A SHARE IN SUFFERING

Through modern miracles of transportation and communication the world is brought to our doorstep. We take our profits and our pleasures from the offerings of a continent and from beyond the seas and all corners of the world. We are no longer citizens of a single town or city but of a mighty nation and, indeed, of the world. Everything that concerns the world for good or ill in some way concerns also ourselves.

We must take our share in the sorrows of the world no less than in its generous gifts. We cannot close our eyes and ears when our neighbors at the far end of the land or across the seas are stricken with disaster and suffering. To do so is to deny our citizenship in a nation and to evidence a selfishness which will accept the benefits of civilization but refuse its responsibilities.

It is not sentiment or sympathy alone which makes a claim upon us when tragedy sets its heavy hand upon a corner of the world. Our clear duty is also involved. All the advantages of civilized society depends upon the face that the blessings of life are shared. It is equally clear that all must share the sufferings of society and contribute to bearing and easing its burdens.—Exchange.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Albert S. Hall, Minister

Just arrived from Duster, Texas where I closed a good meeting at the river side Monday morning.

Am glad to announce I shall be with home forces next Sunday, the Lord willing. Lets everybody meet promptly at 10 o'clock when the Bible School is to begin. We are re-organizing our working forces in our Bible School. Be present Sunday morning and hear the announcements. Everybody welcome.

"Oh, darling," he murmured, "I love you so. Please say you'll be mine. I'm not rich like Percival Brown. I haven't a car, or a fine house, or a well-stocked cellar; but, darling, I love you, and I cannot live without you!"

Two soft arms stole around his neck as she whispered in his ear: "And I love you too, darling; but—who is this man Brown?"

YOUTH--AND THE NEW LEADERSHIP

By CRAIG B. HAZLEWOOD
President American Bankers Association

LEADERSHIP is a picturesque word. With it, one pictures Hannibal fighting his way through the passes of the Alps—Napoleon in his campaigns—or Washington holding together his half-frozen army by the sheer magnetism of his character at Valley Forge. But I visualize something that holds a more astounding spectacle in many respects than any of these. It is the onrush of our business life. Our economic progress plunges ahead at a rate unheard of in the history of the nations of the world and every industrial and financial leader is daily brought face to face with new and perplexing problems requiring the highest courage and intelligence for their solution.

Ninety billions a year, they tell us, this country is now producing in new wealth. The rate of increase is even more staggering than the amount. It is difficult to say where it may lead us in even ten or fifteen years.

We are moving exceptionally fast. Our economic and industrial structure is placing before us problems of greater and greater magnitude. Few men can see far ahead. Few are in complete control, for this is a changing world, as even the most inexperienced business man will readily testify. Our methods of adjusting ourselves rapidly to economic changes and of cooperating are far from perfect.

What an opportunity the leadership of five, ten or fifteen years from now presents! What an adventure it will be! What responsibilities it will lay upon the broadest shoulders that may be found! This is the challenge to leadership as I see it. In the hands of the young men must rest the responsibility for this leadership.

Boys Who Reached the Pinnacles
Business is full of the romance of youngsters whose chief characteristic was working hard and keeping at it. There was a green farmer boy who decided he would rather stand behind a counter than follow a plow. He seemed so obviously lacking in sales ability that for a time no merchant would hire him. He failed in his first position, and in his second his salary was reduced. He even agreed that he was a misfit—but he stuck. Out of his first five stores, I believe, three failed. But he persisted and worked hard. And that boy, Frank W. Woolworth, became the greatest retail merchant in the world with a store in every city of eight thousand or more population in this country.

There was another lad who clerked in a grocery store sixteen hours a day and studied mathematics in his odd moments. He became interested in the dealings of the steel plant whose employees traded at this store. He began to study steel and sought a position in the plant. He carried a surveyor's chain and drove stakes. At night he studied mathematics and engineering. He did not despair. He could not be diverted. He kept the pressure on for seven years. And that boy, Charles Schwab, mastered the iron industry and became one of the country's great industrial leaders.

There was a lad who sold papers on a train. When he grew up, several million men and a score of billions of dollars of capital were given profitable employment through his inventions. Even in middle life, Thomas Edison continued to work twenty hours a day, if necessary to achieve his purpose.

Leadership is not play. Leadership offers countless positions of varying opportunity, of which the highest pinnacles will mean almost unbearable responsibility in the new era. There will be men with the fire and iron to qualify even for these places. Such men must have had the very finest preparation and the most grueling tests. Their reward will be the attainment of these highest pinnacles of achievement, and the rendering of an immeasurable service to their times.

MAIL BOX THEFTS AID CHECK FORGERS

American Bankers Association in Nationwide Warning Exposes Methods and Gives Rules to Combat Them.

NEW YORK—Active operations in many cities of mail box thieves, who open bank communications to customers, containing details of their accounts and cancelled checks showing their banking signatures, and use this material in perpetrating check forgeries, have led the American Bankers Association to issue a nationwide warning to its members with instructions for combating this form of crime.

The warning was sent out by James E. Baum in charge of the association's Protective Department. "Heavy losses are being sustained through cancelled vouchers and statements stolen from the mail boxes of bank depositors in apartment and office buildings, thus divulging the depositors' balances and supplying models for forged checks. As a step to put customers on guard against these methods, banks are urged to instruct every depositor to whom they mail statements of deposit accounts on the last business day of each month to notify them promptly if such statements are not received by the close of the next day.

"Also banks should educate depositors to safeguard blank checks and cancelled vouchers as they would money. Such paper stolen by forgers soon puts real money in their hands. If all bank checks and cancelled vouchers were securely kept in safes instead of filing cabinets or desks, the check crooks would be denied their chief stock in trade, namely, genuine blank checks and signatures. Warnings to depositors against leaving blank or cancelled checks accessible to sneak thieves or burglars should be sent out at once.

"Estimates broadcast by surety companies indicate that individuals, merchants, hotels and others outside of banking are shouldering more than 99 per cent of the total amount of forgery losses. The bulk of forgery loss on checks is sustained by those who are willing to risk accepting them without reliable proof of identity or title of the presenter.

"Years ago the Protective Department of the American Bankers Association adopted the slogan, 'Strangers are not always crooks, but crooks are usually strangers.' If those outside of banking could be prevailed upon to observe this rule and think about it when considering accepting a check for their merchandise or services, for which they are also asked to give a substantial sum in cash in change, one of the biggest aids to the forgery business would be denied the crooks."

SCRUB BULL IS HAILED TO COURT

Placed on Trial for Hindering Development and Prosperity of Dairy Industry.

Indicted for robbery, larceny and a few other such charges, Scrub Bull went on trial for his life at Laurel, Mississippi, recently. It seems that for some time people had suspicions that Mr. Bull was hindering the right and lawful development of the dairy industry, thereby "maliciously and willfully lowering production and decreasing profits in the dairy business," says the Bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission in commenting on the case.

This, it says, was the first trial of its kind ever held in that section and was attended by several hundred people. The jury, representing every vocation within the boundaries of the Laurel trade territory, rendered a unanimous verdict of "guilty." The death sentence was pronounced, "but during the night, before the sentence could be carried out, friends of the convict secretly spirited him away and he has not been seen since."

The arraignment came during the Milk Products Show sponsored by the banks of Laurel. People attending the show had the opportunity of also attending the bull's "trial" and went away firmly convinced of the seriousness of lax and out-of-date methods in the pursuit of dairying. The purposes of both the Milk Products Show and the trial were threefold, namely: to develop public sentiment for more and better Jerseys; to foster a more cooperative spirit for dairying and livestock growing, and to promote tick eradication.

The banks of Laurel entered into a cooperative arrangement in their efforts for fostering agricultural development and successful farming in the community, offering $2,165 as premiums to the outstanding farm workers throughout the territory during 1929. An instructive booklet has been issued, showing the agricultural activity of the banks, together with announcements of contests for farmers, exhibits in the bank lobbies and prizes offered.

BANKERS DEVELOP NOVEL INSTITUTE

The Georgia Bankers Association in cooperation with the State College of Agriculture has sponsored a series of farmers' institutes in various parts of the State of an entirely new character. The principal feature is a large and comprehensive exhibit transported in four large trucks and set up at each stop. When set up it fills a space 40 by 60 feet and consists of panels, charts, and models on practically every phase of agriculture.

Early Arithmetic Manual
Crocketer's Arithmetic, the first complete manual for "numerists," was published September 3, 1677, by Sir Roger L'Estrange. The author, who died before it was published, became proverbial in England as a master of mathematical subjects. His book was a "best seller" for nearly a century.

Not Administrative Body
The Bureau of Education has no administrative functions except those connected with the expenditure of funds appropriated by congress for the maintenance of colleges of agriculture and mechanic arts (land grant colleges) in the states and in Hawaii and Porto Rico, and those concerned with the education, support and medical relief of the natives of Alaska.

Tasty Snacks for Thriving Appetites

By CAROLINE B. KING

Culinary Expert and Lecturer on Domestic Science

NOT the least pleasurable part of a day out-doors is the thriving appetite that one takes home. Nothing tastes better after a morning at golf or on the woodpile, after a few sets of brisk tennis, a long hike or a motor trip, than some tasty, piquant tid bit.

It is on such occasions that culinary art most justifies itself, and with least effort. And on such occasions cheese, served merely as an appetizing extra or as the principal ingredient in the main dish, is one of the foods that recommend themselves to the discerning housewife. Incidentally, Switzerland cheese is one of the most valuable of all food products, for it is far richer in protein than eggs, or meat, and in that very important Vitamine A so essential to human well being. The old idea that cheese is not readily digestible is of course long since exploded.

The following hot luncheon dishes are easily and quickly made:

Toasted Frankfurters and Cheese: Skin the frankfurters, or better still, get the skinless frankfurters, and split them lengthwise. Slice Switzerland cheese thin, and lay on neatly trimmed slices of lightly buttered bread. Arrange the frankfurters on the cheese and place at the top of a very hot oven or under the broiler of the gas oven and leave until the bread browns, the sausages frizzle and the cheese melts slightly. Brush over with mustard and serve hot, garnished with pickles and olives.

Open Onion Sandwiches: Slice a medium sized onion very thin and pour boiling water over it. Let stand a few minutes, then drain and cover with cold water. Butter slices of rye bread, cover with shredded dried beef, then with the onion slices and top with Switzerland cheese sliced thin. Place in the oven until the meat begins to sizzle, then brush with mustard and serve with pickle relish.

Swiss Eggs: Butter individual baking dishes, and break an egg in each. Cover with a tablespoonful of cream, and add a pinch of chopped parsley and salt and pepper to taste. Bake in a hot oven till well puffed, then arrange thin strips of Switzerland cheese over the top, sprinkle with paprika and serve at once.

Switzerland Jelly Omelet: Break three eggs and beat yolks and whites separately. To the yolks add 2 tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and ¼ teaspoonful of salt; also two tablespoonfuls of cold water. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites and pour into a hot omelet pan in which two tablespoonfuls of butter have been melted. Cook as usual, but just before folding arrange a layer of currant or cherry tart jelly and a layer of thinly sliced Switzerland cheese over one-half the omelet. Fold and serve at once.

French Recipes Will Banish Monotony From American Diet

By CHARLES SCOTTO, Chef, Ambassador Hotel, Park Avenue, New York City.

BRILLAT-SAVARIN, one of the world's most famous epicures, once said that the discovery of a new dish is more beneficial to humanity than a new star. The majority of American housewives, racked with the necessity of planning three meals a day for 365 days throughout the year, would almost certainly agree with him.

While entirely new dishes are rare indeed, it is still possible for any woman to find among the recipes of foreign lands a variety of dishes that will be new to her and her family. A study of French recipes, alone, will provide her with ample means of escaping the deadly accusation of monotony which, with more or less justice, has been leveled at the American menu. French methods of seasoning, including the use of a little sugar to enhance the flavors of vegetables, will enable her to arouse envy in the hearts of less knowing cooks.

Spinach A La Tourain: Put a peck of washed spinach in a saucepan with one and a half cups of water and one teaspoon of sugar. Cook for twenty minutes. Drain and press through a colander. Mix in three-quarters teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, and two tablespoons butter. Heat again and then press firmly into a bowl to mold. Turn the spinach out upside down on a platter, garnish with slices of lemon and hard-boiled egg, and serve immediately.

Carrots Vichy: Cut a dozen young carrots in half, lengthwise. Remove the centers. Then mince them fine and put them in a saucepan with an ounce of butter, a teaspoon of sugar, and a pinch of salt. Moisten with French vichy water and let them cook slowly until tender. Serve immediately, and very hot.

New Peas With Lettuce: Chop one-half of a medium-size onion. Cut fine (in Julienne) one small head of lettuce. Fry the onion with a little butter until lightly browned. Add the lettuce and let simmer together for a few minutes. Then add a quart of fresh peas, a teaspoon of sugar, a half ounce of butter, salt and pepper. Moisten with water, cover the pan, and let cook slowly. When the peas are tender, add an ounce of butter mixed with a teaspoon of flour.

LINDBERGH FINDS A LOST CITY

Always in the news! And he deserves to be, Charles Lindbergh.

His newest interest is air photography. While flying over a Yucatan jungle he discovered a lost city of Maya. He also has done some very important aerial photography of ancient ruins in New Mexico and Arizona.

The story of these latest accomplishments had to be pieced out from clues. Lindbergh, who has one of the biggest "news names" in the world, says very little about what he has done, and much less about what he intends to do.

In Sweden, where Lindbergh's ancestors came from, people believe in accomplishment rather than talk. This seems to be Lindbergh's belief too—and he is going right on doing one important, vitally significant thing after the other. Constantly widening his interests.

And—refreshing in this day when everyone seeks the limelight—he is letting others do the talking.
