Recount Names Holly

By Wes Burnett

A recount of votes in the Post City Council election Monday night put challenger Lewis Holly in place of incumbent Jim Jackson by a 14 vote margin.

The earlier vote count Saturday night gave Jackson the edge, with Weaver McKamie getting the majority of votes in a last minute write-in campaign.

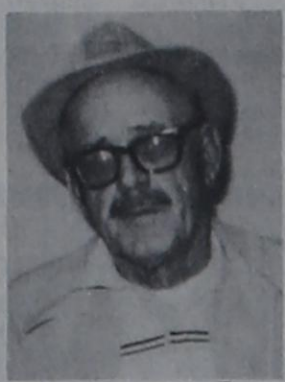

The Monday night recount showed McKamie with 293 votes, challenger Jack Ault with 249 and Holly with 220.

Sales Tax Rebate Posts Another Gain

The city of Post will receive a $9,335.04 sales tax rebate check this month, representing a 19 percent increase over the same period last year.

The year-to-date receipts are still 2.54 percent below last year, but a two-month trend indicates an improvement in local taxable sales.

Other area cities on the Texas Comptroller report include Slaton with a hefty 69 percent increase over last year at $8,325.07, Tahoka with a 48 percent increase at $2,984.29 and Spur showing a dramatic decrease from $4,039.60 last year to $1,346.19.

"This good news is a reflection of the confidence people in Post have toward their community," First National Bank president Jack King comments, "and it looks like more folks are deciding to keep their shopping dollars at home."

Mobile Home Gutted by Fire

The mobile home of Henry Etta Cruse was destroyed by fire April 5 with the trailer and contents described as a total loss.

No one was at home at the time of the fire. A youngster ran into Edith's Liquor Store, where the trailer was parked behind the building, and told Mrs. Crispin, proprietor, that the mobile home was on fire. She then called the Post Volunteer Fire Department.

Cause of the blaze was determined to have started as a short in the wiring of a hanging light fixture in the living room.

Other fire calls made by the local fire department included the washing down of US 84 and Broadway at 14th St., following a truck and pickup wreck. Diesel and gasoline had spilled onto the highway.

April 5 a grass fire was reported along highway right of way 21 miles South on US 84.

The fire department is participating and helping with instruction in the annual Lubbock Fire School this week.

FACTS:

I would like to make a few points known about our sheriffs office. On the following I do not have to say I will do these things, because as your chief deputy for 2½ years, I saw to it that they were taken care of.

1. Myself, along with deputies worked the ballgames at Post.
2. We assisted the ambulance service in everyway possible.
3. We assisted the fire department by blocking traffic and in other ways we could be of help.
4. We assisted with funeral services.
5. The patrol cars were serviced and kept clean.

Those things were taken care of while I was Chief Deputy. The next two items were things I wanted to do, but was not allowed to.

1. I wasn't allowed to be involved with the Southland Schools, but on very few occasions in those 2½ years.
2. We were not allowed to patrol the county. The only time a deputy was allowed outside the city limits of Post would be after an offense had already occurred.
3. Did you know that at the present time we have three deputies living outside of the county? We do! This not only takes your tax dollars out of Garza County but in case of an emergency, it would take time for these deputies to get here. In emergency situations you don't have this kind of time.

These are a few of the things that as your sheriff I would change. The consolidation of the City Police of Post and the Sheriff's office save YOU the tax payer a lot of money. Because, instead of the two facilities there is one. We need a Sheriff that will work with the county and city governments. I can promise you that I can do these things and more.

YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT SINCERELY APPRECIATED!!

Beef is Favorite Meat of Majority of Texans

Texans rank beef as the most heavily consumed meat, over poultry, fish, or pork according to a recent survey of eating habits by the Department of Rural Sociology, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A&M University System.

In examining recent consumption trends for six commodities, the state-wide survey indicated that close to half of adult Texans were eating about the same way as they had last year.

Parables are an effective way to give special ideas or truths. The gospels tell some thirty parables as used by the Lord in His earthly ministry. Parables remain as concise and wise telling of earthly stories with heavenly meanings.

It seems appropriate then to express our ideas in a wise manner. William Barclay, the great New Testament expositor has shown such an ability. His many years of ministry in Scotland have reached many throughout the world. This author of the Daily Study Bible series has subtly revealed the dangers of procrastination in spiritual matters.

The story tells about Satan gathering his generals together. The task is finding an even better strategy for winning souls of men and women into his kingdom of Darkness. He asked for suggestions for the best way of deluding the poor humans. One of the generals responded, "Tell them there is no Satan!" After due consideration that idea also was rejected as not being subtle enough to fool the average human.

Pleasant Home Baptist News

We had a very beautiful Sunday School lesson the subject was Confrontation in Jerusalem. Mark 11:8-10, 15-19, 27-33. Golden Text: The stone which the builders rejected is came. "Let us tell the human beings that there is no hurry!" one of the generals said. At that suggestion all were in agreement that this was the very best strategy for bringing men and women like you and me from Light to Darkness.

There is no hurry. Is the busy schedule of our lives heading us in the right direction?

become the head of the corner. - Mark 12:10. Everyone at their posts of duty. God was present in the midst at Altar prayer.

Rev. James then read St. Matthew chapter 7 verses 1-16. Praises of hymns sung by the choirs, Sr. and Jr., combined truly sung to God at their post of duty.

Very beautiful devotion by Deacons Willie Burleson, Jim Osby, Sister Fisher and Sister Wynn read 2 Timothy chapter 4 verses 1-8.

During worship hour our pastor delivered a beautiful message from 2 Timothy chapter 1 verses 5-11. Text coming from the sixth verse. His subject was - Stir up the gift of God in you. He really preached to our loving Savior with him in the very midst in his Holy Temple.

We had a wonderful visitor from Slaton, Brother Fred Rodgers please feel free to come again at anytime you are always welcome to Pleasant Home. Your presence made our day.

Our 60th Church Anniversary pre-opening started out with a great bang. Very very good.

Thoughts: "The greatest among you will be your servant" Matthew 23:11. "Consider (Christ) that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds." Hebrews 12:3. Think on these: God is not through with us yet. Let's pray always for one another. Amen and amen.

New Ideas for Better Law Enforcement

I wrote earlier briefly outlining my ideas on law enforcement.

I would like to take time to elaborate on a specific point on effective, efficient law enforcement with integrity.

The effectiveness of the sheriff's office probably comes to the public's attention more than any other. In the kind of Sheriff's office that I would be able to create, crimes would be investigated within the resources of my own department. I don't want to rely on outside agencies except for those cases that might require specialized people. That is only right to be able to handle the job one is elected to do. My experience in investigative police work gives me the confidence to be able to handle the job. People want to see results, especially those directly effected by crimes, and rightly they should from their elected officials.

If elected, myself and my deputies will be able to handle problems that arise with the cool, calm, common sense approach officers must have when dealing with law offenders.

I intend to make the sheriff's office another source of pride for the people of this county, but I can only do it with your vote and support. The United States has the best election system in the world. The only way to keep it strong is by voting. Let your voice be heard and vote Saturday, May 5.

I BELIEVE IN & PLEDGE 100% PUBLIC COOPERATION, IF NOMINATED AND THEN ELECTED AS YOUR GARZA COUNTY SHERIFF FOR EXAMPLE:

When several complaints arise from any situation, I would like to meet with all those concerned at a time of their convenience, to get all the facts and discuss the problem.

Also, when an individual has a legitimate complaint during an arrest concerning the misconduct of the arresting officer, I would want to be notified immediately. An incident of this nature needs to be resolved when the situation occurs.

In order to come up with a solution that would resolve the complaints and be satisfactory to all concerned, "WE MUST COOPERATE WITH EACH OTHER." I feel the only way we can do this is, have our meeting, "FIND THE ANSWER TOGETHER."

win . . . remember, this is democracy in action. These days nothing can be taken for granted.

—O—
Speaking of grants, it'll be good to see the work started on the community block grant, I'm sure my friends who live on the east side of town will appreciate getting paved streets. City manager Becky King gets the praise for getting this project off the ground.

Back to the election.
—O—
I was told indirectly that there were a few folks who live outside the city limits that didn't vote in the school and hospital election because they didn't think they were eligible . . . Seems the confusion came about because all three elections were held in the same place . . .

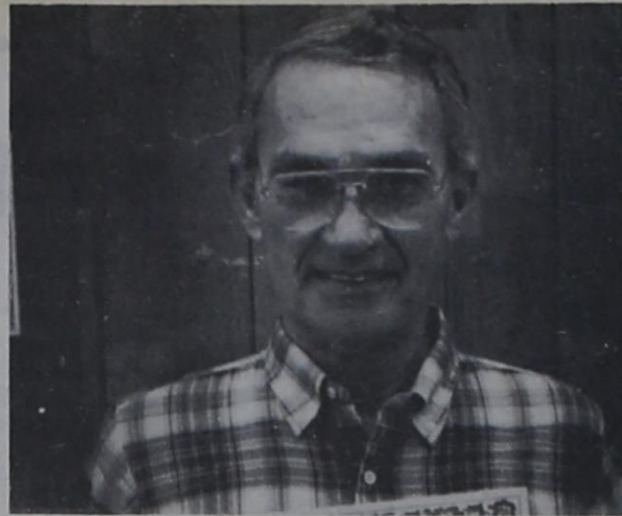

—O—
Did you look in the West Saturday morning about 9 a. m. and see that awesome looking black cloud looking back at you. Been a long time since we've seen anything like that and as usual, just a small shower, but didn't it smell great?

—O—
Been south on Hwy. 84 lately? There's a new building going up on the hill just south of the Brazos River Bridge. Friends tell me that Jennifer Knight is soon to open the store as "Fort Justice." The store will be just ideal for all that lake traffic expected if the Justiceburg Lake is ever built.

—O—
You can tell spring is in the air by the number of folks who are starting to use the track again every day. There's always one who has to go against the flow. But it's good to get out among friends and help your health along at the same time.

—O—
A Rotarian told me to embarrass some of those civic minded gentlemen . . . they are hosting a volleyball team and of all things, Robert Wall has had to resort to all kinds of pressure to find a measley six healthy men to get up a team. I think I'll sneak in Thursday or Friday night to see what happened.

...Dabney wrote her column before the election recount was done, therefore her introduction of new city council members does not include Lewis Holly.

Newby Gets Award

During the 1983-84 Rotary year, Rotary International president William E. Skelton offered a challenge to the Post Rotary Club through district 573 governor, John H. Selby M. D. The board of directors and all members of the Post Rotary Club accepted this challenge and succeeded in accomplishing the required number of objectives. These objectives were (1) increase membership 10 percent; (2) increase contributions to the Rotary Foundation by 10 percent and (3) participate in one of the youth programs, which in Post's case would be Camp RYLA. The Presidential Citation Award was presented to the club last Saturday at the annual District 573 banquet. David Newby was presented with a presidential citation for his outstanding work in Rotary.

City Council —

The council that pre-construction work for the water and sewer improvements in the Texas Community Block Grant project has been completed.
She recommended that the council call for bids, with opening of bids set for May 3 at 2 p. m., which the council approved.
The improvements will be located in East Post.
King also recommended an earlier date for purchasing a new fire truck for the fire department, with a savings of as much as $5,000 due to ordering of a 1984 vehicle prior to the deadline for ordering the current year model.

Those bids will also be opened May 3.
A request by Martin Garza to open a business in a residential area was tabled to be considered following the Planning and Zoning Commission's proposals for zoning ordinances.
The street improvement assessment ordinance and public hearing will be held April 19 at 7:30 p. m. at the First National Bank community room.

The council postponed appointment of members to the city housing board so that the newly seated council could make that decision.

Delbert Rudd was appointed emergency preparedness coordinator to review and up-date the plan in accordance to state and federal requirements.

The council authorized the city manager to begin application procedures for a $166,000 grant through the Texas Community Block Grant program which would augment the current project.

May 7 was set as the date for public hearings and requests for items to be included in next year's budget, with the preliminary budget expected to be completed in June.

The Caprock Association of Arts was provided a letter of intent to support the organization along with the county, so that the state charter could be obtained.

The association is not connected to the Post Art Guild and city councilman Jim Jackson asked for a clarification about its purpose.

"Will the organization be selling competitive products?"

Council member Maxine Earl emphasized that the Caprock Art Association will not be selling merchandise in competition with local merchants.

Voter Registration List Covers County

By Wes Burnett

What appears to be an irregularity in the voter registration list for the city council election was discovered during Monday night's recount of last Saturday's election results.

Earlier in the day we had asked for the total number of registered voters in the city of Post and were told by the County Tax Assessor's office that 2,785 voters were listed for the city.

At the Monday night meeting, while waiting for the recount to be completed, we looked at the voter registration, since it seemed unlikely to us that with a population of 3,900 there could be 2,785 registered voters.

We discovered that the official voter registration list used by the city election judge contains the names of all registered voters in Garza County.

A check with the Texas election code spells out that the County Tax Assessor will provide the city with a complete list of voters residing in the city.

Election judge Lucille Morris, a long-time resident of Post, explains that she carefully checks voters to determine if they reside in the city.

Although a more careful study of the Texas election code is in order, it appears that there is currently not a separate voter registration list for the city of Post.

The same four will compete in the 800 meter relay. The 1600 meter relay team of Holly, Kim Smith, Alexander and Denise Smith will advance also.

Alternates will be Alicia Pettyjohn in the 400 meter relay, Belinda Martin in the 800 meter relay and Heidi Ehret for the 1600 meter relay.

Third - Heidi Ehret, discus; Trasi Craft, 800 meter dash; Belinda Martin, 100 meter hurdles.

TORNADO! TORNADO!

Tornado Destruction

Every tornado is a potential killer and many are capable of great destruction. Tornadoes can topple buildings, roll mobile homes, uproot trees, hurl people and animals through the air for hundreds of yards, and fill the air with lethal, windborne debris.

Sticks, glass, roofing material, lawn furniture all become deadly missiles when driven by a tornado's winds.

In 1975, a Mississippi tornado carried a home freezer for more than a mile.

Tornadoes do their destructive work through the combined action of their strong rotary winds and the impact of windborne debris. In the most simple case, the force of the tornado's winds push the windward wall of a building inward.

The roof is lifted up and the other walls fall outward. Until recently, this damage pattern led to the incorrect belief that the structure had exploded as a result of the atmospheric pressure drop associated with the tornado.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to strong winds and windborne debris. Because they have relatively large surface area to weight ratios, they are easily over-turned by high winds.

Their thin walls make them extremely vulnerable to wind blown debris. Even if tied down, mobile homes should be evacuated for more substantial shelter.

Mobile home parks should have storm shelters for their residents if located in areas where strong thunderstorms or tornadoes occur.

Tornado: Nature's Most Violent Storm

Tornado Characteristics

By definition, a tornado is a violently rotating column of air in contact with the ground. The air column may be seen when it contains condensation in the form of a cloud or when it contains surface dust and debris. Often its appearance is a result of both. When a tornado touches the ground there usually is a swirl of dust and debris even when the visible cloud portion is missing or fails to reach all the way to the ground. When the column of air is aloft and does not produce damage, the visible portion is properly called a funnel cloud. A waterspout is a tornado in contact with a water surface.

Tornadoes vary greatly in size, intensity, and appearance. Most (62 percent) of the tornadoes that occur each year fall into the weak category. Wind speeds are in the range of 100 miles an hour or less. Weak tornadoes account for less than 3 percent of all tornado deaths. About one out every three tornadoes is classified as strong. Wind speeds reach about 200 miles an hour with an average path length of 9 miles and a width of 200 yards. Almost 30 percent of all tornado deaths occur each year from this type of storm. Nearly 70 percent of all tornado fatalities result from violent tornadoes. Although very rare (only about 2 percent are violent), these extreme tornadoes can last for hours. Average path lengths and widths are 26 miles and 425 yards, respectively. The largest of these may exceed a mile or more in width, with wind speeds approaching 300 miles an hour.

The color of a tornado is determined by a number of factors such as the amount and direction of sunlight and the type of debris being picked up at the surface. Not only does the shape of a tornado vary from one storm to another, but an individual tornado usually changes its shape frequently during its life cycle. During the late stages of a tornado's life, it is not unusual for the tornado to become highly tilted and shrink in size. This reduction in size does not mean that it is less intense. It is still very dangerous! With exceptionally large tornadoes, the classic "funnel shape" may be absent. The tornado may appear to be a large, turbulent cloud near the ground. It may even be mistaken for a large rain shaft or even a non-weather event such as a fire.

Sometimes a series of two or more tornadoes is associated with a parent thunderstorm. Occasionally, two or more tornadoes can occur simultaneously, extending downward from the same thunderstorm. As the parent thunderstorm moves along, tornadoes may form, travel along in contact with the ground, and dissipate or lift, followed shortly by other tornado touchdowns, and so on. Tornadoes can also be made up of a number of smaller but intense vortices that rotate about a common center. With this type, the most intense damage is concentrated along the paths of the small vortices.

While an individual tornado usually destroys a relatively small area, major tornado outbreaks may cause widespread damage over an extensive area. During the afternoon and evening of April 3 and the early morning of April 4, 1974, a "super outbreak" of 148 tornadoes across 13 states killed more than 300 people, injured more than 6,000, and caused $600 million in damage. On March 18, 1925, the Tri-State tornado traveled some 219 miles across Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana. It lasted for over 3½ hours and killed 689 people.

Except for weak tornadoes and waterspouts in coastal areas, tornadoes usually develop from strong or severe thunderstorms. Most significant tornadoes have their origin within the right rear quadrant of the thunderstorm where a circulation develops at heights between 15,000 and 30,000 feet. A tornado or funnel cloud is observed when this circulation develops further downward toward the surface. Tornado development can also occur along the leading edge of a single thunderstorm or line of thunderstorms. While dangerous, such tornadoes are usually weak and short-lived.

TORNADO FACTS THAT CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE

Tornadoes travel at an average speed of 30 miles an hour, but speeds ranging from stationary to 70 miles an hour have been reported. While most tornadoes move from the southwest to the northeast, their direction of travel can be erratic and may change suddenly.

In populated areas, it is very dangerous to attempt to flee to safety in an automobile. Over half of the deaths in the Wichita Falls tornado of 1979 were attributed to people trying to escape in motor vehicles. While chances of avoiding a tornado by driving away in a vehicle may be better in open country, it is still best in most cases to seek or remain in a sturdy shelter such as a house or building. Even a ditch or ravine offers better protection than a vehicle if more substantial shelter is not available.

While hail may or may not precede a tornado, the portion of a thunderstorm adjacent to large hail is often the area where strong to violent tornadoes are most likely to occur.

Once large hail begins to fall, it is best to assume that a tornado may be nearby, and seek appropriate shelter. Once the hail has stopped, remain in a protected area until the thunderstorm has moved away. This will usually be 15 to 30 minutes after the hail ceases.

The tornado's atmospheric pressure drop plays, at most, a minor role in the damage process.

Most structures have sufficient venting to allow for the sudden drop in atmospheric pressure. Opening a window, once thought to be a way to minimize damage by allowing inside and outside atmospheric pressures to equalize, is not recommended. In fact, if a tornado gets close enough to a structure for the pressure drop to be experienced, the strong tornado winds probably already will have caused the most significant damage. Furthermore, opening the wrong window can actually increase damage.

While most tornado damage is caused by the violent winds, most tornado injuries and deaths result from flying debris.

Small rooms, such as closets or bathrooms, in the center of a home or building offer the greatest protection from flying objects. Such rooms are also less likely to experience roof collapse. Always stay away from windows or exterior doors.

Tornado wind speeds increase with height within the tornado.

Storm cellars or well constructed basements offer the greatest protection from tornadoes. If neither is available, the lowest floor of any substantial structure offers the best alternative. In high-rise buildings, it may not be practical for everyone to reach the lower floors, but the occupants should move as far down as possible and take shelter in interior, small rooms or stairwells.

Tornado winds may produce a loud roar similar to that of a train or airplane.

At night or during heavy rain, the only clue to a tornado's presence may be its roar. Thunderstorms can also produce violent straight-line winds which produce a similar sound. If any unusual roar is heard during threatening weather, it is best to take cover immediately.

Although most tornadoes occur during the mid-afternoon or early evening (3 p.m. - 7 p.m.), they can occur at any time; often with little or no warning.

The key to survival is advanced planning. All members of a household should know where the safest areas of home are. Identify interior bathrooms, closets, halls or basement shelter areas. Be sure every family member knows that they should move to such safe areas at the first signs of danger. There may be only seconds to act. Have a tornado emergency plan at work.

Encourage area schools to form a tornado plan and conduct drills.

Tornadoes occur in many parts of the world and in each of the 50 States. However, no area is more favorable to their formation than the continental plains and Gulf Coast of the U.S. during April, May and June. Tornadoes are least frequent in the United States during the winter months, although damaging tornadoes can develop at any time of year.
