CALLAHAN COUNTY REMAINS ON DRY SIDE

LIGHT VOTE POLLED IN SATURDAY'S ELECTION

The vote polled in Saturday's election reached a total of only 1414, the lightest vote polled in the county in many years.

Callahan county remained dry, by a small majority. Six voting precincts voted wet. They are: Baird, Tecumseh, Admiral, Putnam, Cross Plains, and Oplin. The remaining fourteen voted dry.

Below will be found the official returns of the election, as given by the Commissioners Court Tuesday, when the court met to canvass the returns of the election.

Much Needed Rains Fall In Callahan Co.

Fine rains have fallen over most of Callahan county the past week, the fall at Baird being around 3 1-2 inches.

Every part of the county got good rains except around Oplin, Dudley and Denton, where the fall is reported light.

The rain fell slowly and will be of great benefit to cotton feed, fall gardens and grass, but did not put out a great deal of stock water. The creeks were all rather low and it will take more rain to fill them.

"No Thought Of Boycott" Johnson Tells Retailers

WASHINGTON.—"There is no thought of boycott here", Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said in an address at the opening session of the hearings on the retail merchants' code, and with special emphasis. "We have provided machinery here in Washington to take care of people who find the grade too steep for them. But when we find a man chiseling behind the Bule Eagle we are going to step in and take that Eagle in such a way that the whole world will know it. That is only our simple and just duty to those high-minded citizens who are earnestly trying to pull this great country out of the depression. We are building up our case against cheaters, and when we move against them it will mean their economic death."

General Johnson stressed "the duty of us here to protect those who cooperate and make sacrifices by investing in reemployment to life buying power." The lesson learned during the war was that of wholehearted cooperation toward great national ends. In approaching the fourth anniversary of depression, with both State and individual relief funds near the vanishing point, "this country, with all of its vast resources, cannot sit still and allow drift and despair to rule. No nation, not even our own, can continue to support nearly 40,000,000 people in destitute."

He explained the attitude of NRA as to prices. "Such seasoned campaigners as you retailers know what price structure should be in such a critical time while we are restoring normal employment. You should resist advancing prices of manufacturers, and we will back you up within our limits. That is our plain duty to the public. Furthermore, it is the law, and we are here to enforce it."

Co. Agent, Jenkins Office In Court House

Mr. Ross B. Jenkins, county agent has moved his office from the Jackson Abstract Company office to the county agents office on the second floor of the court house.

This office is equipped for the convenience of the county agent. In addition to his office there is a large hall, where farmers and stockmen may meet to discuss their problems.

Mr. Jenkins is finding himself very much in demand by our farmers and stockmen. On last Saturday afternoon he went out to Mance Ables farm where he conducted a pig management program; several farmers were present to witness the demonstration.

On Wednesday morning Mr. Jenkins went out to John McKenzies farm where he was to cull a flock of chickens.

Wednesday afternoon he went to the Quincy Loven farm on the Bayou where he did some terracing and assisted Mr. Loven in laying out a 4 acre fall garden, which he will plant at once using the plan suggested by Mr. Jenkins in his Farm Management column in The Star this week. Mr. Loven will irrigate this garden from the Bayou. Mr. Loven is one of Callahan counties most progressive young farmers and stockraisers and is ably assisted in the planning and working of the farm and ranch by Mrs. Loven. Mr. Jenkins was accompanied on this trip by Mr. M. G. Farmer.

W. J. Leach Represents Dime Store

W. J. Leach of the Leach stores has returned from Washington, D. C. where he was called by telegraph Aug. 23rd to assist in a code forming and hearing for more than 2000 stores which he and two other men were chosen to represent. Mr. Leach directly represented the Ben Franklin chain of which his stores are members.

While in Chicago recently, Mr. Leach had a talk with J. L. Culver, who is head of the Limited Price Stores association of all 5-10-25 cent stores in the United States. This organization of course includes Kress and company, Woolworth and all the large chain stores of these kinds.

For a number of years, Mr. Leach was manager and supervisor for S. H. Kress and company and this experience with his intimate knowledge of the needs of the smaller stores affords an unusual background of information required in the code making for this branch of commercial organization.

The First National Bank, of Baird will observe Labor Day, Monday, September 4, 1933.

Wheat Farmers Showing Keen Interest In Government Plan

Mr. Ross B. Jenkins, county agent informs The Star that wheat farmers of Callahan county are showing a keen interest in the government proposed to lease wheat land and pay the farmers of the county an allotment on 114,000 bushels of wheat for the years 1933-34-35.

Mr. Jenkins announces the following committee, who have been selected to help advise the farmers on the merits of the plan and help in organizing for this purpose: Messrs. Buster George, Sidney S. Harville, Lewis R. Cole, Hugh McDermott and John Berry. Two other committee-men will be added to this list.

Mr. Jenkins says: "Most of these men selected have already agreed to help and we are proud to have them, for they are men who are up and going and are ready to help the government in any thing for the welfare of all."

Mr. Jenkins expects to call the committee together to perfect the plan for work sometime within the next few days.

All farmers who planted wheat in 1930-1-2 are eligible to go into the county organization of the Government Allotment Plan.

Callahan Co. Farmers Waiting Hopefully For Cotton Checks

Callahan county farmers are hopeful awaiting the receipt of the cotton checks, which will bring the sum of $114,000,000 to farmers of the county. Mr. Ross B. Jenkins, county agent has received the following letter in reference to cotton checks:

Washington, D. C.
August 25, 1933.

Checks are beginning to go forward. We hope to have the volume up to 40,000 or 50,000 a day by the end of the first week in September. Attached to each check covering cash payment in the case of a combined cash and option contract, you will find an option contract calling for the number of bales optioned by the farmer to whom the check is issued. These optioned contracts must be detached from the check and held for delivery at a later date to be announced by telegraph to each of you directly. This is necessary to give equal opportunity to all farmers and to facilitate orderly handling of option contracts here in Washington. Please guard this matter carefully as it is extremely important.

Very truly yours,
C. A. COBB,
Chief, Cotton Section,
Production Division.

All persons getting checks from the government will be notified when their check has arrived. There is no use to inquire until this notice is received. After notification the owner of the check may get it by calling at the office of the county agent, which is now in the court house at Baird.

All those who have crop production loans, will get theirs on Thursdays and Fridays of each week after they have been notified by the county agent, and checks have been properly endorsed by the government agent, H. L. Johnston and themselves. This is the order received yesterday by Ross B. Jenkins, county agent from Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Governor of Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C.

Recovery?

What limit in definition can be placed upon this word we hear a dozen times a day—"Recovery"? The answer approximates a picture of conditions that will obtain when success crowns the President's reemployment program.

Recovery as it relates to business is not difficult to comprehend. Under the mighty reign of what we believed was prosperity we loaned seven billions a year abroad to finance our sales of half that sum, and as we stopped lending so we stopped selling, and now we start from raw. So we require business recovery, and it depends upon absorption of about one fourth as many workers as are now employed. Shrewd business executives, small and large, believe that reemployment on that basis will be sound investment; that, with the inevitable increase in buying power, credit will do what it always has done move along with employment. In that case credit will be available.

But after relief from the horror of the 4 years, it is the recovery of economic security that will count even more with the average man; the recovery of material well-being; a more lasting assurance to the employer, whose old embarrassing problems of cost and distribution will be solved through cooperation; to the workers; to the housewife, of whom in these last perilous years we have lost sight entirely. This sort of recovery it is evident the President has had in mind—recovery of what a man and a woman has a right to call his soul.

Labor Day

Labor Day falls on September 4 this year, and will be marked by the usual observance, including parades, picnics, speechmaking and other diversions.

When the National Recovery Administration began to function several weeks ago, it was predicted that between five and six million unemployed would be back at work by Labor Day. It is hoped that this prediction may be fulfilled, but present indications are that was too optimistic.

It is to the credit of labor that during the depression the unemployed have exercised great patience and fortitude. On the other hand, those who have been able to contribute to their relief have responded to the necessities of the situation with a generous hand.

It is indeed tragic that so many millions of men and women who are willing to work are unable to find employment. Yet the most able and earnest leaders in business, industry and labor circles have been unable to solve the distressing problem. There has been a slight increase in employment in recent weeks, and it is believed that this trend will continue, although it will probably be quite a while before work can be provided for all who sorely need it.

As we pay homage to the importance and dignity of honest toil on Labor Day, let each resolve to do his part in the national effort to relieve the miseries of unemployment.

Get Ready For School

Approximately 30,000,000 children ranging from near-graduates to kindergarteners, will converge on our streets and highways this September all approaching central points. Through the summer they have been scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land; now they are to be mobilized, crossing our city thoroughfares or country lanes in long lines going to school or coming home.

It is the solemn duty of every motorist to see to it that these youngsters have a safe passage. By following a few simple rules, he can help cut down the toll of 13,400 children killed and 152,550 injured in 1932. Every motorist should remember to approach a school zone with care; to slow down at all intersections; to watch his speed on curves in the country. Above all, he should look out for the unexpected. Children who meet after two months' separation, become so absorbed that they forget about the danger of dashing into the roadway, darting from behind parked cars, or trying to retrieve a ball from the fender of a moving vehicle. The motorist must do their thinking for them.

The reduction in motor accidents to children of school age in the United States, is the brightest picture in the safety movement, but there still remains much to be done to further reduce the number of tragedies—90 per cent of which are avoidable. Educators, school authorities and teachers constantly emphasize the dangers of modern traffic conditions to the children. The one person able to bring about great improvement is the motorist. He should drive at all times as he would if his child were out in that crowd ahead.

Sunset Musings

By J. Marvin Nichols
Dallas, Texas

The men whom I have seen succeed best in life have always been cheerful and hopeful men, who went about their business with a smile on their faces and took chances and chances of their mortal life like men, facing rough and smooth alike as it came; and so found the truth of the old proverb, that good times and bad times and all times pass over.

—Charles Kingsley.
The forces that have brought you thus far are not yet exhausted. Forget the past—turn your face toward the brighter day.

That's a strange but frequent piece of surgery that puts a man's wishbone right where his backbone ought to be.

The pang of what has been the world's greatest boom since necessity is the mother of invention.

The real secret of a happy life is the putting of one's powers as far as they will go.

The lower a man gets the less his horizon. We have noticed that the man on the high point is the man of the broad vision.

Our 'ups and downs' are only the hills and the valleys we cross in our quest for happiness.

The main advantage about modern slang is that one never has to use his brains.

This trait—cowardice—and it's so common, finds its origin in the consciousness that we are not what we seem to be.

The right-doer cannot ultimately fail; the wrong-doer cannot ultimately succeed.

An evil tongue has a certain amount of influence, but, mind you, only with certain persons. People of liberal views never permit another to influence their opinions. A scathing tongue is a barbed wire, and it cuts and slashes unmercifully. If a person has the forbearance to overlook the cruel thrusts—to bide their time—there seems to be a special dispensation from some unseen source that smoothes out this tangled network of lassitude and gossip and leaves the victim unscratched. Not a trace remains of the deep wounds once deliberately inflicted.

Many towns of Texas will be invited to participate in the annual Dallas Day celebration at the 1933 State Fair of Texas, [it has been announced by Holmes Green, director in charge of the special day. These towns will be invited to take part in the pageant which is being planned as one of the special features of the day.

Many Notables Speak Over Radio For NRA

WASHINGTON.—Starting with the ringing appeal made over a Nation-wide hook-up in behalf of NRA by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, numerous radio speeches in support of the President's recovery program are being broadcast. The first radio appearance of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was made in earnest advocacy of NRA's high purpose and attracted universal attention. Others on the NRA program during the week were William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., Oliver M. Fayler, Glenn Frank, and Senator Harry F. Byrd.

Probably the greatest single aggregation of stars in history followed General Johnson on the air in orders given the 1,500,000 volunteers this week. They included Will Rogers, Edditt Cantor, Al Johnson, Jack Pearl Ruth Etting, Bing-Crosby, Mary Pickford, Gracie Allen, George Burns, Kate Smith, Nina Martini, and Ernestine Schumann-Heineck, with the hour filled out with music by the Marine Band, the Army Band, the Navy Band, and the orchestras of Walter Damrosch, Freddie Rich, Howard Barlow and Frank Black.

Emergency Hog Marketing Program In Callahan Co.

Callahan county farmers will not receive any great benefit from the emergency marketing of hogs, due to the fact that there is only a small surplus of hogs in the county.

Mr. Jenkins, county agent is listing all surplus hogs in the county.

All hogs from this section must be shipped to Fort Worth, where the local packing houses will slaughter the hogs and process the meat.

Method of Accomplishment

Special premiums to be offered farmers during an emergency period, not to extend beyond Oct. 1, for a maximum of 4,000,000 healthy, normal pigs between 25 and 100 pounds in weight and a maximum of 1,000,000 sows soon to farrow, each not less than 275 pounds in weight. Estimated maximum actual live weight tonnage of such marketings would be approximately 650,000,000 pounds.

100 pounds, and maximum range of weights of 30 pounds on individual pigs in each lot.

Price of pigs at processing points other than Chicago to be determined by adding or subtracting the following specified market differentials.

Premiums For Sows

A bonus of $4 per head, plus the market price for packing sows on day of sale on the animal's full weight, will be paid for each sow which properly qualifies under Federal inspection as unmistakably near farrowing and weighing not less than 275 pounds

Disposal of Products

The edible products resulting from the slaughter of the pigs and sows will be purchased by the National Relief Administration at a price sufficient to defray the costs of processing, storage and freight, and will then be redistributed among needy people through the regional relief agencies. Edible products shall be distributed in such a way as to not come in competition with meat sold in the regular trade channels. Relief agencies will maintain their normal purchases of meat.

If the quantity of edible products exceeds relief agency needs, a part of it may be disposed of in the export market.

Inedible products—grease and fertilizer—will be disposed of through the usual channels of trade at the best prices obtainable in such manner as not to upset the market.

A picture to show replacement crops for plowed under cotton acres is expected to be presented at the 1933 State Fair of Texas in the agriculture department, according to directors in charge. Progress in farming since 1919 will be shown in the agriculture department and the livestock department will emphasize the importance of aving utilitl stock on the farms of the state in order to have a balanced farm program.

IF

IF you want to reform some one,
begin with yourself.
IF we all get educated so we want to work, who is going to do the work?
IF you want lots of something for nothing you can get plenty of advice.
IF some me were as industrious as the Devil, their wives wouldn't have to work so hard.
IF hard work was killing, some folks never would die.
IF you want to go up, up, way up in the world, light a match to look into the gas tank.
IF a man can drive thirty miles on a gallon of gasoline, how far can he go on 'three and two tenths'?

IF we will be good six days of the week we wont be hypocrites on Sunday.
IF you think you are smart, you are probably the only one who does.
IF you know how to be good, why don't you do it?
IF you don't want your sins to repeat themselves, don't keep a parrot.
IF you don't believe there is a hell you will when you get there.
IF you discover your son is a 'one armed driver' don't act shocked, just tell him how you used to tie old Dob-bin's buggy reins to the dashboard
so you could hug ma with both arms.
IF you want your husband to
'croak' feed him frog legs.
IF you want a 'kick' out of something, go pinch a mule.

WITH BAIRD BAPTIST

I have just returned from the Murray meeting. We ad a glorious time; it was indeed a treat to visit and have service with the boys and girls I grew up with. They are grown with families some have grand children;
well we certainly had a great time
the week through.

We will have preaching at the Baptist church next Sunday morning.
Let me urge every body to come with us, for that service. We will not have evening service because of the meeting in progress at the Methodist church—but let's every one of us Baptist and all who can be in Sunday school and the preaching service at the Baptist church Sunday morning.

I will preach at Dudley Sunday afternoon and I want to see all my friends out that way in the service.
Our Association meets with the Putnam church Wednesday at 10:00
a. m., Sept. 6. Let all of our churches take note and be there with their letters in the hands of their Messengers.

I am glad to be back home; now lets all get down to our jobs for the Lord.

DESCRIBES FARM ADJUSTMENT PLAN

Agricultural College President Says Federal Program Seeks to Coordinate Production with Reduced Exports

The Federal farm adjustment program is partly guided by the belief that export of agricultural commodities will not soon recover its volume of five or ten years ago, in the opinion of F. D. Farrell, President Kansas Agricultural College, writing in the August issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Nobody knows whether the farm adjustment program will succeed," writes Mr. Farrell. "Its sponsors describe it frankly as an experiment. It seeks to socialize agriculture at least to the extent that farmers, in what is believed to be the public interest, will restrain their production activities and that processors, distributors and consumers will contribute something toward paying farmers for exercising this restraint. The adjustment programs definitely are based on the fact that prices are determined primarily by supply and demand. They also are based on the assumption that the export business in agricultural commodities will not soon return to its volume of five or ten years ago.

Dependence on Public Support
"The plan offers wheat price insurance for 1933, 1934 and 1935, for the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop. The insured price is to be sufficiently high to give the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop pre-war purchasing power. If the plan is as effective as its sponsors hope it will be, the reduction in supply may influence wheat prices so that the entire wheat crop will have pre-war purchasing power.

"If the adjustment program succeeds, its launching probably will mark the end of an era of extreme individualism in agriculture in the United States," says Mr. Farrell.

"Recent fundamental changes led Secretary Wallace to say, 'What we really have to do is to change the whole psychology of the people of the United States. This is a large order. It involves the whole program of farm adjustment as well as the larger national economic program, of which farm adjustment is a part. If the people decline to participate in the program to the extent necessary to give the experiment a fair trial, we shall never know whether farm adjustment as now proposed would have succeeded or not if it had been given a fair trial.'

BANKERS PREPARE FARM FINANCE BOOK

Tells Bankers and Farmers What to Consider in Making Sound Loans

A book on "Making Farm Investments Safe" has been prepared by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, summarizing material published by it during the past ten years. It presents a compendium of scientific facts, practice and experience in farming, with timely and helpful suggestions to serve as a reference and guide in the daily routine of banking and farming. From it practical workers in these fields can obtain an idea as to what extent and in what manner farm loans should be limited by soil erosion, weeds, plant diseases, rodents and fire hazards, etc.

The book also indicates how much is added to the security of a farm loan by the farmer who keeps accounts and practices good business methods, as well as the extent to which loans are safeguarded by crop rotation, production of legumes, judicious use of commercial fertilizers, the use of quality seed and the providing of home grown feeds.

Another section sets forth the precautions that should be exercised by both the banker and farmer when negotiating loans to increase or improve dairy production, or beef, sheep, swine or poultry production, as well as what factors should be considered in the economic marketing of products and the way efficiency in production affects efficiency in marketing. Many other everyday details of farm life that have a practical financial significance are treated in the book. A particular important section deals with experience with farm leases and another with directed farm credit.

Banks Make Best Record in R. F. C. Loans Repayments.

Among the loans of $2,819,000,000 made by the Federal Government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the highest percentage of repayments, official reports show, has been made by the banks, indicating the return of stability as the chief unsettling element of public fear has been lifted from them.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has authorized cash advances, fully secured by sound collateral, to 6,278 banks since it began operations in February, 1932, and made actual disbursements to them in the amount of $1,221,878,000. Of this amount, however, $948,222,000 or over 44 per cent, has been repaid by the banks. All other classes of borrowers combined have repaid only 25 per cent of their loans.

Farm, Livestock And Poultry Hints

By Ross B. Jenkins, County Agent

At this time of year we should be looking to the raising a living at home which can be most enjoyably done with a fall garden. The preparation of a fall garden is one of the most important steps in the success of the venture. If the weeds have been allowed to grow on the ground during the summer they should be cut and removed from the soil before plowing as weeds and grass turned under cause molding and heating which dries out the top soil and prevents thorough cultivation. The soil should be plowed shallow never more than 4 or 5 inches. In most barnyards during the months of August and September will be found a layer of well trampled manure that has dried out which has lost its acids that burn plants. (The material is mostly a mass of vegetative fiber). After the ground has been broken, spread 1 to 3 inches of this summer manure on the surface and turn this under or disc it in. This spongy material will greatly increase the water holding capacity of the soil and prevent packing.

On sandy soils the same above treatment should be given with also a commercial fertilizer of 6-12-6 or 10-7 applied in the row at the time of planting at the rate of 200 to 300 pounds to one-fourth of an acre. Nitrate of soda, ammonium sulphate, or other quickly available nitrogenous fertilizer may be used as a side dressing 100 leafy vegetables to stimulate growth. One to three pounds to the 100 foot row is the rate recommended for treatment.

In planting fall gardens there should be planted one-fourth more seed per row than is planted in the spring for germination is poorer. The plants listed in this group will mature before frost, if average date of freeze is had:
