Citizens Asked To Buy $1 In War Stamps In July

Retail stores, theatres, newspaper boys, post offices, and a multitude of other War Stamp selling sources will cooperate during July in a great national campaign to build and equip a mighty Mystery Aircraft Carrier, Shangri-La, to bomb Tokyo again.

The Treasury Department's goal is: The purchase of $1.00 in War Stamps by every American out of their extra change.

The idea of an aircraft carrier, Shangri-La, sprang from the people, with the exception of the wave of anger which swept America after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor the feeling of horror which gripped Americans with the news that the Tokyo War Lords had executed some of Doolittle's fliers has no parallel in American history.

Certificates To Be Awarded To Garza Families

"It is a simple word of appreciation and encouragement to the fighting units on the food front, our farm families," the chairman said in explaining the purpose of the certificate.

Although working under handicaps, such as shortage of labor, machinery and transportation, goals of many commodities have been set still higher for 1943 than they were during 1942.

Two Crushed To Death On Highway Near Southland

James Benton Matlock, 51, was killed; his wife, Mrs. Willie Mae Matlock, about 36, was fatally injured, and their four children were slightly injured early Saturday near Southland when a truck plunged into their beds arranged alongside the highway.

W. L. Cross, who investigated said the mishap was at 5:30 o'clock, three miles south of Southland. Mason & Company Ambulance and drivers gave assistance to the group.

The Matlocks, schoolteachers, were en route to near Littlefield from Concho county, with their children and their household effects. A trailer was attached to their car.

A flat tire caused them to stop but they failed to drive the car and trailer off the paving. Cross said. They put down two mattresses in the bar ditch and went to sleep, leaving a lighted lantern in the tailgate of the trailer.

A truck driven by Milton N. Carter, 30, of Dallas approached the rear of the trailer and, under presumption a "one-eyed" automobile was approaching him, swung to the right to avoid it. Seeing the car lurch up in his path, he swerved his truck into the bar ditch.

The two beds were revealed in his lights at that split-second—too late, he said, to avoid them.

His wheels straddled the mattresses on which three daughters of the Matlocks—Elsie Ray, 12, Lora Lee, 11, and Joan, 7—were sleeping, but passed across the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Matlock and their 3-year-old son, James Benton, Jr., on the other mattresses.

Matlock probably died instantly of a crushed chest and head injury. His body was taken to Mason Funeral home at Post, but a Mason ambulance rushed Mrs. Matlock and the infant to Mercy hospital in Slaton.

Mrs. Matlock died approximately three minutes after arrival at the hospital, of shock and intracranial bleeding, a coroner of the hospital said. Her body was taken to the Williams Funeral home in Slaton.

The infant suffered mild shock and severe bruises, principally of the right thigh and hip. He was pronounced to have been shielded from more serious harm by the bodies of his parents.

Carter stopped his truck in approximately 20 feet, hailed a passing motorist and asked for assistance.

The three girls "almost miraculously" escaped death, Cross said. Her investigation had disclosed it was believed some of them might have been brushed by the wheels of the truck, others by the axles.

A highway patrolman reminded the general public that the details of Mr. and Mrs. Matlock "make eye victims in recent weeks of crashes resulting from motor vehicles having been left on highways."

"The often persons have failed to remove caps because of possible damage to deflated tires, but many lives are raised when cars are not driven completely off highways when they are stopped."

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Matlock, it was announced, were sent to Kiesel, Concho county, for burial Sunday.

Tips On Canning That Will Prove Profitable

Accuracy and patience are keynotes to success in home canning. Quick handling of food, too, is as essential to successful canning.

Canning is like knitting; if you read all the directions at once it's confusing, but if you proceed step by step, it's easy. Decide in advance what processes you will use, assemble your equipment, keep cool, at least emotionally, and you will be able to turn out food that is much better than that put up by grandmother.

An important point to consider is this: Make an estimate of the needs of your family. The questions will be how much, what and when.

How Much?

The Government suggests that you allow a minimum of 125 miscellaneous quarts per person. With this as a guide, think in terms of three meals a day and remember that there are about 150 days when your own garden isn't producing and when transportation from the outside world limits supplies.

Count on 6 generous servings from a quart jar, 3 from a pint jar, and 2 smallish ones from half-pint. Pack extra jams, jellies, and some relishes in hipflap jars to give your family flavor changes, and use as Christmas presents or gifts for invalids. Baby food jars are a bright idea to save for this purpose.

When you have made an estimate you'd better check it against the storage space you can spare, undisturbed, from May until September. And before you break your total goal down into how-much-of-what, you had better balance your family's likes and dislikes against what is abundant, cheap and available fresh in your immediate neighborhood.

What?

Your family will vote you a well-earned halo if your overall plan has variety. Herewith a reminder list to check by.

For breakfast, can juices such as cranberry, cherry, apple, grape, tomato, sauerkraut, mixed vegetable. Or fruits in light syrup such as rhubarb, plums, blueberries, cherries, apples, apricots, peaches, pears.

For lunch, light suppers, snacks, put up fruit cocktail, catsup, jam, jelly, marmalade, relish, pickles.

For dinner, include soup, meat stock, vegetable concentrates. Meats: chicken, squab, rabbit, lamb, beef, pork, veal, game and fish. Vegetables: asparagus, beans (all kinds), beets, broccoli, carrots, corn, greens, mushrooms, peas, peppers, pumpkins, squash, succotash, tomatoes. And desserts: fruit preserves in heavy syrup, peaches, pear chips, spiced pears or grapes, brandied peaches, cherries, sour pie cherries, mixed fruit compote.

When?

The produce is the boss. You must plan ahead for the day when fruits and vegetables will be ready, either in your own garden or a neighboring farm or at the grocer's. Call off all engagements. Assemble all equipment. It has been suggested by health authorities that you keep the salt shaker close by in order that you might take a "pinch" ever so often. This wards off heat exhaustion. Plan to can at least one day every week during the canning season.

Mrs. Monroe Davis returned left Tuesday from Beach, California where she joined her husband who worked in the shipyards there.

LOOK OUT, AXIS!

CLEVELAND, OHIO—Should the Axis descend to the point of using poison gas, the President warned them that it will bring "full and swift retaliation" by the United States. Production of bombs in quantity has been started by a Cleveland firm, first in the Cleveland Ordnance District to undertake such a contract, and they are shipping carloads of these bombs to the east and west coasts for loading. The bombs are carefully made, tested at every step of manufacture. In racks of 30 on skids the bombs are taken by industrial trucks from testing floor to railway siding and (as photo shows) loaded into boxcar in a continuous operation.

MAY SHIPMENTS OF EGGS TOOK 127 RAILROAD CARS

By feeding or powdering all of the Texas eggs which went to out-of-state army camps or other markets, it took only 127 railroad cars to transport May shipments, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

These shipments, however, were the equivalent of 848 cars of shell eggs—almost twice the May, 1942, total of 428 carloads.

Texas eggs were shipped to 17 states, the bureau report showed. In addition to out-of-state movement, bureau figures show that the equivalent of 337 cars of shell eggs were shipped to points in Texas.

Jar Rubbers Are Different This Year

It is now thought that red rubber will be available for jar rings this year but there will be no cause for alarm if the rubbers you buy turn out to be black. It is the rubber, not the color, that counts. True, you may be a bit startled when you open your first package of the war models. "But what of it?" asks Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company. "Our grandmothers got along well enough with lipless rubbers and so can we."

Months ago, manufacturers began experiments to learn how to make jar rings that would conserve both rubber and food—the government set its scientists to the same task. One of the first things upon which all agreed was that lips are unnecessary for opening jars. The point of a thin knife can be run under the rubber to make a tiny space for air to seep through and break the seal. It is then easy to remove cap or lid. It was also agreed that jar rings could be a small fraction of an inch narrower but the thickness must remain at the pre-war standard.

War-time rubbers will keep jars sealed air-tight, but they won't stand abuse. To get good results, break yourself of that never-good habit of stretching to test and follow these four simple rules:

1. Wash and rinse rubbers. Boil them to sterilize if you can fruits the old-fashioned open-kettle way. If processing is to be done, drop the rubbers in boiling water and set aside until needed.
2. Have rubbers wet when they are used—and be sure that each rubber lies flat on the sealing surface of the jar.
3. Partly seal all jars before processing.
4. Screw zinc caps and bands on glass top seal closures slowly when sealing, as quick or jerky turns cause rubbers to slip out of position.

Older Workers Employed

More than a third of all persons employed in May were 45 years of age or older, said Paul V. McNutt, Chairman of the War Manpower Commission, and added that the steady rise in employment among older workers indicates that employers are learning to value the experience and "steadiness" of more mature workers.

Miss Billie Goodloe of Fort Worth returned home last week after a visit with Lois Custer. Billie is a niece of Mrs. Custers.

One of the most sensational scientific discoveries of modern times is an anti-gray hair vitamin that restores natural, normal color to gray hair in nature's own way. Scientific investigation has revealed that gray hair, in many cases, may be due to a vitamin deficiency. Scientists have also discovered the particular vitamin that is necessary to restore color to the hair in such cases. Reports of tests made indicate remarkable results. Not a dye—not a tint—not a drug—not a medicine! It is a valuable food supplement. If you are among the millions of people who find themselves handicapped, in business or socially, because of gray hair, mail coupon below for writer of free booklet about this marvelous new vitamin discovery. There is no cost or obligation, so send today.

NOW IS THE TIME TO WINTERIZE YOUR HOME

Let the sun shine—on your home while you get it ready for winter: and when cold weather comes, your heat-tight home will be as comfortable as on sunny days in July! Every home must be conditioned so as not to waste fuel: heavy equipment must be put in good repair: to help Uncle Sam help our boys to Victory!

Insulate...

Let us inspect your home and tell you the quickest, least expensive way to insulate so it will be heat-tight all winter.

Repair Roof...

That's one of the waste-spots of your home, because it may be riddled with cracks and holes too small to see, yet big enough to waste much fuel-heat.

Caulking...

It seals your home against fuel waste—is an easy and inexpensive job. Better have it done early—because the longer you wait, the harder it will be to get labor and materials.

Nothing must interfere with our war effort! Wasted fuel is sabotage! Don't risk it—let us help you home-condition now!

Entered at the Post Office at Post, Texas, as second class mail matter, according to an Act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

REGULATION WITH JUSTICE

The fact that we have the outstanding civilian air transport lines of the world which overnight were largely diverted to war work for the armed forces, under civilian management, was of incalculable value to our government in its greatest crisis.

With the importance of aviation catapulted to the forefront by war, Congress now has before it a bill to modernize our legislation affecting civil aeronautics. Of fundamental importance is the provision for uniform regulation of air navigation and commerce throughout the nation under Federal jurisdiction.

With commercial airlines actually covering thousands of miles and many states in the space of hours, a system of uniform regulation is indispensable in the interest of public safety and service.

It is imperative that any bill passed should provide against the arbitrary use of centralized power which would limit the use of property in a way that would amount to confiscation by destroying its value, without compensation.

Certainly these problems can and will be met in necessary legislation providing for the expansion of airports and Federal regulation of civil aeronautics.

COSTLY RIDDANCE

Advocates of government deficits without limit should now take a good look at their theories in action. The only limit on deficits is the speed with which borrowed money can be spent.

There is no use kidding ourselves. The country has been rocked back, back on its heels, and it cannot all be blamed on the fact that most of productive effort is being shot away in the war. Sky-rocketing public debt has wrecked normal laws of supply and demand and savings. The prospect of state socialism has been immeasurably increased as a result of the debt. Wasteful spenders have had their day.

And the people themselves are largely to blame—their hands were out for money taxed from the "other fellow."

Taxation must be as balanced as crop rotation is to soil fertility. If savings and wealth are preserved for a continuous tax crop. Winning the war and the peace depends on both. Fumbling either agriculture or taxation means hunger and suffering, or worse.

Jealousy and envy affect nations, as well as men and women.

Lobsters, oysters, and snails are true blue-bloods.

Views of Neighboring Editors:

The Scurry County Times—In the trend of complaining of food cost, produce limitations, black markets, coupon difficulties, we sort of forget a person who needs consideration in all of this regimentation and who seldom gets anything but a sigh of impatience for all his troubles. That's the fellow in the grocery store who stands back of the counter with more worries than coupons, supplies, markets and prices than you have. He will tell you that he is having his troubles and he is probably right when he says there is more to come. When we step to the counter and grumble because there isn't any of this, wonder why a shortage of that, question price, seek point answers, remember that his headache is worse than yours and he isn't any happier because he can't carry on "business as usual" than you are.

The Scurry County Times—The farmers and ranchers of Scurry, Borden, Fisher, Garza and other counties in this area are being urged by governmental agencies to take advantage of small pre-fabricated granaries as a means of saving war-vital feeds this year from damage by the elements and rodents. Scurry County, for example, boasts a number of circular tin granaries, but so far as was ascertained this week, only a few of the frame, pre-fabricated structures—available at low cost—have been put up in this immediate vicinity. The buildings have proven their worth many times on the South Plains in protecting harvested feeds from damage. Too, farmers cannot carry government insurance on certain grain crops unless they have granaries of approved and accepted design.

The Slaton Slatonite—Most of my life I have been told that it pays to have friends and to be pleasant to everyone, and yet all of the successful men I have known made no great effort to be pleasant and agreeable, in fact most of them were the opposite. The advantage of college edu-

ENGINEERS TAP HOT SPRINGS IN ICELAND

When X-Ray machinery was set up in Iceland's National Hospital an American quickly did the job. The same was true when Heykjavik's daily was installing its new rotary press. Army engineers have given technical advice on the laying of pipes to bring water from hot springs into mains that will replace costly coal and wood in keeping the city's 40,000 people warm in winter.

Education have been extolled and every half baked youngster is urged to go to college whether he or she has a desire for knowledge or not, and many parents give up many near necessities to send their children off to college and yet I have seen very few successful business men who were college graduates. That there is always room at the top is an old adage that has been proven wrong as far as I am concerned, for I sincerely believe that there is a lot more room at the bottom and that one is more apt to live longer and have time to enjoy life if they find this out soon enough in life.

That the boss will always see and appreciate your hard work is also a fallacy for the man or woman who knows how to please the boss gets the promotion.

How I wish I had known these things about twenty years ago but on the other hand, I might have been made President by now and what a catastrophe that would be.

The Terry County Herald—Some one remarked recently that canning was started unusually early in Terry county this year. Many have put up almost enough vegetables, peas and beans to run them and these vegetables didn't come from frame gardens, which for the most part are small and only intended as a daily supply to the table of the owner. This canning is coming from the backyards and vacant lots of the town, and with a reasonable amount of rain from now on, will go a long way toward supplying the daily rations.

Keep Vitamins In Home-Canned Tomatoes

The tomato rates respect because it is chockful of vitamins (A and C), those invisible spark plugs that keep one feeling fit.

Because tomatoes are an important food, it is imperative that every one not needed for immediate use be saved by canning, but they must be canned right, else there will be little or no vitamin C left in them. Undue exposure to air after the skins are removed and over-cooking in an uncovered container destroy vitamin C. This is one reason that tomatoes should be prepared and canned as quickly as possible.

Usually whole tomatoes have more food value than tomato juice, partly because a considerable amount of vitamin A is lost in the pulp that falls to go through the strainer when the juice is made, but mainly because greater exposure to air destroys vitamin C. If you want first-class canned tomatoes, use freshly gathered, firm-ripe, sound fruit—one small bad spot can ruin a whole batch.

Wash the tomatoes before sealding; scald a few at a time. Remove all core, slip off the skins, and cut away green spots. Pack the tomatoes tight into clean hot jars—this is best done by pressing each tomato down with a wooden spoon. Add salt to season to suit your taste—the usual amount is one teaspoon to the quart.

The best tasting juice is that made by pressing whole home canned tomatoes through a sieve just before serving. Any seasonings liked may be added before canning but the juice will be better if seasonings, except salt, are added when the juice is opened for serving, and even the salt may be left out.

Mrs. Jim Templeton and daughter, Betty of Houston, and Mrs. Walter Cork of San Angelo accompanied their sister, Mrs. Phil Bouchier, home from Snyder Wednesday for a short visit in the afternoon. All three have been guests this week of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Strayhorn in Snyder.

Mrs. Nellie Rodgers has just returned from a week's vacation at her home town of Keene, Texas, where she visited old time friends and attended the Seventh Day Advance camp meeting. On the return trip she visited in Dallas and reported a wonderful time.

D. W. Parsons who has been in the Lubbock General hospital for several weeks, is reported improving. He will remain in the hospital for several days yet before he is able to return home.

This Week's VICTORY RECIPE

For the extra special occasion calling for something new, Brains a la King add the right touch. Brains are doubly welcome, for they put meat in the menu without affecting the weekly sharing allowance.

Brains are easier to handle when pre-cooked, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. However, if they are used soon after purchase, pre-cooking is not necessary for some methods of cookery.

To pre-cook the brains, wash and simmer for 20 minutes in water to which one teaspoon of salt and one tablespoon of vinegar have been added for each quart of water used.

Brains a la King is an attractive way of serving this tender, delicately flavored meat.

Brains a la King

- 1 pound brains
1 quart water
1 tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1-2 cup diced celery
2 chopped peppers
2 teaspoons grated onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon pepper
6 slices toast
Wash brains and simmer 20 minutes in water to which vinegar and salt have been added. Drain and separate into small pieces. Make a white sauce by melting butter, stirring in flour, adding milk and cooking until thickened. Add celery, green pepper, onion, pimento, salt and pepper. Add brains and heat thoroughly. Serve on toast. Serves 6.

"Random Harvest" At Garza Theatre Sunday - Monday

Ronald Colman and Greer Garson, teamed for the first time, provide haunting romance and a dramatic story in "Random Harvest." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presentation of James Hilton's best-selling novel, showing at the Garza Theatre Saturday night 11:30, Sunday and Monday.

Closely following the book, except that the story is told in chronological order instead of in "flashbacks," it deals with a wealthy Englishman who loses all memory of his past during the first World War. Befriended by a young actress, he starts life anew and wins note as a writer. They marry. Then, in an accident, his memory of the past comes back, but memory of the space after the war vanishes. He assumes his old identity and becomes a powerful figure in industry. The wife, realizing that she now is a stranger to him, becomes his secretary, never mentioning their marriage, and essays the task of winning back his memory and love. How this is accomplished provides a haunting romantic climax.

Coleman and Miss Garson play their roles with utter conviction, and Miss Garson wears elaborate fashions as well as an abbreviated stage costume. Principals include Susan Peters, Phillip Dorn, Reginald Owen and Una O'Connor.

Farmers, Certified Cannery Work for Peak 1943 Vegetable Packs

With American fighting men engaged in action in more and more combat zones, processed vegetables of all kinds are playing an increasingly large part in the food offensive of the United Nations.

To make sure that the armed services and the civilian population will get the greatest possible amount of processed vegetables, the United States Department of Agriculture has launched a production program designed to make maximum use of canning facilities. Through this program, farmers will get price supports by contracting their acreage with certified processors. All canners who indicate their willingness to pay growers at levels not under the price supports and operate to capacity are certified by USDA State War Boards.

County War Boards will aid farmers and canners in contracting the acreage necessary to capacity operation, and in securing labor and transportation for vegetables receiving price supports.

Tanker Men Always Return To The Sea

It is well known by the men who go to sea in wartime that a laden tanker is Victim No. 1 on any enemy's submarine list. The highly volatile fuel keeps the tanks rolling and the planes flying. If the tanker fails to reach port, the mechanized army suffers precisely that many more difficulties.

Take the example of Seaman Charles Richardson. A submarine shelled his tanker for two hours and finally drove a torpedo into her. During the attack, two of the gun crew were seriously injured. Richardson threw them overboard, dived in after them and got one of the men on his back. He directed the other to cling to a life raft. While thus towing them to a life raft, sharks attacked the trio. Richardson fought them off with a knife. Meantime the man on his back had died. He successfully towed the other man to the raft, even though the sharks had seriously lacerated one of his hands.

In another instance, Captain Edward V. Peters' tanker was hit by a torpedo one night off the Atlantic coast. He ordered his men to abandon ship. As the last lifeboat was launched, he slipped on the oil-covered deck and broke his leg. He dropped into the sea but when it looked as if the lifeboat might be crushed against the side of the vessel, Captain Peters ordered the men to pull away. A wave cut him back on neck and he crawled in the aft part of the ship.

In spite of his injuries, he found medical supplies to bandage his own wounds, made a change of clothing and hoisted distress signals. When dawn came several hours later, a naval vessel saw them and attempted a rescue, but the sea was too rough. Captain Peters plunged into the sea again and was fished out of the water by the sailors. He spent three months in a hospital and is now at sea again—serving as master of another tanker.

B. H. Porter and son Travis leased the Ashkins ranch two weeks ago and have bought 600 head of cattle. The ranch is one of the best known in this part of the state and is located in Kent county. The deal involved a money figure of $50,000.00. Mr. Porter will operate the ranch and Travis will continue to operate the Porter place.

Is This Pest Bothering Your Victory Garden?

FLEA BEETLE—Color: Quick-jumping, dark brown or metallic beetles. Eat small holes in leaves. Dust with cryolite 1 part and sulfur 5 parts, or pyrethrin dust. Repeat at 5-7 day intervals.
