

Criswell's testimony for PCG endorsed concepts expressed in the Burleson bill. The federal estate tax has become so oppressive. Criswell stated, that heirs to farmland are more and more often forced to sell their land to meet the tax collector's demand. Thus the death of a farm family head is more and more often followed closely by the death of the farming enterprise itself, he

The PCG President supplied the Committee with a typical example of a farming operation on the Texas High Plains. He assumed a married couple with community ownership of 960 acres valued at $600 per acre. On the death of either husband or wife, the Federal estate tax liability would be $39,190, the example showed, and would amount to another $131,908 upon death of the surviving spouse. The total tax of $191,008, Criswell pointed out, would be over one-third the original $576,000 value of the estate.

Noting first that land value alone had been used in the example with no allowance for the value of improvements or farm equipment. Criswell pointed out that, assuming a six percent return on land value, it would take the heirs to such an estate over five years to pay estate taxes

When the sale of a farm estate is forced by Federal taxes, the PCG statement contended, the buyer is almost invariably an already large landholder or a corporation

Scholarships bids sought in journalism

SNYDER - Applications are now being accepted for scholar-ships and staff positions in journalism at Western Texas College for the 1976-77 academic year, according to Mike Mc-Bride, publications advisor,

Any student interested in any phase of newspaper and magazine work, whether experienced or not, is welcome to apply," McBride said. "Only requirement to hold a scholarship is be enrolled in journalism and carry out a special responsibility in the publications department."

Scholarships for editors of WTC publications are approximately $300-400. These positions may be filled either on a semester or academic year her. What better place to keep your pet then next to your heart along with the locket containing a picture of your sweetheart.

Mrs. Linda Linn, English IV teacher at PHS brought her son Mark to the fourth period senior English class. She brought him while she made arrangements for a substitute teacher to take her place while she took him to the doctor. I hope she didn't have too much trouble with him being scared of taking shots, what with people like Bruce Sanderson explaining to her son that the nurse only uses two foot long needles. Bruce also gave Mark the bit of encouragement by saying that if he could live through the shot the doctor would proclaim him well. Bruce, every mother needs an informative person like you

As It Looks From Here

Serving on the joint atomic energy committee in the Congress is Mike McCormack of the State of Washington, the only nuclear scientist in the Congress, who had this to say, 'No member of the public has ever been harmed by radiation from a licensed nuclear power plant." He further said, "although accidents are possible, the probability of a serious accident threatening any human being is so small that society can easily afford to live with this risk." No one can say with absolute certainty that no danger exists from exposure to radiation brought about by some possible accident, but 47 American scientists and engineers conducting a two-year study for the Atomic Energy Commission conclude, "The odds against an American dying from a nuclear power accident are 300 million to one.

At a time when billions of dollars are being spent on energy research and, particularly, nuclear power, a campaign is being waged across the Nation to scare the public into demanding that existing nuclear power plants be shut down and that new plants be banned. At this time, there are nine plants which could be producing electricity but are not in operation because environmentalists and their supporters are blocking them with court suits brought in a number of places and the end is not near.

One must wonder how the courts could resolve such a highly technical argument. Even more strange is a vote in California in June to determine whether or not the building of nuclear power plants should be resisted. That decision will set a precedent for the nation. We must also wonder how the Governing Board of the National Council of Churches, meeting in Atlanta, Georgia, could reach an overwhelming decision to support a moratorium on development of plutonium as an energy source. Common Sense suggests that the opinion of Dr. Edward Teller, recognized as the foremost nuclear physicist, might be more dependable. Dr. Teller says that the environmentalists are waging an hysterical scare campaign against the use of nuclear power. He relates this attitude to the memory of Hiroshima and the looming mushroom cloud. He says that a nuclear reactor can not explode "unless the laws of physics are repealed.

This country is importing more oil than it did before the Arab oil embargo. At the same time environmentalist groups are opposing the development of more coal mines. Saving 400 million dollars worth of cotton has been the result of a special program on the Texas Plains. For nearly 12 years the High Plains Boll Weevil Control Program has worked to promote mass spraying of weevil-infested crop areas. Estimating the 400 million dollar saving were members of the Entomology department at Texas A&M. In making the estimate they took into consideration re-ductions in quality losses, increases in yield and lowered increases in yield and lowered control costs. Through last year, total cost of the program was estimated at 12 million dollars. Funds for the spraying (which involved the eastern edge of the cotton area) have been provided by cotton producers, the United States Department of Agriculture and the Texas Department of Agriculture and the department of Agriculture. One of the outstanding things about the program has been the fact that all producer funding has been collected on a voluntary basis.

sound overall program, and work cooperatively toward fixed goals.

He is a straight talker, and a straight shooter with boys, coaches, teachers, fans and opponents. His influence has reached beyond our school athletic department. He has served as a director of our Chamber of Commerce and is an active Post Rotarian. He is well respected in his profession and has been selected by his fellow coaches to serve on the board of the Texas coaches association. He also has been quite active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

-0-To best state his philosophy, as we have observed his "living" of it, Bobby Davis likes to win, but not at any price. The game on the field isn't everything to him. He is always keeping at least one eye on the future of "the program" and of the boys under his direction.

He'll be gone for two weeks by the time the all-sports banquet rolls around on Saturday night, April 17, but we hope he can make it back to West Texas for that shindig We know the fans will want to say goodbye that night in some fitting fashion. -0-

Our slogan for a long time to our merchants has been: "Dispatch advertising doesn't cost, it pays." A good example of that has occurred this past

-0-Harold Lucas got a long distance call from western Kansas Monday from a farmer there who had seen Harold's Dispatch ad of last week for a used pickup. Ron Jantz, that was the farmer's name, who lives in Copeland, Kans., explained that he had "found" the paper in a feedlot up there, had become interested in the pickup and was calling to inquire about it.

-0-On Tuesday morning, he called again. Keep that pickup, he told Harold. He and his wife drove down that day some 500 miles or so - and bought it.

-0-It just goes to show if you advertise in The Dispatch you never know where your next customers will be coming from. We have Dispatch subscribers in just about all 50 states. And even abandoned copies are read by total strangers.

-0-A Santa Fe passenger train went through Post early Tuesday morning heading in the direction of Lubbock. For those who saw it and wonder if passenger service is coming report that the train was the special train of John S. Reed. Santa Fe railroad president. He had a bunch of railroad bigwigs abourd inspecting track and all that sort of thing. But seeing a passenger train here again was unusual.

Dr. Harris tells parents of 'exciting new things'

Schools was held Thursday night with the staff and teachers hosting a tour of the schools. Teachers were available to visit with parents and interested patrons and were very willing to show the new facilities of the schools that have been added recently.

New equipment has been added in every school building and needs to be seen by parents to be appreciated. Each parent should take advantage of every opportunity to visit the schools and get acquainted with the teachers and the new techniques in teaching.

Dr. Ben Harris, professor of education and administration at the University of Texas and project director of the Post schools' overall program, gave a report to parents on progress made here in the Post schools.

Dr. Harris was asked to share some ideas and information with parents about quality education and some of the recent developments made here in the Post schools. Dr. Harris has been closely involved with the teachers, principals and students on a fairly regular basis over the past four years, therefore was very qualified to report on the progress of the Post schools.

"A multi-faceted project for improving teaching and learning has been in progress here for nearly four years. Under the general theme of individualizing instruction, several exciting things have been happening, said Dr. Harris. "Improving education is a never ending task. There is so much to be done, changing events continually proffer new problems."

Some of the goals that have been set include development of improved packets; development of procedures in non-packet gram and a diagnostic system for more carefully determining special needs of every student.

Any interested parent can make arrangements during school to observe any of the activities that involve the new teaching techniques. All it involves is a simple telephone call to the administration to make arrangements for the visit. It is not necessary to wait for the yearly open house that

A RECORD AUCTION

It is difficult to say enough for the excellent support given by community and area business, farm and ranching interest to the Garza County Junior Livestock Auction Saturday.

A record $24,005 was bid in premiums to Garza 4-H and FFA youngsters. That is real, solid encouragement. This is the 11th show and a new record in total premiums has been set almost every year.

The bank purchased three other animals besides sharing the winning bid on the Grand Champion steer with Post-Montgomery.

We can assure the future of our community and area by such all-out support of our young people who are our leaders of tomorrow.

cases, but you can't take chances with rabies

The chances of a human surviving a case of rables is virtually nil. A six-year-old Ohio boy was the first recorded case of a human surviving the dreaded "mad dog" disease, according to the National Center for Disease Control. Another survivor has been reported since then, in Argentina. Rabies virus attacks the nervous system, the heart, the lungs, the brain and, "you can die from any one of a half-dozen different problems," said a the information station. Until development is completed, public use facilities and staffing at Guadalupe Mountains are extremely limited and visitors should be prepared to "rough it."

That shouldn't keep you from having a good time, however, expecially if you love the out-of-doors. There's plenty of it in the Guadalupe Mountains.

The Guadalupes stand like an island in a desert. At first glance they look like many other ranges, but up close they reef complex on record. The mountain range resembles a giant wedge or "V" with El Capitan, a 2,000-foot sheer cliff at the point of the "V" in Texas and the arms extending to the northeast and northwest into New Mexico.

Sheltered within the mountains and canyons is a unique remnant of forest plants and animals which have struggled for survival since the end of the ice ages about 10,000 years ago. In the park you can explore desert lowlands and canyons where the elevation is 3,650 feet to forested mountains and rugged peaks, such as Guadalupe Peak, at 8,751 feet the highest point in Texas.

A rare mixture of life occurs in the park with species from the Rocky Mountains reaching their southern and eastern limit and species from Mexico at the northern extent of their range.

Plants and animals from the plains also reach into the Guadalupes.

Vegetation typical of the southwestern deserts, such as creosotebush, lechuguilla, yucca and sotol is found at the lower elevations while the high country contains ponderosa pine, Douglas fir and aspen.

Animals most commonly seen include elk, mule deer, wild turkey, raccoon, porcupine, kit and gray foxes, coyote and McKittrick Canyon, noted for its scenery and scientific importance, is the most popular spot in the Guadalupes and open for day-use foot travel on a limited basis.

Revival will begin Sunday

Revival services have been scheduled at the Trinity Baptist Church next week, Sunday, March 21 through March 28. The evangelist will be Rev. Clifton Igo, pastor of the University Baptist Church in Lubbock.

The evangelistic singer will be Rev. Weldon R. Drake from Wolfforth.

The schedule of the services will be as follows: Monday through Saturday, nightly services at 7:30 p. m., preceded by prayer service and choir practice at 7:00 p. m. The Sunday schedule of services will be the regular Sunday schedule of morning service at 11 a. m. and evening service at 7:00 p. m. A nursery will be provided for each service. Gene Prevo is pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church.

The public is cordially invited to each service.

Since the Agricultural Extension Service. crop is tolerant to many of the vagaries of weather, such as high wind and hail, it again makes it attractive to the High

"The simple fact that sunflowers are new to Texas brings on a number of production problems that have to be iroped out," says Bremer. "Yields last year ranged from 150 to 3,000 pounds per acre, so this shows that there definitely are problems. Many questions hinge around varieties, planting rates, fertility levels, insect, disease and weed control, and harvesting techniques." Variety problems have cropped up because planting seed had to be imported from foreign countries due to the expanded acreage last year. Many of these hybrids required crossfertilization to produce a normal seed. However, the agronomist points out that the cross-fertilization problem has generally been eliminated for 1976 since ample supplies of domestic planting seed are available

In an effort to control the sunflower moth, the crop's most serious pest, producers have destroyed such beneficial insects as honeybees which are important in the pollination

Disease control is also critical to producing a top quality sunflower crop. Powdery mildew and heat rot caused severe yield losses in many areas of Texas last year, notes Bremer.

Regarding harvesting, the major problem lies in getting the crop ready for combining Sunflowers must be desiccated and only paraquat is currently labeled for use. Use of this chemical without careful attention to drift has caused severe damage to cotton and sorghum.

"As Texas producers look to the future with regard to sunflowers, much will hinge on market conditions." contends Bremer. "Work is under way to find new uses for both sunflower seeds and stalks, and breakthroughs in this area would brighten the outlook for this crop."

HOSPITALITY CITED

The hospitality afforded a host of leaders from area Presbyterian Churches by the First Presbyterian Church of Post this past Saturday was exemplary!

The host pastor Tom Pass, a recent arrival in our midst and a credit to both Garza County and our Presbytery, provided an opening devotional message that pointed out attention to God while lifting up the history and beauty of this particular area of God's good creation. It deserves reprinting.

In particular we were grateful to have at each place for the wonderful luncheon served by the ladies of the church a copy of the Scenic Post Texas folder with photographs and the place mat with Garza County Historical Markers. Several who attended the sessions took afternoon to visit some of the important spots in your as borhood.
