A decade of progress

Most newspapers and the news services have been busy reviewing the decade of 1970s as it wound down the last couple of weeks.

If you read the stories, you probably were amazed at how much we've changed in ten years — much for the better and some for the worst.

It's interesting just to look back and see how much Post has changed in that decade.

Our economic changes have been simply great. We've always had one of the best balanced economies any small town ever enjoyed, but now economically we're hitting on all cylinders.

Our oil industry has never been better. The nation's oil shortage and climbing oil prices have made little wells quite profitable. Garza has hundreds of those and probably can find hundreds more which not so long ago simply were too small to drill and put into production.

Just watching from the sidelines, we'd say the outlook for Burlington's Postex Plant here have never been better. In ten years the plant has been upgraded in dozens of ways and its payrolls and opportunities have climbed as well.

Then there are the cotton and cattle industries in this county which contribute considerably to our economic welfare. Both are now profitable and stable. The boom and bust cycles in them aren't nearly as severe today as they were a decade ago.

Local units of government are debt free. The hospital situation at long last appears to have been stabilized.

Our retail business community has had many new additions during the 10-year span with considerable new building, most of it along Broadway.

The much traveled US-84 through Post has had over a million dollars spent to widen it and four-laned the railroad overpass south of Post, apparently assuring that this community won't be bypassed by its highways in the foreseeable future.

The city has instituted policies of clearing abandoned buildings from property and picking up and towing away junk cars.

Adding to the city's appearance and its cleanliness has been the installation of an automated system of trash pickup through dumpsters which has cut down on unsightly debris.

At long last, Post added both a downtown community center and youth center to its public facilities.

The long troublesome law enforcement problem of divided authority between city and county, lack of officers, and very sub-standard jail facilities has been solved. The city and county agreed to combine their two law arms into an enlarged sheriff's department and split the operating costs down the middle. The county built a new law enforcement complex, which included a new county jail, mostly but not entirely with federal funds.

The Post Public Library was enlarged from its portion of the city hall with a new addition built on the vacant lot next to the Tower Theater with the entire cost of construction and furnishing the new addition paid for by private contributions. This gave Post the finest small library in Texas.

Not only did the community as a whole get a community center, and the youth a new youth center, but the senior citizens got a center of their own as well in the back of the Algerita Hotel building, thanks to the dedicated efforts of David Newby who took six months to build it himself with the aid of the Green Thumb crew.

Post's two historical buildings — the Algerita hotel and the old Post sanitarium — both received complete exterior renovations with some of the costs paid by federal restoration funds and some through private donations here. The sanitarium buildings' first floor has become the Garza Museum and a good start made toward the preservation of much of the pioneer flavor of this community. The Algerita Hotel was deeded by the city to a non-profit corporation to renovate it and preserve it.

The Garza Junior Livestock Association built a new livestock show building out by the rodeo grounds to more adequately serve the needs of rural youth and the county purchased the old 4-H barn in city-county park and converted it into badly needed office space.

Housing — especially rental housing — offered the worst local crunch through the 1970s. So the Chamber formed a non-profit community housing association and through two FHA loans have developed a complex of 24 rental units out on Avenue S. The second group of units are just being completed. The first have had 100 percent occupancy since they were opened two years ago.

Total this all up and the community has an impressive record for solid development during the 1970s. If this newspaper had been able to print back in 1970 this summary of the decade's accomplishments as its forecast for what was to come our readers would have said the editor had turned to writing rainbow fiction.

Looking back over the last 10 years and its many accomplishments should give us renewed confidence to move this community into the 1980s preparing to achieve even more to add to our improved quality of life in Post and Garza County.

Impressive addition

The opening soon of the new Huntley Nursing Home will give Post the most modern health care facility of its kind in West Texas.

With the certification inspection scheduled for next week, the home soon will become a real community asset.

Hank Huntley found out it wasn't easy. He has been planning and working for several years now to see his new nursing home become reality.

Obtaining the certificate of need was a long, involved process. Drawing up of the plans turned out to be another battle. Then came the hassle for financing in a period of spiraling interest rates.

But Huntley stuck with it and has returned to his former home town to build something of real community worth. The size of the payroll itself makes it a small industry, besides being a fine health care facility.

Hank and his son, Dennis, next assignment will be to build up a good nursing home staff and get the operation rolling from a standing start.

Having Garza Memorial Hospital and the Huntley Nursing Home actually back to back in location will hold both of them.

The better each is the better each will help the other.

The Dispatch welcomes the new nursing home into the Post community family and looks forward to its development into a health care facility of great benefit not only to Post and Garza County but the surrounding West Texas area as well.

Slaton seeks new hospital

SLATON — A Slaton community meeting has been called here for the evening of Jan. 11 to discuss building a small new, energy efficient hospital to replace the present 50-year-old Mercy Hospital for which repair bills are averaging $1,500 monthly and utility bills $1,400 per month.

The plan would be to erect a one-story 10,000 square foot hospital on ground already available next to Mercy Hospital.

Estimated cost would be in the neighborhood of a half million dollars and would be financed through an FHA loan.

The cafeteria and business offices built only 10 years ago would be retained.

The Slaton hospital is averaging about 10 patients a day.

Hospital business administrator ob Manley is having a hard time keeping the hospital in the black because of the high utility and repair bills which plague the old facilities.

He says a new hospital on the present income could pay for itself and stay in the black.

Crosbyton solar project to be tested

LUBBOCK — A five-year effort to show that the sun can help relieve the energy shortage for a small American town will take one giant step in January when tests begin on the Analog Design Verification System (ADVS) for the Crosbyton Solar Energy Project.

Project Director John D. Reichert of the Texas Tech University electrical engineering faculty said the mirror alignment is almost complete for the ADVS. The test facility should be completed by Jan. 10, he said, and that week the research team hopes to check it out and initiate start-up procedures.

"The week after that," Reichert said, "we should go into full data-gathering operations."

The project, initiated in 1974 when Crosbyton citizens first became alarmed by rising energy costs, is funded by the U.S. Department of Energy. It is designed to lead ultimately to the construction of a five-megawatt solar-thermal-electrical power system which could serve the 2,500 residents of Crosbyton, a northwest Texas town 35 miles east of Lubbock.

The ADVS mirror dish is 65 feet in aperture diameter. The final power system would have 10 giant dishes called solar gridirons, each almost the size of a football field.

The concept for the Crosbyton project is unique in the United States, although it employs a 100-year-old idea in which the mirror remains fixed while a receiver follows the sun's focus and "collects" heat to be transformed into steam. Only in Marseilles, France, is there a somewhat similar system constructed as a prototype and research installation.

Because the Crosbyton project is unusual, the Department of Energy has invited 400 DOE contractors to what it terms its "First Semi-annual Small Power Systems Program Review" Jan. 22-24 in Lubbock. That conference will be held at the South Park Inn and participants in the review will travel to Crosbyton to see the ADVS in operation. Travis Simpson, project administrator in electrical engineering at Texas Tech, is coordinating review plans in Lubbock.

Critical to the testing which will be conducted by the research team are two ADVS computers, one used primarily to control the system and the other primarily to collect data.

Two wildcats to be drilled

R. A. Mendenhall Associates Ltd. will drill two deep Garza wildcats.

One is the No. 1 Miller, five miles southwest of Justiceburg, which will be drilled to a planned depth of 8,200 feet.

The other is the No. 1 Lott, four miles southwest of Post which will be drilled to an 8,900 foot depth.

Despite the dependence upon the computers, however, Reichert said that a human will be present during all testing for observation and hands-on operation should that become important, either because of computer failure or any other reason.

"The computer can react more quickly than a person could to any change it perceives in the system," he said, "and the project is really safer in the 'hands' of a computer than it would be in human hands."

The controlling computer is a Bristol and it can monitor all important points in the system, open and close valves, detect any malfunction and select alternative methods of operation.

The program for the Bristol was written by David Lubin of E-Systems of Dallas, the company that

VFW honor to Andy Stelzer

KANSAS CITY — E. A. (Andy) Stelzer of Post, Tx., VFW Post 6797 has been appointed to serve as a national aide-de-camp for 1979-80. The appointment was made by National VFW Commander-in-chief, Howard E. Vander Clute, Jr. of Montvale, New Jersey.

Vander Clute, head of the over 1.8 million-member organization of overseas veterans, commented: "It is because of the tireless efforts of civic minded citizens like Mr. Stelzer that the veterans and communities the VFW serves have been affected in a positive manner."

"Our programs touch every citizen in the community. They help the young, the old, the Vietnam veteran, the World War I veteran. I am pleased to make this appointment because I know Mr. Stelzer will do an outstanding job for the VFW. Our theme for this year is 'In front of the rest,' and that means the veteran, his community and his country."

"To lengthen thy life, lessen thy meals." Ben Franklin is primary subcontractor for the Texas Tech - DOE project. A Texas Tech electrical engineering graduate student, Karan Watson has assisted Lubin.

"It will function as the 'eyes' and 'ears' of the system, monitoring temperatures, steam pressure, velocities, flow rates, the tracking system and the brightness of the sun," Reichert said. It takes readings and sends signals to alter the system when necessary, to give the researchers the performance needed and to protect the ADVS in case any operation malfunctions.

Even more system information is fed into a second computer manufactured by Hewlett-Packard and used for the necessary data acquisition system, programmed to receive about 250 channels of data.

Programming the second computer was Electrical Engineering Prof. Donald L. Gustafson with another electrical engineering graduate student, William Edwards. The information gathered on this system eventually is moved onto a nine-track tape which is brought to the Texas Tech campus for data processing by larger computers.

Both of the computers at the Crosbyton site, however, have cathode ray tubes (CRTs) so that there is a continuously changing visual record of what is going on.

"The Bristol is our spy on the system," Reichert explained, "and the second computer is the universal spy, getting all of the Bristol information plus whatever that computer instructs the system to do or what any individual might instruct the system to do, and the results."

Dr. Herbert J. Carper Jr., a member of the mechanical engineering faculty at Texas Tech, is project manager and about 30 other members of the Texas Tech faculty and graduate students helped develop the research necessary before the ADVS could be built.

If tests on the ADVS are successful, they could lead to construction of a five-megawatt solar-thermal-electric power system to supply electricity for Crosbyton.

That recommended power system could not be operational, however, before 1982 although, Reichert said, that date would still put Crosbyton well ahead of any town its size in an effort to harness solar energy to cut power bills.

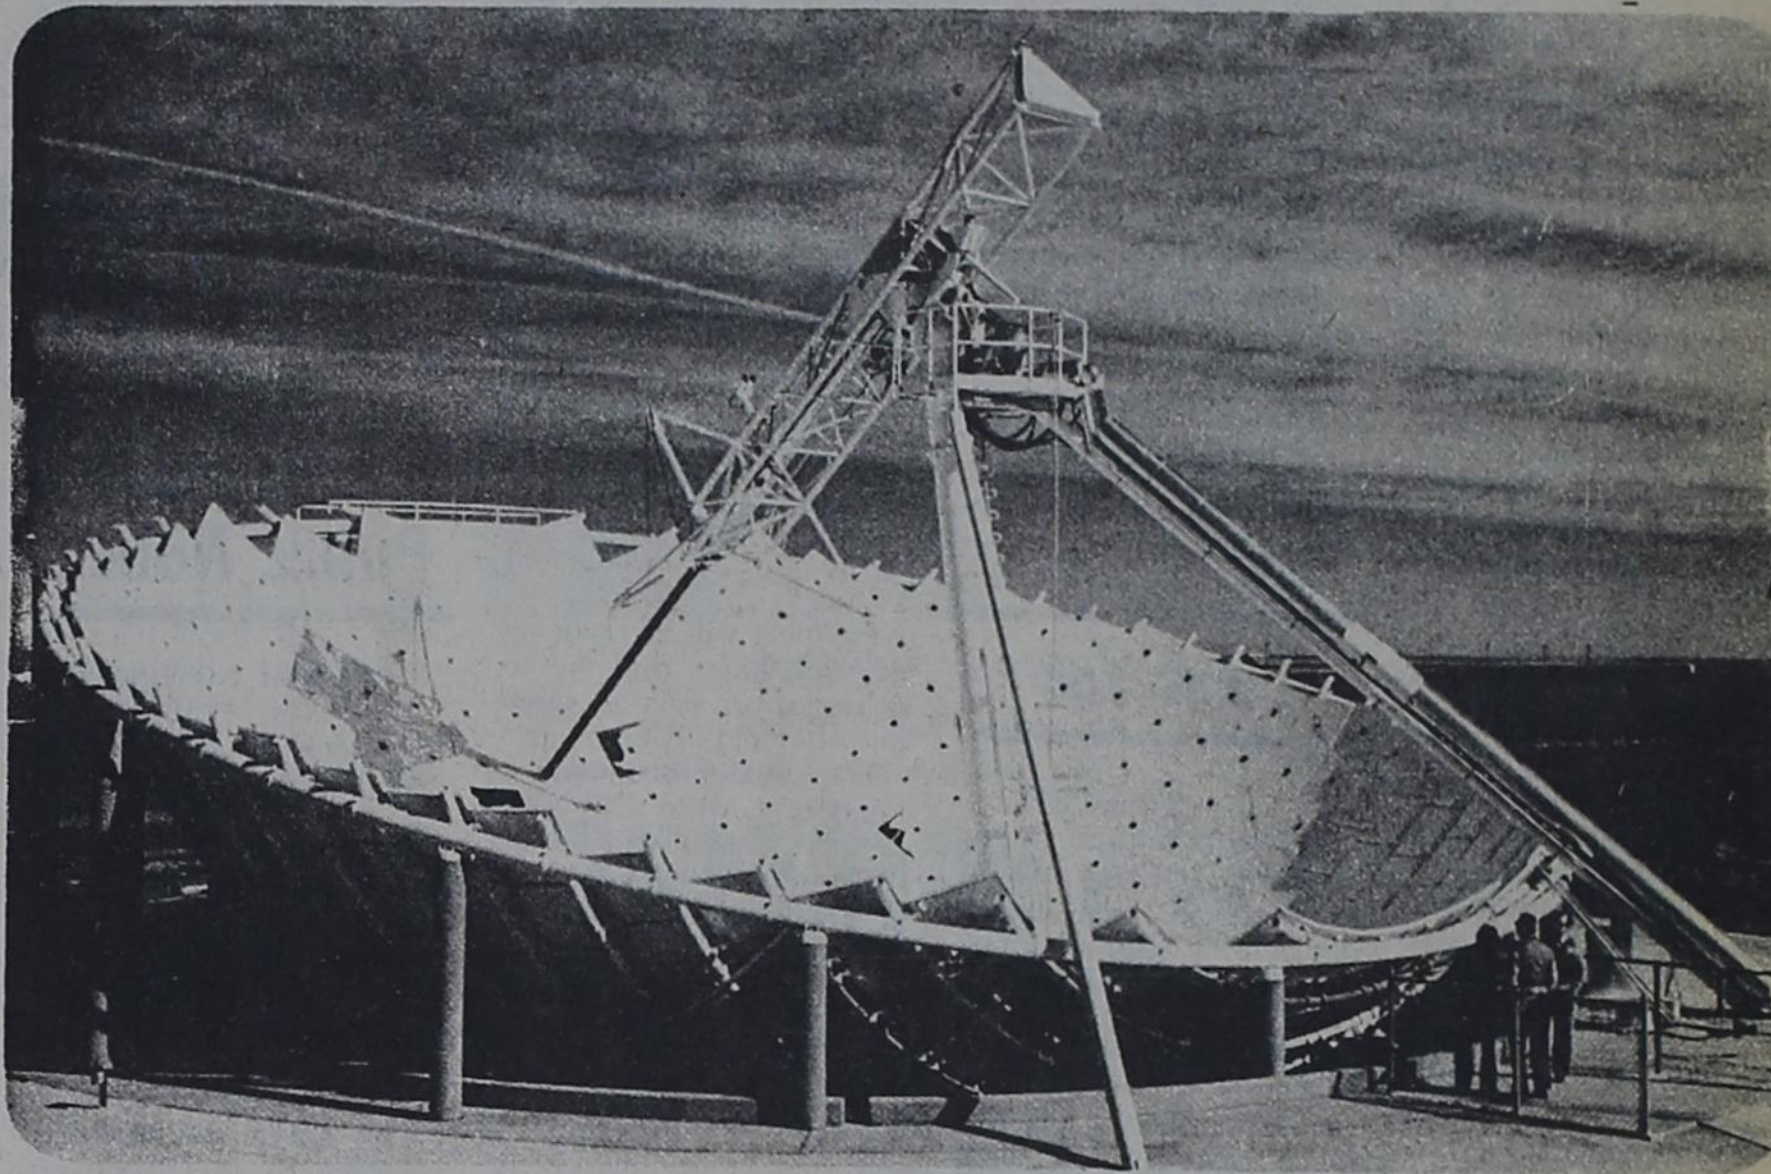

The project began five years ago when Crosbyton representatives approached the Texas Tech Department of Electrical Engineering seeking assistance in planning for future needs.

Reichert suggested a solar gridiron which would remain fixed. A receiver boiler, tracking the focus of the sun's rays across the mirror, would collect heat to make steam which could be converted into electric energy.

The smaller ADVS should give engineers and scientists an opportunity to study the system on a relatively small scale.

Reichert said there will be a dedication ceremony for the ADVS this winter or in early spring.

CROSBYTON PROJECT — Tests on the Analog Design Verification System [ADVS] for the Crosbyton Solar Energy Project are scheduled to begin in January. The ADVS mirror dish is 65 feet in aperture diameter, but the final power system would have 10 giant dishes called solar gridirons, each almost the size of a football field. The mirror is covered with plastic which will be removed when the Texas Tech University research team initiates start-up procedures to test the solar energy concept.

Double ring wedding vows uniting Donna Josey and Bill Aten were read Saturday night at 7 p.m. in the Post Church of Christ, with Robert Elliott, minister, officiating.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Josey and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Aten all of Post.

The bride, escorted by her father, was attired in a white silk illusion gown, featuring a scoop neck and a lace bodice. The Bishop sleeves were fitted close to the wrist with tight buttoned lace cuffs and the skirt was circular with a wide flounce forming into a full train. Her caplette veil was made of silk illusion featuring the same lace as the bodice of the gown, and was hand-made by Lou Ann King. The bride carried a bouquet of white silk roses and gypsophila featuring strings of pearls belonging to Grandmother Josey intertwined throughout the bouquet. It was tied with love knots and was carried atop a lace covered Bible.

The candlelight ceremony was performed before a setting of blue tapers in tree candelabras with the unity candle centered between them. The mothers of the bride and groom were escorted to the front of the church and in unison lit their respective candles on either side of the unity candle.

Maid of honor was Debbie Mason, cousin of the bride of Post and bridesmaids were Debbie Eubank of Victoria, Tx. and Cindy Kirkpatrick of SMU. They were identically attired in long blue chiffon gowns featuring fitted bodice and circle skirts and veil like capes hanging gracefully over their shoulders. They carried bouquets of Jack straw mums and blue carnations with gypsophila and blue ribbons.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore for something new, her gown, something borrowed, her necklace and earrings, belonging to a friend, Lou Ann King, and garters of blue, made by Sue Maxey and Lou Ann King. She carried the traditional penny in her shoe for good luck.

Charles Morris of Spur was best man with Joe Barnes of Big Spring and Jerry Sowder of Bula, serving as groomsmen.

Mike Aten, cousin of the groom, Dennis Mason, Kevin Wright and Sam Lewis of Lubbock served as ushers.

Ann Lewis, sister of the groom, registered guests at the door of the church as they entered for the wedding.

Trevah and Traci Bush served as candlelighters, and were wearing long white eyelet dresses with light blue sashes and light blue flowers in their hair.

Bryan Elliott and Nancy Wyatt presented wedding music as Bryan sang "My Sweet Lady" followed by a duet of "Devoted To You". Nancy sang "The Wedding Song" with Bryan again singing "Loves Grown Deep", as the bride entered. He also sang "Be With Me Lord" as a prayer then the couple led "The Lord Bless and Keep You" with the audience joining in as the bride and groom left for the reception.

The reception was held in the community room of the First National Bank. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth, with a miramist overlay trimmed in lace. The table was centered with a silver candelabra holding blue tapers and blue spider mums and gypsophila. The attendants bouquets were also laid at the base of the candelabra. The cake was a four tiered cake with blue roses and white candles forming a stairway to the top of the cake into double eternity rings. Crystal and silver appointments were used at the serving table.

The groom's table was covered with blue linen and was centered with blue tapers and carnations. Chocolate cake and coffee were served from a gold coffee service and gold appointments.

Serving in the house party were Lois Phillips, Elsie Wright, Joyce Tatum, Lometa Epley, all aunts of the bride and a cousin, Judy Bush.

Phyllis Morris, Nancy McCowan and Peggy Jackson served at the bride's table, with Janet Justice and Jody Moore, cousins of the groom serving at the groom's table.

Mrs. Sue Maxey made the glove the bride wore when she and the groom cut the wedding cake.

Following the wedding the couple went on a skiing trip to Taos, N.M. and will be at home at Route 3, Post where the groom is engaged in farming. The bride wore light blue pants, blouse and vest for travel.

The groom is a graduate of Post High School and attended South Plains College. The bride is a Post High graduate and is a junior at Texas Tech.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips, Janie and Jamie of Big Spring; Mrs. Elsie Wright, Mike and Susan Phillips, and Mrs. Linnie Sanders all of Lubbock Mr. and Mrs. Denny Patsley and Page of Shamrock, Elizabeth Duncan of Snyder; Nealey and Zelma Richardson of Floydada; Mr. and Mrs. Steven Kortwasser of Farwell and J. # Emergency loans for farmers available

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers, or aquaculture operators are available through county offices of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA). Ronnie R. Hardin, FmHA County Supervisor, said this week.

Hardin asked that those who need farm credit as a result of drought in Garza County July 1, 1979 through November 9, 1979 and drought in Lynn County August 1, 1979 through September 15, 1979, hail, wind and sand damage May 27, 1979 and June 23, 1979 in Lynn County, and flooding July 17, 18, and 19, 1979 in Lynn County, make their needs known at the Farmers Home Administration Office located in the Federal Land Bank Building in

Tahoka. Applications for assistance in the disaster stricken counties will be accepted by Farmers Home until Aug. 26, 1980, for physical losses

VISIT SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Don Clary, Donnie, Ronnie and David were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Clary Sunday afternoon. The Clarys live in Tahoka.

and Nov. 26, 1980, for production losses.

FmHA loans covering actual physical and production losses may be used to replace installations, equipment, or buildings, (including homes; lost through the disaster. Funds may be used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, or to meet interest and depreciation payments on current real estate and chattel debts. Other loans, beyond actual losses, can be made for annual operating expenses or to make major adjustments in a farming, ranching or aquaculture operation.

"Funds can be used for essential operating and living costs," Hardin said.

Loans covering actual losses are made at an interest rate of five percent and are scheduled for repayment as rapidly as feasible consistent with the applicant's reasonable ability to pay. Loans beyond actual losses have various maturities, depending upon the purpose of the loan.

The interest rate for short-term loans for farm operating purposes is ten and one-half percent. Long-term loans are being made at an interest rate of ten percent.

To be eligible for an emergency loan, an applicant must have suffered losses from the disaster and be unable to get credit for other sources.

Emergency loans can be used to help the farmer restore damaged farm operations and additional loans based upon the emergency designation can be used to reorganize the farm for greater efficiency and better production.

New health service offered in Garza

A new health service for people in their place of residence was recently brought to Garza County. Visiting Nurse Service of Lubbock, Inc. which has been in operation since February is now able to serve residents in this community with a comprehensive home health service. Through a grant awarded by H.E.W. Public Health Service Department, home care can now be made available to all persons in need of such care regardless of age or income.

Visiting Nurse Service applied for the grant to demonstrate that home care is a viable, economical alternative to lengthy institutional care. One of the goals of the service is to be responsive to the health needs of all residents of the catchment area. To accomplish this home health must be delivered to those persons whose Medicare - Medicaid home benefits have been exhausted or who do not fit exactly into the eligibility guidelines, and to those who are medically indigent, have no insurance coverage but need home care and to persons of all ages who can benefit from home care.

Nursing care and procedures, health teaching, and monitoring of patient conditions can be done when ordered by the patient's physician. It is hoped that the service can prevent some institutionalization and that it can shorten the number of days spent in in-patient facilities.

Examples of procedures that can be done are: dressings, injections, I.V. therapy, catheter care, gastric tube feedings and care, colostomy care, and any other skilled procedure ordered by the physician. Nursing care must be on an intermittent basis rather than eight hour shifts. Collection of specimens for laboratory analysis on patients confined to their place of residence may be requested by the physician. Speech therapy and physical therapy are provided through contract services. Home health aids are planned for the immediate future to provide personal care when that is a primary need.

Payment for services is by arrangement, through public insurance sources such as Medicare and Medicaid, or private insurance, Champus, V.A., or through cash payments on a sliding income scale or no charge through the grant.

Visiting Nurse Service is a private non-profit corporation owned and operated by registered nurses.

Physicians in the Garza County area are being apprised of this new service and personnel are available to speak to interested groups about the service and how patients can qualify for this care in their places of residence.

For more information call Lubbock (806) 793-9067

Hints For Homeowners

It's logical in these times to think of heating fuels and electricity when energy conservation is mentioned, but there's also human energy saving to consider—ways of doing things efficiently with less physical effort. Cooper The Toolmaker offers these hints, using common tools seen at any hardware store.

A wood screw is easier to turn if the threads are first rubbed with soap, and if the screwdriver has an extra-large and non-slip handle. A Cushion Grip by Crescent makes turning a cinch. And a stubborn rusted screw can be removed if the head is first heated with a soldering gun. It'll turn easily when cool. With that same gun, if it's a Weller, vinyl floor tiles can be cut smoothly and accurately with a knife-like cutting tip.

Do you have some more-than-arms-length measuring to do? A Mezurlok automatic rewind tape has an end hook on the blade that makes one-hand use possible. There's also one with an inch-wide blade that will extend at least 8-feet without collapsing.

Metal cutting can be a snap with a pair of lever-action snips—a MetalWizz cuts with half the muscle of conventional snips.

These are just a handful of the modern tools at your hardware store—take a look and save energy!

TEEN SCENE By Norm

1980 was brought in with a loud band by approximately 150 Post kids and their guests at the dance New Year's Eve. Hats, LOUD horns, balloons, NOISE MAKERS and energy filled kids were everywhere. If their vitality is any indication of things to come this decade, it will be exciting. Only one thing wrong with the whole thing, THE YUKY MESS to clean up afterwards with all the discarded hats, horns, balloons, and noise makers and I want to thank Jay and Ken Young, Jerri, Rochelle Smith, Karon Hays, Bruce, Chuck, Casey and Mike, Sue and Bonnie for staying till the wee hours to help clean up. THANKS PEOPLE!

Pat Mitchell and Mike Sullivan returned home Monday just in time to attend the dance. They had been to Ruidoso skiing. Pat also had a friend Richard with him.

Lots of Post kids attended the Kenny Rogers concert Sunday night in Lubbock and reported it to have been one of the better concerts put on. Those I know of for sure attending were Darlene and Danny Gunn, Karla Morris, Chuck and Barry and Karon Hays, Tim and Mike Tatum and Charla Williams. Karon was very excited about the whole thing, cause for a price, she'll let you touch her hand where Kenny Rogers touched it.

Happy Birthday a week late to Jeff Williams who celebrated his Dec. 26.

Marinette Hays had as a visitor over the holidays, her cousin Pam from Colorado.

Karen and Julie Davis returned home from San Angelo last Saturday night after spending a week there with Theresa.

Kelly and Theresa returned back to San Angelo Wednesday. Both are working until school starts again Jan. 14.

Stephan Gandy visited in Post this past week with friends.

David Poole and his dad went deer hunting over the holidays. David had success, Preston didn't.

Another pretty sparkler

Dispatch

showed up after Christmas. Charla Williams received a diamond from Mike. CONGRATS Charla.

The Baptist Youth group took off for a skiing holiday this week. More details next week about who went.

The basketball girls were happy to see New Year's day roll around. Their practice began at 1 Tuesday and they found out how fast one can get out of shape. Right girls?

Deb Palmer received lots of attention this past weekend when he created an original chapeau (hat). A western style (beat up variety) with a crown of mistletoe, (that he had to climb way up in a tree to obtain).

Millard, Jeff and Joe looked sort of peculiar when they drove down main street the other night with blue and green smoke belching out four windows. Seems as if someone had given them two colored smoke bombs.

What with the New Year and all the resolutions made and already broken, I have made one of the hardest decisions I have had to make in a long, long time. Effective immediately, I have resigned my position at the Youth Center. As I said, it was not an easy decision, but one I feel must be made. Chalk it up to "Old Age". The experiences I have had and the countless friends made are innumerable. I will cherish them always. I've shared good times, sad times, funny times, not-so-funny times and each one holds a special place to me. But it's time to step aside and let someone else share the many pleasurable times with you. And if anyone out there in Readersville is interested in the position, you may contact Patty Kirkpatrick for applications. And believe me, you will be in for some of the most exciting times of your life, because each and everyone has a totally different personality and you will learn to love each one of them as your own because in their own way, they are very special.

Chow.

Nursing home—

(Continued From Page One) this would permit a total of 82 residents but a few rooms are planned as private rooms and the license for the home is for a maximum of 75 beds.

Huntley pointed out that each room is 28 square feet larger than minimum state requirements.

There are two sprinkler heads in the ceiling of each bedroom as a part of the automated fire control system.

Huntley told The Dispatch the new home is 98.6 percent "fire free".

Not only are their eight exterior doors to the large nursing home, but the windows are low in the wall to permit quick exit from any room in time of emergency.

Each of the four bedroom wings has a fire door which is automatically controlled by electric magnet to close off the wing in case of fire emergency. There are smoke alarms all over the building as a part of the automated fire control system.

Each of the bedrooms is wired for telephones and cable television should residents want them in their rooms.

A large lobby recreation area is provided as well as a comfortable dining room area, and one of the most efficient large kitchens ever built in Post.

There will be a beauty shop and a barber shop so residents will not have to go elsewhere for these services. The nursing home also will have its own complete laundry facilities and will do the laundry for all residents.

One member of the staff will be an activities director who Huntley expects to work virtually fulltime to plan and execute various activities for the enjoyment of the residents.

The nursing home has its own backup electrical system should there be an interruption in electric service here. Not only is a large generator installed but there is an electrical system with red colored wall plugs which automatically are switched to the generator in an emergency. Thus life preserving systems in use will have no interruptions.

District attorney—

(Continued From Page One) such had not been made because the beatings were not reported to authorities until more than 65 hours after they had occurred.

Because of this, attorneys advised that only an assault charge against the four involved could be proven at that time.

Three of the four men named by the women were arrested. The three, Joe Perez, Carlos Romero and Valentino Delgado, pleaded guilty Dec. 3 in county court to the assault charged and were fined $161 each and sentenced to each serve five days in jail by County Judge Giles Dalby.

The three paid their fines and served their sentences, Sheriff Pippin points out, before Ms. Vasquez died on Dec. 10.

"Before I could file charges on them and get them arrested, I was getting pressure to get them in jail," Sheriff Pippin told The Dispatch in explaining the case Wednesday. "Nobody knew at the time the charges were filed that the woman would die. If we had known this would happen, we would have waited to file charges on the three and the charge would have been murder."

Sheriff Pippin said he called in the Texas Rangers to help with the investigation. He said District Attorney Smith is still trying to find something else to charge the trio with but "I don't know if it can be found or not."

The legal question here is that the law does not permit a person to be placed in double jeopardy for the same offense. Since the trio pleaded guilty to an assault charge in the beatings, a new charge of murder would place the trio in double jeopardy.

The fourth man involved in the case, Larry Mendez, is in the county jail here charged with murder in the Vasquez death. Officers were unable to find him at the time the other three were arrested. Since he was arrested after the Vasquez death the charge for him is now murder, Sheriff Pippin said.

"Education is...hanging around until you've caught on." Robert Frost

Harvest—

Hackberry Gin: half of the cotton counting as Garza cotton: 10,080 bales ginned, 3,020 more tagged out in ricks in field, farmers in area into harvest clean-up. Three more weeks should complete run. Worked both Christmas and New Year's.

Southland Gin: 2,906 bales ginned, 400 to 500 more on yard, just about 200 to 300 bales more to come. Farmers not quite finished. Gin should finish in week to ten days. Shut down for Christmas, worked New Year's.

Grassland Gin, one-third of its cotton counted as Garza cotton: 5,300 bales ginned, 1,500 on yard, 2,000 more bales to come. Sixty to 70 percent complete on harvest. Ginning will take through January. Didn't work Christmas.

Producers Coop of Grassland, one third of cotton counted as Garza cotton: 5,850 bales ginned, 50 bales on yard, estimated 1,950 more still to come. Gin operation will continue through January.

"No one can build his security upon the nobleness of another person." Willa Cather

In pro rodeo ranks—

Tierney is 2nd $100,000 cowboy

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Professional rodeo has its second $100,000-a-year cowboy. Paul Tierney, who rode on the coattails of all-around champion Tom Ferguson all season long, collected enough bonuses during the 1979 pro rodeo season to claim a year-end tally of $103,401. Ninety-two thousand of those dollars came in arena competition.

The Rapid City, S.D., cowboy has been threatening Ferguson's domination of the sport for three years. This season carried him to his first PRCA world championship — in calf roping — and a race for the all-around title that forced Ferguson to the wire. The 27-year-old cowboy could be the one to replace Oklahoma's Ferguson in the No. 1 slot in years to come.

Ferguson, meanwhile, still stands as the PRCA's all-around king. The 28-year-old rodeo wizard (he'll turn 29 on December 20) turned in his fourth $100,000 year in a row, while collecting his sixth (and unprecedented) consecutive PRCA versatility title. Ferguson collected $26,272 in arena cash; he added another $16,750 in Winston Rodeo Awards (which put him at $100,600 in career Winston earnings, also a new record). With PRCA bonuses and a Levi all-around award, the champ's 1979 grand total came to $117,222. He also crossed over $535,000 in career rodeo earnings (just $8,000 short of Dean Oliver's all-time mark) and set a single-win record of $16,945 at Houston, Tex.

Those two cowboys weren't the only ones setting pro rodeo records in '79. Bruce Ford of Evans, Colo., pushed Roy Cooper's single-event money record aside, enroute to his first PRCA world bareback riding crown. Ford's year-end total of $80,260 far out-shadowed Cooper's $67,000 in calf roping for 1978. At 27, Ford still has several years of record-setting talent inside him.

Don Gay, the bull riding magician from Mesquite, Tex., erased his own earnings record ($48,275) with a $59,999 year. Only 26, Gay cinched his fifth PRCA world championship, tying for 2nd place on the all-time list for most bull riding titles. Gay's mentor, Jim Shoulders, holds that record with seven, and Donnie is determined to see it fall before he hangs up his riding glove. (Gay, incidentally, moved his 1979 total into the $61,000-plus category with his saddle bronc winnings.)

Another mark that fell in 1979 belonged to Gay, also;

it was the 97-point ride he had at San Francisco's Cow Palace rodeo in 1977. At Palestine, Ill., this season, top bull rider Denny Flynn drew the 1978 PRCA Bull of the Year, Steiner's "Red Lightning". After 8 seconds of bucking and twisting, Arkansas' Flynn emerged the victor — he had ridden "Red Lightning" to 98 points.

As professional rodeo athletes became better at their specialties, the American public responded with an increasing demand for the sport. More than 12 million fans paid to see PRCA rodeos in 1979, a new record. Residents of 42 states and four different Canadian provinces had the opportunity to witness a professional rodeo firsthand, as the total number of PRCA contests climbed to 640. Prize money hit an all-time high — $8.8 million — as membership rose to 4,820. A new PRCA television venture, Blair - Pro-Rodeo Enterprises, will send six telecasts across the nation in 1980.

More rodeos, and more prize money, meant an earnings increase for the top PRCA athletes as well. In 1978 the PRCA had seven cowboys whose winnings came to $50,000 or more. In 1979, 12 cowboys crossed that line — and seven of those went over $60,000 as well.

*Answers about Health and Medicines from the Proprietary Association.**

Q. How much of each health-care dollar goes for nonprescription medicines?

A. About three cents. This compares to seven cents for prescription drugs, 42 cents for hospital services and 12 percent for doctor care. Consumer expenditures for nonprescription medicines are small and steadily declining. The 1977 per person expenditure of $19.75 for nonprescription medicines represented only 30 cents of every $100 of disposable personal income, compared with 48 cents in 1962, a drop of over one-third in 15 years. About 70 percent of all individual treatments today are with nonprescription medicines.
