Many good buys in vegetables offered

COLLEGE STATION — Vegetables offer numerous buys to Texas consumers as they appear at grocery markets in fresh and canned forms, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clayt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

This week's most economical buys are:

FRESH VEGETABLES
Items in best supply at the most economical prices are corn, cabbage, carrots, cucumbers and head lettuce — along with yellow and zucchini squash, green onions and radishes.

FRESH FRUITS
Plum supplies are in their peak season with prices reaching a low point. Cantaloupe and watermelons are in good supply; prices are moderate. Grape supplies are increasing.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES
Budget prices appear on a variety of canned vegetables, and economy prices are showing up on canned luncheon meat and vienna sausage. Rice is an excellent bargain.

BEEF
Best values likely will be chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and roasts, ground beef and liver.

PORK
Good values are picnics, hams, shoulder roasts and steaks.

POULTRY
Frozen turkey has attractive prices. In egg buying, Grade A, large size eggs usually offer the best combination of quality and economy for the money.

WATCHWORDS
In comparing egg sizes and prices, there is a general "economy rule of thumb": buy the larger size if the difference in price is less than seven cents per dozen.

Budget newsletter now available free
If your family runs out of money before you run out of the month, maybe you would be interested in a newsletter the Garza County Family Living Committee is offering called Family Financial Planning.

The series consists of four newsletters on the following subjects: getting what you want, where is the money gone, money is a family affair, and making a plan.

If you want to receive the series free, either write Mrs. Paula Cawthon, courthouse, Post, Tex. 79356, or call her office, 495-2050.

TCU honor well deserved

Post can proudly applaud the conferring of an honorary doctor's degree upon Mrs. Ruby Kirkpatrick by Texas Christian University in Fort Worth Friday.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick is one of Post's most outstanding "do-ers" who both works hard for and supports the development of her community and her church. She has given a busy half century to these efforts and to raising a fine family since she was graduated from TCU in 1927.

It is hard to find any community project in this town in which Mrs. Kirkpatrick doesn't have a busy hand in. And she contributes her ideas and her energies in such a quiet, friendly manner one has to keep his eyes open to see all she accomplishes.

Her support of her church, Post's First Christian Church, is so complete in every way she fulfills every requirement — and more — for what we used to refer to as a "pillar of the church." She has taught her church class for 50 years without change and has served as trustee, board member, and loyal contributor.

A beautiful small church complex and an excellent church program are to a very considerable degree directly attributable to Mrs. Kirkpatrick's efforts.

The Dispatch is convinced that most of its readers are going to learn something new about Mrs. Kirkpatrick's community and church activities for the first time through today's front page story on the recognition TCU is giving her. She has worked so quietly in our midst only her closest friends have known all of what she does in our behalf.

Long before the phrase "women's lib" was coined, Mrs. Kirkpatrick was a woman who wore the mantle of community leadership well.

That is why all here in Post who love and appreciate Ruby for her efforts in our behalf applaud her day of recognition by her university at commencement tomorrow.

One program that worked

We don't know how much the billions of federal tax dollars poured into the war against crime in the last few years have helped to win the battle in the big cities where crime statistics have grown grim indeed.

But out in the small towns — and Post is an excellent example — the influx of the federal crime-fighting dollars accompanied with the requirements to earn each share has been simply tremendous.

The transition has been so smooth that perhaps a majority of citizens may not have noticed, but here at The Dispatch we have. Crime is always on the weekly newspaper's news beat.

But in more recent times, it has become a much smaller portion of The Dispatch's front page news. That is because there has been less crime.

Let's look at our "new look" in law enforcement here.

We have combined city and county law enforcement into a single law arm with city and county sharing equally its cost of operation.

That was made possible — and strongly encouraged over a considerable period of time — by SPAG, the state criminal justice division, and those federal dollars.

Those federal dollars built half our new law enforcement complex, including a badly needed new county jail.

The federal dollar requirements for the fight against crime brought both education and equipment to the small-town and small county law enforcement ranks.

Law enforcement courses are required to qualify for law enforcement jobs. In the process, the salary scale for the lawmen has been boosted a whole lot higher than it used to be only a few years ago. Consequently, law enforcement jobs now attract capable young men who when trained plan to make careers in the field.

Add to this, the communications network made possible in law enforcement via teletype and radio via more federal aid and you have another excellent law enforcement tool.

Of course, Sheriff Jim Pippin who is Garza's people-chosen lawman to head our law enforcement efforts is due his full share of the credit for the efficient operation of Garza's sheriff department.

But the point we wish to make here is that for once — at least on the small town, small county front — one big government program which has cost a whole lot of our tax money has really worked out.

In the small towns, the war against crime is being won. The small towns and counties now enjoy for the first time well trained young officers of high caliber who also have the necessary tools to get the job done.

—And, if you haven't noticed, they are really getting that job done here — quietly, efficiently and to our way of thinking with excellent public relations too.

The Dispatch has to look harder now for front page news — thanks to Jim Pippin and all of them. But that is all right with us. That is the way we like to have it.

Publishing good news is better than printing the bad any Thursday.

No real surprises yet

Things have been moving fast — though predictably — on the big 17th congressional district news front during the past week.

First, Congressman Omar Burleson announced last Tuesday well in advance of the 1978 political races that he will retire at the conclusion of his present term.

Next A. L. (Dusty) Rhodes, successful Abilene lawyer and businessman who has been preparing to enter the campaign for Burleson's seat since June, officially announced he was a candidate to succeed Burleson.

We do not know Dusty. But from his "poop sheet" mailed out with picture and story on the Tuesday announcement, it is pretty obvious that Rhodes has climbed high as a trial attorney and businessman, has his four children almost raised, and wants to jump into politics for the first time and get his feet wet.

He hasn't climbed up via the state legislative ladder. He has been too busy for that. Certainly, he has been widely enough involved with such a variety of interests in the 17th district that Dusty ought to have a pretty good idea of governmental problems, at least as to how they affect just about everybody on the home front.

We presume that in the months ahead, Rhodes will visit in Garza County and Post on a campaign swing and we'll have a chance to get personally acquainted with him.

Nocor Corrosion Inhibitors

Cardinal Products, Inc., offers a complete line of oilfield corrosion inhibitors. These inhibitors are designed to prevent corrosion in any phase of production or drilling operations. They range in application from secondary recovery to wireline and acid inhibitors.

These products are cationic, polar and semi-polar amines and diamines and salts of these materials reacted with various fatty and/or organic acids. Cationic and non-ionic wetting agents are added to some of these products to increase dispersion in water, oil, or brine and to aid in cleaning surfaces prior to depositing the inhibitor film. Other additives for special applications include demulsifiers and scale inhibitors. These inhibitors range from oil soluble-water insoluble to water soluble-oil insoluble.

Each inhibitor is designed to meet a certain range of conditions such as water-oil ratio, treating method, type of corrosive attack, and treating frequency.

Your Cardinal Products representative is fully qualified to evaluate the corrosion problem, test the produced fluid, and recommend the inhibitor with optimum performance for the particular application.

Cardinal Products, Inc., inhibitors are based on the ability of certain amines and diamines to form an oil-wettable film on metal surfaces. Fatty amines and diamines are primarily oil soluble. Reacting these materials with water-soluble organic acids increases water-solubility or dispersibility and enhances the film formation in water or brine. Careful selection of the proper amine and acid will give the desired solubility or dispersibility in either oil, water, or both. Addition of the proper wetting or dispersing agent will also aid in cleaning corrosion by-products from the metal surface to be protected.

The "200" series of NOCOR inhibitors are oil-soluble and water dispersible. The film deposited by these inhibitors also possesses the oil-wetting ability of the "100" series.

The "400" series of NOCOR corrosion inhibitors are water-soluble liquids possessing the ability to inhibit corrosion in sweet and sour brine or fresh water systems. A tenacious film is deposited on metal surfaces that requires no oil adsorption. However, in the presence of oil (such as a high water ratio producing well) this film will become oil-wet.

Special purpose NOCOR inhibitors are listed in the "600" series. These include wireline inhibitors for downhole protection of wirelines and other equipment in acids and corrosive well fluids. Also included are drill pipe corrosion inhibitors for use in corrosive drilling fluid and air and gas drilling, and for protecting drill pipe laid down for storage.

All NOCOR corrosion inhibitors are subjected to quality control tests to insure uniformity and maximum performance. These tests include density, pH, amine value, and infrared scan. Standard wheel tests and flow tests are run on selected samples. Raw materials are selected for uniformity and high activity and are tested thoroughly before using.

Burlington beginning metric conversion

Burlington Industries is beginning metric conversion. The Company said a "soft conversion" will be effective Oct. 1, 1978, at which time the Company will begin doing virtually all of its business in either standard or metric terms. This will lead eventually to total metric conversion.

Burlington began planning in early March, 1976 to go metric in response to the Metric Conversion Act of 1975. Since that time it has carried out various programs to familiarize its own employees with metric practices.

The "soft conversion" will be complete by Oct., 1978 and will give customers and suppliers a choice of standard or metric measure.

Customers are being notified that no later than Oct., 1978 Burlington will offer products, receive and process orders and handle customer service, billing and other procedures in standard as well as metric units. Product hang tags, bills of lading, even advertising and other merchandising activities will use both standard and metric units during the transition to compete metrication.

Manufacturers of machinery, equipment and supplies are also being notified that the choice of standard or metric units for Burlington products will be available to customers no later than Oct., 1978. William A. Klopman, chairman and president, said, "This is the latest step in Burlington's planned, structured program to convert totally to metric in the years ahead. The move to metric is inevitable, and by taking

Youthoughts

By TRACY McALISTER

BY TRACY McALISTER
Well, I attended the Harlan Family Reunion at Leuders Baptist Camp last weekend and had a really good time. The only bad thing was that the Harlan Reunion turned out to also be a skunk family reunion.

Everyone went to bed at about midnight except my cousins, Kelli and Kori, and I. We decided to walk around for a while and then turn in.

After walking we decided to head for the cabin, but were greeted by about ten skunks. They were right outside the cabin door. After detecting these mini stink bombs, we slowly drifted back a safe distance. We decided that it was us or us, and we didn't like either choice.

The really terrible thing was that the door to the cabin where the skunks were was open. We thought that it would be hilarious if they walked in and all of our relatives ran out smelling like death warmed over. It didn't happen, but it could have. I still think that it would be funny. I'm sure that my sister and mother wouldn't have appreciated the idea.

There were three cabins that the family was staying in. All three of them had skunks in front of them. We were forced to stay by the swimming pool where the air was clean. Kelli, Kori, and I were sitting there talking when Kelli looked over and saw a skunk about three feet away from her. She just ran, she didn't scream, and for this reason, Kori and I have to thank her for the humanly smell that we have today.

At about 4:30 in the morning, we were able to make our way to the gym where we slept.

The whole thing seemed like a bad movie. By the end of the night, we counted about twenty skunks. I'm not even going to tell you about the armadillo, the cow that fought the coyotes, or the two dead men praying in the garden. It's not important. What is important is that we could have lost our friends, charisma, and charm, and gained 15 gallons of tomato juice through the spray of a little skunk, but we didn't. For we were brave, headstrong, inconspicuous, and we ran like hell.

Kelli, Kori, and I will always remember the night and have grown closer from it. Oh, I'm thinking seriously about trying out for the track team.

But you know, in the face of danger you turn out to be a bigger coward than you think you are that way.

CLINT COOK

Co-ops honor Aspermont lad

Clint Cook of Aspermont was honored in Houston last week as the president of the Youth Consulting Board of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

Recognition came during the 37th annual meeting of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives.

Cook was named to the national youth board during the Government-in-Action Youth Tour to Washington, DC, sponsored by the rural electric cooperatives of Texas. His participation was sponsored by Dickens Electric Cooperative with headquarters at Spur.

Later this month Cook will serve a week-long internship in Washington with eight other youths representing various regions of the country. He will also participate in the National Institute of Cooperative Education at Texas A&M University August 15-18. Other occasions on which he will represent the electric cooperatives of the nation include the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, the convention of the National Association of Future Farmers of America in Kansas City and the Annual meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association next February.

Cook is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B.G. Cook. He will be a senior this year at Aspermont High School where he is president of the Student Council and member of the tennis, basketball, and football teams.

Lope lineup almost 'set' for Ralls scrimmage

More adept attack is forecast by coaches

Coach Jackie Brown and his assistants will unveil the new 1977 Post Antelope grid machine at Ralls Friday night in a scrimmage moved up to 5 p. m. to avoid a conflict with the Ralls rodeo.

Against the Jackrabbits, who are into the second year of a rebuilding job, the Lopes should look much more adept on offense and lighter on defense than they did at the start of the 1976 title campaign.

The coaches took a look at all 64 grid candidates in a inter-squad scrimmage last Friday evening and were pleased at what they saw.

The squad was divided into two about equal groups and from each group two offensive and two defensive units were organized.

For only the second session in pads, the Lopes looked pretty good.

The Lopes will work through this week on a two-a-day basis, but next week with the beginning of in-season work for the faculty only evening practice sessions, beginning at 5:30 p. m., will be scheduled.

No injuries are yet reported.

Coach Brown figures the Lopes should get away much faster offensively this year because the players and coaches all know the system.

As for the defensive unit, the only jobs wide open right now are the two tackle posts with four candidates battling for them. Brown figures with a few games under its belt, the Lope defense has the possibilities of becoming as tough or even tougher than last year's.

From the start, Coach Brown doesn't figure to have over three or four players playing both offensively and defensively and even in these cases players can be rested a bit.

Here is the way the club shapes up.

On defense, Brent Terry is the nose guard. Jeff Greene is slightly ahead right now of the other top three tackle candidates. If you put him at left tackle that leaves Bud Jones, Jerry Perez and Greg Pollard battling for the right tackle.

The linebacking corps is solid with three experienced hands in Butch Booth, Randy Baker, and Raymie Holly to rotate at the two positions.

In the secondary, at rover it's Carlos Varela and Bryan Compton battling for a starting berth. Cliff Kirkpatrick or Jeff Williams at halfback, Evans Heaton at safety, and Kohen Josey or Tim Morris at cornerback.

The offensive line shapes up as Leslie Looney at center, Holly at strong guard, Chuck Bass at strong tackle, Ronald Bratcher at strong end, Virgil Morris at quick guard, Erik Howard at quick tackle, and Heaton as "swing man" (split end.)

All-District Randy Baker and Kohen Josey are at wingback, Butch Booth at fullback, Cliff Kirkpatrick and Tim Morris at halfback, and Brad Shepherd is the starting quarterback.

Other Lopes who will see plenty of action with the offensive unit will be Bryan

THE ONES THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY — Pictured above l to r, A. J. Stone of Lometa, Bill Stone of Adkins, Tex., and their father, Virgil Stone of Post with their catches. The two big yellow cat were caught in the Colorado River below Buchanan Lake on a froline. The big one weighed 20 pounds and the smaller one 12 pounds. The trio had quite a struggle with the 20-pounder as he had his own ideas about being brought aboard a boat.

Compton as back-up quarterback, Darrell Reece at fullback, Rex Cash at both guard positions, Bruce Waldrip at both guard and tackles; and Green, at tackle.

Pictures for the football program were taken Monday.

Freshman footballers reported Monday and are working out daily at 9 a. m.

Season tickets for the five-game Antelope home schedule went on sale Monday at the high school office here for $10. Last year's reserve seat holders will be given first opportunity to buy the same seats again before the remainder go on sale on a first-come, first-served basis, Monday, Aug. 29. The office is open Monday through Friday, but closed during noon for an hour.

The price is unchanged, $10 for the five games.

New policy on use of gym

As a result of a summer time paint-up and fix-up effort, Post's Middle School (junior high) gym is in its best condition in several years.

Principal Bud Davis told The Dispatch that in order to keep it attractive and ready for use that a gym policy has been established for use by outside organizations.

A $10 deposit will be required for gym use which may be cancelled for not cleaning gym after use, losing or not returning key, losing lock, leaving lights on, or not locking gym up after use. There also will be a $5 charge per night for electricity.

Groups may be barred from using the gym for one year for willful destruction of gym facilities, allowing alcohol or drugs in or on school property, or duplicating the gym key.

Davis said the purpose of the gym policy is to keep the gym a clean facility and to curtail vandalism which has been a problem in the past.

16: Cotton Center, there, Sept. 23; Witharrel, here, Sept. 30; Three Way, there, Oct. 7; Bethel Christian, here, Oct. 14, homecoming Loop, here, Oct. 21; Wellman, there, Oct. 28; and Grady, here, Nov. 4.

Zone games are Cotton Center, Witharrel, Three Way, Loop, Wellman, and Grady, which will be at 7 p.m.

The schedule gives the Eagles seven out of their 10 games at home besides both scrimmages.

Eagles play 7 at home

SOUTHLAND—Coach Keith Gast announces the Southland Eagles 1977 football schedule which will open with a 6 p.m. scrimmage here Friday night with Hobbs.

A second scrimmage will be held here Aug. 26 at 6 p.m. against Guthrie, prior to the opening of the season at home Sept. 2 at 8 p.m. against Patton Springs.

Other games include McCaulley, here, Sept. 9; Bethel Christian, here Sept.

Hunters reminded of permission

LUBBOCK — The Texas Penal Code requires sportsmen to get permission to hunt on private lands prior to the hunt and there are several items the hunter should consider first.

The number one problem is finding an area with ample wildlife species such as deer, turkey, or quail, open to hunting. A scouting trip through the country prior to the hunting season will help you locate good hunting areas. Contacting hunting friends or the local chamber of commerce is another good source of hunting locations.

The next step is finding out who owns the land and how to contact him. Most neighbors know who owns the land and where they live. Many times, the nearest neighbor will have permission from the landowner to regulate hunting especially if the owner lives in some distant city or out-of-state.

Many hunting areas are heavily posted with no-hunting signs but, hunters have found that some owners only want to know who is hunting on their property and permission is sometimes granted if the courteous hunter only asks.

There have been problems in the past between the landowner and illegal hunters with most of the no-hunting signs resulting from damaged fences, wounded or dead livestock and bullet holes in stock tanks or windmills.

Sportsmen looking for places to hunt quail, deer or turkey will find it more difficult to acquire permission to hunt. Most landowners hunt themselves or have family members who are hunters. Many hunting leases have been in effect for years and are passed from father to son.

Recently, several sportsmen have found it easier to find a place to hunt dove, waterfowl, coyote and other lesser-known wildlife species. These animals and bird are either migratory or damage the landowner's crops and livestock and he is more likely to grant a hunter permission to pursue the wildlife on his property. The 1977-78 hunting seasons have been set and sportsmen should be looking for a place to hunt now. Assistance from the local Texas game warden or other P&WD personnel is available for hunting information in your county.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

LUBBOCK—Provisions of four-year cotton law came from the House Conference Committee Aug. 5 drew mixed but generally favorable comment from officials of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The conference report bodies a compromise between versions passed earlier by the respective houses. It will go to the House and Senate floors when Congress returns from August recess and the president's signature is expected in September.

Commodity Credit Corporation loan provisions of the House and Senate bills were identical, calling for a loan rate of 85 percent of the four-year average spot price or 90 percent of the adjusted price in the four weeks of October Strict Middling 1-116 cotton, CIF Northern Gulf.

The formula is expected to produce a loan rate of over 50 cents per pound of Strict Low Middling 1-116 cotton in 1978, compared to this year's 47-cent loan.

"We are happy with this provision of the law for two reasons," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson. "It will give us a very needed loan increase in 1978 and in addition will insure that the loan does not interfere with the competitiveness of U.S. cotton in world markets."

Johnson also noted that the law has provisions, effective upon enactment, which will permit producers to extend loans for eight months beyond the ten months allowed under the current program. Extensions will not be permitted however, in a month when the average of spot cotton prices in the preceding month exceeds 130 percent of the average price for the preceding 36 months.

PCG is not so pleased with the conference committee agreement on target prices. Language of the House bill calls for a target price at 110 percent of the loan, which would have come to about 56 cents in 1978. The Senate measure based the target on cost of production, around 51 cents for 1978. The compromise calls for a target price in 1978 of 52 cents, to be adjusted in future years to reflect changes in the two-year moving average of production costs, with a statutory minimum of 51 cents.

"We would have much preferred the House version," Johnson commented, "but the 52 cents for 1978 is an improvement over this year's 47.8 cents and if the target keeps pace with rising production costs, as it is designed to do, we should be able to live with it for the life of the program."

Conferees reportedly went the Senate route on cotton target prices in order to put cotton, wheat and feed grain targets on the same cost of production formula.

Assuming enactment of the law as now written, a new allotment system will go into effect in 1978. Cotton allotments, along with those for other crops, will be based on current-year plantings instead of on historical plantings.

"I think this is exactly what cotton needs and has needed for many years," Johnson declared. "Program benefits will no longer go to farmers who used to produce cotton, but will go to farmers and only to farmers who are trying to produce cotton in each current year.

Payment limitations, something PCG has fought since 1965, is another area in which the new legislation shows improvement. The current limit on program payments for all crops is $20,000 per farmer and the limit applies to all payments, including disaster payments. Under the new law the limit will be $40,000 in 1978, $45,000 in 1979, and $50,000 in 1980 and 1981. In addition the cotton industry was able to win a payment limit exemption for disaster payments under the new program.

"Generally speaking," Johnson concludes, "I think these and other aspects of the new legislation are a definite improvement over current law, and there is every reason to expect, other thing being equal, that these improvements will be reflected in our cotton economy."

Sales tax here drops for July

Post has received a $3,890.40 sales tax check from Comptroller Bob Bullock for July sales tax collections here.

While the total for 1977 to date — $53,915.38 — represents an 11 percent increase over the $48,166.32 for the same period of 1976, collections for July were down from $5,049.94 in 1976.

Field day emphasis on cotton diseases

LUBBOCK—Cotton diseases and their control will be featured during the upcoming 68th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, Tuesday, Sept. 13.

Among experiments being conducted at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research Center where field day activities will be held are fungicide seed treatment studies, seed quality tests, biological control of seedling diseases and verticillium wilt control.

The afternoon event annually attracts over 1200 visitors interested in latest developments in agricultural research, according to Dr. Bill Lyle, field day chairman. Field tours and farm machinery displays will be featured attractions. Guests also will be able to discuss their problems and concerns relating to crop production with agricultural scientists and specialists.

"Cotton diseases which annually reduce yields and severely cut farm profits are of tremendous importance to growers," says Dr. Earl B. Minton of the Agricultural Research Service, USDA, who directs cotton disease research at the Lubbock Center. "Our research efforts are aimed at finding ways to either improve present control methods such as fungicide seed treatments or evaluating new concepts such as biological control of seedling diseases."

"For instance," he adds, "we have found that stands and yields have been increased and wilt problems reduced by planting high quality seed. We are able to obtain different levels of seed quality with a special liquid method which is best adapted to seed lots of marginal quality."

Minton says he also has experimented with organic solvents used as a carrier of fungicides to reduce amounts of pesticides needed for disease control.

Minton adds that tests are also being conducted to evaluate strains of cotton with high levels of resistance to the root-knot nematode

The Lubbock Saddle Club won the first place trophy for riding clubs in the rodeo parade late last Thursday afternoon with the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse from Snyder placing second and the Abernathy Riding Club third.

The Scurry County Junior Sheriff's Posse was the winner and only entrant in the junior division for riding groups in the parade.

The float section of the parade was a disappointment with the Women's Division of the Post Chamber of Commerce winning first prize with a Hawaiian theme. Only other float in the line of march was entered by the Post Chamber which did not compete for its own prize money.

Curt Greer won the decorated bicycles with Jeff Lamb second and Risa Willard third.

Lee Ann Sellers of Spur, only two, won the trophy as the most representative little cowgirl in the parade and Button Green took the award as the most typical little cowboy.

Walter Josey served as parade marshal.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick serves her church as teacher, trustee, and official board member. A teacher of the same class at Post's First Christian Church for 50 years, she also has been treasurer of the Church's Christian Women's Fellowship for 50 years. She and her husband, the late Willard M. Kirkpatrick, were among the leaders in a building drive for that church, where they established the Stoker Educational Memorial Fund that includes funds for the local building, Christian scholarships and other needs.

Mrs. Lunger is the first woman to be awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree by TCU. She received the Bachelor of Divinity degree with honors in 1939 at Yale University Divinity School, has been an ordained minister since 1931 and is widely known as a consultant in the field of spiritual life development.

Mrs. Green and her husband have established prestigious endowed positions at TCU, University of Dallas and Stanford University in addition to providing for the Graduate and Professional Center of Colorado School of Mines, the Center for Basic Studies at the University of Texas Health Center in Dallas and the Earth Science Building at Stanford.

Dr. Pate, president and chairman of the board of Texas Refinery Corporation, will be awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree. One of four persons elected to the University's Board of Trustees in the spring, he has served as director of TCU's Harris College of Nursing since 1969 and in 1975 was recipient of the TCU alumni association Royal Purple Award.

Hospital-

(Continued From Page One) The hospital collected $19,616.30 on its accounts in July. $238.59 in taxes, and took an additional $5,000 in borrowing from the bank.

As of the end of July, the hospital had $23,077.39 in Medicare outstanding, $33,683.75 in other insurance among its receivables, $22,660.45 in other accounts receivable, $62,730.42 in old accounts receivable, and $52,045.03 in "dead accounts" for a total of $194,197.04 accounts receivable on the books.

Hospital directors had little business on their agenda Thursday night other than to check over the hospital's financial outlook and to discuss in general terms the staff physician situation.

Hunsaker reported he has been told by a social security representative that because the hospital was once on social security and withdrew from it, it cannot return to it.

Nurses have expressed a desire to return to social security rather than to continue with a program of insurance and retirement benefits to which both employees and hospital contribute.

Directors asked Hunsaker to check into the matter further and to request such an opinion specifically in writing for the board's consideration.

Red Oglesby, Lubbock contractor, is preparing specification for the bidding of a contract for air conditioning and heating for the hospital. When the specifications are complete, the board will have a called meeting to consider them and ask for bids.

Free lunches at Southland

The Southland Schools will provide free or reduced price lunches to children from families whose incomes are at or below certain designated economic levels, it was announced this week.

Reduced price lunches cost 20 cents.

School officials announced that at the beginning of the school year, eligibility forms for the federally subsidized lunch program will be sent home with school children. Parents who believe they qualify may complete the applications and return them to school.

Ken Gilbreath is new deputy here

Ken Gilbreath, former Texas Highway Patrolman here, went to work here Monday as a sheriff's deputy.

Sheriff Jim Pippin said Gilbreath fills a vacancy in his force of officers.

Gilbreath was transferred from Post several years ago.

Dusty Rhodes

But up to now, only Rhodes has been "making loud campaign noises" and getting an organization put together.

In recent weeks, Rhodes has visited 19 of the 33 counties of the 17th district.

For the last 17 years, Rhodes has practiced in virtually all the county, state and federal courts in the big district.

Besides his law practice, Rhodes is engaged in a number of business enterprises.

He serves on the board of directors of Citizens National Bank in Abilene and also on the board of the Connally Oil Co. of Abilene. He is chairman of the board of Gibson's of Duncanville and also board chairman of Hale Farm Supply in Haskell.

Rhodes also is active in both energy production and agriculture.

He is president of Big Ed Oil Co., and the Christi Co. Inc. He is a member of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners. He owns oil and gas production in 13 West Texas counties.

Rhodes was born into a farming family in Hugh, Okla., and has wheat farms near his birthplace. He also has a cotton farm in Haskell County and Charolais and Hereford cattle in Taylor and Bosque counties.

Rhodes and his wife, Nancy, have four children, Ed and Christi, students at Abilene Christian University; Annette, Abilene high school sophomore; and Sherry, a ninth-grader. The family are members of the Highland Church of Christ in Abilene where Rhodes serves the congregation as a deacon and Bible class teacher.

The rough is simply pine trees. A most unusual course — and one that pays off for the straight shooter. Imagine every time you go into the rough you're bouncing around among pine trees.

Coming back, while we waited at the Denver airport to board our plane, we were struck by all the little kids who travel at 20,000 to 25,000 feet above the earth these days. They romp in the aisles, and even fly unescorted with the stewardess keeping an eye on them. Things have certainly changed.

Come to think of it, ten or 15 years ago if one had only three days for a vacation, he wouldn't even bother to leave home.

My only disappointment was that we walked back into the house in Post at 10:30 p. m. Sunday night just as the replay of the Dallas Cowboys game at Seattle was coming on the boob tube. Not knowing the score, we spent about three hours completely fascinated by all the mistakes those top pros made.

If our Post High school team had drawn three holding and one roughening penalties on four consecutive plays, we would have been at least upset. To see the Cowboys do that is simply unbelievable.

Harlan family reunion held

The Harlan family reunion was held Aug. 13 and 14 in Lueders. There were 19 children in the family of the late George Mason Harlan. Five of the still living were present. They were Minnie Holt, Frances Wright, Mary Fry, Helen Livingston and George H. Harlan. The two others unable to attend were Eunice Hazelwood and Jewel Mosely. Three of the family passed away this year.

A total of 64 descendants from Phoenix, Fort Worth, Midland, Lubbock, Littlefield, Jayton, Goree, Whit-harrel, Slaton, Amarillo, San Angelo, Plainview, Lueders, Casper and Post attended the reunion.

Games of 42, cards, dominoes, volleyball, eating and visiting were enjoyed during the two days.

.77 of inch in 3 showers

Post officially picked up .77 of an inch of moisture over the rodeo weekend in three showers.

A total of .49 of an inch was recorded Thursday morning, an additional .25 of an inch for the 24 hour period ending at 8 a. m. Friday and .03 in a Sunday evening shower.

The heat wave continued in the area, although no more 100-degree days were recorded.

Daily highs during the past seven days ranged from 94 to 98.

Poor Webster. Forgot to put "faithing" in his dictionary. Probably hasn't discovered that faith is more than a state of mind, more than something "to have and to hold," far more. A doing thing. Whether beginning faithing or continuing to faith, maybe just wanting to faith, the PRESBYTERIANS OF POST invite you to worship with us the God who loves to see His people faithing. At 11:00 AM Sunday, for a while, then we'll go do our faithing elsewhere!

Offering A New Concept— The Pre-Arrangement Contract

Daily we are being approached by people in our community regarding a plan whereby they can make arrangements for themselves and their family before the need arises.

We are frequently asked:

1. What is a funeral trust?
2. How a funeral trust plan saves you money?
3. How is it possible to secure the peace of mind of knowing that you, yourself, have arranged every detail without burdening others?

A new concept—"The Pre-Arranged Contract"—was devised to relieve families of having to make difficult arrangements, both financial and otherwise. This new concept is approved by the Texas Banking Commission.

The Pre-Arrangement Contract allows you to make a definite service selection at today's prices with monthly payments. Upon completion of the contract your own selected service is paid for at any later date for no additional charge.

We are here for only one reason and that is to be of service. If we may help, please contact us.
