Big oil valuation jump holds school tax boost to 10 cents

Budget up 7 per cent

Post school trustees Monday night tentatively adopted a $1,469,952.55 budget for the district's 1975-76 school year. This would require a 10 cent tax boost to a $1.23 rate per $100 taxable valuation.

This is an increase of slightly less than seven per cent over the current 1974-75 budget of $1,377,519.32.

Of the $92,433 increase, approximately half or more will go for teacher salary increases through experience increments, Supt. Bill Shiver told the trustees.

The budget approval was tentative pending outcome of the current Texas Legislative session in Austin which has two weeks to run and only this week began floor consideration in the house of a new public school financing bill.

The state legislative proposal is sure to include a big teacher salary boost at the state level, and well may change the entire formula on which state aid to various school districts is computed.

Action came on the budget early this year so that the school district would have a budget ready for the board of equalization hearing which was scheduled for yesterday morning, and to give school administrators time to implement certain budget items before the opening of the fall term.

The school district's tax roll in advance of the equalization session with oil company representatives, was estimated at $90,429,585.

The roll is figured at 75 per cent of real or 100 per cent value.

This is an increase of $11,200,000 in taxable property valuations for the oil industry over 1974.

Supt. Shiver told trustees Monday night the overall budget increase, besides the increase in teacher salaries, also includes the addition of a tennis coach at $10,000 and a junior high librarian at $8,000 to the faculty.

The tennis coach, yet to be selected by Athletic Director Bobby Davis, was requested by school trustees at their April session in an effort to boost

Post's interest in the spring sport now that four tennis courts, soon to be lighted, are available for student practice and play here.

Shiver said other budget increases came in providing new equipment for the high school learning center.

The superintendent said that expenditures from the general fund will total an estimated $1,331,959.55, including $99,582.30 for subsidies to the lunchroom and athletic fund, as compared to $1,232,016.84 in general fund expenditures budgeted for the current school year with subsidies of only $60,776.24 for the lunchroom and athletic fund.

Budgeted for the interest and sinking fund for payment of principal and interest on the school district's bonded debt is $76,750, as compared to $79,150 for this year.

The lunchroom is budgeted for $55,631.75, counting a $13,512.75 subsidy from the general fund, as compared to $51,052.72 for this year with a (See School Board, Page 12)

City's 27 employees voted salary hikes in new budget

Raises for all 27 city employees, totaling between $10,000 and $21,000 — depending on whose pencil or pocket calculator one uses — were voted by the city council at a special budget session Tuesday night to become effective with the new budget year July 1.

The new city budget, even with the pay boosts, calls for only approximately the same total general fund expenditures as for the current year, but the council figures a probable boost is coming for the taxpayers.

Before adjourning and after adopting the new budget, the council figured the city tax rate would remain the same at $1.25 but city taxable property valuations would have to go back up five per cent to 35 per cent of real or true value.

Last year the taxable property valuation was dropped to 30 per cent from the 35 per cent of the year before.

The Dispatch figured the pay raises Wednesday morning at around $15,000, but according to council computations Tuesday night they were in the neighborhood of $20,000 to $21,000.

While everybody got a raise, some got more than others. This was because individual boosts were given city hall and supervisory personnel and they varied in an effort to reflect the first adjustment in some years of pay scales for individual positions. These increases varied from eight to 12 per cent.

The 12 city employees on hourly rates in the street and sanitation departments were boosted 21 cents an hour from $2.39 to $2.60 an hour.

Figuring an average of seven hours of overtime weekly, this boosted their salaries from $119.96 a week to $131.30.

Police officers got a $30 monthly pay boost which would make the monthly salary of a qualified officer, counting a $20 clothing allowance, $600.

Individual salary adjustments were made to City Manager Pete Maddox, City Secretary Wanda Wilkerson, Jerry Hester and Wynonne Kennedy in city hall, supervisory personnel Mike Sanchez, James Wise and Malachi Mitchell, Librarian Pee Wee Pierce and the park maintenance man.

The council completed action on its budget last week except for the decision on pay raises for employees.

Last year, city employees got an across the board pay increase.

The need for more tax income next year comes from the fact that the city used some of its various reserve funds to meet current annual expenses and (See City Council, Page 12)

burg file is used here solve $100 burglary

Police used their "burg" file to solve a $100 local burglary last week.

At 10:30 p.m. last Wednesday night a burglar broke into the Ball's Body Shop at 114 Avenue I where he burglarized the shop. The burglar was gained through a window and ran across the street. Stolen was amount of loose change in excess of $100, Chief Trulove told The Dispatch.

Two officers checked two businesses which are open at the clock, they found that the firms had cashed a amount of change that night for a Mexican male.

Two attendants at the all-night business identified Pesko Romero of 513 South Avenue H from police photographs as the man who had brought in the change.

Romero was then arrested last Thursday night at a residence on West Fifth street, was identified in person by the two attendants and then gave police a written statement admitting his participation in the body shop burglary.

Bond has been set at $5,000 but Romero is still in city jail here.

More 'planting moisture' needed for cotton crop

Several nights of light and showers over Garza County have not provided enough "planting moisture" to the 1975 cotton crop, city Agent Syd Conner said Friday afternoon.

Conner said a total of "nearly an inch" which has fallen west of here since Friday night of the week is the most moisture in the period Friday through Monday nights had three light showers, totaling only .70 of an inch.

The official measurement here was .27 of an inch Friday night, .36 of an inch Saturday night, and .07 of an inch Monday night with only a sprinkle Sunday night.

The county agent said there has been some irrigated acreage planted in the county, but no dryland acreage to date.

"We're not hurting yet," Conner told The Dispatch. "But we should be planting within the next week if we can."

The county agent estimated Garza may again plant up to 47,000 acres to cotton this year, about the same acreage it did for its all-time record crop of 1973.

He pointed out with feed prices having started to drop, he anticipates most farmers will plant about as much cotton as before.

The 6,000 acres contracted this year for sunflowers in the county already have been planted and some of the sunflowers are now up six inches. Conner said the sunflowers were planted in mid-April.

With plenty of good deep moisture from rains last fall, the area is expected to have a good chance for a cotton crop, if farmers can just get enough top moisture now to plant.

Services Tuesday C. L. Pruitt

Funeral services for Charles Pruitt, a Post resident for many years, were held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Church of the Resurrection with the Rev. Phillip Williams officiating.

Mr. Pruitt died Sunday morning at 9:30 a. m. in the Memorial Hospital following a brief illness.

Mr. Pruitt was married to Marietta Pruitt in April, 1945 in Post. He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Dina Davis; a son, Mr. Earl Roemer; a daughter, Mrs. Anita Tidwell and Mrs. Betty Palmer, all of Post; a daughter, Mrs. Mattie Oney; a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Robinson and Mrs. Mary Wilson all of Longview; a son, Mr. James grandchild.

Survivors were Earl Roemer, Dewitt Taylor, Pete Pruitt, Mike Sanchez, R. B. Pruitt and Boy Hart.

Man caught here stolen car

Police Tuesday afternoon arrested a 46-year-old Liberal, Tex., man who was driving a stolen Buick car which had been reported to Howard County as a stolen car and had been seen in Liberal.

Police Chief Jim Trulove said the stolen items were found in the car of a 18-year-old local juvenile.

The youth told officers in the presence of his father that he had purchased the stolen property for $45 from a Mexican male.

Trulove said he expects charges to be filed shortly in the case.

Six stop signs are pushed over

Six stop signs were pushed over by a car or pickup here sometime Saturday night, police report.

Tire tracks indicate the vehicle was driven up into the parks and literally pushed the metal stop sign poles out of the ground.

Last summer young vandals were dragging out the stop signs with chains hooked to cars.

Police Chief Jim Trulove told The Dispatch the police were "working on the case."

Recreation program for youth to be scaled down

Another summer recreation program is planned for Post and Garza youngsters, to start in early June, but it will be a scaled down version because of a big cut in city funds for the joint city-county project.

Joe Giddens, who has operated the program here for several years with Judy Norman as his assistant and young people for class instructors, told The Dispatch Tuesday afternoon that "we'll trim our program to the few recreation fields the youngsters like best."

This year Giddens will have only $2,250 to operate his six weeks program. Last year he had exactly twice that amount, or $4,500.

The city reduced its contribution for the program from $2,750 to $500 for this year. The county continued its $1,750 contribution.

Giddens, who also appeared before the city council Tuesday night, to explain the 1974 program results and talk of his 1975 program, said probably the program this year will be confined to tumbling and trampoline, track for both boys and girls and swimming.

Last year the program offered the biggest variety of recreation ever here, including (See Recreation, Page 12)

Picnic given up for March of Dimes gift

Mrs. Judy Houston's fourth grade class in the Elementary School received a certificate of appreciation and letter this week from the March of Dimes expressing its appreciation for the class giving up their end of school picnic money and donating it to the March of Dimes.

The class had been saving their money all through the school year for the party and decided instead to donate the $8 to the cause.

Close City wins district

The Close City Community was notified recently that they were chosen district winners in the Texas Community Improvement Contest, sponsored jointly by the Texas Agricultural Service and Utility Companies of Texas. This is the eleventh year that the Close City Community has entered competition in District 3 and they have placed high in the scoring for most of these years. They won second place last year.

Tuesday morning at 10 a. m. in the center, judges from the sponsoring agents were gathered for a tour to judge the community on an area level and the community will be notified in about a week of their standing in this part of the judging.

Judges here Tuesday were: Eleanor Harvey, County Extension Agent, Gaines Co., Seminole; Curley Hays, Head of the Department of Public Relations of the West Texas Utility Co., Abilene; Jim Price, County Agent from Jack Co., Jackboro and Doyle Moore, Consultant in the Area Development Department of Southwestern Public Service Co., of Amarillo.

Over $200,000 loss in Dalby home fire

An electric short in a kitchen wall, and the failure of the breaker switch to function, set off a fire in the Cross H Ranch home of County Judge and Mrs. Giles W. Dalby early last Thursday morning which caused an estimated $200,000 to $250,000 damages to home and contents.

The Dalbys credit the alert action of their five-year-old German Shepherd, Jackie, with probably saving their lives and those of their two children.

The pet awakened Mrs. Dalby by trying to pull her out of bed with one of her arms in his mouth.

When Mrs. Dalby awakened her husband and he turned on the bedroom light, the room was so full of smoke they couldn't see the opposite wall.

The Dalbys ran out of the bedroom and around the house to the living room where their children, Charlie, 10, and Giles Jr., 8 had decided to sleep that night in sleeping bags on the living room floor.

After getting his family safely outside the blazing stone house Judge Dalby ran back inside to phone in the fire alarm — and to get a pair of pants.

Judge Dalby told The Dispatch it was hard to believe that at 12:30 a. m. in the morning the Post Volunteer Fire Department had answered the call and driven seven miles east of Post to the ranch, located off US-380, in "just ten minutes."

One of the firemen threw Dalby a pair of boots as he was running around barefoot.

The actual flames were confined to the kitchen, den, dining room areas and in the ceiling, but the intense heat blistered all the walls inside the house and smoke damage made the loss of the family's clothing, furniture, art, and accumulation of 23 years of married life.

"Just about everything we had in the house was lost except for some dishes," Judge Dalby told The Dispatch.

Losses included some $50,000 worth of art, most of it cowboy and western art.

Judge Dalby said the losses are only partially covered by insurance.

News from the local budget front is encouraging. Despite the inflationary pressures of the last year, both the school district and city are holding the cost line reasonably well.

Both city and school have granted some salary increases but the teachers are still waiting final news from Austin on legislative action still to come on their state pay increases.

We were over talking to Pritchard and Abbott, the tax evaluation engineers Wednesday morning, as board of equalization hearings got under way. They report a hefty boost in oil valuations in the school district, due to 70 new wells within the school district and price increases in the oil market.

The city's taxable property valuations will get an additional half million dollar boost from oil.

Nothing like moving into a "new house." Chamber Secretary Joy Greer happily reports the Post Chamber of Commerce office has completed its move into larger and remodeled quarters in the former police building behind city hall on Broadway.

We've been too busy this week to stop in and see the improvements — what with a big Cotton Week paper — but it's a great Chamber location right on that US-84 highway, and US-380 too.

Speaking of cotton week, most Garza farmers are waiting patiently for a planting rain — and it better come soon. Maybe you fellows had better push those First National Bank folks to get a good "rain ad" in The Dispatch.

Good news from SPAG

Mayor Giles McCrary told the city council Tuesday night that South Plains Association of Government (SPAG) directors that same day had approved the airport improvement project here and the re-submitted youth center-community center project.

SPAG approval is required of all such projects for consideration of federal funding.

McCrary, who is a director of SPAG and spent the day at the meeting, also reported the 15-county SPAG region has been given $900,000 for a summer youth employment program which will provide twice or more number of jobs as were available under federal funding here last year.

Sites, questionnaires sought for housing loan

The Chamber of Commerce housing committee's plans for its FHA finance rental housing project is moving rapidly, Chairman J. B. Polts reports, but more rental families are needed to fill out housing survey questionnaires and site locations for the proposed five duplexes are still to be found.

The Dispatch on page 5 of today's paper is printing the housing survey questionnaire. People, especially those who might be interested in renting one of the duplexes, are requested to fill it out and mail or take it to the Chamber of Commerce office, now located behind city hall on Broadway in the old police building.

A number of questionnaires have been filled out, but many more are needed.

James Mitchell, who heads the site sub-committee, is asking for persons who have housing locations in Post to sell to contact Robert Cox, Glen Barley or himself. Location of such property and a firm price is sought for committee consideration.

The committee was turned down Monday night in its efforts to purchase a site location from the school district (See Questionnaire, Page 12)

What's ahead in school finance

The Texas Legislature at last this week gets down to one of the key issues of this Austin session — writing a new public school finance law.

Most Texas citizens can't understand why their law-making body puts off all its key decisions for its stretch run to adjournment, but with time — or rather the lack of it — an important bargaining tool, compromise is easier down the stretch when it all boils down to the "take this or nothing" philosophy.

Of course, this approach doesn't always work. It failed last year at the Texas constitutional convention (only the legislature was involved) and with obvious embarrassment the legislature corrected that mistake much earlier this time around to give voters a November decision on six new constitutional articles.

Compromise will be the key word in this new public school financing law. Nobody is going to be too happy with the result and it will be only a step in a new financing direction.

At least that's what we've been hearing out of Austin.

Governor Dolph Briscoe in one way is going to be a big loser, but in another way he will be a big winner too.

Teachers will get only part of their pay-raise loaf, but it is doubtful if the realistic in their ranks ever figured to attain the summit of a $10,000 starting teacher's salary in 1975.

The only questionmark right now are how will the final compromise affect the school districts.

With the house beginning debate on the bill Tuesday, after it pushed out of committee in unsatisfactory form just to get it to the house floor for "writing" by the entire house, political observers figure it may go something like this.

The negotiators on the bill are scaling down the starting teacher salary from $10,000 to $7,500 to $8,000 a year, up from $6,600 currently.

This can be done, many believe, without new state taxes. That is the point Governor Briscoe stands to win. The billion dollar Texas tax surplus at the beginning of the session has now been reduced to between $500,000,000 and $800,000,000 which is expected to be available for teacher salary increases and still hold the tax line that Briscoe has pledged.

There isn't enough time left now to develop a new tax law too.

There have been some nine public school financing plans submitted for consideration. The governor's with a new weighted pupil approach got most of the advance publicity along with the demands of the Texas State Teachers Association.

The governor's plan now appears lost because it would force up school taxes for too many districts. The governor's plan would require new tax money, but it would not all be state tax money with much of it tax money at the school district level.

When school districts which would have to raise taxes found out how big the tax bill would be, the pressure went on the legislature not to let the governor's bill through.

The Post district would have been one of those who would have profited under the governor's plan — at least as we understand it. In a letter to The Dispatch this week over Governor Briscoe's signature, the Post district's current state aid of $136,000 would have been increased to $627,000 when fully implemented (two or three years.)

But for a lot of districts the doubling was the other way around. School district taxes would double instead of the state aid under the governor's formula.

It now appears that the legislature will implement Governor Briscoe's weighted pupil approach only to the extent of a few districts to study how it works in practice with the idea that it might have another chance in two years if the test run was satisfactory.

How successful any compromise plan will be to meeting federal court requirements for equal educational opportunities throughout the state remains to be seen. And what the bill will do to the school districts remains a question, though obviously it won't be as high in most cases as the governor's bill.

We don't hear much about it out here, but the cities are charging that they are being "discriminated against" in the matter of state school financing and the Dallas Independent School District plans to file court suit it says if this discrimination isn't alleviated in the new school finance bill, and other districts may follow the Dallas lead and also sue.

Tied in with the new school financing bill is another to equalize tax valuations throughout the state. The house has passed a bill on this but the senate has yet to act. It appears that while this action is coming it won't all be done overnight and will be "phased in" over several years.

No one can be sure, of course, what in the end the legislature will come up with — or better put what will come out of the joint house-senate conference committee after both houses have their say.

Nor can anybody right now say for sure what Governor Briscoe will do with the bill, but the lack of time is forcing him into a compromising position too, as well as everybody else.

What seems most probable is that only a start on school finance changes will be made this year and that the same problem will be back before the legislature when they schedule their next session two years hence.

Texas now is budgeting $3.43 billion for public education at the state level. For the next two years, the legislature will probably vote in the neighborhood of another billion dollars to that effort.

Nobody will be happy with it but it will be about the best obtainable under present political realities.

Statebeat

By KURT E. JOHNSON

AUSTIN — With only about three weeks left in this year's legislative session, it looks like the scenario in the granite house is going to be pure chaos. The problem stems from the fact that more bills have been introduced this session than could ever possibly be processed into law, much less studied and worked over so that they might become good law.

One of the problems with some legislation is that it might fall into that category of bills which is regretted by many and total anathema to the Governor; if it will raise taxes, it immediately becomes suspect as either a communist plot, a liberal trick or an accountant's error.

State school finance reform is a good example of this syndrome. Everyone wants better education for the state's children, but no one wants to raise any taxes in this day of inflation so as to provide better education, not to mention providing equal education.

I don't like increasing taxes either, but I think it's very interesting that the focus of concern is always on whether or not taxes will be raised by a particular program. The focus hardly ever seems to be on whether the collected taxes which are spent fall into that category of luxury, wastefulness, or some other example of indecent stewardship which the state's administrators are making with the citizens' monies.

Instead of asking whether or not better education will increase taxes, I suggest we ought to be asking whether or not better education and no additional taxes can be had through the process of cutting out wastefulness in state spending.

"Oh?" you ask. "Is there wastefulness in the present state budget? Does the glorious state of Texas waste money in administering its government?" Consider this.

State agencies who either lease or own aircraft to be used for state business still are not required by law to keep properly documented log books so that abuse of the system can be controlled. The citizens of Texas would probably be quite surprised to learn that a number of University of Texas alumni have been afforded a pleasant flight to Austin from Texas' outer reaches just to watch the Longhorns run the Washbone-T, with the tab being picked up by the taxpayers.

Present legislation which would put Col. Wilson Spier of the Department of Public Safety in charge of stopping the abuse is still in the works. But there are only two problems: (1) Spier doesn't want the job; and (2) the legislative session will probably run out before the statutes can be enacted. (Besides all that, the DPS has several planes which it uses at its own discretion anyway.)

Speaking of wastefulness, did you ever wonder whether or not the state government, particularly in the form of state agencies pays for a little too much bureaucracy in the form of tenured employees of umpteen or more years who fill up space behind desks or in the coffee bar and do little else?

I can tell you for a fact that at least one state agency pays salaries to bureaucrats who fail to write and implement good administrative policy, but they haven't the skill in terms of current knowledge of either law or program to do the work done by the people whom they are supposed to be supervising.

Just this last Thursday, the state's Senate passed a pension bill for state employees which would increase benefits should Briscoe decide to sign it. Tacked on, almost as an afterthought (ha, ha), was an undebated provision by Sen. Bill (Savings and Loan) Moore of Bryan which would increase the retirement benefits for state legislators from $10,800 per year to $18,600 per year. It's going to be a strong feeling in the year 2,001 when my monthly Social Security check is smaller than the property taxes I'll owe on my two-bedroom, white-frame house with a gravel driveway.

And speaking of wastefulness, if you don't live in Williamson County or drive through Taylor, Texas (30 miles northeast of Austin) very often, you've probably not noticed that this metropolis of some 10,000-or-less people now has a fantastic loop all the way around the west and south sides of the city so that through traffic can avoid the three traffic lights that it would otherwise encounter if driving from Austin (for example) to (of all places) Bryan. Oh well. It's good to know that at least somebody is on the job in the capitol, such as the highway lobby.

Focus on Home Economics

By PAULA CAWTHON
Assistant County Extension Agent

High ceilings make an extra room possible for the family who cannot afford more costly remodeling, a housing and home furnishings specialist suggests.

Adding overhead galleries, lofts and balconies are some of the ways a family can use exceptionally high ceilings in both old and new houses for more space.

Chapter holds spring rush model meeting

A feeling of "spaciousness, flow and elegant detachment" can be achieved with a gallery or loft, because it provides space set off from the rest of a room.

Concerning functions of a gallery, loft or balcony, Mrs. Berry said each structure is suitable for use as a study, playroom, dining or sleeping room, library or storage area. This new space also adds to the overall square footage of a house, while it gives the family more room.

Zackery Madison Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Short of route 2, Post, recently enlisted in the United States Navy's School Guarantee Program.

Zackery enlisted for four years in the navy and choose to go to the machinist's mate school where he will learn to operate, maintain and repair navy ship steam propulsion plants, air conditioning and refrigeration equipment, hydraulics plants, distilling plants and compressed air and gas systems.

He is now attending recruit training in Great Lakes, Ill., for nine weeks. Short then will have two weeks leave here before returning to Great Lakes to begin his four months of training in the machinist's mates field.

He has been a Post resident since 1969 and attended both Post Junior High and High school.

Garden help by soil service

Gardening is becoming more and more popular as food costs rise. A garden not only saves on your food bill, but it provides the whole family with many enjoyable hours of outside activity.

If you are interested in a better flower or vegetable garden using a mulch may be one of our most valuable garden practices. A good mulch can reduce soil blowing and washing, suppress weed, keeps the soil moist and cool, and adds organic matter to the soil.

Instead of throwing away grass clippings, saw dust and straw use these as a mulch for your garden or in preparing compost. Compost is probably the best mulch you can use, and you can make it yourself from leftover plant materials from your garden and lawn. Compost is not only an excellent mulch but it is also a good fertilizer and soil conditioner when it is worked into the soil.

For information on mulches and the construction of compost bins, contact the local Soil Conservation Service. While you are there ask for one of the free bulletins, "Mulches For Your Garden" or "Gardening on The Contour."

STUDENT TO PREACH

The Faith Lutheran Church will have its regular services this coming Sunday at 10 a. m. with the Rev. Arthur Preisinger, Tech student minister from Lubbock, speaking for the service. Sunday School will be held at 9 a. m.

TEXAS TALK

By FRED MYERS

A marked decline in the number of varieties being grown commercially is one of the unusual things about Texas' number one cash crop... cotton. In 1940, F. J. Tyler, in an article entitled Varieties of American Upland Cotton, reported for the United States Department of Agriculture that there were 613 varieties of cotton being grown. Sixty-five years later there are fewer than 50 with only about ten of those commonly used. Two reasons are predominant for the unusual turn-around. First the boll weevil infestation wiped out many susceptible long-staple varieties. Second, producers have developed the varieties they like best and are satisfied with the increases in crop yields, the storm resistant boll (for machine harvest) and the generally shorter growing season provided by relatively few types. Evidence of the success of the varieties being used is amply illustrated when comparing current yield per acre with that of 1950.

A meeting to organize a five or six-team minor league for players of Little League age has been called for 7:30 p. m. Friday in the bank community room by L. D. Lowe, who is in charge of minor league operation this year.

Lowe asks that everyone interested in helping the league in any way to turn out for the meeting.

"We need some managers, coaches and umpires," Lowe declared, pointing out whereas the league was a four-team operation last year it probably will be expanded to five or six teams this year to provide playing opportunities for all the youngsters who want to get into the summer baseball program. Plans for the schedule and organizations of teams will be made at the Friday night meeting.

Farmers urged to cooperate

During the last half of May, a random sample of some 24,000 Texas farmers will receive a crop acreage questionnaire from Charles E. Caudill, Agricultural Statistician In Charge of the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Austin, Texas.

This information will be the basis for determining the planted acreage for the state of Texas and for each county. Texas covers such a wide area that state totals alone do not provide adequate information on Texas' most basic industry — agriculture. The Texas Legislature has provided a program of estimates for each county. This is a cooperative effort of USDA's Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Accurate estimates are of great importance to farmers in planning production and marketing and in providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture. Farmers who receive questionnaires are urged to complete and return them by mail. All individual reports are confidential and are used only for state and county totals.

Boarding home licensing for child care explained

BY JUDY BARKER

By definition, a commercial boarding home is a private home or place of residence of any person or persons which operates for profit, where six or less children under sixteen years of age are received for care and custody or maintenance apart from their own family or relatives for either part of the day or for 24 hour a day care.

As indicated in Part One of this series, there is no charge for the day care license. The only cost to the provider will be the expenses incurred when meeting standards.

The requirements for this type of license, simply stated are:

1. No home shall be licensed for the care of more than six children.
  2. The licensee shall not accept more children than the maximum specified in the license.
  3. Current fire, health, and sanitation inspections must be made on the building.
  4. A fenced back yard.
  5. The home shall comply with city zoning ordinances and building codes.
  6. 35 square feet per child of indoor play space will be provided.
  7. 80 square feet of yard space per child shall be provided.
  8. The State Health Law requires all children accepted into any child care facility have current immunizations and vaccinations.
  9. Written authorization for emergency medical care shall be obtained from the parents of each child in care.
  10. On staff and adult members of the household — a physician's statement that the person is in good health and free from communicable disease.
  11. A physician's statement that each child in care is free of contagious diseases.
  12. Each child shall have a place to take his nap — either a bed, cot, or 1 inch thick mat.
  13. Morning and afternoon snacks shall be served, as well as nutritious noon meals.
- Does it seem ironic that doctors, plumbers, and beauticians must have licenses in order to operate, yet when it is required that persons who care for children, our most precious resources, to have a license, some balk?

Each state now has a licensing law. For a copy of the Minimum Standards for Commercial Boarding Homes applicable to Texas, consult your local licensing worker.

Questions concerning day care licensing may be directed to Judy Barker, Day Care Licensing Worker, Box 2369, Lubbock, phone 747-3821 or may be sent to her in care of this newspaper. Questions may be signed or unsigned. All questions will be responded to in Part Five of this series.

Next week: Part Three: Requirements for a Commercial Day Care Center License.

Ministers into drug fight

DENVER CITY — Local ministers, school officials and police banded together last week in an effort to do something about the narcotics situation here.

The group has promised to give anonymity to any who give information concerning who is selling drugs in the community. Citizens may give the information to their ministers who will pass it on to police.

Police Chief Art Halliburton said his department is no better than the citizens want it to be on the information it receives.

A resolution was written but it was not to be released until every minister had the opportunity to sign it.

The school board printed a half page ad in the Denver City Press restating its drug policy for students adopted in 1972.

Nobody is saying, at least for print, how bad the drug problem is but with these unprecedented steps it must be alarming among the community's youth.

County sued $275,000

DENVER CITY — A Plains county has filed a $275,000 suit against Yoakum in district court. L. Brown is seeking ward as a result of an accident Nov. 9, 1973 in which he claimed, he was injured. The county is accused of negligence in the accident in which Brown hit a pile of logs on a road five miles from Plains in his pickup truck. The suit charges that the county failed to warn signs at the site of the road construction and that the caliche piled on the roadway.

News from Around Post High

Excitement is mounting in the halls of P.H.S. From every corner you hear the beating of female hunters' feet. You hear the soft patter of escaping male prey. The hunt is on! What is the cause of this stirring of animal prowess? It is an annual traumatic experience called the junior-senior banquet. Boys are ducking from room to room. Their nerves are in such an uproar the slightest breeze causes a flutter of their pulse and a flash of running feet. The girls are undaunted nevertheless. They still flutter innocent eyes. They are wearing dresses, new perfume, and are using any other tactics they can put together. Unfortunately for the boys, several girls have already sprung their traps on unsuspecting souls. But don't worry boys; it's really not that bad. After it's all said and done you'll have all the wonderful memories of: the tea you spilled, the toe you broke dancing, the slap you got, and a bank statement telling you you are overdrawn. And for the girls remember - "the end justifies the means," and maybe we can all be friends again after the banquet. —

The junior class had a meeting last Tuesday and finalized all plans for the banquet. Numerous committees were appointed and assigned certain decorating tasks. The decorating began Sunday with the building of the frame which will surround the banquet area. Then other decorating will take place every night of this week, Monday through Friday, from 6 p. m. until 10 p. m. or later. There is no doubt about it: the time is nearing faster than you can believe. The last day to sign for tables was Friday, May 9. It appears that there will be a record crowd attending this year. A general schedule of the activities is: (1) the banquet; (2) the dance; (3) the movie; (4) the different class breakfasts. From all the excitement already vibrating through the student body this promises to be quite a banquet. —

Post High School's National Honor Society had its annual Induction banquet, Tuesday, May 6, at the cafeteria. Jerry Johnson gave the invocation. The officers performed the Induction ceremony. The officers are Kent Kirkpatrick, president; Chris Wyatt, vice president; Jay Kennedy, secretary-treasurer; Mike Shepherd, reporter; Mrs. Linda Linn, sponsor. Congratulatory remarks were given by the principal of PHS, Billy Hahn. The benediction was given by Bryan Davis. The inductees are: Amy Cowdrey, Lesa Haley, Steve White, Dan Sawyers, John McCowen, Tiana Shiver, Hope Johnson, Mark Kirkpatrick, Jodine Tipton, Sandra Bostick, Kyle Duren Tina McAllister, and Jimmy Pierce. Congratulations to the new members. Everybody had a great time and we know each person has big expectations for the new year. —

We owe two boys on the Antelope track team an apology. About two weeks we said that the only qualifier for the finals at regional was Jackie Blacklock. It appears that we had two other athletes who placed in final competition. They are Jimmy Dorland who placed sixth in the long jump and Dusty Webb who placed third in the discus. Dusty was one place away from qualifying for State competition. We wish to congratulate these two and offer our sincere apology. —

Thursday, May 8th the cheerleaders for the 1975-76 school year were elected. They are Kim Mitchell, senior head; Karen Williams, junior; Christie Conner, junior; Kelly Mitchell, sophomore; Cindy-Kirkpatrick, sophomore and Vicki Gannon, junior alternate. These girls were elected from thirteen who tried out. The student body voted during the afternoon and the final results were announced at the beginning of the sixth period. Congratulations to these five young ladies

Burlington's earnings top to 13 cents share

NEW YORK — Burlington Industries, Inc., reports lower earnings and earnings for the first quarter and first six months of its 1975 fiscal year.

Consolidated net earnings for the quarter ended March 29, were $3,509,000 or 13 cents a share, compared to $4,000,000 or $1.03 per share in the Company's first quarter a year ago.

Consolidated net sales for the quarter were $456,190,000, compared to sales of $509,943,000 for the same period last year.

The six months ended March 29, 1975, consolidated net earnings were $6,958,450,000 and net sales were $12,757,000, or 46 cents per share on 27,790,000 shares outstanding.

The comparable six months last year, sales were $1,132,393,000 and earnings were $32,062,000, or $1.91 per share on 27,262,000 average shares outstanding.

Horace C. Jones, chairman, said, "The significant decline in our sales for the March quarter and first six months of our fiscal year reflects the very depressed level of demand associated with the general economic recession."

"A number of customers have indicated that cutbacks in their requirements were partially attributable to their efforts to control or lower inventory levels. In view of the reduced demand for our products, during the last two quarters we substantially curtailed our production to control and reduce the Company's inventories."

"Recently we have seen an increase in incoming orders for certain products for apparel, such as yarns and various apparel fabrics, and some home furnishing products. In several of these areas we have realized slightly improved prices on new business compared to the substantially reduced price levels prevailing earlier this year. As a result of these developments, we are presently planning moderate increases in some production schedules for the June quarter. While we find these signs of increasing customer activity encouraging, it is too soon to determine if this more favorable trend will be sustained and extend to other products and markets."

The Board of Directors of Burlington Industries, meeting in New York declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share, payable June 1 to shareholders of record at the close of business May 2, 1975.

COLLEGE STATION —

"The best grazing system is one that gives optimum vegetation improvement and top livestock performance without sacrificing either plant or animal requirements," says Dr. M. M. Kothmann, associate professor of range science at Texas A&M University and range research scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Kothmann says there are basically two categories of grazing systems. One is deferred rotation systems where at least half of the total land is grazed at any given time and grazing time equals or exceeds the rest period.

The other type is short duration grazing systems where animals graze less than half of the total land and the length of time a pasture rests exceeds the length of the grazing period.

"Deferred rotation grazing systems give the best livestock performance while short duration systems give the most rapid range improvement," Kothmann points out.

"If you're trying to improve the range condition and are willing to sacrifice some livestock production, short duration grazing is the best system. A deferred rotation grazing system is better if you're trying to boost livestock production."

The range scientist lists a few points to consider in selecting the right grazing system.

"Look at the number of pastures available, their carrying capacity, and the type and condition of the vegetation. Also, try to evaluate whether your water facilities, working pens and labor are adequate to handle larger herds of animals."

Two important factors to consider when implementing grazing systems are stocking rate and lengths of rest period, says Kothmann.

"No grazing system will compensate for overstocking," he emphasizes. "To determine the correct stocking rate when starting a grazing system, calculate the carrying capacity for all pastures and then divide this number into the desired number of herds. If all pastures have the same carrying capacity, the herds should be of equal size."

Kothmann recommends using a conservative stocking rate with a short duration grazing system. Also, make sure the rest period is adequate.

"The rest period should be long enough to allow major forage species to regain vigor. In areas of high rainfall, a rest period of about three to four months is adequate. On drier range, the rest period could last for 12 months."

It's not wise, advises Kothmann, to start a grazing system during a dry period or near the end of the normal growing season.

"When starting a system, rest the first unit during the period with the best growing conditions," suggests the researcher.

School board---

$9,400.57 subsidy from the general fund.
The new athletic budget calls for an expenditure of $105,193.35 with a subsidy of $86,969.55, as compared to a $78,076 budget for the current year with a $31,375.67 subsidy.

Heard Supt. Shiver declare that the school's present bonded indebtedness will be retired in another five years and that the board needs to be making new long range plans for development of the school system's physical plant.

Supt. Shiver emphasized in his budget presentation to the board that the athletic budget appears exorbitantly high when compared with last year's but most of this change is due to a bookkeeping change in which all of the coaching bonuses, except the $400 over state base paid all local teachers, were charged against the athletic fund whereas in previous years these coaching bonuses were charged to the general fund.

He pointed out that the present junior high building is 30 years old and a new junior high building should be considered when the present debt is retired.

He indicated this move was made to provide a "pure" budget for dissection by attorneys representing oil interests at the board of equalization hearing yesterday.

Accepted the administrator's proposal to spend $9,430 from the current budget to replace 25 classroom typewriters and two administrative typewriters for the new school year.

The addition of the tennis coach, at the board's request, also figured in the subsidy boost.

Compromised a choice between carpet and floor tile for replacement in the 15-year-old high school building by deciding to carpet the library, learning center and home economics department and to "hold off" on as many other rooms as possible and where necessary to replace other classroom floors with tile.

Decided to hold on to both square blocks of land given them by Burlington Industries in southwest Post for possible future school development, and not sell a portion of the tract as a site for five new rental duplexes a new Post housing corporation hopes to build on a federal loan.

The Senate has passed a bill to establish a three-member statewide utilities regulatory commission, and the action this week switches to the House where a rival measure is pending.

City Council—

Conference committees will get the job of working out differences between the two houses over both school finance and utilities regulation. Final agreement on a utilities bill is a reasonable expectation.

Actually, the total general fund expenditures for next year may not quite come up to the budgeted $332,382.66 expenses of the current year by a few thousand dollars, salary boost included.

Two-year budgets have now been drawn by both the Senate Finance and House Appropriations Committees. Both are expected to leave close to $600 million in unobligated revenues—most of which will go into the schools.

The new budget includes the city's estimated $12,500 share on an equal basis with the county in the proposed airport improvements which will see federal funding bearing the bigger share of the load.

Some expect Comptroller Bob Bullock to revise his income forecasts to show $677 million in unspent revenues over and above the budget.

The reason expenses for the current year figure to be greater is that more new equipment was purchased this year for cash than is budgeted for next year.

The House agreed on an omnibus redistricting measure for Travis, Jefferson, McLennan, Tarrant, Lubbock, Nueces, El Paso, Galveston and Hidalgo counties. Senate approval is still required.

The council set their regular June meeting date for the public hearing on the city budget and will give final approval to the new budget at that meeting.

Jefferson, Tarrant and Nueces county spokesmen threatened a challenge in federal court.

The city's board of equalization board met to hear protesting taxpayers yesterday afternoon, and the council's goal was to have the budget in final form for that session.

House amendment, never debated before adoption, altered a state employee and officials' retirement system overhaul to gear elected officers pensions to pay of district judges. That would mean legislators with 30 years' service could get $18,600 a year in retirement pay, instead of the present $10,800 maximum.

Actually, in the end the taxable valuation rate may not have to be hiked from 36 to 35 per cent. The council did not know the amount of probable property valuation increase, mostly from oil, it will have added this year. But it is doubted if it will be enough to provide all the extra income needed.

After newspaper criticism of the undebated action, both House and Senate went back and passed a resolution endorsing their decision and urging the governor to sign the bill.

In 1974, the council did not adopt its budget until two months after the beginning of its fiscal year. Then they vowed to do better in 1975 — and they succeeded.

AUSTIN — The Legislature is racing toward its closing date with most of its major assignments unfinished but with reasonable hopes of finishing many of them.

Armstrong is seeking $8 million to buy 220,000 acres west of Big Bend National Park for about $36 an acre.

School finance debate began this week in the House, while the Senate Education Committee wrestled with its version of how to help equalize educational opportunity.

Armstrong has advised legislative committees the area has mineral production possibilities as well as vast tourist attraction potential.

The Senate has passed a bill to establish a three-member statewide utilities regulatory commission, and the action this week switches to the House where a rival measure is pending.

The State Supreme Court reversed itself and concluded in a 6-3 decision that San Marcos has authority to turn down a Lower Colorado River Authority electrical rate hike.

Conference committees will get the job of working out differences between the two houses over both school finance and utilities regulation. Final agreement on a utilities bill is a reasonable expectation.

The High Court affirmed a $355,180 judgment against Ford Motor Company as the result of a defective car which overturned near Waco, seriously injuring the owner.

Two-year budgets have now been drawn by both the Senate Finance and House Appropriations Committees. Both are expected to leave close to $600 million in unobligated revenues—most of which will go into the schools.

In still another case, the Supreme Court agreed to dismiss a motion to review a $25 million divorce settlement against F. Luther Brown at Houston.

Some expect Comptroller Bob Bullock to revise his income forecasts to show $677 million in unspent revenues over and above the budget.

A Houston man won reversal of a 15-year sentence for murder because the prosecutor raised questions about his juvenile record.

Dalby fire —

Department with doing "a fantastic job in extinguishing the fire" after four trucks answered the alarm.

"Two insurance adjusters told me they didn't see how the firemen got the fire out so quickly and saved as much as they did," Dalby told The Dispatch.

Things are not as bad of course as they might have been.

The Dalbys are only "three weeks away" from moving into their new ranch home of stone and wood which Lubbock Contractor Marvin Beeman has been constructing for the past 13 months.

Since the fire, and until the new house is ready, the Dalbys are living in a small nearby guest house on the ranch.

Judge Dalby said the badly damaged ranch home will be rebuilt as a home for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gannon.

Mrs. Dalby twisted an ankle in trying to get articles out of the damaged house after the fire and had to be on crutches for two days as an added discomfort.

Judge Dalby said the firemen, neighbors, friends, and their employes and their wives did so much to help, and "all of it is sincerely appreciated."

May the hinges of friendship never grow rusty.

COLLEGE STATION — Meat prices are on the move again — upward, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt.

"Retail beef prices, generally declining since last September, now will begin increasing somewhat as supplies are slightly less abundant," the consumer marketing information specialist explained.

"Pork and poultry supplies — not as plentiful as beef — will continue to increase, especially as the barbeque season nears," she predicted.

One commodity with lower prices is the egg.

Mrs. Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, termed eggs "one of the best protein buys currently available."

Meat prices are on move again--upward

In the dairy department, consumers can expect reasonable prices on liquid milk, cottage cheese and dry powdered milk.

Produce counters show a mixture of spring and summer vegetables.

Soft-shell yellow squash and green beans are more plentiful, and corn-on-the-cob will double April's supply during May, Mrs. Clyatt said. Potatoes remain abundant, and new shipments of Round Reds are increasing.

In fruit sections, oranges are more plentiful than grapefruit, but both have moderate prices, the specialist noted.

"Strawberries and pineapples are featured items in some stores with quality generally very good, and watermelon prices are gradually dropping as supply increases."

Other vegetables at the most economical prices are beets, celery, cabbage, carrots, dry yellow onions, collards, mustard, turnips and greens.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: With egg prices down, this is a good time to include more eggs in menus — or do extra baking for the freezer.

To me, nothing tastes better than fine tobacco. But I don't smoke.

To millions of Americans, the good taste of tobacco doesn't always come from smoking.

It also comes from tasting. From placing a pinch of tobacco between cheek and gum, and savoring it.

And yet, to millions of others, this age-old tobacco pleasure is still a mystery. Possibly because they've never tried it.

Or because, as is true, the use of "smokeless" tobacco is an art, and takes practice.

A pinch in a pouch.

So, to make it easier, we've made it different. We've made Good Luck. A whole new way to enjoy tobacco.

Good Luck is a pinch of choice "tasting" tobaccos, in a neat little pouch. And the pouch is what makes it different.

You place Good Luck, pouch and all, between your cheek and gum. Then, as it rests there, the pouch works like a tea bag. To let tobacco flavor out, while the tobacco stays in.

Nobody knows.

Naturally, any form of "tasting" tobacco takes a little getting used to.

But with Good Luck, it's easier because the pouch holds the tobacco all in one place. It sits comfortably, and no one knows it's there, but you.

Also, each pouch comes properly pre-measured, so you always get the right amount.

Sealed in foil.

To keep the tobacco fresh and moist, each Good Luck pouch is sealed in foil. That also keeps it from spilling into your pocket.

And because you don't smoke Good Luck, it's perfectly welcome in places where smoking isn't. Such as a courtroom, on a bus, or near inflammables.

And unlike a cigarette or a pipe, Good Luck won't tie up your hands. You enjoy its tobacco flavor no matter what you're doing.

Rich tobacco tradition.

Now you're acquainted with Good Luck's little pouch. But what about the tobacco that comes inside?

Well, it's made by United States Tobacco Company, whose other tobaccos, without a pouch, are now enjoyed by over 6 million Americans. And Good Luck is part of the same tradition. Only the pouch makes it easier to use.

Good Luck Rich, choice tasting tobacco, in a pouch. Slip it between your cheek and gum, and the pouch works like a tea bag. The flavor gets out, the tobacco stays in.

For people like you.

But no matter how you use tobacco (or even if you don't), we think Good Luck will add to your pleasure.

Try it. We put Good Luck in a pouch, for people like you.

Some serious talk about West Texas gas

By K. B. "Tex" Watson, Pioneer president

Living in the middle of an area known for its abundant gas deposits, it's hard to imagine West Texans threatened by a shortage of natural gas. However, there is the possibility that governmental regulations could create a shortage here. If we are not vigilant, we could see much of our gas supply allocated to other areas. Or we could see price controls make it impractical for producers to drill additional wells in this area. What can the average citizen do to prevent that from happening? I would suggest that he be aware of the problem and support Pioneer's efforts to maintain our gas reserves.
