

Air Force is opening radar bomb scoring site here

Will be in area year

A 17-man air force detachment reported to Post yesterday for the establishment of a mobile radar bomb scoring site east of town which will be used for inspection and training flights of low flying long range B-52 jet bombers and the FB-111 twin jet medium bombers.

The unit, commanded by Master Sergeant Robertson, is awaiting the arrival of its vehicles and vans, but expects to be operational within a week.

The radar bomb scoring site will be located east of the cemetery close to where a site test for low flying planes were conducted last summer.

The radar bomb scoring sites, located in various parts of the country, are to keep bombing crews proficient in flying low level bombing missions under enemy radar.

The big seven-man-crew B-52 bombers from all over the country — will fly over the Post site from bases in California, New York, South Carolina, Georgia and Washington.

The FB-111, a twin engine jet with two-man crews, will fly from Plattsburgh AFB in New York and Pease AFB in New Hampshire.

In reply to a Dispatch request made Tuesday afternoon to the information office at Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock seeking information on the radar bomb scoring site, The Dispatch was supplied mission details a few hours later by an officer calling from the Strategic Air Command (SAC) headquarters at Offutt AFB in Nebraska.

This officer explained that the practice bombing routes are selected after consultation with the FAA with the federal aviation authority monitoring all flights. Parts of the training flights are flown high and parts of them low.

No flights will be flown at less than 500 feet above the ground and care has been taken in mapping the routes so that the fast jets will not fly over any communities and will avoid flying over all structures.

The practice bombing runs now are performed electronically. When the bomber simulates its bomb drop on target, it sends out an electronic signal instead of dropping a dummy bomb.

The radar bomb scoring site has equipment to pick up the bombing signal and by measuring the speed of the plane, height, and other factors can score where the bomb would have impacted if it had been real-or target or how big a miss.

The radar bomb scoring site will be located east of Post for about a year. The sites are changed periodically.

Crews manning the unit here also will be changed periodically. The present crew will be here about three months. Size of the crew is expected to be increased to as many as 28 in July, presumably for more constant use of the equipment in the summer months.

PRODUCTION TO BE MOVED TO POSTEX HERE—

Burlington closing Memphis plant

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Moving of the Hall plant production here from Memphis is expected to strengthen the local plant's position and possibly mean additional employment and plant modernization.)

MEMPHIS, TEXAS — Burlington Industries Wednesday announced that it will consolidate sheet fabricating operations at its Post plant and phase out operations at the Hall plant in Memphis over the next week to 10 days.

Noel E. Garvin, vice president of manufacturing for the Burlington Domestic division, said the move is prompted by the need for consolidating manufacturing operations to improve the company's total competitive position in the face of rising operating costs at every level. "This has been accelerated by the drop-off in markets for muslin sheeting such as we've been processing at Memphis," he added.

Plant Manager Don Smith said the 65 Hall plant employees affected are being interviewed about their individual situations. "Efforts will be made to help place them with other industry in the area. The closing in no way reflects on their performance," he said. "They have done an extremely good job. The consolidation is purely an economic move necessitated by changing markets and rising costs at every level." Employees affected will receive severance pay, profit sharing and retirement benefits.

Mr. Garvin said the Hall plant production of muslin sheeting would be moved to Post where the company has operated a larger sheeting plant for a number of years.

He said the company has no immediate plans for the local building but will work with local and state agencies to find a tenant.

County political pot beginning to boil

The Garza County political pot isn't boiling yet, but it went over the fire this week with three county offices three precinct offices and a district judgeship due to be selected by voters in 1978, the new political season was declared open Tuesday.

County Judge Giles W. Dalby is the first of the office holders to announce he will seek reelection.

The first new candidate to file is Paul H. Jones, former county commissioner from precinct 1 for 12 years, who will make the race for county treasurer.

At the same time, County Treasurer Pauline Coleman announced she would not seek reelection. She will have served 12 years when she completes her present term.

Jones told The Dispatch Wednesday he feels he knows the operations of county government here and the responsibilities of the treasurer's office after 12 years on the county commissioners court.

Jones did not seek reelection as a commissioner two years ago. Several are expected to file for reelection as soon as the necessary filing papers are received here from Austin.

'Deernapper' is busy too

In one of the most unusual thefts reported here in a long time, someone stole two un-skinned deer carcasses from the separate refrigerated storage unit of the Jackson Brothers Meat Packing plant sometime Tuesday night.

Sheriff Jim Pippin told The Dispatch the refrigerated deer storage unit had been left unlocked and some unskinned deer carcasses just helped himself.

Jackson told The Dispatch that the unit has always been left unlocked so deer could be unloaded and this is the first theft ever.

He said the plant has processed over 350 deer for hunters this season with only a few still to be processed.

"I went out to get these two big deer and they just weren't there," Jackson said in explaining the theft.

Besides the county judgeship, other county offices scheduled to be filled here this year are those of county clerk and county treasurer, offices now held by Carl Cederholm and Pauline Coleman, respectively.

County commissioners from Precincts two and four, positions now held by Ted Aten and Herbert Walls, also will be elected. The other precinct office is that Youth held in 'dognapping'

Kenny Hair is in Garza County's jail in lieu of making $1,000 bond on a felony charge of the theft of a dog here worth over $200. The case will await grand jury consideration.

The dog referred to in the charge was a valuable doberman pinscher pup stolen from Johnny Andres Dec. 11 and found a week later in a garage in the west part of Post with the owner of the property having no knowledge of the pup's presence in the garage according to the sheriff.

Two elected as directors

Bryan J. Williams and Julian Smith have been elected as new directors for three-year terms on the board of Post's Rental Housing Association, Inc.

They will succeed Lewis Herron and Jim Cornish who go off the board. Returning board members are Robert Cox, James Mitchell, Lee Norman and Glen Barley.

The new board will meet today to elect officers. Currently the board is seeking to add six new rental units at the present site of rental duplexes on Avenue S.

According to Zintgraff, suits for up to $150 can be filed for a $7.50 filing fee and up to $200 maximum for a $15 fee.

The hospital administrator said he also is preparing to file suits for larger amounts in the county court seeking judgments which would permit liens to be filed against property owned by the defendants.

Dispatch Editorials

Housing Post's No. 1 need

The first editorial of any new year by any newspaper worth its salt is usually devoted to a peek at the future—and the most important future needs of its community.

In looking back as 1977 closed, The Dispatch pointed out Post and Garza County had fewer needs today than most years because local elective bodies have been doing a darn good job of solving local problems.

Post already appears to be on its way to a major 1978 accomplishment in the completion of the Post Community Center project, which includes a separate youth center.

In 1977, Post voters solved the hospital problem by voting themselves a hefty tax increase to provide financial stability for our community hospital. Now the hospital is in better shape today than ever before in its 25-year history.

So what is there to write about here? The answer is—solving our housing problem.

Construction here last year totaled little more than $300,000 with only four new homes constructed.

The housing pinch is very real. So let's look at the problem. First, it's mighty complicated because a new home today costs a lot of money. But you can offset that with the fact that the new home you buy today probably will be worth 50 percent again as much or more in another ten years.

One can't wait to build because the costs keeps going up. There is no conceivable way it will ever come down again short of another Great Depression and then nobody would be able to finance a home.

One builder tried construction here last year on a small scale.

How did he come out? Well, he didn't find it easy to sell those homes. We would guess he lost most of his profit having them on his hands a few months.

Of course what is needed in the worst way is medium-sized homes that newcomers can afford to buy on time. It's been 17 years since we had a builder do much construction here. We remember because that's when what we fondly call the "C castle" was built. We are no building expert, but we understand the small house these days costs so much there are no buyers for them.

Certainly, a good-sized rental project is needed here. We have young wives in The Dispatch office every week pleading to see the "for rent want ads" in advance of publication so they can get the first look. They are next to desperate too.

The outstanding success of Post's rental duplex project is proof that new rentals are needed. The project has been "full up" since it opened and a modest six-apartment expansion on the site is now in the planning stage.

But this project was built by means of low government interest loan. We have no idea whether or not, a privately-owned housing project would make a profit, but it certainly would be a boon to this community.

We noted over the weekend in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal that our neighboring city built a record 3,400 dwelling units last year (most of them rentals) at a cost of millions of dollars. Getting to somebody more our size, Brownfield News reported Sunday that Brownfield had almost $6,500,000 in building permits last year. Of that total, $1,800,000 was spent for 81 new homes, compared with only 48 new homes built in 1976.

Possibly, Brownfield is the exception. Most smaller towns have a common problem in the housing shortage because both financing and builders are harder to come by in smaller communities.

But basically the place to start solving the housing problem is right here at home by generating local interest.

We would encourage the Post Chamber of Commerce to make housing their No. 1 project for 1978. They did in 1976 and from it came our currently successful rental housing project.

But we need to work to bring home buyers, builders and financial institutions together.

Post has stood still far too long with its housing problem. It is sure to cripple community growth unless we solve it. So let's do that—together—in 1978.

Politics big news now

One major difference in American life between 1978 and 1977 is that politics are back on the front burner. It's not presidential election year, of course, but here in Texas the voters are going to make a lot of important decisions, come May and November.

First, there's whether or not Dolph Briscoe is going to turn the Texas governorship into a dynasty by being elected to a third term, now four years, which would give him a decade in office if he served it out.

Polls show he goes into the election year with a big lead over Attorney General John Hill and former governor Preston Smith. Of course, the gap is going to narrow down a lot before the primary.

The source of Briscoe's strength we would guess lies in his rock-ribbed conservatism. Certainly his record of accomplishment for six years can be summed up in a single phrase: "no new taxes."

We think Briscoe's major challenge will not come from fellow Democrats in the primary, but from a Republican in the general election. That is only a guess which may not stand the test of an election year, but 1978 will go down as the biggest GOP challenge yet for the governorship.

After the governorship, there is the matter of whether Texans are going to stay hitched to their usual arrangement of having one Republican senator and one Democratic in a single state where registration is heavily Democratic.

Senator John Tower comes up for another election test to a six-year term, and as usual he will have a bevy of Democratic challengers.

The mere fact that this is Tower's year to go before the voters will make the Republican bid stronger than ever before for state offices, especially the governorship.

The Republicans can't win anything statewide without a lot of Democratic support—and that support will come only from Democrats disgruntled with primary outcomes. Senator Tower has a chance because of the strong conservatism in Texas which has kept Briscoe in the governor's mansion.

From the senate's race we work our way down to selecting a new congressman. Several veteran Texas congressmen are retiring this year by not seeking reelection, Omar Burleson, this district's super conservative, among them.

There are a lot of new faces in the congressional race—and almost all of them are politically attractive. So it will come down to geography and "power bases" when weeding out time comes in May.

But that's not all. There's local politics too on the county level. We haven't heard so much about these races because traditionally no announcements are made by candidates here until after New Year's.

But the new year has arrived and its time for local politics too, so it will be interesting to see who wants to run for what. Remember the big surprise two years ago was Jim Pippin's convincing victory in the sheriff's race.

With few registered Republicans in Garza County, the county races will be decided in the primary which makes the "local political season" much shorter than the big state one.

Big poll lead to Briscoe

AUSTIN — Governor Dolph Briscoe is beginning his campaign for re-election with a wide lead in the Democratic primary, according to a new statewide poll conducted by a candidate in another race.

The survey was taken by Henson-Hopkins Associates of Austin for U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger's campaign for the Senate. Other races were also sampled and results of the entire poll were released by the Krueger campaign.

The survey, conducted in December, showed that Briscoe's lead among likely Democratic voters is 43 percent against 28 percent for John Hill and 8 percent for Preston Smith. The remaining 21 percent were listed as undecided.

Among voters identified as "strong" Democrats, the Governor's lead rose to 48 percent against 25 percent for Hill, 6 percent for Smith and 21 percent undecided.

The results among all voters, regardless of political affiliation, were 41 percent for Briscoe, 27 percent for Hill, 7 percent for Smith, 24 percent undecided and 1 percent refusing to say.

WOULD NATURE MAKE THIS MISTAKE? the evolutionist says it did

Talk about faith — he's got it! Getting corn from a banana is nothing. He gets everything by starting with one cell and changing species millions of times. We even got our animals from the same one cell beginning — you do believe that, don't you? After all, we do want to be rational and scientific. — Jere E. Frost

SOMETHING NEW UNDER A CRUST

Enveloped in a rich, exotic shrimp sauce and baked in a crust, plain and simple fish fillets emerge to a king's taste. The French have a word—"eroute"—for crusted foods, but there is another word, too, Magic!

SHRIMP-SAUCE FISH IN CRUST

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup
- 2 tablespoons dry white wine or 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon capers, drained
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
- 1 can (4 1/2 ounces) shrimp, drained
- Dough for 2 double-crust pies or 2 packages pie-crust mix
- 6 fish fillets, fresh or frozen
- 1/2 cup sliced almonds
- 2 or 3 stuffed olives

Melt butter; stir in flour, then undiluted soup. Cook until mixture bubbles. Add wine or juice, capers, parsley, and shrimp. Set aside. Prepare and divide dough into six equal portions. Roll out to the thickness of pie-crust. Cut portions in half to the rough shape of whole fish, making sure there is dough to spare for shaping heads and tails; for sealing and fluting edges. Blot fillets dry; place on dough and spread with shrimp sauce. Use all the sauce. Brush edges with a little sauce; cover fish with dough. Seal and flute edges while pushing and molding the dough into fish shapes around the fillets. Cut V-notches in dough for tails. Brush "fish" with slightly beaten egg white; stud with almonds in the pattern of fish scales. Olive slices make the eyes. Bake about 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Taylors honored on 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception in the bank's community room, Sunday, Jan. 1.

Approximately 130 guests registered between the hours of three and five o'clock. Guests attending the country style reception registered from a table featuring a hand made farmer and farmer's wife dressed in blue denim with a matching arrangement in blue denim.

Mrs. Taylor was the former Jewel Hagar and the couple were married in Dickens on Dec. 26, 1927. They lived near Spur until moving to Post in 1937 and have farmed in the Verbena community since that time. Guests were served from a table laid with an ecru linen cloth with ruffles and lace insertions. The three-tiered cake represented a large basket of black-eyed susans. An old-fashioned kerosene lamp nestled in an arrangement of dried foliage was used for the centerpiece. Punch was served from a large crock using a gourd dipper and other serving pieces were of wood and crockery.

Children and grandchildren of the couple who were hosts for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Pat Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Punk Peel, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sappington, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Jack Taylor, Randy Peel, Todd and Tory Taylor, and two great-grandsons, Rance and Rynn Sappington.

Assisting with hostess duties were Mmes. Barrie Jones, George Miller, Wade Terry and Russell Wilks, Jr.

LUBBOCK — Eight meetings are scheduled across the High Plains in January to give cotton producers, ginners and others a first-hand look at the achievements of Cotton Incorporated during 1977 and the challenges facing cotton in the near future.

The kickoff meeting on the Plains will be at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3 in the Memorial Building, Tulsa, followed by a meeting at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 5, at the Massey Activity Center, Floydada. Don Marble of South Plains and-or CI Director J.D. Smith of Sudan will chair the Tulsa and Floydada meetings.

DECEMBER DRAINS BLOOD BANK INVENTORIES

Some blood banks are running in the red, trying to make up for shortages that occurred during December. A blood bank's inventory can be strained because of donations usually decrease in December. At the same time, needs increase due to larger numbers of traffic accidents and illnesses.

The Texas Medical Association hopes many people can overcome any uneasiness about giving blood so they can help fill the important need. The entire blood-giving procedure usually takes about 30 minutes including getting a brief medical history from the donor. Actually drawing the blood takes approximately 10 minutes and has been refined so that there is little or no discomfort.

Most people are able to give blood about once every two months. Medical conditions can prevent some people from donating that often and some cannot give at all. Anyone who has had hepatitis anytime in his or her life cannot ever donate. People who have taken an antibiotic or certain other drugs cannot donate if he or she took the drug within 30 days of the time they want to donate. A person who has had malaria or tuberculosis symptoms within the last three years also is excluded. People who have had a baby or major surgery within the last six months cannot donate because their bodies need to keep the blood materials to build up their own bodies. People unsure about their status can call a blood bank to see if they are eligible to donate.

Mobile blood collection units also can give information and take donations. Since January is Texas Blood Donation Month, many groups will be sponsoring drives, making mobile units available or organizing trips to permanent centers to dispense information and make it easier for people to give blood.

Tune In to Morrow

By DAVID MORROW

Well, the holidays were a welcome change but in a way, it's kind of nice to go back to school and see everybody again (to compare Christmas presents and New Year's Eve exploits.) Time is growing short, and May will come a lot sooner than you think it will, so get what's gotta be done over with and enjoy the summer with a free conscience.

It seems kind of strange to be talking about summer in January... must be just wishful thinking.

Several people are home from college for the holidays. Talking with them really makes you apprehensive about higher education ("That final was the hardest I ever took in my life... whatever you do, don't take Chemistry 132). These statements, among others, make you wonder if it's really worth it all. But then some other stories almost guarantee that college will be worth it!

A couple of incidents that happened during the holidays were scary to hear about, but fortunately, they ended without real tragedy. Steve and Penny Shedd and their family were involved in a serious car accident, but no one was hurt. Billy Smith's experience with the hitchhiker could have ended much worse than it did, but I sincerely hope the police find the criminal and administer due process of law. Aside from property loss and damage, I'm just glad that no one was injured.

The Youth Center sponsored another KSEL disc jockey dance last Friday and everyone enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The young people of Post should be very thankful that facilities are provided for activities like this. Special recognition goes to Norma Baumann, youth center director, who puts up with a lot of "bull" and still manages to keep things reasonably smooth. All the people I have talked with appreciate the youth center and everyone looks forward to another dance of special activity.

Gloria will enter army after graduation

Gloria Martinez, a senior member of the HECE program at Post High School, is employed by Bob Collier Drug.

may come in handy to me in the future", she says.

When asked about the value of her job in her future life, Gloria replied "I think it's very important for kids in high school to work and get some idea of what working is like. This job has been a big help to me in that way."

After graduating from high school, Gloria plans to enter the armed services. She has been accepted into the Army and will be stationed at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina for basic training then she will be transferred to Ft. Benjamin Harrison in Indianapolis, Indiana. Gloria is going into the field of stenography.

Post varsity teams play Tahoka there Friday

Freshmen, JV teams in weekend tourneys

Post High's two varsity cage teams will journey to Tahoka Friday night for district games with the Does opening their district schedule and the Lopes seeking their second victory in three district starts against the Bulldogs.

The boys JV teams of the two schools will play the preliminary game.

Both of the Post varsity teams, now in a rebuilding year, have not been picked to finish in district play by coaches in a pre-season pole.

But both are improving. With five games played in five days in Slaton's girls tourney last week, the Does now sport a 12-11 seasonal record.

Since the girls state meet is a week later this year, the girls schedule runs a week longer than the boys, and consequently district play is opening later for them.

The Lopes already have defeated Cooper here before Christmas and lost at Roosevelt Tuesday night in district action.

Next Tuesday, both clubs will be on the home floor playing Friendship in a district tripleheader with the JV girls playing the preliminary.

Post's two JV teams and freshmen teams will be in weekend action in tournaments opening Thursday. Both boys and girls JV teams will play in the Jayton tourney, opening Thursday.

The two freshmen teams will compete in the Crosbyton freshman tourney.

The girls are scheduled to play Floydada at 10 a. m. Thursday in their first round game and the boys also will play Floydada at 11:30 a. m. today.

Does wallop Lubbock here

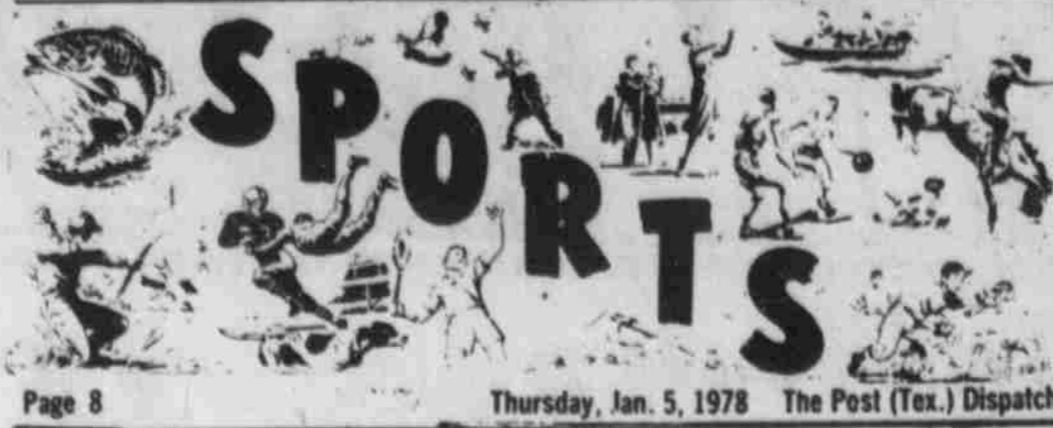

Nancy Clary turned in the best individual scoring performance of the year for the Post Does here Tuesday night when she scored 28 points to lead the local team to an easy 63 to 21 victory over Lubbock High girls.

Nancy, whose previous high was 26 points, hit for 11 field goals and six free throws as the Does broke their 11-11 seasonal record with their 12th win prior to opening district cage play Friday night.

This is Lubbock's first year of varsity competition in girls basketball although that school has been building up to it with intramural play.

Post jumped into a 13-3 lead in the first period and was never headed, leading 24 to 15 at the half and 50 to 17 after three periods.

Kerri Pool was second high for Post with 16 points, Danna Giddens had seven, Debbie Wyatt six, and Karla Kennedy and Dana Bird, three each.

Does lose 7th place playoff

Coach John Morrow's Post Does got a lot of experience in playing five games in the West Texas girls invitational tournament at Slaton last week and wound up bowing to Wylie 40 to 31 late Saturday afternoon in the battle for seventh place.

For the week, the Does had two wins and three defeats in five straight days and nights of tournament play.

The Does opened their tournament play Tuesday with a low score 32 to 29 victory over Tulia.

In their second rounder of the 16-team affair Wednesday the Does dropped out of the championship bracket with a 60 to 49 loss to Lubbock Monterey as M. Grennell bucketed 40 points for the winners in a great individual performance which included 12 field goals and 16 out of 18 free throws.

Dropping into the consolation bracket, the Does on Thursday scored a 42 to 30 win over Rotan to reach the consolation semi-finals. In that one, Debbie Wyatt had 17 and Danna Giddens 16 points for the Does. Abernathy handed the Does a 52 to 29 loss on Friday as the locals couldn't get their attack going in the first half and trailed 29 to 12 at the intermission.

The Does managed only 11 of 31 shots from the field and hit on seven of 13 frees with Nancy Clary scoring 11 points for the only shooter in double figures. Wyatt, Kerri Pool and Giddens had six each.

In the playoff for seventh place Saturday, the Does again couldn't get rolling in the offensive end of the court until the second half. They outscored Wylie in the last half, 22 to 16 but had too big a first half deficit to catch up. Wylie led 24 to 9 at the half.

Clary was high for Post in this one with 24 points followed by Giddens with nine and Wyatt had eight.

Nazareth, a Class B toughie in girls basketball, won the tourney championship defeating Stanton, a Class A school, in the finals.

The host Slaton team finished third after bowing to Stanton in the Friday semi-finals.

late December was ranked number six in Texas, and a general story dealing with the growth of women's sports in Texas. Local TV stations should be consulted for times and dates of the broadcasts.

Tech building women's sport dep't

LUBBOCK — With a growing emphasis on women's sports nationwide, many colleges and universities are beefing up their athletic departments to meet the demand. Texas Tech University is one of those institutions and is building its department to meet the needs of West Texans for a comprehensive women's athletics program.

Since the vast majority of Tech's women athletes come from West Texas cities and towns, Texas Tech Women's Athletics are attempting to tell their story and that of women's sports to the area public.

Tech is telling the story in an unusual way: by producing videotaped news features and distributing them to West Texas television stations. Texas Tech women's athletics has recently initiated a series of news features, with Athletic Director Jeannine McHaney as commentator.

McHaney, the only athletic director the Tech women have ever had, not only is breaking the traditional mold by being a TV reporter, but also has etched an outstanding professional career at Texas Tech. A graduate of Arkansas State University, she received the Bachelor of Science degree in 1965 and the Master of Science degree in '66. She then joined the Tech faculty.

Before her appointment as athletic director in 1975, McHaney served as an assistant professor in the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and as Women's Intramural Director.

A recognized leader in the advancement of women's sports, McHaney was District Commissioner with the Texas Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics for women and is immediate past president of the Texas Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (TAIAW) and the Large College Representative and Tech voting delegate to the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW).

McHaney served as Tech volleyball coach from 1966-'71. In 1975, she was selected "Woman of the Year" at Texas Tech University, signifying her recognition as one of the institutions top woman executives. She is also listed in "Who's Who Among American Women."

The Tech women's athletic program, now only three years old, has seen a marked and dramatic growth in its short life. For the '77-'78 fiscal year the department has a budget of some $247,000, including staff salaries, as compared with allotted for the department's first year of operation. The department is also awarding 37 scholarships to athletes in seven sports.

With technical help from the university's information service, University News and Publications, the Women's Athletic Department has now completed two videotaped news features, which could be seen by the West Texas community within the next month.

The two features deal with the Texas Tech women's basketball team, who, in

Lopes in Roosevelt district loss

Coach John Alexander's Post Antelopes evened their district cage record at one-one Tuesday night in dropping a 61 to 40 decision to the Roosevelt Eagles at Roosevelt.

The Lopes jumped into an 18 to 16 first quarter lead and promised to make a real game of it before going "ice cold" with their shooting eyes from the second period on.

Post managed only four points in the second period and trailed 34 to 22 at half time and couldn't get much more going in the second half when they tallied only eight points in the third and ten in the fourth.

"They were the same shots as the first period but they wouldn't drop," Coach Alexander told The Dispatch. He said after the first period, Post probably didn't hit over 20 percent from the field.

Brad Shepherd led the Lopes scorers again with 14 points on seven fielders as seven of the eight players seeing action got into the scoring column.

Evans Heaton had eight, Ronald Bratcher seven, Cliff Kirkpatrick six, Raymie Holly and Bryan Compton two each and Clinton Curtis one.

The Lopes had opened district play with a win over Cooper here before Christmas.

Lopes bow in tourney finals

Coach John Alexander's Post Antelopes lost to Vega, 69 to 44, in the finals of Division I of the Amarillo Jaycee basketball tournament Saturday to bring home runner-up honors in the event.

Post drew a first round bye and then edged Dalhart 61 to 49 in the semi-finals Friday morning.

Brad Shepherd, who had a 20-point game against Dalhart was named to the all-tournament squad of 10 players selected from all 24 teams competing in the event. It was Brad's best scoring output of the year.

The Lopes had to stave off a determined fourth period rally by Dalhart for their semi-final win.

The locals led at the end of each quarter, 12 to 11 at the end of the first, 26 to 20 at the half, and 39 to 32 at the end of the third.

Dalhart bounced back to outscore the Lopes 17 to 12 in the final period to make it interesting at the finish.

Shepherd hit seven fielders and six of eight free throws for his 20 points. Tim Morris was next with 10. Evans Heaton added eight, Ronald Bratcher six, Cliff Kirkpatrick five and Raymie Holly two.

It was a different story against Vega, a fine Class A team which was a regional runner-up last year and had three starters back jumped into a game and pulled away second period, for a comfortable 42 to 24 interval margin.

Bratcher led the shooters Saturday night, followed by Shepherd, Kirkpatrick, six each, Holly and Heaton each by Compton and Morris.

Farm Bureau in Houston meet

The American Farm Bureau Federation will grapple with issues associated with farm price support at its annual meeting in the Houston area Jan. 8-12. The meeting will be well attended with 15 voting delegates and input in the convention activities of 15,000 persons. Delegates from all states and including Texas families, are expected to attend. The meeting will be presided over by a committee of state presidents. Recommendations from the meeting will be taken into account by the organization. The meeting will take an aggressive approach in an effort to get farm producers' prices for their products in order to compete with other industries. It will make a fair expanding export market and keeping trade open. A strong effort is expected on the part of the government in farming. The new farm bill is being administered in a way that would make it dependent on government payments on a government-controlled basis of agricultural products. In addition to being hosted by the Lone Star State, the meeting will be held in Texas-oriented. A speaker service which opens the conference will feature Dr. John H. Johnson, president of the Christian University, as speaker and the Texas Capitol Chorus. Gov. Mark White will extend an invitation to the state at the general session. The University Head of the Texas A&M System will speak at the Organization of Agricultural Producers Conference, one of the special conferences to be held Jan. 9. The Conference will be chaired by TFB President Carrol Chaloupka. TFB Executive Director James Newberry will speak at the Swine Conference. The Farm Bureau will have representatives in several youth activities. Other speakers include Bob Gruner of Preparation is being made for the upcoming annual awards banquet which will be held at the outstanding farmer or rancher of Garza County will be recognized. Educational activities are underway and include the annual essay and poster contest for Garza County students. Plans are currently in the making for developing a youth conservation board and a conservation queen contest. The Garza S.W.C.D. offers assistance of the Soil Conservation Service to Garza County farmers and ranchers. They also sponsor and share help for installation of conservation practices through the Great Plains Conservation Program. Currently 85 percent of the Garza County producers work with the District, and 90 percent of the land in Garza County has or is receiving assistance from the Great Plains Conservation Program. Area farmers and ranchers are urged to contact their district which provides services at no cost. Request for race, color, sex, or national origin.

MEETING SET

The Garza Historical Survey Commission will meet Tuesday, Jan. 10 in the bank community room, at 9:30 a.m. All interested members are urged to attend.

Arrival of air force personnel here has created no real housing emergency as Rex Allison has contracted with the air-force to supply housing facilities for 17 single men for the coming year's assignment in mobile homes and other facilities on property he owns west of Post.

Two members of the unit, however, arrived here this week with wives and families and are seeking local rental accommodations.

The Dispatch received a second call from SAC headquarters Wednesday morning with additional information on the radar bomb scoring site.

Capt. Harry Sunderland told The Dispatch that Post's mobile unit is one of three on a new bombing route in Texas with other mobile units located at Lefors and Hitchland, Tex.

The new operational readiness route, beginning Feb. 1, will be used exclusively by the SAC Inspector General for annual operational readiness inspections of 22 air force bombing wings.

When the readiness inspection of each wing by SAC Inspector General is made at various air force bases across the nation, 15 aircraft from each wing will fly this newly established operational readiness route to determine their readiness for low level bombing.

None of the aircraft will have previously flown the route prior to wing inspections.

After wing inspections are completed in July, the route will become a regular training route and more heavily used.

Readiness inspection flights for the next few months are scheduled on a twice-a-week basis. They will be flown at any hour of day or night as all the planes of a wing will fly the route in order until the readiness flights are completed for the wing.

Captain Sunderland is mailing The Dispatch photos on the radar bomb site operation and information concerning the B-52 and FB-111 bombers which will use the Post site for both inspection and training low level bombing runs.

Politics-

Also due for ballot appearance is the position of district court judge, now held by George Hansard.

Just how much interest develops in these local races is problematical, but certainly some contests are expected.

Besides these decisions coming up for the voters in 1978, a hot race for governor, senator, various state offices, and congressmen have already developed.

With "name identification" the most important element in the statewide and congressional district elections, candidates for these offices have already announced.

Traditionally here in Garza County, candidates wait until after the new year to announce for local offices.

The Dispatch hasn't quizzed present holders of their intentions, but most of them are expected to seek reelection.

Postings-

(Continued From Page One) back from headquarters of the Strategic Bombing Command Wednesday morning with a lot of additional facts, and then promised to mail pictures and details of the two bombers that would be flying over for bombing tests.

—O—
We couldn't have asked for better cooperation and we want to say so, because so many governmental agencies or armed forces units constantly draw criticism of one kind or another and deserved to be praised when they do it right. And they sure did it right by us this week.

—O—
What's more later Wednesday morning the sergeant from Reese AFB we had originally contacted called back to be sure that we had received the information we had requested and which he had requested through higher channels.

—O—
While all the single men in the air force detachment here have been lined up for housing, there are two who have brought wives along and are seeking individual rental accommodations. We hope the town can respond and find room for them. We'll be glad to pass on any vacancies to them if you have something furnished for rent.

—O—
Norma Baumann had more difficulty with her assignment to get a picture of the first baby contest winner than she expected Wednesday morning.

—O—
She was required to don a hospital gown and put on a surgical mask before being allowed into the room with mother and infant. Every time she tried to focus the camera she fogged up the lens trying to breathe through the mask.

—O—
But she finally held her breath and got the picture. You'll note Daddy in the picture has a surgical gown on too. All we wonder is why he didn't have to put on a mask?

Rotarians hear of park pack trip

Post Rotarians were treated to slides of a September pack trip in Yellowstone National Park by three Post men and a humorous account of their experiences by Charles McCook, one of the trio.

The other two Don Payne and Johnny Kemp. These three were also accompanied by an Abilene man.
